"Thank you Tails." said Sonic with pride "Now let's kick back for a minute and then we can go over to Robotropolis and end this madness once and for all!"

Sonic's plan was brilliant and it was sure to work. Many things could go horribly wrong in this plan though. It was risky but it was their best option and they had to take it or Mobius would be a robot planet forever…

Sonic has a plan but will it work? Maybe it will or maybe it won't find out for yourself next time on Heroes of Mobius! Reviews are welcome (why wouldn't they be?) Lol.

Planet of Steel Part 3

Story 83: Planet of Steel Part 3: Battle of the Mechas

Dr. Eggman was sitting in his headquarters basking in glory over his most recent victory. He had managed to roboticize all of Mobius at once, save for four Mobians, and he was now on top of his game at this very moment. His greatest enemy Sonic the Hedgehog had been forced into hiding due to the recent events that have been happening and Dr. Eggman had ordered all the Robians of Mobius to go and find Sonic and bring him to Robotropolis for roboticization. His friends Tails the twin-tailed fox, Bunnie Rabbot the partially roboticized rabbit and Ruben the Water Panther had survived being roboticized too so the Robians were on the look out for them too. Once they found the last four Mobians left in existence, they would take them to Robotropolis and Dr. Eggman would wipe out the Mobian race by roboticizing them and at long last, he will have won this silly little war game of his and conquered Mobius at long last. He was considering renaming the planet "Robius" much like how roboticized-Mobians were called "Robians" so calling Mobius "Robius" would be very fitting indeed. Despite his glorious victory, Dr. Eggman couldn't stop letting Sonic's escape gnaw at his head like a dog on a bone. Even though he was sure to win what with having billions of minions under his control, he couldn't help but think Sonic would somehow come out on top in the end since Sonic always wins in the long run. But that was mostly due to outside interference or Sonic's friends being a pain and since Sonic only had three left, he wasn't going to get as much help as he usually did. Still, he had to capture Sonic before he stopped him once again. He turned to face his robotic woman servant Katherine, who stood motionlessly beside him as silent as a grave.

"Any news from my Robian army?" asked Dr. Eggman.

Katherine shook her head. Dr. Eggman grumbled to himself impatiently.

"How hard is it to find one slaggin' hedgehog?" he grumbled to himself "Sonic can't hide anywhere from me, I have the entire population of Mobius under control! There's Robians no matter where he runs so how is he evading me all this time?"

He tugged on his moustache in frustration.

"I know I've won at last but with Sonic on the loose, I can't relax yet!" he whined "Sonic's making me feel all jittery and uneasy due to the fact he's still at large and I haven't managed to get the Chaos Emeralds off him yet so he might use them in someway or another to save the day! Or he might have some kind of plan and he'll use it to stop me and save his stupid little planet! I must get that hedgehog or…"

Katherine suddenly interrupted Dr. Eggman by playing a recorded sound effect from an old children's cartoon.

"Relax will ya?" played the sound "Stress ain't good for ya health ya know!"

Dr. Eggman stopped fretting and he settled down in his chair.

"Sorry Katherine." said Dr. Eggman "I really shouldn't worry at all. Sonic can't possibly beat me now. He's not smart enough to think of a way to get past my roboticizer. If he tries to get in it, he'll just get roboticized just like Shadow did. So even if he has a plan, it won't work. Total extinction of the Mobian race is inevitable and I shall have the biggest robot army known to all the galaxy!"

Katherine nodded in agreement.

"Maybe I should send Mecha Shadow to apprehend the hedgehog." thought Dr. Eggman "He's bound to get him. Mecha Shadow is my most powerful Robian of all."

Katherine then suddenly displayed a holographic image from her visor and showed Dr. Eggman a Robian's visual contact. Dr. Eggman could see whatever this Robian was seeing right now. And this Robian could see Sonic the Hedgehog zooming towards him with Tails, Bunnie and Ruben following him with their respective transportation methods. They zoomed past the Robian at top speed and they whizzed off into the distance. The Robian ran after them but it soon lost them due to their superior speed. Dr. Eggman stroked his moustache and thought to himself.

"Is Sonic coming back to Robotropolis?" he thought to himself "If that's the case then why is he doing that? Has he finally admitted defeat so he's coming to let himself get roboticized? I hope that's the case or I am going to flip real badly if he's trying to stop me even though he knows he can't! Katherine, keep an eye on his position!"

Katherine obeyed and she tracked Sonic's coordinates. The map on her visor showed he was indeed heading for Robotropolis. Dr. Eggman could see the map on her visor and he realized his theory was correct, Sonic was coming to Robotropolis, coming to get HIM or coming to give himself up. He hoped it was the latter because an angry Sonic the Hedgehog was the last thing he needed to ruin his day right now…

Outside, Sonic the Hedgehog was zooming towards Robotropolis at top speed with no sign of slowing down or stopping. He had a plan and he was desperate to carry it out so he was going to use the full potential of his speed to get to the robot city. Tails and Bunnie were flying closely behind him with Ruben surfing on water after him. The three were doing a good job at keeping up with Sonic despite the fact he was going at his fastest speed right now (His top speed is 768 miles per hour). Sonic held on tightly to the ring while making sure he didn't accidentally activate it's power and end up using it all up by the time he reached Robotropolis. As for Robotropolis, It was only a few yards away now and with Sonic's amazing speed, he would make it there in no time. The gates to Robotropolis still hadn't been repaired from when Bunnie knocked them down before the fight with Weaponized Alonzo* so Sonic and the others were free to just zoom straight through them and into the city. They zoomed straight through the gates and past any robots stupid enough to stand in their way. The robots were either knocked over by the wind Sonic crated when running fast or sent flying through the air in a comical fashion. The Mobians zoomed straight towards Eggman's headquarters and they invited themselves inside the base by knocking the door down again. Now inside the base, the Mobians headed to the lift they used from earlier and they went straight inside it. Tails pressed the button that said "centre floor" and the lift took them straight up to the centre floor, the very floor the roboticizer chamber was kept on. The moment the lift opened, the Mobians darted out of the lift and ran down the corridor to the steel door that contained the roboticizer pod that Eggman had used to roboticize the entire planet. Sonic stopped in front of the door and he prepared to open it.

"OK you guys, this is it." said Sonic "The moment I open this door and step into the room, I will become Mecha Sonic once again. And if all goes well, this ring will prevent me from losing my freewill."

"Mecha Sonic once again?" asked Ruben "Am I right in saying you've been roboticized before?"

"I sure have Ruben." said Sonic grimly as the bad memories from his time as Mecha Sonic flooded his head like a raging current "Eggman had a portable roboticizer machine that roboticized me. I was turned from world's greatest hero to world's greatest villain in one swift zap. Tails managed to de-roboticize me by setting the machine in reverse and Mecha Sonic was gone for good. But now it's time for him to come out and play once again, this time as a good guy."

"Hey Sonic, ah've just realized somethin' here." said Bunnie quickly "If ah let mah self get roboticized won't mah already roboticized arm and legs explode since a roboticizer destroys anything that's already mechanical?"

Sonic thought for a moment on that.

"Hmm…that is a thought." said Sonic "Hopefully, the roboticizer will get confused and think you're a Robian or something like that. Either way, keep your shield generator handy and activate it when you step into the room just in case."

"OK sugah-hog." said Bunnie, deploying her shield generator which she rarely used.

"Or maybe you can just come with me and help me catch Eggman's attention." suggested Sonic quickly "Yeah, that'd be much better. Me and you can cause a riot while Tails and Ruben set the roboticizer in reverse."

"I like that idea much bettah." said Bunnie, putting her shield generator away.

He gave the ring to Tails as he didn't want the ring to get roboticized too as he stepped into the room. He opened the chamber door and he stepped into the room. The moment he did, he was hit by a roboticizer beam that fired from the egg-shaped roboticizer pod in the centre of the room. Sonic yelped as he was hit by the blast and he fell onto his knees. His cobalt fur began to change into metal and his eyes turned into red emotionless optics. His quills straightened and became metal and pointy and even his gloves and shoes turned metal. Mecha Sonic had returned and he was ready to serve Dr. Eggman. Only Sonic had a way of getting his freewill so he wouldn't be back to cause trouble again. Mecha Sonic glared at Tails, Bunnie and Ruben and he advanced on them with his claws bared.

"Mobians-Priority-One." he droned "Com-men-cing-capture."

Tails immediately thrust the magical ring at Mecha Sonic and the roboticized hedgehog snatched it off of him, thinking it would be of some use to Dr. Eggman. The moment he touched the ring though, the ring glowed a radiant golden glow and it's energy surged up Mecha Sonic's circuits like an electrical current. The ring, as Amy Rose had once stated, had a negative effect on evil life and it was going to erase Mecha Sonic's evil mind and restore it back to normal. Unfortunately, the energy the ring was feeding him seemed to be a little too much as Mecha Sonic's optics were fuzzing, his body was shaking violently and he appeared to be smoking slightly. Tails immediately freaked at that sight.

"Oh no! The power's too much! It's gonna destroy him!" shrieked Tails "Get it off him!"

He lunged at Mecha Sonic and grabbed the ring frantically. He yanked it out of Mecha Sonic's metallic grasp and the energy stopped surging up Mecha Sonic's body. Mecha Sonic collapsed onto his knees and panted heavily, the smoke fading away as it trailed out of his body. Mecha Sonic picked himself up and he rubbed his head better.

"Oooh I think that was a little too much juice for my liking!" he spluttered in his natural organic voice instead of a monotone robotic voice "Wait a minute, my voice!" he cried, clutching his throat "It's not robotic sounding! That means it must have worked! I've got my freewill back!"

"Yippee!" cried Tails happily "Your plan's working to perfection Sonic!"

"I had a feeling it would." gloated Mecha Sonic, rubbing his sharp, pointy, metal nose "Those rings freed me from Marik's Energy Diamond side effect so it was gonna free me from a Robian body. Although I'm still a robot, I can do what I like and no one can boss me around!"

"The good thing is since we took the ring off you before it could kill you, it's got some power left for me and Ruben." said Tails "We'll roboticize ourselves so we can get in the room and we'll see to setting the roboticizer in reverse."

"You do that then." said Mecha Sonic "Me and Bunnie are gonna keep Egg Brains diverted so he doesn't send anyone to stop you."

"Good luck Sonic and Bunnie." said Tails "You'll need it out there."

"I'll be just fine Tails." said Mecha Sonic cheekily "It's Eggman who needs the luck out here! Come on Bunnie, I'll pretend I've captured you and I'm escorting you to the roboticizer camber."

"OK sugah-hog." said Bunnie, running off down the corridor as if she was running away in terror from Mecha Sonic.

Mecha Sonic chuckled and he chased after Bunnie, pretending he was trying to catch her. The two ran into the elevator and in order to make Mecha Sonic's pursuit of Bunnie look more realistic and believable, Bunnie punched her way through the top of the elevator and rocketed straight up the shaft with Mecha Sonic flying after her, keeping up with her effortlessly. If Eggman was watching this now, which he was, he would just see it as Bunnie desperately trying to escape from Mecha Sonic before he could take her to be roboticized. Tails and Ruben just laughed to themselves at how much of an act Bunnie and Mecha Sonic were putting on right now. This act would have fooled them had they not known they were only pretending.

"I never took Sonic and Bunnie to be good actors." said Ruben "Maybe they should get a career in film once this war is over."

"Perhaps." said Tails "OK, it's our turn to be roboticized. It's the only way we'll get in that room without it zapping us."

"You go first." said Ruben "I'll hand you the ring once you've finished and I'll take it off you before it gets to be too much for you."

"Alright then Ruben." said Tails, stepping into the room.

The roboticizer chamber powered up and the pod shot at Tails the moment he so much as stuck his toe into the room (it's THAT sensitive! You could stick your EYELASH in the room and it would zap you!) Tails was hit by the roboticizer beam and he fell onto his knees. His yellow fur turned into yellow armour, his trademark twin-tails became metallic and bladed at the tips, his eyes became optics and his insides became circuitry and mechanisms. Tails was now Mecha Tails and even though he was a roboticized eight-year old fox, he looked pretty scary and dangerous. His twin-tails looked more like rotor blades then tails now and his cold, icy blue optics made him look deathly serious for a kid robot. Ruben was just glad he wouldn't have to fight Mecha Tails as he had a way of restoring his freewill. Mecha Tails bared his claws at Ruben and he advanced on him but Ruben gave him the magical ring. Mecha Tails snatched it off of him but before he could throw it away, the ring's power activated and surged up his circuitry. Mecha Tails' optics went fuzzy and his metallic body began to shake vigorously. Just as his body began to steam under the onslaught, Ruben snatched the ring back off of him. Mecha Tails collapsed onto his knees and he spluttered briefly. The smoke drifted away into the air and he picked himself up. He rubbed his metal cranium and he groaned in his normal voice instead of a robotical voice.

"I never…wanna do that again." said Mecha Tails weakly "Oh well, at least I've got my freewill back. I never thought I'd get to see what I look like as a robot but now I do."

He admired himself all over. He felt his sharp, pointy bangs, his metal claws, his metal skin and even his twin tails, which were bladed and not as articulate as his real tails.

"Gosh! I'm like a walking blade factory!" cried Mecha Tails "I'm sharp all over! Just imagine if I tried to hug Cosmo, I'd cut her clean open!"

"Well since Cosmo's a robot, you won't have to worry about that." noted Ruben "Now it's my turn to become a robot. Hold the ring for me."

Mecha Tails took the ring off Ruben. The ring didn't do anything to him because his freewill had been restored so the ring knew it had done it's duty. Ruben stepped into the roboticizer chamber and was met with a blast from the roboticizer pod. Ruben fell onto his knees as he began to transform into a robot thanks to the blast. His glorious blue fur began to become metal, his tail became sharp and metallic, his eyes turned into optics and his aqua-collar changed into metal too. Ruben was now Mecha Ruben and he had a unique feature installed in him. That being his fingers were like hose pipes and he'd be able to squirt water out of them as if he was a water shooting robot of some kind. Mecha Ruben turned around and saw Mecha Tails. In his mechanical mind, he just saw Mecha Tails as some kind of lackey so he didn't attempt to capture him or attack him. Mecha Tails handed Mecha Ruben the ring and Mecha Ruben took it, thinking it was going to be of some importance. The moment he touched the ring, the ring's power activated on him and Mecha Ruben was stricken by the golden radiance of the ring's power. Mecha Tails waited for Mecha Ruben to start smoking and after a few seconds, he began to smoke slightly so Mecha Tails quickly snatched the ring off Mecha Ruben and snapped it in two as they wouldn't need it anymore and leaving it lying around for Dr. Eggman to pick up was pretty much an invitation to suicide. Mecha Ruben shook himself off and he felt himself all over.

"That ring's power sure works." he said in his normal, proper voice "I'm myself again. Hey, I think I look good as a robot." he said as he admired his metallic body, sharp tail and steel gloves "I really do don't I? I wonder if I can still use my water powers?"

He pointed at the wall behind Mecha Tails and he squirted some water out of the nozzle in his metal finger. His fingers were like built in hose pipes and Mecha Ruben seemed to be fascinated with that little instalment.

"Nice, this roboticization thought of everything." he said with awe "Just a pity I won't be able to stay like this as we're gonna de-roboticize everybody."

"That's right." said Mecha Tails, casually strolling into the roboticizer chamber "Now we're Robians, the roboticizer doesn't need to roboticize us and we can go in without any worries."

"I'm glad I have my freewill back otherwise I'd be talking in monotone like everybody else." said Mecha Ruben, following Mecha Tails into the chamber "And monotone's a pain to listen to as the person talking to you sounds like his speech is being slowed down for the sole purpose of annoying you."

"I never understood why robots talked like that." said Mecha Tails "And yet I'm a mechanical genius so I should know."

He and Mecha Ruben were now in the roboticizer chamber which only had one feature, the giant egg-shaped pod in the centre of the room. Now they had their freewill back, they could act under their own orders and set the roboticizer in reverse, a task that would have been impossible for them to do had they still been under Eggman's control as he wouldn't be stupid enough to order his own Robians to de-roboticize everybody. Mecha Tails and Mecha Ruben looked unsurely at the giant roboticizer pod that loomed above them.

"OK…where to start?" asked Mecha Ruben.

"We're gonna have to set the pod in reverse." explained Mecha Tails "The settings to this pod must be somewhere around here…"

He scanned the pod's control panel for any possible button or dial that could change the settings on the pod. Mecha Tails had no idea what he should try as he didn't know this machine and how it worked but he couldn't just try any control on the pod. If he did something stupid like accidentally activate the roboticizer then Mobian kind would be extinct in one clean sweep of the waves and he and Ruben would be the only Mobians left as they were in the chamber so they wouldn't be affected. Although they were Robians now so Mobian kind would be gone forever if he did something like that accidentally so Mecha Tails didn't trust himself to touch any of the controls in fear of doing something like that by accident. Mecha Ruben had some kind of idea though. He kicked a panel on the side of the pod and the panel fell straight into the pod.

"Maybe you can change the settings in here?" suggested Mecha Ruben.

Mecha Tails stepped over to where Mecha Ruben was standing and he looked at the kicked in panel. Inside the pod, he could see a lot of circuitry but there was enough room for people to go inside and work on it. Mecha Tails got down on his knees and crawled inside.

"I'll see what I can do in here." said Mecha Tails "Keep an eye out for danger Ruben."

Mecha Ruben obeyed and he kept his optics fixed squarely on the door. If anyone was going to try and stop him and Mecha Tails from saving the world, he would let them have it with a jet of water, unless it was a Robian of course which in that case he would just beat the tar out of them and keep them out of the room. He began to wonder how Mecha Sonic and Bunnie were doing right now and if Eggman had caught on to their act yet. If he had then there could be a chance the plan would fall into chaos and Mobius would never be saved from Eggman's tyranny…

Meanwhile, Mecha Sonic had finally managed to "capture" Bunnie Rabbot and he was bringing her to Dr. Eggman to report he'd managed to capture her. Bunnie had her arms behind her back as if Mecha Sonic had put a pair of cuffs on her although really, Bunnie had nothing on her wrists right now. Mecha Sonic took Bunnie into the elevator and they took it up to the top floor where Dr. Eggman was stationed.

"Okay sugah-hog, when do we spring into action?" asked Bunnie, whispering quietly to him.

"We do it to it the moment Dr. Eggman orders me to take you to the chamber." said Mecha Sonic "We'll shoot at him but not actually hit him and get Dr. Eggman to stick Mecha Shadow or anyone else on us. Then we just fight them the best we can while keeping everyone's attention on us so Eggman won't notice Tails and Ruben in the chamber."

"OK sugah-hog." said Bunnie with a wink that could charm any man "Ah've got ya'll. We do as much damage as we can in order to distract everybody."

The elevator stopped ascending and it pinged as it's doors opened up. To Sonic and Bunnie's surprise however, Katherine was standing there and waiting for them as if she knew they were coming. Dr. Eggman had seen them coming up the elevator and he sent Katherine to fetch Mecha Sonic and bring him to him. Mecha Sonic stood to attention while holding on tightly to Bunnie's shoulders, the Rabbot pretending to struggle in his grasp.

"Let go of me you robo-hog!" yelled Bunnie as she pretended to try and break free.

Mecha Sonic just held onto her even tighter. He stared straight into Katherine's visor and he spoke in a fake monotone voice. Since he had his freewill back, he didn't sound like a robot anymore so he had to speak in monotone purposely this time.

"I-have-cap-tured-one-of-the-sur-viv-ing-Mobians." he droned while trying to sound like a robot "I-have-come-to-take-her-to-Dr.-Egg-man-so-he-may-de-cide-her-fate."

Katherine, despite her intelligence, fell for the act due to how good it was and she wondered off down the corridor, leading Mecha Sonic to Dr. Eggman. Mecha Sonic roughly pushed Bunnie as he followed Katherine to Eggman's headquarters. Katherine led them down a corridor and she turned to the left. She led them to the end of this corridor and she opened the door. The door opened and Katherine led Mecha Sonic and Bunnie into the room. This was Dr. Eggman's quarters and the fat scientist looked very pleased to see them to say the least. He sat there in his chair and he grinned happily.

"Well isn't this a surprise?" he purred to himself "Sonic the Hedgehog has given himself up to me and has allowed himself to be roboticized! And he's bought Bunnie Rabbot with him too! Even better!"

Mecha Sonic strode up to Dr. Eggman while clutching Bunnie Rabbot's shoulders. Bunnie continued to struggle in his grasp as Mecha Sonic steered her towards the fat man himself.

"Git off of me Mecha Sonic!" screeched Bunnie "Ya'll will be sorry ya messed with me!"

"Si-lence-pris-o-ner." snapped Mecha Sonic.

He stopped in front of Dr. Eggman and he "reported" to him.

"Mas-ter-I-have-cap-tured-the-Rab-bot." droned Mecha Sonic.

"Excellent!" cried Dr. Eggman "I'm so glad you've given yourself up to me Sonic and made the right choice in roboticizing yourself! You're gonna be much better off on my side then trying to beat an army of billions."

"I-do-not-under-stand-what-you-are-talk-ing-about." droned Mecha Sonic, hoping that that was the right thing for him to say right now as Robians don't usually have memories of what's happened prior to their conversion so he should pretend he didn't know anything prior to his roboticization.

"Of course you don't." said Dr. Eggman "Robians have no memories prior to their conversion. Oh well never mind, do you have the other two Mobians that dodged roboticization?" he asked.

"A-ffir-ma-tive." droned Mecha Sonic "The-Mobian-you-know-as-"Tails"-and-the-Mobian-you-know-as-"Ruben"-have-given-themselves-up-and-allowed-me-to-ro-bot-i-cize-them. The-Rab-bot-here-will-not-comply-so-I-had-to-cap-ture-her-and-bring-her-to-you-so-you-can-deal-with-her."

"Now isn't that wonderful?" purred Dr. Eggman "Tails has given himself up too. I'm not fully familiar with Ruben though. Is he the blue guy with the water powers?"

"A-ffir-ma-tive." droned Mecha Sonic.

"Well now he can be a water-powered robot." said Dr. Eggman "He might be good for putting out fires should I get any. Anyway, thank you for capturing Bunnie for me Mecha Sonic. Take her to the chamber and let her get roboticized. I'll have to de-roboticize her first as her robot parts will explode if I roboticize her now then I'll roboticize her all over again."

"Ya'll can't do this to me Dr. Eggman!" yelled Bunnie, trying to lunge at Eggman but Mecha Sonic held her back hastily "Ah'll whup yer backside all the way to Holoska for this!"

"Oh shut up Bunnie if you know what's good for you." snapped Dr. Eggman "Mecha Sonic, escort her down to the chamber if you please."

"Yes-sir-your-word-is-law." droned Mecha Sonic, turning around and dragging Bunnie away to the door.

Dr. Eggman smiled happily to himself and he turned around in his chair. He put his hands behind his head and he sighed with joy.

"The Mobians are extinct at last." said Dr. Eggman "I'm amazed Sonic gave himself up at long last. At least it proves he does have a brain and he knows how to use it properly at long last. What a great joy it is to have my most hated nemesis as my evil minion once again! Only this time, he'll STAY as my evil minion!"

"Ehk! Wrong answer!" Mecha Sonic sneered at Dr. Eggman from the other side of the room.

"I beg your pardon Mecha Sonic?" demanded Dr. Eggman angrily, turning around to face Mecha Sonic.

Mecha Sonic let go of Bunnie and he spin-dashed Dr. Eggman, knocking the chair off it's stand and sending Eggman skidding across the floor while still in the chair. He crashed into the wall and he groaned in pain. Katherine tried to react but Bunnie deployed her arm cannon and she pointed it at Katherine's face.

"Stay where you are sugah!" ordered Bunnie "This lil' ol' cannon of mine isn't a force to be reckoned with!"

Katherine reluctantly stayed where she was but she didn't raise her hands or anything, she just remained standing still, staring directly at Bunnie. As for Dr. Eggman, Mecha Sonic grabbed him by his uniform and hoisted him up to his height, his red optics glowing red with rage at him.

"Mecha Sonic! What is the meaning of this? I command you to release me!" he bellowed at him.

"Sorry doc, but this unit isn't programmed to obey you." sneered Mecha Sonic "Mecha Sonic plays by his own rules."

"What? You're speaking with your normal voice!" cried Dr. Eggman "That means you've gotten your freewill back! You slime ball, how did you manage to do it?"

"Let's just say I know a very good place that's very helpful to me." said Mecha Sonic, not wanting to give Eggman the location of the Lake of Rings as that was beyond stupid "Did you really think I'd let myself get roboticized without having a way of worming myself around it? Even Big Dave from the MPD isn't THAT stupid! Now I'm here as Mecha Sonic but with my freewill back, I'm gonna de-roboticize your worldwide army!"

"You most certainly are not!" bellowed Dr. Eggman "Mecha Shadow, get in here now!" he ordered at the top of his grating old voice.

Mecha Sonic just proceeded to throw Dr. Eggman into a wall as Eggman wasn't his main worry right now. Dr. Eggman crashed into the wall and he groaned loudly. Katherine turned around and ran over to Eggman. Bunnie shot at her but Katherine activated her built in shield generator and the blast was deflected by the barrier.

Bunnie fumed to herself as she didn't know Katherine could protect herself from attacks. Katherine switched off her barrier and she helped Dr. Eggman up. Mecha Sonic deployed his arm blasters and he aimed them at Dr. Eggman and Katherine.

"Nah, ah, ah Eggman, you're staying here and watching this fight just so I can rub my victory in your face." said Mecha Sonic "I always get a kick outta that."

Then suddenly, before he could even notice, Mecha Shadow spin-dashed him from the side and knocked him down onto the floor. Mecha Sonic and Mecha Shadow sprawled onto the floor but Mecha Sonic kicked Mecha Shadow off of himself and sent him hurling over onto his back.

"He-hey! Mecha Shadow's come to play!" cheered Mecha Sonic "I'm so-so against you as an organic being so let's see how you fare up to me as a robot!"

"You-will-pe-rish-for-this-you-mis-cre-ant." growled Mecha Shadow, picking himself up and preparing to do battle "How-dare-you-de-ceive-Dr.-Egg-Man-like-this!"

"Huh, I miss the times you actually wish doom on ol' eggers instead of worshipping him." muttered Mecha Sonic "Maybe I can knock some sense into that mindwiped head of yours!"

Mecha Sonic fired his blasters at Mecha Shadow but Mecha Shadow dodged the attacks and blasted him with his plasma cannons. One blast singed Mecha Sonic on the shoulder and the roboticized hedgehog grimaced in pain.

"Ouch! The bad thing about having my freewill back is I'm capable of feeling pain again!" muttered Mecha Sonic "Oh well, no pain no game as they always say!"

Mecha Sonic spin-dashed towards Mecha Shadow but Mecha Shadow kicked upwards and struck him like a football. Mecha Sonic hurtled straight up into the ceiling and he cracked it heavily. Bits of metal fell down onto the floor and Mecha Sonic fell back down rather heavily on the floor. He picked himself up and charged towards Mecha Shadow. They both punched each other in the face and they skidded backwards away from each other. Mecha Shadow charged up to Mecha Sonic and rammed him with his shoulder. Mecha Sonic punched Mecha Shadow in the face and then tried to punch him again but Mecha Shadow blocked the blow with his arm. He gut punched Mecha Sonic and then head-slammed him with his fist but Mecha Sonic retaliated with an uppercut to the chin and a ram of the shoulder. Mecha Shadow kneed Mecha Sonic in the gut and Mecha Sonic head-butted Mecha Shadow in the chest. They both punched at each other at a speed that could rival the greatest of ninjas while also blocking each other's blows. Mecha Sonic then tried to roundhouse kick Mecha Shadow in the face but Mecha Shadow bent over backwards and dodged the attack. He caught Mecha Sonic's leg and forced it back down onto the floor. He then proceeded to elbow Mecha Sonic in the back of the neck and knock him down onto the floor. Mecha Shadow summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand and he prepared to stab Mecha Sonic with it but Bunnie Rabbot shot him with her arm cannon. The blast knocked Mecha Shadow down onto the floor and he rubbed his singed back. Mecha Shadow picked himself up and he shot Bunnie in the leg with his plasma cannon. Bunnie fell down onto her knee and she groaned in pain. Mecha Shadow ran over to Bunnie but Mecha Sonic spin-dashed him in the back before he could touch Bunnie. Mecha Sonic pinned Mecha Shadow down to the floor but he didn't keep him down for long. Mecha Shadow head-butted him in the face which in turn made Mecha Sonic let go of him in order to clutch his face. Mecha Shadow kangaroo kicked him in the stomach and sent him hurling into a wall. Mecha Shadow picked himself up and prepared to deck Mecha Sonic but Bunnie ran up behind him and clouted him one with her robot fist. Mecha Shadow ended up skidding across the floor on his face. While all this was happening, Dr. Eggman and Katherine sneaked out of the room and away from the battle, leaving Mecha Shadow to deal with Mecha Sonic and Bunnie. The moment they escaped the room, Dr. Eggman grumbled to himself.

"How did Sonic manage to get his freewill back?" he ranted "How, how, how? It's impossible to get your freewill back! Oh wait, no it isn't. Mecha Vanilla got hers back after a sharp knock on the head a while back but Sonic hasn't had a knock on the head so how did he get HIS freewill back?"

Katherine just shrugged at Dr. Eggman in a gesture that said "I dunno.".

"I'm beginning to wonder if Mecha Tails and Mecha Ruben have done what Sonic's done and managed to get their freewill back!" grumbled Dr. Eggman "Although Mecha Sonic claims they gave themselves up, I'm not willing to believe him since he hasn't given himself up! If Sonic hasn't given himself up then Tails won't have either. Katherine, can you pinpoint their location at all?"

Katherine nodded silently.

"Then go to wherever it is there are and see if they've got their freewill back." ordered Dr. Eggman "I can't have two rouge Robians running loose in my base along with Mecha Sonic and Bunnie Rabbot!"

Katherine obeyed her master and she wandered slowly down the corridor to find Mecha Tails and Mecha Ruben. To their unfortunate luck, she knew where they were as Katherine was able to find any robot anywhere in the base as she was given brilliant tracking devices that could locate any of Eggman's robots, robot or Robian anywhere no matter where they were. Dr. Eggman watched as Katherine went to the lift and went down to the lower floors as they were already on the top floor. The moment she disappeared, Dr. Eggman opened the door a crack and he peeked into the room to see the battle between Mecha Sonic, Bunnie and Mecha Shadow. The fight seemed to be even sided so far. Bunnie gave Mecha Shadow a tremendous uppercut that almost took his head off and Mecha Shadow staggered backwards. Mecha Shadow retaliated with a right hook to the face and then he kicked Bunnie in the gut. Bunnie wheezed like a person with asthma and she doubled over in pain. This was the only flaw with being part organic and part robot, she still had soft spots and only her legs and arm were really that hard. Mecha Shadow smirked at Bunnie and he dropkicked Bunnie in the face, sending her rolling across the floor to the wall on the other side of the room. Mecha Shadow then tried to grab her again but Mecha Sonic tackled him as if he was a rugby player stopping his rival from scoring with the ball. The two roboticized hedgehogs sprawled onto the floor and Mecha Sonic was the first to get up. Mecha Shadow lunged at him but Mecha Sonic grabbed him and threw him straight into the wall. Mecha Shadow picked himself up and threw a Chaos Spear at Mecha Sonic. The spear struck Mecha Sonic and he staggered for a moment but he managed to remain standing somehow. Mecha Shadow threw another Chaos Spear at Mecha Sonic and the spear chipped him on his shoulder. Mecha Sonic grimaced in pain and retaliated with a blast of his blasters. The laser blast singed Mecha Shadow on his shoulder and before he had time to retaliate, Mecha Sonic leaped towards him and kick-slammed him in the gut. Mecha Shadow hurtled into a wall and left an impressive dent shaped like himself on the wall. Mecha Shadow growled at Mecha Sonic menacingly and he spin-dashed Mecha Sonic. Mecha Sonic landed with a clunk on the floor and he groaned in pain. Mecha Shadow then blasted Mecha Sonic with his plasma cannons again and Mecha Sonic groaned in even more pain. Bunnie however interfered by extending her robotic fist and walloping Mecha Shadow in the face. Mecha Shadow fell onto his side and he clutched his face in pain. Bunnie helped Mecha Sonic back onto his feet.

"How long do ya'll plan to keep this fight up for Sonic?" asked Bunnie.

"Until Tails and Ruben de-roboticize everybody." said Mecha Sonic "That is…IF we can last that long."

"Ah'm sure we will Sonic." said Bunnie "Ya'll are much strong now you're a robot and ah'm powerful enough to keep up with Shadow. "

"Then let's keep it up." said Mecha Sonic "After all, Eggman has no idea what Tails and Ruben are doing right now so he won't do anything about them."

With that said, he and Bunnie ran over to Mecha Shadow to further engage him in battle. Sonic had no idea if Tails and Ruben were doing any good down in the roboticizer chamber but he had a feeling they were making progress…

…and making progress they were. Mecha Tails had been changing the circuitry around inside the pod in hopes of setting it to deroboticize the planet instead or roboticize it. He was taking his time though as he couldn't afford a screw-up of any kind during this process. Anything could go wrong when fiddling about with unknown circuitry so he had to deal with this nice and easily. While Mecha Tails had been working on the roboticizer pod, Mecha Ruben had been standing guard at the door to make sure nobody gets in the room and tries to stop them from saving Mobius. So far, not a single robot had come down their way. It seemed that Mecha Tails and Mecha Ruben were in for an easy time right now.

"How's everything Ruben?" asked Mecha Tails from inside the pod.

"Still clear." reported Mecha Ruben "I guess Sonic and Bunnie are keeping everybody occupied right now. I'm amazed how easy a time we're having."

"Well we have Sonic to thank for that." noted Mecha Tails as he pulled a cable out and put it in a different slot "He came up with the plan that's doing wonders for us so when we de-roboticize all of Mobius, we have Sonic to thank."

"We certainly do." said Mecha Ruben "How goes the process in there?"

"I think things are going well." said Mecha Tails as he mixed up some more wires "I'm mostly just switching cables and wires around to see if that works but I'm sure there's something else I must do before I fire this thing."

"How's mixing up wires and cables supposed to set it in reverse?" asked Mecha Ruben "Isn't that more like screwing the machine up then setting it in reverse?"

"Maybe it is but the idea behind it really is that these wires made the roboticizer do what it did didn't they?" explained Mecha Tails "So if I match them up to different ports, maybe they'll make the roboticizer do the opposite of what it's supposed to do when I fire it."

"Um…that makes sense…I guess." murmured Ruben "In all of Chun-Nan, I'll never understand technology." he moaned with a slight face-palm.

"I know what you're like Ruben." said Mecha Tails as he mixed up some more circuitry "Not everyone can understand technology. A lot of people I talk to don't really understand what I'm saying although maybe it's just me talking technical when I could make things a lot simpler to understand by talking normally to them."

"I bet that would be a lot better." said Mecha Ruben "I bet it's annoying when no one understands what you're…"

Before he could finish speaking, the elevator at the beginning of the corridor pinged and the doors opened up. Katherine walked slowly out of the elevator and she headed towards the roboticizer chamber. Mecha Ruben jumped in surprise and he held his hands out, ready to squirt her with water.

"Tails, we've got company!" shrieked Mecha Ruben.

"Oh no, not now!" groaned Mecha Tails "I'm not finished yet! Who is it? Any of our friends?"

"No, it's a feminine looking robot with a black visor and spikes above her head." explained Mecha Ruben "I think it's that robot that Eggman talked to us through earlier."

"I believe Eggman said her name was Katherine." thought Mecha Tails "His new servant bot to replace Alonzo now he's a scrap pile*. Can you please keep her busy while I finish my work?"

"Tails, you didn't even need to ask." said Mecha Ruben "We water panthers love to help others, no matter what the problem is."

Katherine continued advancing down the corridor nice and slowly. Her vision was fixed squarely on Mecha Ruben, who was clearly preparing to squirt her. Mecha Ruben fired a jet of water at Katherine but the silent fem-bot activated her shield generator. This in turn surrounded her with a force-field and Ruben's water splashed against it. The roboticized water panther was so shocked he felt like he was going to malfunction.

"Tails, you're not gonna believe this but Katherine has a force-field!" cried Mecha Ruben.

"I guess your water powers are out of bounds then." muttered Mecha Tails "Try whatever you can, just keep her away from me until I've finished with this!"

"No problem Tails." said Mecha Ruben, cracking his metal knuckles "I'll just have to use my novice level ninjutsu and kung-fu on her instead."

So Mecha Ruben charged towards Katherine, who just stood there ominously and waited for him to come. Mecha Ruben leaped into the air, stretched his foot out and hurtled towards her foot-first. But Katherine raised her hands and fired some bladed discs at Mecha Ruben. The discs slashed Mecha Ruben across his legs, throwing his attack off balance and sending him crashing onto the floor. Mecha Ruben picked himself up and pounced on Katherine. Katherine shortened her barrier to the point it was only a red outline around her and she backhanded Mecha Ruben into the wall. Mecha Ruben stood back up and squirted Katherine with a jet of water. The barrier still protected her but it was only a red outline around her so it didn't stop the water attacks from throwing her off her feet and onto the floor. Katherine skidded across the floor and came to a stop near the hole in the wall Mecha Shadow had made earlier when he jumped through it with Sonic in tow. Katherine picked herself up but Mecha Ruben squirted her again. This jet of water was actually strong enough to push her straight through the hole in the wall and send her falling down to the ground! Katherine fell out of the hole and plummeted from the centre of Eggman's headquarters to the ground. Mecha Ruben cheered happily and he stuck his head back in the chamber.

"Hey Tails, I've defeated Katherine!" he reported "I pushed her through the hole in the wall Mecha Shadow made earlier and she's probably smashed to pieces on the ground now."

"Well done Ruben." said Mecha Tails from inside the roboticizer pod "Now I can finish this thing without any interruptions."

Unfortunately, he was wrong. Katherine had the ability to fly via jets in her feet and she flew straight back up to the hole in the wall and she drill-attacked Mecha Ruben as she leaped in. Mecha Ruben yelped in surprise and found himself being thrown onto the floor by the servant bot. She pinned him down and tried to rip him apart but Mecha Ruben kept her arms at bay.

"What's going on?" asked Mecha Tails, sticking his head out from the pod to see what was happening.

"Apparently, Katherine can fly!" cried Mecha Ruben as Katherine tried to grab him and tear him to pieces "She's not down yet! She's come back!"

Katherine tried to grab Mecha Ruben's head but Mecha Ruben held her arms at bay and stopped her from grabbing him. Mecha Ruben then proceeded to head-butt Katherine and make her let go of him. Mecha Ruben then kangaroo kicked her in order to keep her away from him and he leaped back onto his feet. Mecha Ruben tried to squirt Katherine and knock her over but Katherine expanded the barrier's size in order to stop it from pushing her. Katherine raised her hands and fired bladed discs at Mecha Ruben. Mecha Ruben back-flipped away from the firing discs but one managed to clip him on the ear. Mecha Ruben grimaced in pain but he charged back towards Katherine. He leaped into the air and began to rapidly kick Katherine but the barrier was preventing him from doing any serious harm to her. Katherine expanded the barrier even more to threw Mecha Ruben away and she wondered into the roboticizer chamber. Mecha Ruben freaked and ran after her. Inside the roboticizer pod, Mecha Tails could hear her coming so he stayed inside and remained hidden. Katherine kept her keen vision open for Mecha Tails as she had a feeling he was somewhere in the room. That was when she spotted the kicked in panel on the pod. She instantly worked out Mecha Tails was in there and she shortened her barrier so she could get down on her hands and knees and crawl inside to get Mecha Tails. But before she could get in, Mecha Ruben grabbed her by the legs and dragged her away. He then proceeded to throw the fem-bot straight into a wall. Katherine's vision went funny and she began to making groaning, whirring, beeping noises. The barrier had protected her from the full force of the slam but she was still a little dazed from that onslaught. Mecha Ruben then grabbed Katherine by the arm and threw her outside the chamber. He quickly closed the door and locked it. The door had the same kind of handle it had on the outside so it could be locked inside and outside. That would keep Katherine out for a while.

"Whew! Thank goodness that's over!" he sighed with relief "Katherine won't get in here now I've locked the door. I bet that door can resist many attacks, maybe even Sonic's spin-dash."

"You've locked Katherine out of the chamber?" asked Mecha Tails "That's great, she'll never get us now. Although we'll need to get out of here when we activate the roboticizer or we won't get effected by the waves."

"Once you've finished and you've set it to go, I'll let us outta here." said Mecha Ruben "Are you almost finished?"

"I am." said Mecha Tails "Just a few more things to change around and then we can give it a test drive."

Hopefully, Mecha Tails' changes would work and the roboticizer would de-roboticize everybody once it activated…

Meanwhile, Mecha Sonic, Bunnie and Mecha Shadow were still in combat with each other.

The fight so far seemed to be slightly in Mecha Sonic and Bunnie's favour and that was mostly due to the fact Mecha Shadow was having to fight two people at once and he was a little worn out from the earlier battle so Mecha Sonic and Bunnie were beginning to overpower him. Mecha Shadow tried to spin-dash Mecha Sonic but Mecha Sonic dodged him and spin-dashed him in the back just as he unfolded from his spin-dash. Mecha Shadow was sent hurling splat into the wall by Mecha Sonic. The roboticized hedgehog grumbled angrily and he threw a Chaos Spear at Mecha Sonic but Mecha Sonic dodged the attack and blasted him with his blaster cannons. Mecha Shadow grimaced in pain and he spin-dashed Mecha Sonic in the torso. Bunnie Rabbot retaliated with an uppercut to the side of Mecha Shadow's head that almost took it clean off. Mecha Shadow retaliated with a furious punch to the face that nearly cracked all of Bunnie's teeth but the Rabbot kicked him squarely in the gut and made him double over. Mecha Shadow grabbed Bunnie's leg and then proceeded to electrocute her but before he could do any serious damage, Mecha Sonic side-kicked him and knocked him away from Bunnie. Dr. Eggman had been watching the whole fight and he was not pleased to see that his greatest Robian was being bested by a roboticized Sonic the Hedgehog and a still partially roboticized Bunnie Rabbot. He was not going to let Sonic win this one, not while he was so close to victory so he bellowed into his wrist communicator.

"Mechas Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey, get in here and finish off that infernal hedgehog now!" he ordered hastily.

The Mechas obeyed his orders and they all rushed up to the top floor of Eggman's headquarters in order to help their master and stop Sonic the Hedgehog before he ruined everything. As for the battle, Mecha Shadow roundhouse kicked Mecha Sonic in the legs and tripped him up. He stomped on Mecha Sonic's head and attempted to crush him but Bunnie stopped him from stomping him again by giving Mecha Shadow an uppercut that threw him into the wall. He left an impressive dent on the wall that was shaped like his face. Mecha Shadow threw a couple of Chaos Spears at Mecha Sonic and Bunnie and they were both stricken by the attack. Mecha Sonic retaliated with a blast of his blaster cannons. The blasts struck Mecha Shadow and brought him down onto his knees. Before he could do anything, Mecha Sonic ran over to him and grabbed him by the wrist. He then proceeded to do the one thing he did to Bunnie when he was Mecha Sonic. Electrocute him. Mecha Sonic sent electricity surging up Mecha Shadow's circuits and the roboticized ultimate life form screamed in pain as painful electricity bit at his vital parts. Mecha Sonic decided to stop shocking him as he didn't want to accidentally kill Mecha Shadow so he switched of his electric powers and left Mecha Shadow to faint onto the floor. Mecha Shadow was offline for the time being thanks to Mecha Sonic. His visor was pitch black and his optics had switched off. Mecha Sonic smirked at Mecha Shadow and he turned to Bunnie.

"Just think of all the trouble I could have saved us if I did that in the first place." he said.

"Ah know sugah-hog." said Bunnie "Seeing ya'll do that reminds me of the time you kicked mah sorry butt the first time you were roboticized."

"Yeah, you almost beat me but in unleashed that on you at the last second to finish you off." said Mecha Sonic "Since I'm good now, I won't be shocking you anytime soon. By the way, where's Eggman?"

"He must have escaped while we were fightin' Mecha Shadow." said Bunnie "Ah bet he's…"

Just as she was about to complete her sentence, eight Robians suddenly burst into the room and they surrounded Mecha Sonic and Bunnie quickly. They were of course, Mechas Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey. They were all here to aid Mecha Shadow and finish off Mecha Sonic and Bunnie. The two stared at their opponents in despair.

"…called for some back up." finished Bunnie glumly.

Mecha Sonic suddenly grew nervous. He had not anticipated this to happen. He didn't want to fight his friends despite the fact they had been roboticized. Shadow didn't count as they weren't really allies, more like friendly rivals so Sonic had no trouble fighting him. His friends however, were another matter.

"Um…hi guys?" said Mecha Sonic nervously "Look, if I were all of you, I'd stand down, really I would. I don't wanna fight any of you and you won't wanna fight me so just stay where you are and…"

Mecha Knuckles just promptly ran up to him and sucker-punched him directly in the face. That attack threw Mecha Sonic onto his back and he lay there like a defeated wrestling opponent. He clutched his face, which would have been hurting even more had he not been roboticized.

"Good god that hurt!" grunted Mecha Sonic "I'm gonna spin-dash you so much your dreadlocks will fall off!"

With that said, he spin-dashed Mecha Knuckles and threw him into a wall.

"I really don't wanna fight any of you guys so please, for our sake, don't try and kill me okay?" asked Mecha Sonic.

Mecha Wilson and Mecha Mandy both promptly kicked him in the back and knocked him onto his stomach.

"Guess there's no reasoning with you." said Mecha Sonic "Okay, if you want roughing up, I'll be happy to oblige!"

He stood up on his hands and split-kicked Mecha Wilson and Mecha Mandy in the face each. He leaped into the air just as Mecha Shade attempted to Blade Rush him and he leapfrogged over Mecha Shade and he landed foot first on Mecha Geoffrey's face. Mecha Amy tried to hammer Mecha Sonic with her metal Piko-Piko hammer but Bunnie grabbed her by the shoulders and threw her away across the floor. Mecha Cream flew in and tackled Bunnie in the legs, brining the cyborg down onto the floor where Mecha Cosmo promptly stomped on her. Bunnie punched Mecha Cosmo away and picked herself up, only to be knocked down by Mecha Cream again. Mecha Sonic spin-dashed Mecha Cream and knocked her down onto the floor but Mecha Knuckles leaped in and roundhouse punched him in the face. Mecha Sonic staggered over onto his bottom and he rubbed his face better. To make things worse however, Mecha Shadow had finally come to and he was ready for action! Mecha Sonic groaned in annoyance and he dodged a spin-dash from Mecha Shadow.

"I REALLY hope Tails and Ruben have finished setting the roboticizer in reverse!" cried Mecha Sonic as he ducked to dodge an attack from Mecha Mandy.

Mecha Sonic didn't need to hope because right now, Mecha Tails had almost finished the set-up. He had a few more circuitry to set up and then the roboticizer would be ready for fire. Hopefully, it would de-roboticize everybody as intended and not do something like blow up in his face. He switched around the wires on another volt box and he turned some dials on the main power generator in the centre of the machine. After doing that, he wiped his metal forehead (even though he didn't need to because robots don't sweat) and he crawled out from the innards of the roboticizer pod.

"I think it's about done." said Mecha Tails "Hopefully, it'll be set in reverse and it'll de-roboticize everybody once it's fired."

"I've got my metal fingers crossed that this works." said Mecha Ruben, crossing his fingers "Tails, give it a shot and see what happens."

Mecha Tails obeyed and he was just about to activate the roboticizer until something started to make a loud clanging noise on the outside of the door. It was Katherine. The robot had woken up at last and now she was trying to get into the chamber to stop Mecha Tails from sabotaging the machine. She punched the door as hard as she could but she couldn't break it down. Mecha Tails listened to the heavy clanging that Katherine was making outside.

"Katherine's up! She's trying to get in and kill us!" cried Mecha Tails.

"Well don't just stand there, activate the roboticizer!" screamed Mecha Ruben "Before she can get in!"

Mecha Tails obeyed quickly and he pressed the start button. The moment he did, Mecha Ruben ran over to the door and he unlocked it. He flung it open and whacked Katherine away with it. Then he and Mecha Tails charged out of the chamber so they could get hit by the roboticizer waves when the pod activated. The roboticizer pod lit up and it activated it's waves. A big white wave that completely circled the pod spread out from the chamber and swept through the corridors, Eggman's quarters, and then through the whole of Robotropolis. Mecha Tails and Mecha Ruben were stricken by the blast and they fell onto their knees. Then, just as they had hoped, they began to change back to normal. Their metal bodies turned back to fur and skin, their innards became flesh, blood and bone once again and their optics turned back into eyes. Tails picked himself up and he admired himself all over. He was no longer sharp, metallic and pointy. He was cute, cuddly and fluffy again. He hugged his twin-tails happily and cheered.

"Yippee! I'm me again! Yeah!" cried Tails "It worked, I can't believe it, my tampering set it in reverse and it works!"

Ruben picked himself up and he admired himself all over. He was back to being furry again and he didn't have hose nozzles for fingers anymore.

"Boy does it feel good to be flesh and blood again." he said happily "Although I quite enjoyed being a robot."

As for the wave, it continued to sweep over Robotropolis and the Mechas fighting in the top floor were stricken by the wave. Mecha Sonic tripped over in surprise as the wave struck him and he began to transform back to normal. So did everybody else in the room as the wave swept through the room. Bunnie Rabbot dodged the wave as she didn't want to be de-roboticized otherwise she'd be useless. Mecha Knuckles turned back into Knuckles the Echidna, Mecha Shade returned to being Shade the Echidna, Mecha Amy became Amy Rose once again, Mecha Cream turned back into Cream the Rabbit, Mecha Cosmo transformed back into Cosmo the Seedrian again, Mecha Wilson returned to being Wilson the Dog, Mecha Mandy became Mandy Mouse and Mecha Geoffrey turned back into Geoffrey St. John. They all picked themselves up and felt themselves all over, relieved they were flesh and blood once again. As for the waves, they didn't stop there. They swept on and on until they went all over Mobius and back. Every single Robian was de-roboticized by the waves and they were all returned to their natural flesh and blood forms once again. Mobius was no longer a robot paradise. It was now a planet full of furry little Mobians once again. All the Mobians cheered with delight and some went so far as to scream it to the world how happy they were that this miracle had happened and they were back to normal. Mobius had returned to it's former glory. Dr. Eggman couldn't believe what he was watching and he went wild with rage. His beautiful robot-topia was crumbling before him in one fell sweep of the roboticizer waves.

"NOOOOO!" he bellowed "EVERYBODY'S BEING DE-ROBOTICIZED! RAAAGGGH! CURSE THAT FILTHY, STINKING TWIN-TAILED FOX! HE'S SET MY ROBOTICIZER IN REVERSE AND NOW IT'S…IT'S…GARAAAAGGHHH!"

Dr. Eggman was so angry right now, he was beginning to lose his sanity. He ran over to the elevator and quickly shut himself in it. He pressed the down button frantically and the elevator took him down.

"Katherine, you're joining me in my underground bunker!" cried Dr. Eggman "I don't feel so good right now and I need a good, long rest before I can fight that…that…that…h-h-hedge-h-h-hog…"

He was so livid with rage, consumed by anger and tormented by shock that Eggman was having trouble speaking properly. He was just building up more and more rage as the elevator took him down and down to the bottom floors as he thought about his unbelievable failure. As a matter of fact, as he reached the bottom floor, he finally cracked and went berserk with rage and despair completely dominating his body. he threw his arms up in the air and let off a horrible roar of anguish and agony.

" GYYYYY….AAAARRRRRRGGGGGGGHHHHHH! "

The sound was horrendous and anyone who heard it would have been terrified by that noise had they heard it. Dr. Eggman fell onto his side and he curled up into a ball. He began to babble to himself like an idiot. He was drooling like crazy, even more so then Kang and Kodos the Aliens. He had completely lost his mind now thanks to Tails de-roboticized everybody. He had become SO close to completely conquering Mobius and now in a blink of an eye, he was back to square one! To make matters worse, Tails' tampering hadn't done the roboticizer much good and the moment it had finished, it malfunctioned and blew a fuse. The roboticizer pod was now rendered completely useless and functionless. The blown fuse however sparked off another explosion inside the pod and the entire circuitry in the pod was suddenly fried and destroyed beyond repair by that electrical fire. The roboticizer pod was never going to be used ever again. As for Katherine, she hovered down the elevator shaft and opened up a shaft in the elevator's roof so she could hover down it. She saw her master cuddling himself on the floor, shaking uncontrollably and mumbling gibberish to himself. Katherine grabbed Eggman by the scruff of his shirt and he dragged the insane fat man away to his underground bunker so he could rest and recuperate from this horrible defeat of his.

Back up on the top floor, Sonic's friends were still in glamour over the fact they were now back to normal. They couldn't stop feeling themselves and admiring their restored bodies.

"I'm me again!" squealed Mandy happily as she felt her hips "Praise the lord, I'm me again!"

"I'm flesh and blood again!" cried Wilson "Boy does it feel good to be me again! I hated that robot-casing I was trapped in!"

"Blimey, we're all Mobian again!" cheered Geoffrey "That Eggman blighter's been foiled once again!"

"I did not enjoy being a robot." said Shade as she admired her figure, which was back to normal now "I'm so glad that someone's managed to de-roboticize us all."

"Looks like Sonic did it." said Knuckles as he looked at his trademark spiked fists, which were now back to normal like the rest of him "He's de-roboticized us all."

"Of course he did it you silly echidna!" giggled Amy "He's Sonic the Hedgehog, he's always saving our lives!"

"As much as I'd be happy to take the praise Amy, I'm not responsible for this." said Sonic casually as he felt his quills "I only helped. Tails and Ruben are the real heroes. They set the roboticizer in reverse so they deserve the praise."

"Where are they so we can give them our thanks Mr. Sonic?" asked Cream politely.

"They're in the roboticizer chamber." said Sonic "Which is on the centre floor of this place…"

Just as he said that, the elevator pinged and out of it came Tails and Ruben. They had taken the elevator up to the top floor so they could see their de-roboticized friends. They entered the room and everybody met them with praise and thanks. Cosmo threw her arms around Tails and embraced him lovingly.

"You've saved us all you wonderful boy!" cried Cosmo "Thank you so much Tails!"

"Aaaaw Cosmo." said Tails bashfully, hugging her back "You're welcome. You all are everybody." he said to everyone in the room.

"Thanks to Sonic's quick thinking, a perfectly executed plan and Tails' techno skills, we've managed to de-roboticize the planet just as Dr. Eggman had roboticized it." said Ruben proudly.

"I can't believe the doctor did that to us!" growled Shadow angrily, thumping the wall angrily "He roboticized everyone on Mobius and attempted to use us as his personal army! He even roboticized me! I am gonna kill that fat ^%&*£ now! Where is he?"

"He's gone Shadow." said Sonic "We have no idea where he is."

"Well then, I am gonna tear this place apart until I do find him!" roared Shadow "Everybody, get outta here before you go down with this building!"

"Whatever you say Shadow." said Sonic "I think we should do what he says guys. Come one, let's skadoodle."

With that said, all the Mobians left the room and went onto exit Dr. Eggman headquarters, leaving Shadow alone to try and find Dr. Eggman and kill him for daring to roboticize the entire planet.

Shadow wouldn't have much luck though because Dr. Eggman and Katherine were in his underground bunker, a place that couldn't be picked up on radar and was secretly hidden. They would never find it no matter how hard they tried. Dr. Eggman was still cuddling himself and babbling uncontrollably to himself with Katherine rocking him back and forth gently as if he was a baby in a cradle.

"No…can't…not…why…how…did…curse…hedgehog…" he blubbered to himself "…almost…won…how…did…I….lose…hate… Sonic…gonna…destroy…him…narf…nuff…glub…glab…glab… glump…Alonzo…you're…fired!...you…traitor….roboticize… everybody…"

Katherine just listened to his mad rambling while rocking him gently. Dr. Eggman needed a nice, long rest before he went back into action and when he did, he would be ready and revenge would be lurking around the corner once he was back in the action…

Sol Search Part 1

Story 84: Sol Search Part 1: Future Tense

Death.

The most worrying part of life was of course death. The minute you are born, you know you will die eventually. Everything lives from life to death and death is always the main thing people worry about whether it be untimely or as expected. Unfortunately for Mobius, it had a future full of death. Two-hundred years into the future, Mobius is nothing but disdain and obsidian. Cities were destroyed and buildings had either crumbled or fallen into despair, roads were cracked or full of potholes and large lumps of concrete sticking up from the road, forests were bare and dead and lush grassland had been reduced to miserable wastelands. Few oceans remained, making water scarce on Mobius and food was scarce too, many of it having to be rationed just to be fair on the others. There were few signs of life with few individuals still alive and struggling to live their lives in this post-apocalyptic world. Two of these individuals were the only remaining Mobians with super powers. One of them was a hedgehog named Silver. He had silver fur, hence his name, white chest fur that expanded around his neck, two large quills on the back of his head, five quills in the shape of a palm leaf above his eyes, yellow eyes with black stripes around them, white gloves with cyan symbols on the palms and back, dark blue boots with gold at the top, a white stripe on them and cyan toes. The gold on his boots and gloves had cyan trimmings that glowed. Silver was an extraordinary hedgehog in the sense that he had psychokinesis as a special power instead of super speed like many others before him. Silver could lift and move things with his powers, levitate through the air and throw waves of psychic energy at his opponents. His best friend was the other only remaining super-powered Mobian. Her name was Blaze the Cat and she was a very beautiful looking cat. She had once been a princess of a country but she relinquished her title due to the fact there was so little life left and there was nothing to rule over so she was no longer a princess or a ruler of any kind. Blaze had purple fur and she wore a dark purple coat with fuzzy cuffs, white tights, red and white high-heeled shoes which were fuzzy around the ankles and she had her hair done up above her head with a red bobble. She had a red gem on her forehead and she had a zigzag tail which was dark purple at the tip. Blaze had fire powers and could start and end fires. She was pretty much the world's greatest bonfire lighter and fire-fighter all at once. She was now the fastest thing currently alive now Sonic the Hedgehog no longer lived, although she was nowhere near as fast as Sonic, she was still very fast. She was feisty, powerful and caring, especially for Silver, her best friend. She was a guardian just like Knuckles, guardian of the legendary Sol Emeralds. Their origins were shadowed in mystery but Blaze knew they were dangerous to anyone who abused their powers so she protected them from any villainous life-forms that could possibly be lucking out there. The Sol Emerald were rectangular in shape and had powers like the Chaos Emerald, only with fire powers added. They resided on Angel Island, which had fallen thanks to the cataclysm that doomed this future and now rested in the only ocean left on Mobius. Right now, Silver and Blaze were delivering food rations out to those too weak to leave their homes or get their own food. Silver levitated around the wrecked city of Nekronopolis, his birthplace, and he delivered his daily supplies to the poor people of Mobius. He delivered a hamper of food to a poor family that was dressed completely in rags and perishing with starvation and malnutrition right now. They were delighted to see the kind hearted psychic hedgehog that delivered the hamper to them.

"Oh bless you sir!" said the mother of the family, who was dressed in rags like the rest of her family was "Bless you for your kindness to us poor people!"

"No thanks necessary." said Silver casually "I'm just doing my job. Making sure the last of the Mobians can live long enough to keep our race alive."

Silver waved goodbye to the family and he flew away from them. That was his last delivery and now he flew back to Angel Island, one of his favourite places to sit on and relax in. Blaze the Cat had finished her deliveries and she joined him back on the island. Silver and Blaze both sat on the emerald shrine, which had a slab for the Sol Emeralds to sit in, and they stared despairingly at the wreck of their home planet. What could have caused such a disaster that left their home in ruins and the Mobians struggling for survival? And why did it happen? Who caused it? What caused it? Could it be prevented? They had no idea but since they day they were born, they were determined to find out what had destroyed their future and ruined Mobian life everywhere.

"Our home is such a wreck." moaned Silver "I bet two-hundred years ago, it was lush and beautiful!"

"I dream about what life in the past was like too Silver." said Blaze, sharing his despair "But sadly, we can't get that same life the past Mobians once had. We have ways of travelling to the past so we can see what Mobius is like but what's the point of going if we don't know how to prevent the apocalypse that claimed it in the first place?"

"There isn't." said Silver "So I've decided I'm gonna do some research and find out what's ruined our world. I found a library with books that are mostly intact so I can look there and see what facts I can find."

"That's pretty hopeful of you Silver but I doubt there will be a book containing the disaster that caused Mobius' destruction." said Blaze glumly "I could be wrong of course but I wouldn't be too hopeful on that yet."

"Oh Blaze, there's bound to be some book in that library that has the answers." said Silver determinedly "And mark my words, I'll read the entire library if I have to if it means finding out what's caused all this!"

He motioned to the ruins of Nekronopolis on the shore. The city had once been a proud metropolis and home of the Northern Royal Fighters two-hundred years ago. Now it was almost nothing with few citizens living in it. Silver had been born here and his life had been rough due to the scarcity of food and water and lack of proper resources since everything was a wreck. Yet he was still alive now and willing to do whatever it takes to save Mobius and his future.

"Well Silver, I'm willing to help you if it means fixing the damages done to our world." said Blaze with a friendly smile on her face "Once we find out what's caused this, we'll warp back in time and stop this event from happening."

"With my powers combined with your speed, nothing will stop us!" declared Silver "The future will be as good as saved with us on the case!"

"I sincerely agree with that." said Blaze "Although it'll beg the question why the legendary Sonic the Hedgehog couldn't prevent this in the first place."

"Maybe it happened after he died." thought Silver "I've read a lot about Sonic the Hedgehog and I doubt he'd be able to stop something like this happening. I'd love to meet him in person though."

"I think I would too Silver." said Blaze "He sounds like an incredible person from what I've heard about him."

"Legend says he could run faster then the speed of sound and smash through anything by curling up into a ball and churning through his opponents." said Silver "I wonder if he actually is that fast."

Suddenly, a warp ring appeared from behind Silver and Blaze only it wasn't gold, this one was black and was surrounded by a dark aurora. This warp ring had clearly been cursed or corrupted by some evil life-form from another place. Silver and Blaze turned around and saw the black warp ring. Then out of the warp ring jumped a strange creature. This creature was a robotic looking mouse with silver armour, neon purple visor, neon purple stripes under the visor and a neon purple stripe around the base of the tail. It was pretty featureless save for those neon bits and it had long sharp claws. It didn't look very friendly either. It looked deathly serious and like it was ready to kill someone. The robo-mouse stared at Silver and Blaze in a manner that suggested it was observing them. Silver and Blaze didn't know what to think of this strange new arrival but they had a feeling it meant trouble so they bent down and prepared to do battle with it. Silvers' hands began to glow with psychic energy and Blaze's hands surrounded themselves with fire.

"Who are you and what are you doing here?" demanded Silver hastily.

The robo-mouse didn't answer him. It just turned it's head to one side as if it didn't even understand English. Silver and Blaze looked at each other.

"Um, I don't think it understands us." said Blaze slowly "Or maybe it can't even speak."

"If that's the case, it can't tell us what it is and what it's doing here." said Silver "Either way, it's not staying here. It doesn't look friendly so it can't be there to help us. Let's send it back to where it came from!"

The robo-mouse suddenly sprung and swiped at Silver with it's sharp metal claws. Silver leaped back in surprise and he held his hands out. His body was surrounded by a teal outline and the mouse-bot was suddenly halted by psychic energy. The robo-mouse was stuck and it couldn't move at all due to Silver's great power. Silver then proceeded to throw the robo-mouse off the shrine and onto the ground below. Blaze jumped down and hit the robo-mouse with a fiery kick that knocked it to the edge of the island. Falling off was no longer a danger as Angel Island was in the ocean instead of floating above the ground but the robo-mouse wasn't resistant to water so it didn't want to fall in. The robo-mouse picked himself up and fired a pair of lasers out of it's eyes at Silver and Blaze as they charged towards him. The blasts hit Silver and Blaze and they were both suddenly frozen to the spot. The lasers were freezing beams and Silver and Blaze wouldn't be moving for about sixty seconds. That was more then enough time for the robo-mouse to run past them and leap onto the emerald shrine. It observed the slab on the shrine with the seven Sol Emeralds. It grabbed the emeralds and snatched them off the shrine. It gathered them all up into it's arms and it summoned a black warp ring from nowhere. Unfortunately, the freezing lasers wore off and Silver and Blaze were able to move again. They noticed the robo-mouse was attempting to escape through it's dark warp ring with the Sol Emeralds. Blaze instantly growled with fury at the sight of that.

"It's stealing the Sol Emeralds!" she screamed "How dare it?"

"We've gotta stop it before it escapes!" exclaimed Silver "Let's get it!"

Silver and Blaze charged towards the robo-mouse just as it stepped through the warp ring. The warp ring was just starting to close but Silver used his psychic powers to hold the ring open long enough for him and Blaze to leap through it. Blaze went first and Silver followed just as it began to close. What they ended up in was a nightmarish portal tunnel, the gap between the leaving and arriving destinations of the warp ring. A usual warp rings' portal tunnel felt great to anyone using it but this one felt awful. It was all dark, corrupted and twisted, full of blurry red and black images sweeping back and forth and terrific speeds that made Silver and Blaze feel like they were going to get motion sickness in it.

"Urgh! Oh god this is awful!" spluttered Silver "My Super Warp Ring feels much better then this!"

"At least we can follow that thing before it gets away with my Sol Emeralds!" screeched Blaze "As a matter of facts, there it is!"

The robo-mouse was walking steadily to the end of the portal tunnel. At the end of the tunnel was the door to the mouse-bot's destination. And that destination was going to be the robo-mouse's home zone. Blaze zoomed up towards the robo-mouse in a wave of fire and she grabbed the robo-mouse from behind. The robo-mouse fell down as Blaze tackled it and it dropped the Sol Emeralds. Dropping things in the portal tunnel was never a sensible idea as there was no floor or anything, you just hovered through the tunnel so any inanimate object would just fall out of the tunnel and end up somewhere else. The robo-mouse noticed it had dropped the Sol Emeralds and it switched around the location of the warp ring to where the emeralds were going to end up. Now it was going to end up somewhere else instead of it's intended destination. The robo-mouse knocked Blaze off of itself by whacking her in the face and it leaped through the end of the tunnel. Silver and Blaze followed it and they appeared through the warp ring. They fell onto the ground, coughing hoarsely and spluttering so loudly, you'd think they were about to hack up a hairball each. The robo-mouse however, had decided to dart off quickly before Silver and Blaze could regain their senses and catch it. Silver and Blaze stopped coughing long enough to say something.

"Hurk…never again!" cried Silver "That was terrible!"

"Hugh! Ugh! Koff!" I'm glad our warp rings don't feel anywhere near as bad as that!" choked Blaze, clutching her throat "I wonder where we…"

She opened her eyes and noticed she was now kneeling down on grass. Real green grass, the one thing that didn't exist in the future because of Mobius' unknown destruction. Blaze stared at the grass in surprise. She felt it with her hands and sniffed it.

"Grass? Real grass?" mused Blaze "This can't be, grass doesn't exist anymore…"

"Then we obviously aren't in our world anymore." noted Silver, standing up and admiring the scenery around him "Feast your eyes on this Blaze!"

Blaze stood up and gaped at her surroundings. The two future Mobians were standing in the middle of a beautiful forest complete with real living trees brimming with healthy green leaves, real green grass that covered the ground, real bushes with healthy green leaves and colourful fruit growing on the trees and bushes. This forest was the Great Forest, home of the legendary Lake of Rings and a place of interest to Sonic the Hedgehog. All of this didn't exist anymore thanks to the thing that ruined Mobius' future and seeing a real life healthy forest in all it's glory was just an amazement to the two Mobians standing there now. They were amazed with what they were looking at. Never before had they seen a real living forest being as everything but the citizens currently alive was dead in their future.

"Look at this…" gasped Blaze "We're in an…actual forest. A real living forest."

"I know." said Silver "Everything looks so beautiful in here! Much better then back home! And look at the sky up there! Nice and blue with white clouds floating in them!" he added, pointing up at the sky which was a brilliant blue colour and not constantly red and yellow like the future "Oh I've dreamed of living in a world like this!"

The silver hedgehog was glad to see a perfect looking world for once instead of going around and seeing nothing but ruin and despair. He was well pleased with this.

"I have a feeling this is either another zone…" mused Blaze "Or we've gone back in time. This maybe Mobius in the past. Possibly two-hundred years ago."

"Well the scent is a little familiar to our world." said Silver, inhaling deeply through his nose "This maybe past Mobius. We'll have to ask somebody about this."

"We don't have time for that Silver." said Blaze "The seven Sol Emeralds fell though the portal tunnel while we were in that warp ring and the robo-mouse thing brought us out here instead of where it was heading. I saw the ring at the end change location before we came out of it and if it's brought us here, the mouse-bot must think the emeralds have ended up here. We must find the emeralds before that thing does. Who knows what it wants the emeralds for and what it wants them for are likely catastrophic."

"OK Blaze, we'll search for that robot mouse thing and the Sol Emeralds." said Silver "But where do we start? I mean, they fell out of the portal tunnel so they could be anywhere on this planet. Heck, one of them might even be in the planet's core for all we know!"

"The emeralds fell together, they weren't scattered or anything so they'll all end up in the same location, only apart from each other." noted Blaze "They're all probably in this very forest. Let's get searching."

With that said, Silver and Blaze began looking around the forest for the Sol Emeralds and the robo-mouse. Unfortunately for them, Sonic's extra-terrestrial enemy Marik the Martian had been snoozing in a tree branch just above their heads and their arrival had woken him up. Ever since Shadow had broken his arm*, Marik had decided to hide in the Great Forest until he was ready to come out and attack and now two new Mobians had caught his attention. He had listened in on their location and he had been fascinated with what they were talking about. Those so-called "Sol Emeralds" sounded fascinating to say the least and he grinned maliciously to himself.

"Those Sol Emeralds sound interesting." mused Marik "If those two morons are so desperate to find them then they must be of some importance to them. And an object of great importance is always going to be valuable to someone as dark and evil as myself. Well, I think I'll go and find them if they think they're around here. If I heard correctly, there's seven of them. Funny really considering there's seven Chaos Emeralds. Maybe the emeralds are like Chaos Emeralds only with different powers. I'll find out once I find them and use them for my own personal gain."

Marik leaped down from the tree and he landed on the ground. He then proceeded to wander off into the forest in search of the Sol Emeralds. He couldn't wait to see what they could do and how he could use them to destroy Mobius, if they had the power of course. Unfortunately for Marik, a certain trio of villains had heard been eavesdropping on Silver and Blaze like he was and they were after the emeralds too. The fur was going to fly very badly once this hunt was on….

"Hey Geoffrey ol' boy, how's things been going since Tails managed to de-roboticize all of Mobius?" asked Sonic the Hedgehog, hero of Mobius and fastest thing alive.

A whole day had passed since the de-roboticization of Mobius and the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis had settled back into Royal HQ after their most recent adventure. The headquarters was back in proper operation and Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas had returned back to Angel Island, taking with them the seven Chaos Emeralds that Sonic had used in an attempt to defeat weaponzied Alonzo before he was destroyed by the roboticization of Mobius

"Well according to this report mate," reported Geoffrey St. John the skunk, fellow Royal Fighter and one notorious for finding it difficult to trust new people as he read from a piece of paper in his hand "All the Mobians are back to normal and the Royal Fighters Service is back in proper gear. Shadow the Hedgehog, poor bloke, hasn't managed to find Dr. Eggman yet but he decided to tear down Robotropolis in his search and the robot city is now in ruins once again."

"Well if Scourge could wreck it then Shadow could wreck it just as easily." sighed Sonic "At least it'll slow Eggman down for a while as he was to repair Robotropolis all over again."

"That is if the bloke can dare to show his face again after this crippling defeat of his." snickered Geoffrey.

"Trust me Geoffrey, Eggman's still gonna show his ugly face no matter how bad he loses." muttered Sonic "I mean, his defeat at mine and Knuckles' hands* when we had that showdown should have shaken him pretty badly but he still sprung back. And he still won't give-up despite the fact we took back the stolen emeralds the time he made Robotropolis fly. Now Shadow's taken it down, it will never fly again."

"Yeah that's right." said Geoffrey "And I see your points on Eggman coming back no matter what we throw at him. Well all I say about this is, we'll defeat that blighter even if we kill ourselves trying!" he declared, pounding the air with his gloved fist.

"And I'll be very happy to die for the good of Mobian kind." said Sonic "But given my speed and our team spirit, I'll live to tell the tale. The tale of Eggman's defeat and how we destroyed him for good."

"That'll be summet great to tell me kids, should I ever get any." said Geoffrey as he pictured a lovely thought in his head.

Suddenly, they were interrupted by a beeping noise on the monitors of Royal HQ. Mandy Mouse, the tomboy rodent of the team with a valorous streak as big as her devotion to duty, was watching the monitors and she picked up the thing it was detecting.

"Hey blue dude, come over here!" called Mandy "The monitors are going crazy here!"

Sonic zipped over and stood behind Mandy's chair. The mouse was taping furiously on the keyboard and tracking the trace of the signal the monitors were picking up.

"I'm getting strange readings from seven different places in the Great Forest." said Mandy as she stared at the flashing screen in front of her "They look like chaos signatures but the Chaos Emeralds are back on Angel Island. Including the purple one I wanted to keep but decided it would be better if it stayed on the island."

"That is strange." said Sonic "Seven objects giving off chaos signatures even though the Chaos Emeralds are on Angel Island. They can't be more Chaos Emeralds because there's only seven left. We've gotta investigate this and fast. Geoffrey, get Tails, Cosmo and Wilson. Me, you, Mandy and them are going to investigate this strange thing."

"But who's gonna keep an eye on the base Sonic?" asked Geoffrey.

"The other girls can." said Sonic "Bunnie, Amy and Cream are gonna be great guards for Royal HQ."

"Well if Bunnie, Amy and Cream are staying, why is Cosmo coming?" asked Mandy "No offence to the sweet little girl but, she's not exactly fighter material is she?"

"I just feel that Tails and Cosmo should have some adventure time together." said Sonic "Those crazy lovebirds haven't had an adventure together recently have they?"

"You really do have a big heart for your mates don't you lad?" said Geoffrey, pleased at how selfless Sonic was.

"Well the hedgehog's heart is bigger then anything else on his body." said Sonic casually "Even his head. Let's get going and investigate this strange signal the monitors are picking up before someone else gets them."

With that said, Geoffrey left the lab and went off to get Wilson, Tails and Cosmo. Mandy left the lab to arm herself with some weapons as she had a feeling she was going to need them. Sonic hung around and waited until everybody was ready. He began to wonder on what he was going to find in the Great Forest and what they could possibly be. If they weren't Chaos Emeralds then what could they be…?

Meanwhile, Marik the Martian had been taking a nice steady stroll through the Great Forest in search for the Sol Emeralds. He didn't really know what he was looking for as he had no idea what the Sol Emeralds looked like but he was sure he'd be able to tell if they were the Sol Emeralds since the Great Forest doesn't have emeralds of any kind in it. Marik had kept his beady orange eyes open for any sight of an emerald. He hadn't found a single thing yet and he'd been ploughing through bushes and climbing up trees in his search for them. After searching in another tree, he climbed down and grumbled to himself.

"Well, if those Sol Emeralds are hiding in this forest, they've picked good places." he muttered to himself "I haven't found anything yet and I've been searching for ten minutes straight!"

He scratched the bark of the tree he'd just looked up angrily, leaving thick claws marks on it that was a clear sign that he'd been near here. Marik strolled off and pushed his way through another bush. Then suddenly, he saw something glistening on the ground. Marik ran over to the glistening thing and he looked at it. It was a green rectangular shaped emerald embedded slightly in the ground. Marik stared at it in thought. Was this a Sol Emerald? It must be as he didn't know any other emeralds that looked like that. Marik rubbed his hands greedily and he grabbed the emerald. He yanked it out of the ground and held it up to his face. The Martian grinned maliciously to himself. He'd found the first Sol Emerald! Now he had six more to find.

"So this must be a Sol Emerald." said Marik to himself "It feels like a Chaos Emerald only it has a curious fiery touch to it. Maybe it's a fire-powered emerald of some kind. Oh well, I cannot wait to use this on my enemies!"

Then suddenly, he heard something rush though the bushes. Marik jumped and he bared his metal claws. He scanned the scenery and waited for the assailant to come out. Everything seemed clear so far though. He must have heard somebody running through the forest on a hearty jog or something. But just as Marik began to feel that there was nothing to worry about, somebody jumped on him and pile-dived him into the ground, making him drop the Sol Emerald. The thing that attacked him jumped over him and grabbed the Sol Emerald. The attacker was none other then Scourge the Hedgehog's sexy girlfriend and Royal Fighter traitor Fiona Fox. The vixen shot a seductive pose at Marik while holding the emerald close to her chest. She put on a fake expression of sweetness to the angry Martian.

"For me?" she purred sarcastically "How kind of you, you really shouldn't have."

Marik leaped up onto his feet and he punched Fiona directly in the stomach. Fiona doubled over, wheezing heavily and she dropped the Sol Emerald. Marik grabbed it and he stuffed it in his jacket and he zipped the pocket up.

"I didn't!" snarled Marik "Who are you then you little slut?"

"Oh ho, ho! Cheeky are we?" chuckled Fiona "I like boys with a bit of attitude in them! The name's Fiona Fox by the way gruesome. What's yours?"

"Marik the Martian." said Marik "Sonic's worst enemy and soon to be destroyer of Mobius!"

"Wrong I'm afraid." said Fiona, roundhouse kicking Marik in the legs and tripping him up "My boy Scourge the Hedgehog is Sonic's worst enemy and soon to be conqueror of Mobius. You don't even look good enough to be Sonic's worst enemy."

Marik's expression became very fierce at the mere mention of Scourge's name. It was as if the name had a bad ring to it.

"Scourge the Hedgehog?" snarled Marik "You're with Scourge the Hedgehog?"

"Yes I am." said Fiona, stomping on the Martian's back as hard as she could "What of it?"

"I, unfortunately, know Scourge!" growled Marik, rolling over and kangaroo kicking Fiona in the legs "I had a bad time with that big-headed hog troll the time I got arrested and I've been looking forward to ripping his obnoxious little head off! If you're associated with him then I'm afraid I'm going to have to kill you too Fiona!"

"If you're on Scourge's bad side then I'm afraid I'm gonna have to kick your ass Marik." sneered Fiona "Why don't you make this easy on the both of us and give me that emerald so we can avoid an unnecessary fight and unnecessary pain?"

"Martians do NOT back down from a fight!" bellowed Marik, punching Fiona in the face "And I will not surrender this emerald to you! It's mine and I'm going to find the other six and use them to destroy Mobius once and for all!"

Fiona rubbed her face better and she scowled at Marik.

"I guess me, Scourge and Ginger weren't the only ones eavesdropping on that odd hedgehog and cat couple earlier." she muttered "That just means we get some annoying competition from an alien freak."

Marik took offence to that and she dropkicked Fiona in the face and knocked her down onto her back. The angry vixen picked herself up and roundhouse kicked Marik in the legs. Marik fell onto his back and Fiona went for his jacket. Marik moved out of the way and picked himself up. He tried to roundhouse punch Fiona in the face but Fiona ducked and kneed him in the gut. The vixen then proceeded to push Marik down onto the ground and kick him away. Marik picked himself up and swiped his arm at Fiona. The vixen found herself being knocked off her feet by an energy wave but she wasn't down for long. She picked herself up and kicked Marik in the face. Marik fell onto his back and Fiona attempted to grab the emerald from his jacket but Marik grabbed her arm with his metal hand and gave her a painful electric shock. Fiona screamed at the top of her voice as electricity surged up her arm and through her body. Marik gripped on tightly so Fiona couldn't get away. Fiona grimaced and screamed as she was shocked and she finally collapsed onto the ground. Marik had shocked her to the point she fell unconscious. Marik picked himself up and he sneered at her.

"You were absolutely pathetic." he crowed "Now, if you'll excuse me, I've got emeralds to find. I would kill you but you're not worth my time and resources, you're too pathetic."

And with that, he left the unconscious Fiona behind to lie on the ground while he searched for the other Sol Emeralds. The moment he left though, Scourge the Hedgehog and his wormy sidekick Ginger the Fox arrived on the scene. They saw the unconscious Fiona lying on the ground after Marik had shocked her. Scourge's face contorted with anger and shock. He stomped over to Fiona and hauled her up onto her feet. He slapped her face repeatedly to wake her up.

"Wake up Fiona! This isn't the time for a nap!" bellowed Scourge "We've gotta find those Sol Emerald thingies before someone else does!"

Fiona came to from Marik's painful electric shock and she groaned sleepily. She rubbed her throbbing cheeks, which had gone red from Scourge slapping her repeatedly to wake her up. She stared straight into Scourge's eyes and noticed her boyfriend wasn't exactly pleased with her.

"Fiona, what happened?" demanded Scourge angrily "Why are you sleeping on the job?"

"Scourge baby, I was not sleeping on the job." snapped Fiona "I found the first of them Sol Emerald things the hedgehog and cat were talking about earlier but a creep named Marik the Martian shocked me into submission. He claims to know you so I bet you know who I'm talking about."

"I do actually sweet thing." said Scourge crossly, folding his arms and scowling hard enough to scare a fully grown Siberian Tiger "Me and Marik met each other in prison the other month and he dared to challenge me! I guess he escaped then if you ran into him a moment ago."

"Excuse me Scourge, pardon my asking but who is Marik the Martian?" asked Ginger.

"Do you even read the newspapers kid?" snapped Scourge angrily "How in the hell of it can you not know who Marik is? He's a regular headline hitter! Everybody's heard of him!"

"I do read newspapers but I usually tear them up in anger whenever

I see Sonic and Tails getting praised for their good deeds." Ginger confessed meekly.

"In that case, I won't bother telling you as you don't give a crap about anything else." muttered Scourge "Come on Fiona and Ginger! Marik may have the first Sol Emerald but we'll get the rest! That hedgehog kid with the stupid haircut said there were seven and Marik has one so there must be six left to find."

"And we'll get them first and get the one from Marik afterwards." said Fiona.

With that said, Scourge and his cronies wondered off through the Great Forest in search for the Sol Emeralds. Scourge couldn't wait to get into a fight with Marik and kick his backside to make him pay for standing up to him in prison the other time. And since he'd beefed himself up all the times he'd been absent from the battle, he'd floor Marik easily…

Meanwhile, Sonic the Hedgehog, Tails the twin-tailed fox, Cosmo the Seedrian, Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse were in the Great Forest in search of the Sol Emeralds. Unlike Marik and Scourge, they didn't know what they were looking for, all the knew was it had Chaos Energy like the Chaos Emeralds. Tails had brought his handheld chaos tracker, a device he'd used to find the Lake of Rings and the Chaos Emeralds* on the occasions they needed them so they could find the Sol Emeralds. Luckily for the Mobians, Mandy had uploaded the coordinates the computers had picked up to the tracker so they knew where to find the emeralds.

"So Tails, how close are we to the first thing that's been picked up on our monitors?" asked Sonic.

"Well, we're not that far away now." said Tails "It's a good few paces ahead of us according to this tracker. However, the tracker's showing one of the dots moving in a certain direction. I have a feeling somebody else is looking for these chaos energy things that we've picked up too."

"Let's hope it's not Marik or Scourge or those guys that worked with Lola Gunn before they shot her." said Sonic "Anyone of them could be interested in findings like this. And if it's an artefact with Chaos Energy then it's going to be dangerous in their hands."

"I'm amazed with haven't seen that Marik blighter in a while." said Geoffrey as he kept his eyes opened for the Sol Emeralds "He got his arm broken by Shadow then he vanished. I guess he took that defeat pretty hard and decided to opt out of the battle for a while."

"I just hope we don't run into that demon while we're out here." said Cosmo, shuddering at the mere thought of Marik "I hate Marik, he scares me and his sadism makes me sick. I know hate's a strong word but I really do have no love for that sadistic peace hater."

"Cosmo, chill girl." said Sonic with a reassuring smile on his face "We all hate Marik too so you can say what you like about him. We don't mind."

"I'll never forget the time I bit him on the arm." said Wilson as he thought back to the time they were on Cutthroat Jim's ship during the Chaos Emerald hunt "I wouldn't mind doing that to him again should we meet that Martian again."

"You bit Marik on the arm?" piped Mandy "Aw! I wish I was here to see it but I was replaced by an Automaton at the time so I missed it! I love it when you do something as cool as that Wilson."

"I know you do, although I don't usually enjoy biting people." muttered Wilson "It's barbaric and savage. But with villains like Dr. Eggman, Scourge or Marik I'll make an exception."

"Hey guys, I think we've found the first object!" cried Tails as his tracker started to go crazy. It beeped as frantically it sounded like it was having a malfunction and it's screen was going haywire.

They had come across a rosebush on their left hand side and the tracker was saying the emerald was in the bush. Cosmo ran over to the bush and she stuck her hand inside it, trying her best to avoid the sharp thorns of the roses. She fumbled about in the bush for a moment until finally, her hands closed around something hard. The moment she touched it, she felt a slight temperature rise and her hand felt like there was a fire inside it. Cosmo lifted the thing out and showed it to everybody. She had found the red Sol Emerald, the hottest of the Sol Emeralds. Everybody stared at the emerald in wonder, entranced by it's beauty and it's unusual shape.

"What is it?" asked Geoffrey.

"It feels like a Chaos Emerald." said Cosmo "I'm getting this same warm, loving feeling a Chaos Emerald gives off, only with an added fiery streak that makes it feel slightly hot. But it doesn't look like a Chaos Emerald."

"It's definitely not one I've seen." said Sonic "And I don't think Knuckles will know what it is either. It's definitely not something from Angel Island."

"Maybe it's a mystical gem that's yet to be discovered." suggested Mandy "After all, science is always revealing something new day after day isn't it?"

Then suddenly, a huge wave of fire rushed by Cosmo and made her fall over onto her bottom in surprise. Sonic and friends leaped back and stared at the wave of fire, amazed by the heat and how suddenly it appeared. Something came out of the fire and stood before Cosmo, the Seedrian staring up in fright at the thing in the fire. It was, of course Blaze the Cat and she looked furious to say the least. She glared at Cosmo with her steely yellow eyes and noticed she had a Sol Emerald in her hands.

"Give me that Sol Emerald and I won't have to burn you alive little one!" snarled Blaze, the fire behind her still blazing brilliantly and madly.

Cosmo, shaking like a million leaves didn't hesitate for a minute and she got back onto her feet. She kept her gaze fixed straight on Blaze and she handed Blaze the Sol Emerald, her hands shaking terribly. Blaze was slightly taken aback by the fact someone actually listened to her and gave her the Sol Emerald when asked first time but she kept her steel gaze on. She snatched the emerald off Cosmo and narrowed her eyes to a glower.

"Thank you." she said ""If any of you are thinking about looking for the other Sol Emeralds then back off now. I will show no mercy if you're looking for my emeralds!"

"Hey! Who the hell do you think you are you fiery jerk?" snapped Mandy angrily, storming up to Blaze and prodding her sharply in the chest "Throwing fire around like that and threatening to burn an innocent little kid alive? Who the hell do you think you are?"

"I am Blaze the Cat, Guardian of the Sol Emeralds and resident of future Mobius." said Blaze bluntly "I will roast anybody who dares to keep the Sol Emeralds for themselves."

"Oh will you now?" said Mandy coldly "Well, I strongly object to people throwing their weight around and being nasty to children so you can either apologize for your actions or I will use your face for stress relief!"

"You have the nerve to tell me off for throwing my weight around and yet you threaten to assault me?" screeched Blaze "You've got a lot of nerve in you young lady!"

"Girls! Girls! Timeout! Now!" shouted Sonic hastily, making a timeout sign with his hands "We're getting off on the wrong foot here!"

Mandy and Blaze just glared at each other but they didn't unleash hell on each other. Mandy stood down and retreated away from Blaze, her scowl still fixed on the pyrokinetic kitty in the purple coat. Glad to see that the fight had been aborted, Sonic stood forward and spoke.

"Look miss, we have no idea what a Sol Emerald is and we're not hoping to keep them for ourselves." said Sonic "Our scanners detected them and we're looking for them to see what they are. We had no idea they belonged to you. We're sorry if it looks like we're trying to find them for ourselves."

Blaze took in what Sonic said and relaxed her expression. She snapped her fingers and the fire wall behind her disappeared from sight.

"I'm sorry for my actions hedgehog." she said slowly "I'm just too overly jumpy whenever I see somebody other then me or people I know with my Sol Emeralds."

"I'll say you are!" retorted Mandy "Throwing fire around like that as if it's Bonfire Night and scaring the living cuss outta us!"

"Look, I said I was sorry OK?" snapped Blaze "I didn't mean for it to go like this. I just…have a fiery temper and I can't help myself when I lose it."

"I understood miss." said Sonic "I know a red echidna and a pink girl hedgehog with tempers even worse then yours. Who are you by the way?"

"Blaze the Cat." said Blaze "I'm the guardian of the Sol Emeralds and I come from two-hundred years in the future."

The Mobians all gawped at the purple cat that stood before them, earning an awkward expression from Blaze.

"You're from the future?" gasped Tails "That's awesome! I always had a feeling time travel was possible and now I've just found out it is indeed true! There's a person from the future standing right before us!"

"If you're from the future lass then why are you here?" asked Geoffrey.

"A robotic looking creature shaped like a mouse stole the Sol Emeralds and tried to make off with them." explained Blaze "While we were in the warp ring portal tunnel, I caused it to drop the emeralds and they fell out of the portal and randomly ended up here. Me and my friend Silver are looking for them right now."

"Who's Silver?" asked Sonic.

Then as if right on cue, Silver ran in from nowhere and ran up to Blaze.

"Hey Blaze, what's going on?" asked Silver.

He spotted the Mobians standing before them and he realized what was going on. They had found some locals at last and to Silver's relief, they were Mobians so that meant they were on Mobius and in the past.

"Well at least now I know we're in past Mobius." said Silver "Who are these guys?"

"I dunno but they've found a Sol Emerald for us." said Blaze, showing Silver the red Sol Emerald she know had.

"Thanks for that guys." said Silver "Who are you?"

"I'm Sonic." said Sonic, pointing to himself "Sonic the Hedgehog. These are my friends Tails, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey." he said, pointing to them as he introduced them.

"Sonic?" gasped Silver " The Sonic the Hedgehog?"

"Yes." said Sonic "Is that surprising like?"

"It's an absolute honour to meet you in person Sonic." said Silver, bowing down respectfully to Sonic as if he was a loyal knave bowing to his king "I've heard many legends about you and I've dreamed of meeting you."

"Huh, even in the future I have fans!" chuckled Sonic "Guess the hedgehog's legacy lives on!"

"Oh brother!" muttered Geoffrey, face-palming himself in annoyance.

"So I guess you're Blaze's friend then?" asked Sonic "Silver she says your name is."

"I am." said Silver "I'm Silver the Hedgehog, psychokinetic hedgehog from the future and friend of Blaze the Cat here."

"Psychoka-whatsit?" asked Mandy in confusion.

"I have psychic powers." said Silver plainly "Watch this."

He held his hands out and they glowed a teal colour. Then suddenly,

Sonic, Tails, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey all lifted up off the ground for a few feet as if they were being picked up by invisible hands.

"Cool!" cried Mandy in excitement "He can lift things without touching them!"

"You don't see many psychic beings around do you?" asked Wilson.

Silver then lowered his arms and he put the Mobians back down on the ground. Sonic gave him a thumbs up sign.

"Suh-weet!" he said "Psychic powers aren't very common these days. What other powers do Mobians from the future have?"

"Not many I'm afraid." said Silver solemnly, his quills drooping against his head in despair "Me and Blaze are the only super-powered Mobians left."

"Oh." said Sonic "So what's the future like then?"

"A wreck." sighed Blaze sadly "Everything's destroyed. Cities are in turmoil, few oceans exist and all plant life is dead. Angel Island rests in the ocean, few Mobians still live and the sky forever burns red and orange."

Everybody jaw-dropped at Silver and Blaze and they looked at each other nervously. The future's a wreck? Does that mean in two-hundred years, something wrecks Mobius? What could possibly be the cause of it?

"So the future's a wreck?" asked Sonic "What happened?"

"We don't know." said Silver "But I'm gonna find out and prevent the destruction from ever happening!"

"Well let's hope you do." said Wilson "I don't feel good knowing that Mobius is in turmoil in the future."

"That's not important right now mates." said Geoffrey "You two, do you mind tellin' us what a Sol Emerald is and why they're important to you?"

"A Sol Emerald is the future version of the Chaos Emeralds which I'm sure you all know about." explained Blaze "My mother was a fire queen before she passed away and left me to take the throne. She owned the seven Chaos Emeralds but the fiery powers in her heart and soul transformed them after she touched them. The Chaos Emeralds became cursed with the Spirit of the Pyro that lived in my mother and they were transformed forever. They even changed shape for unknown reasons. From then on, mother called them the Sol Emeralds and made it her solemn vow that she would pass the emeralds on to the next of her kin and then they would be passed on to her children's children and so forth. I am the current guardian now and I cannot dishonour my mother's vow by losing the Sol Emeralds now so I HAVE to find them before they end up destroying Mobius NOW and we'll cease to exist because of it."

"Well if you need to find your emeralds so badly then we'll help you without a moment's hesitance." said Sonic happily "The hedgehog helps people of all kinds, even the future kind."

"Um Sonic, are you sure yer willing to trust these two?" asked Geoffrey unsurely "Especially with how Blaze greeted us?"

"Oh Geoffrey, lighten up old boy!" groaned Sonic "These two are on our side, they want to make sure our world's future doesn't die and they don't want any evil-doers to get the Sol Emeralds as they can be dangerous in their hands so whether you like it or not, we're helping them!"

""Just don't expect me to get on with cat woman there!" grumbled Mandy crossly, still feeling sore over what Blaze did earlier.

"I'm not expecting you to." said Sonic "OK Silver and Blaze, Tails here has a tracker and it has the hiding places of your Sol Emeralds. If you follow our lead, you'll find them all no problem."

"With all the stuff legend says about you Sonic, I'm willing to trust you all the way." said Silver eagerly "You've already found one for us so I'm willing to trust you to help us find the rest."

"Very nice." said Sonic "OK guys and girls, let's do it to it! We've got our future kind to help!"

So the Mobians stopped standing around and they carried on with their search. Tails went in front and he glanced at the tracker. Sonic and Silver walked behind him, Geoffrey and Wilson walked behind them, Mandy and Blaze walked behind them (with their arms folded and gazes kept away from each other) and Cosmo followed them all from behind. With the picked up coordinates and Tails' tracker, the Sol Emeralds were as good as found…if only there weren't two different villains looking for them too!

Meanwhile, Scourge, Fiona and Ginger had been on the lookout for the other Sol Emeralds but as bad luck would have it, they hadn't stumbled across a single thing yet. They had been searching frantically only to find absolutely nothing. Unfortunately for Scourge, whiny little Ginger was beginning to get grouchy.

"Scourge, we've been searching this stupid forest for hours!" he whined "How about resting the legs?"

"We've been searching for ten minutes!" grumbled Scourge "And we will not rest until we found those damn emeralds so shut up unless you wanna say something helpful you mud eater!"

"I do not eat mud!" screamed Ginger.

"Shut up for god's sake!" bellowed Scourge, clamping Ginger's mouth shut hastily "Do you WANT Marik or Sonic to find us? No! So shut up before I rip your liver out and stuff it back down your throat!"

Ginger gulped nervously and kept his mouth shut. Angering Scourge was never a wise idea.

"Hey Scourge, I can see something in that lake over there." said Fiona, pointing to a lake they had come across on their search.

This was the Lake of Rings, a magical lake that produced magic power rings every twenty-four hours. In the lake, the blue Sol Emerald, the coldest of the Sol Emeralds was floating in it. Scourge, Fiona and Ginger ran over to the edge of the lake and stared at the floating Sol Emerald. The emerald was too far out in the water for them to reach so they couldn't grab it.

"I bet that's the Sol Emerald things that couple was talking about earlier." said Scourge "We've found one at last."

"Pity it's too far out into the lake." said Fiona grimly "We can't get the emerald."

"OK then, Ginger, you get in that lake and get that Sol Emerald." ordered Scourge.

"Me?" squeaked Ginger "But I cannot swim Scourge! I'll drown if I go in there!"

"Well I can't swim either so I can't get it." said Scourge crossly "Fiona, you get it."

"OK Scourge." said Fiona, sticking her nose in the air and giving a smug expression to Ginger, making him cross.

Fiona dived gracefully into the lake and went down for a little bit before coming back up for air. She then proceeded to swim over to where the Sol Emerald was. She effortlessly managed to push herself through the water with every paddle of her arms. At last, she managed to reach the emerald and she grabbed it quickly. She then proceeded to throw the emerald onto the bank nearest to her and she swam back to shore. Scourge zipped over and picked up the Sol Emerald. Fiona reached the bank and Scourge helped her to climb out of the water. Fiona then proceeded to shake herself dry, making sure all the water went over Ginger and not Scourge, and she flattened down her ruffled up fur. As for Scourge, he was staring at the Sol Emerald and he was amazed by it.

"Look at this beauty we've fished outta the lake!" cried Scourge "It feels like a Chaos Emerald but it has a fiery tone to it. I can't wait to see what this baby does!"

But before Scourge could do anything else, he was stricken from behind by a sudden jolt of electricity. Scourge yelped in pain as electricity surged up his body and he dropped the Sol Emerald. The thing stopped zapping him and Scourge fell down onto his knees.

The thing that had zapped him was of course, Marik the Martian and he leaped out of his hiding place and booted Scourge straight into the lake. Scourge shot straight into the lake with a splash and he sank straight down. He wasn't down for long, he popped back up to the surface and flailed his arms around madly.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha! Have a nice "dip" Scourge!" cackled Marik "And thanks so much for finding this Sol Emerald for me!" he added, picking up the Sol Emerald that Scourge had found.

He opened up his jacket and stuffed the emerald into another pocket on the other side of his jacket. Ginger flew over to the Lake of Rings where Scourge was furiously flailing his arms and trying to swim without success as like Sonic, he couldn't swim. Ginger hovered down and attempted to grab Scourge but Marik zapped him and made him fall into the lake as well. Ginger landed beside Scourge and splashed water all over him. Scourge and Ginger were not flailing about madly, trying to keep their heads above water and not drown. Marik just laughed at the two drowning villains.

"Bwah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" he guffawed "Oh what joy it is to watch a loathsome rival of mine paddle pitifully in a failed attempt to escape a watery grave! Well, maybe I can make it even WORSE for them by electrocuting the water!"

He pointed his metal claws at the lake and prepared to zap the water. The result would be an outrageous nature death toll. Scourge, Ginger and everything that lived in the lake would be killed by the electrical surge Marik produced and the lake would look more like a graveyard once Marik did that. Before he could do so, Fiona ran up behind him and booted him straight into the water. Marik tumbled into the water with a splash and he sank down briefly before coming back up. Fiona then proceeded to leap back into the water and swim over to Scourge and Ginger. She grabbed Scourge's hand, Ginger grabbed Scourge's hand and Fiona swam back to shore, towing the two villains with her. Fiona made it to the shore and she pushed Scourge to the shore so he could climb out. Fiona then climbed out after him with Ginger holding on to her. The trio shook themselves dry and they ran for it as the lake wasn't a safe location for a fight. Marik growled angrily and he climbed out of the water. He ran after them with his jet shoes blazing and rocketing him towards Scourge. The Martian effortlessly caught up with Scourge and he leaped up into the air. He stretched out his foot and he dropkicked him straight into the ground as he sailed past him. Marik landed on his feet and he faced Scourge with a dark expression on his face. It was quite clear he wasn't happy to see the evil green hedgehog again. Scourge picked himself up and he raised his fist. The expression he had could give a dragon nightmares for life.

"You!" snarled Scourge.

"You!" snarled Marik "I was hoping I'd meet you again soon Scourge the Scoundrel Hog! My mind still heaves over all the bad things you did to me in prison and I want to rip your innards out for it!"

"And I wanna stomp on you until we can use you as a doormat to wipe my feet on!" yelled Scourge "I have a score to settle with you Marik! You tried to ruin my reputation and you wouldn't do as instructed when I gave you some orders!"

"Nobody orders me around except my superiors back on Mars!" bellowed Marik "Your laws and rules bear no hold over me as I do not hail from this accursed planet!"

"Oh yeah?" snapped Scourge "Well if you're on our planet then you obey OUR rules, or should I say MY rules as I'm going to be king of the world when I use all the Sol Emeralds on it!"

"If I were to guess, you eavesdropped on that same odd hedgehog and cat couple I eavesdropped on and found out about their so-called Sol Emeralds." sniffed Marik "I cannot believe we were in the same place at once and we missed each other. Well now we've met each other again, I can tear you apart!"

"Pry I don't tear you apart first!" roared Scourge.

Marik and Scourge charged towards each other like mad bulls and they linked arms with one another. They clenched each other's hands and they pushed on each other. Marik however, decided to kick Scourge in the groin to make him cave in first and he did just that. Scourge yelped in pain and he clutched his tender spot. This gave Marik the perfect opportunity to backhand him in the head and knock him onto his side. Fiona and Ginger were about to step in and help Scourge but the green hedgehog stopped them.

"Don't you dare interfere foxes!" yelled Scourge angrily "Marik's mine and I will finish him myself!"

Fiona and Ginger didn't dare to answer back to him. They stepped back and left Scourge and Marik to unleash their masculinity on each other. Scourge spin-dashed Marik straight in the gut and sent him flying backwards. The Martian crashed straight into a tree. Marik lay by the foot of the tree and he grumbled furiously. Scourge tried to spin-dash Marik again but Marik dodged the attack and elbowed him directly in the neck. Scourge gagged and he fell onto his side. Marik then proceeded to kick Scourge and send him rolling across the ground. Scourge picked himself up and charged towards Marik. Marik charged towards them and they collided in mid-air. They landed back down on the ground and prepared to unleash hell on each other…

Meanwhile, Sonic and friends were still searching for the Sol Emeralds. They hadn't found anything yet and Tails noticed something peculiar on the tracker. He peered at it and wondered what was going on. The line halted since Tails had stopped to see what was going on, on his tracker. Sonic tried to peer over Tails' shoulder and see what was happening.

"Yo Tails, is everything OK?" he asked.

"I'm fine Sonic it's just my tracker's displaying something odd." said Tails "There's two dots close together, the dots representing the Sol Emeralds, and they're moving around like crazy."

"Has somebody found two Sol Emeralds before we did?" asked Silver "And if so, who has?"

"Beats me." said Sonic "I wonder why they're moving around like crazy. Has the person who's found them decided to do some exercise or is he in battle with somebody or…what?"

"Well when we find this person, we'll find out what is happening." said Blaze "But that'll have to wait, my Sol Emerald senses another gem nearby."

"I think it's right to get that feeling." said Tails "There's another Sol Emerald near from where we are." said Tails, peering at the tracker and ignoring the two moving dots "We may as well get that one while we're near."

"And when we get that one, we'll find the person who's found those two." said Silver "I hope it's a friendly person like you guys."

"I hope so too." said Sonic "Although I have a bad feeling it might be an enemy of mine…"

Unbeknown to the Mobians, up in a tree above their heads, the mysterious mouse bot that had stolen the Sol Emeralds was watching them from above and it was displaying some words in it's visor. It scanned Sonic the Hedgehog and it's visor displayed it's readings.

ANALYSIS: BEARS HEAVY RESEMBLANCE TO SONIC THE HEDGEHOG NEGA

PRIORITIZING: CONSIDERED DANGEROUS. MAY BECOME THREAT TO MASTER'S RULE. COMMENCE ATTACK MODE

With that analysis, the mouse-bot leaped down from the tree it was perched on and it headed towards Sonic the Hedgehog with it's claws opened and ready to grab him. Sonic heard it coming and he turned around and spotted it. He was too late to react and the mouse-bot knocked him down onto the ground. The mouse-bot pinned him down and tired to slice him apart with it's claws but Sonic kept the robo-mouse's arms away from him. Silver the Hedgehog, future resident of Mobius, thrust his arms forward and halted the robo-mouse with his psychic powers. He lifted the bot off Sonic and hurled it into a tree. The mouse-bot crashed head first into the tree and lay on the ground, wondering which way was up and what it had just crashed into. The mouse-bot picked itself up and it glared at the Mobians that stood before it. Everybody stood around the mouse-bot and they stared at it in wonder.

"What in the name of Mobotropolis is that?" cried Wilson the Dog, master of the spinning blade weapon.

"It looks like a Robian mouse." said his girlfriend, Mandy Mouse "But it doesn't look like it belongs to Dr. Eggman."

"It doesn't." said Sonic bluntly "All of Mobius was de-roboticized*, the Robians are extinct and the Mobians are here to stay so that is NOT Dr. Eggman's Robian there."

"That's the thing that stole the Sol Emeralds in the first place." said Blaze the Cat coldly "It's because of that thing we're here to find them again! I'll tear it apart!"

"Wait luv." said Geoffrey St. John hastily "Before you do that, let's see what we can find out about this thing. Maybe we can find out why it stole yer emeralds in the first place."

"It doesn't speak." said Silver "It can't tell us anything."

"In that case, let's smash the blighter." said Geoffrey, priming his trademark arm-mounted crossbow.

Before anyone could do anything, the mouse-bot fired some stasis beams at the Mobians and they were all suddenly frozen to the spot by the beams. Everyone but Sonic the Hedgehog that is as he jumped out of the way before he could get it. The mouse-bot clawed at him but Sonic dodged the attack and spin-dashed it directly in the gut. The mouse-bot landed with a clunk at the foot of a tree. The mouse-bot picked itself up and it extended it's already long tail. It then proceeded to try and whip Sonic with it but Sonic jumped over the tail-whip and he spin-dashed the mouse-bot again. The mouse-bot was sent hurling into another tree and that move shook it dearly. The mouse-bot looked like it was having great trouble standing up. Sonic stood before the mouse-bot and he folded his arms while glaring at it.

"OK silver streak, care to explain yourself or do I get to beat the tar outta ya some more?" asked Sonic sternly.

The mouse-bot just retaliated with an uppercut to the chin that sent Sonic hurling through the air and landing on his back. The mouse-bot was about to grab Sonic and kill him but the stasis beams wore off and Sonic's friends were able to move again. His best friend Tails the twin-tailed fox twisted his tails around one another and he flew towards the mouse-bot. He kicked it in the head and knocked it away from Sonic. The mouse-bot picked itself up and tried to attack again but Blaze engulfed it in a jet of fire. The mouse-bot began to panic as it was overwhelmed with blazing, searing heat. The mouse-bot leaped out of Blaze's fiery attack and it scampered away.

"It's fleeing for it's life!" cried Silver "Don't let it escape!"

Sonic picked himself up and he zoomed after the mouse-bot at his trademark speed. Silver and Blaze were well impressed by the hedgehog's speed. Legend had said he could run fast, but they had no idea on HOW fast he could run and seeing him move at supersonic speed for real was just amazing to them.

"No wonder they called him "Sonic"!" said Silver in astonishment "He really can run fast!"

"He makes me look slow." said Blaze "And I'm a pretty fast mover myself."

Sonic chased after the mouse-bot and he had almost caught up to it. But the mouse-bot had other ideas. It was going to use it's escape route. It summoned a black warp ring out from nowhere and it leaped straight through it. Sonic was not about to let it get away so he leaped through the warp ring after the mouse-bot just as the tip of it's tail disappeared into the ring. Sonic's friends ran as fast as they could after Sonic and they tried to catch the warp ring but they were too late the minute Sonic leaped through it. It disappeared into thin air before they could get within ten feet of it. Sonic and the mouse-bot were now on their way to another zone through a black warp ring. Silver cursed his bad luck and Blaze clenched her fists angrily. She wanted to destroy that thing for stealing the Sol Emeralds in the first place but she missed her chance. Now it had escaped and was going to another zone.

"Damn! We were too slow!" griped Silver "That thing's gone and fled to who-knows-where and Sonic's followed it so who knows where he's gonna end up too!"

"Can't we follow him?" asked Tails "Do you have any method of space travel or something?"

"I have a Super Warp Ring back home and I don't have it on me right now." muttered Silver.

"The Sol Emeralds are capable of transportation abilities too." said Blaze "But I need all seven in order for them to work."

"So the only way we can follow Sonic to wherever that thing's taking him is find all the Sol Emeralds?" asked Cosmo.

"Yes." said Blaze "We must find them all if we're to help Sonic get back to this zone and timeline."

"Well then let's stop yapping about and get on with it!" yelled Geoffrey impatiently "Sonic can't wait forever ya know!"

"OK Mr. St. John, we will." said Tails, peering at his handheld tracker "Now, there appears to be one a good few paces from where we are now." he said as he noticed a dot quite close to their current position "Let's get that one."

"And there was one near to where we were before that mouse-bot attacked us so we should get that one too." said Mandy.

"Me and Blaze will get it while you get the other one." said Silver "Tails, care to give us directions?"

"It was a few paces away from the tree the mouse-bot was on." said Tails, peering at the tracker and reading the coordinates "Keep searching until you find it."

With that said, Silver and Blaze ran back over to the tree the mouse-bot had been sitting on before it attacked Sonic. Tails, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey just continued on to where the other located emerald was hiding. As they walked on to find the Sol Emerald, Tails couldn't help but wonder to himself where Sonic was going to end up and what was going to happen to him when he arrived there…

As for Sonic, the mouse-bot's warp ring opened up and the mouse-bot leaped straight out of it. Sonic came hurling out of the warp ring and he landed rather sharply on his side. He ended up grazing his shoulder and he grimaced in pain. The mouse-bot scampered away quickly before Sonic could get back up. Sonic's mind had been completely messed up by the warp ring's awful portal tunnel and he was having trouble regaining his senses. His mind was still swimming around him with black and red images flashing before him.

Urgh! God! That was horrible!" he spluttered "What kind of warp ring does this guy use? Koff, Koff!"

He shook his head furiously to regain his senses and he steadily picked himself up. His knees were still knocking and his head hadn't been quite cleared yet. He clutched his throbbing arm and rubbed it tenderly.

"Never again do I wanna go through that thing!" said Sonic hoarsely "That thing could make a guy sick that…could…"

His voice trailed off as he finally regained his senses and he managed to get a view on the scenery around him. He was in a city much like Mobotropolis before Dr. Eggman reduced it to a nasty stain on the face of the planet only it looked completely metallic and silver in colour. In fact, everything was metallic in appearance and the population appeared to be full of robots. There were robots marching left and right, robots hovering in hover cars and robots flying over in planes and jets. The buildings and robots looked pretty dark and evil in appearance, giving Sonic the feeling he wasn't an a friendly environment. The sky was a dark, brooding mixture of black and purple and the appearance of the city looked more like an evil metropolis then a nice, welcoming city. Sonic had a feeling he was in villainous territory right now and now would be a good time to leg it and quick before someone nabbed him.

"Where am I?" wondered Sonic as he surveyed the scenery around him "It looks like Mobotropolis only dark and evil…and conquered. It looks like the whole place was roboticized or something like that. Silver and Blaze didn't describe their world looking like this so at least this isn't future Mobius or something like that. Is this…another zone altogether?"

He didn't have time to wonder though. He was going to get spotted any minute by the zillions of robots that were moving in and out of the city so he had to get out of the way and fast. Sonic zipped off down an alleyway and he stopped at the end of it. Nobody would see him now. He sat down against the wall and thought hard to himself. All he had to do now was lay low and try to think of a way to get back home. He was not going to stay here a second longer. The robots of this zone would likely rip him to shreds. Yet the very appearance of the city he was faced with bugged him and he couldn't help but wonder about it.

"Judging by the appearance of that mouse-bot I followed and the appearances of the robots out and about I'd guess this is where the mouse-bot lives." Sonic deduced "I wonder what is this world though and why it looks so evil and robotical? Does this Mobius have an Eggman too and it's conquered the world unlike the Eggman of this zone? I really hope there's some one I can get some answers from around here."

"Hey! Psst! You there!" hissed a female voice that Sonic was familiar with "Get over here now!"

Sonic turned his head and looked down the alleyway on the left of where he was. There was a shadowy figure hiding in the darkness of the shadows. Sonic couldn't make out the figure but it looked slightly feminine in appearance. Not to mention the voice sounded familiar to him.

"Who me?" asked Sonic, pointing to himself.

"Yes you!" hissed the figure "Come on before you get spotted!"

Sonic didn't really know if he should do as the figure says but being as he was trapped on a strange world with no way out, he had to trust the figure and see what happened. Sonic got up to his feet and he wondered cautiously over to the figure. The moment he stepped into the shadows, the figure grabbed his hand and yanked him down the alleyway. Then the figure came across a sewer lid in the ground behind a building the alleyway stretched behind and she opened the lid quickly. She yanked him down the sewer hole, the lid clanging shut behind them. Sonic and the figure all slid down a slide that the sewer lid led to and they slid down into a room that the slide led to. They shot off the end of the slide and they landed on a soft mattress that was conveniently placed for them to have a soft landing. Sonic and the figure picked themselves up and he dusted himself off.

"Sheesh, if you wanted me to come with you, you could have just asked!" griped Sonic "I like to be prepared for…"

His voiced trailed off as he saw what the figure looked like. The lights were on so now he could see what she looked like. To his amazement, the figure was none-other then an alternative version of Amy Rose, his fan-crazed hammer hitter! Unlike the prime Amy Rose, this Amy wore a black leather long sleeved shirt that revealed her belly and she wore leather trousers with a big buckled belt wrapped around her waist. She wore black leather boots too. Her quills were much longer then prime Amy and she had no bangs and no hair band behind her ears. She looked a hell of a lot sexier then prime Amy, much to Sonic's delight (hee, hee, hee!) and her fur was a slighter darker pink then prime Amy. Sonic wolf-whistled at her.

"If only Amy looked like this in my zone!" he blurted without knowing about it.

As for the alter Amy, she looked surprised to see Sonic the Hedgehog standing before her as if she'd never met him before. Then suddenly, without warning, she threw her arms around Sonic and grasped him in a tight hug. Sonic gasped in surprise but he didn't fight the bug strangely enough. He was just enjoying the feeling of being hugged by a sexier alternate version of Amy Rose.

"Oh my gosh! Sonia Nega, I can't believe it's you!" cried the alter Amy, crying with happy tears "We all thought you were dead but you're alive! What a miracle it is!"

"Wha what?" blurted Sonic "Look miss, I have no idea what's going on but you've got the wrong hedgehog."

"I…I have?" said the alter Amy, looking directly into Sonic's eyes and looking disappointed.

"Yeah, my name is not Sonic Nega or something like that." said Sonic "It's just Sonic the Hedgehog and I don't live in this zone. I come from a planet called Mobius in the prime zone."

"A Prime Zoner?" said the alter Amy sadly "Name doesn't end in Nega? Oh gosh, it isn't you then Sonic Nega. I'm so sorry for that sir,

I thought you were Sonic Nega."

She broke up the hug and turned her back on Sonic with embarrassment. Sonic could tell that this alter Amy had problems of some kind so he decided to see what was wrong.

"You OK miss?" asked Sonic.

"I'm fine Prime Zoner, really." insisted the alter Amy "I'm just embarrassed I got you mixed up for my Sonic. You and Sonic Nega look incredibly alike. In fact, you're practically twins."

"So I guess I have an alternate counterpart on this world." said Sonic "Care to clear all this up to me as I have no idea where I am?"

"Certainly Sonic Prime." said the alter Amy "My name is Amy Rose Nega and this is Mobius Nega, the closest planet in the multi-verse to matching Mobius Prime in looks and reputation. Everybody's last name is Nega and we have all the strengths and weaknesses of our prime zone counterparts with some slight alterations."

"Mobius Nega eh?" said Sonic "That doesn't sound bad. Nice name really. So what happened to Sonic Nega then? When you hugged me, you said something about thinking he was dead."

"He is." said Amy Nega sadly, looking down at her feet "Last month, Sonic Nega tried to stop Dr. Eggman Nega from conquering Mobius and the resulting mission ended with Eggman Nega's headquarters exploding and Eggman Nega was the only one who made it out alive. Sonic Nega…perished in the explosion and Eggman Nega conquered the world. We've been suffering at his hands for weeks on end. Everything has been metallized and everything is under Eggman Nega's control. Me and my team are the only Mobians left and we're the only ones who can stand against his tyranny now."

"Since I have an Eggman in my zone, I'm guessing Dr. Eggman Nega is pretty much like prime Eggman." said Sonic "Only he "metallizes" things instead of "roboticizing" them. What's metallizing like?"

"A metallizer is like a roboticizer from the prime zone only it fires beams that turned everything into metal life forms." said Amy Nega "Metal life forms are pretty much organic beings with metal skin and robot-like personalities and abilities. Eggman Nega has metallized everything except us. Even the forests are metal!"

"I guess that explains the mouse-bot that invaded my zone." muttered Sonic "It works for Eggman Nega I bet. But why did it come to Mobius Prime? And why did it go to the future to steal some emeralds I wonder?"

"Beg pardon?" asked Amy Nega "One of Eggman Nega's cronies invaded your zone?"

"Correct." said Sonic "Two Mobians from my zone's future met a mouse-bot and it stole their Sol Emeralds. They caused it to lose them and they ended up in my present timeline and it tried to get us but I chased it back to this zone and that's how I got here."

"Hmm…" said Amy Nega "Maybe it thought those "Sol Emeralds" were Chaos Emeralds and it's trying to get them for Eggman Nega. My best spy Tails Nega claims that Eggman Nega's plotting to get Chaos Emeralds from other versions of Mobius so he can make himself even more powerful and he'll rule the entire multi-verse. Maybe that's why it invaded future Mobius Prime."

"Maybe." thought Sonic "Anyways, do you have a way of getting me back home at all?"

"Sure." said Amy Nega "I have a Super Warp Ring. It was a birthday present from Sonic Nega before he…ahem…died. Why? Do you wanna just leave and go home?"

"I do." said Sonic "But I'm gonna help you and your aforementioned team save your world from Eggman Nega's territory. I maybe the hero of Mobius but I'm willing to become the hero of another Mobius. I'll help you save your world in Sonic Nega's name. I've had plenty of practice with Dr. Eggman so I'll be able to stop Eggman Nega easily."

Amy Nega stared at Sonic as if he'd just suddenly descended from heaven.

"You…you will?" gasped Amy Nega, putting her hands to her chest "You're gonna…save our world?"

"You betcha." said Sonic, putting an arm around Amy Nega sneakily "I believe in freedom for all beings everywhere, even in other zones. I'm gonna make sure that your world is free from Dr. Eggman Nega's tyranny."

Amy Nega's response was to throw her arms around Sonic and hug him again.

"Oh thank you! Thank you so much!" cried Amy Nega happily "I can't believe you're willing to risk your life just to save an alternate version of your own world! How can I ever repay you for this unbelievable kindness?"

"No need to repay me." said Sonic "Heroism and freedom is what this hedgehog fights for. Now, may I meet your team?"

"Of course." said Amy Nega happily "They'll love to meet you! They're missing Sonic Nega as much as I am!"

With that said, Amy Nega hurriedly dragged Sonic down the corridor and headed to another room in this large, dark, damp sewer. Sonic had no idea what Eggman Nega was going to be like but he had a feeling he was going to enjoy kicking his backside much like he enjoyed kicking Dr. Eggman's backside back in the Prime Zone…

Back in the prime zone, two of Sonic's deadliest enemies were still kicking the tar out of each other. These two were Sonic's evil brother Scourge the Hedgehog and Sonic's other-worldly foe Marik the Martian. They hated each other as much as they hated Sonic the Hedgehog and Scourge wasn't pleased Marik was interfering with his Sol Emerald hunt so he and Marik were fighting for them. Marik already had two Sol Emeralds, one of which he stole from Scourge and Scourge wanted them both desperately. As of now though, Marik was absolutely kicking Scourge's backside. Marik had been doing plenty of exercise whenever he was absent from conflicts with Sonic whereas Scourge, not so much so Marik was on par with Scourge strength wise but not quite Shadow the Hedgehog's strength yet. Scourge tried to roundhouse kick Marik in the head but he missed and Marik grabbed his leg. He threw his leg up and knocked him onto his side. Scourge picked himself up and he spin-dashed at Marik but Marik ducked and Scourge ended up spin-dashing a tree in two. The tree began to fall down and almost land right on top of Marik but Marik dodged the falling tree and left it to crash onto the ground. Scourge then picked the opportunity to spin-dash Marik directly in the back and knock him down onto his face. Marik picked himself up only to get a punch to the face from Scourge. Marik staggered backwards, clutching his face and he grumbled to himself. Scourge then tried to homing attack Marik but Marik did a back flip and he kicked Scourge away as his legs swung up and over. Scourge landed on his feet and he zoomed off in an attempt to get Marik to chase him and hopefully, wear him down. But Marik's jet shoes didn't require for him to run. All he had to do was activate them and he slid along the ground with them so he wouldn't get tired by using them anyway. Scourge and Marik ran around the perimeter while hitting each other over and over. The suddenly, Marik leaped into the air just as Scourge jumped over the fallen tree and Marik dropkicked him straight down into the ground where he got a face full of dirt.

"Ha, ha, ha! At last! Eat dirt you mongrel!" cackled Marik as he landed back down on his feet.

Scourge's wormy little sidekick Ginger the Fox decided enough was enough and he was going to help Scourge in this fight. Ginger ran over to Marik and grabbed him by his arm. Marik shot the lame fox a death glare that could mentally scar anyone for life, even the bravest of hearts.

"Stop! Enough! Quit beating up my friend or I shall have to castigate you very badly!" threatened Ginger.

"You want a piece of this too dork?" snarled Marik "Here you go!"

He grabbed Ginger by his arms and threw him straight over his shoulder and onto his back. The opinionated jerk picked himself and pulled a pathetic looking angry face at Scourge. The face looked more funny then serious.

"Big mistake!" growled Ginger.

Ginger ran towards Marik while crying an hilarious sounding battle cry (seriously, with his dopey voice, how can he possibly sound intimidating?). Marik just yawned as if he'd never seen something so boring and he backhanded him straight into a tree face-first. Ginger picked himself up and he charged at Marik again but Marik bent over backwards and swung his foot up, sending Ginger hurling over himself and onto the ground face-first. Ginger pounded the ground in fury and he tried to tail-whip Marik as he leaped up and swung his tails at him but Marik just caught his tails and slammed Ginger onto the ground while holding them. He then swung Ginger over onto his back, then onto his front and then onto his back again. Scourge got back to his feet and realized that Ginger was doing his work for him so he tried to attack Marik again but Marik swung Ginger directly into Scourge. The two villains ended up rolling over the ground on top of each other and Scourge kicked Ginger off of himself.

"You stupid kid!" snarled Scourge "What did I tell you? This is MY fight and I'll win it MYSELF! You can't even beat a stupid little lady-in-waiting so you have no chance against Marik Ginger so unless you want to die, STAY OUT OF THIS!"

"Yes Scourge." said Ginger weakly.

Then suddenly, Marik leaped in-between them and did a split-kick that knocked them both onto their sides. Marik then grabbed Ginger by the throat and pinned him against a tree, his metal claws squeezing tightly around his throat. Ginger gagged hoarsely and he squirmed in Marik's tough grasp. Scourge tried to help Ginger but Marik knocked him away with an energy wave. Marik then glared straight into Ginger's hazel eyes.

"If there's anything I despise more then obnoxious supersonic hedgehogs, it's grubby little worms who interfere with people's battles!" growled Marik "And just for that, you will now end up finding out what your internal organs look like!"

"No! Not the innards! Anything but the innards!" squeaked Ginger desperately as Marik put his organic hand around his throat and drew his metal hand back, ready to plunge his claws into Ginger's body and rip his organs out.

Before Marik could kill Ginger though, Fiona Fox stepped in and kicked Marik away from him. Marik ended up skidding painfully across his side and he groaned in pain as pain seared up his arm.

"Oh thank you for saving my life Fiona!" cried Ginger happily.

"I didn't do it to save you worm!" snapped Fiona "I did it for Scourge and to prove I'm more capable then you are!"

Ginger scowled at Fiona and he folded his arms, pouting like a little baby. Fiona then proceeded to charge towards Marik and leap towards him with her foot stretched out so she could kick Marik. The Martian however picked himself up and swatted Fiona away before she could land foot first on his face. Fiona landed on the ground and she was about to pick herself up but Marik aimed a metal finger at her an zapped her back down onto her stomach. Fiona grunted in pain and Marik kicked her as hard as he could. Marik scowled angrily at her.

"I bet Scourge is here hoping he can beat me up to avenge his little girlfriend who came crying to him because I zapped you into submission!" growled Marik "Well I can't stand wimpy little cowards who go crying to their loved ones just because they got their backsides handed to them so I'll make sure you snap like a twig Fiona!"

He pointed his metal claws at Fiona and prepared to zap her again but Scourge spin-dashed Marik in the back and knocked him straight over onto his face. Marik picked himself up but Fiona roundhouse kicked him in the back and knocked him over again. Scourge then proceeded to kick Marik as hard as he could, sending the Martian rolling across the ground for a moment. Marik leaped back onto his feet and he dropkicked Scourge in the face and hit Fiona with an energy wave both at the same time, knocking them both other onto their backs. Marik however, forced Scourge back onto his feet and began to roundhouse punch him repeatedly in the face, his punches getting harder and harder with every punch he threw. Scourge gasped and cried out in pain as he was punched and Marik punched him so hard he actually spat out some drops of blood! Scourge coughed hoarsely and Marik then proceeded to uppercut Scourge into the air and send him flying straight into a tree. Fiona elbowed Marik directly in the back and then she swept him off his feet with one hefty whip of the tail. Ginger, foolishly trying to get involved, flew towards Marik and attempted to grab him but Marik zapped Ginger out of the sky and he leaped back onto his feet. He gave Fiona a left hook that caused her to spit out a tooth and cough heavily and then he gave her a right hook that just about knocked her out. Fiona staggered and almost fell down but amazingly, she managed to stay standing and she gut-punched Marik before he could punch her again. Marik retaliated with a kick to the groin that made Fiona gasp in pain and clutch her tender spot. Marik then proceeded to put his hand on Fiona's shoulder, drag her forward and then knee her in the gut as hard as he could. Fiona gasped hoarsely and Marik then decided to add insult to injury by slashing her across the belly. Four fresh cuts stretched across Fiona's bare belly and quite frankly, ruined her appearance. Fiona looked down at her belly and couldn't believe the cuts Marik had given her. Marik then decided to uppercut Fiona into the air and send her crashing down near a tree where all she could do was sit there and grunt heavily as if she was dying right now. Ginger was furious with the fact Marik was beating up his friends and he foolishly tried to attack Marik again. He swiped his twin-tails at Marik but Marik caught them and pulled on them, pulling Ginger towards him. Marik elbow-thrusted Ginger in the back and made him wheeze and then he backhanded him in the back of his head. Ginger fell onto his knees and coughed heavily. Marik then booted Ginger in the backside and sent him skidding across the ground, making a mound of dirt that covered his face. Ginger groaned in pain and Marik smirked at him.

"Oh how the mighty have fallen Scourge!" he crowed "You went from powerful, brutish inmates to siding with a pair of foxes who quite frankly, have no battle skills whatsoever! You should be ashamed you ever teamed up with them vermin-hog!"

"SHUT UP MARIK!" roared Scourge, spin-dashing angrily towards Marik.

Marik just smirked at Scourge and he leaped up and kicked him down into the ground, causing him to churn his way through the soil.

Scourge lay there, grumbling to himself and muttering dirt words that cannot be mentioned (like you really care!). Marik stomped on Scourge's back as hard as he could and then he grabbed Scourge by his quills. He lifted Scourge up to his height and glowered into his eyes.

"Really? Shut up? Is that your best comeback?" sneered Marik "I've heard better comebacks from Cosmo the Seedrian and she's a bloody pacifist!"

"Are you going to beat the tar outta me or are you gonna just taunt me?" asked Scourge grumpily.

"I would do the first option but I think I've had enough of making you suffer." said Marik casually "Besides, now you know you can't beat me, you'll think twice before daring to take me on won't you?"

Scourge didn't answer Marik, prompting the Martian to just throw him on the ground and stand before him with his arms folded.

"You remember when we first met I proposed an alliance Scourge?" asked Marik.

"Yeah." said Scourge dryly "So what?"

"Well I'm willing to propose an alliance again." said Marik with an evil smirk on his face "Just think of the possibilities we have working together instead of fighting each other and getting nowhere. My strength combined with your powers and we're both intelligent and capable of fighting Sonic to a standstill. If we team up, Sonic has no chance against us!"

"But if we team up, you'll be wanting to share power with me and I wanna rule Mobius by myself!" yelled Scourge "I'm not sharing power with anybody!"

"I don't want power, I merely want destruction." said Marik casually "We could split the planet in half. On your half, you're king of the world and you do as you see fit whereas on my half, I get to blow up as much stuff as I possibly can. And the best part is, nobody will be able to stop us."

Scourge put a finger to his chin and he thought on this possibility. On the one hand, he hated Marik and would sooner kill him then join up with him. On the other hand, he wasn't going to get any Sol Emeralds if all he did was futilely fight with Marik and just get his butt kicked. Not to mention if he kept doing so, he wouldn't be ready to fight Sonic and he would end up getting incarcerated again. So an alliance seemed pretty good right now. Not to mention, he could stab Marik in the back later and take the emeralds and Mobius for himself. Scourge decided he would play along with this so he picked himself up and held his hand out for Marik to shake.

"Marik, I cannot believe I didn't say yes the first time." said Scourge "I accept your alliance."

"Good boy Scourge." said Marik, shaking Scourge's hand "I'm so glad you've decided to actually use that old rust bucket in your head you call a brain to good effect at long last. You will not regret this one little bit!"

"Yeah, yeah whatever." sighed Scourge "Just knock off the insults will ya?"

Marik just scowled at Scourge but he said nothing about it.

"So, we're now allies Scourge." said Marik "And I will not abide to any of you attempting to stab me in the back! If you do then I'll make sure your deaths go down in history as the grisliest deaths ever!"

"And we won't abide YOU stabbing US in the back either Marik!" snapped Fiona "You'd better not be making this alliance just so you can use us to help you find all the Sol Emeralds!"

"Trust me Fiona, I would never try something as predictable as that." sneered Marik "We Martians are more subtle then that. Anyways, since I have two Sol Emeralds, we'll be able to find the other ones easily."

He pulled the green Sol Emerald out from his jacket and showed it to Scourge, Fiona and Ginger.

"These things work like Chaos Emeralds." explained Marik "They glow brighter and brighter when you get near one and I should know, I've worked with Chaos Emeralds before*. Curiously enough, the Sol Emerald has a strange fiery tone to it, it gets warmer as you near another emerald as well as glows brighter."

"Not surprising really as "Sol" translates to the word "Sun" in many languages." said Fiona.

"Heh, so that means they're called "Sun Emeralds" if you translate it to English." said Scourge "Maybe that's where the fiery tone comes from. OK Marik, since you have the Sol Emeralds, you can lead us to the next emerald."

"Don't worry I will my green-furred ally." said Marik in a voice dripping with fake friendliness "The rest of the Sol Emeralds could be anywhere so don't get stroppy with me if we take a while."

With that said, the villains all wondered off in a random direction with Marik leading the group and holding out the Sol Emerald so he could find another one. One they found all six, they could bring great destruction to Mobius and they would be on top of the world at long last…

Back on Mobius Nega, Amy Nega took Sonic to see her team mates. They were all gathered around in a lonely little room further down the sewer that had been converted into a living room for them. There wasn't much in the room save for a ragged old sofa, a table that looked like it was about to become nothing but splinters, and a fridge that was covered in grease and dirt stains and didn't seem to be very functional. It was the only place of sanctuary the last Mobians of Mobius Nega had, even if it wasn't very glamorous. Amy Nega told Sonic to wait a moment while she went in and greeted everyone. She opened the door and let herself in. As expected, her team mates were all in the room waiting for her to return. Her team mates consisted of alternate versions of Tails the Fox, Scourge the Hedgehog, Miranda Mongoose, Geoffrey St. John and Bunnie Rabbot. Their names were obviously Tails Nega, Scourge Nega, Miranda Nega, Geoffrey Nega and Bunnie Nega respectively as everybody's last name was Nega on this alternate version of Mobius. Tails Nega looked pretty much like Prime Tails only he wore a black leather jacket and fingerless gloves. He was the brains of the team as well as Mobius Nega's greatest spy and he was the one who found out what Eggman Nega was planning to do next. Scourge Nega looked exactly the same as Prime Scourge only he wasn't evil, his voice was different and his leather jacket was white with blue flames on it. He didn't even have Scourge's trademark sunglasses. He was Sonic Nega's brother and he was as distraught over his death as anyone else was but he decided to carry on in his brother's name and fill the gap that was left in the team after his death. Miranda Nega had the same figure and age as Prime Miranda only she wore a purple jumpsuit and chrome earrings. She was the weapons expert and knew every weapon inside and out. Geoffrey Nega looked the same as Prime Geoffrey only he had his hair in a more suave style then the three haired style Prime Geoffrey had and he wore a vest and blue chunky boots. He still had an arm-mounted crossbow but unlike Prime Geoffrey, he had two. Geoffrey Nega was the strategist of the team and his strategic expertise was unmatched by any. Bunnie Nega looked pretty much the same as Bunnie Rabbot only she wore a purple sleeveless shirt and a pair of shorts. Her legs were organic but both her lower arms and hands were metal. She had been partially metallized much like how Prime Bunnie was partially roboticized. This in turn gave her greater strength then any individual, making her the strength of the team only she wasn't as brutish as other Mobians fuelled on strength. In all honesty, she was quite gentle when not in battle. Sonic poked his head slightly around the door and he saw Amy Nega's team mates. He thought they looked like a very impressive team for anyone to be in charge of. Everybody in the room leaped up onto their feet and they ran over to their team leader. They immediately began to bombard Amy Nega with welcome backs and questions.

"How did it go sugah?" asked Bunnie Nega.

"Did ya find out anything?" asked Geoffrey Nega.

"Is Eggman Nega plotting to do anything?" asked Scourge Nega.

"Is Eggman Nega even doing anything right now?" asked Miranda Nega.

"Guys, guys, easy there!" laughed Amy Nega, waving her arms hastily "Give me chance to breathe will you?"

The Mobians took a step back and gave Amy Nega some personal space. Now her team mates had calmed down, Amy Nega spoke.

"Eggman Nega seems quiet right now." she reported "He's not making any attempts to find us yet and his minions are just roaming around his city aimlessly. I guess he's too focused on his multi-verse Chaos Emerald hunt which Tails claims is his next plot."

"Well it's nice that Eggman Nega's giving us some privacy at last." said Geoffrey Nega grimly "But we can only hope that he'll lower his guard to the point we can just step in and overthrow him."

"Is that all you've got to tell us Amy?" asked Tails Nega.

"No actually little Tails." said Amy Nega "We've got a visitor from the Prime Zone who's decided to help us on our mission to purge the world from Eggman's tyranny."

She stood to the side and held out her hands in an "here he is" fashion and Sonic stepped into the room. He casually waved to everybody in the room.

"Hey there everybody." said Sonic.

The Freedom Fighters stared at Sonic in amazement. It was an amazing sight for them, seeing Sonic the Hedgehog standing before them being as the Sonic in their world was dead. It was almost like seeing Sonic Nega once again.

"Oh mah stars!" blurted Bunnie Nega "It's Sonic the Hedgehog! And from the Prime Zone no less!"

"He looks just like Sonic Nega." said Scourge Nega as he noted Sonic's appearance "The only difference really is the scent. Prime Zoners always smell different to the Mobians here."

"I can't believe we're actually looking at a Prime Zoner!" said

Miranda Nega in surprise "I never thought I'd see the day a Prime Zoner comes to our zone at last!"

"Um guys? Can we cut down on the fanfare?" asked Sonic "You're making me feel weird as I'm from another zone and I'm supposedly "dead" on this zone."

"Sorry Sonic Prime." said Tails Nega "We're just so happy to see someone with such a great resemblance to our great hero Sonic Nega right now. We greatly miss him so seeing someone with such a great resemblance makes us feel good again."

"I see." said Sonic "By the way, no need to introduce yourselves as you look like people I know back in my zone and I can pretty much gather your names as according to Amy Nega here, all your names end in Nega."

"Right mate." said Geoffrey Nega "You don't need to use our last names all the time just to let you know. You can just use our first names to save yourself having to call us things like "Tails Nega" or "Geoffrey Nega" over and over."

"Fair enough." said Sonic "So guys, do you wanna know how I got here?"

"We do." said Miranda Nega "How did a Prime Zone such as yourself get to our zone?"

"I didn't really come here." explained Sonic truthfully "I followed a mouse-bot here. The mouse-bot came to future Mobius and stole some emeralds and accidentally dropped them in present Mobius, my time zone, and I tried to catch it. It summoned a warp ring and went through it and I followed it straight to this zone. And now Amy's told me the story of your world, I've decided I will not leave until your planet is free from Eggman Nega and his metallizing madness."

"You…you wanna help us?" piped Bunnie Nega in surprise "Oh mah stars…ah don't know what to say about that!"

"I do!" cried Scourge Nega with great excitement evident in his voice "I say, Rock on bro! It'll be great having you on our side to fill in Sonic Nega's place as we fight for the people's freedom and make Dr. Eggman Nega suffer for all the ruination he's brought to Mobius Nega!"

"Thanks." said Sonic "If only the Scourge back home was like you are Scourge Nega."

"What do you mean?" asked Scourge Nega "Is my Prime counterpart lame or something?"

"No, he's evil and he's incredibly power hungry, selfish and greedy." explained Sonic "But don't worry, he doesn't know about Mobius Nega, much like how I didn't until now, so you won't ever get to meet him."

"Well that's a relief!" cried Scourge Nega "My Prime counterpart sounds like someone who needs his butt kicking and I'd be happy to arrange that!"

"Scourge, please." said Amy Nega "We will not interfere with the Prime Zone as you know interfering with the most important zone in the multi-verse can be catastrophic."

"Oh yeah." said Scourge Nega grimly "Pity really, I'd love to help Sonic trump my Prime counterpart."

"So guys, have you got any plans on how to stop Eggman Nega and de-metallize everybody?" asked Sonic, quickly changing the subject.

"We have actually." said Amy Nega "And since you're here to help us, you can join in with this plan. Tails, explain the plan if you please."

Tails Nega obeyed his team leader and he pulled out a long roll of paper. He set out the paper on the table and Sonic peered at it. The paper showed plans of Eggman Nega's city and on the back, there were plans of his base. There were some drawn figures on the map to show where the Freedom Fighters would attack and break in while avoiding Eggman Nega's forces.

"Here's our basic idea." said Tails Nega "We're gonna bring Amy's Super Warp Ring with us and use it to send all the Chaos Emeralds he's likely stolen from the other zones back to their zones and after we've done that, we'll fight him to the death and after we defeat him, we set his metallizer machine in reverse and de-metallize everybody."

"That sounds good enough to me." said Sonic "So how will this plan go without fail then?"

"I left the strategy work to Geoffrey here." said Amy Nega "He's the strategist expert in this team."

"That's right luv." said Geoffrey Nega, stepping in and pointing at several pointers on the plans Tails Nega had before him "Here's our set-up Sonic: Me, Miranda and Bunnie are the best shooters of the group so we'll come in first and create a diversion by shooting madly at his forces in order to keep Eggman Nega's minions occupied. We'll enter the city through this point here…" he pointed at a point on the map he'd marked which showed where the team would enter the city and attack "…as that's one of the city's blind spots and then me, Miranda and Bunnie will unleash hell on the place. While we're going that, Amy, Tails, Scourge will go in next and as Eggman Nega will mostly be focused on us, he won't see them coming and then they can carry out Tails' plan. being as you're in this now, you can join Amy's squadron and help make a fool out of Eggman Nega."

"I'm glad I'll be doing that then." said Sonic with a smirk "I've just recently sent Dr. Eggman into hiding so I'll be happy to kick an alternative version of Eggman's butt for you. I promise you that Mobius Nega will be free once you lot and me storm his base and save everybody."

"I trust you one-hundred percent on that Sonic." said Amy Nega with a supportive grin on her pretty face "I'm so grateful that you're gonna help us save the world from Eggman Nega's tyranny."

"Like I said, I believe in freedom for all living things everywhere, no matter what town, country, planet, zone they live in." said Sonic "And I'm not going home until Mobius Nega can freely breathe a whiff of fresh air once again. So when do we start?"

"Since you're so eager, I think we should start now." said Amy Nega

"Miranda, got the weapons ready for us?"

"You betcha Amy." said Miranda Nega, showing Amy Nega some weapons she'd prepared for them "I'm using the Plasma Ion Cannon as it's my personal favourite." she said, showing Amy Nega and Sonic a huge, heavy blaster cannon that looked like it packed quite a punch and it was held underarm like the handheld rotary cannon "Geoffrey has his arm-mounted crossbows so he can use them and Bunnie can use the weapons she has built into her metallized arms. You, Tails and Scourge are gonna use these wrist-mounted lasers I built for you."

She handed Amy Nega some wrist mounted lasers that could be worn on the wrist like a watch and it fired laser blasts from the small gun barrel that was mounted on the wrist belt. Amy, Tails and Scourge Nega all attached the weapons onto their wrists and they primed them.

"I'm sorry to say I don't have any weapons for you Sonic Prime." said Miranda Nega "I only make weapons for this team so I don't have anything for you to use."

"Don't sweat it Miranda, I don't prefer weapons anyway." said Sonic "I much prefer to use my super speed and abilities, I don't need a gun or anything. Wouldn't be caught dead using one anyway."

"Suit yourself young man." said Miranda Nega "So, now you're all armed and ready, we can go when Amy gives the command."

"And I say, we attack now." said Amy Nega without a moment's hesitation "Freedom returns to Mobius Nega right now everybody!"

With that said, the Freedom Fighters all cheered in unison and they all left the room with their weapons ready and they followed the sewer tunnels out into the open so they could put an end to Dr. Eggman Nega's unspeakable evil at long last. Sonic had a feeling he was going to enjoy this mission dearly as the Freedom Fighters went out into battle…

Back in the Prime Zone, Silver, Blaze, Tails, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy and Geoffrey were prowling around for the last remaining Sol Emeralds. They had found the two Sol Emeralds Tails had picked up on the scanner and Geoffrey stored them in his backpack along with the red emerald Cosmo found earlier so they could hide them from anyone who could possibly be wanting them for evil purposes. The two emeralds they had found were purple and yellow respectively. Marik had the blue and green ones already so that meant only the grey and cyan ones were left. The Mobians continued their trek through the Great Forest while keeping an eye out for Sol Emeralds. Tails peered at the tracker and the tracker was telling him that another Sol Emerald was near a fast running river just a few paces from their direction.

"OK guys, the next emerald is that way." said Tails, pointing to the north-east "It's supposedly near a fast running river so we'd best get it before it falls in."

"That tracker of yours sure is useful isn't it?" asked Silver "It seems to know where all the Sol Emeralds are even though they're new to you all."

"Well the computer monitors back at Royal HQ tracked their position and Mandy downloaded the coordinates to this handheld tracker I have so we'd be able to find them." explained Tails "So no matter where the Sol Emeralds are, it'll track them."

"So you could say it's thanks to me that we're even able to find your emeralds after all." said Mandy with a smug expression on her face more at Blaze then anybody.

"Yes, it is." said Blaze tersely "Me and Silver are both grateful to you Mandy. Thanks to you, we can find our emeralds."

"You're welcome." said Mandy smugly, trying to make Blaze frown just for the fun of it.

"Mandy, don't try and tease the fire-powered kitty." sighed Wilson "You know how dangerous she can be."

"I'm not trying to tease her." said Mandy "I'm just telling Blaze that I'm the reason we can find her emeralds and that I'm glad she's grateful to us."

"Sure you are." muttered Wilson who clearly knew how Mandy felt about Blaze due to their less-then pleasant first meeting earlier.

"Could you blokes keep it down back there so Tails can concentrate?" asked Geoffrey, looking over his shoulder "I'm really sure he'd love some peace and quiet as he tracks those Sol Emeralds."

"No it's O.K. Mr. St. John, really." said Tails insistently "They're not bothering me. I didn't even know they were talking because I'm so engrossed in this right now."

"So you shut off from everybody else when you're really focused on something." said Geoffrey "Pity not everybody can do that, it'd do some good for everybody."

Tails didn't answer the skunk, he just continued to walk on with the rest following him closely behind. The tracker's screen was displaying a dot that was getting a little larger as he got closer to the Sol Emerald. They were getting closer to the river where the Sol Emerald was said to be near. The group continued walking through the forest as Tails wondered on to the river as he followed the tracker. After a minute of walking, they finally came across the river the Sol Emerald was located near. The river was a long, wide stretch of running water that channelled through the forest and it was running pretty fast. Everybody stopped in their tracks and observed the fast flowing river they had come across, except Tails who continued to walk on towards the river with his eyes glued to the tracker. He so engrossed in it that he didn't even notice they had found the river.

"Tails, look out!" cried Cosmo "You're heading for the river!"

"What river?" asked Tails, looking up from the tracker and over his shoulder as Cosmo called him.

He didn't notice how close to the river he was wondering and since he wasn't watching where he was going, he fell straight into the water with a rather comical splash. Tails lay in the fast flowing river with water dripping from his face, whiskers and bangs. He grumbled furiously to himself as he picked himself up and scrambled out of the lake. His fur was soaking wet, his bangs lay flat against his forehead and his gloves and socks were drenched. His feet made a squelching noise as every time they touched the ground due to how wet his socks were. He looked pretty funny and the others had to admit it. Tails shook himself dry rather furiously until his fur all puffed up and made him look like a big, yellow, furry dust ball with shoes. Now he looked EVEN funnier. The others couldn't contain themselves any longer, they all burst out laughing at poor Tails. Blaze wasn't much of a laugher though and when she did laugh, it was more of a slight chuckle then a good hearty laugh. Tails fumed at his friends as they laughed at him.

"It's not funny!" whinged Tails as he flattened his fur down "How would you like it if you all fell into a lake and I laughed at you for it?"

"Oh lighten up Tails, we're only kidding' with ya!" chuckled Geoffrey.

"I'm sorry Tails." giggled Cosmo as she calmed her laughter down "I just couldn't resist."

"You really oughta watch where you're going little guy." said Silver "You never know what you'll run into one day."

"He actually ended up falling in a quagmire due to the fact he wasn't watching where he was going." said Wilson, recalling the famous Chaos Emerald hunt that happened months ago "After narrowly surviving drowning in that thing, you'd think he'd be more cautious."

"Wilson! I told you not to bring that up!" whined Tails angrily "I hate being reminded of that embarrassing moment that almost cost me my life!"

"Sorry." said Wilson with an annoyed scowl on his face.

"It's a pity you fell into that lake Tails." said Mandy grimly "The tracker's short-circuited in the water. We can't find the rest of the Sol Emeralds now."

Tails suddenly realized what Mandy was talking about. He peered at the tracking device, which was no longer working due to the fact it had been in the water and water and electricity didn't mix. Tails slapped himself on the head in annoyance. He couldn't believe he'd just messed up on the mission so badly right now.

"Oh gosh!" fumed Tails "The tracker's broken! How can we find the rest of the Sol Emeralds now?"

"The Sol Emeralds work similar to Chaos Emeralds." said Blaze "They glow brighter when you get near one and they also get hotter as you near another emerald."

"So we can just use the three Sol Emeralds we already have instead." said Cosmo "And we've found where another one is hiding so we can use that as well."

"Speaking of the emerald that Tails said was near here, where is it?" asked Geoffrey.

"It's right there on that fallen log." said Silver, pointing further up the river.

There was a fallen log lying across the river just further up from where the Mobians were right now. There was a grey Sol Emerald lying inside a hole in the log. It was glowing rather brightly due to the sunlight reflecting off it's shiny surface. Silver levitated off the ground and he flew towards the fallen log. Mandy bent over to Wilson and whispered into his ear.

"I envy that hedgehog." she said "I wish I has psychic powers so I could lift and move things and levitate at will."

"That would be cool wouldn't it?" Wilson whispered back "And it'd help us out dearly in our fight with Dr. Eggman."

Further up the river, Silver touched down on the log and he stuck his hand down the hole in the log. His hand felt around for the Sol Emerald and his fingers lightly brushed against it as he fumbled about. His hand turned to the Sol Emerald and he tried to grab it but he accidentally pushed it towards a hole in the bottom of the log that it was sitting near and the emerald fell through it and straight into the river. The fast flowing current of the river carried the Sol Emerald down the river and Silver looked up from the log to see what was going on. The Sol Emerald had fell out of the log and was being carried down the river at a fast pace. Blaze saw the emerald going down the river and she ran across the bank to try and get it. Silver remained standing on the log and he held out his hands. He tried to grab the emerald with his psychokinesis but the emerald was too far down the river for him to reach so he had to levitate off the log and hover after it. He followed the emerald as it was floating down the river. Silver held out his hands and the emerald was surrounded by a teal glow. It lifted out of the water and Silver dragged it towards him with his psychic powers. He then tossed the emerald to Blaze, who was on the bank beside him and she caught it in her hands. Silver levitated back over to the bank and he touched down beside Blaze.

"Whew! I almost lost that one." said Silver, whipping some sweat off his forehead.

"With your psychic powers, you'll never lose anything Silver." said Blaze "Now we have four Sol Emeralds all nicely retrieved."

"That means we have three more to find." said Silver "And because Tail's tracker is broken, we won't be able to immediately find them. We'll have to use the other Sol Emeralds to find them."

"I'll use this one to find the others." said Blaze "Although if I recall, Tails said two of them were moving about, meaning somebody probably already has them. They'll be harder to find as we don't know where that person is right now. He could be in an entirely different place for all we know."

"Regardless of where two of the only Sol Emeralds left to find are, we must find them so we can use them to warp our way into the zone Sonic followed that thing to." said Tails "I'm getting really worried on what might be happening to him right now. He might be in trouble or captured or something like that."

"Tails, you know well enough that Sonic doesn't get in trouble, he causes trouble." said Mandy in a reassuring manner "I'm sure the blue dude's alright. But you're right on the fact we need those Sol Emeralds or he'll be stuck in another zone forever."

"And lord knows how bad that'll be since he won't be able to help us fight Dr. Eggman." said Geoffrey, thinking about what the war with Eggman was going to be like if Sonic wasn't going to be able to join them.

"Well let's carry on with the search." said Silver "We've only got three emeralds left and then we can save Sonic. Don't worry Tails, we'll help save your friend much like how you're helping us find the emeralds."

Tails just gave Silver a friendly smile and he nodded agreeably. It was nice to see how kind Silver and Blaze were, even though they were from an apocalyptic future and way to ahead of their time to exist in their lifetimes and how they were willing to help save Sonic from being trapped in another zone. The Mobians all went onto find the last three Sol Emeralds so that they could teleport to the zone Sonic was trapped on and Silver and Blaze could return back to their home time and keep the Sol Emeralds out of villainous reach. Tails couldn't help but wonder what was happening to Sonic right now…

Back on Mobius Nega, the Freedom Fighters had all left the safety of their sewer hideout and they hid around the outskirts of Eggman Nega's city, which turned out to be the city that resembled Mobotropolis Sonic had come across earlier. They all crouched down behind a building and they poked their heads around the corner to see what was going on in the city. All they could see right now were metallized Mobians patrolling the area with some of Eggman Nega's robots joining them. The Eggman Nega robots looked like giant Egg Pawns only they were coloured black, red and yellow and they were armed with giant mallets. They had the Eggman Nega logo on their torsos, which looked like a black and yellow image of Dr. Eggman's face only the goggles were differently designed compared to Prime Eggman's Eggman Empire logo. Sonic had a feeling he was going to hate Eggman Nega just as much as Dr. Eggman and seeing the metallized Mobians made him feel sorry for all those that had had their lives snatched from them by the heartless metal, loving madman and converted into metal beings. Sonic looked at the Freedom Fighters and he could read their expressions clearly. They were pretty disgusted with this sight too.

"So this is were the Eggman lives is it?" asked Sonic.

"It certainly is." said Amy Nega, scowling tensely as if the very image of Eggman Nega and his troops annoyed her immensely "This is where that metal-loving, freedom snatching freak lives and we're going to finish him off!"

"I'm glad I'm helping you lot with this." said Sonic "Those metallized Mobians are making me feel sorry for this world. All those innocent people converted into metal beings just for the pleasure of one man, much like how Dr. Eggman in my zone wants to roboticize everybody."

"Ah remember when ah almost ended up becoming one of them." said Bunnie Nega, her face full of fear and she seemed to be shaking slightly "Ah was kidnapped by the mad man and he attempted to metallize me. Ah was saved by Scourge Nega but mah lower arms got metallized already. At least ah get to use these weapons against Eggman Nega instead of mah friends. Ah wonder what ah look like on the Prime Zone."

"Your prime counter part is partially roboticized and has robotic legs and a robotic left arm." explained Sonic "She's one remarkable fighter and a great friend. You two would get on like sisters I bet."

"Ah think ah agree with you there sugah-hog." said Bunnie Nega with a bright grin on her face "Mah prime counterpart sounds great!"

"So Amy, when do we start the party?" asked Scourge Nega.

"In two minutes." said Amy Nega "Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie will cause a ruckus and me, you, Sonic and Tails will get the fat man himself. I can't wait to see the look on his face when we overthrow him at last!"

"Funny enough Amy Nega, I can't either." said Sonic "I bet Eggman Nega will be just as fun as Eggman Prime."

As the seconds ticked away for ambush time, Sonic began to picture his epic battle with Eggman Nega and how he would make a monkey out of him much like how he makes a monkey out of Dr. Eggman back on the prime zone…

That's a lot of stuff going on in one simple story isn't it? Marik and Scourge are partners (we all know how long THAT'LL last though!), Sonic's teamed up with alternate versions of some of his friends to overthrow Dr. Eggman Nega and Silver, Blaze and Sonic's friends have almost found all the Sol Emeralds! What's gonna happen next? Tune in next time for part 3...Read and Review.

I say Kratos Pwns, you cut yourself off halfway through your last review. What was you going to say?

Story 86: The Dark Side of the World Part 1

Mobius Nega, said to be the closest planet in the multi-verse to matching Mobius Prime had been taken over by Dr. Eggman Nega and the planet was nothing more then a metal paradise for machine lovers anywhere. His robots combined with the metallized population of Mobians made Dr. Eggman Nega a very formidable foe for anybody in the multi-verse and the mad genius was up to something big right now. But what he didn't know was that his enemies, the Freedom Fighters, were hiding on the outskirts of his very city and preparing to strike. Amy Nega, the Nega-version of Amy Rose and team-leader, was counting down from two minutes and she had almost finished counting down. Her team had a plan and it was ascertain to work, especially as they were teamed up with Sonic the Hedgehog, the hero of Mobius Prime, who was willing to help them save their world without a moment's hesitance. Sonic hated the sound of Eggman Nega so he was willing to kick his flabby backside for the Nega-Mobians of Mobius Nega. Sonic waited patiently as Amy Nega counted down the last few seconds. Amy's team mates, Tails Nega, Scourge Nega, Geoffrey Nega, Miranda Nega and Bunnie Nega, were all poised and prepared for the ambush. Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie Nega were going to start by causing a ruckus with their weapons and Amy Nega, Sonic, Scourge Nega and Tails Nega were all going to storm Eggman Nega's base and being as Amy Nega had a super warp ring, there entry was pretty much guaranteed.

"Ten…nine…eight…seven…six…" Amy Nega counted down as the last seconds ticked away "Five…four…three…two…one…OK guys, it's time to attack. Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie, GO!"

The skunk, mongoose and rabbit did not wait to be asked twice. They leaped out from their hiding places with their weapons at the ready. Geoffrey Nega had his twin arm-mounted crossbows, Miranda Nega had a giant plasma cannon that was held underarms and Bunnie Nega had her metallized lower arms with all her weaponry being contained in her hands. Geoffrey Nega struck the first blow by firing a multitude of fireballs from his crossbows and the fireballs struck the first Egg-Pawn they came across. The balls sent the giant robot wobbling about precariously before it suddenly fell over onto it's back and dropped it's hammer. The metallized Mobians and Egg-Pawns on site saw what was going on and they instantly joined in with the battle. The metallized Mobians all began firing stasis beams at the attacking Mobians but Bunnie Nega activated a force field from her hands that blocked the blasts and saved herself and her friends from being frozen. Bunnie Nega then proceeded to fire stasis beams of her own from their palms of her metal hands. That was the primary weapon of the metallized Mobians after all and she was capable of using it due to the fact her arms were partly metallized. She shot three oncoming metal-Mobians and they all froze to the spot the moment they were stricken by the blast.

"Ah'm sorry fellas but ah'm afraid ah have to do this." said Bunnie Nega pityingly to the stasis-locked metal-Mobians "Until we can de-metallize you all, ah have to fight ya'll."

She should have known better then to stand around feeling sorry for the metal-Mobians for a metallized gorilla leaped on Bunnie Nega from behind and grabbed her in a very painful chokehold. Being held in a chokehold by a metallized Mobian was pretty much one way of being throttled to death in a millisecond due to how hard and how tough their grasp was.

"Ack! Let go of me ya big ape!" yelped Bunnie Nega, kicking the metal-gorilla furiously in the shin.

But metal-life forms are incapable of feeling pain so Bunnie Nega's attempts more tickled him then anything. The metal-gorilla let go of Bunnie Nega and then gave the rabbit a tremendous uppercut that sent her hurling through the air. Miranda Nega retaliated by firing at the metal-gorilla. Her gun was set to stun-mode so she wouldn't kill the metal-gorilla. The metal-gorilla was stunned and knocked out and it fell onto the floor. Miranda Nega reloaded the cannon and set it back to kill mode for the Egg-Pawns.

"It really is a pity you had to get metallized Darwin." said Miranda Nega to the metal-gorilla "You were one great Freedom Fighter. At least we'll be able to get you out of that metal casing at last."

The mongoose in the purple jumpsuit ran off to join Geoffrey Nega in battle with some Egg-Pawns. The giant robots swung their mighty hammers at the skunk but Geoffrey Nega dodged their attacks and he fired at the Egg-Pawns with his crossbows. The fireballs struck two Egg-Pawns and they both staggered clumsily backwards and clanged comically against each other. Miranda Nega then stepped in to finish them off with the plasma cannon. She fired two blasts, one at each Egg Pawn, and the two robots were destroyed in an instant. Another Egg Pawn sneaked up behind Miranda Nega and prepared to hammer her into the ground but the weapons-expert heard it coming and she span around and blasted it in the head, killing it instantly and reducing it to scrap parts. She smirked at the destroyed Egg-Pawn.

"Ha, ha, ha! There's more where this came from!" she laughed mockingly "You robots haven't seen anything yet!"

"Miranda luv, stay focused." Geoffrey Nega reminded her "We need to keep on our toes here, we're in Eggman Nega territory and anything can happen."

Just as he said the word "happen" something did happen. A metallized spider suddenly jumped out of nowhere and prayed Geoffrey Nega with some web out of it's hands (Mobian spiders have hands by the way). Geoffrey Nega was stricken by the web and thrown against the wall where the web stuck to it and trapped him against the wall. The skunk squirmed furiously in the tough grasp of the web. Miranda Nega instantly began to open fire on the metal-spider, her weapon set back to stun mode, but the metal-spider was much too fast for her. Mobian spiders are very agile and their agility is unmatched by any. The metal-spider jumped around like a flea, dodging every shot Miranda Nega fired at it. Then suddenly, the metal-spider sprayed web at Miranda Nega but the mongoose leaned forward to dodge the web. She began to fire again at the metal-spider but she still couldn't hit it. Then the metal-spider sprayed web at her again, this time, actually snagging her and pinning her against the wall too. Now she and Geoffrey Nega were trapped thanks to the metal-spider's webbing. The metal-spider advanced on them menacingly with it's long, thin, sharp, metal legs raised and ready to eviscerate them. The skunk and mongoose could only stare at the metal-spider in horror as it prepared to kill them. But before it could touch them, Scourge Nega leaped in and spin-dashed the metal-spider away from them. He then spin-dashed their webbing in two, freeing them from the wall and putting them back into action.

"Thanks Scourge." said Geoffrey Nega.

"Anytime bud." said Scourge Nega "Those metal-spiders really are a pain aren't they? I wish they were on our side."

"Unfortunately, they're not." said Miranda Nega, picking up her plasma cannon "Now, you go with Amy and stop that madman once and for all just like we planned."

"No probs Miranda." said Scourge Nega, running off to join Amy, Sonic and Tails.

As for the three, Amy Nega and Tails Nega were shooting at any oncoming Egg-Pawns in order to keep them away from themselves. Their wrist lasers maybe small but they were powerful and the Egg-Pawns were destroyed the moment they were stricken. Sonic just did his trademark spin-dash attack on the Egg-Pawns and reduced them to smithereens after cleaving through them effortlessly.

"Whoo hoo! These guys are no better then my Eggman's bots!" laughed Sonic "I knew I was going to enjoy this!"

Sonic spin-dashed an Egg-Pawn's hammer into pieces just as it was about to smash him into the ground and Sonic then homing-attacked it in the back, knocking it over and leaving it vulnerable for Tails Nega and Amy Nega. The two Mobians blasted the robot into pieces with their wrist mounted lasers. Sonic landed beside them and looked at the remains of the Egg-Pawns they'd just smashed.

"Those lasers really pack a punch don't they?" asked Sonic.

"Well Miranda made them and any weapon she makes is usually powerful." said Tails Nega "You want something with a powerful blast, you can count on her to make it."

"Seems so." said Sonic "Although I'm curious as to why Amy isn't using her Piko-Piko hammer for this."

"Why am I not using the what-what hammer?" asked Amy Nega with a confused expression on her face.

"Piko-Piko hammer." explained Sonic "Your prime counterpart can pull great big hammers out of airspace and use them to batter foes into the ground with them. Surely you can do that to."

"I can't actually." said Amy Nega "I've never had the ability to pull hammers out of airspace. Not to mention, why would I use a hammer anyway? Hammers are big, clumsy weapons that can slow you down in the heat of the battle so I prefer lighter weapons such as these wrist mounted lasers we have now."

"Try telling that to your prime counterpart." sniggered Sonic as he imagined Amy Nega telling Prime Amy that hammers were no good in battle, only to get a furious response from her.

Amy Nega turned to face Scourge Nega, who had just ran up to them and he stood upon the remains of the Egg-Pawns that had just been smashed.

"How's Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie doing then?" asked Amy Nega.

"They seem to have things under control here." said Scourge Nega, surveying the battle that was going on behind their backs "I don't think we have to worry too much about them."

"Well in that case, it's time to storm Eggman Nega's quarters." said Amy Nega, fishing out her Super Warp Ring and flicking it up into the air.

The Super Warp Ring expanded to three times it's normal size and it floated above the ground slightly. Tails and Scourge Nega instantly ran into the warp ring whereas Sonic hesitated for a moment. He looked back on Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie Nega fighting for their lives against the metallized Mobians and Egg-Pawns. Bunnie Nega stasis-locked any metal-Mobians that tried to attack as they lunged for them, leaving Geoffrey and Miranda Nega to fight the Egg-Pawns. They seemed to have the battle under control but Sonic felt like he should stay and help them. Then again, he was needed for the battle with Dr. Eggman Nega so he was stuck with two choices, help the others fend off the reinforcements or help Amy Nega dethrone Eggman Nega. Amy Nega was about to step through the warp ring until she noticed that Sonic wasn't coming with her.

"Sonic, come on!" yelled Amy Nega "We're gonna overthrow Eggman Nega now!"

"I know." said Sonic "It's just, are you sure Geoffrey, Miranda and Bunnie will be OK on their own?"

"They'll be fine Sonic, I know they will." said Amy Nega reassuringly "They've done this kind of thing before. Now come on!"

That was all Sonic needed to hear. Sonic decided to go with Amy Nega and he leaped through the warp ring. The warp ring closed behind them and vanished into thin air. Sonic and Amy Nega reappeared through the other side of the warp ring and they landed behind Scourge and Tails Nega. They stood up straight and Sonic took a little look around. The warp ring had taken him inside a base that looked very much like Dr. Eggman's base only it had the Eggman Nega logo instead and there was a chair designed more like a throne then a simple chair to sit in. And in that throne was the mad man himself, Dr. Eggman Nega. He turned around and faced his opponents with a dark, steely glare from behind his glasses. Had he not been wearing any glasses, you could see a look that could rival Medusa's stone, cold glare. Eggman Nega, much like the Nega-Mobians, looked different to his Prime counter part. He wore a red suit with a white stripe down the middle, his shoes were black and yellow in stripe form a little like a bumblebee, he wore a black coat with tails at the back and yellow stripes around the upper arms and yellow pieces near the shoulders. His big, bushy moustache was grey instead of brown and he wore futuristic looking goggles on his head which was a one piece visor instead of two individual eye pieces. His glasses were different looking too. Despite all this, he had the exact same shape and size as Dr. Eggman Prime. He was pretty much Dr. Eggman with new clothes and a grey moustache.

One thing Sonic noticed about Eggman Nega is he had jars and jars full of Chaos Emeralds on his control panels behind him. The Chaos Emeralds were glowing ever so brightly and there appeared to be about thirty-five Chaos Emeralds, seven in each jar and all from different zones too. The jars were labelled so Eggman Nega knew which zone they were from. Tails Nega was clearly right about Eggman Nega's next plan being to snatch all the Chaos Emeralds in the multi-verse.

"Well, well, look who's decided to show up and be a nuisance for me once again." sighed Dr. Eggman Nega in an annoyed tone "Amy Rose Nega and her band of puny Freedom Fighters dare to stand to me even though their precious Sonic Nega, their only hope against me, is dead."

"You can kill or metallize as many of us as you want Eggman Nega!" yelled Amy Nega "I will carry on until you bite the dust you fat tyrant!"

"Oh, ho, ho, ho!" cackled Eggman Nega mockingly "How valorous of you my dear. I like that kind of attitude in my enemies, it makes them more fun to tangle with."

"We'll show you how much "fun" we can be Eggman Nega!" yelled Sonic "You took over this world, metallized the population and now you're stealing Chaos Emeralds from other zones! In the name of all the people of the multi-verse, you are going down tubby!"

Eggman Nega just cackled with laughter.

"Oh please, I killed one Sonic already, don't give me the satisfaction of killing another." he chortled "You'll just break Amy's little heart even more when you fall at my hand much like Sonic Nega did. So tell me, other-zone Sonic, which zone are you from then? I killed Sonic Nega so you can't be Sonic Nega."

"That's right chubby." said Sonic "And you're nuts if you think I'm gonna tell you what zone I'm from. You're going nowhere near it!"

"Oh is that so?" sneered Eggman Nega "Well, once I kill you and your friends, I'll take it upon myself to scan your corpse and find out what zone you're from. Then I can pay your zone a visit and tell them that I killed their Sonic the Hedgehog."

"Nobody's getting killed today ugly mug!" yelled Tails Nega "Except you! We're gonna take you and your empire down and de-metallize everybody!"

"Oh are you now?" scoffed Eggman Nega "That's real nice. Just a pity you'll never get the satisfaction of defeating me. I'm just too cunning and powerful for you."

"We'll see about that." muttered Scourge Nega "So tell us, why are you stealing all the Chaos Emeralds of the multi-verse?"

"Because that is my big plan that'll guarantee me total domination of not just Mobius Nega, but the entire multi-verse!" cackled Eggman Nega "You see, I am going to gather up all the Chaos Emeralds of the multi-verse and use their power to reshape the multi-verse as I see fit! Just seven of these gems are powerful enough and given how many zones there are, I'll be a god with seven Chaos Emeralds from every zone in the multi-verse! I've already raided five zones with my metal Mobians and there's still many more to come! I'm a bit disappointed Metal Mandy failed to come back with any from the zone I sent her to. That zone must have a tough resistance. Never mind, I'll raid it again another time and once I have every Chaos Emerald in the multi-verse, I shall become ruler of the multi-verse! I'll be able to bend the rules of reality itself and change the course of history for all eternity!"

With that said, he erupted into enormous shrieks of laughter that made him sound even crazier then his prime counterpart. Sonic couldn't believe everything Eggman Nega had just informed them about. Not only was the mouse-bot who tried to raid future Mobius a metallized version of Mandy Mouse, one of his good friends from the prime zone, but it was attempting to deliver the Sol Emeralds to Eggman Nega so he could use all the powers of the multi-verse's Chaos Emeralds to become a god and reshape the universe as he sees fit? He's even more insane then Dr. Eggman ever was!

"Wow…you're crazy." Sonic just simply said, almost lost for words on the sheer insanity of Eggman Nega's scheme.

"I know, I get that all the time." said Dr. Eggman Nega casually "So, are you going to try and stop me Sonic or are you gonna stand down and allow me to carry out my nefarious scheme?"

"Do I even need to answer?" sniffed Sonic "You're going down Eggman Nega! Here comes a supersonic spin-dash to that ugly beer-gut of yours!"

With that said, Sonic spin-dashed directly towards Eggman Nega without thinking on the possibility of a trap lying around like there was bound to be. Eggman Nega grinned widely and he pressed a button on the side of his chair. A small gun came out of the arm of the chair and pointed at the spin-dashing hedgehog. It zapped Sonic and the hedgehog suddenly disappeared into thin air. It was as if he was blasted to atoms by the blast. The others gasped in surprise at what just happened and Eggman Nega then proceeded to do the same to the others. Amy, Tails and Scourge Nega were all blasted to atoms by Eggman Nega's chair cannon. Only, they weren't blasted to smithereens. The beam fired at them was actually a transmat beam and it had teleported them to another section of the base. Unfortunately for them, Amy Nega dropped her Super Warp Ring as they were teleported by the transmat beam, meaning they couldn't use it to warp back up into Eggman Nega's quarters. Sonic and the Nega-Mobians reappeared in the centre of Eggman Nega's base, which was just a big empty room that had no features save for the walls and a door in the middle of the wall on their left hand side. The room was round and didn't have any corners, meaning it was a round room. Sonic picked himself up and surveyed his new surroundings. He was very narked at the fact he'd just been teleported into another room by Eggman Nega just as he was about to attack him. He should have expected the fat scientist to have some trick up his sleeve, his prime counterpart often did.

"Of all the annoying things to happen!" he grumbled "We've been teleported into an empty room by Eggman Nega! I should have known he'd have some trick hiding somewhere! My prime counterpart often does and I usually fall for it!"

"Sonic Nega fell for Eggman Nega's tricks too." said Amy Nega grimly, dusting herself off "Unfortunately, the last one he ended up falling for cost him his life."

"That's how Sonic Nega died? Eggman Nega tricked him and the trick was deadly enough to kill him?" asked Sonic "I believe you said Eggman Nega's headquarters exploded so if I were to guess, Eggman Nega tricked Sonic Nega into coming to his base and then he blew it up with him inside."

"That's absolutely correct Sonic." said Amy Nega "Eggman Nega blew up his own base just to kill Sonic. That's how mad he is, he'll gladly injure himself if it means getting rid of us."

"Regardless, we've gotta get outta here and back to his quarters before we lose the chance to defeat him." said Tails Nega "Amy, use your warp ring to warp us back up to his quarters."

Amy Nega obeyed and she reached for her warp ring, only to realize she didn't have it with her right now. She instantly freaked and fumbled around herself frantically.

"Oh no! My warp ring!" shrieked Amy Nega "I must have dropped it the moment I got teleported by that transmat beam!"

"Well now we've GOT to get outta here." muttered Scourge Nega "Who knows what Eggman Nega's gonna do with our warp ring. Sonic, me and you will spin-dash through the ceiling and make an escape route for us. Tails will then fly Amy out through the hole in the roof we make and then we can climb back up to the top floor where that scum Eggman Nega is stationed."

"OK then Scourge." said Sonic "Let's go in three…"

Before he could so much as countdown to the next number, Eggman Nega's voice boomed out from an inter-com in the room.

"Oh dear my foolish Freedom Fighters, it appears I've gotten the drop on you again!" he taunted "I've teleported you to my fighting arena, the very room where I pit my newest machines against each other just to see how strong they are and how they hold up to my older machines. You see, I'm a man who only fights if I deem my opponents worth of it. If you win this little contest of mine then I shall happily challenge you to a battle other-zone Sonic. The winner takes Mobius Nega and the loser shall become a messy, horrid stain on the walls of my base."

"Fair enough." said Sonic "I love exercise before battle. What's the challenge then fatty?"

"You will fight one of my best inventions and if you can defeat it then I'll challenge you for the planet Sonic." explained Dr. Eggman Nega "And your opponent shall be…SHADOW SONIC!"

"Shadow Sonic huh?" mused Sonic "Who's he then?"

Just as he asked that, something crashed it's way through the door and brought some of the wall down with it. It was a giant robot that was the spitting image of Silver Sonic, a fierce opponent Sonic had tussled with before* only it was black instead of silver, the gold around it's legs was purple, it's feet were purple, it's muzzle was purple but it's optics were still red. The bladed spines on it's back and head were black in the middle and silver around the sides. It looked like a very dangerous and shadowy foe and Sonic could tell he was in the fight of his life here. The Nega-Mobians seemed to be poop-your-pants terrified of it as they stared at it in horror.

"Oh…that's Shadow Sonic." said Sonic "A re-colour of Silver Sonic, a junk heap I know from my zone."

"I should have guessed Eggman Nega was going to use that!" squealed Amy Nega "He used it to level Empire City last week so it would make sense for him to use it on us!"

"That thing levelled Empire City?" blurted Sonic "Now I've got more reasons to be afraid of that thing!"

"Whether it's scary or not, we have to smash it to fragments or we'll never save Mobius Nega." noted Scourge Nega "He won't challenge us unless we defeat it so we'd best stomp on it before our plan goes kaput!"

"I definitely like you better then my zone's Scourge." said Sonic, making sure he didn't say the word "prime" as he didn't want Eggman Nega to know what zone he came from "You heard him guys, let's send that thing to the scrap yard!"

"Oh yeah!" cried Amy and Tails Nega, readying their wrist mounted lasers for the battle.

The Mobians prepared to do battle as Shadow Sonic bared it's jet black claws and prepared to snatch them up and rip them to bite-sized pieces. Sonic charged towards the Silver Sonic re-colour and Shadow Sonic prepared to attack back as the supersonic hedgehog zoomed towards him at top speed…

Back in the prime zone, Scourge the Hedgehog and Marik the Martian, enemies of Sonic the Hedgehog who were also enemies of each other, were looking for more Sol Emeralds together. Marik already had two but unbeknownst to them, Sonic's friends had four so they thought they only had five left to find whereas really, there was only one emerald left to find. Marik was leading the group with the green Sol Emerald in his hand so they could tell if they were getting closer to it as Sol Emeralds glowed when they neared other emeralds much like the Chaos Emeralds did. Unfortunately for poor Marik, Scourge's useless sidekick Ginger the Fox who was amazingly enough, related to Tails (it really is unbelievable isn't it?) was talking away as if he was a talk machine for no particular reason. Marik was getting pretty annoyed by him as Ginger continued to blab.

"So Marik, you're a Martian according to Scourge." said Ginger "What are Martians like? Are they dark, villainous beings like Scourge the Hedgehog or are they like Sonic? Heroic and brainless? You certainly don't seem to be, you're downright dark. How did you get that metal hand? Did you lose it? Did someone cut if off? I bet you're mad you lost it. Did Sonic cause you to lose it? Speaking of Sonic, how are you doing against him? Are you on top of your game against him or is he beating you right now? Unfortunately for us, Sonic's on top of his game against me and Scourge right now. Oh and Fiona too, she's not long since joined us. She's a traitor to the R.F.S. by the way and she and Scourge seem to be in a relationship. Luckily, they've got room for me in their hearts and I do my best to impress them. Do you wanna know how we met? I ran into an alleyway to escape some angry citizens and I met Scourge in the alley way. Boy am I glad I did because I wouldn't be in this glorious partnership with him. He promises me my own castle when he takes over Mobius and I'm gonna lock Tails up in the dungeons once it's built. Tails is my cousin by the way and I hate him. Have you met him? I bet you have as you know Sonic and I bet you hate him too. Me and you could roughen him up pretty badly together and boy will I enjoy that…"

Marik just promptly swung around and backhanded Ginger into a tree. The neat-haired fox landed slap bang into a tree and he slid back down to the ground while groaning like a ghoul.

"Do you ever SHUT UP?" bellowed Marik "I harbour no interest in your flaccid life little one and not one thing you've got to say is of interest to me so unless you've got something interesting to say, SHUT THE HELL UP FOR MARS' SAKE!"

"Sorry." said Ginger, picking himself up and walking back over to Marik "I was just hoping to get to know you and I wanted you to get to know me a little better. I only wanted to have a conversation."

"Look runt, if I wanted to know anything about you, and lord knows why I ever would, I would have asked you something!" snapped Marik "But I'm not invigorated in you the slightest so I do not wish to know you in anyway!"

He then turned to Scourge and scowled at him.

"How you are able to stomach this boy without getting a headache mystifies me!" he grumbled to the green hedgehog in the leather jacket.

"I only have him to use for stress relief." said Scourge admittedly "I don't view him highly or even see him as much good. He's only here to be my punching bag, nothing more."

Ginger looked like someone had just torn his heart right out of his chest. He couldn't believe what he was hearing from Scourge right now.

"I'm…I'm just your punching bag?" he whimpered pathetically "I'm… not really your…friend and sidekick?"

"You only just realized that?" scoffed Fiona, pulling an "I'm not impressed" look with her hands on her hips.

"Ginger, face it buddy, you're only there to give me someone to punch whenever I'm in a bad mood." said Scourge crossly "You maybe useful occasionally but your role with me is just my punching bag so get used to it or quit me. You won't wanna do the latter because you'll just end up worse off then you are now."

"You got that right." muttered Ginger "A simpering nobody plotting revenge on my sorry excuse for a cousin. I'd much rather have you kick the cuss outta me then be a nobody."

"There you go." said Scourge "Now stop complaining or I'll kick you outta my gang."

"If I were you, I'd just do it already." muttered Fiona "He's a nuisance to us."

"Ah, he's not THAT bad, he just needs a little prompting when he's going overboard." said Scourge.

He then turned to face Marik only to find that the Martian had gone off without them. The Martian had had enough of waiting around for Scourge, Fiona and Ginger to finish talking so he just left them while searching for the Sol Emerald. That instantly riled Scourge and the hedgehog zoomed up to Marik, who wasn't that far away from them right now. Scourge screeched to a halt and stopped right in front of Marik, the Martian jumping backwards in surprise at Scourge stopping in front of him.

"Where do you think you're going Marik?" growled Scourge "I hope you're not betraying us already and…"

"Scourge, Scourge, Scourge!" yelled Marik hastily, waving his hands around "Cool it! I got tired of waiting for you all to stop talking so I continued without you. If we want to find the other Sol Emeralds then we MUST get a move on! Somebody else could be on the look out for them and if we keep stalling, Sonic might step in and stick his nose in where he's not wanted!"

"Oh right." said Scourge "Sorry about that. We'll try not to stall ourselves this time."

"Good." spat Marik savagely "I hate to be kept waiting."

With that said, he and Scourge carried on searching. Fiona and Ginger ran up to the two as they had been left behind and they caught up to them in a matter of seconds. Now the group was back together and searching for the Sol Emeralds. They wouldn't have to be searching for long though as a few paces later, the Sol Emerald in Marik's hand began to glow very brightly. The light was almost bright enough to engulf his hand, that must mean they were pretty close to the next emerald. Marik and Scourge were pretty surprised at that.

"The emerald's glowing brighter." said Marik "The next emerald must be somewhere nearby."

"I'm amazed we're that close to it." said Scourge "It's glowing so brightly, it's as if we're practically next to it. Where could that emerald be hiding?"

"Why don't you two dweebs try looking above your heads?" asked Fiona, pointing straight up at a tree branch that stretched just above their heads.

There was a tree next to Marik and Scourge and a branch was stretched out above their heads. Scourge and Marik looked up at the branch and they noticed that the cyan Sol Emerald was lying on it. It was sitting between the branches so it wasn't going anywhere right now, that is unless someone climbed up the tree branch and shook it vigorously. Marik and Scourge looked back down and they stared straight at Fiona.

"Well spotted." said Scourge in a simple manner.

"Thank you Scourge." said Fiona coyly "I'm glad to be of your service."

Ginger fumed at the smug little vixen in the belly-top and belted skirt. Fiona didn't half wind him up with how she was in Scourge's good books and he was only a punching bag and he'd love to make a fool out of Fiona and get into Scourge's good books. But that would have to wait as he didn't have a decent plan yet. As for Marik and Scourge, they stared at the tree branch and they wondered how they were going to get the Sol Emerald down from it.

"That Sol Emerald's pretty high up and far out over the ground." Scourge noted as he surveyed the tree branch "One of us is going to have to climb up that tree, get across the branch and nab that emerald."

"Either that, or you can just spin-dash the tree branch in two Scourge." sneered Marik "I thought you would have come up with that yourself."

"I did actually." lied Scourge, pretending he had "I just…wondered if you thought of that too. Oh well, now you've suggested it, I'll do just that."

Scourge curled up into a ball and he span around like a saw blade. He revved up until he was at top speed and…Marik just swiped his arm and hit the tree branch with an energy wave before Scourge could even lunge himself at it. The energy wave hit the tree branch and cleaved it in two, leaving Scourge to propel himself at the tree branch and shoot through the air right past it. The tree branch fell onto the ground, the Sol Emerald clattering nosily on the ground towards Marik's feet. Scourge hurtled through the air and he crashed into a tree about four trees away from Marik. The tree fell straight down from the force of Scourge's spin-dash and brought several other trees near it down to the ground too. The noise the falling trees made as they fell to the ground, bark tearing in two and roots being ripped out of the ground, was ear-splittingly awesome. The trees lay on the ground, no longer tall, proud standing plants full of branches and leaves and Scourge lay amongst the fallen timber. The green hedgehog grumbled furiously to himself whereas Marik picked up the Sol Emerald and stuffed it in a pocket on the inside of his pocket, which was empty as Marik already had one Sol Emerald out. Marik then surveyed the mess Scourge had accidentally made thanks to him and he just sneered at him, clearly pleased he'd caused Scourge to knock a tree down as he hated trees.

"Oops, I'm so sorry Scourge." said Marik in voice dripping with a fake apologetic tone "I should have said "timber!" as you knocked those trees down!"

He then proceeded to laugh at Scourge mockingly and gratingly, hoping to wind up the evil, green hedgehog. Fiona fumed at Marik and she slapped him in the back of the head, causing Marik to stagger forwards and almost fall over. He steadied himself and he glared at Fiona. The look he had could have given a Tyrannosaurus Rex a heart-attack.

"Why did you do that?" he snarled, itching to rip Fiona's head off right now.

"Because I'm not happy at the fact you've just made my baby look like a total idiot." said Fiona coldly "I thought we were allies now so I will not abide to you making Scourge look stupid. The kid, I don't give a damn but you mess with Scourge and you mess with me, got it?"

"Oh fie upon you Fiona!" snapped Marik, throwing his hand down as if he was dismissing her "I was only having a bit of fun! Martians like to have fun too you know! Not to mention I still feel a little sore over what Scourge did to me before. Martians tend to hold grudges for a while so even though we're allies, it'll take a while until I don't feel vengeful against Scourge anymore."

"Boy you Martians aren't very sociable are you?" asked Fiona snidely, hoping that she wasn't going to annoy Marik too much.

"In all honesty, we're only sociable with each other Fiona." said Marik "We don't really get on well with other species. Anyway, we now have three Sol Emeralds, that means we have four more left to find."

"That's nice and please can you let Scourge get the next one this time?" asked Fiona "You already have three so it'll be fair that Scourge gets one next."

"Since we're allies now, it doesn't really matter who gets them." said Marik "But I'll make sure your Scourgey-Poos gets at least one emerald. But he'll have to be on his feet as I may get them nice and quick once I see one."

Fiona just folded her arms and stuck her nose in the air, not really bothered with what Marik had said. As for Scourge, he had picked himself up from the fallen trees and stomped back over to Marik. He was covered in bark chips and splinters and leaves clung onto his jacket sleeves. Scourge looked very angry with Marik but he resisted the urge to mash him to pieces. He sighed deeply and relaxed himself. He just glared at Marik and said to him:

"While I'm not pleased you made me miss the branch Marik, I'm glad we now have the Sol Emerald. Shall we find the rest?"

"Be my guest Scourge." said Marik with a sarcastic grin on his face "The last four Sol Emeralds await us somewhere in this forest."

With that said, Marik, Scourge and Fiona walked off in a random direction, Marik holding a Sol Emerald out in order to find the others. Ginger however, heard something rustling through the bushes a good distance away from them and he wondered what it was. Ginger abandoned the group and he ran off in the opposite direction. He wanted to know what the noise was so he followed the sound of rustling that he'd heard. He pushed his way through several bushes until he came to the source of the noise. He dived behind a thorn bush (and carelessly prickled himself on the thorns, the big idiot) and he peeked through some gaps in the bush to see what he could see. To his surprise, he saw Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, the futuristic couple he, Fiona and Scourge had eavesdropped on earlier and found out about the Sol Emeralds due to this. Blaze had the grey Sol Emerald they'd just recently found in her hand and she and Silver were using it to find the other Sol Emeralds. Sonic's friends Tails the twin-tailed fox, Cosmo the Seedrian, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse and Geoffrey St. John the Skunk were following them and looking for Sol Emeralds too. The moment Ginger saw Tails, his fur stood up on end angrily and his tails straightened. It was as if the very sight of Tails angered him.

"My loathsome cousin is in these woods?" he hissed to himself "With some friends? And that odd couple we spied on is with them too? And the very, very odd looking feline has a Sol Emerald? Boy will Scourge be mad at this! I do hope Sonic the Hedgehog isn't with them, that'll make things even worse although I highly suspect he'll be with them too."

He kept low behind the bush and made sure no one could hear him as he spied on the searching Mobians. Silver and Blaze were on the look out for the Sol Emeralds with Blaze holding out the grey one and hoping for it to start glowing as she was desperate to find the others. Unfortunately, Tails and the others were getting a little worn out. They looked flushed what with constantly walking around for hours on end and having no rest for a while. Blaze looked over her shoulder and noticed that the others were looking tired, much to her annoyance as she really wanted to find the Sol Emeralds before someone else did. Regardless, they wouldn't find the Sol Emeralds if they were too tired to do so and rest was good for you so Blaze decided now would be a good time to fall out for a minute.

"Silver, I think we should rest." said Blaze "Tails and his group look flushed."

"OK Blaze." said Silver "We shouldn't push them too far just because we need to find the Sol Emeralds."

"Guys, we're going to take a break for a minute." said Blaze "We'll continue searching in a few minutes."

With that said, Tails and the others all sat down onto the ground and they took a quick breather.

"Thank you Blaze." said Tails, rubbing his aching feet "My feet are killing me. How long have wee been walking for?"

"Too blooming long if you want my opinion." muttered Geoffrey as he wiped his forehead and took his backpack off, the pack lying down on the ground beside him "I feel like I've walked five-hundred miles and yet, I think we've only been walking for an hour or so."

"Well that just shows how well hidden the Sol Emeralds are." said Mandy grimly "They'll take all day to find at this rate. It's amazing how just falling through a portal tunnel spaced them so far apart."

"Either that or it's the fact somebody seems to have found two of them already and we just haven't found him or her yet." noted Wilson "And the third one we need to find seems to be in a good hiding place as that doesn't seem to have been found as far as I know."

"If only I didn't fall into the river and short-circuit the tracker!" Tails grumbled, fisting the ground beside him "We would have found them all by now! I know we've got four Sol Emeralds we can use to find the other emeralds but with the tracker, we knew where they were as the coordinates displayed on Royal HQ's computers were uploaded to it and we just had to walk to them."

"Tails, just because we lost the tracker, it doesn't mean we'll never find the last three emeralds." said Cosmo, wrapping her arms around him affectionately and making the fox feel warm inside "If we keep trying, we'll find them eventually. I believe we will."

"It's nice to see how supportive you are little plant person." said Blaze, taking note of how Cosmo didn't seem like the giving up kind "But believing won't find the Sol Emeralds any faster I'm afraid."

"Lighten up will you?" snapped Mandy "If Cosmo wants to believe then let her. Don't go trying to crush her spirits will you? It's not good to lower children's self-esteem you know."

"I'm not trying to lower her self-esteem." retorted Blaze "I'm stating what's true. You can't find things any easier just be believing in it and Cosmo needs to know that. It's better to know the facts then get caught up in some silly fantasy."

"Boy, you really are a sourpuss aren't you?" sniffed Mandy "Who raised you up then? An even bigger sourpuss?"

That did it, Blaze lost her cool and her hands were alit with flames. She picked herself up and stood over Mandy, preparing to let her have it with her flames.

"You take that back you rat!" snarled Blaze.

That did it, Mandy leaped onto her feet and glowered at Blaze, not intimidated by the fire in her hands the slightest.

"Don't you dare call me a rat you hothead!" yelled Mandy "It's no wonder you're so fired up, those fire powers must be making you hot under the collar!"

"Don't comment on my fire powers mouse-girl!" snapped Blaze "Or you'll end up feeling them all over your face!"

The two were about to unleash hell on each other until Silver leaped onto his feet and stepped in to stop the girls from killing each other.

"Girls, knock it off or I'll use my psychokinesis to bash your heads together!" shouted Silver, his hands glowing with a psychic teal glow "We're supposed to be allies, not enemies for heaven's sake!"

Blaze and Mandy just retreated away from each other and they sat back down onto the ground, staring daggers at each other. Wilson folded his arms and fumed at his girlfriend.

"Geez Mandy, what are you trying to do?" groaned Wilson "Start a fight?"

"No I'm bloody well not!" snapped Mandy, turning her back on everybody and fuming to herself "I just wish that stupid cat would cool down already! She gets on my damning nerves she does!"

"Mandy luv, take it easy on Blaze will ya?" asked Geoffrey "She and Silver come from a post-apocalyptic future so they're bound to be a little shaky aren't they? And some mouse-bot nicked their emeralds and lost them in our zone so they've got a lot on their plate right now. Just think about it for a second luv."

Mandy just sighed but she took in Geoffrey's statement and thought about it. Living in a devastated world was bound to put heavy stress on anyone who lived in it so Mandy couldn't really blame Blaze for being a bit edgy and dull-spirited. Not to mention a devastated world was hardly anything to be hopeful about so Blaze's low views on believing in things couldn't really be helped and her very own Sol Emeralds had been stolen and dropped into another world so that was bound to put even more stress on the cat. She was clearly misunderstanding the cat a little and she began to feel bad for it.

"You're right Geoff." said Mandy softly "I bet Blaze has a lot on her shoulders due to the fact Mobius in the future, according to her, is a wreck. Maybe I should stop being such a jerk to her. I'll make it up to her when she cools down, I don't think she's in the mood for an apology right now."

"I think that's the right thing to do Mandy-girl." said Wilson gently "I'm glad you're not so sore over her anymore."

Mandy just nodded agreeably. All she needed really were those few words Geoffrey had said and now she understood Blaze's problems and why she had a fiery temper. As for Blaze, she and Silver were having a little talk themselves.

"Blaze, you've gotta take it easy around these guys." said Silver "They don't know what we're going through and what our problems are so you shouldn't get mad at them just because they seem misunderstood about us. Not to mention, I bet seeing two future Mobians is overwhelming enough as it is for them."

"I know what you mean Silver." sighed Blaze "It's just with what's going on recently, it's hard to keep myself under control. And I don't see why that mouse still seems to have a grudge on me even though I apologized for my earlier actions. Maybe she's on of those types that needs a while before they can forgive you or something?"

"Possibly." said Silver "I'm sure you and Mandy can work it out and make up at last. Until then, we have to work together and try to put our differences aside for the time being or we'll never find the last three Sol Emeralds."

While they had been talking, Ginger had been staring from behind the thorn bush at Geoffrey's backpack, which was lying beside the skunk and the top of the pack was open so Ginger could see what was inside it. And to his utmost surprise, there were three Sol Emeralds in it! The fox was so surprised that he almost squealed in astonishment but that would give him away so he kept himself quiet. Instead, he whispered to himself.

"Sonic's friends…have the last four Sol Emeralds we need?" he squeaked in excitement "Oh what serendipity! What marvellous serendipity! Marik finds three over a course of time whereas I, the brilliant Ginger the Fox, have found four all in one go! I really am an amazing boy aren't I? Just wait till Scourge sees all these when I deliver them to him! He'll make me his best friend for life and then I'll no longer be his punching bag! But how can I get them all and throw them off the trail?"

He thought to himself and he racked his brain several times over for an idea. He could of course just steal the backpack but then he'd only have three emeralds as Blaze had one with her and Geoffrey was bound to get suspicious once he noticed his backpack was missing. And it was bound to be hard to steal the grey Sol Emerald as Blaze was holding it with her and she was sure to notice him if he was trying to steal it. Then Ginger noticed some rather chunky stones lying near the thorn bush he was hiding behind. They were roughly the same size as a Sol Emerald and the weight was sure to be similar at the most, smiliar enough to be mistake for a Sol Emerald. Ginger knew what he was going to do now. He lay down on his tummy and he crawled across the ground as if he was a giant, furry, twin-tailed caterpillar. He crawled ever so quietly, so quietly in fact that nobody, not even Mandy and her excellent ears could hear him crawling towards Geoffrey. The ginger fox slid himself across until he reached Geoffrey's backpack and he grabbed it. Nobody seemed to notice, they were too busy talking to each other. Ginger then carefully stuck his hand inside and he took the Sol Emeralds out of it, making sure he didn't make a single noise. He put the emeralds on his tails and they balanced perfectly on them. Ginger then crawled backwards away from Geoffrey while carrying the Sol Emeralds on his tails. He crawled all the way back to the thorn bush and put the emeralds down. He glared bitterly at the yellow and purple ones as he considered purple to be a girls only colour (how wrong is he on that?) and yellow reminded him bitterly of Tails. In fact, Ginger pretty much had a prejudice against anything yellow due to the fact it reminded him of Tails' fur colour. He quite fancied the red one though. He loved red as in his opinion, it says you are strong, mighty and masculine (which it doesn't). Now Ginger had the Sol Emeralds, he grabbed three rocks, balanced them on his tails and crawled quietly back over to Geoffrey's back pack. He reached the backpack and he put the rocks in them. Geoffrey wouldn't notice he'd been robbed until it was too late thanks to those rocks. Ginger grinned stupidly to himself and he crawled behind a nearby bush. He crawled behind the bushes ever so quietly as he edged his way towards Blaze the Cat. He made it to Blaze but kept behind the bush in order to keep himself scarce. He observed her from behind the bush and noticed that the grey Sol Emerald was lying just next to her. It was near enough for Ginger to just reach out and grab it. The fox rubbed his hands greedily and he reached out to grab the emerald ever so quietly. Unfortunately, Tails spotted his hand and he alerted Blaze to him.

"Blaze, someone's reaching for your emerald!" he cried.

Blaze was up on her feet in a millisecond and she noticed Ginger's fingers closing around the Sol Emerald. She grabbed Ginger's hand and burnt it with her fiery fingertips. Ginger yelped like a person who's just plopped his hand on the cooker while it was on and he furiously blew on his hand in order to cool it down. While doing so, Ginger accidentally fell out of the bush, revealing himself to the group and earning a very angry expression from Tails in particular. The fox picked himself up and stared at everybody, nervous about the fact he'd just been found out and a bunch of angry faces were staring at him right now. He looked like he was just about to poop himself in fear.

"Um…hi guys?" squeaked Ginger in a very funny, high pitched voice that made him sound like he was on helium.

"Ginger!" growled Tails "You scum-bucket, what are you doing here?"

"You know this kid?" asked Silver.

"Unfortunately." muttered Tails "He's…a rival of mine that I wished I'd never seen in all my life."

"You are such a liar Tails!" snapped Ginger "I'm your cousin, not just your rival! We are related you know!"

"You may say we are but I refuse to acknowledge you as such because of how selfish, mean and horrible you are, especially to me when I was younger!" snapped Tails "You are not my cousin, and I am not related to you in anyway! You're just a big bullying rival of mine and I am going to make you wish you'd never been born when I'm through with you!"

"You want a pounding then I'll give you one!" yelled Ginger, charging towards Tails with his fists bared.

Tails leaped out of Ginger's way and dropkicked him in the back of the head as the opinionated twin-tailed fox ran past him. Ginger ended up hurling into a thorn bush and he got prickled very badly by the sharp, dense thorns. The fox yelped in pain and he landed painfully on his bottom. Tails then proceeded to leap on Ginger, pin him down and punch him repeatedly in the face.

"This is for ruining my life two years ago!" screeched Tails, pounding Ginger on the bridge of his nose, making the fox squeal in pain "And for all you've done under Scourge's orders!" he punched him again, making him squeal once more "And for being a horrible person!" he punched him again, giving the fox a nose bleed.

Silver and Blaze took note of what Tails was doing and they began to assume Ginger was clearly not on Tails' good side at all.

"Wow, those two really don't like each other do they?" asked Silver.

"Well according to what he's told us, Ginger abused him when he was younger and made life hard for him." said Cosmo "And he's working for Scourge the Hedgehog, Sonic's evil brother so that makes Tails hate him even more."

"Sonic has an evil brother?" questioned Silver "I didn't think someone of his nature would ever have an evil relative at all!"

"If he's working for a villain then we can assume he's here to cause trouble." said Blaze "Tails seems to have him under control though so we can just leave him to it."

Tails gave Ginger one last punch and then he threw the fox straight into a tree. Ginger coughed and spluttered hoarsely as pain flooded up his body. Tails had punched him pretty hard and his face was laden with bruises. His nose was bleeding and he had a bump on his forehead. Tails however, didn't seem to be finished with Ginger yet. He advanced on the ginger fox and prepared to deck him again but Ginger tripped him up with one swipe of his tails. Tails landed on his back and Ginger stomped on his stomach, making the poor fox wheeze heavily. Ginger then proceeded to fly towards Blaze and snatch the Sol Emerald out of her hand. He then flew off as fast as he could with Blaze rapidly throwing fire at him.

"You give that back to me right now!" screamed Blaze.

Ginger's response was to shake his bum at her. Ginger then flew over to the thorn bush, picked up the other three Sol Emeralds and flew off as fast as he could. This prompted Silver and Blaze to run after him as fast as they could. Silver levitated off the ground and flew after Ginger whereas Blaze ran after him. Tails and the others joined him, running after the ginger fox as fast as they could. Ginger flew desperately through the forest, trying to avoid flying into a tree accidentally. His heart was racing like mad and his tails were spinning around faster then a helicopter's propeller blade. Ginger weaved his way through the trees in an attempt to slow everybody down but Silver was equally at good at flying as he was so he was catching up to him easily. Unfortunately, before Silver could even catch Ginger, Scourge appeared from nowhere and spin-dashed him out of the sky. Silver landed rather painfully on his back and he grimaced. Scourge landed before Silver and Ginger flew down beside him. Marik and Fiona showed up from nowhere too and they stared down at Silver.

"Hey, it's the guy with the funny quill-do we spied on earlier!" piped Fiona.

"I spied on him too." said Marik "I bet he's here to be a pain for us."

Silver picked himself up and stared angrily at the villains standing before him. As for the others, they caught up to Silver and they couldn't believe their eyes as they saw Scourge, Fiona and Marik standing there, ready to cause trouble. As for Ginger, he handed Scourge the four Sol Emeralds he'd just stolen.

"Scourge, you won't believe this." said Ginger "I've just found the last four Sol Emeralds and got them for you. Now we have all seven! Aren't I amazing?"

Geoffrey stared in horror at the Sol Emeralds and he tore his backpack off his back and looked in it, only to find rocks inside it. He just spilled the rocks onto the ground and he grumbled to himself.

"The bloke robbed us and we didn't even realize it." he muttered "Now Scourge has all seven Sol Emeralds according to Ginger."

He then glowered at Ginger, who handed Scourge the emeralds and beamed with pride. But instead of praising Ginger, Scourge backhanded him directly into a tree angrily, earning a sadistic chuckle from Marik.

"You moron!" he bellowed "You went off without us and then you go and lead Sonic's friends right to us! Do you realize what you were thinking Ginger?"

"But…I got the emeralds…" protested Ginger.

"And you've lead Sonic's friends right to us!" snarled Scourge "Our cover's blown and now we're gonna have them getting in our way and trying to stop us from making off with the emeralds! You've messed up big Ginger!"

Ginger couldn't believe what Scourge was saying to him. Scourge was criticizing him instead of praising him? Was there anyway to get in Scourge's good books at all? As for Scourge, he turned to face the Mobians and he smirked at them.

"Hey up guys and girls." he said "Nice of you to drop by and get your butts kicked by yours truly, Scourge the Hedgehog. Where's Sonic?"

"He's…elsewhere." said Tails "But we'll stop you and Marik on his behalf!"

"Oh really fox boy?" sneered Marik "I doubt that'll be happening for we have these."

He pulled out the three Sol Emeralds in his jacket and Scourge showed them the four Ginger had just stolen from them.

"All seven of your emeralds silver boy and cat girl." purred Marik "How about that then?"

Silver and Blaze only glared at the two villains as they smirked triumphantly at them with the Sol Emeralds in their hands…

Back on Mobius Nega, Sonic and the Nega-Mobians were in a very tight battle with the monstrous Shadow Sonic, the Nega-version of Silver Sonic from the prime zone. Shadow Sonic was every bit as brutal, murderous and lethal as Silver Sonic but the one thing that made him stand out from Silver Sonic was this eerie ability it had. It could shadow-meld, meaning it could disappear into shadows and reappear out of another one so that once Sonic or the Nega-Mobians tried to attack it, it just sank down into a shadow, reappeared out of another one and nabbed them. The fight had been pretty tense and Sonic was beginning to doubt if they could actually defeat it right now. Sonic spin-dashed towards Shadow Sonic but Shadow Sonic backhanded him into the wall, causing him to crash into it and leave a nasty dent in it. Sonic groaned in annoyance and he pulled himself out of the wall. Scourge Nega spin-dashed Shadow Sonic in the face and sent it staggering backwards. Shadow Sonic quickly regained its balance just as Scourge Nega was about to spin-dash it again. Shadow Sonic stepped into a shadow and he shadow-melded into the shadow once again. It shrank right down into the shadow as if it was melting into a shadowy puddle. Scourge Nega hit the shadow just as Shadow Sonic disappeared. Scourge Nega quickly leaped away from the shadow and ran for it but Shadow Sonic reappeared through a shadow in the ceiling and it spin-dashed him. It chipped him across the side and the green hedgehog in the white leather jacket cried out in pain as it swept over his body like an ocean wave on a hot sunny day at the beach. Scourge Nega lay on the floor, clutching his arm and grunting in pain. Amy Nega aimed her wrist mounted laser at Shadow Sonic's head. She fired at it and the shot hit home but it just pinged harmlessly off his armour. Shadow Sonic glared at Amy Nega and he advanced on her menacingly. Amy Nega began firing her laser at him furiously but the shots just continued to ping harmlessly off of Shadow Sonic's tough armour. His armour could deflect cannon blasts it was that strong. Amy Nega instantly panicked and she began to run around the room furiously.

"They're no good! The lasers are no good!" she screamed "We need another weapon!"

"We don't have any other weapons." noted Tails Nega "And the others are outside keeping Eggman Nega's forces at bay so they can't help us. I bet their weapons won't be any good against that thing anyway."

"Then we'll just have to hope Sonic and Scourge can spin-dash that thing to pieces." said Amy Nega as she avoided a claw attack from Shadow Sonic.

Sonic and Scourge Nega both spin-dashed Shadow Sonic together and they sent the huge, black and purple machine sprawling across the floor. Shadow Sonic picked himself up and he spin-dashed towards Sonic and Scourge Nega. The two hedgehogs dodged it's attack and Shadow Sonic screeched to a halt. Sonic tried to spin-dash Shadow Sonic but Shadow Sonic grabbed him and threw him into a wall. Scourge Nega spin-dashed it in the shoulder and knocked it to the side but Shadow Sonic regained his balance and he kicked Scourge Nega straight into the ceiling. Tails Nega flew into Shadow Sonic's optics and he covered them. Shadow Sonic couldn't see a thing at all with the fox in the leather jacket covering it's optics. Shadow Sonic attempted to swat Tails Nega but Tails Nega flew out of it's way, causing it to clout itself on the head and knock itself onto it's back. Amy Nega then proceeded to shoot some of Shadow Sonic's bladed quills on the back of it's head with her laser. The lasers hit the blades and cracked them slightly. Anymore clear shots like that and they would break. Shadow Sonic picked himself up and stomped the ground, making Amy Nega fall over onto her back. He then proceeded to advance on Amy Nega and raise his foot, preparing to squash her like a crawly little insect. Amy Nega covered her eyes and feared the worst as fate began to claim her life. Sonic however, spin-dashed Shadow Sonic's leg and knocked him over onto his back. The whole room seemed to shake as it fell onto it's back. Sonic then helped Amy Nega onto her feet and the pink hedgehog beamed at him.

"Thank you Sonic Prime." she said "You saved my life, much like how Sonic Nega usually does when we're in a scrap."

"Don't mention it Ames." said Sonic casually "It's my job to save people's lives. Besides, I often save the Amy on my zone's life so it figure I should save yours as well."

Shadow Sonic decided to interrupt this moment and stand back up with it's claws bared and optics narrowed onto Sonic and Amy Nega. Amy Nega shot a laser at it's optics and that stunned him momentarily. Shadow Sonic rubbed it's optics better and while it did that, Sonic spin-dashed it directly in the groin but being as robots can't feel pain, it didn't feel any pain from that very painful and powerful attack. Shadow Sonic bent down and prepared to snatch Sonic up but Scourge Nega spin-dashed it in the bottom and knocked it over onto it's face. Shadow Sonic stood up on all fours and scampered nosily over to another shadow. It shadow-melded once again and disappeared into the shadow. The Mobians kept their senses alert as they prepared for it to suddenly appear from nowhere again. Shadow Sonic however, stealthily reappeared from a shadow behind Tails Nega and he backhanded the fox across the room. The fox hit the wall at enough force to smash a brick and Tails Nega suddenly found himself passing out from that attack. Amy Nega ran over to the fox to see if he was alright while the hedgehogs continued to attack Shadow Sonic. Scourge Nega dropkicked Shadow Sonic in the face and then roundhouse kicked him in the cheek before he could fall back down to the floor.

"Nobody hurts my late brother's little buddy like that!" he yelled "Prepare to feel the thunder bolt brain!"

Scourge Nega then proceeded to spin-dash Shadow Sonic directly in the cranium. That attack dented it slightly but not seriously. Shadow Sonic then proceeded to backhand Scourge Nega directly into the wall. Sonic spin-dashed Shadow Sonic in the leg but Shadow Sonic kicked him away and the hedgehog landed slap bang into the wall. He groaned furiously and he pulled himself out of the wall.

"This guy's a toughie." he muttered to himself "He's like Silver Sonic, only with the ability to disappear into the shadows. I never did beat Silver Sonic so can I beat this guy? Of course you can Sonic! You've beaten giant robots capable of cracking planets apart, although I was super for that, so you can defeat this guy easily! I will not let Amy Nega down. I've gotta help save her world and restore it back to normal or Dr. Eggman Nega will steal all the Chaos Emeralds of the multi-verse and rule all of space and time itself!"

Sonic picked himself up and zoomed towards Shadow Sonic, ready to continue the battle and throw another punch or two at the giant, black Silver Sonic re colour that was the only thing preventing him from having an audience with Dr. Eggman Nega…

Story 87: The Dark Side of the World Part 2

Today had been pretty darn busy for our hero Sonic the Hedgehog. First he went on a search for the Sol Emeralds after Royal HQ picked them up, then he meets Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, two dwellers from a post apocalyptic future (which worries him right now), then he chases a mouse-bot to another zone, then he meets alternate counterparts of some of his friends and then he joins them in their crusade against the nefarious and mad Dr. Eggman Nega, the alternate counterpart of Dr. Eggman, Sonic's flabby and rotund foe. Eggman Nega was plotting the craziest scheme in the history of crazy schemes too, stealing Chaos Emeralds from every time zone and plotting to use them to reshape the multi-verse as he sees fit and becoming ruler of it. Right now, he was in an epic tussle with a Silver Sonic re-colour known as Shadow Sonic, a robot that could shadow-meld as well as do everything Silver Sonic could. If Sonic won then he and Eggman Nega would have a battle for the planet but Shadow Sonic was on top of the game right now. Tails Nega had been knocked out, Amy Nega couldn't really do anything about it and her team mates Miranda, Geoffrey and Bunnie Nega were outside keeping the crowds of metallized-Mobians and Egg-Pawns busy, meaning only Sonic and Scourge Nega could really fight the machine. But even Sonic and Scourge Nega's best efforts were not match for the invincible, shadow melding machine. Sonic homing attack Shadow Sonic but Shadow Sonic head-butted him and sent him flying into the floor. Scourge Nega climbed up it's arm and kick-slammed him in the face but Shadow Sonic took the impact and flicked Scourge Nega off as if he was a scrawny little fly begging to be flicked off one's shoulder. Scourge Nega crashed into a wall and he grimaced in pain. Sonic spin-dashed towards Shadow Sonic but Shadow Sonic shadow-melded into the shadows once again and it vanished into the darkness of the shadows in a fashion that looked like it was being submerged into water. Sonic stopped and landed on the shadow, prompting Shadow Sonic to quickly reappear from right underneath his feet and send him flying into the ceiling as he emerged from underneath him. Sonic's face contorted with hurt as pain swept over his body. He felt like he'd just been smashed to pieces. Shadow Sonic however, leaped up off the floor, grabbed Sonic, peeled him off the wall and slam-dunked him directly on the floor. This caused Amy Nega to scream in anguish and her eyes brimmed with tears. It was almost like Sonic Nega was going to get killed all over again for her due to the fact Sonic was the spitting image of his Nega-counterpart. Shadow Sonic made a strange noise that made it sound like it was laughing and it prepared to stomp on the downed hedgehog but Scourge Nega spin-dashed him an knocked him off his feet. Shadow Sonic landed sharply on it's side and it made an electronic wailing sound. Amy Nega ran over to Sonic and helped him up affectionately.

"Oh Sonic are you alright?" she shrieked exasperatedly "Please be OK! I don't wanna see another Sonic die under my watch again!"

Sonic's response was to weakly open his eyes and make a pained noise that made it sound like just using his vocal chords to some effect was physically painful to him. Amy Nega beamed happily, glad to see Sonic was alive but he was in pretty bad shape. He didn't look like he was able to keep this battle up any longer.

"Ugggghhhhh…..groaned Sonic, clutching his forehead "Crud that hurt! That Shadow Sonic…ugh! really packs quite a few punches doesn't he?"

"Well like I said, he completely levelled Empire City." said Amy Nega "It's a dangerous machine and none have defeated it yet. I'm just thankful that with you and Scourge Nega teaming up, we're actually putting up a decent battle against it. We couldn't do this well before."

"Well Amy Nega, I'm gonna be the first to take it down." claimed Sonic "I have a tactic that might just work."

Sonic ran over to Scourge Nega, a little slower then usual as he was banged up, and he began to run around the black, Sonic-esque machine. Shadow Sonic stopped what he was doing and he followed Sonic as he ran around him. Scourge Nega watched Sonic run and instantly knew what he was up to.

"Oh yeah! The Sonic Tornado!" cried Scourge Nega "Count me in!"

With that said, he ran around Shadow Sonic and joined him in making the Sonic Tornado. Shadow Sonic began to wonder what was going on and it tried to shadow-meld but there were no shadows anywhere so it couldn't. Sonic and Scourge Nega ran around Shadow Sonic at full supersonic speed until they were nothing more then green and blue blurs circling around him. Shadow Sonic was then picked up the winds the two hedgehogs were creating and slowly began to spin around. The blurs expanded upwards and became a blue and green tornado that circled around and around at a blinding speed. Shadow Sonic was then thrown around and around by the Sonic Tornado before finally, he was catapulted out of the tornado and thrown straight into a wall. The crash into the wall was so hard that the blades on the back of it's head snapped in two due to the fact Amy Nega had weakened them earlier with her laser attacks and it's back blades were deeply embedded into the wall, rendering Shadow Sonic stuck into the wall. The attack seemed to have shaken it severely though as it just stood there in a mindless manner and then it's head flopped down, suggesting it had been knocked out. Sonic however, wanted the machine destroyed and now it was knocked out, he had a perfect opportunity to do so. He and Scourge Nega then proceeded to spin-dash Shadow Sonic's unconscious body over and over in hopes of eventually destroying the machine. After a good round of spin-dashing for a minute or so, Sonic and Scourge Nega finally managed to penetrate Shadow Sonic. They left heavy dents on it's body and Sonic then decided to cleave straight through it's head, sawing it on half and killing the machine in an instant. Shadow Sonic would not be functioning again in a hurry, it was offline at last. Sonic and Scourge Nega high-fived each other and they cheered happily.

"Whoo! Heck yeah!" cried Sonic "We destroyed it at last!"

"That Sonic Tornado worked to perfection!" cheered Scourge Nega "We totally knocked that thing out and then we spin-dashed it to tiny little bits!"

"Well done you two magnificent hedgehogs." said Amy Nega, hugging them both happily "We won the challenge and now Sonic gets to challenge Eggman Nega for our freedom."

"I bet he's gonna win." said Scourge Nega "Hey Sonic, give Eggman Nega a good pounding for me will ya?"

"Don't sweat it Scourgey, I will." said Sonic.

Then suddenly, a giant robot materialized into the room and stood before Sonic and friends. They stared in surprise at the robot that had just appeared into the room. Even Tails Nega finally woke up despite passing out earlier and he gaped at the robot that was now in the room and standing before them. The robot was a giant bulky machine with insect like features. It had insect legs on it's ribs and back, it had huge zigzag shaped legs, bulky arms with blades on the sides and a mace and shield in place of hands. The head was shaped like Eggman Nega's head and Eggman Nega was housed inside this giant robot.

"Marvellous work Sonic my friend." Eggman Nega's voice boomed out from inside the casing "You've passed my test with amazing skill and efficiency and now, as we promised, here I am standing before you in my robot battle armour. I prefer to call it the Nega-Buster and it's my own personal set of weapons and fighting abilities."

"So I guess I'll be fighting you in that then?" asked Sonic "Fair enough. Let's do it to it then!"

"Yes let's my dear hedgehog of a hearty and heroic nature." purred Eggman Nega "Let's fight each other and win the ultimate prize which is the world of course. I warn you though Sonic that you won't walk out of this fight alive as this armour is built to match Sonic Nega's abilities in everyway. You may not be Sonic Nega but your abilities are the same so it'll match you too."

"We'll see about that Eggman Nega." said Sonic "Your Nega-Buster is going to be Nega-Busted!"

And with that, the two lunged for each other and they prepared to do battle with each other. Amy Nega, Scourge Nega and Tails Nega could only watch as the two engaged in combat and they were all thinking the same thing to themselves.

Please Sonic, defeat Eggman Nega and free us from his tyranny…

Back on the Prime Zone, two of Sonic's deadliest enemies Scourge the Hedgehog and Marik the Martian, accompanied by Scourge's sidekicks Fiona Fox and Ginger the Fox, had just managed to capture all seven Sol Emeralds, futuristic Chaos Emeralds with fire powers, and now they stood before the futuristic couple that owned them, Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat. Sonic's friends Tails, Cosmo, Geoffrey Wilson and Mandy were with them and they weren't pleased at all to see two of Sonic's big named bad guys standing before them. Marik was holding the Sol Emeralds in his hands and he was grinning wickedly at them. The Mobians hesitated, wondering what Marik was going to do with the emeralds.

"What's the matter mongrels?" sneered Marik "Too scared of me now I have some fiery gems in my hands right now?"

"How do you know about their fiery power freak?" demanded Silver angrily.

"Well the fact you can feel a curious fiery streak as you touch these emeralds was a big give-away." noted Marik "And the fact they're called "Sol Emeralds" adds to the theory too. Before you even ask how we know about these gems, me and Scourge both eavesdropped on you after you came from that warp ring with that strange looking mouse bot."

"You scum!" yelled Blaze furiously, summoning fire to her hands "Spying on us and then hunting for my emeralds yourselves? I will show you four black hearted fiends no mercy unless you hand over those emeralds now!"

"You really don't give us enough credit do ya toots?" sneered Scourge "We've worked hard finding these babies and now you want us to just hand them over? You've got a death wish if you think we're gonna be stupid enough to do that!"

"Well if you won't give us the Sol Emeralds then we'll fight you for them." said Mandy with a daring expression on her face "Winner takes all, loser stands small and all that stuff. "Do you accept?"

"Without a moment's hesitation." said Scourge with a devilish grin on his face that could make a lion feel nervous "I like a good battle before it take over the world. Not to mention, it gives me an excuse to beat up Sonic's playhouse club just to annoy him."

"I accept too." said Marik, putting the Sol Emeralds down on the ground and preparing to fight "I have scores to settle with each of you. Accept you two as I've only just met you." he said to Silver and Blaze "Who are you two by the way?"

"Silver the Hedgehog." introduced Silver.

"Blaze the Cat." introduced Blaze.

"Oh, that's too bad." said Marik "However, I hate all Mobians as we Martians only love races who fantasise warfare and destruction and you Mobians are the antithesis of war-loving."

"Martian?" mused Silver "What's a Martian?"

"I would give you the necessary exposition to educate your young mind silver boy but now's not the time for it." snapped Marik "Now is the time for a battle."

"So be it." said Blaze coldly, preparing to let her new enemies have a face full of fire "You'll only regret not giving us the Sol Emeralds and ending this peacefully."

"You guys can have Scourge and Marik." said Tails bluntly "Ginger's mine." he added with a death glare squarely aimed at his loathsome cousin who only glared at him back.

"And Fiona's mine." said Mandy with a glower at the red vixen "I still wanna teach her a lesson for betraying us all and running off with Scourge."

"So that leaves Scourge and Marik to us then." said Geoffrey St. John "Fair enough, either of those blokes will do nicely for me."

So now the fight was settled, the opponents all prepared to deck each other. Tails and Ginger faced each other and prepared to beat the tar out of each other, Fiona and Mandy prepared to have one hell of a catfight and Scourge and Marik prepared to unleash hell on Silver, Blaze, Wilson and Geoffrey. Cosmo decided to stay out of this as she didn't like violence and wasn't much of a fighter. She respectfully stood back from the fighters as they prepared to attack each other and fight for the Sol Emeralds.

"Let's go guys, for Silver and Blaze and our future!" cried Tails in a leader-like fashion.

"Let's go guys, for world domination!" yelled Scourge in a very intimidating manner and pointing straight forward menacingly with his teeth clenched and bared.

Nobody needed to say anything else. The Mobians all lunged for one another and engaged in battle. Curiously enough though, Marik just stood there and watched as the fight broke out, an unusual motive for the Martian as he was usually the first to run into battle. He watched as Scourge began to battle Silver, Blaze, Geoffrey and Wilson all at once, Mandy and Fiona as they linked arms and began to push on each other and Tails and Ginger as they flew into the sky and began to kick each other's brains out. Scourge punched Silver in the gut, kicked Blaze in the legs and tripped her up and then did a split-kick in-between Geoffrey and Wilson, knocking them both onto their sides. Silver however, grabbed Scourge with his psychokinesis and he threw Scourge into a bush. The green hedgehog leaped back out in a spin-dash but Silver stopped him in his tracks with another psychic hold. He threw Scourge straight into Ginger, knocking him out of the sky and giving Tails a chance to punch Ginger in the nose. Scourge picked himself up and lunged back towards his opponents, only to get a fiery kick from Blaze that sent him sprawling on the ground. Geoffrey ran in and kicked Scourge over onto his back but the green hedgehog picked himself up and head-butted Geoffrey in the gut. He then pulled Geoffrey close to himself and kneed him in the gut. The skunk wheezed louder then somebody having an asthma attack. Wilson drew out his spinning blade weapon and he tried to slice Scourge into ribbons with it. Scourge dodged Wilson's attack but Silver knocked him over with a psychic wave that he swiped at him. The green hedgehog growled angrily and he shot a death glare at Marik, who was just standing there watching him with a big, evil smirk on his face.

"Marik you *&$%^! Help me!" roared Scourge "I'm getting my ass kicked here!"

"And that's why I'm enjoying this." sneered Marik "Watching you getting your arse kicked is quite an amusing novelty for me. Not to mention…I have emeralds to take!"

He then proceeded to scoop up all seven Sol Emeralds and run off with them as fast as he could on his golden jet shoes! Scourge looked like somebody had just stabbed him in the groin. He could feel himself bubbling with rage. Marik had only been pretending to work with him all the time so he could make off with the goods! And to think he had been bone idle enough to believe that Martian even for a second! He really wanted to kill that Martian now.

"YOU &%^$&!" he bellowed "I'LL KILL YOU FOR THIS!"

He tried to run after Marik but Silver stopped him dead in his tracks with a psychic hold he summoned. Scourge tried to move but Silver's hold over him was much too strong. Few people could actually break through Silver's psychokinesis. As for Marik, Cosmo had seen him jolt off with the Sol Emeralds and she didn't want Marik to get away with them. Not to mention, she had a score to settle with Marik due to the fact the Martians were at war with her kind. Cosmo grabbed one of the stones Ginger had stuffed in Geoffrey's backpack and she ran off after Marik. Tails tail-whipped Ginger away and noticed that Cosmo was running after Marik the Martian. The fox was horrified at this and he tried to fly after her.

"Cosmo! Come back!" cried Tails "Marik will kill you!"

He was suddenly pounced on by Ginger who then proceeded to throw him down onto the ground. Ginger flew towards Tails with a stupid expression on his face and he tried to grab him by the throat but Tails kicked him in the gut and knocked him down. Tails then leaped back onto his feet and gave Ginger an uppercut to the chin that almost shattered his jaw.

"Somebody please help Cosmo before Marik kills her!" screamed Tails "I'm tied up with Ginger right now!"

"I'll do it." said Silver, throwing Scourge head first into a tree with his psychic powers.

Silver left Scourge with the others while he chased after Marik and Cosmo. He levitated off the ground and flew after them at top speed.

Further up the forest, Marik looked over his shoulder and noticed Cosmo was chasing him. The Seedrian's tiredness was evident as she appeared to be panting so hard you'd think she had already run a mile or so despite the fact they'd only been running for a minute. The Martian grinned to himself and he did a wild U-turn that almost sent him skidding across the ground on his side. He dropped the Sol Emeralds and charged towards Cosmo and rammed straight into her, causing her to drop the stone and he pinned the Seedrian straight against a tree. The Seedrian squirmed in the Martian's grasp as he squashed her up against the tree. Marik flashed her a twisted, sadistic grin that could give anybody nightmares, even the bravest of people and he bared his sharp metal claws. Cosmo shivered like a person standing in the Arctic with no clothes on and she stared straight at Marik's claws.

"This may not be the day I take Sonic's heart." crooned Marik "But it'll be the day I take yours!"

He drew his arm backwards and prepared to plunge them into the terrified Seedrian's chest until he was hit by a psychically enhanced punch from Silver who finally caught up to him and Cosmo ambushed him from the side. Marik skidded roughly across his side and he groaned in annoyance. Marik leaped onto his feet and he pounced on Silver but Silver stopped him directly in his path with his psychokinesis. Marik was completely frozen now, unable to so much as bat an eyelid and surrounded by the familiar teal glow of Silver the Hedgehog. Silver then proceeded to curve his fingers, raise his hands and hold them close together. Marik then clutched his head in agony as if Silver was crushing it with invisible hands that clasped tightly around his head and began squeezing it. Marik yelped in pain and he tried to clutch his head but Silver's psychic hold was preventing him from doing so.

"Ouch! Ow! Stop it you wretch!" squealed Marik "You're giving me a migraine!"

Silver ignored him and continued psychically squeezing Marik's head. Then, after all that squeezing, Marik finally passed out and Silver let him go. Marik dropped down onto the ground and he lay there, unconscious and motionless. Cosmo was relieved to see the Martian down and she stepped up to Silver.

"Thank you so much." said Cosmo sweetly "You saved my life."

"You're welcome Cosmo." said Silver casually "So is this Marik the Martian here someone to worry about?"

"He is." said Cosmo "He's a war-loving demon with a prejudice against peace and will do anything to take it from us. He's very powerful, being able to fight many of Sonic's friends to a stand still and even Sonic himself so he must be contained."

"In that case, I'll hinder him in someway in order to make it easier for you to fight him." said Silver.

He looked at Marik's jet shoes and recognized them as such immediately due to the jets in the soles of the shoes. He'd only seen pictures of jet shoes from books he read about past technology and he wished he could see them in action. And yet, he was going to break them right now. Silver aimed his hands at Marik's shows and they were surrounded by a teal glow. Silver concentrated hard on the shoes with his eyes closed and he clenched his fists. The shoes then suddenly sparked and hissed louder then a snake pit. Marik's jet shoes had been disabled. The Martian was not going to be able to use them for flying or quick getaways anymore (even though he couldn't use them for flying anymore anyway*). Marik would be stuck to just merely walking and running normally now. Silver smirked at Marik and he walked away from him.

"Marik's jet shoes are disabled." said Silver "You'll catch him a lot easier now next time you face him."

"Why are you just leaving Marik behind then?" asked Cosmo "Why aren't you detaining him?"

"We don't have the time for that now Cosmo." said Silver, picking up the Sol Emeralds with his psychokinesis and bringing them to himself "Sonic's trapped in another world and we need to help him and your friends may need help taking down Scourge. You look after the Sol Emeralds while I fight Scourge." he said to the Seedrian "When we reach the battlefield, you hide behind a bush and keep the emeralds close to you while I help defeat Scourge."

"OK Silver." said Cosmo "Thank you for everything you've just done for me and my friends now."

"Anytime Cosmo, anytime." said Silver, levitating off the ground and flying through the forest with the Sol Emeralds around him.

Cosmo ran after him as quickly as she possibly could, leaving Marik to just lie there on the ground in unconsciousness. Silver had squeezed his head pretty tight so he would be asleep for a while now.

Back at the battlefield, the fights were all getting more and more intense as they went on. Scourge was keeping everybody he was fighting on their toes, Tails and Ginger were still battering each other's brains out and Fiona and Mandy's fight was beginning to get more and more vicious as they battled. Fiona swiped at Mandy and tried to scratch her face like women fighting each other usually do but Mandy dodged the attack and kicked Fiona in the gut. Fiona gasped in pain and she retaliated with a twirl around and then a roundhouse kick to the face. Mandy gripped her face and she quickly rubbed it better just as Fiona punched her in the jaw. Mandy retaliated with a furious left hook that made Fiona stagger and she did a roundhouse kick to the face on Fiona. Fiona glowered at Mandy and she stomped on her foot furiously. Mandy grimaced in pain and she clutched her foot, only for Fiona to roundhouse kick her in the legs and bring her down onto her back. Fiona then tried to stomp on Mandy's face but the mouse caught her foot and tripped her up. Fiona landed on her face beside Mandy and Mandy clasped her fists together and then slammed them on Fiona's back. She picked herself up and kicked Fiona onto her back. Fiona picked herself up and she fist-slammed Mandy in the gut. Then she grabbed Mandy in a chokehold and began to throttle her. Mandy gagged loudly but she managed to get free by biting Fiona on the arm. Fiona screamed in pain and let go of Mandy, giving the purple-furred mouse a chance to ram her with her shoulder and knock her into a bush. Mandy then took a moment to slip on her brass knuckle attachments (which were fixed from the fight with Alonzo) and she waited for Fiona to get back to her feet. Fiona stood back up and she lunged at Mandy. Mandy launched a sucker punch that almost broke Fiona's jawbone. Fiona fell to the ground, clutching her jaw and grimacing tensely as if just touching it was painful. Mandy stood over Fiona and put her hands on her hips in a stern manner.

"I'm disgusted how low you're still willing to stoop you filthy traitor." she hissed angrily "As if trying to subjugate Royal HQ wasn't enough, you're now trying to steal seven emeralds that belong to a couple from the future so Scourge can use them for his own nefarious purposes. When will you be satisfied Fiona?"

"I'll be satisfied when the R.F.S. goes up in flames, all it's members are buried in a graveyard and Scourge is ruler of the world." snapped Fiona, picking herself up and preparing to do battle again "Your death is one thing I'll be satisfied with. You and Geoffrey lowered my self-esteem and made me quit so you brought this on yourselves you mousey moron."

"We brought nothing on ourselves wretch!" snapped Mandy "The fact you wouldn't take our constructive criticisms to heart and use them to improve yourself is the reason you quit! Not us! What happened to you before you met Scourge was brought upon by one person and that is you Fiona!"

That statement just seemed to make Fiona go rabid with rage.

"Liar!" barked Fiona, lunging on Mandy and knocking the mouse on to the ground.

The mouse however raised her legs and threw Fiona off herself. Fiona landed on her back painfully and Mandy picked herself up, ready to attack again. Fiona stood up and spun around with a vicious kick to the jaw that left a nasty mark on Mandy's cheek and one of her teeth ended up being chipped. Mandy retaliated with an uppercut that was made all the more harder by her brass knuckle attachments. Fiona uppercut Mandy back and then elbowed her in the chest. She then backhanded Mandy onto the ground and stomped on her shoulder. Mandy screamed a bloodcurdling scream of anguish as pain flooded up her arm like a raging rapid. Fiona tried to stomp on Mandy's face but the mouse wrapped her yellow tail around her other leg and tripped the vixen up. Mandy then swung her leg down on Fiona's belly while she was down and Fiona wheezed ever so hoarsely. Mandy picked herself up and she grabbed Fiona by the arms. She hoisted Fiona onto her feet and leaned back on one leg. She then shot her leg outwards and sent Fiona hurling backwards into a bush. The mouse ran over to the vixen and prepared to deck her again.

Meanwhile, Scourge was beginning to get on top of the battle now Silver wasn't here. He spin-dashed Blaze and sent her hurling into a tree and then he jumped over to Wilson. He gave Wilson a right hook to the jaw and then an uppercut to the chin that actually sent Wilson hurling into the air and ended up getting him stuck on a tree branch! Geoffrey stepped in and he punched Scourge in the collarbone. He then spun around and tail-whipped Scourge in the legs and tripped him up. He tried to grab Scourge but Scourge kangaroo kicked the skunk in the abdomen. Geoffrey retaliated by firing a flash bomb out of his arm-mounted crossbow in Scourge's eyes, blinding the hedgehog for a moment. Geoffrey took advantage of Scourge's distracted nature to give Scourge a left and right hook each to the face and then a roundhouse kick to the shoulder that threw Scourge to the side. Scourge opened his eyes and he rubbed them to get his vision back. Geoffrey charged up to Scourge and prepared to deck him but Scourge spin-dash Geoffrey and sent him flying into a tree. As for Blaze, she leaped up the tree Wilson was stuck in and helped him get down and the two charged over to Scourge. Scourge back-flipped and he kicked them both as his legs swung up and over during the flip. Scourge then swung his arm around in a perfect circle and walloped Wilson with his fist. Blaze retaliated by throwing fire into Scourge's face, scorching the hedgehog slightly but she kept her fire under control so she wouldn't burn the surroundings accidentally.

"You may look like Sonic the Hedgehog and have his abilities but you will not win this fight." said Blaze, giving Scourge a fiery uppercut that sent him hurling through the air "Our combined strength will be too great for you."

"In your dreams toots!" yelled Scourge, homing attacking Blaze in the head and knocking her over "I can beat Sonic and all of his friends easily, this tiny group is nothing compared to me as Sonic hasn't bought enough playhouse buddies with him! Heck, Sonic himself isn't here and he's the only one who has a chance against me so you're all no match for me!"

"We're plenty enough to handle you Scourge!" retorted Wilson, slashing at Scourge with his double-bladed pole weapon, also known as the spinning blade weapon "Sonic may not be here and we may not be a full house but we've still got enough strength to bring you down!"

He then butted Scourge above his eye with the section of his weapon where the blade started. Scourge yelped in pain and he clutched his bleeding brow. Wilson then proceeded to kick Scourge in the abdomen and knock him down onto his bottom. Scourge roared furiously and he spin-dashed Wilson in the gut. Geoffrey fired a dart at Scourge but the dart just skimmed past the very tip of his quills. Scourge's response was to punch Geoffrey in the bridge of his nose and then kick him in the thighs. However, Silver the Hedgehog and Cosmo the Seedrian finally arrived on the scene and Silver swept Scourge off his feet with a wave of psychic energy. Scourge landed on his face and he grumbled furiously to himself. Cosmo dived behind a thick bush and kept low down to the ground with the Sol Emeralds close to her and out of sight. Scourge picked himself up and he bared his teeth at Silver as if he was some kind of wild animal.

"Quit it with the psychic powers already kid!" he yelled, spin-dashing Silver in the head and knocking him onto his back "You're getting on my freaking nerves with it!"

"Fine I'll use my fists instead!" yelled Silver, giving Scourge a psychic-enhanced punch that sent him hurling through the air like a rag doll.

As for Tails and Ginger, no surprises here, Tails had the fight completely in his favour. He flew circles around Ginger, dizzying the poor fox and leaving him feeling woozy and then Tails aerial attacked Ginger from behind, sending Ginger hurling into the ground face-first like a sky-diver that went sky-diving without a parachute and just fell to the ground instead of floating down. Tails then flew down to the ground and elbow-thrusted Ginger in the back. Ginger wheezed ever so loudly and he rubbed his back tenderly. Tails then kicked Ginger as viciously as he could, sending him rolling across the ground and the fox came to a stop near a bush. Tails then advanced on Ginger with his fists clenched and his gaze narrowed to a freaky looking scowl. The fox was never usually like this, even against Dr. Eggman His extreme hatred for Ginger is what was making him act more brutal then usual and he really wanted to make Ginger suffer for all the indignity he'd caused him four years ago. Ginger stared at Tails with fear evident in his eyes. The fox really wasn't going to give him a break was he?

"Wait Tails! Wait!" begged Ginger "You've beaten me up good and bad! You've shown me how much you appreciate my treatment of you when you was four, what more do you want? Are you not satisfied yet?"

"I'll be satisfied once you end up back in prison where you and Scourge belong!" yelled Tails in an uncharacteristically cold voice that made him sound pretty darn threatening for an eight year old fox pup "You did the worst you could to me, even though I made it clear you'd proven your point and you still wouldn't give up so you're one to talk about being satisfied!"

"Tails! Wait! If you want an apology for everything I've done to you then I'm sorry OK?" shrieked Ginger.

"No you're not!" retorted Tails, grabbing Ginger by his fur and hoisting him onto his feet "If you think you can trick me into lowering my guard so you can go to town on me then forget it! I'm not as stupid as you are!"

He then proceeded to uppercut Ginger straight into a bush. Unfortunately for Tails, the bush just happened to be the one Cosmo was hiding in with the Sol Emeralds and Ginger instantly made a grab for them, causing Cosmo to leap out of the bush in fright while holding the Sol Emeralds close to her. Ginger leaped out of the bush too, trying to grab the Sol Emeralds from her.

"Give me those Sol Emeralds you freak of nature!" yelled Ginger.

That did it. Cosmo was sick and tired of villains commenting on the fact she was different to them so she promptly threw a Sol Emerald straight at Ginger's head. The result was Ginger lying on the ground, knocked out with a dopey grin on his face. Tails was glad to see Ginger was all knocked out at last and he ran over to Cosmo to see if she was alright.

"Cosmo, you OK?" asked Tails "What are you doing in that bush?"

"Silver told me to hide in there with the Sol Emeralds." explained Cosmo "Silver managed to catch Marik and stop him from escaping with the Sol Emeralds and I'm keeping them out of view."

"That's great Cosmo." said Tails, hugging her lovingly "But where's Marik?"

"Knocked out thanks to Silver's psychic energy." said Cosmo "Silver disabled his jet shoes so he can't make any quick getaways anymore."

"That'll make him a lot easier to catch." said Tails with a smile on his face "Now get back into the bush before…"

But just as Tails was giving Cosmo an order, Scourge spotted the Sol Emeralds in Cosmo's hands and he spin-dashed Tails and Cosmo like a bowling ball hitting the skittles at the end of the alley. Tails and Cosmo were sent sprawling on the ground and the Sol Emeralds lay in a heap between the two of them. Scourge glowered at the two and he advanced on them menacingly. The two could only crawl away from them on their backs, staring straight at Scourge.

"I've worked hard trying to get those gems." he snarled "I've had to face Marik for two of them, then he cons me into working for him, then he beats me to another one, then my lousy sidekick abandons us and finds your Sol Emeralds and then Marik tries to run off with all seven of them! Now you've got them back, I insist that you hand them over and it won't have to squash your heads!"

"No please! Leave us alone and don't hurt us!" begged Cosmo, clutching the emeralds tight to her chest.

"Back off Scourge or I'll have to fight you myself!" yelled Tails bravely.

"Don't be a twerp. I'm too powerful!" sneered Scourge "Sonic can't stand to me so what hope do you have runt?"

Then suddenly, he began to hear the sound of roots being torn out of the ground. He turned around and saw Silver literally using his psychokinesis to tear a thin, tall silver birch tree out of the ground! Scourge stared in horror as Silver ripped the tree straight out of the ground with his psychic powers and then proceeded to wallop Scourge with it! Had the tree been a normal sized tree with the usual thickness a tree has, that would have killed him. Scourge hurtled through the air as if he'd just been hit by a giant baseball bat and he landed rather painfully on his back. Scourge just lay there, grimacing in pain and he couldn't feel his limbs for a moment or two. All he could do is lie there and wonder what he had just been hit by. Silver threw the tree away and he lowered himself to the ground. Cosmo took a moment to feel sorry for the tree (she loves plants and she has a telepathic link with them) and then she stood back up to thank Silver.

"Thank you Silver." said Cosmo.

"That was so cool!" cried Tails "You just pulled that tree out of the ground and smacked Scourge with it! Those psychic powers of yours are so handy!"

"Aw it's nothing really." said Silver modestly "My psychokinesis maybe handy but it takes great skill to master it and lifting objects as big as that makes my head hurt at times so I don't usually try lifting trees or objects along those sizes." he said as he rubbed his head which was throbbing slightly.

"Well at least you saved our lives and the Sol Emeralds." said Tails with gratitude "Thanks Silver."

Silver just smiled casually. Cosmo scooped up all the seven Sol Emeralds and she dived back into the bush with them. Just as she disappeared into the bush though, Scourge finally managed to pick himself up and he looked furious to say the least at Silver. He clenched his fists and his teeth very tensely. So tensely you could see his teeth wobbling under the strain Scourge was putting them through and if he wasn't wearing gloves, you could probably see how white his hands were from clenching them so hard.

"I'll tear your bleeding head off for that palm-tree head!" roared Scourge.

"Bring it on then you miscreant!" dared Silver, making a "come get some" gesture with his hand.

Scourge didn't hesitate. He and Silver ran up to each other yelling battle cries and they punched at each other…

The fighting arena housed in the centre of Dr. Eggman Nega's base was alive with activity. Combat activity that is. And the combatants were Sonic the Hedgehog and Dr. Eggman Nega. Their fight had just begun and the whole thing seemed to be even-sided so far with Sonic getting a good hit or two on the Nega-buster armour and the Nega-buster striking back good and hard with it's many limbs and powerful weapons which were in place of actual hands. Amy, Tails and Scourge Nega could only watch the battle from the sidelines as this was Sonic's fight only and Dr. Eggman Nega had said he would challenge Sonic and no one else. As much as they were willing to defeat Dr. Eggman Nega, Amy Nega didn't believe in defying deals that had been made and decided she and the others would only get involved if the battle was going seriously awry for Sonic. Sonic spin-dashed at Eggman Nega but Eggman Nega struck him down with one of the insect legs on the Nega-buster's back. Sonic lay on the floor, grumbling to himself and he stood back up. The Nega-buster tried to mace Sonic into the ground, the mace extending out of it's wrist socket on a long steel pole built into it's arm, but Sonic dodged the attack and the mace hit the floor, denting it heavily. Sonic swallowed hard at the sight of the giant dent. You could fill the dent with water and bathe an infant in it, it was that big. The Nega-Buster then suddenly charged towards Sonic and whacked him with the shield. Sonic hurtled backwards into a wall and he gasped as he hit it at the force of a football being kicked into the net. Sonic caught his breath again and he spin-dashed the Nega-buster in the torso and sent it flying backwards into a wall. The Nega-buster stood back up and it's mace extended out of it's wrist socket. It swung the mace at Sonic but it missed and Sonic tried to spin-dash the extending pole connecting the mace to the arm but he just bounced back off it due to the fact it was built to match Sonic in everyway, even the little parts. The Nega-buster swung upwards and clouted Sonic in the chin with the pole. The mace retracted back into it's wrist socket and it lashed out at Sonic again with an insect leg. Sonic just spin-dashed the leg in two, much to Eggman Nega's annoyance.

"That's one big, bad battle armour Neggy." said Sonic in an impressed manner "Not bad really. Kinda challenging actually. And here's me thinking this fight was going to be generic like my battles with your prime counterpart."

"I wonder why that is then you blasted, manic, perpetually, moving animal." scoffed Eggman Nega, striking Sonic again with an insect leg on the Nega-buster's rib "Is it because he focuses too much on big clumsy blasters and not on a well structured, highly functional killing machine with battering and bladed weapons appropriately equipped for the job like I do? Some scientist he is if that's the case."

"You mean to tell me this thing hasn't got any guns on it?" asked Sonic as he somersaulted over the Nega-buster and landed behind it "Good, I'm sick of guns and blasters."

He spin-dashed the Nega-buster in the back and sent it hurling forward across the room. It bounced heavily and nosily off the floor and landed with a clunk upside down against the wall. The machine self-righted itself and it lunged at Sonic with the mace once again, the huge spiked weapon extending out of the wrist socket.

"You'll end up being sick of maces and shields when I've reduced you to being a nasty stain on the floor other-zone Sonic." sneered Eggman Nega as the mace missed Sonic and retracted back to the wrist section "These weapons were specially designed to be compatible with this machine, withstand any attacks from Sonic Nega, or indeed any other Sonic as they're all the same power wise, and the insect legs on the back and ribs are built to be more of a distraction then anything as well as give this armour the ability to scale smooth and large surfaces so I'll be able to follow you no matter what wall you run up. Not to mention it has flying capabilities," he added, the Nega-buster armour activating jets in it's feet and rising up off the ground slightly "And matches Sonic Nega's super speed in flight so you can run as fast as you can, I will catch you."

He flew towards Sonic and swung the mace down at Sonic. Sonic jumped out of the way but he lightly scratched his hip on one of the mace's spikes and ended up having a stinging, thin cut just above his thigh. Sonic grimaced in pain and he clutched his bleeding hip. The Nega-buster took the perfect opportunity to wallop Sonic with the shield and send him flying slap bang into a wall. Sonic pulled himself out of the wall and he spin-dashed the Nega-buster in the shoulder but he pinged off it's tough, indestructible armour harmlessly. Sonic landed back on his feet and prepared to attack again. The Nega-buster touched back down on the floor and advanced on Sonic menacingly. Eggman Nega continued to provide the gloating exposition he was in earlier.

"Didn't you hear me earlier you blue twerp?" sneered Eggman Nega from inside the armour "This armour is built to withstand Sonic Nega's attacks and being as your powers are exactly the same as Sonic Nega's you have no chance against it either. As I said, all the Sonics of the multi-verse are the same power wise. Pretty bland and repetitive if you want my opinion, every Sonic in the multi-verse has the exact same power, attack and force. Pity you Sonics don't have much variation, I bet you'd be more interesting otherwise."

"Whatever you flabby exposition machine." muttered Sonic "So, Amy tells me you conquered the world last month. Is that how long you've been ruler of the world? A whole month? Right?"

"Correct oh hedgehog of vapid nature." said Eggman Nega, throwing the shield at Sonic like a Frisbee only to miss as Sonic jumped over it and kicked it down onto the ground "I conquered Mobius Nega last month and my rule has been unrivalled since then. Sonic Nega's death made it all the more easy for me to take over."

Sonic grabbed the shield and he lifted it up off the ground and above his head. He then jumped into the air and kicked it towards the Nega-buster. The Nega-buster just raised it's arm and caught the shield in it's wrist notch and it neatly attached there. The Nega-buster now had it's shield back. The Nega-buster's insect legs all lunged towards Sonic at once, extending to twice their normal length and they batted Sonic all over his body and then into a wall, earning a horrified gasp from the on-looking Nega-Mobians that were forbidden to interfere.

"After conquering Mobius Nega." continued Eggman Nega, his battle armour stomping up to Sonic nosily with it's big, clumpy metal feet "The rest was straight forward for me. Metallizing the entire population save for the six Freedom Fighters who foolishly dare to oppose me despite the fact they know they can't win, and building my Egg-Pawns to increase my forces. Right now, I'm carrying out my greatest plan ever, which you already know as I explained it to you earlier."

"Yeah, yeah, stealing the multi-verse's entire Chaos Emerald supply and using them to become a god." muttered Sonic, straightening his quills and standing back up "Why did you take over the world anyway? Were you like Eggman and had no other planet to live on so you decided to live here?"

"Wrong actually." said Eggman Nega, the Nega-buster jumping up and showing the side of it's arm to Sonic so it would cleave him into with the arm blade on the side as it landed on top of him "I went on a space voyage and landed on Mobius Nega. I originate from Earth Nega and I was hoping to find alien life in this big, lonely universe."

He was cut off as the Nega-buster landed arm first on the floor only to miss Sonic with the arm-blade as he zipped out of the way and drop kicked it in the side, knocking the battle-armour onto it's shoulder.

"I came across Mobius Nega and explored the planet, with permission from the rulers that is." continued Eggman Nega "You'll know who they are as every Mobius in the multi-verse has the same people on it. After exploring Mobius Nega, I deduced that the planet was too cutesy and fluffy for my tastes, not helped by the fact I despise animal kind so I decided to take over the planet and metallize everybody. The humans back home weren't pleased with what I did so they declared me an outlaw and threatened to hunt me down but I've sent some forces back home to metallize Earth Nega and prevent anyone from foiling my paradise. Now no one can stand to my genius and I'll be on top of the multi-verse once I get every single Chaos Emerald."

The Nega-buster picked itself up and swiped at Sonic with the shield. Sonic ducked and spin-dashed the Nega-buster in the head, knocking it over onto it's back. The Nega-buster pushed itself back onto it's feet with the insect legs on it's back and Eggman Nega narrowed his gaze from behind the view visor.

"There's one person standing before you Chubby St. Fattykins and that's me." said Sonic "Sonic the Hedgehog, Hero of Mobius Prime and soon to be saviour of Mobius Nega!"

"Mobius Prime?" mused Eggman Nega "Does that mean you hail from the prime zone young man?"

Sonic clouted himself furiously on the head in annoyance.

"Oh chilli-sauce!" he grumbled "I wasn't supposed to tell him that!"

"So you're a Prime Zoner Sonic?" purred Eggman Nega "I'm fighting the prime Sonic the Hedgehog? Does that mean when I defeat you, your defeat will be the most special of all as the prime zone is the most important zone in the multi-verse and the very zone the all other zones depend on for stability and existence?"

"You'll not beat me!" yelled Sonic furiously "I've beaten Eggman machines that were way more creative and scary looking then your puny Nega-buster so you'll be no harder!"

He spin-dashed towards the Nega-buster but the Nega-buster raised it's shield and Sonic pinged off it like a bullet ricocheting off of cold hard steel. The Nega-buster then suddenly jumped up and dropkicked Sonic down into the floor.

"Sonic Prime my dear fatuous fool of unwavering debility, no one can stand to a figure of unmatched intelligence." sneered Eggman Nega "My IQ is 320 after all. I'm yet to find anyone in the multi-verse with a higher IQ then that."

Sonic fumed at Eggman Nega and he spin-dashed towards the Nega-buster furiously. The Nega-buster whacked Sonic away with an insect leg on it's back and Sonic ended up flying into the ceiling. Sonic pulled himself free from the ceiling and he fell from the ceiling and onto the Nega-buster's head feet first. The Nega-buster fell forward and landed with a clunk face first onto the floor. The Nega-buster suddenly got it's own back by entwining Sonic with an insect leg and throwing him off it's head and right at Amy Nega's feet. Amy Nega quickly helped him up and Sonic charged back into the battle. The Nega-buster suddenly extended it's mace out of the wrist section and smacked Sonic as if it was a fist in a punching glove gun like you'd see in an old kid's cartoon. Luckily for Sonic, he didn't get hit by the spikes of the mace, he was hit by the gaps between the mace so he was hit rather then skewered at least. Sonic grimaced in pain and he tried to picked himself up but he couldn't really find the strength to do so. The Nega-buster stomped up to Sonic and then kicked him across the room like a football. Sonic landed with a rather sickening crunch on his back that made it sound like his spine had just snapped. Amy Nega gasped and held her breath, hoping that Sonic was OK. Sonic staggered wobbly onto his feet, rubbing his back which was slightly twisted and he twisted to one side to get the bones in his back to knit again. However, the Nega-buster suddenly appeared from behind and walloped him with the shield. Sonic hit the wall and before he could get away, the Nega-buster squashed him up against the wall with the shield. However, instead of squishing Sonic like an ant against the wall, he only embedded Sonic into it instead. Eggman Nega was rather surprised at that turnout.

"Well, you seem to be able to survive being squashed." he analyzed "You must be full of Chaos Energy or Ring Energy. I studied their powers and I found out people who are excessively in contact with a Chaos Emerald or power ring gets some energy in their veins that makes their body stronger then the average organic being. That's unfortunate for you because I get to toy with you longer then should be reasonable!"

He then proceeded to use an insect leg like a crowbar and pull Sonic out of the wall. Sonic fell heavily onto the floor and he groaned ghoulishly as if he'd just woken up from a serious hangover. The Nega-buster clubbed Sonic with the mace, sheathing the spikes as Eggman Nega wanted to toy with him for a minute before killing him at last, and Sonic hurtled into the air. The Nega-buster then caught Sonic on it's shield and tossed it back over to the mace hand. He then proceeded to wallop Sonic back and forth with the mace and shield as if he was playing a sick, twisted, demented version of keepy-uppy with him. Amy Nega watched the battle with sickening horror and could hardly bear to watch any longer.

"This is horrible! Sonic's getting his butt kicked out here!" she wailed in anguish.

"We've gotta help him!" declared Scourge Nega "I don't care if this fight's only between Sonic and Eggman Nega, I'm getting my hands dirty whether they want me to or not!"

"Let's just hope you live long enough to clean them afterwards." snickered Tails Nega.

With that said, Amy, Tails and Scourge Nega all charged into the fray and they began to attack the Nega-buster just as it was doing some more keepy-uppy with Sonic. Scourge Nega spin-dashed the Nega-buster in the back and sent it hurling into the wall. Sonic fell down to the floor but Tails Nega grabbed him and lowered him gently down to the floor. Eggman Nega growled furiously and the Nega-buster turned around to face the Nega-Mobians.

"You festering bunch of canailles!" he growled "This is mine and Sonic's fight only, you have no right to interfere with us!"

"We don't care!" yelled Amy Nega, firing her wrist mounted laser at the Nega-buster "We're not losing another Sonic to you! You're going down and we are gonna make sure you do go down at last!"

The lasers however only pinged off of the Nega-buster's armour harmlessly. The Nega-buster retaliated by stomping the ground, making Amy Nega fall over and it was about to mace her into the ground but Tails Nega flew into the visor and covered it, preventing Eggman Nega from seeing properly. Eggman Nega fumed at the fox in the leather jacket and he swatted him off the visor with an insect leg. Scourge Nega spin-dashed it in half and then kicked the Nega-buster's visor, cracking it heavily. One more attack and it would break, leaving Eggman Nega vulnerable. The Nega-buster gave Scourge Nega an uppercut with it's mace, which still had the spikes sheathed, and Scourge Nega hurled into a wall at the back of the room. The mace unsheathed it's spikes and the Nega-Buster stomped nosily over to Scourge. It's mace extended out and aimed at Scourge but Scourge Nega spin-dashed it in the torso, causing it to stagger backwards and fall onto it's back. This in turn made the mace swung straight up and smash a hole in the ceiling and as it was still extending, it smashed it's way straight up all the way to the top floor which was five floors away from the fighting arena he was in now. The Nega-buster retracted it's mace and it threw the shield at Scourge Nega like a Frisbee. The shield may have looked smooth but unfortunately for Scourge Nega, it was sharp all around as if it was a giant smooth circular saw disc and it sliced Scourge Nega completely in two! Scourge Nega's torso and legs were separated from each other and they lay just a few inches apart from each other, completely lifeless now. Amy Nega stared in horror at the deceased Scourge Nega.

"No! Scourge!" wailed Amy Nega in anguish "Not you too!"

She then suddenly had to dive out of the way as the Nega-buster tried to mace her into the floor but she dodged the attack and the mace dented the floor. Amy Nega fired her wrist laser pitifully at the Nega-buster but the laser attacks were pathetic at best against it's powerful armour. The Nega-buster then stomped off after Amy Nega. The pink hedgehog in the leather clothing screamed in terror and she ran around the room with Eggman Nega chasing after her furiously, trying as hard as he could to mace her into the floor. As for Sonic, he weakly picked himself up, feeling battered and beaten all over and he watched as the Nega-buster chased Amy Nega all the way around the room while trying to catch her. Sonic tried to run after her but he fell onto the floor after only three strides and he groaned to himself.

"Ugh…Nugh…Gah…I can't…keep this up…any more…" panted

Sonic weakly "I…need a Chaos…Emerald…but I haven't…got any with…"

He stopped and paused for a moment. Wait a minute. He didn't have a Chaos Emerald with him, but that didn't mean there weren't any here at all! Eggman Nega had thirty-five Chaos Emeralds in his quarters, all stolen from other zones! He could use an emerald or two to stop Eggman Nega! But how could he reach the Chaos Emeralds if he was too weak to run up the walls and up to the top floor? That was when Sonic noticed Tails Nega trying feebly to stop the Nega-buster by blasting it pathetically with his wrist mounted laser. Sonic then realized what he had to do. He forced himself up onto his feet and he weakly called over to Tails Nega.

"Hey…cough, cough! Tails…I need you buddy!" he croaked.

Tails Nega stopped dead in his tracks and he flew over to Sonic as fast as he could.

"What is it Sonic?" asked Tails Nega "You have a plan?"

"I do." grunted Sonic, rubbing his arm better "Fly me up…to the top floor so…I can get a Chaos Emerald. I'm going to use…them to defeat Eggman Nega!"

"OK." said Tails Nega "Are you sure you're willing to use any of the thirty-five he already has? I mean, they're from different zones so they could have a sinister side-effect on you."

"They're our last option and I'm…willing to take it." grunted Sonic "Fly me…up there now!"

Tails Nega obeyed and he grabbed Sonic by his arms. He flew Sonic straight up off the floor and up through the holes in the ceiling caused by the Nega-Buster's mace, leaving the Nega-buster to play cat and mouse with poor Amy Nega. Tails Nega flew all the way up to the top floor with Sonic in tow and he put Sonic down on the floor. They were now back up in Eggman Nega's control room where the thirty-five stolen Chaos Emeralds were placed, seven in each jar, on the control pad. Tails Nega ran over to the control pad and looked at the labels on the jars to see which zone each of the seven emeralds came from.

"Let's see here…" he said as he read the labels on the five jars on the control pad "Beta Zone, Dark Zone, Heavenly Zone, Gamma Zone and the Underworld Zone. Underworld and Dark Zone Chaos Emeralds are bound to be bad as those two zones are nothing but pure evil so I don't recommend using the emeralds from those two zones."

"Then…give me…a jar from…the other three zones." grunted Sonic.

OK then." said Tails Nega, grabbing a jar labelled "Heavenly Zone" and opening the lid "Take these Chaos Emeralds. Any object from the Heavenly Zone has a very pleasing effect on the user, especially the Chaos Emeralds. These will do wonders for you."

He tossed the open jar to Sonic and the battered hedgehog just managed to grab it. He tipped the jaw up and spilled the Chaos Emeralds out onto the floor. The Chaos Emeralds were exactly the same shape and colours as their prime counterparts only they seemed a lot more sparkly and they had a faint golden heavenly aurora floating around them as they sparkled in unison. Sonic stood before the emeralds and prepared to use their power to turn Super Sonic once again. The Chaos Emeralds began to raise slowly off the floor and they began to slowly circle around Sonic the Hedgehog as he prepared to use their power. Sonic then suddenly began to feel different. His injuries were fading away and his body was transforming back to what it looked like before the fight with Eggman Nega. Then, the emeralds began to pick up speed around Sonic, becoming a big colourful blur around him as they did so. Sonic's fur then began to turn gold and his quills pointed straight up. He had become Super Sonic once again but there was some slight differences to this Super Sonic. He had sparkling auroras all around him and he had a curious heavenly vibe flowing through his veins that made him feel spectacular. Tails Nega stared in amazement at Super Sonic, he had never seen a super form before. He hadn't even seen Sonic Nega do it as they hadn't managed to find their zone's Chaos Emeralds and use them against Eggman Nega.

"Wow!" cried Tails Nega "An actual super form! I can't believe I'm actually looking at one!"

"You'd better believe it because Super Sonic is what you're looking at Tails." said Super Sonic "Now let's scramble that bad egg down there!"

With that said, he charged straight back down to the fighting arena where the Nega-buster had run poor Amy Nega down to exhaustion and now it had her cornered against the wall and completely at it's mercy. The Freedom Fighter leader could only stare at the Nega-buster, horrified at the fact it was coming for her and preparing to kill her. Her heart was thumping against her ribcage like a jackhammer against concrete. There was nowhere to run now. And nowhere to hide so all she could do was sit there and wait for Eggman Nega to crush her. The Nega-buster raised it's mace and prepared to smash her into the ground.

"Your puny resistance was an amusing novelty for a short period of time my dear." purred Eggman Nega from inside the Nega-buster "But your entertainment value has expired and now you shall join your precious Sonic Nega in the afterlife."

Amy Nega could only close her eyes and wait for the killer blow. The Nega-buster brought the mace swinging down on the cornered hedgehog…and then suddenly got smashed to smithereens after something charged straight through it like a train crashing into a building. It was Super Sonic. He did a wild U-turn and he charged straight back at the Nega-buster, pushing it straight backwards and bashing it violently against the wall. Amy Nega opened her eyes and was surprised to see she was still alive. She turned to her right and saw Super Sonic beating the circuitry out of the Nega-buster. She couldn't believe her eyes.

"Sonic…just turned…super?" she gasped "He must have gotten some Chaos Emeralds from up in Eggman's control room and is now using them to wipe the floor with that creep! Way to go Sonic Prime!" she cheered loudly at the super powered hedgehog.

Eggman Nega's reaction to Super Sonic was the exact opposite.

"No! You've…turned super!" shrieked Eggman Nega "I haven't designed this machine to best a super form! Curse me for having some Chaos Emeralds for you to use!"

"Yes Eggman Nega, you have every right to feel like a complete imbecile right now." sneered Super Sonic "Now wave goodbye to your stupid, annoying battle armour!"

With that said, Super Sonic charged into the Nega-buster and with swift and merciless efficiency, he tore the battle armour apart bit by bit as he smashed through it effortlessly. He spin-dashed it's arms off, charged through it's torso, kicked it's head off and punched all the other parts of the machine, every blow he threw destroying the part he attacked. Eggman Nega cried out in agony as his beautiful creation was reduced to smithereens in the blink of an eye. Amy Nega and Tails Nega were pretty surprised at how powerful Super Sonic was but they were enjoying watching Super Sonic destroy Eggman Nega's machine bit by bit. After Super Sonic reduced Eggman Nega's machine to tiny pieces, Super Sonic then grabbed Eggman Nega himself and glared straight into his eyes. The fat scientist began to feel nervous all of the sudden. What was Super Sonic going to do to him now he had destroyed his machine?

"Sonic, what are you going to do to me?" shrieked Eggman Nega.

"I'm going to do something one of my buddies did in order to get rid of one of his enemies." said Super Sonic "I'm sending you to the void. You can join Imperator Ix in there and I'm sure he'll be a great play buddy for you so you won't be too furious."

He then yelled at the stop of his voice "Chaos…CONTROL!" and a Chaos Portal opened up in mid-air. The portal led to the void, a zone that was described by Knuckles to be a zone where evil spirits live and play. Super Sonic flashed Eggman Nega a smirking grin and then he threw the fat man straight through the portal out of the Nega-zone and into the void.

"I'll get you for this Sonic Prime!" declared Eggman Nega as he hurtled through the portal "I'll get you for thiiiiiiissssss….."

His voice trailed off as he disappeared through the portal and the portal closed behind him. Super Sonic powered down and returned back to normal Sonic. His golden fur faded back to blue and his quills flopped back down. He felt himself all over and noticed he felt like he hadn't been in a battle whatsoever. The Chaos Emeralds from the Heavenly Zone really did have a good effect on him just like Tails Nega said it would. As for Amy and Tails Nega, they couldn't believe what had just happened. Sonic had just turned super, defeated Eggman Nega and thrown him into the void! He was gone forever and Mobius Nega was free at last! Amy Nega was so overwhelmed with joy that she threw her arms around Sonic and kissed him gratefully on the lips. Sonic was awestruck by that sudden hug and kiss and he didn't know whether he should return it or just let Amy Nega cuddle him. One thing's for sure, he'd better not tell Amy Prime about this or she would kill him without a moment's hesitation. Amy Nega broke the kiss and let go of Sonic.

"You did it you fantastic little Prime Zoner!" she squealed excitedly "You've defeated Eggman Nega and rid us of his tyranny forever! I don't know what to say about this! Thank you so much for all you've done Sonic Prime!"

"Oh shucks Amy, I was just doing what I would have done back on my zone." said Sonic casually "Fought to the bitter end and saved everybody's hides. So now Eggman Nega's gone, what's next for you Freedom Fighters? You gonna de-metallize everybody?"

"We certainly are." said Tails Nega "His worldwide metallizer is still functional and I know how to work it so I'll just get that functioning and activate it."

"After that, we're gonna hold a funeral for poor Scourge Nega over there." said Amy Nega, pointing to Scourge Nega's dissected body "And then we're gonna have a worldwide celebration to celebrate Mobius Nega's return to a free world. We'll make sure that you get the credit you deserve Sonic."

"Sounds good to me." said Sonic casually "Say Tails, did you retrieve Amy Nega's warp ring at all while we were up there?"

"I did." said Tails Nega, taking the super warp ring out of his pocket and giving it to Sonic "So now you can go home and tell everybody about what you've done while you were here."

"I'll make sure I tell them every detail." said Sonic "Well I'll be off now as my buddies back home are gonna be missing me like crazy."

He flicked the warp ring into the air and it expanded to twice it's size, just the right height for Sonic to go through. On the other side of the warp ring was Mobius Prime, his home zone. Sonic half stepped through the warp ring and he waved goodbye to Amy and Tails Nega.

"Bye Amy Nega." said Sonic.

"Bye Sonic Prime." said Amy Nega, waving to him "Thanks for everything. Especially bringing our freedom back."

Sonic smiled at the alternate Amy and he disappeared through the warp ring. The warp ring vanished into thin air, leaving no trace of it's existence and leaving Amy and Tails Nega to de-metallize Mobius Nega and bring the world back to normal…

Back on Mobius Prime, the fight between Scourge, Fiona and Sonic's friends was beginning to get pretty one-sided right now and by one-sided I mean the heroes were winning. Scourge had been throwing excessively good blows here and there but Silver's psychokinesis had given them the edge in this battle and as the battle went on, Scourge began to falter under the pressure caused by Silver, Geoffrey, Wilson and Blaze attacking him all at once. Geoffrey and Wilson double-teamed him with some powerful kicks each, Silver grabbed him with his psychokinesis and slammed him down into the ground and Blaze threw fire at him. Scourge staggered wildly and he was finding it hard to stand up properly due to how weak he had become from the heavy attacks that were being thrown at him. And to add insult to injury, Mandy grabbed Fiona by her tail and swung her directly into Scourge, causing Scourge and Fiona to sprawl on the ground and end up getting tangled up with each other. Scourge and Fiona untangled themselves and they picked themselves up, ready to fight again. The Mobians all just stood there, ready to unleash hell on him again.

"Give it up Scourge, you have no chance against us!" yelled Silver.

You can't keep hold of the Sol Emeralds Scourge." said Blaze "We have won and you have lost. Surrender yourselves and flee the battle before things get really unpleasant."

"Things will get unpleasant alright wimps!" bellowed Scourge angrily "Unpleasant for you lot that is! Get ready for a Death Tornado!"

"Death what?" asked Silver.

"Death Tornado." said Tails "It's like Sonic's Sonic Tornado only Scourge give it a new name and now you're gonna find out what it does!"

But before Scourge could even began to use the Death Tornado, a warp ring opened up from nowhere and Sonic the Hedgehog leaped out of it. He kicked Scourge down on the ground and stood before him with his fists clenched. Sonic's friends, Silver and Blaze were gobsmacked by Sonic's sudden arrival and even Scourge appeared to be surprised at that sudden appearance from his annoying, goody-goody, two-shoes brother.

"Who ordered a butt-whopping with a side order of me kicking the crud outta ya?" sneered Sonic as he looked down at Scourge.

"Sonic!" cried Tails happily "You're back!"

"I am indeed." said Sonic "And it appears I'm just in time to kick Scourge's backside. Lemme guess, he's here to steal the Sol Emeralds from us."

"Actually, we were just leaving." said Scourge, weakly picking himself up and running off, picking up the unconscious Ginger and fleeing the scene at top speed.

Fiona Fox followed him as fast as she could possibly run. Scourge really hated retreating but he knew he couldn't win this battle. He was just too weakened from the beating he'd received earlier and Sonic was going to ensure his defeat so he thought it would be best to run away and heal from his beating. As for Marik the Martian, he'd woken up from Silver's psychic knockout and he trudged slowly back to the battlefield so he could get the Sol Emeralds back only to see Scourge and Fiona running like hell. They were so keen to get out of here, they didn't even notice Marik as they ran past him and fled the scene. Marik began to wonder what was going on and he continued on to the battlefield. He peeked from behind the bushes and his eyes widened at the sight of Sonic the Hedgehog standing there greeting his friends again.

"Blast it all!" cursed Marik "Sonic's arrived on the scene and he's scared Scourge and his cronies off! I think it's best I made myself scarce too as I don't feel so good."

He clutched his head and rubbed it tenderly.

"That psychic hedgehog's given me a migraine." he moaned "I'd best flee and hide until I feel well enough to battle again."

He then prepared to activate his jet shoes and flee the scene. He ran for a few paces and…tripped over and fell onto his face. His jet shoes didn't activate. He tried again but he fell over again. His jet shoes weren't working for some reason. He couldn't jet himself out of the forest. He looked at the soles of his jet shoes and noticed the bent jet nozzles that Silver had caused by disabling them with his psychokinesis.

"My jet shoes!" he blurted "That silver idiot must have broken them! Now I've got to run normally instead of jetting out of here! What a nuisance this is going to be!"

He then proceeded to run out of the forest instead of jetting out of the forest before anyone could spot him. Marik would return someday but when he would was anyone's guess…

As for the Mobians, they were all greeting Sonic and explaining everything that had been going off to him.

"Blue dude, you made it back!" cried Mandy.

"Where did that mouse-bot take you?" asked Wilson "Did you end up in another zone?"

"What was it like mate?" asked Geoffrey "Was it brilliant or horrible?"

"I ended up on Mobius Nega, an alternate version of Mobius." explained Sonic "I met alternate counterparts of Amy, Tails, Geoffrey, Scourge, Miranda and Bunnie and I helped them defeat their Dr. Eggman. The mouse-bot was a Mobian that had been turned into a metal being and it had been sent to Silver and Blaze's time to steal the Sol Emeralds for Eggman Nega. I sent him to the void now and the Nega-Mobians are gonna turn everybody back to normal so you won't have to worry about them trying to steal the Sol Emeralds again Silver and Blaze."

"That's good to know." said Blaze "We've managed to get all the Sol Emeralds but we got caught up in a fight with Scourge and Marik."

"I knocked Marik out and disabled his jet shoes." explained Silver "He's probably awake and gone by now but next time you fight him, you'll catch him a lot easier."

"Really? Sweet! Thanks for that Silver." said Sonic "When we catch Marik, I'll make sure I give you my regards."

"No thanks necessary Sonic." said Blaze "We're just happy to help the Mobians of the past even though it won't really change our future. Now we have the Sol Emeralds back, we can transport ourselves back to the future and do some extensive studying to see if we can find out what caused the destruction of our world."

"Good luck with that then you two." said Sonic.

"Will we ever see you again?" asked Cosmo, coming out of the bush and handing Blaze the Sol Emeralds.

"Maybe." said Blaze "We will meet again someday. But until then, may you all have happy lives and enjoy the current timeline."

"Oh we will." said Sonic "Make no mistake about that. See you around Silver and Blaze."

"Goodbye Sonic." said Silver "And don't worry, we'll save our future and give Mobius a happier ending."

With that said, Blaze held up one of the Sol Emeralds while Silver held the others and she and Silver were suddenly surrounded by fire as Blaze tapped into their power. The fire burnt for a second before fanning out and disappearing into nothingness, leaving no trace of Silver and Blaze whatsoever. Now Silver and Blaze had gone, Sonic and friends could go back to Royal HQ and tell their other friends what they had been up to this whole time. They left the area of forest they were in and they headed off back to Royal HQ.

"What a day this has been." said Sonic "We meet two Mobians from the future, help them find their lost emeralds, I end up fighting against an alternate version of Eggman in order to save an alternate version of Mobius from his tyranny and you guys fight Scourge and Marik for the emeralds."

"It wasn't an easy fight blue dude." said Mandy "But we made it in the end and you arrived just in time to provide the piece de resistance."

"I sure did." said Sonic "So, you guys interested in knowing how I defeated Eggman Nega…?"

Redemption

Story 88: Redemption

"Please Scourge the Hedgehog!" whimpered Ginger the Fox, Tails' wimpy cousin and pathetic excuse for a sidekick "I didn't mean to…"

His pleas were cut off as Scourge the Hedgehog, Sonic's evil brother and would-be-world-conqueror, backhanded him rather sharply across the face and made him stagger. Scourge was absolutely furious with the runty little squirt due to how badly he'd botched up his most recent outing with Sonic and friends. His girlfriend, the sexy, treacherous Fiona Fox just stood by watching Scourge smack Ginger around like a piñata with sadistic satisfaction. She hated Ginger just as much as Scourge did as she just saw him as a dork and a waste of space and seeing him get smacked while begging for mercy just made her feel better about their recent loss.

"You Ginger, are a terrible, terrible sidekick!" roared Scourge, backhanding Ginger a good few feet across the ground and sending him sprawling onto his stomach "Not only did you fail to make a good impression against that loser Marik the Martian, you blatantly wondered off without my orders to find some Sol Emeralds, only to lead Sonic's friends and that future couple right to us! The day was going so well until that happened and now, because of you, we got our backsides kicked, I GOT HIT BY A MOTHERSLAGGIN' TREE BECAUSE OF THAT SILVER JERK! and you made a complete fool of yourself! You got your ass handed to you by your own cousin and then knocked out by that soppy plant thing! Do you have any notion of how utterly useless you are?"

"Scourge wait, I…" protested Ginger.

"You were useless before too!" continued Scourge "You couldn't beat Nicole, you gave the game away the time we got Sonic and Tails arrested* which in turn ended up botching that plan, you didn't really help out much during the raid on Royal HQ, one of my best plans ever, and now you've just botched up this Sol Emerald hunt! And you have the nerve to call yourself a sidekick?"

"Scourge please!" begged Ginger "I'm sorry for all my goof ups in the past! I'm just inexperienced and I need some lessons that's all! And the reason I went off to look for the Sol Emeralds earlier was so I could prove to you I'm more then just a punching bag!"

Scourge's response was to stomp on Ginger's face and pin him to the ground with his foot. The hedgehog's rage was uncontrollable right now.

"You are nothing more then a punching bag Ginger!" roared Scourge "You are a pathetic punching bag for me and that's all you'll ever be! Do you understand? Well? DO YOU?"

He began to vigorously rub his foot on Ginger's face, making the fox squeal.

"Yes Scourge!" whimpered Ginger "I've got it! I'm just your smack-around toy and nothing more! Please stop beating me up!"

Scourge lifted his foot off Ginger's face and he grabbed Ginger by his neck. The fox looked into Scourge's eyes with absolute horror. Was Scourge going to kill him?

"Good." said Scourge "Now get this. You're services are no longer required in this gang."

"WHAT?" screamed Ginger in a stupid voice "You mean you're kicking me out of your gang?"

"Yes I am runt!" snarled Scourge, throwing Ginger back onto the ground "You're a hindrance to me, you're pathetic, useless and just can't do anything right! You're an embarrassment to me and I regret ever recruiting you in the first place you mistake of nature!"

"No! Please! Don't kick me out!" begged Ginger, his eyes streaming with tears "I'll improve myself and be of great help to you! Honest! I'll do anything for you! Just please don't kick me out! I still want revenge on…"

"GET THE *&%$ OUT OF MY SIGHT YOU SLAGGING LITTLE WIMP!" screamed Scourge "I'M SICK OF YOU AND I WANT YOU TO GET OUT OF MY LIFE FOREVER YOU USELESS, PATHETIC LITTLE GERM!"

That bellow scared the living daylights out of Ginger and all the fox could do was shiver in fear at Scourge as the hedgehog glared at him coldly with his heartless blue eyes. The green hedgehog wasn't kidding. He was being deathly serious now. He didn't want Ginger anymore and Ginger was not going to be able to reason with him.

"Very…well…" sniffed Ginger, hardly able to contain his sobs "I'll… go…now…Scourge…I'm sorry…I…messed…up…on…you.."

The young fox with the styled whiskers and neat black hair picked himself up and legged it out of here as fast as he could. His eyes were so full of tears though, he had no idea where he was going and tripped over several times. Scourge turned his back on Ginger, not even wanting to watch him leave his life forever. He just strode away with Fiona by his side.

"Good riddance." said Fiona coyly "That kid was a waste of time anyway."

"In all honesty, he did seem to have good potential." muttered Scourge, thinking back to their first meeting "But in the end, he was just a waste of good manipulating. Ginger was absolutely pathetic and I'm glad I've finally gotten rid of him. Now he can quite screwing up my plans and I can just rely on you now babe."

"Yes you can, because I am actually useful and able to take care of myself." said Fiona, coyly playing with one of Scourge's quills teasingly "I'll be twice the sidekick Ginger ever was."

"Not to mention, you're hot as hell and loyal to me." said Scourge with a flashy grin on his face "It's no wonder I've somehow found enough love in my heart for something other then conquest."

"I know." said Fiona "I'm still amazed you willingly listened to my stories when I told you them and you're willing to improve my life for me."

"Anything for the hottest and baddest girl I've ever met." said Scourge dashingly "As a matter of fact, come here hot stuff for a little smooching will ya?"

"Certainly Scourge." said Fiona in a flirtatious manner "I'm all yours."

She then allowed Scourge to warp his arms around her waist, gracefully tip her backwards, making her giggle slightly, and then lock lips with her. Fiona wrapped her arms around Scourge's shoulders and returned the kiss. The two villains were kissing and cuddling each other right now and anyone coming by, hero or villain, would probably find this irresistibly adorable despite the fact they were both villains. Now Scourge had released his anger on Ginger, he could take the time to cool off with Fiona and rest up for the next time they fought Sonic the Hedgehog.

Meanwhile, Ginger had run a good distance away from Scourge and Fiona and he disappeared into the nearby forests. He finally stopped running, sat down on the ground against a tree and wailed for the planet to himself. He couldn't believe what had just happened right now. Scourge the Hedgehog, his best chance at getting his own back on his cousin Tails, had just kicked him out of his gang and was just going to go off with Fiona now because he though he was a screw-up. Why was his life constantly filled with ruination? First Tails causes his parents to move him to Central City, where despite his wealthy home, he wasn't happy due to the fact he hated city folk, and now he joins the baddest of bad in his quest to conquer Mobius only to get tossed away like yesterday's leftovers and left with nothing but himself now. Ginger was so upset that he could hardly contain himself as he sobbed like a little baby to himself (I bet you don't give a dozy about him do ya?). As Ginger sobbed to himself, only one thing was on his mind right now. Redemption and Revenge. He was going to get revenge on Tails and his friends once and for all, but he was also going to redeem himself in Scourge's eyes and be welcomed back into the group. He was thinking of a plan so brilliant and so marvellous that he would even end up being more loved then Fiona and Scourge would declare him the best sidekick ever.

"I'll…I'll get my revenge on those…dweebs!" sobbed Ginger, sniffing loudly "And I'll redeem myself…in Scourge's eyes too! Make no mistake on that! I, Ginger the Fox, shall redeem myself!"

The only trouble was…how? How could he possibly get revenge on the Royal Fighters? He couldn't fight very well and Sonic the Hedgehog was bound to be too good for him so beating the snot out of everybody was out of the question completely. He didn't have any particular plan right now but the fox was determined to try and come up with some way of getting revenge on the Royal Fighters, especially Tails, and redeeming himself to the point Scourge let him back in. He stopped snivelling and sobbing to himself and he began to rack his brain for any possible idea that could help him out here. But being as Ginger was about as smart as a newborn infant, that was going to be a very tricky task for him. It could take him a while until he finally had a brilliant idea that could assert his place back in Scourge's gang and help him conquer the world. Ginger's stubbornness however was the only thing that was keeping him going and he was not going to give up until he had a brilliant idea of some kind…

Two days passed since the Sol Emerald hunt and the R.F.S. were having it pretty slow right now. Dr. Eggman was still in hiding after being driven to insanity after his worldwide roboticization plot had been foiled*, Marik had gone back into hiding thanks to Silver the Hedgehog giving him a headache and ruining his jet shoes, Scourge had retreated and likely wasn't going to come out for a while and other villains were still locked away safely in prison. At long last, the Royal Fighters could catch a break. A quiet, easy time was not an easy thing to come across these days due to Dr. Eggman's endless folly and the comings and goings of other villains so the hero of Mobius, Sonic the Hedgehog, was going to make the most of it. Right now, he was chilling out in Royal HQ's lab along with one of his good friends Geoffrey St. John the Skunk.

"Good morning Geoff." said Sonic as he entered the lab with a cheery wave to the skunk.

"G'day Sonic." Geoffrey waved back in a friendly manner "Nice day out there isn't it?"

"Yep." said Sonic "All this sunshine makes me wanna run marathons around Mobius and back. By the way, you seen Wilson and Mandy anywhere? I haven't seen them yet. Are they coming in late or something?"

"Nah, they've gone to Grand Metropolis mate." explained Geoffrey "Mandy wants to visit her sister's grave the poor girl."

"Oh." said Sonic "OK then. I believe Mandy mentioned having a sister before. What was her name again? Mary? Mary-Anne? Um…"

"Marion." corrected Geoffrey.

"Thanks." said Sonic "How did Mandy's sister die anyway?"

"During Wilson and Mandy's time in Grand Metropolis, Mandy found out that Dr. Eggman had turned her sister evil." explained Geoffrey "She turned back good after her own minion double-crossed her but Marion ended up losing her life after destroying a giant drill. The debris crushed her and poor Mandy was devastated. I know all this from me mate Wilson, he told me the whole thing before they left."

"Right." said Sonic who had listened to what Geoffrey was saying and began to feel sorry for Mandy now "That must really suck for poor Mandy. Losing her sister just after she gets her back. I wonder what Marion was like? I bet she would have joined the R.F.S. along with Mandy so she could be with her sister and fight against Dr. Eggman."

"I haven't a doubt in my mind that's exactly what Marion would've done." said Geoffrey "Mandy tells me Marion was very loyal to her growing up so Marion would probably want to follow her sister's path, which is not a bad path to follow at all I mean look where Mandy's getting being a Royal Fighter."

"She's amongst good people and much like me and the others, is beloved amongst the people." said Sonic "I bet Marion would be thrilled with the attention and glory her sister's getting now. Anyways, let's change the subject now out of respect for Mandy," he said quickly "How's things going right now?"

"Well mate, everything seems to be going smoothly right now." said Geoffrey brightly "Dr. Eggman's not up to anything right now, Marik and Scourge have gone and there's nothing to report from the R.F.S. so it appears we're gonna have an easy time for once."

"That's cool." said Sonic "We could do with an easy day for once, what with all the action and excitement we get endorsed in half the time. And now might be the perfect time for me and Amy to have our date."

Geoffrey looked at Sonic and tried not to snicker mockingly at him. Regardless, he couldn't really keep the snarky little grin off his face.

"Yer havin' a date with little Amy Rose?" asked Geoffrey.

"Yeah, Amy wasn't too pleased when Dr. Eggman ruined our first one* so I promised her we'd have another one on a slow day and right now seems like a good time to have it."

"Well whatever you do, don't get too comfortable with her on this date Sonic." snickered Geoffrey "You don't want the little girl to go overboard with joy on ya and end up making you look like a total nelly do you mate?"

The skunk then broke down laughing at himself with Sonic just glaring at him in an "Am I supposed to be amused?" fashion. Geoffrey caught Sonic's eye and his laughing slowed down to a nervous laughter and then stopped altogether.

"Ahem," he said weakly "Sorry mate, just teasing ya."

"That's what I thought you was doing." muttered Sonic "Well, since I've got nothing to do right now, I may as well take Amy on this date. I know how much I'm going to kick myself for this afterwards but at least it'll make Amy happy."

"You have a good time mate and try not to get embarrassed by Amy will ya?" snickered Geoffrey "It'll break the girl's heart to see you not enjoying yourself."

"I'm not promising you on that." muttered Sonic "It's pretty hard not to get embarrassed by one of your biggest fan girls after all."

With that said, Sonic left the lab, leaving Geoffrey alone to keep an eye on Royal HQ. Geoffrey remained sitting at the computer monitors and keeping an eye on them for any changes in activity, not that he was expecting any of course. As he monitored the lab, one thing wouldn't stop nagging him in his thoughts. Where was Dr. Eggman and what evil could he possibly be plotting as they dealt with other threats? True their latest triumph over him had sent him into hiding but Geoffrey knew Eggman too well and he knew Eggman never stayed hidden for long. Eggman would hide for a good period of time and then come out and attack so he was liable to do so again. Regardless, Geoffrey couldn't let his thoughts bring down his mood and spoil this nice easy day so he decided to put those thoughts to the side and just enjoy the peace while they had it.

"You maybe hiding again you blighter." muttered Geoffrey "But we'll be ready for ya when you come out and attack us again. And the next time we face ya, we'll defeat ya at last."

Geoffrey then picked himself up out of the chair and strolled out of the lab, seeing as everything was normal and there was nothing going on. He headed on down to the rest room, the room where the residents of Royal HQ rested and played games or watched television to keep themselves occupied on slow days.

"I wonder how me mates in the rest room are doin' then." Geoffrey thought to himself as he went into the room to see how the others were getting on.

Meanwhile, Ginger the Fox (the poor sod) was trudging glumly to Mobotropolis all by himself. Two days past and he hadn't come up with the perfect plan yet, not surprising considering his stupidity and how coming up with ideas is not one of his strong points. He just couldn't think of any way he could redeem himself in Scourge's eyes. It seemed that he was going to be on his lonesome for the rest of his life and Scourge was never going to take him back into his gang. As the fox headed to Mobotropolis, he couldn't stop moaning to himself (I hope you've brought earplugs because this is going to get seriously annoying now!).

"I've thought as hard as I possibly can and I can't come up with a plan." he winged to himself "I don't know why but I can't think of anything good enough to win my place back in Scourge's gang. Guess it's just marvellous me all on my lonesome now. I've got no home to go to as Eggman's levelled Central City so I'm now going to be a trampy little vagabond now. Oh well, I may not have an idea on how to redeem myself but that doesn't mean I can't still ruin Tails' life under my own motivations. Next time I meet Tails, I'll make sure that stupid little tramp suffers for all the indignity he's caused me over the years! I'll physically and mentally torment him and then I'll…"

His voice trailed off as he passed Royal HQ and caught sight of it. Ginger stopped walking and he stared at Royal HQ intently with his big hazel eyes. The fox was beginning to get some memories just looking at the place. Memories of the near-successful heist on Royal HQ that was foiled by an untimely arrival from Sonic the Hedgehog and ended up getting him, Scourge and Fiona arrested. Royal HQ was the ultimate headquarters for the R.F.S. and it had zillions of helpful info in it. Ginger remembered when he and Scourge read the Royal Fighter's personal records on the computer monitors during the heist. Maybe there was some helpful info he could use in Royal HQ against his enemies. Info that could…get him back in Scourge's good books! That's when Ginger had the first brilliant idea the little twerp's ever had in his miserable life.

"Eureka!" he squealed at the top of his voice "That's it! That's how I redeem myself in Scourge's eyes! Royal HQ's going to have some useful information I can use to help him get one step ahead of Sonic and friends! Hallelujah I'm a genius!"

With that said he rocketed over to Royal HQ excitedly but before he charged through the door and let himself in, he stopped himself and calmed himself down. He couldn't lose his head in this. Royal HQ was bound to be choc-a-bloc with security and if he got caught, he was mincemeat so he had to take this operation nice and slowly. Ginger gripped the door handle and he opened it ever so slightly. Nothing happened and the coast was clear so he stepped inside the headquarters and he closed the door behind himself. Ginger was now inside Royal HQ once again. The fox could feel himself going giddy with excitement. His best plan ever was about to commence and in a matter of minutes, Scourge was going to be begging Ginger to rejoin him. Ginger looked both ways before making his way down the corridor. He headed to the lab and he let himself in, being extra cautious for in case anyone was in there. The lab was empty so he closed the door behind him and skipped over to the computer monitors. Ginger sat down at the computer and he tapped a few keys quickly.

"Now let's see what this clever little fox can find." he said to himself as he looked for the personal records.

He changed the screen from the radar system to the menu screen and he filed through the screens until he found the personal records section. Ginger felt a twinge of glee in his stomach as he got them up. Before he could start filing through the records, he spotted something interesting. There weren't just records about the Royal Fighters themselves. There were records on places on Mobius that could prove useful to him in some way or another and there was a record file titled "Mysterious artefacts". Ginger was very interested in that file so he scrolled down to it and pressed the enter key on it. The file expanded up to size and gave Ginger a list of contents. The list consisted of information about the Chaos Emeralds, the Master Emerald, Angel Island, the Lake of Rings, the Sceptre of Fates and the Sol Emeralds, a recent addition to the data records. Ginger ignored the Sol Emeralds file, knowing that they were long gone now, and he scrolled up to the Chaos Emeralds file. He pressed enter on it and the file opened up, giving Ginger all the info that the Royal Fighters had gathered on the Chaos Emeralds since their discovery. The file read…

Chaos Emeralds

Physical appearance: Seven differently coloured emeralds

Physical description: These seven mystery gems used to come in clusters of thousands but the former Angel Island guardian Locke the Echidna fused them together to make seven of them. The Chaos Emeralds reside on Angel Island and are guarded by Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas.

Abilities: They have Chaos Energy and it reacts in ways depending on the user. Sonic the Hedgehog has been known to go super with the seven gems when they all come together and so has Shadow the Hedgehog. No one else has been known to go super with the Chaos Emeralds but it is presumably possible that others can use their power to go super too.

Ginger had read the whole article and he was fascinated to the bone about the Chaos Emeralds. A big smile appeared on his horrible little face. He had a great idea bubbling inside his puny little head right now. An idea that was bound to put Scourge on top and get him back in his gang at last.

"Oh, ho, ho, ho! This is too delicious!" snickered Ginger "These Chaos Emeralds are just the thing to get Scourge the power he needs to conquer the world! Once I lead him to the emeralds, he'll be begging me to join him again! Oh yes! This plan is perfect and it's bound to work! But how can I keep Sonic and friends busy while Scourge looks for the Chaos Emeralds? Knowing that blue fool, he'll catch onto Scourge somehow and then stop him before he even finds the emeralds."

He began to think to himself on a possible distraction that was bound to keep Sonic and friends busy until Scourge found the emeralds and became super. Then Ginger had another great idea (I think I'm going to die of shock if he has another great idea!).

"The MPD station in Empire City!" he exclaimed in excitement "That's it! I'll break into the prison, free the inmates and leave them to cause a riot! That'll keep Sonic and friends plenty busy enough! Oh ho, ho, ho! I am a genius! A complete and utter genius! Scourge is going to be really impressed with this stroke of genius I've just had!"

Ginger leaped out of the computer chair, knocking it over accidentally and not thinking to pick it back up the big idiot, and he charged out of the lab at lightening speed. He left the door open and didn't think to close it after him. Ginger then ran down the corridor and out of the entrance door as fast as he could. Ginger left Royal HQ behind and he skipped off merrily to Empire City as fast as his legs could carry him. He had a brilliant plan all beautifully pieced together and that plan was going to ensure Scourge's victory and Ginger's return to Scourge's gang as the green hedgehog's sidekick.

Just a pity the gormless little fox pup had left a rather messy scene behind him which was going to get him found out. And to make things worse, he hadn't checked for security cameras and a small camera hiding in the shadows of the ceiling corners and recorded everything that had been going on so Ginger was so busted thanks to his stupidity. Since the Royal Fighters were in the rest room right now, they weren't going to find out about this for a while. It was a only a matter of time until someone actually went into the lab and discovered what Ginger had been up to and it would be his own fault for not being more careful. Not that Ginger would notice as he was too stupid to think of that kind of stuff. To him, it would just be a case of the R.F.S. catching on to what was going on and then trying to stop him and Scourge from conquering Mobius. Even if that did happen, they wouldn't be able stop Scourge from using the Chaos Emeralds to become super and then use his powers to lay siege to the planet and conquer it at long last…

The Empire City MPD station was not an unfamiliar sight to Ginger as he arrived at the prison and flew onto the roof so he could break in unnoticed. After all, he had spent a short while in it after getting arrested after the failure of the Royal HQ heist. He remembered all the inmates in the prison, mostly due to the fact they used him as stress relief much like how Scourge uses him as stress relief in the exercise yard. He especially remembered the bunch of inmates he, Scourge and Fiona were stuck with in their blockade. Marcus and Celia Punch, Mr. Florenzi and his sidekicks Mr. Polikaza and Mr. Wazikaza and Lord Sycorax, all dangerous mercenaries and enemies of Sonic the Hedgehog or his friends to some degree as they had had bad encounters with Sonic and friends and gotten arrested by them. The Punches were leaders of a slave camp that got foiled by Tails, Cosmo and Ruben, Mr. Florenzi and his henchmen were people who sold slaves to Dr. Eggman and they got foiled by Sonic, Tails, Cosmo and Wilson*and Lord Sycorax was the leader of a group of reptilian anarchists who seek to purge the world of democracy and he was foiled by Team Chaotix. All of them would be great prisoners to break out of the prison so Ginger made it his top priority to find their cells and release them more then anybody. Ginger paced across the rooftop and wondered how he was going to get into the prison. There was always a way into a place, top or bottom and Ginger knew it. After pacing for a while, he found a ventilation shaft in the right hand corner of the roof and he crawled through it. He crawled though the shaft on his hands and knees and he kept an eye out for the prisoners he was looking for.

"Ugh, I hate crawling!" he muttered to himself "It makes me feel like a little baby!"

But he knew he had to put up with it as he needed to crawl through the shaft, it was too small to stand up in, even on all fours. Ginger carried on crawling quietly through the shaft until he saw a grate on his right hand side. He peered through the grate and he saw the very prisoners he was looking for. They were all being escorted back to their cells right now by General Chipper, a chipmunk policeman with a great reputation amongst police folk and Melchett the Hedgehog's assistant. The Punches were already away in their cells whereas Lord Sycorax and Mr. Florenzi were just getting locked back up. The fat rat and the insidious politic hater were put into their respective cells by General Chipper and their cell doors closed shut behind them as they were put back into the cells. General Chipper only gave the inmates a dirty glare that suggested he hated this particular bunch of inmates and escorting them back was an annoyance and a displeasure to him.

"Boy I hate this bunch." the chipmunk muttered to himself as he walked out of the cell blockade "They're a horrible hybrid of slave traders and anarchists and they don't half creep me out when I'm near them. Oh well, at least they know better then to try and escape unlike Scourge, Marik and Lola Gunn so I can rest easy around them, or at least I think I can…"

His voice trailed out of the room as he left the cell blockade and shut the door behind him, leaving the inmates to do nothing but talk to one another in their cells. Celia Punch slumped against a wall and she fumed to herself.

"Know better then to try and escape!" she snorted "Puh, that cop's a right idiot if he thinks we're content being in here for the rest of our lives! We're going to get out of here some day soon aren't we

"Of course!" said Marcus, the big brute of a dog folding his arms and fuming to himself.

"I'm in with you on that one Punches." said Lord Sycorax casually, leaning back against the wall with his hands behind his head "I'm not staying an inmate for the rest of my life. I've got many more parliaments to purge and I can't do it if I'm locked up in here! I still wonder what's taking my idiot reptile minions so long to break me out of this joint? You'd think with loyalty as great as theirs, they'd be on the task of breaking me out immediately!"

"Probably." said Mr. Florenzi "But didn't it occur to you that maybe your reptile friends aren't as loyal as you thought they were and they're actually running your region themselves now you're incarcerated?"

"How dare you suggest something so fatuous!" bellowed Lord Sycorax angrily, leaping onto his feet and pounding his cell door "My reptiles would never stab me in the back! Ever! I'm the reason the region exists! I formed the region so rebellious reptiles can get what they want! They joined me so I can satisfy their rebellious needs, why ever would they want to betray me?"

"From that handy hint, I can definitely say, they have no reason." said Mr. Polikaza "They're probably planning to rescue you soon Lord Sycorax."

"Yeah, maybe they don't know where you are so that's why they're taking so long." suggested Mr. Wazikaza "After all, you could be in any MPD station right now for all they know."

Lord Sycorax didn't say anything else. He just slumped back against the wall and grumbled to himself. Ginger decided know was the time to make his big entrance so he looked all around the cell blockade to make sure the coast was clear and he kicked the grate in so he could fly into the room. The grate fell down from the vent shaft and it landed with a loud clutter on the ground, startling everybody in the room. Ginger then flew out of the shaft and he landed on the floor. Everybody got to their feet and they pressed their faces against their cell doors to see who it was. They were quite surprised to see a familiar face in the cell blockade right now.

"Good whipping gracious! It's Ginger the Fox! Scourge's snivelling sidekick!" blurted Celia "What on Mobius is that little brat doing back here?"

"Hey Ginger boy, good to see you again!" cackled Polikaza "We've missed you buddy!"

"Yeah, missed softening our knuckles on your puny, furry face!" cackled Wazikaza.

The two lizards then burst out into hysterical laughter that rang through the room like a horrible, throaty, cackling laugh that more annoyed everybody then anything. Ginger fumed at the inmates but he kept himself under control and he quickly relaxed himself. Polikaza and Wazikaza stopped laughing and they stared at Ginger, wondering why he wasn't saying anything to them right now.

"It's good to see you glorious inmates again." lied Ginger, a slimy little smirk spreading out across his face like a knife spreading butter on bread "Especially as I've come to free you from your prison cells."

Everybody gave off a rather comical gasp and a chorus of expressions that made them look like they'd just received a painful wedgie each.

"I cannot believe my ears!" blurted Lord Sycorax "We've treated you like pure garbage all the time you've been here Ginger, we've even been mean to Scourge and Fiona occasionally while they were here too and…you're breaking us out?"

"Yes I am." said Ginger "But I'm only doing this because it fits into my given task. You see, Scourge has given me the task of letting you out of your cells so you can cause a prison riot and distract Sonic and friends while he powers himself up with some mystical gems." he lied.

"And why, may I ask, is he doing that then?" asked Mr. Florenzi "What if we don't want to distract Sonic for him?"

"Oh you will you dolts." sneered Ginger "Once Scourge goes super with the mystical gems he's looking for, he's going to conquer the world and make it a paradise for villains everywhere and you're all invited to be a part of his new world."

"We are?" blurted the inmates.

"Indeed." fibbed Ginger, strolling over to Mr. Florenzi's cell door and surveying the control pad beside it "Scourge loves you guys after all and he wants his new vision of Mobius to be perfect for all of you. But you must do as I'm instructing you or he will not let you all join him in his conquest."

He pressed the open button on the control pad and Mr. Florenzi's cell door opened up, freeing the rat and his hench-lizards from the cell they were locked up in. They eagerly scurried out and waited as Ginger went around opening the other cell doors. As Ginger opened up Lord Sycorax's cell door, he spoke again.

"You lot can make this diversion even greater by going around and freeing all the other inmates." he explained "Free everybody in the prison and cause a diversion so great that Sonic will just HAVE to come and stop you all from getting away. If you can do that for my good friend Scourge then he'll allow you all to join him in his evil kingdom once he conquers Mobius."

"Well I'm definitely in on this one runt!" cackled Lord Sycorax as he stepped out of his opened cell, flashing his big white teeth at him "I love causing distractions, it helps a lot in getaways. Once I make it back to the Region of Rebellious Reptiles, I'll make sure to give my comrades your regards Ginger."

"No need to." said Ginger "Just doing what Scourge the Hedgehog instructed me to do."

He opened up the Punch's cell door and the two dogs scampered out of the cell in a flash.

"Thanks ever so much Ginger." said Celia "I guess me and Marcus misjudged you and Scourge a little didn't we Marcus?"

"Of course!" agreed Marcus with a big smile on his face.

"Well I must be going now." said Ginger, flying up to the ventilation shaft "I've got to meet up with Scourge as he takes over the world after all. Remember, free everybody in the prison and cause the biggest riot you can possibly conjure up!"

"We will do Ginger!" barked Mr. Wazikaza "Thanks for everything! You're my mate for life now!"

"Same here Ginger dude!" cried Mr. Polikaza.

Ginger just smiled dryly at his "friends" and he disappeared quickly into the vent shaft, leaving the freed inmates to conjure up the riot that was going to overwhelm the prison itself and draw Sonic and friends out to stop it, leaving Scourge to just stroll over to Angel Island and get those Chaos Emeralds. As Ginger furiously crawled back through the shaft, he began to cackle stupidly to himself.

"I can't believe those dolts fell for it!" he laughed "There's no way in hell Scourge will share power with any of those idiots! Boy will they feel stupid when Scourge takes all the power himself and refuses to share it with them!"

He could just picture their reactions in his foul little mind right now as he crawled out of the ventilation shaft and into the open air that awaited him outside. All he had to do now was find Scourge and tell him about the Chaos Emeralds and Angel Island so Scourge could go super and conquer the world at long last…

Back at Royal HQ, Geoffrey St. John left the rest room and he wondered back over to the lab. He had been in the rest room for quite a while and he felt like he needed to be back on duty right now. His secret love interest Bunnie Rabbot, the cyborg rabbit with a heart of a lion and the strength of an ox, followed him to the lab. The skunk was quite surprised as he wasn't expecting anybody to come to the lab with him but he didn't mind. In his case, Bunnie could follow him anywhere for all he liked. It was just a pity he didn't have the guts to tell Bunnie how he truly felt about her yet. Ironic given his bravery on the battlefield and yet he couldn't tell a girl rabbit that he fancied her. The Rabbot however, appeared to be showing some concern over the skunk as she followed him to the lab.

"Geoffrey, ah hope ya'll don't mind me sayin' but, don't ya'll think yer gettin' yourself a little on edge here?" Bunnie asked "Ah mean, ya'll can't stay out of the lab for long and ya'll keep goin' back into it as if ya'll keep expecting somethin' bad to happen."

"That's not the case at all luv." said Geoffrey, a hint of annoyance in his voice as he spoke "It's our duty as Royal Fighters to keep watch at all times. We have to man this base and we have to be on the alert for danger. That's why I keep going back into the lab."

"Well hon, maybe ya'll could let someone else be on lab duty for a change." suggested Bunnie "Ya'll don't have to be on lab duty all the time Geoff, we can man the lab too ya'll know."

"You know what Bunnie, you're right." said Geoffrey "I shouldn't keep myself up on my toes all the time, I should let the others have a turn on lab duty. And since you're concerned about me working myself to the bone, maybe you'd like to look up on the lab this time Bunnie."

"Ah do." said Bunnie "Ya'll rest yerself Geoffrey and I'll be on lab duty for now."

"OK luv, do you know what you're doing in the lab?" Geoffrey asked.

"I sure do sugah." said Bunnie "Ah've gotta just sit at the computer monitors and keep an eye out for anythin' suspicious goin' on."

"That's absolutely right." said Geoffrey "Well, I guess I can leave you to it then. Just give me a call if you need me at all luv."

"Will do Geoff." said Bunnie, heading off to the lab as Geoffrey turned around and went back into the rest room to meet with the others again.

Geoffrey went into the rest room and Bunnie went into the lab, noticing that the door was strangely open for some reason although that could probably just be Geoffrey forgetting to close it earlier so she shrugged it off. However, as Bunnie stepped into the lab, she noticed something that seemed odd to her. The computer chair had been knocked over and hadn't been picked back up. She could understand Geoffrey accidentally leaving the door open but leaving a chair knocked over and not picking it up was definitely out of his character. Geoffrey would never leave a chair knocked over, especially as it can provide a lot of hazards for anyone in the headquarters. Bunnie ran over to the chair and she picked it up.

"Now that is strange, who in their right mind leaves a chair knocked over, especially in a place like this?" she wondered to herself.

She then spotted something on the computer monitors saying "Emergency. See recorded camera footage.". That obviously meant the security camera had picked up something sinister and that it meant trouble for the heroes. Bunnie sat down in front of the computer monitors and she played the recorded camera footage from the hidden security cameras in the base. The footage recorded was from half an hour ago and it showed Ginger sneaking into the base and reading the data records on the Chaos Emeralds although Bunnie couldn't quite tell what he was reading due to the amateurish quality of the camera. All she could tell was that he was reading something and whatever he was reading clearly seemed to be delighting him as he was jumping for joy about it. Was Ginger looking up vital information to give to Scourge the Hedgehog? If that was the case then Ginger had to be captured immediately!

"Oh mah stars!" blurted Bunnie "Ginger darn broke into the lab and is reading somethin' on the monitors? He must be reading the data records so he can find some helpful information to give to Scourge! Ah've gotta warn everybody about this!"

But before Bunnie could do anything, a telephone icon showed up on the computer screens and the sound of a phone ringing emitted through the speakers on the control pad. It was quite clear that Royal HQ had an urgent call right now and Bunnie answered it to see what was going on.

"Howdy there, this is Bunnie Rabbot, member of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters." she said to the caller "How may ah help you?"

"Thank goodness you've answered our call!" yelped the voice of Melchett the Hedgehog, the world's most stubborn cop "The Empire City MPD station is in chaos! Absolute chaos! We've got a massive prison riot on our hands and we need you Royal Fighters to come and help us! We can't keep up with the attacking inmates!"

"Oh mah stars!" shrieked Bunnie "We'll be over as quick as we can sugah!"

She hung up on Melchett and she darted out of the lab as fast as she possibly could. She ran out of the lab, down the corridor and she burst into the rest room where Geoffrey, Tails, Cosmo, Cream and Ruben were resting in. Her burst in was so frantic and sudden, everybody almost leaped straight up into the ceiling.

"Bunnie, what's wrong?" asked Tails "Is Eggman attacking again?"

"No, there's a prison riot goin' on at Empire City and Melchett needs our help!" exclaimed Bunnie "The poor cops are havin' a hard time over there!"

"Crikey, we get a moment to relax and then something goes complete belly up on us!" moaned Geoffrey.

"Oh well, if it's a prison riot we're dealing with then this'll be a snap." said Ruben "A bunch of inmates shouldn't be too hard for us to handle."

"That is true Ruben but you forget that some of the inmates at that prison are enemies we've all dealt with over time." noted Tails "There's Mr. Florenzi, the Punches and that Lord Sycorax guy Geoffrey told me and Sonic about. Those guys are gonna be a handful for us, especially Mr. Florenzi's minions as they know the spine-dash move and according to Bunnie, Lord Sycorax was strong enough to floor her so he'll be one to watch out for."

"Wrong actually." said Ruben "Vector told us he was wearing strength enhancing arm gauntlets that made him stronger then usual and he broke them both so he'll be considerably weaker now."

"Well that's helpful." said Tails "Do you think we should interrupt Sonic and Amy's date and bring them over to deal with the riot?"

"I definitely say we should." said Geoffrey, whipping out a communications device out of one of his belt pouches and turning it on "Sonic will deal with those inmates in a millisecond, therefore making our job a whole lot easier."

He put the communicator to his ear and he spoke into it.

"Sonic mate? Do you copy?" the skunk asked.

"Sure do Geoff." said Sonic, who was using the communicator he always had on his wrist hidden by his glove "What's going on?"

"Empire City's got a prison riot on their hands and we're going over to stop it." explained Geoffrey "We might need you and Amy for this."

"OK Geoff, me and Amy will be over there as fast as we can." said Sonic "Although I have a nasty feeling Amy may get a little bit grouchy over the fact our date's being interrupted by a prison riot."

"Well she can just take it out on the inmates then." snickered Geoffrey "We're going to set off anytime now, you join us as quick as you can."

With that said, he shut the communicator off and he put it away.

"OK mates, let's go and give them blokes a good beating shall we?" cried Geoffrey, priming his arm mounted crossbow, ready for combat.

"Do you even need to ask?" laughed Ruben "Let's do it to it already!"

With that said, everybody ran out of the rest room and out of Royal HQ itself. They headed off to Empire City and they left Royal HQ behind. This prison riot had to be contained before anyone got seriously hurt or killed by the rioting inmates. They also had to contain the incident before any inmates actually escaped the prison, putting innocent lives at risk once again…

Meanwhile, Ginger was flying through the clear blue skies of Mobius while searching for Scourge and Fiona. Due to the fact it had been two days since he'd been kicked out and he had no idea where the green menace could possibly be right now, he had a feeling he'd be flying around for quite a long time. At least he was flying, that meant he had much more of a chance finding Scourge then he would on ground. Ginger had been flying around for a good few minutes now and he hadn't found Scourge yet. The black haired, ginger furred fox began groaning to himself as he flew over another village and saw no sign of Scourge anywhere. He couldn't complain too much though as he was bound to have a hard time finding Scourge as he had no idea where he was right now. Luckily for Ginger, he wouldn't have to be flying any longer as he flew over some nearby woods and he spotted Scourge and Fiona making out behind a tree. The sight disgusted Ginger to some degree as he was the kind of person who considered love revolting but he quickly shrugged it off as he needed to tell Scourge what was going on now. Ginger flew down to the ground and he landed rather nosily behind Scourge. That made Scourge leap up onto his feet and off of Fiona. Scourge turned around sharply and he instantly entered rant mode.

"Oi! Punk! Do you mind interrupting me when I'm making out with my girlfriend here?" roared Scourge "Honestly, can't a guy get ANY privacy around here?"

He then calmed down quick enough to realize that he was yelling at Ginger. Scourge stared at the ginger fox with the hazel eyes in disbelief and his jaw dropped open. Fiona picked herself up and stared at ginger with him.

"Ginger?" she said slowly "Wha…what are you doing here you little brat? I thought Scourge kicked you out!"

"I thought I did too!" growled Scourge "Well since Ginger hasn't got the bloody message, I guess I'll have to deck him ten times to Holoska and MAKE him get the message!"

He clenched his fists and prepared to break Ginger's teeth until the fox held up his hands worriedly to stop him.

"Wait! Wait!" he cried hastily "Don't punch me in the face! Please!

I've come back to you because I have a plan that'll get you on top of the world Scourge!"

"Sure you do kid." snarled Scourge "Now get outta my sight already! I've had enough of you, you walking failure!"

"No really I have!" exclaimed Ginger "I sneaked into Royal HQ and I found some very vital information for you! There are seven gems called Chaos Emeralds on a place called Angel Island and Sonic can go super with them so maybe you can go super with them too. I've caused a prison break in Empire City to keep Sonic and friends distracted so you'll have no distractions and you can just find the emeralds and use them to destroy Sonic and friends once and for all!"

Scourge thought he was going to swoon over in shock. Ginger, the world's poorest excuse for an evil sidekick had actually found some vital information for him and caused a prison break to distract Sonic and friends? Maybe Ginger wasn't so useless after all! Scourge relaxed himself and he slowly spoke to the ginger furred fox.

"Ginger, I can't believe I'm saying this but…that plan of yours far exceeds your usual standards!" he gasped "You've officially stopped being useless and have actually done something useful for once! Well done Ginger!"

"Thank you Scourge." said Ginger with a smug expression on his punchable face "Does this mean I'm back in your gang now?"

"We'll see about that." said Scourge "If this plan actually ends up working then you can join me again. If not, then you get kicked out again."

"Yes Scourge." said Ginger "So, do you know where Angel Island is Scourge?"

"I do indeed Ginger." said Scourge "It's in Downunda and it floats above the ground so it'll be pretty hard to miss. As well as those so-called Chaos Emeralds, there's a giant green emerald called the Master Emerald on that island and I can just use that to go super to save having to find the Chaos Emeralds as I have no idea where on Angel Island they can be."

"Are you sure the Master Emerald can make you go super?" asked Ginger.

"It can." said Scourge "The Master Emerald's just a great big Chaos Emerald so it has all the powers of a Chaos Emerald only more as it's bigger and I should know, I've visited Angel Island before and learnt about that emerald during my time on it."

"So are we going to Downunda then?" asked Fiona.

"Yes we are baby cakes." said Scourge, scooping her up bridal style and preparing to run off at top speed "Super powered me, here I come!"

Scourge rocketed off at the speed of an ascending space shuttle and he ran off to Downunda with Ginger flying after him as fast as he could.

One long run later and Scourge arrived at Downunda at long last with his two fox friends. Scourge carried on running through Downunda until he came across the unforgettable, unbelievable sight of the floating beauty that is Angel Island. Fiona and Ginger had never seen Angel Island before so they were blown over with amazement at the mere sight of it. An island that floats in the air never failed to amaze anybody, even the hard to please. Ginger was so amazed at the sight of Angel Island he almost fell over onto the ground but he kept himself airborne amazingly enough. Scourge stopped just underneath Angel Island and Ginger grabbed him under his arms. The ginger furred fox carried Scourge off the ground and Scourge held tight to Fiona as he was carried up towards Angel Island. Fiona tried her best not to look down as the ground began to shrink away as she and Scourge were carried up to Angel Island. Angel Island's height was quite dizzying after all. Ginger carried his two friends up onto the island and he landed just on the edge of the floating island. The Master Emerald shrine was just ahead of them and the Master Emerald was perched above it nice and neatly, sparkling like a million suns all at once. The foxes were astonished by the sight of this giant green gem whereas Scourge just smiled like a ravenously hungry wolf that's just spotted it's dinner. He remembered the Master Emerald as if he'd just seen it yesterday.

"There it is foxes." he said darkly "The Master Emerald. The very gem that changed me into what I am now."

"It's amazing." said Fiona in awe "What a glorious looking gem this is. It's certainly going to make you all mighty and powerful Scourge. Good thing clever Ginger here gave us the idea to come here and use it."

Ginger smiled brightly, clearly flattered at the fact he just got called clever by Fiona, Scourge's girlfriend who hated him just as much as Scourge himself did. However, before Scourge could get anywhere near the Master Emerald, the echidna guardians Knuckles and Shade suddenly appeared from the nearby woods and they charged towards Scourge and the foxes angrily. Knuckles had his fists clenched and Shade had her trademark twin blades in hand. Scourge turned around and saw the oncoming echidnas. He was so surprised at their sudden arrival that he forgot to ready himself for battle.

"Hey! You three! Get away from the Master Emerald!" bellowed Knuckles, pouncing towards Scourge angrily.

He socked Scourge in the face with his right fist and then gave him an uppercut with his left fist. The uppercut sent Scourge hurling clean over the shrine and he landed sharply on his back about twenty feet away from Knuckles. Fiona glared at Ginger angrily and she grabbed him by his neck.

"You asshole!" she snarled "Why didn't you warn us about these two? That thing you read must have told you the Chaos Emeralds were going to be guarded or something!"

"It did, I just forgot about them!" squeaked Ginger "I'm sorry about that!"

"Geez, even at your best you screw up on us!" moaned Fiona, throwing Ginger straight at Shade who was preparing to attack her "You're such a big fail that if we look up the word fail in the dictionary, we're gonna find you under it! I was wrong to call you clever a moment ago Ginger!"

Ginger fumed at himself for this big mess-up of his as Shade pushed him away and readied herself for battle. She glared at Fiona with her cold, lilac eyes and she raised her blades.

"Trust me madam, you do not want to fight me." Shade warned her icily.

"Oh I think I do sweetheart." sneered Fiona "Come and have a piece of Fiona Fox you headband wearing nutter!"

One thing you must never do to Shade is insult her headband. The furious female echidna charged at Fiona and Blade Rushed the fox across the torso. Fiona cried out in pain and she staggered backwards, clutching her body and wincing in pain. Shade put her weapons away and she let Fiona have it in the face with a furious kick. The vixen was sent staggering backwards and Shade let her have it with another roundhouse kick that sent Fiona hurling backwards into the Master Emerald shrine. Fiona winced in pain as she hit the hard stone work the shrine was built out of and she wobbly picked herself up. Shade charged towards Fiona again but the vixen turned around, ran up the shrine and flipped over behind Shade as the echidna tried to attack her. She landed behind Shade and elbowed her in the back, knocking Shade into the shrine face first. Shade grimaced in pain and Fiona grabbed her by her arms. She kneed Shade in the back and then punched her onto her side. Fiona then tried to attack Shade again but Shade rolled out of the way, leaving Fiona to punch the ground and she picked herself up. Shade quickly twisted around and kneed Fiona directly in the gut. She then picked Fiona up and tossed her towards the edge of the island, making sure she didn't throw her too hard and send her hurling over edge. Fiona skidded to a halt on her side and the vixen groaned to herself in annoyance.

"If we survive this, I'm gonna kill that bratty little beast for this!" she grumbled to herself.

Meanwhile, Scourge and Knuckles were having a tense tussle with one another. The red echidna punched at Scourge furiously like an angry boxer whereas Scourge kept dodging the spike-fisted echidna's blows. Scourge was much too fast for Knuckles and that earlier blow on him was only because he wasn't ready for Knuckles and now he was, Knuckles could barely land a punch on him. Knuckles launched a sucker punch at Scourge but Scourge leapfrogged over Knuckles, flipped himself over while still holding onto Knuckles' head and the moment he landed on his feet, he threw Knuckles over onto his back. Knuckles skidded sharply across the ground and he grimaced in pain. Scourge cackled at Knuckles and he spin-dashed the echidna guardian before he could get back up.

"Not much of a guardian are you?" he jeered "You can't even land a blow on me!"

"Just you wait Scourge!" growled Knuckles "I'll punch you so hard your grandchildren will have a migraine!"

"Cute." snorted Scourge "Here's hedgehog in your face knuckle-head!"

With that said, the green hedgehog spin-dashed towards Knuckles again just as the echidna picked himself up and readied himself for an attack from the insidious hedgehog…

Meanwhile at the Empire City MPD station, the prison was in complete and utter chaos. Every single inmate in the prison had just been freed by Lord Sycorax, the Punches and Mr. Florenzi and now the inmates were turning the prison upside down. They ran all around the prison, smashing things, breaking windows and attacking cops. Some ran around the exercise yard and the prison blockades while some decided to beat up the cops just for good measure. Some inmates even managed to steal the cop's guns and kill the cops with them! Some inmates even ran into the confiscated items room to see what good stuff they could snatch and take with them as they escaped from the prison. Melchett the Hedgehog, the chief officer and his assistant big Dave the Gopher were having trouble keeping up with the escaping inmates and so was poor General Chipper. Melchett decided he wasn't taking any prisoners so he pulled out a pistol of his own and began shooting any inmate that dare to come near him. This was a matter of life and death here and he had to kill the inmates in order to save himself. One inmate charged towards Melchett in a crazed fashion but Melchett shot the inmate dead before he could even grab him. Big Dave didn't have a gun, mainly because the fat idiot didn't know how to use one, but he had great strength at his side so he just knocked any attacking inmates out as they tried to attack him. He bashed two female inmate's heads together and knocked them both out.

"Hee, hee, hee! This is fun!" he laughed in his usual stupid manner.

"This is NOT fun you big galoot!" snarled Melchett "This is a matter of life and flipping death here! Stop laughing like a dingbat and get knocking the inmates out! Kill the blasted thugs if you have to!"

Then suddenly, he was spine-dashed from behind by Misters Wazikaza and Polikaza. The grey furred hedgehog was thrown off his feet and into a wall where he crashed into it with a heavy crashed that made something go crick inside him. The attack had just thrown out his back and the chief officer was now finding it hard to stand up.

"Oooh! Me back!" winced Melchett as he rubbed his throbbing back better.

Lord Sycorax then advanced on Melchett menacingly and the giant crocodile grabbed Melchett by his throat. He smiled maniacally at Melchett, his teeth glistening like knives in a drawer as he grinned evilly at Melchett. The grey hedgehog stared into Lord Sycorax's eyes fearfully.

"You know what Melchett, I think you'll taste very nice!" cackled Lord Sycorax "I'm going to enjoy chewing on you, you feeble excuse for a cop!"

He opened his enormous jaws and he prepared to chomp down on Melchett's head but before he could close his jaws around Melchett's head, Sonic the Hedgehog suddenly appeared from nowhere and spin-dashed him from behind. Lord Sycorax hurtled forward and crashed into a wall head first and then he lay on the floor, dazed and confused from that surprising attack on him. Sonic stood before Lord Sycorax and he folded his arms at him.

"I'm very disappointed in you inmates." He said in a calm and collected manner "I get a break for five minutes and you lot go rioting around the place. I thought you knew better then that guys and girls."

He was then suddenly spine-dashed from behind by Polikaza and Wazikaza and thrown onto his face by the two lizards.

"Ha, ha, ha! Got you Sonic!" they both cackled at him "You should learn to pay more attention in future you blue twerp!"

Then suddenly, it was their turn to get ambushed from behind. Amy Rose had sneaked up behind them and proceeded to wallop them with her trademark Piko-Piko hammer. The two lizards were sent hurling across the room and into a wall were they both let out a chorus of bedraggled groans. The pink hedgehog sniffed at them and she twirled her hammer around.

"That's for kidnapping me and selling me to Eggman you freaks!" she screeched at them "Now where's Mr. Florenzi so I can give him one for my kidnapping too?"

Just as she said that, Mr. Florenzi appeared suddenly from behind and he grabbed Amy's arm. Amy yanked it out of the fat rat's grasp and she walloped him with her Piko-Piko hammer. Mr. Florenzi hurtled across the room and he bounced sharply off the floor and into a door, which came off its hinges as he crashed into it. Amy smirked at the rat, satisfied she'd paid him back for what he did to her. As for Tails, Cream, Cosmo, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben, they all arrived onto the scene and they immediately began to battle with the inmates in order to contain the riot and stop them from escaping. Geoffrey began rapidly firing a sizable supply of stun-darts at the inmates in order to put them to sleep, Bunnie deployed her arm cannon and threatened the inmates with it in order to make them back down. One foolish inmate tried to get the drop on her with a stolen pistol but Bunnie heard him so she turned around and shot his pistol, destroying it and making the inmate surrender immediately. Bunnie then pointed her arm cannon at a group of inmates and she forced them back into the cell blockade by advancing on them menacingly with the cannon deployed. Tails, Cream and Cosmo joined Sonic and Amy in their fights with the main six inmates. Sonic and Tails teamed up against the lizard henchmen whereas Team Rose teamed up on Lord Sycorax. Amy hammered Lord Sycorax as furiously as she could, earning an annoyed growl from Lord Sycorax. The crocodile snapped his jaws at Amy, making her jump back hastily and he socked her directly in the face. Cream attacked him from behind and her pet Chao Cheese fisted Lord Sycorax in the eyes in order to distract him. Lord Sycorax yelped in pain and Cosmo added insult to injury by kicking him in the shin. Lord Sycorax began to furiously leap up and down while clutching his shin and Amy tripped him up by hammering his legs out from underneath him. Lord Sycorax landed sharply on his shoulder and the furious region leader growled furiously, humiliated at the fact he was getting bested by a trio of girls, two of them not even in their teens yet. Lord Sycorax tried to pick himself up but Amy hammered him on his head, knocking him clean out in one hit. As for Ruben, he had a score to settle with Marcus and Celia as he had been a slave in their camp once and they had horribly whipped him, leaving scars on his back that he longed to be rid of. Marcus tried to pound Ruben into a pulp but the water panther was miles too fast for him. He dodged Marcus's attack and roundhouse kicked him in the head. Marcus clutched his forehead and Ruben squirted him with a jet of water that sent him hurling into a cell blockade. Celia tried to attack Ruben from behind but Ruben grabbed her by the legs and swung her into a cell blockade with Marcus. Ruben ran into the blockade and pushed the Punches into an empty cell with his water powers. The Punches were pushed into the cell and Ruben closed it quickly before they could even get away, trapping them once again. He then ran out of the blockade to join in with the main battle. Sonic and Tails were getting overpowered by Polikaza and Wazikaza once again due to their spine-dashes but they were managing to keep up with them at least this time. Sonic actually managed to spin-dash both lizards this time around. The lizards quickly got back on track and they spine-dashed Sonic again. Ruben however got the drop on them with a wave of water that knocked them down onto the floor. They tried to get back up but Ruben squirted them with a jet of water that actually pinned them down to the floor. That gave Sonic the perfect opportunity to spin-dash them both into a pulp. The lizards were knocked out by Sonic's excessive spin-dashing and they slumped on the floor, soaking wet and battered and bruised.

"Thanks Ruben." said Sonic with a thumbs up at the water panther.

"It was an honour bringing those two down for you." said Ruben with a polite bow at the hedgehog.

"I'm sure it was." said Sonic "So Tails, how's things going right now?"

"Well Geoffrey's stunning inmates and taking them back to their cells, Bunnie appears to be scaring inmates back into their cells with her cannon and Team Rose have just knocked out that crocodile guy that me, you and Amy haven't met since we were at Nekronopolis the time he attacked Castle Acorn."

"I'm amazed him and his group of reptile buddies had the nerve to attack Castle Acorn while I was gone." muttered Sonic "At least my buddies, Queen Sally herself and Team Chaotix managed to stop them without me. Pity I wasn't there to see them beat those reptiles."

"Well mate, you missed out sadly." said Geoffrey "If Lord Sycorax ever gets away though, we'll make sure you get to fight him this time."

"That sounds great Geoffrey." said Sonic "We've got plenty more inmates to put away though so let's do it to it guys!"

Sonic, Tails and Geoffrey ran back into the battle to deal with the remaining inmates who were still free and causing trouble for the cops. Sonic was amazed at how quickly he and his friends were dealing with this riot. Everything would be back under control in no time. But a prison riot would be the least of Sonic's worries right now…

Back on Angel Island, Knuckles and Shade were struggling to keep up with Scourge the Hedgehog and his foxy sidekicks Fiona and Ginger. Fiona and Ginger were no contest for the two echidnas, it was Scourge who was the real one to be worried about. Scourge was too fast for the two echidna guardians to land a blow on and every time they actually managed to hit him, Scourge just came back at them with an even more powerful blow. Shade Blade Rushed Scourge but Scourge shrugged the attack off and he kicked Shade in the gut. Shade doubled over, wheezing heavily and Scourge decided to uppercut her into the air. Shade hurled through the air in a clean rainbow arch and she landed sharply on her side. Knuckles immediately got furious and he gave Scourge another uppercut that sent him hurling through the air. Scourge picked himself up just as Knuckles charged towards him and the green hedgehog kicked him furiously in the gut. Knuckles was sent hurling into the shrine at a force so great that the Master Emerald actually shuddered slightly. Scourge then spin-dashed Knuckles, embedding him slightly into the shrine in order to get him stuck and slow him down for a moment. Shade picked herself up and tried to assist her friend but Fiona slammed her on the head with her fists clasped together and she grabbed Shade in a chokehold. She made sure her hold on Shade was nice and tight so she couldn't get away.

"Not so fast sunshine." she purred smoothly "Scourge needs that emerald's power in order to turn super and take over the world."

"Well me and Knuckles aren't going to let him!" yelled Shade, elbowing Fiona in the gut and then grabbing her arm.

She tossed Fiona onto her back at the force of a baseball bat being whacked on a table, making Fiona groan in pain. Shade ran over to Scourge, who was punching the trapped Knuckles as furiously as he could while he was stuck in the shrine. Ginger tried to stop Shade but Shade kicked him down onto the ground before he could grab her and she drew out her twin blades. She Blade Rushed Scourge and knocked him away from Knuckles. Shade skidded to a halt in front of Knuckles and she pulled him out of the wall. Knuckles dusted himself off and smiled graciously at Shade.

"Thanks Shade." said Knuckles.

"Don't mention it." said Shade "According to the vixen, Scourge, whom I'm assuming is probably that green hedgehog in the leather jacket, is plotting to use the Master Emerald's power to turn super and take over Mobius."

Knuckles just stared at Shade in surprise.

"I think I've heard of Scourge." said Knuckles "He's Sonic's evil brother and the green hedgehog we're fighting right now looks like Sonic so I assume that's Scourge. And since Scourge has all the powers of Sonic himself…then he probably can go super just like Sonic can!"

"And now, we're just about to find out if I can go super!" yelled Scourge from above their heads.

Knuckles and Shade turned around and stared up at the Master Emerald. To their horror, Scourge was perched on top of the emerald! He'd climbed onto the shrine while the echidnas we're talking to each other and now he was on top of the Master Emerald! As Scourge stood on the Master Emerald, green Chaos Energy began to surround him and Scourge was suddenly engulfed in a huge ball of green light. Knuckles tried to leap onto the shrine and knock Scourge off but the Chaos energy blew him away and knocked him back down onto the ground. The green energy died down, revealing a brand new Scourge the Hedgehog that now stood upon the Master Emerald. Scourge had become super thanks to the Master Emerald's power! Scourge's quills pointed up much like Super Sonic's did but his fur was a dark, malevolent shade of purple instead of gold. His eyes were now a fiery red, swimming in pools of black, the flames on his leather jacket had changed from red to blue and the green parts of his shoes changed from green to pink. Fiona and Ginger stared in amazement at this super powered Scourge that now stood upon the emerald shrine. Super Scourge admired himself all over and he grinned maliciously to himself.

"Now this feels very super indeed!" he cackled as the power of the Master Emerald flowed through his veins…

Super Scourge

Story 89: Super Scourge

The guardians of AngelIsland, Knuckles the Echidna and Shade the Echidna, could only stare in sheer horror at the sight that befell them above the Master Emerald. Sonic's evil brother and arch-enemy Scourge the Hedgehog had just hopped onto the Master Emerald and used it's power to turn himself super! He was now Super Scourge and was likely, going to be invincible and impossible to defeat now! Scourge alone was bad enough but Super Scourge was going to be way too much for Sonic the Hedgehog and friends once he got his hands on them! At first, all Super Scourge did was just stand on the Master Emerald and admire himself all over, clearly pleased with his super form. He never knew he could do that and now he knew he could, he was going to use it to make Mobius his at last. Super Scourge grinned maliciously to himself as he felt the Chaos Energy in his veins surge through is body like an electrical current.

"The power…the absolute and unfathomable…power!" he cackled to himself "Oh yeah baby, this is what I'm talking about! I'm now Super Scourge, soon to be the destroyer of Sonic the Hedgehog and conqueror of Mobius!"

"Not on your life devil-hog!" snarled Shade, deploying her twin blades and preparing to let Super Scourge have it until Knuckles grabbed her by the tail and held her back.

"Have you lost your mind Shade?" yelled Knuckles "We can't possibly take on Super Scourge by ourselves! I should know! I've battled two different supers already* and got trashed by both of them!"

"But we can't just leave him like this!" blurted Shade "He'll use all his power to level the planet and do worse then even Imperator Ix can ever hope to do!"

"Hey you two! Shut up will ya?" yelled Super Scourge, super-charging straight through both Knuckles and Shade and sending them hurling through the air like tossed tones.

Knuckles landed rather sharply on his stomach and Shade landed awkwardly on her back. The resulting impacts left both echidnas feeling very pained and they found it hard to get back up. Super Scourge cackled sadistically at the two echidnas and he spin-dashed them both just to add insult to injury. Getting spin-dashed by a super-powered hedgehog was like getting hit by a monster truck. Knuckles and Shade were both thrown against the edge of AngelIsland but they somehow managed to keep themselves from falling over the edge and down to the ground down below. Knuckles and Shade picked themselves up but instead of attacking Super Scourge, they stood down and didn't make any attempts to attack whatsoever. Super Scourge just decided they weren't worth his time so he flew away from the echidnas and over to his two fox sidekicks. His gorgeous girlfriend Fiona Fox was marvelling with amazement at Super Scourge whereas Ginger the Fox, Tails' mistake of a cousin and an embarrassment to life itself could hardly believe what he'd just helped Scourge accomplish right now. He was so happy with himself he thought he was going to collapse in amazement.

"How's this for super then foxes?" asked Super Scourge, his toothy grin wider then that of a crocodile's.

"Hot. as. hell!" blurted Fiona excitedly "You look gorgeous in purple Scourge! Not to mention your super powers make you even cooler then before! No wonder I've got the hots for ya baby!"

"Yes, you've got good taste in men sweet cakes." sneered Super Scourge, winking at Fiona and then turning his attention from Fiona and onto Ginger "As for you dork, thanks for helping me make this possible. You gave me the idea to turn super and now here I am, the most powerful being on Mobius now made even more powerful. Thank you."

"You're ever so welcome Scourge." said Ginger in a very pompous and obnoxious manner that made Fiona grumble at him.

"However…" said Super Scourge coldly.

He then suddenly grabbed Ginger by his tails and tied them up in a big knot that would be impossible for Ginger to undo. Ginger began to wonder what was going on and Super Scourge suddenly grabbed him by his neck and flew high up of AngelIsland and higher up into the clear blue sky up above. The ground was miles down below them and it was going to be a very long drop for anybody falling from this height. Fiona, Knuckles and Shade looked up at Super Scourge and Ginger shook furiously, wondering what Super Scourge was doing. Super Scourge glared at Ginger with his fiery red eyes. The look he had could kill somebody.

"You almost botched this up by forgetting to warn us about the guardians!" snarled Super Scourge "Their interference was a minor bump in the road but still, I'm not about to let you screw up on me again Ginger!"

"I'm not going to screw up on you Scourge!" protested Ginger "I've helped make this possible! I'm the reason you're super now! How can I screw up on this?"

"I dunno but you'll screw up somehow." muttered Super Scourge "You always do. And so you can't screw up on me again, I've decided that I'm going to kill you, hence the reason we're hundreds of feet above ground and I've tied your tails together."

"WHAT?" screamed Ginger "I HELP YOU BECOME SUPER SCOURGE AND THIS IS THE THANKS I GET? YOU'RE BLOODY UNGRATEFUL SCOURGE THE HEDGEHOG!"

"Yes I am." said Super Scourge with a very sadistic looking grin on his face "It's nothing personal Ginger, it's just to prevent you from being my downfall again. You've botched up my plans before, but never again shall I fall because of your incompetence!"

He then proceeded to fly over to some very sharp looking rocks that were hundreds of feet down below him. These were really rocky canyons off the coast of Downunda and Super Scourge thought that this would be the perfect place to drop Ginger. The ground certainly wouldn't be much of a cushion for him once he let go of him. Ginger looked down nervously and he gulped at the rocks down below. Super Scourge flashed Ginger a malicious, malevolent grin that made him shudder and then he proceeded to let go of Ginger's neck. Ginger screamed a bloodcurdling scream as he plummeted down hundreds and hundreds of feet from the sky and down onto the rocky canyons below. The fox plummeted at the speed of a falling aeroplane. Ginger's tails were tied together in a knot so he couldn't fly at all. There was no hope of survival for Ginger at all, he plummeted down and down from the sky and towards the sharp, rocky canyons that awaited him on the ground. Ginger's screams died down as he disappeared from sight and landed with a very bloody splat on the rocky grounds below. It was impossible to see Ginger's splattered body from Super Scourge's height so Super Scourge flew down to double-check and see if Ginger was dead. Super Scourge flew down to the rocky canyons and saw the grisly remains of Ginger's dead body. The fall had indeed killed him and the rocks had just made the death all the more gruesome and bloody. So gruesome I don't want to describe to you what his dead body looks like now. You might puke violently if I did so. Suffice it to say, Ginger's all over the place now (get it?). Super Scourge grinned wickedly at what had become of his gormless sidekick and he flew back onto AngelIsland. Super Scourge landed on the island and he picked Fiona up bridal style. The vixen wrapped her arms tightly around Super Scourge, noticing how much warmer her suddenly felt as she hugged him, and she could feel the super charges in his super powered body on her arms. It was a pretty amazing feeling for her and she liked it.

"I can't believe you just did that." said Fiona coyly "You just killed Ginger."

"Yes I did and I have no regrets babe." said Super Scourge "He's useless so I decided to get rid of him. You're not useless so you live Fiona. Henceforth, you officially replace Ginger as my sidekick Fiona Fox."

"So I'm your girlfriend and your sidekick?" said Fiona "I like that. So what do we do now handsome?"

"Well Ginger caused a prison riot in EmpireCity to keep my dweeby brother occupied while I get some extra juice so I guess Sonic will be there right now." said Super Scourge "Let's go over to the MPD station and give Sonic and friends a warm welcome!"

With that said, Super Scourge rocketed off of AngelIsland at a speed that made even the famous supersonic plane Concorde look slow in comparison and he headed off to EmpireCity where Sonic and friends would be waiting for him. Unfortunately for him, Knuckles and Shade had heard where he was heading and they had a plan on how to stop him now.

"Scourge is heading for Empire City." said Knuckles "According to what he says, Sonic should be there dealing with a prison riot that his ginger sidekick caused."

"In that case, we use the Chaos Emeralds to Chaos Control ourselves over to the Empire City MPD station and we give the emeralds over to Sonic so he can use them to defeat Super Scourge." said Shade.

"I'll go get the emeralds Shade." said Knuckles "You warp yourself over with the Master Emerald and warn Sonic that Scourge is coming and he's all super powered."

"Got it." said Shade, rushing over to the Master Emerald shrine as quick as she could.

Knuckles darted off into the nearby woods and searched for the tomb the Chaos Emeralds were hidden in. Super Scourge was bound to be incredibly fast like all super forms were and for all Knuckles knew, he could be halfway to EmpireCity by now so he had to hurry. Shade was likelier to get to Empire City first as she was going to use the Master Emerald and it was just on top of the shrine. Shade ran up onto the shrine and she touched the Master Emerald with her left hand.

"Chaos…CONTROL!" she yelled at the top of her voice.

The Master Emerald had a brief moment of bright green flashing and then a Chaos Portal opened up just above the Master Emerald. Shade quickly leaped through the portal and prayed it would take her to EmpireCity just as she wanted it to. If she was too late to warn Sonic then Super Scourge might have pretty much already won…

Back at EmpireCity, the prison riot had pretty much been dealt with by now. It had been crazy and frantic thanks to Ginger the Fox freeing the six deadliest inmates, Lord Sycorax, Mr. Florenzi, his hench-lizards Mr. Polikaza and Mr. Wazikaza, Celia Punch and her husband Marcus Punch, and telling them to free the others to create a big riot but now Sonic and friends were on the case, the riot was being brought under control now. The inmates had been beaten by Sonic and friends and forced back into their cells or taken back into them. Tails the twin-tailed fox helped Sonic bring down the inmates, Geoffrey St. John the Skunk had sedated most of the inmates and dragged their sleeping bodies back to their cells, Bunnie Rabbot had forced some inmates back into their cells by threatening them with her arm cannon, Ruben the Water Panther drenched some inmates with his water powers and used them to push them into some empty cells and Team Rose (Amy Rose, Cosmo the Seedrian and Cream the Rabbit)'s teamwork overpowered the rioting inmates easily. The six main inmates to worry about had been put back in their cells and now the rest of the prison population was beginning to get put back away along with them. The prison's chief officer Melchett the Hedgehog was pleased so see that Sonic and friends were dealing with the riot so swiftly and easily and sooner or later, everything was going to be back to normal. He still couldn't help but ponder on what had caused the riot in the first place.

"Well done Royal Fighters." applauded Melchett the Hedgehog "Your contribution to the MPD is to be commended."

"No problem Melchy." said Sonic casually "We're just happy to help out whenever help calls for us."

"Just a stinkin' pity that this stupid prison riot had to happen while me and Sonic were having a date!" whined Amy as she knocked another inmate out with her always dangerous Piko-Piko hammer "Sonic took me to have a gorgeous dinner with him at Stardom Valley and then this stupid riot happens and we had to come and help knock a dozen bells off of this jokers and get them back in their cells! I hope they're willing to apologize for interrupting what was going to be a good day out with my handsome hero!"

"Some how Amy Rose, I doubt a bunch of vicious, brutal, sadistic convicts are going to be willing to apologize for starting a riot on the same day you and Sonic decided to have a date." muttered Ruben "Convicts don't give a prawn cracker over anything they don't."

"Too bad for them!" sniffed Amy angrily.

"One thing I can't stop wondering is how did that riot start in the first place?" asked Cream "I thought these cells were impossible to break out of."

"They are child." said Melchett dryly "I bet someone sneaked into the cell blockade and opened the doors to the big six's cells and then they decided to add insult to injury by letting everybody else out just to make things worse and try to hinder us while they escaped."

"Well why don't we ask any of the big six and see if they can tell us anything?" suggested Sonic.

"You do just that." said Melchett "I'm not going anywhere near the inmates until things quieten down for a bit. I'm a little too shaky right now thanks to this ever-so sudden riot."

With that said, Sonic and Tails wondered into the cell blockade that contained the big six and they glowered sternly at the inmates who had just been put back in their cells and locked up now. Lord Sycorax had come to from Amy's knock-out and he wasn't pleased to see he was back in his cell so shortly after breaking out. The rest just scowled at Sonic and they slumped against the walls to their cells with their arms folded and their bottom lips sticking out. Sonic took a deep breathe and then he spoke to the inmates.

"Right, which of you naughty little convicts would like to tell me who started this riot?" asked Sonic in a short, plain and simple manner that was unusually emotionless for the hedgehog to use.

"Why does it matter to you squirt?" sniffed Celia "You've just ended the riot so it doesn't matter who started it!"

"Yes it does!" retorted Tails angrily "The person may start another riot so we wanna know who it is so we can find him and arrest him for this!"

"Very well then, I'll tell you cubby." muttered Lord Sycorax in a bored manner "It was Ginger the Fox, I believe you know him as he's Scourge the Hedgehog's sidekick and Scourge is related to Sonic."

Tails looked like a dagger had just plunged into his stomach. Sonic wore the same expression he did. The hedgehog couldn't believe that Tails' dweeby, useless cousin had started this riot.

"Ginger did this?" squealed Tails "My poor excuse for a cousin started this riot? I can't believe my ears!"

"Neither can I." said Sonic "Ginger didn't seem like much the first time I tangled with him so how could he have started this."

"He snuck in through the ventilation shaft and broke into our blockade." explained Mr. Florenzi "He then proceeded to open our doors and he told us to start a riot to distract you while he powers himself up with some mystical gems and makes Mobius a paradise for us villains. Ginger told us so himself."

"Oooooh, I'm gonna KILL him for this!" yelled Tails angrily "Just wait until I get my hands on that big headed, pompous, pretentious little jerk! He won't know what hit him when I'm through with that miscreant!"

"Tails buddy, chill for a minute." said Sonic quickly "I'm not finished with the inmates yet. Ahem, what do you mean "while Scourge powers himself up with some mystical gems."?" he asked the inmates again.

"We don't know." said Lord Sycorax "He just said Scourge is powering himself up with some mystical gems. We don't know what he means by that though but he claims Scourge is gonna use them to turn super, conquer Mobius and make it a paradise for villains, fiends and baddies everywhere."

Sonic had a sickening feeling in his stomach after hearing this from the egotistical crocodile. Scourge using mystical gems to turn super? Those mystical gems wouldn't happen to be the Chaos Emeralds would they? If so, how did Scourge come to know about them and how were they going to stop him now he was super? His face turned ashen at the very thought of Super Scourge. This day was just starting to get hideous now.

"I think I get this now." Sonic said, trying not to splutter as he spoke.

"What? What do you mean?" asked Tails "Please tell me Sonic. Please."

"Ginger started this prison riot as a ruse to keep us occupied while Scourge uses these so-called mystical gems to power himself up!" choked Sonic "And I have a horrible feeling in my bones that they might be the C-C-Chaos Emeralds!"

"Ah think you might be right sugah." said Bunnie Rabbot, walking into the cell blockade.

She had overheard the conversation and decided to inform Sonic of what she'd found out earlier.

"Before we got the call to stop the prison riot," explained Bunnie "Ah saw some security footage of Ginger reading something off the computer monitors in Royal HQ's lab. He seemed awfully happy about what he was readin' and now he tells the inmates about mystical gems, ah think it's quite clear he was readin' about the Chaos Emeralds and is probably tellin' Scourge about them as we speak!"

Sonic and Tails looked like they'd just fallen into the pits of hell and climbed back out again.

"Oh no!" cried Tails "Oh no, no, no! Ginger knows about the Chaos Emeralds and now Scourge is gonna turn super with them once he finds them! I am so gonna kill that cretin now!"

"Well now the pieces have been put together and we know what's going on, I can safely say Ginger's officially become something to worry about." said Sonic "No wonder he's on Scourge's side, he's a pretty capable sidekick it seems. Well let's no waste anymore time! We've gotta get to AngelIsland and fast before Scourge can find the Chaos Emeralds!"

"But Sonic, we've been so caught up with this prison riot there's no way we'll get to Angel Island first!" wailed Tails "Scourge is probably already there right now!"

"Then we'd best go over to the old floating beauty and kick him off, if Knuckles and Shade haven't done so already." said Sonic.

"Funny ya'll should mention Shade darlin'." said Bunnie, looking over her shoulder and noticing a bright flash of light behind her "She's just come through a Chaos Portal."

Sonic's first reaction was to rush out of the cell blockade with Tails and Bunnie behind him and he skidded to a halt just before Shade, who had come out of her Chaos Control and was dusting herself off. Everybody was staring at Shade, wondering what the echidna in the headband had come to EmpireCity for.

"Good afternoon Shade." said Cream, curtseying politely to her "What brings you here then?"

"You're all in grave danger!" shrieked Shade "Scourge has just used the Master Emerald to turn super and he's coming here to vanquish you all!"

The whole room erupted into a chorus of horrified gasps from the Royal Fighters and even Melchett as the idea of Super Scourge didn't sound good to him. Sonic's face turned snow white with horror and he could barely keep himself from shuddering.

"Sc-Sc-Scourge has t-t-turned s-s-super?" he squeaked "Oh…Oh no! We're too late! Scourge is now Super Scourge! We're all gonna be turned into chilli-sauce right now!"

"All is not lost hedgehog." said Shade "Knuckles is going to Chaos Control himself over here with the Chaos Emeralds and he's going to give them to you so you can turn super and face him in battle."

"Oh that's a relief." said Sonic, feeling his pounding heart "Still, we've gotta evacuate the place before…"

Before he could even so much as breathe another word out of his mouth, a bright purple flash emitted from nowhere and a giant ball of purple energy ripped it's way through the walls of the prison and blasted the place to smithereens. It was as if a giant bomb had suddenly appeared from nowhere and gone off, bombing the entire prison to smithereens. The whole prison had just been swiftly reduced to nothing but steel debris and rocks by that sudden purple energy ball. The Royal Fighters had been sent hurling through the air by this attack and they all lay in the pile of debris that the prison had just been reduced to. All the inmates except for Lord Sycorax and a few stragglers were killed in the crumbling debris and falling shrapnel. Not that that would be of any concern to anybody as they were convicts and nobody loves a convict. All the officers save Melchett, Big Dave and General Chipper were dead too. Sonic weakly pushed himself up onto his knees and he rubbed his quills affectionately, wondering what in the world had just hit them. He soon got his answer when he saw a purple super-powered hedgehog hovering before him with Fiona Fox in his arms. It was of course, Super Scourge, and he was grinning like a swamp troll at Sonic. The blue hedgehog thought he was going to die of shock right now at the very sight of Super Scourge. His invincible brother had now just become even MORE invincible! Super Scourge put Fiona down and he began to crow at Sonic.

"Ha, ha, ha!" he cackled "Let no obnoxious quip be spoken! Let no light of heroism shine from your buddies! And let this day be feared for all those who witness the tyranny of SUPER SCOURGE! THE ULTIMATE POWER AND MOST INVINCIBLE BEING IN ALL OF EXISTANCE!"

He then bellowed with a loud, raspy, masculine sounding laughter that could make your ears whimper under the strain they were put under due to the volume of it and your bones rattle like tools in a toolbox. Sonic could do nothing more then stare in horror at Super Scourge. Silver the Hedgehog and Blaze the Cat, heroes from the future, had mentioned Mobius was a wreck in the future. Was Super Scourge the cause of Mobius' destruction in the future? Was Super Scourge the coming apocalypse? Sonic had no idea but it seemed very likely so Super Scourge had to be stopped at any cost.

"Scourge…you've turned super!" gasped Sonic hoarsely "I…I…I can't believe what I'm seeing!"

"Well you'd better believe it you blue twerp because it's true!" sneered Super Scourge "I am Scourge the Hedgehog no more, I am Super Scourge, the ultimate villain and your downfall hero of Mobius! Prepare for a super style thrashing king of the wimps!"

"Super or not, I'm gonna stop you Scourge!" yelled Sonic determinedly, even though he knew in the back of his mind taking on Super Scourge was pretty much like knocking on suicide's door and rushing inside to willingly kill yourself on any death trap that was possibly set up for you "I can't let you conquer Mobius and ruin everybody's lives! Here's hedgehog in your eye Scourge the Devil-hog!"

With that said, Sonic curled up into a blue spiky ball and he spin-dashed towards the super-powered demon-hog in a pitiful yet determined attempt to floor him. Super Scourge just smirked coolly at Sonic and he smacked him away with his hand, sending him hurling into the ground face first. Sonic groaned like a ghoul in a graveyard and he lay on the ground, wondering which part of him to rub better. Fiona laughed mockingly at him and she stomped on the hedgehog's back, making Sonic splutter hoarsely.

"Not so tough when your brother's on top of the game are ya Sonic the Sucker-hog?" jeered Fiona.

"You shut up…and stay outta this!" croaked Sonic "I'm pretty sure Super Scourge doesn't want you…to do the dirty work for him!"

"Fiona can contribute to my ultimate victory if she wants to moron!" retorted Super Scourge "Now shut up and lay still while I crack your fracking head open!"

"You leave Sonic alone!" yelled Tails bravely, flying in to stop Super Scourge from killing Sonic in one fell swoop.

Super Scourge turned around and saw Tails flying foolishly but bravely towards him with a very determined yet annoying look in his eyes. Super Scourge scowled at Tails in an annoyed manner and he grabbed the fox by his neck. Tails gagged hoarsely as Super Scourge's fingers wrapped tightly around his neck like a boa constrictor wrapping it's long, tough, muscular body around it's pray. Super Scourge flashed Tails a very sinister grin that suggested he was going to snap him in two and Tails just stared back at him fearfully, his ears drooping back in fear and his body shaking furiously.

"Since I'm feeling generous Tails, I'm going to give you a last bit of good news before you die." said Super Scourge "Your lousy cousin is dead. I decided I wouldn't put up with his uselessness anymore so I just dropped him onto some rocky canyons and kill him. I bet that's really pleasing to hear isn't it?"

Tails was more surprised then thrilled to hear this piece of news though as Tails knew it was wrong to be happy when someone died, hated or not.

"You…killed Ginger?" blurted Tails "Gosh…I never thought you'd do that to him…at least he can't bother me anymore or be a pain for me anymore or mess my life up anymore."

"Yeah, yeah, you're free from his crap and you're happy he's dead, blah, blah, blah, yadda, yadda, yadda." Super Scourge mockingly blabbered out "Just a pity for you, you won't live long enough to dance on his grave as you're going to join him in the afterlife you mutant brat!"

"No! Please! No Scourge! No!" whimpered Tails as Super Scourge drew his arm back and prepared to punch his way directly through his head like a wrecking ball through a brick wall.

Super Scourge ignored him and prepared to launch his attack. Tails covered his eyes in fear and braced himself for the killer impact that would claim his life and send him up to heaven with the angels at long last. Before Super Scourge could even finish Tails off though, Bunnie Rabbot charged in and gave him an uppercut from behind with her powerful robotic left arm. Due to being super though, Super Scourge didn't even feel the attack! Bunnie punched at him again ever so furiously, trying to knock him out or something but Super Scourge just hovered on the spot, still holding Tails and taking the blows that Bunnie desperately launched at him. It was as if she was trying to knock a statue over with no success whatsoever. Super Scourge dropped Tails and he turned around to face Bunnie, who was still frantically punching at him. The Rabbot showed no signs of giving up though, she continued her onslaughts on the super powered hedgehog, despite the fact they weren't even tickling him.

"You wanna punch doll face?" sneered Super Scourge "Well here you go then!"

He then proceeded to give Bunnie an uppercut strong enough to break steel and the resulting onslaught sent Bunnie hurling through the air in a rainbow arch that stretched over a fair distance. Bunnie spun through the air as she hurtled and she landed sharply on her side, grazing her organic right arm as she skidded to a halt and she lay on the ground, wondering what had just hit her. The Rabbot clutched her aching jaw, which felt like it was close to breaking, and she remained down for her sake. Super Scourge cackled at Bunnie and he was just about to beat the tar out of her again until Amy stepped in and began frantically walloping him with her Piko-Piko hammer.

"Oh no you don't you creep!" yelled Amy, bashing Super Scourge's head like crazy only to no avail "It's bad enough your sidekick Ginger started a prison riot and interrupted my date with Sonic, I'm not having you making it worse!"

"Boo hoo! I'm shedding tears for you!" snorted Super Scourge sarcastically "It breaks my stony little heart to hear this sad little story of yours! NOT!"

He then kicked Amy's hammer clean out of her hands and spin-dashed her directly in the stomach. That spin-dash was almost strong enough to plough straight through her like a rock through a window. Amy hurtled backwards and she landed ever so sharply on a pile of debris. So sharply in fact she almost broke her back in the process! Amy winced in pain and she tenderly rubbed her back better, the throb in it so bad that it would take a while for her to recover. Ruben decided to attack next by throwing waves of water at Super Scourge. Pretty foolish as water wasn't going to have any effect on a super form whatsoever. All it was going to do was get Super Scourge wet. Super Scourge faced Ruben and then ploughed through his water waves as if they weren't even there and he super-charged him. Ruben hurled backwards and he landed straight on top of Melchett, knocking the police hog onto his back. Melchett picked himself up and tried the very foolish tactic of just shooting him. He whipped out his pistol and he began to rapidly fire at Super Scourge. But when you're super, you're invulnerable and nothing stops you. The bullets ricocheted off of Super Scourge as if he was bullet proof and Super Scourge sneered at him.

"Nice try doofus but I'm invulnerable in this form." he crowed "Nothing can hurt me, not even your lame guns!"

He then proceeded to super spin-dash Melchett in the gut and knock the pistol straight out of his hand. Super Scourge broke the pistol and he prepared to kill Melchett but Geoffrey stepped in and fired some stun-darts at Super Scourge. The darts whizzed towards Super Scourge but the moment they hit him, they just disintegrated into atoms. The super aurora surrounding Super Scourge was making it impossible for darts of any kind to touch him. Even if a stun-dart did hit him it wouldn't work, the super power in Scourge's veins would be too strong for the stun-dart to have an effect on him. Geoffrey couldn't believe that his darts weren't working. Super Scourge then proceeded to charge at Geoffrey and knock him over and then he stomped on him while he was down. Geoffrey wheezed ever so hoarsely as all the air in his lungs was about to leave him. Cream and her pet Chaos Cheese stepped into save Geoffrey but Super Scourge could already hear them coming. He just roundhouse kicked them both out of the air and onto the ground just in front of a pile of debris. Super Scourge touched down behind Cream and he grabbed her by the head. He slammed her head on a chunk of debris, leaving a large cut on her forehead and making the poor rabbit cry.

"Why does Sonic have you kids on his team?" jeered Super Scourge "You're the embodiment of uselessness! Ginger was way more competent then you ever were long ears and he was a walking example of the word fail!"

"Stop hurting Cream and leave her alone!" yelled Cosmo, throwing a rock at Super Scourge in vain hope of knocking him out.

The rock just smashed against Super Scourge and broke into pieces as if it was glass being thrown against a wall. Super Scourge didn't really feel the attack but he felt that Cosmo needed to pay for that so he let go of Cream's head and he spin-dashed Cosmo. Cosmo cried out in pain as she was spin-dashed by Super Scourge and she landed slap-bang into a fallen wall. Cosmo sat where she was with her back against the debris, shaking like a leaf. Her pupils narrowed down to tiny dots of fear as Super Scourge stood before her.

"As for you, you alien brat!" growled Super Scourge "Once I take over Mobius and make it a kingdom fit for myself, you can be part of a freak circus I have planned. I'm pretty sure you'll be the star attraction and everybody will love to sneer at you. You'll look even worse though when I leave an imprint of my shoe on your face!"

He then raised his foot and prepared to stomp on Cosmo's face (ouch!) but Tails leaped on him from behind and cupped his hands over his eyes.

"Touch Cosmo and you'll be sorry Scourge!" screamed Tails.

"Oh I'll be sorry alright." snarled Super Scourge "Sorry I haven't killed you and Sonic yet!"

He effortlessly shrugged Tails off his shoulders, causing the fox to let go of him and then he sucker-punched him across the debris of the prison and into a slab of steel that lay standing face up on the ground. Tails hit the slab and it fell over onto it's back after he hit it. Shade leaped in with an attempted Blade Rush attack on Scourge but the attack didn't even tickle him. Shade swiped her blades at him furiously but Super Scourge took the blows as if they were nothing. Super Scourge then proceeded to give her an upper-kick that sent Shade hurling straight up into the air like a rocket. She hurtled up a great distance, so great a distance that once she fell back down, the fall would kill her. Shade began to hurtle back down to the ground but Bunnie was on hand to catch her before she could become a nasty stain on the ground. She flew up into the air with the aid of her rockets and she caught the falling echidna in her arms. Bunnie put Shade back down on the ground and then proceeded to fight Super Scourge again. She deployed her arm cannon and began blasting at Super Scourge like a mad gunman. The blasts just hit Super Scourge but he took them without any effect. Super Scourge folded his arms and smirked at the cyborg rabbit mockingly.

"This tickles!" he crowed "You'll never hurt me you morons because I'm invulnerable! Invulnerable means NOTHNG stops me!"

He then curled up into a super-powered spiky ball and he spin-dashed Bunnie Rabbot directly in the gut. Bunnie was knocked down onto her back and she wheezed hoarsely. Super Scourge was about to attack her again until Sonic spin-dashed him from behind, the attack not even so much as making him bend forward. Super Scourge retaliated with a punch from the side of his fist and knocked Sonic back down onto the ground. Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed him again. He just bounced off of Super Scourge as if he was a ping-pong ball bouncing off a wall. Super Scourge spin-dashed him back and knocked him down. Amy pounced on him with yet another hammer attack but, as you'd expect, the attack didn't even tickle him. Super Scourge swiped furiously at Amy and destroyed her hammer the moment his fist hit it. The hammer crumbled to bits in Amy's hands. Amy gibbered like an idiot for a moment and then she turned around and ran away but Super Scourge flew after her and kick-slammed her down onto the ground. Ruben leaped in to save her with a kung-fu kick to the jaw but not even kung-fu was going to be a match for Super Scourge. The kick felt like nothing to him. Super Scourge cupped his fists together and he slammed Ruben on the top of his head, knocking him down onto his knees. Super Scourge then proceeded to kick Ruben in the gut and knock him onto his back. Tails and Cream double-teamed him from behind with some flying punches each but Super Scourge roundhouse kicked them both out of the sky in one fell swoop. Geoffrey tried another pitiful attempt to sedate Super Scourge but his darts just couldn't snag him. They kept disintegrating before they could touch him. Super Scourge laughed mockingly at Geoffrey and he spin-dashed him as hard as he possibly could. Fiona, who was taking shelter behind some debris, had been watching the entire fight and was getting some sick, twisted, sadistic pleasure in watching Super Scourge beat the living daylights out of her former friends. Just watching this fight made Fiona smile like an evil witch. Scourge was awesome before and Super Scourge was even more awesome.

"Oh boy this is too enjoyable!" laughed Fiona "My baby is finally gaining an edge on those losers! Falling for him and joining him was the right thing for me to do it seems, otherwise I'd probably end up like Sonic and his bunch of brats right now!"

She laughed to herself as Super Scourge dropkicked Sonic into the ground. As Sonic hit the ground, he groaned to himself and he picked himself up, straining to do so due to how weakened by the fight he was.

"It's a good thing Wilson and Mandy did go to Grand Metropolis otherwise they'd be getting their butts kicked as well!" muttered Sonic "Where is that Knuckles already? I thought Shade said he was coming with the Chaos Emeralds!"

He was then suddenly spin-dashed and knocked back down onto his stomach by Super Scourge, the super-powered hedgehog cackling maniacally as he did so. Sonic was now lying flat on his stomach completely at Super Scourge's mercy. Super Scourge peered down at Sonic and he flashed him a sick twisted grin that could give Count Dracula the willies.

"Well king of the wusses, it's been fun kicking your ass but now it's time to finish your ass." crooned Super Scourge, raising his foot and preparing to bring it down on Sonic's head.

The resulting stomp would end up splattering Sonic's brain all over the place and the hedgehog would be dead in a millisecond. But before Super Scourge could even so much as think about bringing his foot down, a Chaos Portal opened up behind him and Knuckles the Echidna lunged out of it, putting down the Chaos Emeralds which he'd brought with him and tackling Super Scourge from behind. Super Scourge hurtled forward as if he had just been hit by a train and he and Knuckles bounced off the ground. Knuckles raised Super Scourge above his head just as they propelled into the air again and he threw Super Scourge straight at a pile of debris, the impact causing more harm to the debris pile then Super Scourge himself. Sonic weakly pushed himself up onto his knees and his face brightened at the mere sight of Knuckles.

"Ha, ha! Ol' knucklehead's come at last!" cheered Sonic "It took him long enough didn't it?"

Super Scourge picked himself up from within the debris and he growled at Knuckles angrily. He clenched his fists and bared his teeth like an angry gorilla.

"You just had to come and spoil my fun didn't ya knucklehead?" snarled Super Scourge "Just for that, you can be wasted too!"

With that said, Super Scourge charged into Knuckles and he grabbed him. Super Scourge lifted Knuckles high above his head and then he tossed Knuckles directly into Sonic, the echidna knocking the hedgehog off his feet as he crashed into him. The two were sent rolling over one another and they came to a stop just in front of the Chaos Emeralds, which were lying on the ground after Knuckles had leaped through the Chaos Portal. Sonic and Knuckles picked themselves up, Knuckles having an easier time then Sonic as Sonic was weakened a little. Knuckles picked up the Chaos Emeralds and he handed them over to Sonic.

"I've brought the seven Chaos Emeralds so you can match Scourge in battle." explained Knuckles "Now for Mobius' sake, use them already before Super Scourge wastes this planet!"

"Did you even need to instruct me?" sneered Sonic.

He took the Chaos Emeralds from Knuckles and he closed his eyes. He thought about going super and as he did so, the Chaos Emeralds levitated up out of his hands and they began to spin around his body in unison. Super Scourge saw what was going on and he tried to stop Sonic but the Chaos Emeralds formed a barrier around Sonic to protect him while he powered up so Super Scourge couldn't stop him. The Chaos Emeralds began to pick up speed as they circled around him until they became nothing more then colourful blurs around Sonic's body. Sonic himself then began to levitate off the ground as the emeralds continued spinning around. His quills straightened up and his fur turned gold. He was Super Sonic once again. Super Scourge growled furiously at his golden furred brother, angry that he was going to try and stop him with his own super form. Super Sonic smirked at his brother mockingly.

"We're more alike then it seems eh Scourgey Wourgey?" sneered Super Sonic.

"Super or not, you're still lame Sonic!" yelled Super Scourge "And don't call me Scourgey Wourgey!"

"Why not Scourgey Wourgey?" jeered Super Sonic.

Super Scourge growled furiously and he spin-dashed Super Sonic directly in the gut. Super Sonic was sent hurling through the air but he quickly regained himself and he charged back towards Super Scourge. Super Scourge bent over backwards and he swung his legs up as Super Sonic hurtled over him, sending the super-powered hedgehog hurling into the ground. Super Sonic crashed into the ground face first, leaving a large imprint of his face on the ground. Super Scourge then proceeded to spin-dash him in the back, making Super Sonic gasp hoarsely.

"See Sonic? Even in super form, I'm still the best!" crowed Super Scourge "You were barely a challenge for me as Sonic and even as Super Sonic, you're still no contest!"

He grabbed Super Sonic by his quills and tossed him through the air like someone throwing a Frisbee. Super Sonic spiralled dizzily through the air and he crashed into some debris. Super Sonic picked himself up and he spin-dashed Super Scourge as furiously as he could. Super Scourge cart-wheeled through the air after that attack and Super Sonic grabbed him in a chokehold. In order to avoid endangering the lives of everybody in EmpireCity, Super Sonic decided to take this battle elsewhere. He rocketed through the sky and flew away from EmpireCity. Everybody watched as Super Sonic left with Super Scourge in tow. Even Fiona was watching and she wasn't happy to see Super Sonic dragging Super Scourge away.

"Where are they going?" asked Tails.

"If I know my Sonic well enough, I think he's taking Super Scourge away from here so their battle can't ruin the city anymore then the MPD station has been ruined." suggested Amy "Where they're gonna end up is anyone's guess."

"Well we just wait until Sonic returns." said Knuckles "That is…if he does."

"Don't get your hopes up losers." scoffed Fiona "Scourge has got this in the bag, he's way stronger then Sonic is."

"You can shut up you treacherous slut!" snapped Geoffrey angrily "That Scourge bloke will never win, Sonic always comes out on top in the end so he'll win this fight!"

"Wow, you really are blinded by admiration aren't you?" taunted Fiona.

"Says the one who treats Scourge like the Messiah!" retorted Amy.

"Hey, excuse me for supporting the winning side here sugar plum." sneered Fiona "And by winning side, I obviously mean Scourge of course."

Amy summoned a new Piko-Piko hammer out of airspace and she was about to deck Fiona with it until Ruben stopped her. Ruben could see what Fiona was trying to do and he didn't want Amy to fall for it too.

"Amy, restrain yourself!" he ordered "You know better then to let yourself be taunted by Scourge's minions."

"Minion?" gasped Fiona in disgust "I'll have you know that I am not just Scourge's little minion you stupid little cat! Me and Scourge are in love with each other and Scourge doesn't see me as his little soldier, he sees me as his girlfriend and the one person who's more special to him then anybody!"

"Wow, I can't believe you've fooled yourself into believing that tosh." muttered Geoffrey.

That did it, Fiona went wild with rage. She tried to lunge at Geoffrey but Amy was on hand to hammer her away from the skunk. Fiona landed rather sharply on her back and she groaned in pain. The vixen picked herself up and decided to leg it but Amy wasn't willing to let her get away so easily. Fiona was on Scourge's side and anyone affiliated with Scourge had to be detained so Amy ran after Fiona, hoping to catch her and bring her to justice. She chased after Fiona with her hammer raised high above her head. Fiona however bent down and grabbed something just as she was running off. Amy didn't see it but Ruben did. The water panther grew concerned for the pink hedgehog and he ran after her, a horrible feeling on what Fiona was plotting creeping into his mind.

"Amy! Don't be a fool! Get back here!" yelled Ruben desperately.

Amy ignored him and she continued running after Fiona. The vixen was rather swift and agile so she wasn't going to be an easy villain to capture. She leaped over piles of rubble and debris and she dived into the surrounding city blocks in order to lose Amy. Amy followed her to the best of her ability but Fiona was too fast for her. Within a moment or two, Fiona soon lost Amy and she hid for cover in an alleyway. Amy ran past Fiona's hiding place and she slowed down to a stop, panting heavily and rubbing her sides which were beginning to strain from the sprinting she was doing.

"Hey…Fiona…!" she panted "Come out…and face me you wretch! If Scourge can…fight Sonic then you…can fight me!"

Fiona eerily enough did as she was told and she emerged from the alleyway. She tapped Amy on the shoulder and Amy spun around to face her. Fiona then grabbed Amy by the shoulder and plunged something sharp straight into her belly! Amy gasped ever so hoarsely as she felt her stomach being penetrated. Fiona had grabbed a sharp piece of shrapnel from the wreckage of the MPD station and she'd just stabbed Amy with it. Fiona smiled sadistically at Amy and she pulled the shrapnel out of Amy's stomach, the sharp piece of debris now drenched in blood. Amy grabbed her stomach and she collapsed onto the floor, dropping her hammer and struggling to breathe. She began making hoarse gasps if she was drowning on dry land.

"Sorry I had to do this sugar-plum but it's the only way I can get Sonic's bunch of nerds off my back while I catch up with my baby." said Fiona "See ya around…if you survive this that is."

She then lightly smacked Amy on the cheek and knocked her onto her side. Amy continued to hoarsely gasp in pain as her stomach began dribbling with blood from the small but serious wound Fiona had inflicted on her. Fiona then turned around and ran like hell, leaving Amy to lie on the ground in defeat and on the verge of passing out. Fiona had no idea where Scourge was going to be right now but she was going to do a length around the planet if it meant finding him and watching him pummel Sonic to bits. The moment Fiona left, Ruben caught up with Amy and he found the poor girl lying on the ground clutching her bleeding stomach. The water panther was horrified and he instantly ran to her side. He picked Amy up and surveyed the horrible stab wound on her stomach. Her glove was stained with blood from keeping her hand over it and the wound was still bleeding.

"Holy whirlpools!" blustered Ruben "What did that witch just do to you?"

"She…cough! cough!...stabbed me…with…a piece of…shrapnel…" croaked Amy weakly, her voice making it sound like she was having trouble speaking.

"I knew something bad was going to happen the moment I saw her pick something up!" shrieked Ruben "We've gotta get you to the hospital and fast! Good thing I know where one is in this city!"

He ran off with Amy in his arms, the pink hedgehog coughing loudly and throatily as the wound continued to bleed and the pain began to increase. Ruben picked up his pace. He was not going to let Sonic's self-proclaimed girlfriend die at the hands of Scourge's girlfriend, he was going to save her in Sonic's name. He just hoped that Sonic would come back from the fight with Super Scourge that was going on goodness knows where right now…

Meanwhile, Super Sonic had dragged Super Scourge all the way over to Downunda and he threw the purple furred super hedgehog down onto the ground in grand slam fashion. Super Scourge hit the ground and made a crater the size of an Apatosaurus's footprint around him. Super Scourge picked himself up and he prepared to do battle.

"Why'd ya pick Downunda then lame brain?" asked Super Scourge.

"So that when this fight is over, I can put the Chaos Emeralds back where they belong." explained Super Sonic "And Downunda has the space we need for this fight."

"You are so lame, do you know that?" taunted Super Scourge "Re-locating our fight just so we don't hurt anybody or ruin any cities in the process! You need to learn that being eco-friendly never gets you anywhere!"

"Never hurts to care for the environment." said Super Sonic casually "Now prepare for a super-powered black eye Scourge!"

He rocketed towards Super Scourge and literally fisted him directly in the eye! Super Scourge roared in pain and he clutched his eye. Even though he was super, other super forms could hurt him. Super Scourge growled like a lion and he spin-dashed Super Sonic as hard as he could. Super Sonic cart wheeled backwards through the air and Super Scourge dropkicked him into the ground. Super Sonic hit the ground considerably hard and he left a crater in the ground from the impact. Super Sonic tried to pick himself up but Super Scourge charged into Super Sonic and rammed him directly in the gut. The attack was so powerful he and Super Sonic ended up ploughing straight through the ground and they ended up in some kind of cavern. They didn't stay for long though. Super Scourge gave Super Sonic an uppercut that sent him hurling straight back up through the hole they had made from ploughing through the ground. Super Sonic hurtled up through the hole and Super Scourge spin-dashed him to add insult to injury. The two remerged from within the ground and into the fresh air outside once again. Super Sonic hurled through the air in a rainbow arch after coming out of the hole and he landed painfully on his side, the impact not hurting him much due to his invulnerability. Super Sonic picked himself up and he charged back towards Super Scourge but Super Scourge dodged Super Sonic's attack and dropkicked him down into the ground once again. Super Sonic landed slap-bang into the ground front first and Super Scourge slammed himself down onto his back. Super Sonic gasped in pain and he rubbed his back furiously. Super Scourge grabbed Super Sonic from behind and then suddenly threw him into the air like a tennis ball. Super Sonic spiralled through the air, crying out as he did so and Super Scourge spin-dashed him out of the sky once again.

"Ha, ha, ha! This isn't a fight, this is exercise!" taunted Super Scourge.

Super Sonic regained his balance and he fumed angrily at his brother. How was Super Scourge besting him so easily? Was it because Scourge was stronger then he was in their natural state? Regardless, Super Sonic was not going to let Super Scourge defeat him. He had to stop him before he ravaged Mobius with his super powers. Super Sonic picked himself up and he spin-dashed towards Super Scourge. He struck Super Scourge in the face and knocked his sunglasses clean off his head. Super Scourge frantically flew after them and he caught them, only to get spin-dashed from behind by Super Sonic. Super Scourge crashed into the ground but he wasn't down for long. He picked himself up and he charged towards Super Sonic furiously Super Sonic however, held his arms out and yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" and he teleported out of Super Scourge's path. He reappeared behind Super Scourge and he dropkicked him in the back. Super Scourge retaliated with an uppercut to the chin that would've broken Super Sonic's jaw if he wasn't super right now. Super Scourge punched Super Sonic in the face and then he fist slammed him on the head. Super Sonic tried to attack back but Super Scourge yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" and froze time around Super Sonic for a moment. Super Sonic was stuck in his current position and he couldn't move. Super Scourge flew behind Super Sonic and he roundhouse kicked him out of the sky. Super Sonic crashed into the ground and he ploughed straight through it, making a hole in the ground but he didn't end up going right through into the cavern like before. Super Sonic flew back out of the hole, only to get rammed by Super Scourge and sent spiralling through the air. Super Scourge elbowed Super Sonic in the back and then kicked him in the jaw. Super Sonic retaliated with an uppercut and then an upwards kick to the face and then he added a gut punch and a left and right hook each to his attacks. Super Scourge head-butted Super Sonic, the onslaught making Super Sonic grip his head and rub it furiously, giving Super Scourge the opportunity to ram Super Sonic out of the sky. Super Sonic rocketed into Super Scourge and knocked him backwards through the sky. Super Sonic then clasped his hands together and walloped Super Scourge with them. Super Scourge growled furiously and he clenched his fists. He tensed himself up and his body began to glow brighter then normal. Super Sonic knew what that meant and he tried to fly away but Super Scourge let out all the energy he was building up and bellowed.

"Chaos… BLASSSSTTTT! "

He released all the energy from within his super aurora and he blasted Super Sonic with raw Chaos Energy. Super Sonic hurtled through the air as if he'd been hit by an explosion and he came to a halt a good distance away from Super Scourge. Super Sonic grabbed his arm and he panted heavily after that attack. Super Scourge cackled at him and he spin-dashed Super Sonic out of the sky once again. Super Sonic was sent hurling into the ground yet again. Super Scourge continued to laugh maniacally as he hovered over Super Sonic in triumph.

"Ha!" he sneered "Even in super form, you're no match for me wimp! Let's face it Sonic, no matter what you do, I'll always be better then you!"

"In your dreams Scourge!" retorted Sonic "If you're better then me then how come I always win?"

"Because Ginger kept screwing up on me and your friends keep interfering with our battles." noted Super Scourge "Now Ginger can't screw up on me because he's dead and your friends ain't here, you have no chance against me. Now, are you ready to give in or do I get to beat you up some more?"

"How about "C" -none of the above?" asked Super Sonic, kicking Super Scourge in the tender spot.

Super Scourge yelped in pain but he wasn't in as much pain as he would have been if he wasn't super powered and he quickly retaliated with a roundhouse punch to the jaw. Super Scourge then proceeded to pound Super Sonic swiftly and mercilessly all over his body and every punch he threw just got harder and harder. Poor Super Sonic couldn't keep up with him and he found himself getting horribly pummelled by Super Scourge. Super Scourge then back flipped and walloped Super Sonic with his feet as they flipped up and over. Super Scourge then light-dashed Super Sonic and knocked him down onto the ground. Super Sonic light-dashed him back and sent him in a spin through the air. The two then flew backwards away from each other and they light-dashed each other. They both bounced off of each other but they wheeled around and did it again. Anyone watching this incredible display down below would feel like they were watching a light show with a golden and purple light constantly bouncing off of one another. Super Sonic and Super Scourge were light-dashing each other so fast, so hard and so brilliantly that they just looked like beams of light rapidly soaring through the sky at the speed of light. Super Sonic and Super Scourge light-dashed each other repeatedly over and over until eventually, Super Scourge overpowered Super Sonic and he dropkicked him out of the sky.

"Eat dirt blue!" he jeered as Super Sonic got yet another mouth full of dirt down below.

Super Sonic picked himself up but before he could even prepare himself, Super Scourge grabbed him from behind and he carried Super Sonic up into the air. He carried Super Sonic up a good few feet before stopping and throwing Super Sonic straight down into the ground. Super Sonic however, teleported using Chaos Control and reappeared behind Super Scourge before he could hit the ground. Super Sonic spin-dashed Super Scourge from behind and the two ended up crashing into the ground together. Super Scourge grumbled furiously and he picked himself up. Super Sonic leaped into the air and kicked him in the head, knocking him over onto his back. Super Scourge however, jumped into the air like a kangaroo and he head butted Super Sonic in the forehead. Super Sonic yelped in pain and Super Scourge then proceeded to gut punch Super Sonic and then roundhouse kick him in the head. Super Sonic groaned in pain and Super Scourge then fist slammed him down onto the ground and viciously kicked him across the ground. Super Sonic got back to his feet and then spin-dashed Super Scourge as hard as he could. Super Scourge spin-dashed Super Sonic back but Super Sonic was on hand to spin-dash Super Scourge from behind and then kick him in the back. Super Scourge tried to grab Super Sonic but Super Sonic used a Chaos Control on him and made him slow down. Slow down to the point that he appeared to be moving a fraction of a millimetre every second. Super Sonic then took the opportunity to spin-dash Super Scourge repeatedly all over his body while he was stuck in a Chaos Control and just as the Chaos Control wore off, Super Sonic kick-slammed Super Sonic in the head. He then grabbed Super Scourge in a chokehold and held him there as he tightly wrapped his arm around his throat.

"Say uncle Scourgey Wourgey!" said Super Sonic as he tightened his grip "Say it!"

"Don't…call…me…SCOURGEY WOURGEY!" thundered Super Scourge.

He warped himself out of Super Sonic's grasp with a Chaos Control and he reappeared behind Super Sonic. He let loose a flurry of super fast punches, kicks and light dashes all over Super Sonic in blind rage. He was going so fast that Super Sonic couldn't even see him. The poor hedgehog was getting overwhelmed by Super Scourge's rapid attacks and Super Scourge then decided to add insult to injury by Chaos Blasting him once again. This blast was even worse then the first one he did due to how angry he was. Chaos Blasts got worse depending on emotions after all. Super Sonic was thrown through the sky and he crashed onto the ground face first. He skidded to a very painful halt on his face and he lay on the ground, panting heavily and trying to pick himself up. Despite his super powers, he just couldn't defeat Super Scourge. He was too powerful for him and right now, he was having trouble getting back up. Super Scourge stood before Super Sonic and he laughed maniacally at him.

"Wah, ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!" he cackled "I win! I win! Hell yeah baby! Whoo hoo! I've finally beaten my stupid brother! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

Super Sonic managed to push himself onto his back and he stared weakly and pathetically at Super Scourge. Super Scourge glowered at Super Sonic and he grinned maliciously at him.

"At long last, I've beaten you blue!" sneered Super Scourge "Now it's time to finish you off…FOR GOOD! It was fun while it lasted at least but now your time has come. Say hello to Ginger for me, not that you'll want to."

He was just about to pummel Super Sonic once again until something strange happened. Before he could launch a single punch, his purple fur began to fade away back into green. His clothes began to change back to their normal colour and his strength began to fade away. He dropped down onto the ground and the super aurora disappeared into thin air. His super form had run out! Super Scourge had spent too much of his time gloating and showing off and therefore, wasted his super form. He really should have killed Ginger afterwards instead of before and he really should of gloated less. After all, arrogance was his biggest weakness. Scourge picked himself up and he looked at himself. He was back to normal and his super form had gone.

"NOOOO!" he bellowed in agony "NO, NO, NO, NOOOOOO! I WAS SO CLOSE TO VICTORY AND NOW MY SUPER FORM RUNS OUT! WHY DIDN'T THAT IDIOT GINGER WARN ME MY SUPER FORM WASN'T GOING TO LAST FOREVER? HE READ ABOUT THE CHAOS EMERALDS SO HE SHOULD HAVE KNOWN THEIR SIDE EFFECTS!"

"Well I guess Ginger didn't pay enough attention to detail and you just couldn't stop gloating long enough to finish me." sneered Super Sonic "Since I turned super after you did though, mine won't run out yet and now I can use it to beat the cuss outta ya!"

"No! Please! Don't!" begged Scourge pathetically "Don't do this to me!"

"Why not Scourgey Wourgey?" jeered Super Sonic "You've just beaten me to a pulp and then tried to kill me so why shouldn't I beat you up then?"

Scourge couldn't think of a suitable enough answer so instead, he decided to randomly yell something to distract him.

"Hey look! Dr. Eggman's behind you!" he cried dramatically, pointing behind Super Sonic.

"What?" blurted Super Sonic, turning around and looking around for Dr. Eggman.

While Super Sonic was distracted, Scourge took the opportunity to run like hell. He zipped away from the battlefield at supersonic speed. So fast that he was gone the moment Super Sonic turned around to deal with him again. Super Sonic cursed himself for letting Scourge get away and he powered himself down. There was no point wasting a super form trying to find Scourge when he could use his power for something more useful. Besides, he didn't see where Scourge had run off to so Scourge could be anywhere right now and he'd run out by the time he found him. Sonic's golden fur faded back to blue and the Chaos Energy in him faded away. The Chaos Emeralds appeared from nowhere and they settled down at his feet. Sonic scuffed his feet crossly and he moaned to himself.

"Darn it! Scourge evades me again!" he muttered "When will I eventually catch my wayward brother? Oh if only we never visited AngelIsland in the first place and I wouldn't be in this never-ending conflict of good vs. evil with him! I much preferred our sibling rivalry then our hero-villain rivalry! Oh well, I'll get Scourge eventually, it's only a matter of time until…"

His voice trailed off as he looked in the direction of the hole in the ground that led to the cavern they'd briefly ended up in earlier. There was a bright flash coming from inside the cavern. Sonic wondered what it was so he wandered over to the hole and jumped down it. It was a long drop but a long drop was no problem for Sonic. He fell down the hole and he finally arrived at the bottom of it. He was back in the cavern that he and Scourge briefly dug down to during the super fight. The only thing was, the cavern had something inside it. Something that Sonic could hardly believe he was looking at.

"Get. a. load. of. these!" he stammered as he surveyed the cavern.

The cavern was full of colourful clusters of what appeared to be chunks of emeralds all fused together. They were the colours of the Chaos Emeralds and they were all flashing in a beautiful, bright glow together…

Emeralds Part 1

Story 90: Emeralds Part 1: Mysteries in Clusters

The hero of Mobius, Sonic the Hedgehog, had just been in an epic battle of supers with his evil brother Scourge the Hedgehog. Sonic had taken a tremendous beating but due to the fact he transformed much later then Scourge did and Scourge wouldn't stop gloating and bragging about himself, Scourge ran out of super power, leaving Sonic victorious and Scourge to run away and fight another day. Sonic would have been trying to catch Scourge right now but something had caught his attention. During the fight, the two had ended up digging into a deep cavern and Sonic had found something of great interest in the cavern. The cavern was full of colourful clusters. They were spiky, colourful, sparkly, glowing chunks of what appeared to be Chaos Emeralds all fused together. They were all glowing in unison and the cavern was alight with their flashes. Were they not here, the cavern would be pitch black now. Sonic stared at the sparkly clusters in awe and he wondered over to a large one curiously. He reached out a hand and he touched one of the clusters. It felt exactly like a Chaos Emerald. The surface, the texture and even the energies inside felt exactly the same as a Chaos Emerald. This was more then surreal enough for Sonic to think he was going mad. There were only seven Chaos Emeralds now, how could these clusters possibly exist? The Chaos Emeralds had all been fused into seven so where did these come from? Sonic had many questions and he needed to know the answers or he was going to drive himself crazy. Sonic knew exactly who to ask though. The guardian of Angel Island himself, Knuckles the Echidna. He was an expert on the Chaos Emeralds so he was bound to know what these were and where they came from.

"So you mystery clusters, where did you come from and how can you possibly be here since there's only seven Chaos Emeralds left?" mused Sonic.

He wandered away from the cluster he was touching and he looked around for a small cluster. Most of the ones in the cavern were way too large for him to carry and it would be awkward considering how jagged they were so he would need one that was travel size for his convenience. Luckily for him, the clusters weren't all the same size. Some were enormous, some were big and some were small and after looking around the cavern for a while, Sonic found a cluster that was the size of his hand. It was quite clear some clusters had more emeralds fused together then others. Sonic picked up the emerald cluster and he wandered back over to the hole in the ceiling.

"Now's the time to find out what the story behind these clusters are." said Sonic.

He curled himself up into a spiky ball and he spin-dashed out of the cavern by zooming up through the hole while he was in a spin-dash. He shot up through the hole and back outside into the fresh air of day up above. Sonic landed on his feet and he looked at the emerald cluster he was now holding. He then noticed the seven Chaos Emeralds lying on the ground after the super battle had been over and they were all glowing brighter then ever due to the fact the cluster was near them. The cluster was glowing too, meaning that they were definitely Chaos Emeralds fused together to make a cluster. But where did they come from? Sonic had to get to the bottom of this, something was not quite right around here.

"I though Knuckie said his dad fused the Chaos Emeralds together to make only seven." Sonic said to himself "Seems more like his dad fused the Chaos Emeralds together to make these clusters and only seven of them didn't get fused together. I smell something fishy around here. I bet Knuckles knows something about this. And if he does, maybe he can explain the purpose of these clusters. If not then his dad's definitely hiding something from all of us, even his own son."

Before he could wonder to himself any further, his sidekick and best friend Tails the Fox suddenly appeared from nowhere flying through the air with his twin-tails. The fox looked frantic. He was acting like the sky was falling. Tails flew down and landed straight in front of Sonic, breathing heavily and gasping for breath.

"Sonic! Gasp, pant, Thank goodness I've found you!" he exclaimed, panting heavily "I've been looking all over for you!"

His attention was suddenly diverted at the emerald cluster Sonic had in his hand.

"What the heck is that?" asked Tails.

"A mystery, that's what it is." said Sonic "Now, what's up Tails?"

"Fiona stabbed Amy while you and Scourge were fighting!" exclaimed Tails "Amy's in the hospital right now but she's in bad shape! You've gotta come see her quickly!"

Sonic could hardly believe what he had heard. Fiona stabbed Amy while he and Scourge were having a battle of the supers? How about that, he leaves his friends alone for five minutes and now one of them ends up hospitalized! Sonic had to get home and quick to see if Amy was OK. Amy would want him to be at her side right now.

"Thanks for that Tails, I'll be home as soon as possible." said Sonic "Can you put the Chaos Emeralds back on Angel Island for me since you can actually get up there?"

"Yes Sonic." said Tails "I'll join you as soon as they're back on the island."

With that said, Sonic rocketed off at top speed, leaving Tails behind to pick up the Chaos Emeralds and carry them back to the magical floating island known as Angel Island. As Sonic ran on back to Empire City, he began to wonder how bad a shape Amy was in and if she was going to live. It looked like the mystery of the emerald clusters would have to wait as his self-proclaimed girlfriend was horribly wounded and likely in need of his presence now…

Back at Empire City, Ruben the Water Panther had quickly rushed the wounded Amy Rose to hospital and in a good amount of time, the pink hedgehog had been put into a room and was being seen to by the medics double quick. The others, Knuckles and Shade the Echidnas, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John arrived at the hospital to see Amy. They gathered around her bed to look at the wounded hedgehog to see if she was alright. Amy's entire torso had been wrapped from the chest down to her waist in bandages and she was just lying on the bed, sleeping like a baby. A heart monitor beside her was beeping slowly, indicating her heartbeat wasn't very strong right now. She had lost quite a bit of blood from that stab to the stomach from Fiona and if she didn't receive any medical care, she was not going to make it out alive. As Amy slept on the bed, the others exchanged worrying glances amongst each other. Cream and Cosmo were the most worried as they were Amy's best friends. Cream in particular was on the verge of tears as Amy was like a sister to her and had looked after her during the times her mother had been roboticized* so seeing her friend lying there wrapped in bandages and clinging onto life like a man dangling from a cliff was too much for the rabbit to handle. A nurse was seeing to Amy's current condition right now. The nurse was a female woodchuck with blonde hair and a traditional nurse's outfit. She looked very grim as she monitored poor Amy. Cream tugged the nurse's skirt nervously and the nurse looked at her.

"E-excuse me miss." said Cream, trying not to sob "I-I-Is Amy g-going to live?"

The nurse gave Cream an expression that wasn't very reassuring to her. She looked grave.

"It's hard to say dear." said the nurse sadly "The wound seems only superficial but it's actually a lot worse then it looks. That stab poor Amy has received was close to fatal and it's possible it may end up claiming her life unless we can do something. What on Mobius happened to the poor child?"

"She got stabbed by a piece of shrapnel while trying to catch a villain." explained Ruben "The villain picked it up from the rubble of the now destroyed MPD station and stabbed her with it. I found her bleeding like mad so I rushed her here as quick as I could."

"And that was very good of you little boy but even then, the situation seems very grim right now." said the nurse, feeling Amy's chest to see how her breathing was "That stab was pretty serious and she's lost a lot of blood. Unless we can do something about it, she'll die."

That piece of news was not reassuring to anybody. This made them grow more concerned for poor Amy and Cream ended up breaking down in tears at the very thought of losing Amy. Cosmo hugged Cream as if she was a caring sister trying to calm her younger sister down and she shed a tear or two with her.

"Oh no!" wailed Cream "Amy can't die! I don't want her to! I don't want Amy to die!"

"Hopefully, she'll pull through but I'm not betting on it." said the nurse glumly "If Amy does survive, it'll mostly be by pure good luck and I don't think it's on her side right now."

She noted the heart monitor in how it seemed to be beeping slower and slower by the second. The gaps In between beeps got longer and longer. Amy's situation seemed very desperate right now. Ruben then suddenly got cross and he kicked the wall furiously to let his temper out.

"Why didn't that stupid girl listen to me?" grumbled Ruben "I told her to come back and she blatantly ignored me and ended up getting stabbed by Fiona! I could have saved her all this but she didn't listen to me and got stabbed! I hope she pulls through so I can give her a good telling off for not keeping herself under control when I told her to!"

"Ruben mate, take it easy." said Geoffrey "Amy's a stubborn little girl and she needs to work on it. You can't go chastising the little girl because all yer gonna do is upset her and the last thing she needs right now is upsetting."

"I know Geoffrey it's just I wish people would listen to me when I warn them." said Ruben "You all forget I do hail from Chun-Nan and children in Chun-Nan who get trained in martial arts tend to mature pretty quickly and have intelligence greater then you give us credit for. I knew the moment Fiona began taunting us that she was trying to goad someone into attacking her so she could inflict pain on them and probably kill them and I was only trying to save Amy from falling into that trap."

"I see." said Geoffrey "But you need to remember this ain't Chun-Nan and the citizens here do behave differently to you so you can't expect everybody to listen to ya just because you think you're right."

"I'll try and keep that in mind in the future." said Ruben "As of now, I dearly hope that Amy makes it or I will feel sorry for her and all her friends."

Geoffrey nodded in agreement as everybody continued to stare in despair at Amy, still sleeping on the bed and breathing very faintly. Cream couldn't stop crying so Cosmo led the rabbit away from the bed and sat her down on a chair in the corner. The heart monitor beside Amy's bed stopped beeping slower and slower every minute but it was still beeping slowly with long pauses between the beeps. Her heartbeat had stopped getting weaker but it was still weak right now. The nurse continued to monitor Amy as her friends stared at her sadly. Then suddenly, just when the room was going to be entirely consumed by doom and gloom, Sonic the Hedgehog finally arrived into the room and skidded to a halt just outside of Amy's room, the emerald cluster still glowing in his hands. Sonic stepped into Amy's room carefully and he noticed that all his friends were in the room as well. Everybody's faces brightened at the sight of Sonic arriving into the room at last.

"Sonic, you made it back you speedy little daredevil hog!" laughed Knuckles playfully "We was beginning to think Super Scourge had gotten the best of ya!"

"He almost did actually." said Sonic "But his super form ran out, luckily for me, and now he's running away like a coward. Where he is now is anyone's guess but Super Scourge is no more at least."

He then stopped and noticed that everybody was staring awkwardly at him. Sonic turned his head to one side and pulled a confused expression at his friends.

"What are you all staring at then?" asked Sonic.

"What the hoo-hah is that ya'll have in yer hands sugah-hog?" asked Bunnie, pointing at Sonic's emerald cluster that he had brought all the way back to Empire City with him.

Sonic looked down at the still sparkling cluster in his hands and realized what they were staring at.

"Oh this?" said Sonic "I'll explain later, now's not the time. Where's Amy?"

"Right here Sonic." said the nurse.

Sonic walked over to Amy's bedside and he looked at the wounded hedgehog. He couldn't believe what he was seeing. Amy was wrapped from the chest down to her waist in bandages, hooked up to a heart monitor and sleeping, her breathing very weak and raspy as she snoozed away. Fiona had clearly stabbed her pretty bad because Amy looked like she was on the verge of death right now.

"Oh…my…gosh!" gasped Sonic "What did Fiona do to her? Stab her with a fricken sword? I can't believe that traitor stooped so low as to do something like this!"

"It's horrible! Absolutely horrible!" sobbed Cream, her tears raining down her cheeks and staining the fur under her cheeks "Amy's going to die unless she can be saved! I don't want Amy to die! I don't wanna lose my best friend!"

Sonic looked pityingly at the sobbing rabbit and felt like he wanted to shed a tear with her. Cream's sobs were saddening and depressing enough to make even the toughest man cry. Sonic looked back over at Amy and put a hand on her hand, which just sat beside her not moving or anything. The hedgehog's quills dropped back in sorrow.

"Ames? Can you hear me?" asked Sonic "If you can then you must know I'm sorry I wasn't there for you when Fiona did this. I wish I could have been there to save you but Scourge had me occupied. I really hope that we can save you in some…way…"

His voice trailed off as he looked back at the emerald cluster he had with him. If this was a cluster of Chaos Emerald pieces then it must have the same powers as a Chaos Emerald. If that was the case then…

"Wait a minute! We do have a way!" exclaimed Sonic excitedly "Hey Knuckles, can a Chaos Emerald heal the sick and injured?"

"They can indeed." said Knuckles "They have an ability known as Chaos Regeneration which heals all wounds and puts the person back to normal. But that's not a Chaos Emerald you have with you so that won't work."

"Correction, it will." said Sonic "This is a cluster of Chaos Emeralds this is and I should know because it feels like a Chaos Emerald and it glows brightly when near other Chaos Emeralds. Believe me, I've tried it."

Knuckles and Shade both gave Sonic a look of total gobsmack. The two echidnas didn't know what to say about this.

"But…but that's impossible!" cried Knuckles "There's only seven Chaos Emeralds left so how can that be a Chaos Emerald cluster?"

"I was hoping you could answer me that." muttered Sonic "But it seems you're such a knucklehead, you don't know anything about these clusters. How about you Shade?"

"I don't know anything about that cluster either." said Shade "I thought there were only seven emeralds left, there can't possibly be clusters of Chaos Emeralds."

"Well, there is and if you don't believe me, I'll show ya once we heal Amy." said Sonic "There's am underground cavern full of them in Downunda and that's where this came from."

Knuckles and Shade began to think about this mystery cluster. Where did it come from and how could it be? There were only seven Chaos Emeralds left. Had there been a mistake? Were the clusters artificial or were there more Chaos Emeralds then Locke thought there had been.

"I think somebody's been hiding something from me and my dad!" growled Knuckles "Well I'll show him or her once I get my hands on them!"

"Easy Knuckles." said Shade "I don't think anybody's hiding anything from us. Maybe, your dad made a mistake or something when he listed the Chaos Emeralds. Maybe nobody on Angel Island knows about the clusters and they think the seven Chaos Emeralds are all there is."

"But dad used his Chaos Energies to fuse them all into seven!" exclaimed Knuckles "There shouldn't be any left! Those clusters shouldn't exist!"

"Well, they do." said Sonic "So I guess your dad made a very messy job of fusing the emeralds together or he missed a few. Now keep quiet while I heal Amy with this."

"No Sonic!" protested Knuckles "You have no idea what that cluster might do! It might be too much for…"

Sonic ignored the protesting echidna and she held the cluster above Amy's body and he yelled at the top of his voice.

"Chaos…REGENERATION!"

The moment he yelled that, the chaos cluster glowed brighter then all seven Chaos Emeralds and the room was engulfed in a bright, flashing light. Everybody shielded their eyes from the blinding, dazzling light that filled the room top to bottom. Anyone coming by the room now would probably be dazzled too by the bright light that filled the room. After a while of flashing, the light died down and faded away, leaving everybody able to open their eyes and see again. The chaos cluster had died down to just sparkling now. Sonic opened his eyes and he lowered the cluster. Had it worked? At first, nothing seemed to have changed. Then suddenly, the heart monitor was beginning to beep a little faster then before. The beep got faster and faster until it stopped increasing and was now beeping at the normal steady pace it should be beeping at. Amy's heartbeat was getting stronger. In fact, Amy herself was beginning to stir sleepily. Her fingers twitched for a moment and then her whole arm began to move. Then, Amy began to sit up on the bed, much to the bewilderment of the nurse and everybody in the room. Amy stretched slightly and she sat up nice and straight. Her eyes opened and she looked around the room. She noticed she was wrapped in bandages and she looked to her side, noticing Sonic standing there. Sonic couldn't believe his eyes. Amy was all better now! The Chaos Regeneration had worked! Amy was going to live after all! As for Amy, her face brightened at the sight of her handsome hero standing there at her bedside.

"Sonic!" she squealed "Oh I'm so glad you're here to see me!" she grasped Sonic in a tight hug like she usually did when she met him.

"Oh she's better alright." muttered Sonic "That Chaos Regeneration really packs a wallop doesn't it?"

"Chaos Regeneration is unbelievable in more ways then one Sonic." said Shade "You have no idea what kind of wounds it can heal."

"Well boy were we lucky." said Sonic brightly "So Ames, how do you feel now?"

"I feel fine now." said Amy, fleeing her bandaged torso all over "In fact…I feel more then fine…I feel great! I feel like Fiona never stabbed me! What did you do to me Sonic?"

"I only used a Chaos Regeneration on ya." said Sonic casually "I used this in order to save you."

He showed Amy the mysterious chaos cluster that had just saved her life right now. Amy didn't know what to say about the cluster other then.

"Wow. That thing's beautiful. What is it and where did you get it?"

"It's a cluster of Chaos Emeralds and I found it in an underground cavern in Downunda." explained Sonic "We're not sure how this is possibly as there's only seven Chaos Emeralds."

"Hmm…" mused Amy "Maybe there's more Chaos Emeralds then we thought there were."

"Well whatever it is, me and Shade are investigating them." said Knuckles "I'm getting to the bottom of this and no one is going to get in my way! Sonic, care to show me where the clusters are?"

"I sure can." said Sonic "You just follow me and I'll lead you right to them."

"You'll have to take it slow though Sonic as you can't carry me and that cluster at the same time and I can't run as fast as you." said Knuckles.

"Oh, do I have to?" moaned Sonic "I hate going slow."

Luckily for Sonic, it didn't seem he'd need to as Tails had finally arrived back at Empire City and he found Sonic and friends in Amy's room. Sonic beamed happily at the arrival of Tails.

"Tails, you made it back!" cried Sonic "You can carry Knuckles and follow me to Downunda."

"We're going back to Downunda?" blurted Tails tiredly "What for?"

"To investigate these." said Sonic, showing Tails the cluster "Come on bud, we don't have all day."

With that said, Sonic, Tails and Knuckles all ran out of the hospital as quick as flashes and they set courses for Downunda, leaving the others to take Amy home and await further updates. It was good to see that Amy's life had been saved and yet there was more going on then they thought there was. How can these emerald clusters exist? And where did they come from if there's only seven Chaos Emeralds…?

Unfortunately for Sonic and friends, somebody had picked up the Chaos Energy signatures coming from the emerald clusters in the cavern. That somebody was Dr. Eggman's silent but deadly minion Katherine the Fem-bot, Eggman's replacement servant for the treacherous Alonzo the Butler Bot. Katherine had been spending all this time looking after Dr. Eggman after his mind had just snapped like a twig and now she'd just detected huge spikes of Chaos Energy coming from Downunda. Her radar senses were on par with the strongest of satellites so she'd pick up anything. Katherine decided to investigate this strange sudden energy spike but Dr. Eggman was still insane and babbling like an idiot to himself so he wouldn't be able to come with her. Katherine looked at her snivelling master who was still gibbering to himself. It pained her to see her master reduced to this mad state.

"Herp, derp, nerp, nope, nap, dap, bananafish, I can has cheeseburger? Hate that hedgehog, why machine no workie-derkie?" he blubbered stupidly to himself "It's over 9000, arrow to the knee, this is Sparta, tearing me apart, Chuck Norris, Dinkleberg, dorp, derp, dap, dip, nip, nap, nerp, norp, na, na, na, na, na, where's my Tails Doll? Gorpie Dorpie Candyfloss…"

Katherine shook her head in disappointment at her master. He'd been resting for a while and he still seemed to be off the deep end. This was going to be one long road to recovery. Katherine decided she'd do this mission without Dr. Eggman. She left her master alone to continue blubbing and rocking about uncontrollably in his quarters while she investigated the chaos energy signatures. She would bring a squad with her for back up. Katherine was going to find the source of this Chaos Energy signature, bring it to Dr. Eggman and hopefully, please him with it once he came back from the brink. She just hoped that Sonic and friends weren't going to interfere with her.

Meanwhile, Scourge the Hedgehog had returned to Downunda after fleeing the super fight. He had retreated under the idea of leaving Sonic to either power down or run out of super power and then deck him ten times to Spagonia. Unfortunately for Scourge, Sonic had already gone so his plan hadn't worked. He stomped the ground furiously and began cursing to himself.

"&%£*!" he swore "Sonic's just gone and run away! Weird though considering he's just beaten me. Why did he suddenly turn chicken and run? Maybe there's something going on back at his home or something. Oh well, he'll have powered down by now so I can just go and spin-dash him into a pulp once I get my hands on him! I can't believe I failed to kill him even though I was so close! Well the next time I face him, I will not fail! I will proper kill him this time!"

Scourge then proceeded to trudge grumpily through the plains of Downunda, not noticing the hole that led to the chaos cluster cavern underground that he and Super Sonic had made during the super battle. He didn't walk for long though. He heard the sound of pounding feet coming towards him and he stopped dead in his tracks. Was it Sonic or one of his friends coming to beat the cuss out of him? He had no idea but he braced himself to attack. Then suddenly, he saw what was making that noise. It was only his girlfriend, the treacherous ex-Royal Fighter vixen Fiona Fox running towards him. The vixen had finally found Scourge and she ran over to him, panting heavily. Scourge beamed and lowered his fists, pleased to see it was Fiona. Fiona caught up to Scourge and she threw herself into Scourge's arms, wrapping her arms around him tightly and lovingly.

"Scourge! I've…pant…found you…at last…puff!" panted Fiona "I've…been running all over…looking…for you!"

"Well you found me at last sweet thing." said Scourge happily "Good thing you didn't arrive in time to see me lose to Super Sonic otherwise you would have died of disappointment."

"You what?" squealed Fiona as she was just catching her breath back "You…you lost? How?"

"I ran out of super power just as I was about to kill Sonic!" grumbled Scourge "Can you believe it? Of all the embarrassing defeats I could have! I run out of super power! Why didn't that dork Ginger warn me that Chaos Emeralds had a side effect like this? He read about them so he should know that their power isn't everlasting! Even as I've killed him, his uselessness still strikes on me! Well at least he can't screw up anymore now he's dead."

"Agreed." said Fiona "Although we can all agree had you killed Ginger AFTER you defeated Sonic then you wouldn't have run out of power at the wrong time." she noted.

"Yeah, so it's mine and Ginger's faults more or less." grumbled Scourge "Well, everybody makes mistakes, even awesome guys like me, and now I've learnt from that mistake, I shan't make it again!"

"I'm glad about that hon." said Fiona "And you'll be glad to hear about this. I stabbed Amy in the gut while I made my getaway from Empire City."

Scourge's face twisted into an expression of unwavering devilishness. It was quite clear the hedgehog was fascinated to hear this. His sunglasses nearly fell off his face after making that expression.

"You stabbed Sonic's prissy little fan-brat?" he exclaimed happily "Whoa! I didn't know you were THAT badass Fiona! No wonder I'm keeping you alive instead of Ginger! Ginger could never do anything so cool! I beat that's why Sonic's gone and left instead of trying to get me. He's running home to give his girlfriend a get better kiss no doubt."

"Well only heroes get to be so soppy." sneered Fiona "We villains are much tougher then they are. While they're distracted by horror, despair and heartbreak over poor Amy, we should kick their teeth in."

"Good idea Fi." said Scourge "I'm gonna march straight over to Empire City and…"

His voice trailed off when he began to walk by the hole in the ground and he noticed a bright flash coming from inside the hole. Scourge stopped dead in his tracks and he stared at the hole, wondering what could possibly be down it. Whatever it was, it was likely to be mystical as it was glowing brightly. Scourge stared down the hole and noticed some bright lights coming from inside. Fiona noticed Scourge seemed interested in what was down the hole and she stood behind him.

"Scourge? Hunky chops? What's up?" she asked concernedly.

"There's summet glowing down here." replied Scourge "And I'm going to find out what it is. Come on babes."

He hopped down the hole and slid all the way down to the bottom. Fiona followed him quickly, wondering what Scourge had seen. The two villains arrived at the bottom of the hole and they found themselves inside an underground cavern. The moment they arrived in the cavern, the first thing they did was gape in awe at what they were met with. The cavern was full of clusters. Clusters of Chaos Emeralds all sparkling in unison to make the cavern alight with a bright, beautiful, colourful aurora. Scourge couldn't believe what he was seeing. The clusters looked amazing and they looked familiar too. Familiar in the sense that they glowed like the Master Emerald and they were all made of Chaos Emerald pieces. Scourge had seen the Chaos Emeralds briefly before Sonic used them to turn super so he knew what he was looking at.

"Dog…gone!" gasped Scourge "Will ya look at these for starters Fi?"

"Yes. They're quite amazing aren't they?" said Fiona, staring at a huge cluster just beside her "But what are they?"

"They look like clusters." said Scourge, picking a small one the size of his head up and looking at it in admiration "Clusters of…Chaos Emeralds. When I touch these, I feel this surge of Chaos Energy on my hands much like I do when I touch the Master Emerald. I saw what the Chaos Emeralds looked like and what colour they were before Sonic turned super so I know that these are Chaos Emeralds. After all, there's only one Master Emerald so these wouldn't be clusters of Master Emeralds."

"Well Scourge, you've just found your new power supply." said Fiona "You can use these to turn super and destroy Sonic and friends."

"Maybe." said Scourge "Depends if these clusters work like they should do. By the way, I'm not going to launch another attack just so shortly after getting beaten again, Sonic and friends will expect that so I say we take these things, hide for a while and then use them and because we'll have all these clusters, who know what power I shall possess with them!"

"That is a nice idea Scourge." said Fiona "One thing though, we don't wanna dig up these clusters ourselves and attract the attention of Sonic and friends. We must get somebody else to dig these up for us."

"And who, may I ask, do you suggest we con for this job then?" asked Scourge, putting the cluster down.

"A man named Porthos the Rabbit." explained Fiona "I met him once before I joined the R.F.S., three years ago to be more precise. He's a miner and is fascinated with echidna history for some reason (guess he's got a thing for echidnas or something) and he leads a group of miners that expert in mining artefacts and ancient echidna relics. They'll be perfect for this job. Anyone coming by will just see it as another mining expedition and Sonic and friends won't suspect anything at all."

"Fiona, you're a good luck charm." said Scourge with a big grin on his evil face.

"Thank you baby." said Fiona "So we hire Porthos and his crew, get them to mine these up, then we take them and hide and then you use them to conquer the world."

"I like this plan." said Scourge evilly "Let's go and find this Port holes the Rabbit then and get him to dig these up."

"Porthos." corrected Fiona.

"Whatever." sniffed Scourge.

Scourge and Fiona climbed up through the hole in the ceiling and up through it to fresh air up above. They left the cavern behind and climbed up and out of the hole that led to it. As soon as they were out of the hole, they both ran for it as fast as they could. Scourge carried Fiona in his arms so she wouldn't lag behind as he ran off at top speed. However, of all the sheer coincidences, the moment Scourge and Fiona left, Sonic, Tails and Knuckles arrived on the scene and they stopped just in front of the hole in the ground that led to the cavern. Sonic leaped down it with Tails and Knuckles following him. They all landed at the bottom of the hole and found themselves inside the mystery cavern once again. Tails and Knuckles stared in awe at the clusters of Chaos Emeralds that Sonic had been telling them about. The very sight of them was enough to make them think they were seeing things but nope, they were actually looking at clusters of Chaos Emeralds. Sonic put the cluster he had with him down and he folded his arms while putting on a smug expression.

"What did I tell ya guys?" he said.

"This…this is unbelievable!" cried Tails "A whole cavern choc-a-bloc of Chaos Emerald clusters! I can't believe my eyes!"

"Neither can I." said Knuckles, touching one of the huge clusters and feeling the Chaos Energy inside them "These are definitely Chaos Emeralds they're made of. They look like that someone just took hundreds of Chaos Emeralds and bashed them all together to make these. But who did and how? They're only seven left."

"Well maybe somebody got a lot of emeralds and fused them together to make these clusters without anyone knowing." suggested Tails "Your dad probably didn't even know about these and thought he'd fused them all together to make seven when there was actually hundreds more to go."

"When the Chaos Emeralds were around before they became seven, there were seventy thousand of them." said Knuckles "I guess dad didn't fuse all seventy thousand of them to make the seven Chaos Emeralds. He must have missed a good thousand or so as they've been used to make these clusters. Who knows how many clusters there are in this cavern?"

"Well let's count them shall we?" joked Sonic.

"No." said Knuckles "It doesn't matter. Well, if these clusters are Chaos Emerald clusters then the best choice would be to make sure none of our greatest enemies get these."

"Just seven Chaos Emeralds are enough to give me super power and one of these clusters was enough to heal Amy Rose in one flash so who knows what kind of power a cluster made up of other Chaos Emeralds has." said Sonic "Come one, let's leave this place and bury it and forget these ever existed."

"That would be the best idea." said Knuckles "It'll prevent anyone from finding out about these."

"But it's nothing but rock ground up there." noted Tails "How can we bury the hole up above when there's nothing to bury it with?"

"Hmm…you do have a point Tails." said Sonic "We'll think of something. Until then, I think we should return to Royal HQ and give the R.F.S. the rundown on what's happened today."

With that said, Sonic, Tails and Knuckles climbed up through the hole and out of the cluster cavern. They climbed up to the surface and headed off for home. Sonic was determined to find a way of making sure the clusters would be hidden for good but there was nothing to bury the hole with and sticking a rock in it wasn't a very good idea as it would like weird and out of place. Sonic was just thankful that Scourge didn't know about the clusters. Only…he did and now he and Fiona were hiring a group of miners to dig up the emerald clusters so he could use them for his own personal gain…

Meanwhile, Fiona had taken Scourge to a small house in a village called Furville, a village very similar to Knothole only it was larger and had houses more then huts. It's appearance as similar to that of Spagonia with it's somewhat old looking houses and stylistically tiled rooftops. Furville was located at the very end of the Great Forest and Fiona knew where it was, even though she'd only ever been to the village once. The moment Fiona and Scourge had arrived at Furville, Fiona had looked around for the house of Porthos the Rabbit and luckily for her, she remembered where it was and she found it. The house was pretty standard looking and had nice floor beds on the window sills all brimming with flowers. Fiona knocked on the door politely and waited for Porthos to answer it. The door opened and there stood an adult Mobian rabbit who curiously enough, was coloured the same as Cream and Vanilla the Rabbits. He however, had ginger shaggy hair that curled around the bases of his ears and looked pretty messy and yet he seemed to be a rather gentlemanly kind of character given his appearance. He had a cane with him which looked very wealthy and he wore a smart shirt, a brown waistcoat and smart claret shoes with gold buckles. He wore a pair of spectacles that looked quite glamorous too with gleaming red rims. His eyes were even browner then those of Cream and Vanilla's. Porthos' face brightened up at the sight of a familiar face on his door step.

"Hello there Fiona girl." beamed Porthos happily, his voice was rich and smooth sounding "My, you look lovely, three years past and now you look like a possible contestant for a beauty pageant."

"It's nice to see you again Porthos." lied Fiona, shaking the rabbit's hand in fake friendliness "How's your mining team by the way?"

"On standby as we haven't got any mining tasks to do my dear." said Porthos "Why do you ask anyway?"

"Because me and my boyfriend Scourge here have a task that you and your crew will be happy to take up." said Fiona with a bright smile on her face.

"Really? What kind of task would that be then?" asked Porthos eagerly.

"A little something involving…Chaos Emeralds…" said Scourge casually.

Back at Royal HQ, the headquarters of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, the Royal Fighters had gone back to Royal HQ as Geoffrey felt like the base needed a check-up and they needed to document today's event's for the Royal Fighter vaults. Due to the fact Amy had been cured so miraculously by the emerald cluster, she had been let out of the hospital immediately and was pleased to be back at Royal HQ with all her friends. Everybody sans Geoffrey were chilling out in the rest room. Geoffrey was typing up a journal about today's events on the computer monitors in the lab. Not long after everybody had settled down, Sonic, Tails and Knuckles had arrived back at Royal HQ and they joined the others in the rest room. The Mobians were all just sat on the sofas and relaxing more then anything right now so Sonic, Tails and Knuckles joined them.

"Hey boys, you're back." said Amy cheerfully.

"Well noticed Amy." said Sonic cheekily "So, what's going on in the ol' base then?"

"Geoffrey's only documenting today's events and that's it really." said Bunnie "How did Downunda go for ya'll then?"

"It's mysterious to say the least." muttered Knuckles "There's an underground cavern full of clusters and clusters of Chaos Emeralds. It's pretty unbelievable I say, clusters of what appear to be hundreds of Chaos Emeralds fused together and yet dad fused them all together to make the seven we have today. We've come to the conclusion that dad probably missed some emeralds when he fused them together."

"That is the likeliest scenario." said Tails "There's no other way those clusters can possibly exist."

"I guess Knuckles' dad made a mistake when he thought he'd fused them all together to make seven." mused Cosmo "Even the best of us can make mistakes after all."

"Still though, to miss hundreds of Chaos Emeralds that have somehow been used to make clusters?" murmured Knuckles "That's a lot for any of us to take in isn't it? Especially me as I've grown up believing there are only seven Chaos Emeralds on Angel Island."

"Oh well, at least those clusters are hidden in a good place, no one will find them." said Ruben.

"And yet I found them." noted Sonic "Although that was mostly a giant coincidence courtesy of Super Me and Super Scourge. There's a hole in the ground with faint light flashing that's bound to catch anyone's attention however so I think we should bury the hole and try to hide them forever before Eggman or Marik or Scourge or some other villain finds them."

"Wouldn't it be better to just take the clusters and hide them on Angel Island along with the Chaos Emeralds?" asked Cream "I'm sure Mr. Knuckles can find a good hiding spot for them."

"That is a good idea Cream." said Knuckles "The island has many hidden tombs, they'll definitely be good places to hide the clusters. The tombs can hide energy signatures so no one will detect them. I just hope there'll be enough tombs to hide them in as there's quite a lot of clusters in that cavern, some big and some small."

"Well maybe if there isn't enough tombs to fit them all in, we can just smash them down to size and that way they'll definitely fit in those tombs!" yelled Amy in a strangely boisterous and tough sounding manner.

"Maybe." said Sonic "Just depends if we can smash emerald clusters that's all. By the way, are you alright Ames? Your hands are shaking." he added.

Amy looked down at her hands and noticed that strangely enough, her hands did indeed appear to be trembling slightly. The hedgehog had been feeling a little different from that Chaos Regeneration, different in a strange way. She'd been feeling strangely contained and felt like she had a lot of energy to unleash and burn off. Almost as if she has this tremendous urge to beat somebody up. Amy wasn't really sure why she was feeling like this but she didn't want to worry everybody so she decided to cover up her strange feeling.

"I'm fine Sonic, just surviving near death jitters I guess." said Amy "After all, getting stabbed by Fiona and then saved by an emerald cluster is still amazing to say the least."

"It is." said Sonic "I hope we meet Fiona again so I can make her pay for this."

"That nasty woman Fiona deserves to rot in a cell with Scourge for what she did to Amy!" squealed Cream angrily "She almost killed Amy and killing people is a horrible thing to do! Absolutely horrible!"

"Whoa, I never took you to be the kind of person to wish doom on somebody." said Shade "You always seemed like the polite and thoughtful kind to me little rabbit."

"I am Shade, it's just sometimes I do lose my temper although it's only very rare for me to do so." said Cream "I hate getting mad, it hurts my head when I get mad."

Then suddenly, Geoffrey burst into the rest room, his eyes wide open and wild and his expression as frantic as a lucky person who's just survived a wolf attack.

"Geoffrey, what's the matter sugah?" asked Bunnie "Ya'll look like there's a tornado goin' on out there!"

"You blokes aren't gonna believe this!" cried Geoffrey frantically "Wilson and Mandy are coming back from their outing in Megapolis and they're under attack from Eggman's new servant bot and her forces in the fields outside Mobotropolis!"

"Katherine?" blurted Sonic as he knew what Geoffrey meant by "new servant bot" "She's attacking Wilson and Mandy. What's she doing attacking my friends without Eggman giving her orders? Has Eggman decided to come out at last?"

"Well whatever she's here for, let's go over there and kick her ass!" yelled Amy "Come on, let's smash those tin-heads!"

She then darted out of the rest room, carelessly pushing past Geoffrey and knocking him onto his back. The hedgehog charged out of Royal HQ and headed for the surrounding grasslands outside. Geoffrey picked himself up and wondered what was up with Amy.

"Man, what's she been taking since her recovery?" asked Geoffrey "She's strangely eager for a battle. She usually follows behind you before rushing into battle Sonic."

"Yeah, she did seem kinda restless as her hands were shaky earlier." said Sonic "I'll keep an eye on her just to be double sure she's OK."

So Sonic decided to run out of Royal HQ and follow Amy to make sure the pink hedgehog didn't lose her head out there. What was with the sudden ego boost and how bad was it going to be? Hopefully not too bad or Amy was going to end up worse off then she was before the Chaos Regeneration…

"How dare you metal morons wreck my beautiful hover car!" screeched fellow fighter Mandy Mouse as she dropkicked an Egg-Pawn armed with a blaster gun in the face "I built that thing from scratch and now I've got to drag it to the garage and build it all over again now you've just destroyed it!"

After dealing with Marik the Martian in Megapolis, Wilson and Mandy had returned back to Mobotropolis to tell their friends what had been going on while they were away but unfortunately, Katherine and her squadron had caught them before they could arrive at the under construction new city. Katherine was going to investigate the Chaos Energy signatures but Wilson and Mandy's arrivals had distracted her so she decided to deal with them first and hopefully kill them just to make Eggman feel better. Eggman did hate Sonic and all his friends so killing them was going to make the demented, mind-broken scientist a little happier then he was now. So Katherine had ordered her Egg-Pawns to attack the two fighters as Mandy's car hovered across the grasslands and the Egg-Pawns blasted it to smithereens. Wilson and Mandy had avoided betting killed by the blasts by jumping out of the car but Mandy's sleek and shiny hover car was now in bits and pieces. It was a blazing wreck that would end up scorching the grass and leave a horrible black stain where it burnt like a log fire. Mandy was well and truly cheesed off at this and she immediately began to beat the cuss out of the Egg-Pawns. Wilson joined in with his trademark double-bladed pole weapon, aka the spinning blade, at the ready. Two Egg-Pawns began shooting at Wilson but Wilson threw his weapon at the Egg-Pawns and sliced them to ribbons. The weapon boomeranged back to him and he caught it in his hand.

"Nobody wrecks my girlfriend's car and upsets her under my watch!" yelled Wilson "I've had enough trouble from a Martian trying to kill me, I don't need you lot getting on our nerves now!"

An Egg-Pawn sneaked up behind Wilson and attempted to skewer it with a lance weapon it was armed with but Mandy fist-slammed it on the head with both fists and sent it in a daze. Then she kicked it in the head and knocked it over onto it's back. Mandy snatched the lanced and stabbed the Egg-Pawn in the chest with it. Katherine however got the drop on Mandy by sneaking up behind her and giving her an uppercut from behind. Mandy hurtled over the Egg-Pawn and she landed with a heavy thud on the ground. The mouse grumbled angrily and she threw the lance at Katherine. Katherine caught the lance and threw it back at her. The lance skimmed Mandy across the arm, earning a pained shriek from the mouse and she clutched her arm in pain.

"Yeouch!" she grunted "I think I preferred it when Eggman had a sidekick who couldn't fight!"

"I can't believe I'm saying this, but I prefer Alonzo over Katherine." muttered Wilson "Alonzo was more pathetic at least."

"Well Alonzo's gone now and this witch bot will go down with him!" screeched Mandy, slipping on her trademark brass knuckle attachments and preparing for battle "Come on Wilson, for blue dude and the others!"

"For Sonic and friends!" Wilson declared hotly.

Katherine just advanced on the dog and mouse slowly with her hands raised, ready to fire some bladed discs at the two Royal Fighters. But before she could even touch them, Amy Rose leaped in from nowhere and roundhouse punched the fem-bot sidekick in the back of the head. Katherine hurtled forward and skidded across the ground on her face. Wilson and Mandy were slightly taken aback at the sudden attack from Amy, considering she never really relied on her fists, only her hammer but they didn't mind, they were glad the cavalry had just arrived.

"Amy, you've decided to come and help us!" cried Mandy.

"I sure have dudes." said Amy, cracking her knuckles "And boy am I in the mood for ripping some robots apart! Watch this you two!"

Three Egg-Pawns charged towards Amy as fast as they could. They were armed with jousts and shields and they prepared to skewer Amy like a kebab. Amy just smiled confidently at the two robots and charged at them. Wilson yelped in fright, fearing Amy was inviting herself to be skewered. But Amy just grabbed one of the Egg-Paw's jousts and yanked it clean out of it's hands! Amy threw the joust away, the weapon hitting Katherine in the back of the head and knocking her back over, and she unleashed hell on the Egg-Pawn. She punched it at a force even greater then that of Knuckles! Her punches left dents all over the Egg-Pawn's rotund and steel body and she seemed to be damaging it greatly. The Egg-Pawn groaned under the pressure Amy was putting it under as she punched it so furiously. Amy then punched it so hard, her fist went straight through the pawn's armour! Amy cackled dementedly and she ripped the robot's circuits clean out of it's chassis. The robot collapsed onto the ground, dead as anything. The other two Egg-Pawns tried to skewer Amy but Amy back flipped over one robot and kicked it in the back, causing it to drop it's joust. It turned around and blocked Amy's attack with it's shield but Amy just yanked the shield straight out of the robot's hands. She whacked the Egg-Pawn with the shield and then jumped on it's head. She grabbed it's head and ripped it clean off it's body! The Egg-Pawn collapsed onto the ground, functionless and dead. The third Egg-Pawn tried to kill Amy but Amy dived down onto her back and slid under the charging robot's joust. She kicked the Egg-Pawn in the groin section and the Egg-Pawn fell onto it's back. Amy then plunged her hand through the Egg-Pawn's back and ripped out some vital circuitry. The Egg-Pawn collapsed onto the ground, completely dead. Wilson and Mandy had watched the whole fight in awe. They were completely gobsmacked at what they were witnessing.

"Whoa! Who decided to put Amy on steroids while we were gone?" gasped Mandy.

"She's a blinkin demon!" shrieked Wilson "She's not even using her hammer to smash these robots, she's just tearing them apart with her bare hands!"

"Well whatever it is that's given Amy a strength boost, I want it." chuckled Mandy "I wanna be as badass as she's being right now."

Amy smashed yet another Egg-Pawn to pieces with her bare fists and she kicked it's head around, laughing as she did so.

"Ha, ha, ha! This feels awesome!" she squealed "I haven't had this much fun in ages! Send in more Egg-Pawns! I wanna destroy more of them!"

As for Katherine, she picked herself up and noticed her squadron was in pieces. The fem-bot was astonished by the fact her squad had just got trashed by Amy and the hedgehog was only using her bare fists for this. She didn't remember her being this strong. If Amy could do this to her Egg-Pawns then now was probably the best time to run for it. Amy however, wanted to smash another robot. She charged towards Katherine and she gave the fem-bot a tremendous uppercut that sent Katherine hurling up into the air for about thirty feet and then she hurtled all the way back down to the ground. Amy then leaped into the air and dropkicked Katherine down into the ground before she could return to the ground. Katherine landed with a clunk on the ground and she lay on the grass, wondering what on Mobius had just hit her. Katherine picked herself up and deployed her force-field in order to save herself. She had to escape now before Amy destroyed her. The Chaos Energy signature would have to wait as she didn't want to get turned into scrap right now. Katherine ran off as fast as her legs would let her with her force-field deployed so she could save herself getting attacked. Amy just watched as Katherine ran for it as fast as she could. She smirked at the fleeing robot and pulled rude faces at her.

"Yah boo! You suck! Go home and cry to your daddy Dr. Eggman Kathy girl!" she jeered "That'll teach you to come out here and attack my friends like this!"

"Amy, that was so incredible!" Mandy praised excitedly "How on Mobius did you do that? You're only good enough to wield a hammer, not punch a robot to death! What food have you been eating recently?"

"I'm…I'm not sure really." said Amy, feeling her biceps "I got stabbed by Fiona and Sonic healed me with a Chaos Regeneration and then all of the sudden, I have an urge to smash robots and I've gotten new strength. I also feel a little more brutish then usual."

"Well I definitely like this Amy a lot better then the old one." said Mandy "She's actually badass this time around."

"Eh, I preferred her when she just used the hammer." said Wilson casually "But that was pretty cool nonetheless."

Then suddenly, Sonic the Hedgehog arrived on the scene at last and he skidded to a halt, surprised to see the fact there was a pile of destroyed Egg-Pawns around Amy, Wilson and Mandy. He wasn't pleased to see they hadn't saved an Egg-Pawn for him.

"Well guys, got too caught up in the action did ya?" chuckled Sonic

"Couldn't be bothered to save an Egg-Pawn for your old buddy Sonic?"

"You're not gonna believe this blue dude but only Amy did this." said Mandy "She smashed these robots to pieces and didn't even use her hammer. She used her bare hands for this and is quite frankly, even stronger then Knuckles now! Believe me, we watched the whole thing!"

"Amy's using her fists now?" blurted Sonic "Well, Amy's definitely changed from that Chaos Regeneration hasn't she? She's never used her fists before."

"What's a Chaos Regeneration?" asked Wilson.

"I'll explain everything back at Royal HQ." said Sonic "And while we're at it, I think we should run Amy through a diagnostic test to see if there's been any change in her at all."

"I'm fine Sonic really." protested Amy "I feel great and I feel ready to smash something else!"

"That worries me." said Sonic "You're not that smash happy and I wanna know what's made you so masculine all of the sudden."

With that said, Sonic, Amy, Wilson and Mandy all walked back to Royal HQ. Sonic began to think on Amy's sudden strength enhancement and ego-boost. Had the emerald cluster changed Amy after healing her? If so then was there a way to change her back? If not then would it continue to affect Amy? And would it be…for the worse…?

Emeralds Part 2

Story 91: Emeralds Part 2: Chaotic Clusters

"So let me get this straight." said Angel Island guardian Knuckles the Echidna "Amy ran out to help you two defeat Katherine and her squadron and she annihilated them with her bare hands?"

"You got that right knuckle boy." said Mandy Mouse, a tomboy mouse with the heart of a lion "Amy didn't once use her hammer, she just busted those Egg-Pawns up with her bare hands. She punched them and kicked them and even managed to break through their armour and tear their fricken circuits out as if they were nothing! She's officially become totally awesome now!"

"Maybe a little too awesome." said Wilson the Dog, a dog with a skittish side but bravery to balance it out "I'm actually kind of creeped out by this. Amy's a hammer swinging berserker and then she suddenly decides she can smash robots with her bare hands now. That's just weird."

"Watch who you're calling berserker sunshine or I'll soften my knuckles on your face dog!" snarled Amy fiercely.

Once Sonic the Hedgehog and friends arrived back at Royal HQ, they took her to the medical bay and began to run a test on her to see if they could find out how Amy had suddenly gotten stronger. Amy was lying down on a bed and having and X-ray done on her to see if they could find any change in her. Amy lay still on the bed as the X-ray slowly began to sweep over her, scanning her body and feeding the results to the computer screen beside the bed. Tails the twin-tailed fox, Sonic's best friend and faithful sidekick, was on the computer and reading what the X-ray tests were picking up from their diagnostic scan on Amy. Amy's best friend, Cream the Rabbit, stood behind Tails nervously and she had her hands clasped together.

"Tails? Is Amy alright?" asked Cream nervously.

"Hold on a minute Cream, the scan's almost complete." said Tails without even turning around.

The X-ray scan had finally finished scanning Amy and the apparatus raised off of the bed and settled back down beside Amy's bed. The hedgehog sat up, relieved she was now able to do so. Tails began taping on the keyboard and he read the picked up results from the scan. What the scan had picked up was pretty surprising to him. He hadn't expected this to happen at all. His eyes almost popped out of their sockets in astonishment.

"I…I don't believe it!" blustered Tails.

"Why? What's up kiddo?" asked Mandy concernedly.

"Amy's body is full from head to toe with Chaos Energy!" exclaimed Tails "Look at the scan results on the screen here!"

Wilson, Mandy, Cream and Knuckles all peered at the computer screen and read the same thing that Tails was reading. The scan was showing Amy's body with all funny colours on it. The colours were the same colours as the seven Chaos Emeralds and the scan test labelled it as "Change in DNA". It was quite clear that Amy's DNA had been altered in some way or another and it was even more clear who the main culprit is. Amy had been completely fine until the Chaos Regeneration so it was obvious the emerald cluster was to blame for this.

"Well give me a collar, how did this happen?" asked Wilson.

"Sonic used a cluster of Chaos Emeralds to perform a Chaos Regeneration and heal her stab wound which she received from Fiona." explained Knuckles "It's quite clear the cluster had a side effect when healing her."

"A good side effect at least." said Mandy "She's a lot stronger now and can floor a robot in seconds. Amy's got the strength to take down the Eggman Empire at last! She can literally be our winning card in this war game!"

"Yes, perhaps." said Knuckles "But I think the cluster's effected her a little too much for my liking. She's far too restless and cocky now. I mean look at her, she can't even sit still!"

Everybody looked at Amy who was still sitting on the bed and jittering about like a crazy thing. Amy was never like this, sit around too long and she fidgets like there's no tomorrow, before. The cluster had clearly affected her in more ways then one.

"She'll simmer down eventually." said Mandy "Being full of Chaos Energy's a new thing for her so she just needs a minute to settle down and get used to it."

"I hope you're right Mandy." said Knuckles "But one thing I don't get is why does the cluster have a side effect? If you use Chaos Regeneration on somebody, it just heals you and there, all better."

"But what do they usually use Chaos Regeneration with?" asked Wilson "Just a plain old Chaos Emerald?"

"Yes." said Knuckles "The Chaos Emeralds have no side effect when they heal somebody. So I guess the clusters work differently to the Chaos Emeralds. Not surprising as they're hundreds of Chaos Emeralds fused into one."

"But I thought you said your dad fused the Chaos Emeralds into seven." noted Wilson "How are those so-called clusters even here? There's only seven Chaos Emeralds left."

"Well obviously there isn't Wilson boy." said Mandy, gripping his cheek in-between her finger and thumb and playfully shaking it "I guess Knuckles' dad must have missed a good lot of emeralds when fusing them together."

"That's what we've concluded ourselves." muttered Knuckles "But I'm still having a hard time factoring all this in…"

"Will you guys stop yapping away like idiots already!" snapped Amy angrily "Gosh, you're boring me to death here!"

She leaped off of the bed and began strutting about impatiently, earning a glare from Wilson, Mandy and Knuckles.

"I'm getting bored of just sitting around and doing nothing!" moaned Amy "Sitting around isn't fun, smashing Eggman robots is fun! I wanna smash something! I wanna smash something!"

She then proceeded to pass by the computer and then smash the keyboard with her fist in an impatient rage. The keyboard was in bits and pieces from that one slam. Amy clearly was getting too big for her boots here. Tails glanced at the broken keyboard and immediately fumed at her.

"Amy! I needed that!" shouted Tails angrily, motioning to the broken keyboard.

"But I didn't wanna smash that." said Amy quickly "Sorry Tails."

"Look Amy, you may have a strength boost thanks to some chaos, cluster thingy but that gives you no reason to start throwing your weight around and whining like a bored little brat!" yelled Mandy angrily "You need to control yourself missy before you mess with the wrong crowd!"

"Oh, ho, ho, ho! Are you challenging me punk?" asked Amy, raising her fists and preparing to deck the mouse to Kingdom Valley and back "I dare you to challenge me!"

"I'm not challenging you Amy, I'm just telling you to keep yourself under control before you hurt somebody!" retorted Mandy "I think this Chaos Energy's getting to your head now."

"The only thing getting to my head is this boredom!" whined Amy "I wanna do some fighting! Go on, why don't me and you have a friendly tussle Mandy? Come on! It'll be fun!"

"Are you out of your mind?" shrieked Mandy "I'm not getting into a fight with you! You'll deck me!"

"Oh come on, I won't hurt you that badly!" said Amy, still preparing to fight "Come on Mandy, give me some excitement! I need some right now!"

"Amy, you clam down this minute or I'll throttle you!" shouted Mandy, grabbing Amy by the shoulders and trying to push her down onto the bed.

"Get off me!" yelled Amy, punching Mandy in the face as hard as she could.

The mouse was thrown onto the floor by the attack. This earned a horrified gasp from everybody. Mandy gasped in shock and she clutched her throbbing cheek, unable to believe that Amy had just blatantly punched her like this. Despite the Chaos Energy making Amy obnoxious and battle-loving, there still seemed to be the real her hidden inside as Amy suddenly felt horrible for what she just did. As for Wilson, he helped Mandy stand back up and hugged her in a comforting manner. He then glared at Amy like a watchdog.

"Amy you jerk, you just punched Mandy!" yelled Wilson crossly "What has gotten into you?"

"I-I-I-I'm so, so sorry Wilson!" stammered Amy "I-I-I d-don't know-know what I-I-I'm do-doing. Oh my gosh! This Chaos Energy enhancement's making me a monster! We've gotta get this stuff outta me before I hurt somebody else!" she wailed.

"But how are we gonna do that?" asked Cream "You can't just get rid of Chaos Energy can you?"

"There might be one possible way." suggested Tails "We could give Amy an injection and remove the Chaos Energy that way."

"Well you'd better do it already!" shouted Mandy, still clutching her cheek "This girl's getting too big for her boots right now! I preferred her when she wasn't Chaos powered!"

With that said, she stormed out of the medical room in a huff. Wilson followed her, hoping to calm the mouse down. This in turn made Amy feel horrible. As big as her ego and strength boost was, she felt bad for the fact she'd just punched one of her friends in temper. She had to get rid of the Chaos Energy in her veins before she hurt somebody else. And yet, she still felt like she needed to punch somebody.

"Hey Amy, do you want me to remove the Chaos Energy from you now?" asked Tails.

"I'm going to find somebody to use for stress relief first, then you can do so." said Amy "I wanna let off some steam right now."

"I don't think that'll be a good idea Miss Rose." said Cream "What if you…"

"Shut up Cream." muttered Amy, storming past the rabbit in a huff and out of the medical room before anyone can stop her.

Knuckles, Tails and Cream all looked at each other, wondering if they should do something about Amy right now. The hedgehog was only looking for somebody to punch but…what if she picked the wrong person? Still, Amy may be power enhanced but she wasn't stupid. She wasn't going to pick a fight with somebody she couldn't beat. And that power she had was going to give her the strength needed to defend herself so there was no need to worry about her. Or was there…?

Meanwhile, Scourge the Hedgehog and Fiona Fox had led Porthos the Rabbit and his mining crew to the hole in the ground that led to the cavern of Chaos Clusters. The mining crew had set up walls of lines and a sign saying "Mining Area. Keep out" and were setting up explosives so they wouldn't have to dig all the way down to the cavern, instead they could just blow their way inside. They had about ten stacks of dynamite, each stack containing ten sticks and they all had the same fuse. The fuse was connected to all one hundred sticks of dynamite and all the mining crew had to do was light the fuse and the dynamite sticks would explode. Porthos over watched the process with Scourge and Fiona standing beside him. A miner who was a beaver in traditional miner's attire ran up to Porthos and asked him something.

"The dynamite's all set up, do you want us to light the fuse?" asked the beaver.

"Fire away Malcolm." said Porthos briskly.

Malcolm nodded and he ran back over to the dynamite sticks. He ordered everybody to get out of the way as he was going to light the fuse and set the dynamite off. The miners all cleared the area as quickly as they could. Now the miners had run away from the site, Malcolm pulled a box of matches out of his pocket. He struck the side of the box with the match and the match lit up with a small flame. Malcolm lightly tipped the edge of the fuse with the match and the fuse was alight with a flame. Malcolm shook the match until the flame ran out and he ran for it as the fuse hissed ominously and the flame burnt through the fuse. Everybody prepared for the explosion as the fuse got shorter and shorter and the flame spread out to all the dynamite stacks. The fuse reached the dynamite sticks and the whole supply went off in a terrifically loud, deafening, dazzling, amazing explosion that ripped through the earth they were placed upon and went up in a giant cloud of smoke. Everybody turned away from the explosion whereas Scourge, creepily enough, just stood there and watched the explosion as if it wasn't even bothering him. Heck, he was actually enjoying it! He was imagining himself blowing things he didn't like up as he conquered Mobius with all the power he was going to get from his lovely Chaos Clusters. The explosion had finally finished and the smoke died down, revealing a massive hole in the ground that the explosion had caused. The hole was enormous, spanning about the width of three tennis courts and it was big enough to show off ALL of the clusters. There were a great number of clusters in the cavern, about a hundred or so and they were all going to be Scourge's. The miners were all gobsmacked at what the cavern had to offer them. The clusters looked incredible, incredibly beautiful that is. Porthos couldn't believe his eyes either. This was history in the making for his mining crew! Never before had they mined so much Chaos Emeralds before! This was going to be a good moment for his mining crew he could tell.

"OK men, you may begin mining those clusters now." said Porthos "Mine every single cluster and do not leave any of them behind."

"Yes Porthos." said the miners.

They threw rope leaders down into the open cavern and they began to climb down into the cavern with their tools with them. They had pickaxes, giant drills and various other tools for this mining process.

They all climbed down to the bottom of the leaders and instantly got to work on mining the clusters. While Scourge would have preferred to spin-dash these clusters up himself, he knew the mining process would make it seem more like an innocent scene and it would draw no attention to Scourge and Fiona at all. They would be in the clear and no one would know about them until it was too late. As for Porthos, his eyes were gleaming with joy and he looked very happy to be here right now.

"I don't know how much I can thank you two for leading my group to these clusters." said Porthos "I'm a sucker for echidna architect, history and technology and these clusters will be a prime edition to my collection. I just hope that me and my miners will have enough storage space for them."

"You're welcome Porthos." said Fiona with a subtle smirk on her face "As for storage space, you shouldn't worry too much about it, you'll find some room."

"Maybe the best option would be to just carve the clusters down to size." said Scourge "And by the way, can me and Fiona have a cluster each as a token of saying thanks?"

"Certainly, you two deserve a cluster." said Porthos brightly "You've helped us make history in the making here so you deserve a reward."

I certainly do and it'll be a lot more then just ONE cluster! snickered Scourge in his thoughts.

"One more thing Porthos." said Fiona quickly "If anyone asks about this, can you not mention us? We don't want everyone to make a fuss over us for helping you find all these clusters."

"Very well, if you two wish to remain anonymous I shall grant that wish." said Porthos "I'll just take all the credit for this if you two don't wish to be mentioned for your contribution to this find."

Scourge and Fiona just nodded at him. As Scourge and Fiona watched the mining process go on, Scourge began to picture himself using the clusters to great effect and becoming a mass powered being of unimaginable power with them…

Back at Royal HQ, everybody was waiting around in the lab wondering where Amy was right now and how long it was going to take her to come back. She was only looking for somebody to use for stress relief but she didn't particularly specify who she wanted to use for stress relief. Nor did she really specify how long she was going to be out for. The wait was beginning to make Cream very nervous in particular. Amy was her best friend and the closest thing to a sister she has in the world so Amy being out on her lonesome for minutes on end was nerve-racking for her. The rabbit could hardly stop fidgeting and worrying about Amy as time ticked by. Cosmo sat beside Cream and tried to soothe the rabbit's overly jumpy nerves but not even she could get Cream to stop worrying. Even Cheese, her pet Chao, couldn't get Cream to lighten up right now. She was just too worried about Amy right now. Tails could see that Cream was in a very depressed mood right now and didn't feel that he should interfere with Cream so he kept himself to himself and left Cream to Cosmo. Knuckles was just sitting around wondering what to do while still thinking about the clusters and their mysterious nature. He was still having a hard time believing his dad had missed several hundred Chaos Emeralds while fusing them together to make seven. How could a guardian as famous and powerful and wise as Locke the Echidna miss so many emeralds or make a mistake like this? It didn't seem humanly possible, there had to be some other reason for their presence. Maybe the clusters were artificial Chaos Emeralds. But if they were then why would they be all hiding in a cavern? Maybe they were hidden there after they were created? Knuckles had no idea and thinking on this pressing mystery was beginning to drive him crazy. His brain began to ache from constantly thinking about them and he thumped himself on the head angrily. Tails instantly picked up that Knuckles was in a bit of a mood so he decided to try and cool him down.

"Knuckles, what's the matter?" asked Tails "You worried about Amy too?"

"I'm concerned for her but I can't stop thinking about those clusters." muttered Knuckles grumpily, rubbing his head "I know we've come to a conclusion but I still have a hard time factoring all this in. My dad was one of the greatest guardians ever, how could he possibly miss several hundred Chaos Emeralds while fusing them all together to make seven? He'd never make a mistake like this, ever!"

"Maybe he did." suggested Tails "Everyone makes mistakes, even the best of us. Heck, even Sonic makes mistakes and he's the hero of Mobius after all."

"I know that Tails but my dad was an expert on Chaos Emeralds, he'd never make a mistake as big as missing several emeralds while fusing them together!" retorted Knuckles "I wish I knew the truth behind these clusters but I don't and it's driving me crazy!"

He then proceeded to grip the sides of his head and pull an expression that made him look very stressful and unsettled. He was in total confusion right now and he couldn't help it, the clusters were bugging him like mad too much for him to think about something else. Before Tails could try and settle Knuckles down, Sonic walked into the lab and noticed that there seemed to be some discomfort among his friends.

"Hey there everybody." said Sonic.

"Hi Sonic." said Tails "How's Mandy right now after Amy punched her?"

"Still fuming about it but she looks OK." said Sonic "She's not hurt too bad it seems. I still wonder why did Amy do that to her? It's not like her to just blatantly punch people like that, even if they are manhandling her."

"We know it isn't." wailed Cream miserably, the poor rabbit looking like she was about to cry again "That's why we're so worried about her, she might hurt somebody else if we don't help her!"

"Tails, do you know what's up with Amy?" asked Sonic, knowing that his twin-tailed friend had probably found out something was wrong with Amy.

"I do." said Tails "After you took her to the medic room, we performed an X-ray scan on her and the results came up with this interesting and actually kind of surreal change in her body. Her body's full of Chaos Energy and it's making her more powerful, violent, obstinate, masculine and restless. She still has her real self hidden under the new personality change she has and her mood swings change constantly from her normal self to Chaos self. She wants us to remove the Chaos Energy from her body so she won't keep being so aggressive and battle-loving but she wants to let off some steam first so she's gone out to find someone to punch."

"And you let her go and do so?" asked Sonic in a tone that made it sound like he was stupefied by that idea.

"Um…yes?" said Tails weakly, feeling a little nervous over what Sonic's reaction might be to this.

"Do you realize how boneheaded that is?" shrieked Sonic angrily, making Tails shrink back in fear "What if Amy decides to attack someone entirely innocent or something like that? Heck, what if she tries to attack Scourge and Fiona! They'll cripple her if that happens!"

"N-n-not necessarily-S-Sonic." stammered Tails "Amy's still got her senses and that, she knows that she shouldn't hurt innocent people and that attacking Scourge maybe a bad idea. She maybe altered but she's not stupid, she's still got a brain Sonic."

"That's not very reassuring to me." muttered Sonic, folding his arms "Amy's adrenaline quota may kick in and make her wanna punch someone too tough for her. Then again, she did destroy all those Egg-Pawns barehanded so I guess I shouldn't worry too much about her…"

"We don't need to anyway." said Tails "The computers here are picking up the Chaos Energy in her body so we can monitor her position from here. If she needs help, we'll get to it instantly so she's not going to be in too much trouble luckily."

"Yes, luckily." said Sonic grimly "I still think we should have removed that Chaos Energy anyway and got back the real Amy Rose. Oh well, when she comes back, we can do so and our worries are over."

"I still wonder why the clusters had such a side effect." said Knuckles "I mean a normal Chaos Emerald has no side effects when a Chaos Regeneration is performed."

"Yeah but those clusters are made up of SEVERAL Chaos Emeralds remember?" noted Sonic "Each cluster must at least have a hundred emeralds in them so who knows how much power all those emeralds have?"

"We're just lucky nobody knows about the clusters but us." said Tails "Who knows what catastrophes could happen if Eggman or Scourge or Marik or whoever found them? The world would be over for us if that happened."

"You got that right buddy." said Sonic agreeably "That's one reason why I wish to bury that hole so no one will see the bright, flashing lights coming from the cavern below. I just wish I had a way of burying the hole without it looking odd and out of place."

"We should put a rock over the hole." suggested Knuckles "That'll hide the clusters."

"Yeah but a rock's gonna look outta place in the middle of some plains." noted Sonic "I'll think of one way to make sure nobody finds those clusters. In the meantime, let's just sit back and hope Amy will come back sometime soon so we can get rid of that Chaos Energy."

Everybody nodded agreeably. This wait was going to be stomach tightening for everybody as they waited for Amy to come back from wherever it was she was at right now…

Three whole hours passed and Amy had sprinted all the way from Mobotropolis to Downunda. The Chaos Energy in her body was making her surprisingly more agile and speedy in comparison to her old self, her speed was almost on par with Sonic's right now. Amy was amazed at what the Chaos Energy in her body had done to her. She was stronger then Knuckles and almost as fast as Sonic now.

Should she really get rid of the Chaos Energy in her veins and lose this power or should she stay put and kick villain butts for everybody? It was a tough decision to make especially as both choices had consequences. Losing the power would make her back to being only strong enough to smash things with a hammer but if she kept the energy, she would never be able to rest and would continue feeling like she wanted to punch somebody. She'd just punched Mandy and she didn't want to punch anybody else. And yet, her new strength could possibly be the key to Mobius' freedom due to the fact she could smash Egg-Pawns barehanded and they could barely lay a finger on her. She had no idea what to do now but whatever choice she made had consequences so either way, she loses. Keep the energy and she possibly loses her friends. Get rid of it and she loses her strength and speed. That's pretty much how it would turn out. As Amy ran through Downunda, she began to feel even more battle ready then before. Battle ready to the point that she wanted to take on an entire army by herself.

"Three hours of running about and I haven't found my punching bag yet!" grumbled Amy "What does a girl have to do to get some stress relief around here?"

However, it seemed that she would get someone to punch sooner or later. Her running around Mobius had brought her to the mining camp Porthos the Rabbit was leading. Amy screeched to a halt and watched the scene before her. The area was sealed off with lines on poles saying "Mining Area. Keep Out." and the miners were mining down a cavern that had been blown open by a good bunch of dynamite earlier. The miners were mining up the Chaos Clusters and it seemed like an odious process right now. The energy of the Chaos Clusters made something flare up in Amy's body and she clutched her chest in pain. The Chaos Energy in her body was reacting to the clusters and Amy could sense it. The pain quickly died away though so it was nothing to worry about.

"I'm feeling Chaos Energy coming from that cavern." she said to herself "Is there a bunch of Chaos Emeralds in that cavern? I'd best check it out. I bet there's more of them clusters that Sonic used to heal me down there."

Amy then proceeded to invite herself onto the site. She climbed over the lines and headed off towards the cavern. Two miners spotted her however and they ran up to Amy and stopped her dead in her tracks hastily.

"Hold it right there love." said one miner "This is a restricted area. The line clearly says "keep out" and you've just crossed it so I'm afraid I'm going to have to ask you to leave sunshine."

Amy grabbed both the miners by their collars and pulled them down to her height with a steely look in her eye. She looked like she was about to slaughter then both. The Chaos Energy was kicking in again and making her angry for no particular reason.

"Who are you calling sunshine buster?" she growled crossly "And do I look like an "out of bounds" person to you? I'm investigating this cavern and you two can get out of my way!"

With that said, she bashed both their heads together and knocked them out instantly. The two miners collapsed onto the ground in a daze and they lay beside each other, seeing stars twirling above their heads. Amy stuck her nose in the air and she marched on towards the cavern. The Chaos Energy in her veins began to flow more and more as she got closer to the clusters. She could feel the energy bubbling inside her as she neared the cavern. There must be a lot of clusters down there if the energy inside her was fizzling like mad. Amy walked to the edge of the cavern and she peered down the deep hole in the ground that had been made by the dynamite blowing the earth up. Amy almost jaw-dropped at the sight she saw down in the cavern. There were a hundred clusters down there, all glowing in unison and there were miners down there mining up the clusters. They were using drills and picks to dig them up from the earth and it seemed like a very tough process right now. The miners looked like they were working their pants off down there. In the three hours they had been working, only about two clusters had been successfully mined up so far and one of them was because Sonic had already removed it from it's place earlier. Amy couldn't believe how many clusters there were in that cavern. Sonic was going to be amazed indeed once he saw all these. However, Amy also noticed something else down in the cavern. Fiona Fox was down in the cavern also and she was talking to a miner who was leaning against the wall and waiting for his turn to mine as there were no tools free for him right now.

"While my baby maybe a little obnoxious and obstinate, there's something about that devilish grin and bad boy attitude that makes me fall head over heels for him." said Fiona "Scourge is one sexy boy in my opinion and there's no one else better then he is."

"Fiona!" blurted Amy in surprise "What's that witch doing down there? Oh well, I owe her a headache for trying to kill me earlier! And hopefully Scourge is here too so I can make him pay for all the crud he's done to Mobius!"

With that said, Amy proceeded to leap from the edge of the cavern and hurtle down into the cavern below. She landed directly in front of Fiona and the miner, cracking the ground as she did so and making the miner leap about a foot in the air in surprise. Fiona seemed more surprised at the fact Amy had come here more then anything but she didn't show it. She just bent down in a battle ready stance and prepared to cut loose on Amy. She smirked at her wickedly.

"Amy, you survived your near fatal stab!" she crooned "How unfortunate, that just means I have to finish you off again."

Amy just cracked her knuckles and gave Fiona a steely look that could melt ice…

Meanwhile, Scourge and Porthos were standing in a section of the cavern that was well out of the way of the mining process outside. Unfortunately, Scourge was beginning to get impatient. He had no idea about mining and how long it usually takes to complete the process so the wait was beginning to get to him.

"Hey Port holes, how long is this gonna take?" moaned Scourge.

"My name is Porthos young man, not Port holes." said Porthos "This process will take a long time yet. There's about a hundred of those clusters in the cavern and we can't mine at the speed of light you know. This'll take a day or two, maybe even a week at the most. We maybe mining for several weeks but it doesn't matter, it'll be worth it for all those clusters to add to my growing collection of echidna history and architecture."

"Well in that case me and Fiona will go and leave you and your men to it." said Scourge "There's nothing for us to do here. We'll be back when you've finished so we can collect our reward."

And by "reward" Scourge obviously meant the entire lot of clusters, not just the one Porthos was going to give him. Scourge really would have preferred it if he was digging up the clusters himself as he could just spin-dash them down to size and dig them out of the ground that way but Fiona did want this process to seem more like an innocent act so the miners were called upon to dig the clusters up and to make sure she and Scourge stay in the clear until it was time to strike. Unfortunately for him, it seemed somebody had already caught up on the act. Fiona Fox suddenly appeared from nowhere and plodded up to Scourge and Porthos. Only, Fiona wasn't actually walking. In fact, she wasn't even conscious. She had been beaten to submission by Amy Rose and looked worse for wear to say the least. Her eyes were both bruised, there was a trickle of blood coming from her lip and she was bruised everywhere. The only reason she was still standing was because Amy was holding her up. She let go of Fiona and the battered vixen fell down onto the ground, unconscious but alive and beaten. Scourge and Porthos both stared in horror at the state of Fiona. Amy walked out from behind Fiona and she smirked at Scourge.

"Hoo-aah!" she yelled and struck an "Oh yeah!" pose before the horrified Mobians.

"Scourge? Who is that?" asked Porthos, pointing his cane at Amy and shaking slightly.

"Just some punk I know named Amy who's sticking her nose in where it doesn't belong." muttered Scourge "And she's gonna get a broken skull for beating up my girlfriend!"

"Oh no Scourge, you're the one who's getting a broken skull!" yelled Amy challengingly.

She then proceeded to sprint towards Scourge and then leap into the air. She yelled a fearsome battle cry and sucker punched Scourge straight in the middle of his face. The punch was like being hit by a sack full of rocks. Scourge cried out in pain as he was sent hurling backwards and into a wall, making Porthos leap back in surprise and grow ever more worried. Scourge grumbled furiously as he pulled himself out of the wall and felt his throbbing face. His lip was slightly bleeding and he wiped the blood away with his hand, staining his white glove with the blood. He looked at his stained glove for a minute and then turned back to Amy.

"All right then." he hissed in a dangerously soft voice that could make any tough guy whimper in fear.

Amy just saw that as an invitation to kicking the snot out of him so she charged up to Scourge again and prepared to deck him all the way to Holoska.

"For Sonic the Hedge…" she cried out as she lunged a punch at Scourge.

Things suddenly took a turn for the worse from there though. She lunged at Scourge with a powerful punch and…Scourge just grabbed her fist and sharply twisted her arm to one side. Despite being Chaos Powered, she still had no chance against Scourge. Amy screamed in pain as Scourge twisted her arm. She tried to yank her hand out of Scourge's grasp but Scourge's grip was too tight for her. As Scourge held Amy in place while still keeping her arm twisted to one side, he observed her and mused to himself.

"Amy's a lot more spirited then I remember." said Scourge "She never fights with her fists, it's always with that stupid hammer of hers. I don't remember her being this strong either. Not to mention she recovered from Fiona's stab impossibly fast too. She should still be in hospital right now."

"Chaos Regeneration perhaps?" suggested Porthos "Chaos Emeralds can be used to heal the sick and the wounded with Chaos Regeneration."

"Maybe." said Scourge, still holding Amy's arm and making her scream "But what's made her stronger? Does Chaos Regeneration have a side effect that increases strength once it's been used?"

"I'm not entirely sure on that one." said Porthos "Either way, we've got to do something about it before that beastly girl beats anyone else up."

With that said Scourge clenched his other fist and slugged Amy in the stomach as hard as he could. Amy wheezed heavily as she felt that punch and then Scourge conked her on the head with both fists. Amy fell down onto the ground with a heavy slam that knocked her out. The poor girl was lying on the ground completely unconscious and beaten at the hands of Scourge the Hedgehog. Scourge smiled sadistically at the beaten hedgehog and he turned to Porthos.

"Here she is for you Porty." he said "Now find out how she's suddenly gotten all beefed up."

Porthos knelt down beside the unconscious Amy and he pulled something out of his pocket. It was a small device of some kind that looked like a traditional scanning device. It was silver in colour and the screen was round. He scanned Amy with it and the scanner picked up all the Chaos Energy in her body she'd received from the cluster Sonic had used to save her earlier. The scanner was beeping ever so furiously just picking up the Chaos Energy in Amy's body. Porthos looked stunned to say the least at that find.

"I don't believe it!" he blurted "The child's full of Chaos Energy!"

"You what?" piped Scourge.

"The scanner's picking up high levels of Chaos Energy in the child's bloodstream." explained Porthos "Somehow, she's gotten Chaos Energy in her body and it's beginning to take it's toll on her. I bet it's the Chaos Energy that's making her stronger then you claim she normally is. And here's the interesting part, the Chaos Energy's growing stronger and stronger as time goes in. It's already increasing by the second according to the scanner. If it increases anymore she'll…become godlike and have Chaos Powers greater then you could ever imagine!"

"Well then let's get rid of it before she does become godlike Port holes!" yelled Scourge crossly.

"For the last time, it's Porthos, not Port holes!" snapped Porthos crossly.

"Whatever." muttered Scourge.

Porthos then pulled something else out of his pocket. It was a syringe with a long thin needle and it had a more hi-tech look to it then a normal syringe. Porthos stuck the syringe into Amy's neck and he extracted the Chaos Energy in her body with it by pulling on the plunger and the needle sucked up the Chaos Energy in her veins. After that, Porthos pulled the needle out of Amy's neck and left her to just lie on the ground while still unconscious. Porthos peered at the syringe, noticing that it was full of colourful liquid, all the colours of the seven Chaos Emeralds and flashing constantly between colours. This was amazing to him and he could hardly believe it.

"Fascinating." said Porthos "The Chaos Energy in her has turned into liquid form and constantly flashes between the seven different colours the emeralds are. Chaos Energy can adapt to solid or liquid forms depending on the substance at the time and since this was in the child's body, it turned to liquid form to go with her bloodstream. I still wonder how all this got into her in the first place."

"Maybe someone used all seven Chaos Emeralds at once to Chaos Regenerate her and the side effect was it gave her Chaos Energy, I dunno." said Scourge "But what I do know is that I've gotta try this stuff!"

He then proceeded to snatch Porthos' syringe off him, much to the rabbit's horror and he instantly freaked as Scourge prepared to inject himself with the Chaos Energy. His ears stood on end and his eyes widened in fright.

"No! Scourge no! Do not inject yourself with that Chaos Energy! You don't know what it'll do!" screamed Porthos desperately.

Scourge ignored him and he plunged the syringe into his arm. He pushed on the plunger and the Chaos Energy in the syringe flushed straight down into his arm. Scourge had injected himself with the Chaos Energy extracted from Amy. The moment the syringe was empty and the energy was inside his body, he dropped the syringe on the ground and began to grip the back of his neck and hold his head down low. Porthos stood back in fear, fearing what catastrophe was going to happen now Scourge had injected himself with Chaos Energy. Scourge tensed up very tightly for a moment as he felt his body changing and then he threw his arms out to the side, looked straight up at the ceiling and he bellowed a loud, fearsome, blood-curdling roar that echoed through the cavern as the Chaos Energy in his body began to take effect on him…

Back at Royal HQ, Sonic was beginning to lose his patience. He paced back and forth impatiently as time ticked by. Amy had been gone for three hours straight and she hadn't come back at all. Tails had been monitoring her position thanks to the computer monitors picking up her Chaos Energy but they weren't much good as you couldn't see what Amy was doing right now. Sonic was beginning to worry about her. Had she gotten herself in trouble? Was she in a massive fight with somebody and still hadn't beaten the opponent yet? Anyhow, he had a bad feeling about Amy and he had to find out what was going on with her.

"That's it! I'm outta here!" yelled Sonic crossly.

He prepared to run off until Knuckles grabbed him and held him back.

"Hold it right there Sonic." said Knuckles "Do you want Amy to get mad at you and deck you one for coming to help her when she doesn't want it?"

"I don't care Knuckles!" retorted Sonic "Amy's obviously in trouble as she's been gone for far too long and I'm going to find her whether she likes it or not!"

"I'm beginning to concur with Sonic here." said Tails "I'm beginning to feel worried for her too. Amy should have found somebody to punch by now and she hasn't come back. We should find her before she winds up in serious trouble."

"I wouldn't go after her alone though." said Knuckles "You may need some back up to tie her down in case she's in a bad mood."

"OK then, everybody on the team's coming along." said Sonic "Especially Mandy as Amy owes her an apology for earlier."

"We're going to find Miss Rose?" asked Cream happily "I hope she's alright when we find her."

"There's no telling what she's up to right now." said Cosmo glumly "Tails, do you know where Amy is right now?"

"Curiously enough, she's in Downunda." said Tails, peering at the computer monitors and pin-pointing her location "Downunda is a long way away from Mobotropolis, any normal person can't possibly walk there in three hours. Is Amy super fast as well as super strong now?"

"Maybe." said Sonic "We'll find out once we watch her. Tails, Knuckles, Cream, Cosmo, you get the others. I'm gonna get a hover saucer so that nobody has to carry anyone. It'll be faster for everyone to go to Downunda on saucer."

Tails, Knuckles, Cream and Cosmo obeyed and they ran out of the lab to fetch Sonic's other friends. Sonic dashed out of Royal HQ to fetch a hover saucer. Luckily, he knew where they were kept, all the way around the back of the headquarters in a storage garage that couldn't be accessed from inside the headquarters. Sonic ran into the garage and nabbed a large, silver hover saucer that could easily fit him and his ten friends. As Sonic powered the saucer up and pulled it around to the front so his friends could climb into it, he began to hope that Amy was alright right now, otherwise he would never live this down if Amy got hurt because he wasn't there for her…

Back in the cluster cavern in Downunda, Scourge had finished roaring out as the Chaos Energy he'd just injected himself with had finally simmered down and he bent over will staring at his hands and panting heavily as if he was going to have an asthma attack. Porthos still kept his distance from Scourge as he feared some bad was going to happen to Scourge. Scourge stood up straight and he felt his arms. He could feel the Chaos Energy pulsing through his veins as if it was just his own blood and he could feel his strength increasing by the second. He also felt awesome and invincible too and he had this sudden urge to smash some skulls and break some spines. The biggest change and the only visual change on Scourge from the Chaos Power he'd added to his bloodstream was that his eyes were now flashing with the seven colours of the Chaos Emeralds. Every ten seconds or so, they would change colour from blue to yellow to cyan to purple to red to green and then grey. The Chaos Energy had a stronger effect on Scourge then Amy did because he'd already been in contact with Chaos Energy previously when he had a personality change after touching the Master Emerald the first time he visited Angel Island and when he used the Master Emerald to turn super earlier*. Scourge could hardly contain the feeling he had right now, this was overwhelming to say the least. The Chaos Energy Amy had really was something wasn't it? He couldn't wait to test it out on his enemies.

"The power…I…I…I can't believe this power…" stammered Scourge in a sinister voice and a maniacal grin on his face that made him look crazily and insanely demented all at once, his arms were trembling like crazy as he felt the energy rushing through his veins like a fast flowing river "I feel…incredible…I feel like…I can dominate the world right there…and I feel like I have the power to do so…and also…I FEEL LIKE A CHAOS POWERED DEMON OF UNFATHOMABLE POWER!"

He began to cackle maniacally at the top of his voice. His cackles echoed around the cavern like loud ringing bells and he was cackling so madly he fell down on his knees and clutched his sides. Porthos was convinced that Scourge meant trouble and that he had gone completely off the deep end and had to be detained immediately. He pulled the top of his cane upwards and revealed a long sharp, shining sword inside. His cane was really a swordstick and he carried it with him because he always felt like he was going to need it. He pointed the sword at Scourge and prepared to run him through with it.

"Scourge, you've gone absolutely crazy." said Porthos "I'm afraid I'm going to have to stop you in your tracks."

He drew the sword back and prepared to stab Scourge with it but Scourge grabbed the sword and snapped it in two with his bare hands, not receiving so much as a cut as the Chaos Energy in his veins made him invulnerable now. Porthos gaped in shock at his snapped sword and he sheathed the remains so it was now a cane again. He began to back away fearfully, wondering if Scourge was going to attack him or even kill him. His ears drooped down in fear and he began to tremble. Scourge glared at him and he advanced on Porthos menacingly with his teeth clenched and his fists clenched.

"You just tried to kill me didn't you Porthos?" snarled Scourge "Will just for that, I'm going to have to finish you off you dirty rabbit!"

"No! Scourge don't! No! Have mercy on me!" pleaded Porthos "You wouldn't terminate a defenceless citizen such as my self would you?"

"The only person that matters in life is me!" bellowed Scourge "And Fiona too! Nobody else matters so yes, I would terminate a defenceless person such as yourself, especially as you just tried to run me through with a sword!"

He grabbed Porthos by his collar and he hoisted the rabbit off the ground. Porthos squirmed furiously as Scourge lifted him off the ground. Scourge flashed him a heart-stopping death glare and the proceeded to throw Porthos directly into a rocky wall. Porthos cried out in pain as he hit the hard rocky wall and pain flooded up his body. Porthos slumped on the ground and groaned in agony as pain swept over him. Scourge cackled sadistically and he advanced on Porthos menacingly. But something stopped him dead in his tracks. All of Porthos' miners had heard Scourge cackling like mad and bellowing at Porthos so they ran in to see what was going on only to find Scourge about to kill Porthos. They also saw Fiona's battered body and Amy's unconscious body, making it look like to them at least that Scourge had beaten them both up. The miners could see that Scourge was nothing but trouble so they raised their pickaxes and prepared to let Scourge have it. They charged towards Scourge and prepared to kill him with their pickaxes but Scourge curled up into a ball and spin-dashed them all at once in a big green, blurry, flourish. The Chaos Energy had made him even faster and he spin-dashed all the men into submission in a matter of seconds. All of Porthos' men lay on the ground unconscious and beaten into submission. Scourge began to cackle sadistically and maniacally after doing that.

"All this power!" he cried to himself "Look what it's done to me! I'm faster then even Sonic now and one spin-dash is enough to knock those stupid miners out! Boy will Sonic be in for a treat when I get my hands on him!"

He then noticed Fiona's battered and beaten body still lying on the rocky floors of the cavern. He walked over to Fiona and he put his hands on Fiona's back. Since he had Chaos Energy in his body, maybe he could do the kind of things you could do with a Chaos Emerald.

"Chaos…REGENERATION!" he bellowed at the top of his voice.

As he bellowed that, his eyes began to flash with a bright beam of light and a flash came out from his hands and engulfed the beaten Fiona's body. The cavern was filled with a bright flash for a moment before dying down into nothingness afterwards. Scourge looked at Fiona and noticed some changes already. Fiona's eyes were no longer bruised, her bruises had gone and her lip had healed. The regeneration had worked. Fiona mumbled sleepily for a moment before waking up and getting up onto her knees. She looked at Scourge and beamed happily at him.

"Scourge." she said "What happened? I feel like Amy's beating earlier didn't happen to me."

"I used a Chaos Regeneration on you." said Scourge with a grin on his face "Me and Porthos found out that Amy was full of Chaos Energy and Porthos extracted it from her. I then stole the injection and gave myself the Chaos Energy. I'm glad I did because I feel GLORIOUS AND AWESOME ALL AT ONCE!"

"That's just plain awesome Scourge." said Fiona "So, what do we do now? All the miners have been knocked out, likely your doing, and Amy's still here. Should we finish them off?"

"Nah, we've got better things to do right now." said Scourge "Mine all these clusters and then use them to conquer the world. In fact, to be EVEN MORE powerful, I'll take the clusters to Angel Island and combine their power with the Master Emerald and Chaos Emeralds! That way I'll be invincible and no one will match me!"

"Well we'd best get to it then." said Fiona "Amazing how Amy's contributed into our plans to beautifully isn't it?"

"It is isn't it?" purred Scourge "Now Fiona, stand back and watch your man dig these babies up."

With that said, Scourge cracked his knuckles and he spin-dashed towards the Chaos Clusters that awaited them in the mining area of the cavern. Scourge spin-dashed the ground beneath the cluster and he churned into it like a saw blade going through wood. He carved straight around the base of the cluster, making it able to be lifted out of the ground and due to the Chaos Energy enhancing his strength, he was now able to lift things way heavier then himself. He picked up the huge cluster with one hand (that's how strong he is now!) and he was just about to carry it out of the cavern until he heard something. It was the sound of a hover saucer coming to the cavern. Scourge tossed the cluster over his shoulder where it landed on the ground with a heavy clunk and he jumped out of the cavern. An annoying sight met his eyes. There was a hover saucer coming to the cavern and the saucer had Sonic and his ten team mates. Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Shade, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben were all there and they looked like they were ready for action. The moment Scourge showed himself to everybody, Sonic instantly went berserk with shock.

"No way! Scourge is in the Cluster Cavern?" shrieked Sonic "How the heck did HE find it then?"

"How he found it doesn't matter!" yelled Knuckles "We'll beat him up like always! Prepare to attack everybody!"

But unfortunately, they were too late for that. Scourge had already prepared to attack. He curled up into a green spiky ball and he spin-dashed the hover saucer as hard as he could, throwing everybody out of it and destroying it in an instant. All the Royal Fighters fell onto the ground and they grimaced tensely after that onslaught. Sonic picked himself up and prepared to battle with Scourge.

"Hey Scourge, I was wondering how long it would take you to show up after your humiliating defeat in our super battle." sneered Sonic.

"Well Sonic, I'm full of surprises aren't I?" crowed Scourge "And I've come back with an energy that's ever lasting! I got hold of Amy Rose and stole the Chaos Energy in her body! So now I'm a Chaos Powered DEMON!"

Sonic thought his quills were going to fall off. Scourge had stolen Amy's Chaos Energy? So now he had the energy the Chaos Cluster had given Amy? The energy had made Amy bad enough but Scourge was going to be straight up psychopathic! Now Sonic HAD to kick Scourge's backside before he slaughtered everybody!

"You took the Chaos Energy Amy had?" asked Sonic "Oh I could just flatten your face with my shiny red sneakers right now!"

"You're the one who's getting a flattened head wimp!" bellowed Scourge "Now, care to explain to me where Amy's Chaos Energy came from?"

"The Chaos Clusters of course." said Sonic "I used one to save her life after Fiona nearly killed her and it gave her Chaos Energy as a side effect and now you're going to use it for your own nefarious needs!"

"Yes I am!" crowed Scourge "So all this energy came from ONE Chaos Cluster? Does that mean when I get them all, I'll be godlike with their power?"

"You're not getting a whiff of anymore Chaos Energy you freak!" thundered Knuckles, running up to Scourge and preparing to punch him.

Scourge flashed Knuckles an eerie grin that could make anybody feel uneasy around him and he gave Knuckles a terrific uppercut that sent him hurling through the air. Shade gasped in horror and she ran after the hurling Knuckles so she could catch him. Scourge then proceeded to go into a mad spin-dash frenzy and he spin-dashed everybody all at once. He walloped Sonic, he bashed Tails, he bonked Cream, he walloped Cosmo, he spin-dashed Wilson, he bashed Mandy, he bonked Geoffrey, he slammed Bunnie, he spin-dashed Ruben and then he let Shade have it just as Knuckles was hurling back down to the ground. Everybody was sent hurling across the terrain and they landed sharply on their backs in excruciating pain. Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed towards Scourge but Scourge spin-dashed Sonic back and sent him hurling into the cavern. Scourge followed him and he spin-dashed Sonic into a wall. Sonic cried out as he himself being slammed against hard sharp rocks. Scourge wasn't finished with him though, he grabbed Sonic and hurled him across the cavern and into a cluster. Sonic proper shrieked with pain as he hit the cluster and he slumped back down onto the ground. Scourge was about to make Sonic suffer again but Sonic leaped out of his way, causing Scourge to accidentally spin-dash the cluster into pieces. A shard of the shattered cluster caught Sonic on the arm and he screamed in pain as a large cut began to trickle with blood on his arm. Scourge spin-dashed Sonic and then pinned him to the ground, flashing a demonic toothy grin that rivalled a crocodile's at him.

"You know what they say blue "Turnabout is Fair Play"." sneered Scourge "You've made me suffer enough times as it is so now you can suffer for all you've done to me!"

"Scourge wait!" cried Sonic "We can settle this nice and easily between just the two of us."

"Can we?" growled Scourge "Explain then Sonic, quickly because I can only hold back for so long."

"Me and you can fight one on one with just us two and no interferences." said Sonic "We can fight in a wide open area and far away from the clusters so no one can use them to cheat. This will be the showdown you've wanted Scourge and we can fight it."

Scourge thought for a moment on that interesting proposition.

"You know what blue? I like that idea." said Scourge "Meet me underneath Angel Island in half an hour and not second later. That'll give you enough time to say your last words to your wimpy friends before I crush your head like a grape!"

"Whatever." said Sonic, not really amused by Scourge's boasting.

With that said, Scourge turned around and ran over to Fiona who was still in the cavern. He picked Fiona up and leaped out of the cavern with her in his arms. Sonic watched as Scourge left the cavern and he picked himself up. Instead of following Scourge, he looked around for Amy as he had a feeling she was still in the cavern. Scourge had taken the energy from her so she must still be here. Luckily for him, Amy was. She was lying on the ground, still unconscious from Scourge's attack earlier. Sonic ran over to Amy and he picked her up. He looked at her sadly, wishing this had never happened.

"Oh Amy, I wish I was there to stop Scourge from stealing your Chaos Energy." said Sonic "I should have gone with you when you left and now this has happened. At least you'll be back to normal now Scourge has taken your Chaos Energy."

"Hello? Is someone there?" asked the voice of Porthos the Rabbit "I'm sure I can here somebody."

"Who's there?" asked Sonic quickly, bracing himself for another battle while still holding Amy.

Porthos picked himself up and emerged from the pile of knocked out miners and coming up to Sonic. He looked very shaken from his experience with Scourge earlier. Sonic realized it was only an innocent man and he was no harm at all.

"My name is Porthos the Rabbit." said Porthos "I was tricked into helping Scourge mine these Chaos Clusters and he stole that girl's Chaos Energy after I extracted it and now he's a crazy psychopath. I'm so sorry I've done this sir."

"No need to be Porty." said Sonic "Scourge tricked you, you had no idea so it wasn't your fault this happened. Although I kinda question the fact you have no idea Scourge is evil already."

"I don't read or watch the news." Porthos admitted "And I don't really get out much so I don't hear what goes on in the world. I do know that you're the famous Sonic the Hedgehog though as even my miners I've heard of you. Is the pink girl here a friend of yours?"

"She is." said Sonic "I bet she came here to stop Scourge but she failed unfortunately and Scourge tricked you into giving him her Chaos Energy which was given to her by a Chaos Cluster. I used one to Chaos Regenerate her before you ask and the side effect was, it gave her Chaos Energy."

"Interesting." said Porthos "Those clusters power up somebody when a Chaos Regeneration is used. I'm learning more about Chaos Emeralds as this day goes on."

"Great I'm sure." said Sonic dully "Listen, I've got a fight with Scourge that'll seal the fate of the world depending on who wins and I need to get to it double quick. You take Amy out of the cavern and join my friends. If you see a twin-tailed yellow furred fox, two echidnas, a rabbit, a plant like creature, a skunk, a cyborg rabbit, a dog, a mouse and a water panther, they're my friends. You stay with them and tell them I'm fighting Scourge under Angel Island and they have to wait for my return. Got it?"

"To the letter Sonic." said Porthos, taking the unconscious Amy from Sonic "I sincerely hope that you beat that mad hedgehog!"

"I will Porty, I've had practice with him." said Sonic with an assuring smile on his face.

With that said, Porthos ran off to a rope leader so he could climb out of the cavern with Amy on his shoulder. As for Sonic, seeing as Scourge was powered by the energy from the clusters, he figured that he would have to do the same so he could match him. Sonic wandered over to a Chaos Cluster, touched it and yelled at the top of his voice.

"Chaos…REGENERATION!"

The cluster flashed brightly as he did so and he began to feel himself being pumped with Chaos Energy. The Chaos Regeneration healed the cut on his arm and the pain from Scourge's other attacks earlier. And much like with Amy, it had filled him with a bonus stash of Chaos Energy, just the amount needed to counter-attack Scourge. Sonic had had plenty of experience with Chaos Energy before so he could handle this power very well. Not to mention his strong heart and goodwill made the power more controllable and he didn't feel brutish or anything. He still felt the same, just a little stronger and a lot fresher then normal. Sonic smirked to himself as he felt the energy in his veins he'd gained from the Chaos Cluster.

"OK Scourge, let's see how you like a little bit of Chaos-Powered thrashing then." he gloated to himself "After all…Turnabout is Fair Play as you said."

With that said, Sonic rushed out of the cavern and rocketed off to Angel Island, preparing to battle with Scourge and vanquish the demon hog once and for all…

Emeralds Part 3

Story 92: Emeralds Part 3: Revelations by the Thousand

Scourge the Hedgehog, brother of worldwide hero and supersonic fighter Sonic the Hedgehog and would-be world conqueror was awaiting for his brother to show up for the final-showdown he had promised him. Scourge had recently given himself a dose of Chaos Energy which had been extracted from Amy Rose, hammer swinging heroine and Sonic's would-be girlfriend, by a rabbit named Porthos who was in charge of a mining group. The energy in turn had been given to Amy by the mysterious Chaos Clusters that Sonic had found in an underground cavern and Scourge was now full of it and he was slowly but steadily becoming a mad Chaos-Powered being of unfathomable power and uncontrollable rage. He and his girlfriend Fiona Fox waited for Sonic underneath Angel Island, a floating landmark and one of Sonic's most favourite places on Mobius to go. The Master Emerald and Chaos Emeralds were on the island and Scourge was hoping to use those emeralds and the Chaos Clusters to increase his power even more to the point where not even gods would be able to stop him. Scourge just stood there near the crater that marked where Angel Island used to be, his eyes glowing brightly and constantly flashing between the colours of the seven Chaos Emeralds every ten seconds. Fiona had gone down into the crater to take cover as this fight was not going to be pretty at all. She did however peek over the edge of the crater so she could see what was going on. She wanted to witness Scourge's final victory over Sonic firsthand so she wanted to watch this fight and see how it turns out. A good ten minutes had passed by before Sonic finally arrived on the scene. Scourge's face twisted into a cruel, evil smirk of pure concentrated villainy as Sonic arrived. He clenched his fists and prepared to beat the living snot out of Sonic. Sonic skidded to a halt about fifty feet away from Scourge and he called over to him.

"OK Scourge! This is it! Our final battle!" called Sonic "The battle that'll determine who will stand and who will fall!"

"And that outcome of course will be me standing and you falling!" retorted Scourge "You haven't a ghost of a chance against me! I'm infused with the very MIGHT! I'm full of Chaos Energy from the Chaos Clusters so you will not defeat me!"

"I know." said Sonic "That's why I gave MYSELF a dose of Chaos Energy too. A Chaos Regeneration from the Chaos Clusters has put me on par with you now so this fight will be nice and even sided!"

"Good, that'll make this battle more enjoyable when I break your bones Sonic!" cackled Scourge "Brace yourself because this'll be the biggest beat down you'll ever receive in your miserable, wasted life!"

"Let's do it to it bro." said Sonic smoothly, bending down in a battle ready stance with a confident smirk on his face.

Scourge bent down into a battle ready stance too and he prepared to charge towards Sonic. Fiona's face widened into an excited grin as the battle was about to commence.

"Go get em Scourge!" she cheered to herself.

Scourge heard her and that just made him feel even greater having the support of his girlfriend to keep him going. Scourge and Sonic stared each other down and they both clenched their fists. They then revved their feet up and they charged towards each other at the speed of running cheetahs, screaming loud battle cries as they charged towards each other. They then leaped into the air, drew their arms back and lunged towards each other fist first as they hurled through the air like graceful gymnasts…

Meanwhile, Sonic's friends Tails the twin-tailed fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Shade the Echidna, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot and Ruben the Water Panther all picked themselves up from the severe beating Scourge had given each of them in his mad Chaos Powered rage. Scourge had given them a good beating and all at blinding speed due to the Chaos Energy making him super fast, even faster then before. Cosmo appeared to be struggling to get up though so Tails staggered over to help her up.

"Up you get Cosmo." said Tails, putting her arm around his shoulder and helping Cosmo onto her feet.

"Thank you Tails." said Cosmo weakly "Scourge has gotten even more powerful now hasn't he?"

"He has." said Tails "He stole Amy's Chaos Energy and it's now flowing through his veins. I guess he had some kind of injection with him if he managed to steal Amy's Chaos Energy."

"Does that mean Amy will be back to normal?" asked Cosmo.

"I hope so." said Tails "Although I don't see why she won't be so I would bet on it easily."

"Let's hope Amy is back to normal so she doesn't go punching anybody again." muttered Mandy, still sore over what Amy did to her earlier "Although it'd be much better if Scourge didn't steal it from her. He's even worse then Amy is." she added bitterly as she rubbed her hips better.

"Amy was bad enough with that stuff in her, Scourge is downright psychotic, I mean he beat us all up in a matter of seconds!" cried Wilson, rubbing his muzzle better "Oh I wish Sonic never found those so-called Chaos Clusters in the first place! None of this would have happened otherwise."

"But Mr. Wilson, if Sonic never found the clusters then he wouldn't have saved Amy with it so it was good Mr. Sonic found those clusters." said Cream "It was good he found them but it isn't good Scourge found them too."

"It certainly isn't." muttered Geoffrey, clutching his aching head "Now the bloke's gonna lay siege to everything in sight with no one to stop him. Unless Sonic can use the Chaos Emeralds on Angel Island to go super and kick his arse already."

"Speaking of Sonic, where is he?" asked Knuckles, rubbing his arms "Has he gone to Angel Island already?"

"Let us hope he has so he can end this nightmare already." said Shade, adjusting her headband as it was now drooping over her eyes after that beating Scourge had given her "Dark Chaos powered Imperator Ix was a trip to hell and back*, Chaos powered Scourge is likely going to be just as bad so we must stop him and fast before Mobius becomes a worldwide wasteland."

"I dunno if that'll be possible sugah." said Bunnie doubtfully, lightly stroking her ears to ease the pain a little "Ah mean Sonic couldn't beat Scourge no matter how many times he fought him. Even with our help he's still too strong and according to sugah-hog, even in super form Scourge almost got the best of him so ah doubt Sonic will be able to stop Scourge now."

"Bunnie, the best thing to do is not lose faith in our valiant crusader." said Ruben, readjusting his aqua-collar as it had gone crooked after the beating he received "If we're to beat Scourge, it'd be best to remain faithful to one another and not lose hope. After all, our spirit and valour always comes out on top of out conflicts."

"I'm with Ruben on this." said Tails "I believe in Sonic, no matter what the situation is like. Sonic can do this, I know he can."

"Um, excuse me everybody but a rabbit appears to be coming our way." said Cosmo, pointing to an oncoming Porthos the Rabbit.

Porthos had done what Sonic had told him and run off to find his friends while carrying a still unconscious Amy Rose in his arms. He reached Sonic's friends and he dropped down onto his knees, panting heavily. He put Amy down on the ground and he picked himself back up while rubbing his chest. He had come down with a chest pain after all that running.

"Pant! Whew, this running doesn't do me any good no more these days!" he puffed "Gasp…hello there, you're friends of Sonic the hedgehog aren't you?"

"We are." said Tails "How do you know that and who are you?"

"Sonic told me what kind of species you all are and you fit his descriptions." explained Porthos "And in answer to your second question, I am Porthos the Rabbit, leader of a mining group from Furville. I was tricked into helping Scourge and Fiona mine the Chaos Clusters and now Scourge has used your friend Amy here's Chaos Energy to power himself up. Sonic has gone to fight him under Angel Island and you're to stay here until he comes back. He told me to tell you that."

Everybody murmured amongst each other whereas Knuckles just blurted out angrily.

"Sonic and Scourge are fighting under Angel Island?" he shrieked "Scourge is gonna steal the Master Emerald if he wins this! I've gotta get over to the island and defend it now!"

"No Knuckles." said Shade hastily, holding him back "Scourge is too powerful and according to Porthos, Sonic has commanded us to wait until he returns. Besides, I'm sure the hedgehog has a plan in mind if he's fighting at Angel Island. Maybe he's going to turn super and defeat him for good."

Knuckles calmed down and took in Shade's suggestion. It wasn't a bad suggestion and if that was Sonic's plan then it was going to work…if he could find a way of getting onto Angel Island without a warp ring. Then Knuckles remembered Sonic could leap good and high so he could leap up and reach the island if he had to so he didn't have to worry about that. As for Porthos, he suddenly caught sight of Cream and he stared at her. Cream looked back at Porthos and wondered why the well-dressed rabbit was looking at her funny. It seemed that Porthos was either surprised at the sight of her or he was familiar with her in some way or another.

"Oh. Hello Mr. Porthos." said Cream politely "Why are you staring at me?"

"Good saints alive!" cried Porthos "It's you Cream the Rabbit! Six years pass by and all of the sudden, I end up meeting you proper! I never thought this day would come!"

Everybody stared at Porthos in wonder. Cream in particular stared at him even harder, wondering how he knew her even though she and him had never met before.

"I beg your pardon sir, but how do you know my name?" asked Cream.

"Chao, Chao?" piped her pet Chao Cheese.

"You also have a pet Chao." noted Porthos "Very interesting. Anyways dear, the reason I know your name…is because I am a relative of yours. I am…your father."

Cream thought she was going to die of shock right there. Everybody else gasped in a chorus of astonished gasps at him. Porthos just looked down at the ground as if he wasn't very pleased with himself over something.

"Y-y-y-you're m-m-my…father?" blurted Cream in surprise "I-I-I-I have a father? Oh…Oh my gosh! I-I-I can't believe it! All this time I actually have a father? My mother claimed to not know what happened to my father and I've spent my life thinking the same thing! If you're my father then why haven't you been in my life for six years? Why did mother not talk about you?"

"I bet dear Vanilla never spoke about me because she has no idea I'm still alive." said Porthos in a somewhat depressed and regretful tone "You see, I haven't been in your life for six years because I opted out of it."

"Why?" asked Cream nervously "Did you not like mother anymore?"

"No my child, I still love Vanilla." said Porthos sadly, his expression getting even sadder "I opted out of your life and hers…because I can't bear to face her again. Let's start at the beginning: I met Vanilla at a coco shop one day and we had a hot chocolate together. We talked to each other and then began falling in love with each other and a few years later, we married and settled down in a nice cosy home in Stardom Village. Soon after our marriage, Vanilla announced to me she was expecting a baby and I was over the moon with joy. I've always wanted a child and I was finally going to get one.

But then a whole day before you were finally born, our life together ended. I had a boy's night out with my friends in a pub while Vanilla had a ladies' night out with her friends. I stupidly got myself deathly drunk and had a violent rage in the pub. I then left the pub and collapsed in an alleyway. I was too close to the wall when I collapsed and I banged my head on it. I was knocked out for a while and it was afternoon the next day by the time I woke up. I realized that Vanilla would be expecting you that very day so I decided to rush home as quickly as I could. I found a newspaper on my way back with a headline saying that I hadn't come back from my night out and that Vanilla had given birth to you that very morning. I wanted to tell Vanilla that I was still alive. But then I remembered last night. I began to feel ashamed of myself. I began to wonder what would Vanilla say about it and felt like I couldn't bear to face her anymore. She would never forgive me for this. I wrecked a pub in a drunken rage and missed the birth of my own daughter. I had been a terrible husband and I did not deserve to be a father for my appalling actions so instead of coming home, I decided to remain out of Vanilla's life for good and let her wonder what had happened to me.

I changed my image and dressed smartly so people would see me as a well-mannered upper-class gentlemen and I got a job at a mining company in Furville. And now, after all these years, I get to see you for real Cream. Just a pity that I've had to hide from Vanilla and you all these years because I let you both down thanks to a stupid incident. I'm so, so deeply sorry for what's happened and that you've had to go all this while without me in your life Cream."

He finished his statement and revelation with a single tear that trickled down his face. As for Cream, she had listened to Porthos' story and couldn't believe that this is what had happened to her father all along. Vanilla didn't know what happened to him because he led her to believe that by hiding from her after vanishing out of her life two weeks before her birth. Cream was still so overwhelmed to hear she even had a father but she was willing to accept him in the family despite what he'd done to ruin his own life and leave Vanilla under the pretence he was dead for all her life. Cream took Porthos' hand and looked up at him with big brown innocent eyes. Porthos looked down at her from his height and tried not to look ashamed to be here right now.

"I know you're sorry for yourself dad and you can't bear to face mother again but if you don't, all you're gonna do is make yourself even sadder and you're only gonna feel bad for the rest of your life." said Cream "You've got to show yourself to mother again and tell her what happened to you and that you're very sorry about it. You can't hide from her forever."

"I don't want to hide from her." Porthos admitted sadly "It's just, I can't bear to lose her either. I fear that she'll leave me due to the fact I ended up going on a drunken rage and then ended up knocking myself out which in turn, caused me to miss the birth of my own daughter. I've been a terrible husband to Vanilla and I can never go back to her."

"Yes you can." said Cream supportively "I'm sure mother will understand what happened to you and she'll forgive you for what you did. After all, you didn't mean those things to happen and you regret it happening. Also, mother's a very forgiving person so she'll easily forgive you dad."

Porthos just looked Cream squarely in the eyes and began to feel funny. It was as if Cream's puppy-dog eyes were having some sort of effect on him that was making him feel all sorry for her and that the only way to make her expression change was to do what she wanted. Porthos then though about what Cream said to him. If he hides from Vanilla forever then he'll never feel better about himself and Vanilla may not be very happy without him right now. Not to mention, he'd always wanted a child of his own and if he remained hidden from Vanilla and Cream then he'd never get to be a father. Porthos decided that he had to fix his life and be the father Cream never had and make it up to Vanilla.

"Cream, I think you're right." said Porthos "I must fix my life or I'll never feel better. I can't stay hidden forever. Once this crisis with Scourge and his Chaos Power is over, I'll go straight over to Vanilla and make it up to her."

"That's great daddy!" cried Cream happily "Mother will be so thrilled to see that you're still alive when she sees you again!"

As for Sonic's friends, they didn't really know what to do except feel happy for Cream fright now.

"Aw, that's so sweet." said Mandy happily "Cream's gotten her father back and he's going to make it up to her mother. It fills my heart with joy to see families getting back together again."

"Same here." said Wilson ""I'm glad to see Cream's getting her family back at last."

"As touching as this reunion is." said Knuckles grimly "If Sonic doesn't beat Scourge then it'll be a short-lived reunion."

Everybody agreed with him on that one. Cream's gotten her father back at long last but if Scourge beat Sonic and dominated the world then this reunion would be over as quick as it happened…

Sonic and Scourge hurled towards each other in their amazing leap and they punched each other in the face. Their punches were enough to shatter their jawbones and the force of their punches sent them hurling backwards across the battlefield. Sonic and Scourge both skidded to a halt and they charged back at each other. They drew their arms back and they punched at each other again. This time, their fists hit each other. Sonic and Scourge then began to rapidly punch at each other at a speed that could rival ninjas and they struck each other at various places all over their bodies with their punches. The two hedgehogs then wizened up to one another and they began to effectively block each other's blows. Sonic lunged at Scourge with an uppercut but Scourge blocked it and he tried to left hook Sonic in the face but Sonic blocked that one. Sonic lunged a right hook but Scourge blocked it with his arm and then Scourge tired to uppercut Sonic but Sonic blocked that attack. Sonic tried to roundhouse kick Scourge in the head but Scourge bent over backwards to dodge the attack. Just as Sonic's leg swept over Scourge, Scourge swiped his arm upwards and hit Sonic's leg, knocking him onto his back. Scourge then tried to stomp on Sonic but Sonic rolled out of the way, leaving Scourge to stomp the ground instead. Sonic picked himself up and he kicked Scourge in the legs, taking them out from underneath him and bringing him down on the ground. Sonic then tried to stomp on Scourge but Scourge rolled out of Sonic's way and leaped back onto his feet. He homing attacked Sonic but Sonic wasn't down for long. He regained his balance and homing attacked Scourge back. Scourge growled furiously and he ran backwards a good distance and then charged back towards Sonic. Sonic could see what Scourge was up to so he charged back at him. The two hedgehogs then spin-dashed towards each other and they struck each other at an incredible force that could break rocks. Sonic and Scourge were both sent hurling backwards a good distance across the battlefield and they screeched to a halt. Sonic charged towards Scourge at top speed but Scourge was ready for him. He waited until Sonic was almost up to him and then he leaped over him. He dropkicked Sonic in the back of the head, knocking the cobalt blue hedgehog down onto his face. Sonic ended up skidding rather painfully across the ground on his face, leaving very bad scrape marks on his face. Scourge then grabbed Sonic by his quills and he zoomed around the battlefield, carrying Sonic by his quills. He then jumped up onto the underside of Angel Island, which was a giant rocky point, and he chucked Sonic through the air and down towards the ground. Sonic however, flipped himself over so his feet were facing the ground and he landed on the ground feet first like he wanted to. He skidded backwards slightly but he quickly stopped himself. Scourge spin-dashed towards Sonic but Sonic back-flipped and kicked him as his legs swung up and over, sending Scourge hurling into the ground. Scourge picked himself up and lunged at Sonic. Sonic and Scourge linked arms with one another and they pushed on each other, trying to get the best of one another. They both gritted their teeth at each other and grunted as they pushed on each other's arms.

"Looks like that Chaos Energy from the clusters has done you some good blue boy." sneered Scourge "That just means I get to toy with you for longer then should be reasonable. Good, I feared this final battle was going to be boring!"

"Well you thought wrong rainbow eyes!" sneered Sonic "Speaking of which, why does the Chaos Energy make your eyes flash between the colours of the seven Chaos Emeralds?"

"I guess it reacts to differently certain people." said Scourge "But I don't care, it's reacting to me in a good way, a way that'll ensure your downfall!"

"I wouldn't bet on that you green twerp!" retorted Sonic.

He then proceeded to head-butt Scourge in the forehead, causing Scourge to let go of his hands and grip his face. Sonic then jumped up and kick-slammed Scourge in the gut, knocking the green hedgehog down onto his back. Sonic then pounced on Scourge but as he landed on him, Scourge swung his legs up, throwing Sonic off himself and onto his back. Scourge picked himself up and spin-dashed Sonic before he could even so much as bat an eyelid. Sonic picked himself up just in time to dodge a spin-dash from Scourge and he spin-dashed the green hedgehog back. Scourge retaliated with a kick to the face that sent Sonic staggering and he lunged a couple of punches at Sonic but Sonic blocked them both. Sonic threw a gut-punch at Scourge but Scourge blocked the attack and retaliated with a roundhouse punch to the jaw. Sonic took a moment from the battle to rub his throbbing jaw better and he let Scourge have it with a roundhouse kick to the legs. Scourge was brought down onto his back and Sonic stomped on his stomach. Scourge gasped hoarsely as he felt all the air in his lungs depleting from that heavy stomp. Sonic then tried to punch Scourge in the face but Scourge grabbed the punch and got back onto his feet while still gripping Sonic's fist. He squeezed Sonic's fist as hard as he could in hope of making the hedgehog cry in pain but Sonic was too strong for that kind of pain now thanks to the Chaos Energy. Instead he fought Scourge's attempt to hurt him. Scourge growled furiously, not pleased to see his attack wasn't working and he kneed Sonic in the gut. Sonic doubled over while gasping heavily. Scourge then walloped Sonic around the head, sending Sonic in a dizzy stagger backwards but he didn't fall over. Sonic and Scourge bent down in battle ready stances, ready to deliver the next blow until a clap of thunder interrupted them. They looked up at the sky and saw a flash of lightening. Shortly afterwards, it started to throw it down with rain. Rain sprinkled over everything and turned the once dry ground into wet ground. Water trickled down the two hedgehog's fur and into their gloves and shoes. Sonic and Scourge looked back at each other and they prepared to continue the battle. Thunder boomed through the sky once again and lightening flashed briefly, lighting up the battlefield for a second. Sonic and Scourge then charged towards each other at supersonic speed and they spin-dashed each other. Their attack just sent each other flying backwards and they lunged for each other again. They bounced off of each other like two footballs being kicked at each other and they hurled backwards. They spin-dashed towards each other and spin-dashed each other again. They kept this up for a good while until Scourge finally overpowered Sonic by dropkicking him into the ground. Sonic picked himself up and dodged just as Scourge spin-dashed at him again. Sonic elbow-thrusted him in the back and knocked him down onto his stomach. Sonic grabbed Scourge by his jacket before he could get up and he tossed him across the battlefield as if he was a stone. Scourge flipped himself up and over to she would land on his feet and he did so, skidding backwards as he landed. Sonic charged up to Scourge but Scourge kicked some rainwater into his eyes. Sonic was left blinded by the attack and Scourge gave him a couple of left and right hooks each and then a kick to the gut that sent Sonic skidding backwards. Sonic wiped the rainwater out of his eyes and he charged back towards Scourge. Thunder boomed once again and lightening flashed, giving Sonic an eerie look for a brief moment. He leaped into the air and elbow-thrusted Scourge in the face. Scourge amazingly managed to remain standing after that attack but Sonic didn't stop there. He spin-dashed Scourge in the back and knocked him down onto his hands and knees. Sonic then stood before Scourge and glowered at him, rain trickling down his face and body. Scourge picked himself up and growled at him like a savage dog.

"I can definitely say this fight's a lot more fun then our other encounters blue." said Scourge grimly "It almost feels bad that one of us will have to end it sooner or later. Oh well, you know what they say "It was fun while it lasted"."

"Yes Scourge and I'll only be fun for me as I'll come out on top at the end of this." said Sonic "I always do in my battles!"

"Wrong actually." said Scourge "Did you forget the times I've beaten you before? I beat you outside Eggman's city, then I beat you again in Spagonia, then I beat you during that jungle tussle with Metal Sonic* and I beat you the time I briefly subjugated Castle Acorn too, you only won that day because your friends interfered. Oh and need I forget our super throw down? I beat you even in super form! You only won that one because I ran out at an inconvenient time but I still beat you then! The only time you ever beat me properly and on your own was during my HQ heist* but that's it, every other time we've fought, I've come out on top but you only win because your friends interfere or Ginger screws up on me! Well Ginger's dead and your friends ain't here so I'll defeat you, this time for good!"

"Not on your life Scourge!" yelled Sonic.

Sonic lunged at Scourge with an amazing kick to the gut that sent him hurling backwards but Scourge kept his balance and remained standing up after that skid. Sonic then charged towards Scourge and prepared to spin-dash him but Scourge spin-dashed him first and knocked him down. He then hauled Sonic back onto his feet and punched him in the face several times over. Sonic staggered backwards while rubbing his face better and Scourge leaned back on one leg, drew his leg back and kicked Sonic as hard as he could. Sonic hurled backwards but he landed on his feet and stopped himself. He then charged towards Scourge yet again. Scourge waited for him and prepared to attack him again. But Sonic got the first blow this time. Sonic leaped into the air and spin-dashed Scourge as hard as he possibly could. He spin-dashed Scourge so hard that the green hedgehog was sent hurling into the crater of Angel Island! He crashed onto the ground and Fiona slid down the wall to see how he was. Sonic then leaped into the cavern after him and he landed beside Scourge. No rain could land on Sonic and Scourge now they were under Angel Island. The island sheltered them like a giant umbrella so they would be nice and dry for the rest of the fight. Sonic grabbed a handful of dirt and slapped it on Scourge's eyes. Scourge cried out in pain and Fiona tried to attack Sonic in order to help Scourge but Sonic grabbed her leg and threw her away from him.

"Sorry Fiona, this is our fight." said Sonic dryly "And Scourge doesn't want anyone but us two in it."

Scourge picked himself up, the green hedgehog completely blinded by the dirt Sonic had slapped on him and he couldn't see anything. Sonic took this as an opportunity to go to town on him while he was unable to fight back. Sonic ran up to Scourge and threw as many punches as he possibly could. A curious thing happened though. With every punch Sonic threw, Scourge spat out colourful drops of salvia. It was as if even his salvia was full of Chaos Energy! Sonic kept up the punching though, not once faltering or slowing down. He punched Scourge in the cheek, making him spit out colourful drops of salvia as he did so, then he punched him in the gut, then the jaw and then in the nose. After those punches, Scourge ended up with a nosebleed but his blood was coloured like the Chaos Emeralds instead of red like it should be. Scourge wiped his nose clean but Sonic punched him in the cheek yet again. Scourge staggered backwards and he wiped his eyes better. He got the dirt out of his eyes and he could now see again. Unfortunately, Sonic was on the attack and he didn't have time to brace himself. Sonic gave Scourge a powerful uppercut to the chin that sent him hurling through the air in a rainbow arch and crashing down onto the ground. Scourge spat out a tooth and some colourful salvia and he sat up just as Sonic advanced on him. Thunder clapped and boomed through the sky like an explosion and lightening flashed again, making Sonic look eerie again. Sonic raised his foot and pressed it on Scourge's torso, forcing him back onto the ground in a lying down position and he glowered at him. His face curled into a smirk that looked rather sinister on Sonic's face. Scourge stared at him with his ever flashing eyes that continued to change colour.

"No…this can't be…I'm Scourge the Hedgehog! The most powerful being in the world! I can't be defeated now! Not while Chaos Energy pulses through my veins!"

"Well Scourge, you've just been defeated." said Sonic, raising his foot of Scourge and drawing his arm back, ready to let Scourge have it big time "You may have Chaos Energy in your veins, but I also have Chaos Energy in my veins and since I use it properly, that makes me the better hedgehog. Now brace yourself, this'll hurt big time."

Scourge stared in horror at Sonic's fist. Sonic was going to kill him now wasn't he? Probably not as Sonic was not the killing type. He was probably going to knock him out and then get rid of his Chaos Energy and then throw Scourge back in a prison cell. And that was exactly what Sonic was intending to do now. Fiona could only watch pitifully as Sonic prepared to knock Scourge out. Sonic gave Scourge a triumphant grin and then he lunged at him with his fist… and his grin twisted into an open hole of shock. Scourge was sitting up and he'd managed to catch Sonic's fist in his hands! Scourge smirked at Sonic and he opened his eyes. His eyes were even brighter then before now, bright to the point they were blank canvases of endlessly changing colours. The Chaos Energy inside him was changing and was getting even stronger, much like it did in Amy. Scourge had had his Chaos Energy longer then Sonic's so his was reaching the mature stage faster then Sonic's was. Sonic's wasn't even changing yet as he'd gotten his recently so Scourge was now stronger then Sonic. Scourge picked himself up while still holding Sonic's fist and he kept on his wicked grin. He then yelled something.

"Chaos…REGENERATION!"

After he yelled that, he glowed brightly as if he was an actual Chaos Emerald and his injuries from earlier disappeared into thin air. It was as if Scourge now had the ability to heal himself! He looked perfectly fine now, as if he hadn't been fighting a moment ago! Sonic began to look nervous as Scourge squeezed on his fist, making him yelped and grimace in pain. His grin spread into a wide smirk of pure concentrated evil now.

"Interesting!" cried Scourge "Over a period of time, the power from the clusters increases and you become a living Chaos Emerald! I can heal myself now! And I can use other powers the Chaos Emeralds have too! Now how was it you put it Sonic? "Brace yourself, this'll hurt big time."? Well, THIS will hurt big time!"

He then let go of Sonic's fist and bellowed at the top of his voice.

"Chaos… BLASSSTTTT! "

He threw his arms out and huge red beams of pure concentrated energy exploded out from Scourge's body in similar fashion to Shadow the Hedgehog and Sonic was thrown backwards by the blasts. Sonic hurled backwards and crashed into the wall of the crater. Scourge warped over to Sonic and gave him an uppercut that sent him hurling out of the crater and out into the rain again. Sonic skidded across the wet ground a good distance before coming to a painful halt. Scourge teleported out of the crater and right above Sonic. Sonic lay on the ground face-first and beaten to the point he couldn't fight anymore. Fiona climbed out of the crater and waited for Scourge to kill Sonic.

"Yes, yes!" You've got him Scourge! Kill him quick!" cried Fiona.

Scourge ignored Fiona but he prepared to kill Sonic anyway. Scourge turned Sonic over onto his back and slammed his foot on Sonic's stomach, making the blue hedgehog gasp hoarsely and wheeze like a person with asthma. Scourge glowered at Sonic, his bright flashing eyes looking like pure devil eyes that flashed from green to blue to cyan to red to purple to yellow and grey and his face twisted into a smile that made the craziest of man look sane in comparison.

"Thanks for all this fun Sonic!" cackled Scourge, his voice echoing for some reason as he spoke "But now the time has come for you to die. Brace yourself, this'll hurt big time!"

He then threw his arms up into the air and was about to yell Chaos Blast until suddenly, a black and red blur spin-dashed him in the gut and sent him hurling backwards. It was Shadow the Hedgehog! The genetic experiment that looked Mobian had shown up to save Sonic's hide from Scourge the Hedgehog! Scourge picked himself up and he growled at Shadow furiously.

"Who the heck are you stripes?" growled Scourge.

"I am Shadow, Shadow the Hedgehog." said Shadow darkly "And I'm here to save the one person I'm reluctant to call a friend. I could suddenly sense heavy spikes of Chaos Energy so I decided to investigate and now I find an evil Sonic look-alike attempting to kill him. I owe Sonic for exposing Eggman as a fake so now I can repay that debt."

"Cute, real cute stripy." muttered Scourge "Well have I got news for you Shadow boy, I'm Sonic's brother Scourge the Hedgehog and I am gonna kick your ass for interfering with me!"

He charged towards Shadow and prepared to attack him but Shadow leaped out of his way and spin-dashed him in the back. He grabbed Scourge's arms and forced them behind his back but being as Scourge was heavily Chaos Powered, he didn't even feel the pain from it. Shadow pulled a face that suggested there was something about Scourge that interested him.

"Fascinating, you're full of Chaos Energy." said Shadow "I can feel it inside you. You feel like a Chaos Emerald. Does this mean I can use you like one?"

He then yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" and Scourge glowed ever so brightly, bright even to blind even the sharpest of eyes. Grabbing a Chaos Powered Mobian and then using Chaos Control was not a good thing for the Chaos Powered Mobian, because it worked on the Chaos Powered Mobian instead of anybody else. Scourge was now stuck in a Chaos Control thanks to Shadow but he wouldn't stay stuck for long. He was frozen in time and he wasn't going to be frozen for long. Shadow decided that since Scourge was full of Chaos Energy and like a Chaos Emerald, it'd be unwise to battle him any further until he got an emerald or two. Not to mention Sonic was in bad shape so it was best to get Sonic off the battlefield and fast. Shadow ran over to the injured Sonic and he picked him up. Sonic opened his eyes and stared at Shadow, almost unable to believe Shadow was here right now.

"H…Hey Sh…Shadow…" grunted Sonic "Good…to…see you… again…"

"Hello again blue hedgehog." said Shadow "I've just frozen your brother Scourge with a Chaos Control and I'm getting you out of here before it wears off."

Before Sonic could say anything else, Shadow ran off as fast as he could. He skated across the terrain on his jet shoes and he left Scourge behind. The moment Shadow left, Scourge's Chaos Control wore off and he was now able to move again. Scourge picked himself up and he roared in frustration. He was so close to killing Sonic and yet he'd failed thanks to Shadow stepping in and getting in his way. Thunder boomed and lightening flashed as if the weather was sharing his anger with him.

"I FINALLY BEAT HIM AT LONG LAST AND SONIC WAS AT MY MERCY!" thundered Scourge "I WAS SO CLOSE TO KILLING HIM AND YET SOMEONE DECIDES TO STEP IN AND GET IN MY WAY! HOW COME NO MATTER HOW CLOSE I GET TO KILLING SONIC I ALWAYS GET FOILED AT THE LAST MINUTE?"

He then suddenly calmed down eerily enough and his rage died down into happiness. He was suddenly happy and seemed pleased over something.

"No matter though. This interference is a minor bump in the road." crooned Scourge "I'm a living Chaos Emerald now and I'll use my power to conquer the world! I'll use a Chaos Control to bring the Chaos Clusters over to Angel Island and fuse them all with the Master Emerald and Chaos Emeralds. I'LL BE A CHAOS POWERED GOD OF UNMATCHABLE POWER!"

He then began to below out with loud grating laughter that echoed around the battlefield. Sonic maybe still alive but that wasn't going to change anything. Scourge was now the most powerful thing on Mobius and soon he was going to be the most powerful thing in the universe once he tried out his plan…

Meanwhile, Sonic's friends had all decided to take shelter in the cavern of the Chaos Clusters from the pouring rain and booming thunder outside. Poor Tails was not enjoying this at all as he was deathly afraid of lightening. Every time it flashed, the poor fox just about jumped out of his skin. In order to make sure Tails couldn't see the lightning, he went deeper into the parts of the cavern that were covered. Cosmo went with him in order to comfort the frightened fox. As for the others, Porthos was hugging Cream in a comforting manner as Cream didn't really like thunder (rabbits have sensitive ears and thunder hurts her ears) and the rest were standing at the entrance waiting for Sonic to come back. As for poor Amy, she had finally come to (she got woken up by a thunderclap) and after waking up, Tails and Porthos had given her the rundown on what had been happening while she was out. Amy was intrigued to say the least, especially at the fact Porthos and Cream were related and she felt herself all over. She felt completely normal now.

She was no longer twitchy and brutish feeling. She was good old Amy Rose again thanks to Scourge stealing her Chaos Energy.

"Well it's good to have good old me back again." said Amy happily "Although it's a pity I had to lose my energy to Scourge. I should have stayed at Royal HQ and then none of this would have happened. I'm sorry this has happened everybody."

"Amy, don't put all the grief on yourself." said Ruben gently "None of us could have anticipated this to happen. You had no idea you was going to run into Scourge and Fiona did you? Although like you said, it would have been better if you stayed at Royal HQ and removed the Chaos Energy in the first place. But you were full of Chaos Energy and it made you impatient and restless, you couldn't really help yourself so it's not all your fault."

"I'm glad you see it that way Ruben." said Amy "You really are a good friend you are."

"Well one tries." said Ruben casually "Thanks for your compliment."

"You're welcome." said Amy "On thing I must say is, I didn't know Cream had a dad." she said, looking at Porthos.

After waking up, Cream had told her Porthos was her dad.

"I didn't even know ether." said Cream "I'm glad though that he's willing to come back into the family and make it up to mother."

She hugged her father and beamed brightly at him. Amy sort of smiled with Cream, glad to see she was getting a long lost parent back.

"As for Sonic, I hope he's OK." said Amy, changing the subject now "I mean, Sonic doesn't have any power from the clusters unlike Scourge who stole the power I got so Sonic's gonna have a hard time."

"Scourge can give Sonic as hard a time as he dares!" yelled Tails "Sonic will beat him! Sonic always wins in the end so he'll win this one!"

"The two are fighting at Angel Island so Sonic's got some trump cards on his side." noted Knuckles "He could easily use the Master Emerald or the Chaos Emeralds to give himself a bit of an edge over Scourge."

"Unfortunately, that means Scourge can too." said Shade grimly "Taking Scourge to Angel Island was a foolish idea and I think it'll end up costing Sonic dearly."

"I wouldn't bet on that Shade." said Mandy, peering outside and at the cavern tops "Blue dude's coming our way and Shadow's with him!"

"Sonic AND Shadow are coming?" piped Amy "Oh my gosh, Shadow's back! I wouldn't have expected that to happen!"

Tails, Amy, Ruben and Cosmo ran over to the mouth of the caverns and they looked up at the cavern tops outside. Shadow had found the cavern of Chaos Clusters and he was carrying an injured Sonic the Hedgehog on his shoulder. Shadow leaped down into the cavern and he met up with the others. He put Sonic down on the ground, the blue hedgehog trying his hardest to stay standing, and Amy ran over to him. She hugged Sonic happily, making sure she didn't hug him too hard as she could see he was hurt, and Sonic sort of hugged her back.

"Sonic, you're alive!" cried Amy "Thank goodness, I was beginning to worry about you!"

"Thanks for…the concern Amy…" croaked Sonic, coughing heavily as Amy and he broke up the hug "But remember…it's gonna take a lot…to bring this hedgehog down…"

"And took a lot, it looks like you did." said Wilson "Scourge really got the best of you that time didn't he?"

"In all…honesty…I ALMOST…beat that green psychopath." said Sonic weakly "But his Chaos Energy…increased and now…he's become… a living Chaos Emerald…he can use Chaos Blast and Chaos…Regeneration without needing a…Chaos Emerald now…he almost killed me but Shadow boy…came in and saved me. Which reminds me…thanks for the save Shadow." he added.

"Don't mention it blue hedgehog." said Shadow dryly "I was only returning the favour I owed you after you led me out of deception. This doesn't make us allies though."

"Yeah, yeah I know…" said Sonic mockingly "We don't…want folks thinking…we're good buddies…do we?"

"Humph." said Shadow dismissively "So, what's been going on here then?" he asked everybody "And what are these strange clusters that feel like Chaos Emeralds?"

He motioned to the glowing Chaos Clusters that sparkled like a million stars in this dark cavern. Tails decided that he would provide the necessary exposition to Shadow.

"Well after my stupid cousin helped Scourge become super, Sonic and him had a super battle and Sonic ended up finding this cavern." explained Tails "He took one of the clusters home and healed Amy with it as she was injured by Scourge's girlfriend Fiona Fox, more on those two later. Amy however ended up with a dose of Chaos Energy after she was healed by it. It made her stronger, faster and more boisterous. Unfortunately, Scourge tricked a miner into extracting the energy from her and he put it in himself so now he's a Chaos Powered maniac. As for Scourge, he's…"

"I know young fox, he told me himself, he's Sonic's brother." interrupted Shadow "I must say, I didn't think Sonic had an evil relative. If anything, I didn't even think he had relatives. Never mind that though, this Scourge is just another threat to Mobius that must be detained. He's a living Chaos Emerald now and he'll likely use that power to destroy the world. I can't find answers to my past if he kills us all so I'll happily help you bring him down."

"That's good…to hear Shadow." said Sonic.

"You would say that." muttered Shadow "So little fox, what are these clusters then and where did they come from?"

"We're not entirely sure." said Tails, putting his hand to his head and rubbing it with his finger "There used to be thousands of Chaos Emeralds but Knuckles's dad fused them together to make seven and yet these are clusters of real live Chaos Emeralds. Each cluster seems to have at least a hundred Chaos Emeralds each and there's about a hundred in this cavern alone. If Knuckles's dad did fuse them all together to make seven then they shouldn't even exist so they're a mystery to us."

"Although we've concluded that maybe Knuckles's dad missed some and they've been hidden all these years." said Shade "Although even I myself am finding it hard buying that."

"Indeed." said Shadow "And according to Tails, if you heal yourself with one, it fills you with Chaos Energy."

"It sure does…Shadow…" said Sonic "All it does…at first is make you stronger…and fresher…but as with Scourge…over time it increases and you…become a living Chaos Emerald. In fact, let's see if it's worked with me…"

He then picked himself up weakly and he said out loud, but not shouted as he was too weak to shout:

"Chaos…Regeneration."

As he said that, he glowed brightly as if he was a Chaos Emerald. Sonic's body flashed a dazzling light for a moment before dying back down to his normal self and revealing what he looked like now. The Chaos Regeneration had worked. He was completely back to normal now and he was completely fine looking. It was as if his injures were never there and his fight with Scourge had never happened. Sonic admired himself all over and he flexed his muscles.

"Suh-weet!" he cried "I can heal myself without needing a Chaos Emerald! Awesome!"

"You have more Chaos Power then me!" cried Shadow "I can't do this kind of stuff without a Chaos Emerald!"

"Well Shadow, if you're jealous, why don't you touch one of the clusters and join me?" snickered Sonic "After all, I beat Scourge will have a lot of trouble beating TWO Chaos Powered hedgehogs!"

"I think we should all try this stuff." said Mandy "We'll be invincible Chaos Powered heroes that'll topple Eggman's Empire and defeat any villain that dares mess with us."

"I'm not so sure on that Mandy gal." said Bunnie doubtfully "It didn't mix well with Amy so it won't mix well with us."

"That just begs the question of why does it work on Sonic better then on me?" asked Amy.

"I guess my experience with Chaos Power before might have something to do with it?" suggested Sonic "I dunno. Either way, I can control the power and I bet Knuckles and Shadow can as they both have experience with Chaos Energy so they're the best ones to join me really."

"If you say so blue hedgehog then I'll willingly do so." said Shadow "Scourge must be stopped before he leaves your world in ruination."

But before anyone could do anything, Sonic heard the sound of someone coming to the cavern at super speed. It was Scourge! He had come back to collect the clusters for his grand plan! Scourge leaped into the cavern and he landed amidst the pile of Chaos Clusters. Everybody stared at him in shock and Sonic and Shadow prepared to wipe the floor with him.

"Hey Scourge, you've come back to finish me off I guess." said Sonic.

"Wrong!" yelled Scourge "I'm here for something else! I'm a bit narked that you've managed to heal yourself though. I guess your powers have increased too."

"You betcha Scourge!" sneered Sonic "I'm now a living Chaos Emerald like you are Scourge! Our powers are equal again! Now let's have a good ol' tussle for old time's sake shall we?"

"Nah, I've got plans to carry out first." said Scourge "And I need these babies for them."

He then thrust his hands out and bellowed at the top of his raspy, tough guy voice.

"Chaos… CONTROL! "

The room filled with an enormous bright flashing glow that filled the entire cavern from top to bottom. The Chaos Clusters all glowed in unison together and then all of the sudden, they along with Scourge vanished from sight. The flash died down and the cavern returned to it's gloomy, rocky state. The only thing different now was the fact the Chaos Clusters had disappeared and so had Scourge the Hedgehog. Scourge had Chaos Controlled himself and the clusters out of the cavern and onto Angel Island but Sonic and friends didn't know that. For all they knew, Scourge could be anywhere right now.

"Why that creep!" cried Sonic "He just took all the Chaos Clusters and legged it!"

"But why would Scourge take the clusters and then run?" wondered Shadow "Wouldn't it make more sense for him to just destroy us now with them?"

"It would." said Knuckles grimly "I have an idea on what Scourge is plotting to do with them though. He's either going to use them all on himself, or he's going to use them all along with the Master Emerald and Chaos Emeralds!"

"I think knucklehead maybe right on that!" cried Sonic "Scourge may well be plotting to do something like that! But what will happen if all that Chaos Energy is used together? I mean eight emeralds and one hundred clusters? That's quite a lot of power, what will happen if all that's mixed together?"

"Something devastating I bet." said Knuckles "We must stop him and fast! Sonic, since you're a living Chaos Emerald now, you warp us all over to Angel Island!"

Sonic immediately did what he was told and he initiated his own Chaos Control. He thrust his arms forward and yelled.

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

He and all his friends glowed very brightly for a moment, their flashes brightening the caverns again, before vanishing into thin air. As Sonic vanished, he began to wonder something to himself. What would happen if Scourge used all those emeralds? Would it destroy Mobius? Would this be the crisis Silver and Blaze were wondering about that destroyed the future? If so, could it be stopped? Sonic had no idea but he couldn't take his chances. He had to stop Scourge before he went overboard with Chaos Energy.

Meanwhile, Scourge and the Chaos Clusters all appeared on Angel Island around the Master Emerald shrine. One hundred shiny clusters of Chaos Emeralds all lay around the shrine in a big circle, all sparkling like the stars in space. Fiona, who had been warped up onto the island by Scourge already, stared at the Chaos Clusters and she couldn't believe her eyes at the sight of all these clusters all out of the cavern and around the Master Emerald shrine. Scourge stepped up the Master Emerald shrine and stood on top of the Master Emerald. He looked very pleased with himself and he looked like he was ready to enjoy this.

"Wow Scourge, you got all the clusters!" cried Fiona "That Chaos Control really works doesn't it?"

"Works perfectly with a big P Fiona." said Scourge with a maniacal grin on his face "I now have all the clusters and I'm gonna use all their power and the Master Emerald's power. I have no idea where the Chaos Emeralds are but it doesn't matter. These will be enough anyway. Now let's see what happens when I do this…"

Scourge then tensed himself up and began to think about going super. The Master Emerald glowed very brightly and all the Chaos Clusters began to glow in unison with the Master Emerald. Scourge found himself being surrounded by a phenomenal light and the emeralds all began to flash in a dazzling manner. It was almost as if Scourge was turning himself into a light show. Just as Scourge was beginning to power up though, Sonic and friends all appeared on Angel Island and they were met with a terrible sight. Scourge was using the Master Emerald's power and the Chaos Cluster's power all at once to power himself up. A fusion of Chaos Power was commencing because of this. Sonic and Knuckles both shared horrified gasps, Sonic because Scourge had beaten them to it and Knuckles because he knew what was happening.

"Oh no! I can't be too late!" cried Sonic "No! Scourge beat us to it!"

"It's just as I feared!" screamed Knuckles "Scourge is using a Chaos Fusion! He's fusing the power of the Master Emerald and the Chaos Clusters all together to make one! He'll become a Chaos Powered god with all that power!"

Fortunately, Knuckles was wrong. Just as Scourge began to feel himself turning super, the Master Emerald suddenly shattered under him and he was thrown off the shrine by an invisible force. Scourge crashed onto the ground at Sonic's feet and he groaned heavily. Then something else happen. Two strange colourful clouds of sparkling energy began to trial out of Sonic and Scourge's bodies and towards the fusion of Chaos Power. The entity was sapping them dry of their Chaos Energy, bringing them back to their normal selves! After a minute or so, Sonic and Scourge were drained dry of their Chaos Energy and the entity finished with them. But it didn't stop there. The Chaos Clusters were all dragged into this swirling dervish of Chaos Energy and reduced to fragments that vanished within the fusing power. Everybody watched on in awe as something began to happen from the remains of the Master Emerald. Out from the remains rose a giant watery serpent like creature. The creature was colossal and it looked reptilian like. It had many tentacles that grew from the base of the creature. It's back had a lot of spikes that went down it's back and it had a fin on it's head containing something organic looking that was presumably the creature's brain. It's mouth extended far beyond it's eyes and was full of razor sharp teeth. It had green reptilian eyes and was blue in colour. It looked like it was made up of water, an aqueous life form to be exact and it's upper body had a more solid look then the rest, presumably made of compressed water. This creature was none like any anyone had seen before and it looked like an absolute nightmare. The Chaos Energy spirals all vaporized into thin air, leaving only the creature behind. Everybody stared at this water creature, wondering what on Mobius it was. The creature glowered down at it's victims and roared a deafening screechy roar that could terrify even the bravest of souls. Thunder boomed and lightening flashed through the sky, making the creature look incredibly scary at one point. Rain sprinkled down over it but being as it was made of water, it just absorbed the drops as if it was eating the rain as it hammered down on the ground and anyone out in it. The creature stopped roaring and communicated to the Mobians via a telepathic link to their heads so they could understand what it was saying. In their minds, the creature spoke in an ominous, booming voice that seemed fitting for a creature this size.

"I AM CHAOS, THE GOD OF DESTRUCTION!" it boomed "I HAVE BEEN SEALED IN THE MASTER EMERALD FOR AN ETERNITY AND NOW I AM FREE! THANKS TO THE POWER OF THE CLUSTERS, I AM NOW AT THE PERFECT STAGE! SO ALL LIVING BEINGS SHALL TREMBLE UNDER THE TERROR OF PERFECT CHAOS!"

Ohmigod! Ohmigod! Ohmigod! OH MY F*ING GOD! PERFECT CHAOS? WHAT'S HE DOING HERE AND HOW DOES HE FIT INTO ALL THIS? All the answers, including the origin of the clusters await you in the next and final part to this epic saga! Reviews are welcome.

P.S. Bet you didn't see THAT coming! Porthos being Cream's dad! Well since nobody can be bothered to give Cream a dad, I thought I'd give her one. After all, I care more about character development then even Ian Flynn does.

P.P.S I loved your review PROJECT 1-21-18-9-1-19. I'm glad you're enjoying it so much. Just out of interest, what are your top ten favourite chapters so far? Please answer if you can. :)

I reuploaded this chapter because as ChristianSoldier5 pointed out, I made a bit of a goof with Porthos' back story so I altered it to be more realistic and believable. Is this any better?

Emeralds Part 4

Story 93: Emeralds Part 4: Chaos Rising

Angel Island, a floating landmark and one of the most famous sights on Mobius was now in grave danger along with everybody on it. Scourge the Hedgehog, Sonic the Hedgehog's evil brother and would-be-world conqueror, had attempted to use a Chaos Fusion, using the power of the hundred Chaos Clusters found in the caverns and the Master Emerald but things had gone horribly wrong. The Master Emerald shattered to pieces and a huge aqueous monster emerged from the remains and it looked like it was ready to destroy everything in it's path. The creature called itself Perfect Chaos and it looked none to friendly to say the least. Sonic and his friends Tails, Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cosmo, Cream, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie, Ruben, Shadow and Cream's recently discovered father Porthos all stared at the giant behemoth that loomed before them. Scourge and his girlfriend Fiona didn't know what to think about this. Was this creature going to fit into their plans perfectly or should Scourge be sorry he woke it up. Perfect Chaos screeched a loud roar that echoed through the rainy skies like thunder.

"Scourge! What have you done?" shrieked Sonic.

"I…I dunno! I didn't plan for…this to happen!" cried Scourge "What the hell's going on around here?"

"I don't know either." said Knuckles "But I'm gonna find out!"

He then stepped forward and yelled at Perfect Chaos, the enormous creature looming above the Mobians with it's immense height.

"Hey! Chaos!" he bellowed "Who are you and where did you come from?"

Perfect Chaos lowered his huge head and glowered at Knuckles with his green reptilian eyes. The creature scowled at him at first but he answered him anyway.

"I AM CHAOS, THE GOD OF DESTRUCTION GUARDIAN." he boomed, whenever he spoke, his mouth didn't move as his roars were being translated to English for the Mobians via a telepathic link he was using so they could understand him "I AM AS OLD AS TIME ITSELF AND I COME FROM THE SEEDS OF THE VERY CHAOS ENERGY THAT MAKES THE CHAOS EMERALDS WHAT THEY ARE."

"What do you mean?" asked Shade, stepping up beside Knuckles and joining in on the conversation.

"BACK IN THE BEGINNING OF MOBIUS' TIME, THE CHAOS EMERALDS EXISTED." explained Perfect Chaos "LYING BURIED IN THE GROUND FOR CENTURIES. I WAS ONLY CHAOS ENERGY AT THE TIME. THEN THE FIRST ECHIDNA GUARDIANS DUG UP ALL THE SEVENTY THOUSAND CHAOS EMERALDS THAT EXISTED AND TRIED TO USE THEIR POWER. THEY WERE INEXPERIENCED THOUGH AS THIS WAS THE FIRST TIME THE CHAOS EMERALDS HAD EVER BEEN USED SO SOMETHING WENT TERRIBLY WRONG AND I WAS FORMED FROM THAT CATASTROPHE. THE CHAOS ENERGY FUSED TOGETHER POORLY AND THE ENERGY ENDED UP FORMING INTO ME. NOW I AM A CHAOS ENTITY WITH A PASSION FOR DESTRUCTION AND I WILL NOT ALLOW MYSELF TO BE HALTED BY YET ANOTHER ECHIDNA GUARDIAN!"

He snarled menacingly at Knuckles, baring his sharp white teeth as he did so. Knuckles and Shade leaped back in surprise but they didn't show much signs of fear at him. Sonic then stood forward and decided to ask the giant serpent like water creature something.

"OK, what do you mean by "Halted by yet another echidna guardian"?" asked Sonic "What happened when you were first created?"

"I RAMPAGED ACROSS THE GLOBE, DESTROYING IN MY PATH." continued Perfect Chaos, his eyes narrowing down at the hedgehog "I CAUSED FLOODS, TIDAL WAVES AND WRECKED ALL THE CIVILIZATIONS I CAME ACROSS. THEN THE FIRST ECHIDNA GUARDIANS DISCOVERED THE LARGEST OF THE CHAOS EMERALDS WHICH YOU NOW KNOW AS…THE MASTER EMERALD. THEY SEALED ME WITHIN THE GEM WITH A CHAOS CHANT THEY FORMED THEMSELVES AND I'VE REMAINED TRAPPED IN HERE SINCE."

"Huh, how's that for embarrassment?" snickered Sonic "Chaos, the big, powerful, almighty god of destruction got beaten by a bunch of echidnas who were learning how to use the Chaos Emeralds properly. You oughta be ashamed of yourself Chaos."

"Sonic, don't taunt the damn thing! Do you want to get us all killed?" shrieked Wilson.

"Do I even have to answer that one?" muttered Sonic.

"Hey Chaos, I have a question." said Tails, flying up to the creature and facing it face to face "Where did the Chaos Clusters come from? Knuckles' dad fused all the Chaos Emeralds into seven, or so he says."

Perfect Chaos stared at Tails for a moment as if he asked him something stupid like "Do jellyfish have fingers and toes?" and then he opened his enormous jaws and bellowed with laughter. Tails freaked out and he flew back down to the ground in terror double-quick, fearing Perfect Chaos was going to do something to him. Perfect Chaos stopped laughing and he looked back down at the Mobians. His huge jaws strangely curled up into a sinister smile.

"SUCH POOR, MISGUIDED, DECEIVED FOOLS!" he cackled "THE CHAOS EMERALDS WERE NEVER FUSED TOGETHER TO MAKE ONLY SEVEN! THIS IS THE TRUE STORY AND I SHOULD KNOW BECAUSE DESPITE BEING TRAPPED IN THE MASTER EMERALD, I HAVE CONNECTIONS TO THE OTHER EMERALDS AND COULD SEE AND HEAR WHAT WAS GOING ON WHILE I WAS IMPRISONED: THE GUARDIAN KNOWN AS LOCKE WONDERED IF THE CHAOS EMERALDS COULD BE FUSED TOGETHER TO MAKE GREATER POWER. A TEAM OF SCIENTISTS UNDER HIS WATCH BEGAN TO EXPERIMENT WITH THE GEMS AND THEN SOMEHOW, THEY MANAGED TO FUSE A HUNDRED EMERALDS TOGETHER AND MAKE A CLUSTER OF EMERALDS. LOCKE LIKED THE IDEA SO HE HAD ALL BUT SEVEN CHAOS EMERALDS FUSED TOGETHER TO MAKE MORE CLUSTERS. HE LEFT ONLY SEVEN OUT OF THIS BECAUSE HE DIDN'T WANT TO GET RID OF A VALUABLE PIECE OF ECHIDNA HISTORY. AFTER THE FUSION PROCESS, THEY HAD A HUNDRED CHAOS CLUSTERS AND THEY ABUSED THE POWER THEY POSESSED. THEY ENDED UP LAYING WASTE TO ANGEL ISLAND AFTER LOSING CONTROL OVER THE CLUSTERS AND LOCKE WAS SO ASHAMED OF HIMSELF, HE ORDERED THE CLUSTERS TO BE HIDDEN FOREVER AND THAT THE NEXT GENERATION OF ECHIDNAS WOULD NOT BE TOLD THIS STORY AS HE WANTED TO HIDE HIS SHAME FOREVER. EVEN IMPERATOR IX REMAINED SILENT ABOUT THE WHOLE THING." he added with a sinister glance over to Shade as he knew Shade didn't know the true story about the Chaos Emeralds either.

Knuckles and Shade both stared at each other in shock at what they had just heard. Their fathers had lied to them? All their lives they had been told a false story about the Chaos Emeralds just so the echidnas before them could hide their shame? Knuckles didn't really know what to think about that one. Should he be mad at Locke for deceiving him or was Locke in the right to lie to everybody? Echidnas may be prideful and everything but prideful to the point of hiding their own shame when they messed up? Clearly there was more to the generation before Knuckles and Shade that they knew about!

"So you mean to tell me that the story of the Chaos Emeralds I've been told was all lies?" cried Knuckles.

"Lies told to us so that we would not learn of our superior's shame?" piped Shade "Why don't they want us to know their shame?"

"YOU ECHIDNAS ARE FAR TOO PRIDEFUL." explained Perfect Chaos "BEING RESPONSIBLE FOR BANEFUL ACTS IS TOO BIG A WOUND ON YOUR PRIDE AND LOCKE DIDN'T WANT YOU TO KNOW THAT HE WAS BEHIND THE DISASTER WITH THE CLUSTERS BECAUSE HE FEARED YOU WOULD ACCUSE HIM OF BEING A VILLIAN AND REFUSE TO ACCEPT HIM AS A FATHER, ALTHOUGHT MOST OF HIS SECRECY COMES FROM HIS PRIDE AND HOW HE WANTED TO LEAVE IT BEHIND HIM."

"Whoa, no offence to you red dude but your dad's a bit of a jerk isn't he?" asked Mandy, hoping dearly she wasn't offending the echidna.

"I'm beginning to agree with you Mandy." grumbled Knuckles "Keeping secrets from me just because he's too ashamed of himself for that mistake he made! And to think he's the man I looked up to as a kid! If he wasn't dead right now, I'd love to have a good word with my dad!"

"I'd love to do the same to your dad too." muttered Shade "I fell for his lies too when I was young and the Nocturnus and Ix used to live on Angel Island before we were banished. I used to think we echidnas were decent creatures but now, I'm not so sure after hearing a tale like this."

Porthos had taken this information in and thought to himself. He was learning so much about the echidnas and Chaos Emeralds today wasn't he? He did have a fondness for echidna tech and history after all so this was all interesting to him. As for Sonic, he decided to step in on this.

"OK, so the Chaos Emeralds weren't fused into seven, they were fused together to make the one hundred clusters there were before Chaos ate them and they were hidden in the cavern in order to hide the echidna's big goof up they had with them." said Sonic, making sure he'd understood everything correctly "Is that right?"

"Yes." growled Knuckles, still sore over the whole revelation.

"So now Chaos is free from the Master Emerald, what's it going to do now?" asked Shadow.

Even though he was talking to Knuckles, Perfect Chaos answered for him.

"I'M GOING TO LAY SEIGE TO THE PLANET." he boomed to the Mobians with a devilish, crocodile like smile on his reptilian face "I RECOMMEND ABANDONING THE PLANET AS THERE WILL BE NOTHING LEFT WHEN I'M FINISHED."

" WHAT? " screamed the Mobians in unison.

"Wait a minute! Wait you can't!" cried Tails.

"There are millions of lives on this planet!" protested Cosmo "You can't just destroy them!"

"I CAN AND I WILL YOU INSOLENT TERMITES!" roared Perfect Chaos "I AM CHAOS, YOU ARE VERMIN AND I WILL DESTROY EVERYTHING AND EVERYONE UNTIL THE WORLD IS AN ENDLESS OCEAN JUST FIT FOR A CHAOS GOD LIKE ME!"

With that said, Perfect Chaos turned away from the Mobians and he dived down from Angel Island and towards the ground below as if he was leaping into an ocean. Being as he was made of water, Perfect Chaos hit the ground and turned into a giant puddle that spanned the size of ten swimming pools and he reformed his terrifying shape once again. After doing so, Perfect Chaos roared as loud as he possibly could, his roars echoing through the terrain and thunder booming along with his roars, and he began to create a flood out of nowhere. He surrounded the plains with water and the water expanded on to the city of Downunda and beyond. If they didn't stop Perfect Chaos now, Mobius would be like the city of Atlantis, only worldwide. Sonic stared at Perfect Chaos and as he did so, a dreadful though crept into his head. Was Perfect Chaos responsible for the disaster in the future that Silver and Blaze were trying to prevent? If so then could it be stopped? If not then was this going to be the end of him and his friends? Sonic had no idea but he was determined to stop Perfect Chaos before he carried out his nefarious goals. As for Scourge, he stared in horror at what was going on and for the first time in his life, he felt regret and guilt. He wanted to conquer the world not destroy and now because of him, Mobius was going to become a memory of the past.

"Oh my gosh!" cried Scourge "Chaos is going to destroy the planet and it's all my fault! I didn't want to destroy the world, I wanted to rule it! How can I rule the world if it's destroyed?"

"You can't babe!" squealed Fiona as she watched Chaos turn the plains of Downunda into a new ocean "That's how!"

"Thanks for waking up the doomsday monster Scourge!" yelled Sonic crossly, smacking Scourge across the chops and knocking him over "Now allow me to put it back to sleep, permanently!"

"No Sonic!" yelled Scourge, picking himself up "I woke the beast up so I'll defeat it!"

"Nah ah, no way Scourge!" said Sonic sternly "You've brought this apocalypse upon us, I'm not gonna let you make things worse! I'll defeat Perfect Chaos!"

"You're too weak Sonic, I'm the strongest of you fools so I'LL defeat Perfect Chaos thank you!" snapped Scourge "And that's final!"

"If you two can't be bothered to stop bickering, I'LL defeat this accursed monster!" yelled Shadow, leaping off of Angel Island and spin-dashing towards Perfect Chaos.

Sonic and Scourge stopped arguing with each other and they watched as Shadow hurled towards Perfect Chaos. He spin-dashed Perfect Chaos directly in the neck but being as he was made of water, he went straight through him and he didn't hurt him. Perfect Chaos roared at him and he smacked Shadow away with his tentacle. Shadow hurled through the air and landed with a splash in the water around Perfect Chaos. Shadow, like Sonic, couldn't swim but he didn't need to. He used his jet shoes to rocket himself up and out of the water and now he hovered above the water's surface. Shadow skated across the water on his jet shoes and he began throwing Chaos Spears at Perfect Chaos as desperately as he could. The Chaos Spears just went straight through Perfect Chaos without even hurting him. Perfect Chaos opened his enormous jaws and fired clusters of pink energy balls out of his mouth. The energy balls sailed towards Shadow but Shadow dodged the attacks, the pink energy balls splashing into the water as they missed him, sending water hurling everywhere. Thunder boomed and lightening flashed behind Perfect Chaos as Shadow headed towards him. The rain hammered vigorously in his face but Shadow didn't let that stop him. He leaped up into the air and spin-dashed Chaos in the face. The face area was more solid then the rest of him so Shadow actually did hit him proper this time but an attack like that only made Perfect Chaos growl in annoyance more then anything. Perfect Chaos smacked Shadow in the back with his tentacle and sent him hurling towards the water again. But just to add insult to injury, Perfect Chaos smacked him back up into the air with another tentacle. Perfect Chaos had many tentacles to play with after all so he could smack Shadow around as much as he liked. He smacked Shadow towards another one of his tentacles and then he threw Shadow back onto Angel Island where he crashed into the Master Emerald shrine. He crashed into the shrine so hard that he left a heavy dent in the stonework and he made the pieces of the Master Emerald judder slightly. Shadow groaned in pain and he picked himself up, rubbing his sore face.

"Hey Shads, you OK?" asked Sonic, helping him back up.

"My face feels like it's going to shatter like glass but other then that, I'm good." muttered Shadow "That thing is immense! You can't even hurt it! It's made of water, you just go straight through it! It's head is actually solid but even attacking it's head doesn't work! It's surrounded by water so there's no safe place to stand when you fight against it! This fight is going to be the fight of our lives!"

"I'll say it is!" cried Sonic "I hate water, I hate getting wet and I can't swim so I'll fare no good against that thing! However, I'm gonna try as hard as I can! I'm not letting Perfect Chaos turn Mobius into a water world!"

"Maybe I can help." said Ruben "I'm a water panther and I have the ability to control water. Maybe I can fight the creature with it's own water."

"Yeah but how's water gonna stop something that's already made of water?" asked Sonic "Isn't that like trying to fight fire literally with fire?"

"It is but I can be a great distraction for it." explained Ruben "I'll use it's water against it to give you a chance to launch a good blow on it."

"If all else fails then we should use the Chaos Emeralds and go super." said Sonic "Me and Shadow in our super forms will defeat it."

"Make that you, Shadow AND me!" put in Scourge "I'm joining in with this conflict! I'm not going to destroy the very world I strive to rule!"

"OK then Scourgey Wourgey, we'll play nicely for now." said Sonic "This truce is on up until Perfect Chaos's defeat and then we can dance all we like."

"I like that blue." said Scourge "Now let's go and stop that thing already!"

"Knuckles, you get the Chaos Emeralds ready for us to use." ordered Sonic "Me, Shadow and Scourge are gonna tussle with Perfect Chaos with Ruben providing distractions."

Knuckles did as he was told and he ran off to fetch the Chaos Emeralds from their hidden tomb. As for the three hedgehogs, they all spin-dashed towards Perfect Chaos, who was continuing to expand his watery wasteland. Perfect Chaos was then suddenly showered with spin-dashes by Sonic, Shadow and Scourge, the three hedgehogs hitting him in several places all over his body. Perfect Chaos just took the blows as if they were nothing. The blows seemed to be annoying him more then hurting him. Perfect Chaos roared in an irritated manner and he walloped the three hedgehogs with his tentacles. Sonic, Scourge and Shadow all hurled backwards like thrown stones but Ruben swan-dived into the ocean Chaos was creating and using his powers, he managed to move the water away and make a patch of dry land for the hedgehogs to land on. Sonic, Shadow and Scourge landed on the dry patch Ruben had just made and Sonic gave him a thumbs up.

"Thanks Ruben." said Sonic.

"I hate to say it, but nice powers kid." said Scourge "We don't have to worry about drowning now."

"I'm in agreement." said Shadow with a smile that wasn't really readable.

"Thank you." said Ruben "You're all welcome. It's an honour to fight alongside you. Sonic more then you and Scourge though Shadow but that's beside the point."

"I know what you mean." said Shadow, remembering the times where he was falsely their enemy when he should be their ally* "Now let's take this beast down once and for all!"

He, Sonic and Scourge leaped out of the dry patch Ruben had made and they spin-dashed towards Perfect Chaos again. Perfect Chaos saw Ruben moving his water out of the way and he sent a wave sweeping over Ruben. Ruben saw the wave coming and he propelled himself up into the air with a powerful jet of water, causing the wave to miss him. Ruben pointed his hands at Perfect Chaos and he squirted him in the eyes, blinding the serpent like chaos being briefly and giving the hedgehogs a good opportunity to attack him. Sonic spin-dashed Perfect Chaos in the head but the attack didn't seem to do any harm to him. Perfect Chaos regained his vision and he began firing energy bullets from the spikes on its back. The bullets rained over his surroundings and some aimed at the attacking hedgehogs. Perfect Chaos was more likely to hit himself as the hedgehogs were too fast for him to tag but Perfect Chaos was not going to hurt himself as he was made of water. One energy bullet however managed to hit Scourge and the green hedgehog found himself falling down to the waters below. Perfect Chaos however added insult to injury by whacking Scourge with his tentacle. Scourge hurled across the battlefield and he was about to land into the water with a splash but Ruben caught him by summoning a wave up from the waters that caught Scourge like a baseball. As much as he was reluctant to save Scourge, he knew that the heroes could do with all the heavy hitters they could get and Scourge was on their side for once so he had to help him too. Scourge picked himself up and he spin-dashed towards Perfect Chaos again. Perfect Chaos whacked Scourge away with his tentacle once again, sending Scourge hurling towards the water again but Shadow caught him and hovered above the water with his hover skates. Perfect Chaos growled angrily at them and he fired a bunch of pink energy balls at the two hedgehogs. Shadow sped out of the way, leaving the balls to splash into the water instead. Ruben dipped his hands in the water and concentrated very hard on the water around him. All water panthers had the ability to manipulate and control the water and bend it to their whims and that was exactly what Ruben was doing now.

"Oh mighty water, I am in need of your help." he chanted to himself "I summon you to aid me in this battle. I summon you to help vanquish the forces of evil and bring good back to the land!"

As he chanted this, a huge wave of water began to raise up from where he was and it expanded up and up to the size of Perfect Chaos. Sonic skated down Perfect Chaos's tentacle and he watched what Ruben was doing. He was amazed to see the little water panther making a wave so big. He whistled in an impressed manner at him.

"Suh-weet!" he blurted "When you're surrounded by water, you become a force to be reckoned with!"

Ruben continued to concentrate on the wave he was building up out of the water. Perfect Chaos turned his huge head to one side and saw the wave Ruben was building up. Seeing someone trying to use his own water against him made the Chaos being livid with rage. Ruben smirked at Chaos and he threw the wave at him. Perfect Chaos however, had complete control over the water like Ruben did so he just told the wave to break and the wave shrunk back down into the water. Ruben stared in horror at his failed attack.

"Oh no! He can control the water too!" cried Ruben in dismay "Well let's just see who has the better control over it then!"

He dipped his hands back into the water and he summoned a whirlpool out of nowhere. The whirlpool was just a vain attempt to suck Perfect Chaos in and spin him around a good bit which would hopefully dizzy him and make him a bit sloppy when it came to attacking and leave him open for Sonic and friends. But Perfect Chaos just took control of the whirlpool himself and expanded it upwards into a water tornado. Perfect Chaos was a hundred times stronger then Ruben as he was pure Chaos Energy in water form and he was in his perfect stage, making him at his strongest so Ruben would not win this water war with him at all. Ruben could only stare in defeat at Perfect Chaos as he used his own weapon against him. The water tornado spun through the waters and it picked Ruben up in its fast swirling force. Ruben was whisked out of the water and spun around and around in the water tornado. Ruben tried to stop the water tornado but Perfect Chaos's control over it was too strong for the poor water panther. Perfect Chaos then brought the tornado over to himself so that it could pick up the hedgehogs as well. Perfect Chaos dipped down into the water, leaving the attacking hedgehogs to fall for a moment and then get swept away into the spinning water tornado. Sonic, Shadow, Scourge and Ruben were all whirled around and around at an amazing speed by the menacing water tornado and Perfect Chaos just watched them with eerily sadistic fashion, clearly enjoying this little water ride he was giving the heroes right now. After a while of spinning them around, he threw the heroes out of the tornado and into the water with a splash. The tornado then vanished into thin air and the water returned to normal. He watched the waters, waiting to see if the heroes were going to show up at all. Ruben emerged from underneath the water and he gasped for breath. He then used his water powers to raise Sonic, Shadow and Scourge out of the water so they could get their breath back. Sonic, Scourge and Shadow emerged from under the water and to the surface for fresh air thanks to Ruben raising them out. They were lying on a water board that Ruben was making to keep them above it. The hedgehogs picked themselves up and they shook themselves dry, not that it was necessary as they were just going to get wet again. Sonic picked himself up and he stared grimly at Perfect Chaos. That creature was one tough beast wasn't he? Nevertheless, Sonic didn't know the meaning of the words "Give up." so he decided to carry on with this fight. Sonic curled up into a blue spiky ball and he rocketed towards Perfect Chaos. He spin-dashed him in the snout but the attack didn't even tickle him. Shadow added insult to injury by throwing Chaos Spears at Perfect Chaos but even those attack were in vain. The Chaos Spears just went straight through Perfect Chaos's aqueous body and any that hit him on the head just ricocheted off of it. Perfect Chaos blasted Shadow with an energy ball and Shadow was thrown into the water. Scourge leaped off of Ruben's water board so Ruben could save Shadow. Ruben rose Shadow out of the water again while Scourge spin-dashed Perfect Chaos in the head. The attack only made Chaos grumble in annoyance. Scourge then somersault through the air and sailed back down to the ground. He positioned himself as he fell back down and he skated across one of Perfect Chaos's tentacles. He skated across the tentacle and then right up Perfect Chaos's body. He rocketed straight up into the air and he curled up into a green spiky ball. He spin-dashed straight down and he ploughed through Perfect Chaos's cranium and came out through his lower jaw. That attack seemed to make Perfect Chaos wince in pain but Scourge couldn't really tell from his position. he landed back in the water but he moved his feet at supersonic speed so he could run across the water and stay above surface. As for Ruben, he had noticed Scourge seemed to hurt Chaos by attacking him through the cranium so he decided to aim for that. He summoned some huge water torpedoes from the waters and he threw them at Perfect Chaos. Perfect Chaos just took control of the torpedoes and made them dissolve into drops of water. Perfect Chaos then poured salt on the wound by summoning a wave and sending it rushing over Ruben. Poor Ruben was swept away by the wave. Perfect Chaos then stretched out one of his tentacles and he flicked Ruben in the air with it. Ruben rocketed straight up into the air, screaming at the top of his lungs as he flew up and then he fell back down. Perfect Chaos smiled eerily at him and he walloped Ruben with his tentacle. Ruben was stricken by the giant tentacle and he hurtled back onto Angel Island and straight past the Master Emerald shrine. He landed rather sharply on the ground and he grimaced in pain. Cosmo was quick to run over to him and kneel down by his side as she was a good friend of Ruben's and Ruben fancied her despite the fact she was with Tails.

"Ruben! Are you OK?" asked Cosmo worriedly "Are you hurt? Please get up."

She began to shake the pained water panther gently. Ruben grunted in pain and the water panther picked himself up. He rubbed his throbbing arms and back and he gritted his teeth in pain.

"As mother always said…never fight someone with better water powers then you." muttered Ruben.

"Ruben, you're OK." said Cosmo delightedly "You're one brave water panther to face that thing. You've done the best you can out there."

"Yeah, but it's not enough." said Ruben grimly "Perfect Chaos is stronger then I am, my powers aren't enough. His control over water is better then mine."

"Well at least you can actually FIGHT that thing along with the hedgehogs!" shrieked Fiona "We can't! We haven't got the right kind of power to face that thing!"

"I'll say." muttered Geoffrey "Any attack launched on it goes straight through it so Knuckles, Shade, Bunnie, Wilson, Amy and my weapons won't work on it, Mandy, Cream, Cosmo and Fiona haven't even got any weapons to fight that thing with so Sonic, Scourge and Shadow are all we've got. Knuckles is getting the Chaos Emeralds so the hedgehogs can use them to go super if they need to."

"And if their super form can't beat Chaos then what in the hoo-hah can?" shrieked Bunnie "We'll be in more trouble then a tied up cattle in a cattle farm if they can't stop it!"

"Precisely." muttered Geoffrey as he watched Perfect Chaos smack the hedgehogs around with his tentacles again.

Sonic, Scourge and Shadow got fed up of feebly spin-dashing Perfect Chaos so they ran away from the huge monster and thought on other possibilities. They needed to change tactics and fast or Perfect Chaos was going to win. As Sonic sped across the water's surface and ran rings around Perfect Chaos, he began to wonder how they could possibly hurt an aqueous being. Perfect Chaos watched the running hedgehogs and he tried to whack them with his tentacles as they ran past him. But Sonic, Shadow and Scourge were way too fast for him so he missed every shot. Sonic jumped over a tentacle, skated across another one and then ran back across the water's surface, looking for a possible weak spot on Perfect Chaos. Then Sonic noticed Chaos's brain that was stored in the fin on his head. Sonic didn't know what it was but being as it was the only organic and solid looking thing on his body, Sonic had the idea that hitting that would hurt the creature.

"Hey Scourge! Shadow!" he called over to the hedgehogs "I've got an idea! Hit that organic looking thing in the fin on Chaos's head if you can! That looks like a weak spot!"

"Got it." said Shadow.

"OK blue." said Scourge.

The three hedgehogs stopped running around like headless chickens and they spin-dashed towards Perfect Chaos's brain. Perfect Chaos saw them coming but he didn't know that they were heading for his brain. The three hedgehogs hurled into his head and they hit his brain. Perfect Chaos screamed in pain and he bellowed a roaring bellow of agony as they hit his weak spot. The moment they did so, his body structure seemed to weaken and almost dissolve away into the water. The hedgehogs hurled out from the back of Perfect Chaos's head and they zoomed across the water in order to stay above water. They noticed Perfect Chaos was screaming roaring screams of pain. That meant they'd found Chaos's weak point.

"Ha, ha! We've found it's weak spot!" cried Sonic "Let's keep hitting it and see if that stops him!"

"You don't have to tell me twice wimp!" cackled Scourge, eagerly spin-dashing towards Perfect Chaos again.

Perfect Chaos however ducked, causing Scourge to miss and he walloped him with his tentacle, sending the green hedgehog hurling back onto Angel Island. Shadow threw a Chaos Spear at Chaos's brain but the spears narrowly missed it as Perfect Chaos's head shifted. Perfect Chaos fired a pink ball of energy at Shadow. The ball hit Shadow and he was sent hurling across the oceanic battlefield. Perfect Chaos then grabbed him with a tentacle and he threw Shadow back onto Angel Island. Sonic was the only one left now. Sonic ran up Perfect Chaos's back and he headed for the fin on Perfect Chaos's head. Perfect Chaos however, began firing energy bullets out from the spikes on his back and he aimed at Sonic. The bullets hit Sonic and he was sent hurling over Perfect Chaos's head. Perfect Chaos caught him with his tentacle and he threw him over onto Angel Island. The creature bellowed a loud roar that sounded a bit like a laugh at the same time with triumph. In order to save himself further onslaughts, Perfect Chaos decided to unleash it's ultimate attack. A huge energy beam that fired from his mouth. This beam could destroy a battle station in one blast so Angel Island would be obliterated. Luckily for the Mobians, he needed to power this attack up so they had chance to get off but Angel Island wouldn't survive the attack. Perfect Chaos opened his mouth and his energy beam began to build up inside his mouth. As for the hedgehogs, they picked themselves up and they all groaned a chorus of pained groans.

"Man! That thing's tough!" grunted Sonic "We've found it's weak spot but it's still too tough for us!"

"That thing just doesn't wanna die does it?" grumbled Scourge "It's more stubborn then you wuss!"

Sonic glared at Scourge but he said nothing.

"Where's Knuckles with those Chaos Emeralds already?" moaned Shadow crossly "We need to go super now!"

"You were right to say now Shadow because Perfect Chaos is gearing up for another attack!" shrieked Tails "It's preparing to fire something out of his mouth!"

Everybody stared at Perfect Chaos as his energy beam began to build up in the back of his throat and prepared to fire. Sonic could sense that this attack was going to be bad, very, very bad. And not just very, very bad, very, island obliterating bad. If Knuckles didn't hurry up then Mobius would lose a famous landmark. Luckily though, it didn't seem that they'd be waiting for the Chaos Emeralds any longer. Knuckles finally showed up with the seven Chaos Emeralds in hand and he threw them over to the three hedgehogs.

"Here are the Chaos Emeralds!" he cried "Now listen to me because this is our best plan of success: when you turn super, do what you can to subdue it and then open a Chaos Portal. Once you've done that, Chaos Control it into the portal and close it. That way we'll be rid of Chaos for good."

"Good idea Knuckie but where do you want the portal to lead to?" asked Sonic.

"The void." said Knuckles "Chaos can be Imperator Ix's headache now."

"And Dr. Eggman Nega's too." added Sonic "OK guys, let's do it to it!"

With that said, Sonic, Shadow and Scourge all stood around one another and they willed for the Chaos Emeralds to turn them super just as Perfect Chaos's ultimate attack was finishing building up. The Chaos Emeralds circled around the hedgehogs at top speed and they spun faster and faster until they became a colourful blur surrounding the trio of hedgehogs. Their bodies began to glow brightly as the Chaos Emeralds became a blur around them. Perfect Chaos's attack finished building up and he fired his energy beam towards Angel Island. However, the Chaos Emeralds formed a protective barrier around Angel Island as he fired and the barrier blocked his incredible attack. Everybody shielded their eyes from the sheer brightness of the energy beam making contact with the Chaos Barrier. Perfect Chaos stopped what he was doing and he stared in surprise at Angel Island. The Chaos Emeralds had finished circling around and they disappeared into thin air. Sonic, Shadow and Scourge were all in their super forms now. Super Sonic with his radiant golden fur, Super Shadow with his bright lemon-yellow fur and Super Scourge with his malevolent purple fur and black and red eyes. Perfect Chaos was so shocked at the sight of super forms on Angel Island he thought he was going to dissolve into a puddle. His reptilian eyes widened in surprise. Super Sonic, Super Shadow and Super Scourge all smirked at Perfect Chaos evilly as they felt the Chaos Energy from the Chaos Emeralds flow through their veins.

With that said, Super Sonic, Super Shadow and Super Scourge all charged towards Perfect Chaos at a blinding speed. Perfect Chaos fired some pink energy balls and some energy bullets at the super hedgehogs but being as they were invincible, they ploughed straight through the attacks as if they were nothing at all. Perfect Chaos however, was not going down so easily. He walloped the three super hedgehogs with his tentacles and knocked them down into the waters. They weren't down for long though, they emerged from the waters and they charged towards Perfect Chaos again. Perfect Chaos tried to whack them with his tentacles again but the super hedgehogs just spin-dashed them in two as he tried to hit them. Desperate to save himself, Perfect Chaos ducked down into the water, leaving them to zoom over his head and as they zoomed over, he remerged from the waters and snapped his jaws at them, making the super hedgehogs quickly zip out of the way before they could get chomped to bits. Perfect Chaos growled in annoyance and he threw a tidal wave over Super Sonic, Super Shadow and Super Scourge. The super hedgehogs ploughed through the wave and they charged towards Perfect Chaos's head mounted fin. The super hedgehogs all charged straight into Perfect Chaos's head and they attacked his brain. They began to spin-dash him and super charged him all over his body and brain, making the giant serpent like creature bellow in pain. Its screeching roars indicated it's agony heavily as he was being bombarded over and over by the super hedgehogs. Perfect Chaos couldn't fight back with three super hedgehogs bombarding him relentlessly all over his body and hitting his weak point at the same time. Perfect Chaos wailed in pain and he sunk down into the waters he created. The supers had beaten him back at long last and Super Sonic decided to initiate the next part of Knuckles's plan.

"OK guys, time for a Chaos Control." said Super Sonic, raising his hands ready to perform the move "We're sending this thing to the void!"

"Let's do it on the count of three." said Super Shadow, raising his hands ready.

"One…two…three!" cried Super Scourge, raising his hands ready as well.

"Chaos…CONTROL!" the three hedgehogs all cried out in unison.

As they yelled that, a bright flash of energy appeared from nowhere and a Chaos Portal opened up in midair. The portal led directly to the void, the current residence of the insidious Imperator Ix and the inter-dimensional villain Dr. Eggman Nega. Now the void was going to be home to Perfect Chaos. The super hedgehogs performed another Chaos Control, this time, on Perfect Chaos himself. There was no way of getting Perfect Chaos through the portal so they had to warp him into the portal. Perfect Chaos glowed brightly like a million Chaos Emeralds and then he, and the water he created, vanished into thin air. The super hedgehogs could briefly see Perfect Chaos's face through the portal as he appeared inside it, meaning he was now in the void. Perfect Chaos had been defeated at long last and now he was no longer a threat to Mobius or life anywhere else. Now the deed had been done, Super Sonic closed the portal up, trapping Perfect Chaos in the void for good. The supers all hovered back over to Angel Island and they powered down, reverting back to their normal selves once again. The rain stopped, the clouds drifted away and the bright, warm sunlight returned to Downunda once again. The moment their super forms disappeared, the others greeted them with cheers and cries of joy.

"Hooray! You three marvellous hedgehogs did it!" squealed Mandy, squeezing Sonic into a bear hug that could rival Amy's bear hugs "You defeated Perfect Chaos!"

"You've saved the whole world from the Chaos God of Destruction!" cheered Wilson "Well done you three!"

"I knew you could do it!" cried Tails "And you did! Chaos is now stuck in the void for good!"

"You honour us all with your heroism and bravery!" cheered Ruben.

"You did it Scourge!" cheered Fiona "I'm reluctant to cheer for Sonic and Shadow but as they were on our side, I'll congratulate them too."

"Now that is strange coming out of you luv." snickered Geoffrey "Congratulating the good guys as well. Pity we can't expect it more often. Hee, hee, hee!"

Fiona ignored the skunk's remark.

"Well guys and gals, that was cathartic as heck but we made it." said Sonic, wiping his forehead "Perfect Chaos is now gonna spend an eternity in the void and Mobius can sleep happily tonight. Now Scourge." he said, pointing to his evil brother "Care to finish this off between us? Me and Shadow would love to fight with you right now."

"Nah, I've had enough for one day." said Scourge "Besides, you helped me undo my mistake so as a way of saying thanks, I'm gonna go and rest up for a while. But don't think I'm staying off the villain thing, I'll be back and I'll make Mobius mine at long last."

"And I shall be waiting for you." said Sonic casually "See ya around Scourge."

With that said, Scourge scooped Fiona up into his arms and he jumped off of Angel Island. He landed on the ground down below and he zoomed off into the distance to go into hiding until his next nefarious encounter with Sonic and friends. The moment Scourge disappeared over the horizon, Amy spoke up to Sonic.

"Do you think that was wise Sonic?" she asked "Letting Scourge go like that?"

"Probably not but he helped us beat Chaos so I owe him one just this once." said Sonic "Besides, the next time we face, I'll wipe the floor with him, believe me I will."

"Ha, ha! I know you will Sonic!" laughed Tails.

Sonic laughed with him and he playfully ruffled the fox's fur on his head. As for Shadow, he stepped towards Sonic and the genetic experiment with the mystery past spoke to him. Sonic faced Shadow as he spoke to him.

"I'll be going too blue hedgehog." said Shadow "I've still got answers as to who I am to find and now the threat has been dealt with, I can search peacefully now."

"OK Shadow." said Sonic "See ya around and thanks for your help."

Shadow just gave Sonic a snide but friendly smirk and he leaped off of Angel Island. He landed on the ground down below and he activated his jet shoes. He skated off into the distance and continued his ongoing mission of finding out his true origins. Sonic and friends watched as Shadow the Hedgehog sped away into the distance and they all waved him goodbye. Shadow skated off and disappeared over the horizon, heading goodness knows where for now. The moment Shadow left, Sonic turned around and cupped his hands around one another.

"OK, now Chaos has been beaten and Scourge has bugged off for a while now, there's two more matters to deal with right now." said Sonic.

"What matters are those then?" asked Knuckles unsurely.

"You and Shade will have to find a way to fix the Master Emerald now Scourge broke it." said Sonic, noting that the Master Emerald was now in pieces thanks to Scourge waking up Chaos from his prison with that disastrous Chaos Fusion that started this whole mess in the first place.

"Don't worry about the island falling Sonic if that's your concern." said Knuckles "Even in pieces, the Master Emerald's power lives on, Angel Island will stay afloat. However, I'm not living a valuable relic from Angel Island lay in pieces. Shade, me and you are gonna fix this thing."

"Yes guardian." said Shade.

The two echidnas stepped up the Master Emerald shrine and to the Master Emerald pieces. The pieces all glittered like stars on the shrine before them. Knuckles and Shade held hands with one another and they looked into each other's eyes. They both nodded at each other as if to say "Ready" and they held their arms out.

"Chaos…REGENERATION!" they cried at the top of their voices.

As they yelled that, the Master Emerald's pieces all glowed very brightly and became white instead of green. Then the pieces levitated off the ground slightly and they began to spiral around one another. The pieces began to circle around at a lightening fast speed and they kept this up until they became nothing more then white, glowing blurs. Then the pieces edged towards each other and began building the familiar shape that is the Master Emerald before the Mobian's very eyes. The pieces all fused back together and the Master Emerald was fixed. It glowed its malevolent green glow once again and it lowered back down onto the shrine. The Master Emerald was repaired and Angel Island was back to normal. Knuckles and Shade lowered their arms and they panted a little.

"We…we did it." puffed Knuckles "The Master Emerald is fixed."

"The only difference now is if it breaks again, we won't have to worry about Chaos waking up." said Shade "He's stuck in the void now and the Master Emerald is no longer a prison for him."

"Yeah." said Knuckles "I think I can see why dad and the echidnas before us told us that fake story about the Chaos Emeralds. The clusters were hidden to not only hide their shame, but probably to prevent Chaos from being awakened as Scourge tried to use the Master Emerald and the Chaos Clusters and he ended up freeing him. While I'm not pleased I've been living on lies all my life, it was for the better."

"Yes, it was for the better." said Shade "Although this makes me wonder if Ix knew about this as well, why didn't he attempt to wake Chaos up? He wanted to destroy Angel Island and Chaos could have done that easily for him."

"You know Ix, he's an "I can do everything myself" kind of guy, he would never rely on a beast to do his dirty work." said Knuckles "He's way too full of himself to succumb to that level."

"Yes, he is." said Shade "Ix was a very arrogant echidna after all."

"He was." said Knuckles "So Sonic, what's the other matter that needs dealing with?"

"Seeing if Cream's dad wants to go back to her mother." replied Sonic, looking over at Porthos.

The smartly dressed rabbit looked nervous. Six years of being absent from Vanilla's life and he was going to meet her again, mostly for Cream though. Would the reunion go well or was it going to end really badly for him…?

A while later, Sonic took Cream and Porthos over to Cream's new home in Knothole. Vanilla had decided to move there so Cream and Amy could remain close as they were great friends now. Porthos looked at Vanilla's new home and hummed in an impressed manner to himself.

"So Vanilla moved from Stardom Village to here?" he said "I must say, she hasn't picked a bad little village has she? Knothole's glorious."

"I know it is father." said Cream "Me and mother moved here so I can remain close to Miss Rose, she's my best friend after all."

"I never would have guessed you and the pink hedgehog were such good friends Cream." said Porthos "When did you two first meet?"

"We met during a time Dr. Eggman captured mother and I came to her looking for help." explained Cream.

"She was looking for me at the time and Amy took her to me." added Sonic "I offered to help save Vanilla but she got roboticized before we could save her. Thankfully, we managed to restore her freewill* and we de-roboticized her at last so she's back to normal Porty."

"Thank heavens for that!" cried Porthos "I can't even think to imagine what it would be like if Vanilla was still a robot now! Well Cream, do you think I can do this?" he asked nervously.

"Of course you can." said Cream supportively "I'm sure mother will forgive you for leaving her. Mother is a very forgiving person."

"I know she is." said Porthos.

He still looked somewhat not ready for this yet. He pulled on his collar and he adjusted his specs. Cream opened the door and let herself into the house. She then cooed out to Vanilla.

"Mother, there's someone who wants to see you." she said.

Porthos glanced over at Sonic as if he was like saying to him "Oh god, help me!" Sonic just gave him an expression that suggested he was saying "Go on, you can do it." Porthos took that lightly and he thought to himself that he could do this. Cream scampered back out of the house with Vanilla following her, wondering what her daughter had to show her. The moment she stepped out of the house, her eyes caught sight of Porthos and she stared at him in astonishment. Porthos just stared shyly back at her, pleased to see that despite the fact he hadn't seen her for a while, Vanilla still looked beautiful to him. Vanilla stepped up to Porthos, her eyes staring straight into his as if she was in some kind of trance and his eyes were the cause of it. She reached out a hand and she lightly touched Porthos' face with her fingers.

"P-P-Porthos?" she blurted aloud after a minute of stunned silence "I-I-Is…is it r-really you?"

"It is Vanilla." said Porthos, taking Vanilla's hand in his own "I'm alive and I'm back at last."

That was all Vanilla needed to hear. The rabbit in the dress threw her arms around Porthos and she grasped him tightly in a hug. Her eyes filled with tears, happy tears that is. Cream watched this moment with delight, pleased to see this was already going so well. It was nice to see her parents back together at long last after so many years apart.

"Oh my goodness, it's you!" cried Vanilla "What happened to you? All my friends and I thought you were dead!"

"I'll explain everything later dear." said Porthos, stroking Vanilla's ears "Right now, I'm enjoying the moment too much."

"It's so good to see you again though Porthos." said Vanilla as she warmly embraced her husband "Now Cream can have the dad I longed for her to have. However did you find him Cream?"

Cream didn't know what to say or how to tell Vanilla the story so Sonic stepped in for her.

"No worries Vanilla, the hedgehog can explain everything…" said Sonic reassuringly, earning an interested expression from Vanilla...

As touching as this reunion was and as refreshing as it is to know that the danger is over, that didn't mean everything was all butterflies and rainbows now. In fact, an old danger might just return.

Perfect Chaos may have turned the clusters into Chaos Energy and absorbed them, but tiny little fragments remained of them. There were twenty fragments of Chaos Clusters left and they were all lying around on the ground beneath Angel Island. That wasn't the problem though, the problem was that Dr. Eggman's new servant bot, the sleek, slender and sadistic Katherine, had found them. She'd picked up their energy signatures again and investigated the area to see what she could find. And what she found were fragments of the Chaos Clusters that were left after the Chaos Fusion. Katherine picked one of the fragments up and observed it. The cluster was brimming with Chaos Energy and there were twenty of them lying around. These fragments were going to be useful for the Eggman Empire, very useful indeed. Just imagine how much power the Egg-Fleet (which hasn't been destroyed yet, only the flagship has remember?) was going to have if she equipped the fleet with the fragments! And maybe Katherine could use them for more then just a power supply, maybe she could restore Eggman's lost sanity at long last. If she could do that then Sonic's arch-enemy and Mobius' biggest villain would be back to cause trouble and freedom for Mobians anywhere was going to diminish once again…

WHOA! SONIC, SHADOW AND SCOURGE VS. PERFECT

CHAOS? I THINK MY BRAIN JUST EXPLODED FROM PURE CONCENTRATED EPICNESS! Oh well, the emeralds arc is over now but this story isn't! Oh no! Far, FAR from it! Especially as Eggman's return looks imminent! What's gonna happen next? Join me next time as Sonic and Amy investigate some "Cold Chills". Before that though, let's tune into Tales from Mobius where the mysterious super spy Sora Sumdac ends up going head to head with a certain reptilian group we know too well... Read and Review.

Hey Kratos Pwns, Chaos Kai X, Thomas Homles II, Numbuh 006, MetaGalleom and writingisawesome24, just for the fun of it, can any of you guys give me YOUR top ten best chapters of Heroes of Mobius? As for you PROJECT 1-21-18-9-1-19 can you list your top ten favourite OCs (original characters) in this story? It"l be much appreciated if you can! :)

Cold Chills

Story 94: Cold Chills

"Gosh! I knew White Acropolis was gonna be cold but not THIS cold!" moaned Sonic the Hedgehog as he trudged grumpily though the thick snow of the White Acropolis mountains.

"Of course it's gonna be cold Sonic! It's White Acropolis, what did you think the weather was gonna be like?" snapped his self-proclaimed girlfriend Amy Rose the Hedgehog.

A whole month had passed since the Region of Rebellious Reptile's attack on Castle Acorn* and the new year had arrived. It was now the year 2143 but Sonic and Amy weren't spending their time celebrating the new year, they were going on a mission in White Acropolis that had been assigned to them by the Council of Acorn. White Acropolis was, as it's name suggested, completely white. That was because they were huge mountains that stretched up into the clouds and it was always snowy there. Never on Mobius would you find a place snowier then White Acropolis although Holoska was colder then White Acropolis. There was a village in White Acropolis and a few trees here and there and the villagers had been complaining about surreal and strange goings on in the village so Sonic and Amy had been sent there to find out what was happening as no one else was available. Sonic had put on a woolly coat with a fur tipped hood and a long green and red scarf that trailed behind him in the snow. Amy was wearing a thick brown coat with a fur tipped hood and she had her hood raised right now. The hood kept her ears nice and warm and the coat protected her mostly from the cold. Sonic's coat appeared to be keeping him warm too although he was still feeling the cold around his sneakers as he hadn't put on any thick footwear to keep his feet warm. Regardless, no snowstorm was going to keep Sonic down so he continued trudging through the snowy wastelands of White Acropolis. The chilling wind bit at their noses as it blew past them. Sonic rubbed his nose as he felt it beginning to run and he pulled his hood closer over his head.

"White Acropolis: Snowiest place on Mobius. Officially listed in the record books as such." muttered Sonic "And we get sent here to investigate some odd goings on at the village. I'm amazed there's any civilization here at all! I guess some Mobians like the cold."

"Some Mobians do like the cold my handsome hero." said Amy "That's why there's people who live in places like Holoska and White Acropolis. As for the village, I wonder what is it that's getting the villagers so worked up? Is Dr. Eggman picking on them now?"

"Well Dr. Eggman fits the "surreal and strange" quota but he's been around for too long to be labelled as "strange goings on"." thought Sonic aloud "Not to mention a place this cold might not be so good for the ol' Eggman robots. This must be something else. And we're gonna find out what it is."

"Whoever it is that's bothering the villagers had better watch out!" cried Amy "Cause they're gonna get a thrashing courtesy of me, Amy Rose, Royal Fighter and Sonic's biggest fan and love interest!"

"Please don't yell that out loud Amy." muttered Sonic "It's embarrassing."

"Sorry." said Amy quickly, putting her hands behind her back and blushing scarlet. If she blushed anymore, she'd start melting the snow around her.

"OK Amy, do you still have the map for the village in this snowy wasteland?" asked Sonic, keeping his hood drooped slightly over his eyes.

"I do indeed sweetie." said Amy, fishing the map out of her pocket and unfolding it "The village should be to the northwest of our current position according to this. We shouldn't be much longer now."

"Good." said Sonic "I'm looking forward to having a little sit down in a nice warm house! This cold's getting to me! If the snow wasn't so deep I'd be running through this thing at top speed! At supersonic speed, even the cold can't keep up with me."

"I'm pretty sure the cold can't keep up with you." said Amy "Now let's keep going before we end up becoming part of the scenery shall we?"

"Be my guest Amy." snickered Sonic "I'm the one that's wanting to get warm again after all."

Amy laughed at Sonic's remark and the two continued to trudge through the deep snow of this barren snow topia up in the mountains. As the hedgehogs headed off to the northwest of their current position to the village, Amy spotted something further down the mountain. The thing looked like a white hedgehog in an ice blue robe and it appeared to be building a rather eerie looking snowman. Strange, Amy thought as she looked at the hedgehog. This hedgehog looked…familiar to her…familiar…in a bad way…but why? Then something went click in Amy's head and she began to see a memory in her head from several years ago when she was only six…

The helpless little child that is Amy Rose could only kneel down on the icy floors cuddling herself and shivering like mad in the sheer cold of the room she was now trapped in. She had been stripped completely of her clothes, leaving her naked and shivering on the floors of this icy room she was in. The fact she was naked made her even colder, so cold in fact Amy could practically feel herself beginning to freeze over already. Why was she here? Who had taken her here and what did the kidnapper want with her? She would soon find the answers to those questions as a sinister shape began to ascend from the icy floors and become a solid entity. The thing was a slender bodied, white hedgehog with snow and ice powers. Her fur was as white as snow and she had icy blue stripes and markings on her long, drooping, wavy quills that flowed like natural hair instead of hedgehog quills. She had thirteen quills on her head and none on her back. She wore an icy blue robe with a golden piece under her neck that slightly stuck out over her shoulders. The tips of her long sleeves were dark blue in colour and there was a dark blue image on the hem with blue spheres representing snow drops. She had light blue eye-shadow and she wore a silver belt with a glowing blue gem in the middle. Her fingernails were long and sharp, almost like claws and her eyes were as cold as the ice itself. Amy stared at the hedgehog and shivered with fear as well as from the cold now. She looked like a witch from a child's nightmare and Amy didn't like her straight away. The hedgehog glowered at her with her icy blue eyes and she placed a hand as cold as a blizzard on her head, making her even colder.

" How's this then little Amy Rose?" purred the hedgehog, her voice was rough, deep and raspy sounding, making her sound rather scary "Too cold? Aw…poor sweet child…perhaps I should make it even…colder…"

Amy could only stare helplessly at the ice cold hedgehog that stood over her with her hand pressed on her head. If only her mother was here now…

Amy's little vision was interrupted by the sound of Sonic's voice.

"Hey! Amy! What's keeping ya?" called Sonic "You're not frozen already are ya?"

Amy switched back to reality and she shook her head and blinked her eyes. She stopped staring at the white hedgehog down below and she turned around to face Sonic.

"I'm fine Sonic, I just blanked out for a moment. Sorry." said Amy, running up to him as fast as she possibly could in this thick blanket of snow that covered the mountain tops.

Sonic began to wonder what just made Amy randomly blank out like that. He then just waved it off, deducing that it was the cold that did it as the cold can sometimes have a strange effect on you. Amy caught up with Sonic and the two hedgehogs continued to trudge through the snow the best they possibly could. As for the white hedgehog, she'd heard Sonic and Amy's voice further up the mountain and she stopped building her snowman. She looked up at the ledges above and caught a brief glimpse of pink fur up on the ledge. The hedgehog's eyes narrowed down to slits of pure steel and she clenched her fists.

"It appears I have a Rose in my territory." she growled to herself in her rough, husky voice "And I have a feeling that this is a Rose I've plucked before."

With that said, she put her arms to the side and she melted down into the snow. It was a bit like shadow melding only she was melding into the snow. She vanished deep down into the thick, white blanket that covered the mountains of White Acropolis and she would reappear somewhere else in the mountain tops. And then she would have Amy once she reappeared…

An hour later, Sonic and Amy finally reached the village of White Acropolis. The village seemed to be mostly composed of log cabins and they all seemed to be strong enough to withstand the howling winds and snowstorms that frequently hit the mountain tops. They looked like warm and inviting places so this village was going to be a place worth visiting. Glad they'd found it at last, Sonic and Amy trudged heavily through the snow, trying their best not to let the deepness of it slow them down. The wind began to blow more fiercely and snow began to fall down again, some snowflakes actually hitting Sonic and Amy in the eyes and making them squint briefly to get the snow out. The weather in white acropolis was never pleasant, and when the winds did eventually die out, they never stayed silent for long, they were quick to pick up the pace again as was the falling snow that continued to blanket the place days on end. Sonic lowered his head so he couldn't get any more snow in his eyes and he continued heaving his way through the snow. The wind bit at him furiously but the hedgehog fought the chilliness of the weather and pressed on. Eggman robots couldn't bring him down, Marik the Martian couldn't bring him down and not even Scourge the Hedgehog, his own brother, could bring him down so the cold was not going to bring him down either. After a few hard minutes of trudging through snow as deep as a kid's swimming pool, they reached the village and headed to the first log cabin they came across.

"Does it really matter who we visit here?" asked Amy.

"Well since the whole village is up in arms over these so-called "surreal-and-strange goings on" I guess we can ask anybody here." said Sonic "Let's see what this guy knows then."

Sonic and Amy walked onto the porch of the log cabin and Sonic knocked on the door. The door opened a crack and a nervous voice rang out from behind it.

"If you're that crazy ice witch lady then go away!" squealed the voice "I have nothing of your possession!"

Sonic and Amy stared at each other in wonder. What on Mobius was that guy talking about? Crazy ice with lady? Maybe this was what they were looking for? The whole "crazy ice witch lady" seemed familiar to Amy though but she tried to make it look like she had no idea what the cabin owner was talking about in order to avoid any awkward expressions from Sonic. Sonic and Amy looked back at the door and Sonic cleared his throat.

"Ahem, look sir, we're not crazy ice witch ladies." said Sonic "I'm Sonic the Hedgehog and this is Amy Rose, my biggest fan but don't mock it will ya? We're here to sort out this village's "surreal and strange goings on" problem."

The door opened even more and a head poked out through it and observed Sonic and Amy from head to toe. The owner of this cabin was a Mobian snow leopard with icy blue spots all over his snow white fur. He was wearing a blue smoking gown and he had a look of worry on his face that suggested he'd seen plenty of the so-called "surreal and strange goings on" in the snowy mountaintops. The snow leopard looked relived to be seeing actual Mobians on his door step and he opened the door fully.

"Oh thank goodness!" cried the snow leopard "I was afraid that witch was back! Instead, I get two hedgehogs hoping to sort out the village's problem! Come in you two."

He stood to the side and invited Sonic and Amy into his cabin. Sonic and Amy walked in and wiped their feet on the door mat to get the snow off and the snow leopard led them over to a large sofa covered in deer fur that was nice, thick and comfy to sit in as well as warm and inviting. The whole cabin was nice and warm and it looked very homey and inviting to anyone who walked into it. There was a cheerful, burning fire on the fireplace that lit the room up nicely. Sonic and Amy sat down on the sofa in front of the glorious fire, relieved to be in a warm place at last. The snow leopard closed the door to shut out the howling wind outside, wondered over to the two hedgehogs and he sat on a chair beside the sofa that, like the sofa, was covered in deer fur and had antlers sticking up behind it. His face looked more relaxed now he had good company in his humble home.

"Welcome to my home Sonic and Amy." said the snow leopard "I'm amazed that I have the world famous Sonic and his girlfriend in my presence, today must be my lucky day."

"You got that right spotty." said Sonic "And by the way, Amy's not my girlfriend, we're just…friends."

Amy fumed at Sonic crossly and she folded her arms. Someday, that hedgehog was going to accept her as his girlfriend whether he liked it or not! Sonic ignored her, he felt it was best to do this as an angry Amy wasn't a nice thing to look at.

"I beg your pardon." said the snow leopard, clearing his throat "My name is Rama the Snow Leopard by the way. I'm just a local resident of White Acropolis like all snow leopards are."

"Yeah, this place and Holoska are the only places we can find snow leopards around." said Sonic "So, Rama, what's going on around here then?"

"We've heard complaints of "surreal and strange goings on" here." said Amy "What might they be then?"

"Something completely out of the norm." said Rama grimly, clasping his hands together and staring at his fire "White Acropolis has been a nice peaceful village for many years but now somebody's creeping through the village and disturbing everybody's peace and fun."

"Creeping around the village eh?" said Sonic "That sounds pretty freaky. Who is this "creeper" then?"

"A white hedgehog in icy blue robes with ice blue markings on her quills." said Rama shakily "She looks like a witch and she has strange powers."

That made Amy stare hard at the snow leopard in horror. White hedgehog in icy blue robes with ice blue markings on her quills? This definitely sounded familiar to her. In fact, she'd definitely met this person before! She remembered it all to well. She continued to listen to Rama to see what else he had to say.

"That hedgehog is not Mobian." said Rama "She's a witch from another world. Her powers are unnatural, and I mean unnatural as ice powers are no natural powers amongst us Mobians."

"What kind of powers does this hedgehog have?" asked Sonic.

"She can manipulate the snow and ice and make it do what she likes such as grow hands out the ground and make icicles appear out the ground." explained Rama "She can also dissolve into the snow and reappear at will anywhere in the snow. She can also create snowstorms and ice showers and use them to deadly effect. It's demonic and freakish, powers like that cannot possibly exist, even amongst us snow dwellers and it's scary that she stalks the village constantly ruining our lives…"

All this was giving Amy another bad vision from childhood. She switched off and stared into space as she remembered an encounter with this ice hedgehog Rama spoke of…

Little Amy Rose trudged through the freshly fallen snow as she walked home happily from a long, hard day at school. Now school was over, she could make the most of the snow and have as much fun as she wishes. Building snowmen, making igloos and having snowball fights with her school friends. Oh how she loved the snow when it came! She was glad that it didn't happen all the time though as the snow would get pretty darn boring and miserable after a while. Like they all say "make the most of what you've got when you've got it" and Amy planned to make the most of the snow while it had fallen. Unfortunately, Amy's fun was not going to begin for as she skipped past a row of dustbins, a pair of female hands with long, sharp, ice blue fingernails suddenly appeared out from underneath the snow and they grasped Amy's ankles and tripped her up. Amy fell down on her stomach into the snow and the hands began to pull her down into the snow covered ground. Amy gripped the snow and tried to stop the thing from pulling her but the hands were too strong. They began to pull her down under the snow. Amy screamed in terror and began crying for help.

" Mommy! Help!" squealed Amy.

But it was no use. Amy was too far away from her home for her mother to hear her. She was in trouble now with no one to help her. The thing finished pulled her down beneath the snow and Amy suddenly found herself in the middle of an underground room made completely of ice. It was as if she'd just been pulled down into an icy underground lair. Amy picked herself up and turned around to face her kidnapper. The kidnapper was a white hedgehog with many quills and ice blue robes. The look in her eyes was colder then the ice itself and Amy began to shiver at the sight of her.

" Wh-wh-wh-who a-a-a-are y-y-y-you?" whimpered Amy, shivering in fear.

" I, dear Amy Rose, am Blizzard the Hedgehog." answered the hedgehog "And you are going to be here with me for a while."

She then grabbed Amy's coat and tore it open, revealing Amy's school uniform underneath. She ripped the coat off Amy and tossed it across the room carelessly. She flashed Amy a pure, heartless, sadistic grin as she grabbed her jumper and prepared to tear it off of her…

"Hey Amy. What's up?" asked Sonic, nudging her slightly and snapping her out of her train of thoughts "You look a million miles away."

"Huh? Wha…what?" asked Amy, shaking her head and snapping back into reality.

"You blanked out for a minute Ames." said Sonic "Is there something wrong?"

"No Sonic, I'm fine really." said Amy "I'm just…remembering happy winter moments from my preteen years that's all."

"Huh, you hate the cold and yet you remember enjoying it." murmured Sonic "Although winters in Knothole are nowhere near as cold as White Acropolis."

"Yeah." said Amy "So Rama, what were you saying a minute ago?"

"I said, the reason the ice witch keeps creeping around the village from time to time is because she's looking for something." explained Rama "She's looking for some kind of gem that attaches to her belt. She claims the gem gives her the ability to freeze people and summon ice weapons out of her hands. Without it, she can't freeze anything and she's more snow then ice power wise."

"How did she lose it?" asked Amy.

"Well she claims a snowstorm stole it and she's wondering if anybody here's found it." said Rama "I have however…"

He paused as he reached into his pocket and pulled out an icicle shaped gem that was ice blue in colour and felt cold to the touch. He showed Sonic and Amy the gem. The two hedgehogs stared at it and Amy's eyes widened in alarm as she recognized that gem. She'd seen it on the ice hedgehog's belt the time she was kidnapped by her and now Rama had it in his possession.

"…I was mesmerized by the beauty of this thing." said Rama "So I decided to keep it. I didn't dare give it back to that witch as she can't possibly be wanting it for good if she wants to freeze people. The witch has gone all around the village only to find out no one has it and yet she still comes around looking for it, wondering if anyone's found it yet. We want that witch to go away and leave us alone as we're sick of being disturbed by her. She's creepy and eerie and we want her gone."

"Well if you want her gone then maybe you should give her what she wants." suggested Sonic "Maybe this so-called ice hedgehog witch isn't that bad a person and will probably be happier when she gets what she wants…"

"No! You can't let her have it!" exclaimed Amy suddenly "You just can't!"

Sonic and Rama stared at Amy in surprise, wondering why she'd just suddenly blurted out at them like that. Was there something about this witch she knew or something?

"Why not Amy?" asked Sonic "Is there something you know about this ice witch person?"

"There…there is actually…" said Amy, looking down at her feet "I didn't wanna talk about it but I guess I'm gonna have to now."

"You know the witch?" blurted Rama "Please tell me about her and what you know!"

"OK." said Amy "It's not a happy story though."

"Don't worry, I'm man enough." said Sonic snidely "So what do you know about this witch then?"

Before Amy could so much as breathe a word out of her mouth though, an onslaught of icicles shot through the window, shattering it to pieces and embedding themselves into the wall. The pieces of glass littered the floor and the howling winds outside put Rama's fire out, turning the log cabin from warm to cold in a millisecond and everybody leaped up in surprise. The ice hedgehog had come by Rama's cabin and had been watching them through the window and she was mad to see that Rama had her gem so she launched that attack to grab some attention. After that attack, Sonic leaped out of the broken window and prepared to confront the witch. However, as he leaped through the window and landed on the snow outside, the witch was nowhere to be seen. She'd just…vanished into thin air as if she was never there! Sonic stood up and looked around wondering where the witch had suddenly disappeared to.

"Huh? She's gone." said Sonic "Why did she just break a window and then dash off? Something ain't right here…"

"Sonic! Look out!" cried Amy, pointing at his feet.

Sonic turned around and looked down at his feet just as a pair of hands reached up and closed around his ankles. Sonic yelped as the sheer coldness of the hands shot up his legs and made him shiver and he was pulled down onto his stomach. Sonic gripped the snow and tried to stop himself from being pulled down into the snow. Amy leaped out of the cabin window and ran over to Sonic. She grabbed Sonic's arms desperately and pulled on them. She tried to tug Sonic out of the hand's grasp but they were too strong and her attempts were only feebly slowing down Sonic's descent into the snow.

"Amy! Forget about me!" cried Sonic "Run and get outta here! I'll fight my way outta this!"

"No Sonic! I'm not letting Blizzard get you like she got me eight years ago!" grunted Amy, pulling harder on Sonic's arms.

"Wait what?" blurted Sonic.

Amy had no time to explain as she was trying her hardest to pull Sonic out of the grasp of the hands that were pulling him down into the thick blanket of snow. As hard as she tried, her efforts were futile and soon the hands completely pulled Sonic out of Amy's grasp and down under the snow. Sonic disappeared from sight as he was pulled down underneath the blanket of snow and the snow reformed itself, making itself look like nothing had happened. Amy picked herself up and wailed loudly.

"No! No, no, no, no!" she cried "Blizzard's gotten Sonic! That witch is gonna do something terrible to him, I know she is! I've gotta stop that witch before she gets her icy hands on him!"

Rama stuck his head out of the window and wondered what Amy was talking about.

"Amy, what's going on?" asked Rama "Where's Sonic gone?"

"Blizzard has pulled him under the snow and I'm going to get him out of there!" Amy called back to him "And nothing is gonna stop me!"

She then proceeded to furiously dig into the snow at the very spot Sonic was pulled down into. Rama could only watch as Amy began digging in the snow. She began throwing chunks of snow over her shoulder as she dug into it, desperate to save her precious Sonic the Hedgehog. The hedgehog had gotten her like this eight years ago and she had had a pretty bad experience with the ice witch and she was not about to let Sonic suffer the same torture she'd had from that ice cold hedgehog…

Down under the snow, Sonic found himself in an underground lair made completely of ice. The ice glistened like diamonds and there were icicles sticking out of the ground and jutting out from the ceiling. There didn't seem to be much else other then ice walls, ice ceiling and icicles everywhere. Sonic began to shiver to himself. This ice lair was like being inside an iceberg, very cold and very slippy and icy.

"Brrr…it's colder underground then it is above ground!" shivered Sonic "Although how did I end up in a room made of ice when I got pulled under the snow?"

"Because I have made this lair with my own powers under the snow above ground little boy." growled a raspy, female voice that sounded very frightening and seemed to be coming from everywhere at once.

Sonic jumped and began looking around, wondering where the voice was coming from. He kept his serious face on and showed no signs of fear.

"Hey, who's there?" asked Sonic "Are you the one whose dragged me down here?"

"I am you little fool." came the husky voice again "And you will not see daylight again until you give me what I desire."

"Look, lady, I like to see my foes before making amends with them so show yourself!" ordered Sonic "I really hate villains who hide and make their voices sound like they're coming from everywhere at once! It's annoying!"

Just after Sonic yelled that, the found of footsteps came from a cave hole on the other side of the room. Sonic looked at the cave hole and prepared to do battle with whatever it was he was up against. The thing stepped out of the shadows and into the light of her lair, showing herself to Sonic. Sonic stared at his kidnapper and was amazed at what he was looking at. The person was a slender bodied, white hedgehog with white fur, icy blue stripes and markings on her long, drooping, wavy quills, icy blue robe with a dark blue image on the hem with blue spheres representing snow drops, a golden piece under her neck that slightly stuck out over her shoulders, light blue eye-shadow, a silver belt with a circular piece that should have a gem there only it was missing so it was plain. Her face contorted with loathing and she looked extremely grumpy and cold. Sonic kept his gaze fixed on the hedgehog and he prepared to spin-dash the living ice out of her.

"Who are you and what do you want with me?" demanded Sonic.

"I am Blizzard the Hedgehog." growled Blizzard crossly "And I want what belongs to me back you blue furred cretin. Give me what I want and I promise you'll leave this place without a speck of ice on your puny body."

"If I were to guess, you've got me because you think I have your little ice gem, is that right?" asked Sonic, lowering his arms and standing up straight.

"Yes." said Blizzard "I saw you, Amy and Rama together with it and I'll be so happy if you can give it back to me."

"OK Blizzie, let me get two things clear here." said Sonic, holding his hands out hastily "One, I don't have the gem. Rama still has it. Two, what do you want it for anyway? According to Rama, you can freeze things instantly with that gem. Isn't freezing people to death kind of, you know, evil?"

"Evil?" shouted Blizzard as if the word "evil" was extremely offensive to her "How dare you suggest such a disgraceful thing like that! I am not evil, I just want my powers at their best so I can be an ice witch once again. Once I have my gem, I'll leave this village alone and they can forget I ever existed."

"So that's why you keep picking on the village, you just want your gem back, is that it?" asked Sonic slowly.

"Yes you little fool." snarled Blizzard in a grouchy tone "Once I have it back, this village will never so me again as I harbour no interest at all in this puny little village above our heads."

"I see." said Sonic "So, if you're not evil then what do you do with your ice powers then?"

"Mostly for carving sculptures and making snowmen my boy." said Blizzard, walking closer to Sonic "And getting rid of any annoyances I encounter like that fat moron you're at war with."

"You mean Dr. Eggman?" said Sonic , staring into Blizzard's ice cold eyes "Does Dr. Eggman come around here at all?"

"I haven't met the fat moron himself but I've seen devices that look like his doing." explained Blizzard "They've taken it upon themselves to wreck my snow art and try to make a mess out of White Acropolis. They shortly freeze and dysfunction after a while though due to how cold it is and no Eggman robots have shown up since then."

"Aren't you the lucky one?" muttered Sonic "So Blizzard, if you let me outta this place, I'll get your gem back and give it to you but you must promise that you won't bother the people of the village and scare them with your creepy powers again or you won't get it back. Deal?"

"I've said already that the village is of no interest to me." snapped Blizzard "Return what is mine and you will never see me again."

"OK then." said Sonic "So…how do we get outta this joint?"

Before Blizzard could say anything though, the sound of something pounding against the ice above their heads. Sonic and Blizzard's heads shot up at the ceiling and they stared at the thing pounding the ice heavily. It looked vaguely like Amy and she was using her

Piko-Piko hammer to smash the ice. Amy had dug all the way through the snow only to find out that the entrance to Blizzard's lair had been sealed off by a thick sheet of ice so she summoned her trademark weapon to her hand and began smashing it. After a few heavy pounds, Amy broke through the ice and fell into Blizzard's lair. Ice rained down on the ground and Sonic and Blizzard stood back as Amy fell into the lair. She landed on her feet and stood before Blizzard in a battle ready stance. She had her hammer raised and ready and her face contorted with loathing. Blizzard's cold, evil face twisted into a very creepy, sinister grin at the mere sight of Amy standing before her all grown up from their last encounter (well, she's still a teen as she's only fourteen but you get what a mean).

"Amy Rose." she purred darkly "How wonderful it is to see your putrid, pink hide in the flesh again after eight years."

"Blizzard!" growled Amy, itching to hammer the ice witch's head in "You're still as ugly as you are the last time we met! Now you let Sonic go and I won't use your head for stress relief!"

"Do you seriously think I'm going to be intimidated by a big, meaty hammer?" sneered Blizzard "Hammers are silly little weapons that exist primarily to give immature little brats like you something to smash things with."

"I'll show you just how "silly" this hammer really is!" yelled Amy.

"Whoa! Whoa! Time out girls!" yelled Sonic hastily, making a time out sign with his hands, stopping the girls dead in their tracks "OK, how in the name of Mobotropolis do you know each other? Explanation please! The hedgehog's getting confused here!"

"We met each other eight years ago on a cold winter's day." explained Amy "I was only six at the time. Blizzard kidnapped me and dragged me down into her icy lair where she…she…did terrible things to me…

Ten whole minutes had passed since Blizzard had dragged Amy down under the snow and into her lair and poor Amy was getting colder and colder by the second. Not helped by the fact Blizzard had stripped her naked and left her kneeling on the floor shivering like crazy. The poor girl was slowly but surely, freezing to death down here. Blizzard stared at the shivering hedgehog as if seeing people cold brought her some sick satisfaction and she began circling around Amy slowly in a creepy manner.

" Do try to understand my child that this isn't personal." said Blizzard with a cold smile on her face that made Amy feel nervous "This is merely for revenge."

Amy tried to speak but she was too cold to even do that. Blizzard could gather what Amy was trying to say anyway so she spoke to her.

" I've had a bad time with your parents Amy." growled Blizzard, her face drooping into a horrible scowl "So bad a time that I killed one of them. You father Aramis Rose was killed at my hands and I wish to kill your mother, Donna Rose, next. I would explain why I hate your parents but you're too stupid to comprehend all this so I won't waste time giving you the necessary exposition."

Amy didn't appear to have any idea what Blizzard was talking about and Blizzard could see it on her face. The ice witch then flashed her a very witchy grin that could make even the bravest of kids faint with shock.

" Since I want to kill your mommy Amy, I've taken it upon myself to leave a message in the snow for her." explained Blizzard "I can manipulate the snow and do what I like with it, even write messages in it. On your house doorstep now, there'll be a message in the snow saying "Dear Donna, I, Blizzard, have your daughter and you must come to me alone if you wish to see her again. I am located near a row of dustbins three houses from where you are. Come and get her if you think you're brave enough!" and no doubt about it, she'll come here hoping to rescue her precious little Amy-kins."

She grabbed Amy's cheek and shook her face tauntingly. Blizzard's touch was as cold as ice.

" That's why I've kidnapped you, so you can lead Donna right to me." continued Blizzard "And the reason I've removed your clothing and left you shivering here is because I want to use you as stress relief. I rue anyone in the Rose family due to their horrid treatment of me, even the offspring and newborns so anyone in your family is my enemy Amy. You probably don't understand that do you?"

Amy shook her head. She did have no idea what Blizzard was talking about. Then suddenly, somebody broke through the ice ceiling above their heads and fell into the lair. It was Amy's mother, Donna Rose. Donna was a pink hedgehog in a policewoman's uniform as she was a policewoman and she looked furious to see her daughter cold and naked in Blizzard the Hedgehog's parlour. Blizzard's face curled into a devilish grin of pure concentrated evil.

" Ah, Donna. I guess you got my message then?" purred Blizzard wickedly.

" I have you ice powered piece of filth!" snarled Donna, whipping out a pistol and pointing it straight at Blizzard's head "You let Amy go now and I won't have to resort to murder!"

" Oh come on Donna, I murdered your husband so why don't you just shoot me now and avenge poor Aramis?" asked Blizzard tauntingly "Turnabout is Fair Play as they say…"

" I know, but two wrongs don't make a right." said Donna grimly "Put your hands up Blizzard, now!"

Eerily enough, Blizzard did as she was told. She raised her hands and stood there, not doing anything as Donna pointed her pistol at her. After Blizzard did that, Donna whipped a walkie talkie off her belt and spoke into it.

" Hello boys, this is Officer Donna here." she said "I've found Blizzard the Hedgehog and I'm gonna need some backup for this. We're near a row of dustbins at house no. 225 on Flynn St. and I've marked my position with a pink flag. Come as quick as you can. Oh and bring a nice thick blanket too. My daughter's…in a state of undress right now."

She switched off and put the walkie-talkie away. Blizzard's face contorted with rage. She lowered her arms and clenched her fists and teeth angrily.

" You treacherous pink slime ball!" roared Blizzard "I ordered you to come alone!"

" I did come alone, but you didn't say I couldn't call for backup." retorted Donna "Now put your hands back up or I'll shoot you!"

Blizzard ignored her. Instead, she melted down into the icy floors beneath her feet and disappeared from sight. Donna tried to shoot her before she could disappear but she was too late. The bullet ricocheted off the floor and embedded itself into the wall. Donna looked around desperately for Blizzard, wondering where the ice witch had gone to. Then suddenly, Blizzard reappeared from the floor just in front of Donna and she grabbed the pink officer hedgehog. Blizzard placed a hand over Donna's heart and a sharp icicle shot out of her hand and went straight through her chest. Donna gasped in pain as she felt the sharp icicle go through her and her head flopped back lifelessly. Her eyes closed and her breath gave away. Donna was dead. Amy stared in horror and tried to cry out in anguish but she was too cold to do so. Blizzard sheathed the icicle and left Donna to collapse lifelessly onto the floor. Amy was so horrified at what had just happened she began to wail and whimper like mad. Blizzard glowered at the snivelling child and decided to finish her off too.

" Since the cops are coming, I may as well just get rid of you and be off already." muttered Blizzard.

Amy stared in horror at Blizzard as the ice witch advanced on her menacingly, her eyes streaming with tears. But before she could so much as touch Amy, police officers broke in through the ceiling and they fell into Blizzard's lair. They all began rapidly firing their guns at her. Blizzard turned around and roared in annoyance at the shooting cops and she melted down into the ice in order to save herself. Not even an ice witch could take on so many cops at once, especially as they all had guns. Blizzard disappeared from view and fled for it in the ice. The cops all fumed angrily at their bad luck and they put their weapons away. One cop scooped up poor Amy and wrapped her up in the requested blanket Donna had asked for to cover her up and stop her from feeling cold anymore. Amy felt relieved to be wrapped up nice and warm at last but her poor mother was dead. The cops picked up Donna's dead body and they carried her out of the lair so they could throw a funeral for her. As Amy stared at Donna's dead body, she continued to sob uncontrollably in the officer's arms. Blizzard had killed her parents and now she was going to live her life on her own from now on…

"…and that's what happened." said Amy, choking back tears from that horrifying memory "Blizzard killed my mom just like she supposedly kill my dad. I was traumatized for a while and since that day, I grew to hate the cold. I stayed indoors every winter in fear of Blizzard coming to get me again and I always made sure I was warm all the time. I was raised by my grandparents and they helped me escape the ashes of that day and I moved on from then and became the happy hearted but sometimes bad tempered girl I am now. And now here I am face to face with that witch again and stopping her from getting rid of you like she got rid of my parents. Now I can make her pay for nearly scarring me for life that cold-hearted demon in hedgehog's clothing who takes great pleasure in murdering innocent people like my parents!"

Sonic had listened to Amy's story intently and he scowled at Blizzard, unable to believe he had been lied to all this time.

"So you ARE evil Blizzard!" yelled Sonic, pointing sharply at the ice witch "You lied to me! And to think I believed you for a second there! Well get ready for a supersonic spin-dash ice breath!"

"How dare you talk to me in that disapproving tone you little brat!" snarled Blizzard "I am NOT evil! I am just getting some well-deserved justice against those who loathe me that's all!"

"Oh yeah, real nice. And killing Amy's parents and traumatizing her for a while is getting justice huh? That doesn't sound evil in the slightest of ways!" snapped Sonic crossly "Now it's time for YOU to start spilling Blizzie! Why did you kill Amy's parents and why do you hate her family so much?"

Blizzard's face narrowed down into a scowl of pure hatred as she remembered the times with Amy's parents she'd had. Unpleasant times that is. She glowered at Sonic and Amy and then spoke.

"Since Amy is old enough to understand, I shall reveal my reasons for killing her parents as she was too young to understand before." said Blizzard slowly "I killed your parents because I hated them. They hated me too but my hatred for them was brought upon themselves. I did nothing to get them to hate me but they hated me anyway."

"Why?" asked Amy.

"Because your parents are stubborn, racist scrubs who have a hatred of anything unusual such as me." explained Blizzard "I am an ice witch as you already know and they considered my ice powers to be freakish and unnatural and because of this, they treated me like absolute garbage all because I was different! I became a member of the Council of Acorn along with Aramis, Amy's father, and he would not stop insulting me and getting on at me all the time. Every time I suggested something, he would always disagree with me and start scoffing at me. He and his stupid wife Donna, Amy's mother, just wouldn't stop being racist to me and they kept up the insults and pathetic bullying. One day at the council meeting, Aramis verbally insulted me in a very nasty way, nasty as in cursing and swearing at me, when I suggested something useful to the city and he then decided to splatter my robes with mud when no one was looking."

"You're lying Blizzard!" screamed Amy "My mom told me dad was a wonderful person! He'd never do anything like that!"

"How misguided and manipulated you are then if you believe such pretences!" snarled Blizzard "I speak the truth here and don't you dare disbelieve me just because I killed your parents! Donna lied to you about your father because she wanted you to hate me and feel that I'm the villain when really, it was their own fault this happened! Anyway, after that day I long to forget, I killed Aramis in front of the Council of Acorn by penetrating his hateful little heart with an icicle. He deserved that, that racist, scornful little thorn in my side was practically begging for it so I did it! I was then arrested by Donna and put into a cell. I just froze the door, shattered it and escaped of course and then came that day I met you Amy. I knew who you were and who's daughter you were after spying on your mother after you were born so six years later, I decided to take out my anger on you and freeze you to death just to get back at Donna for the insults and daring to arrest me. And then I killed Donna and decided to hide out here for a time until I made my next move."

Sonic was quite surprised to hear all this. Amy's dad was a jerk? Her mother was a jerk too and Blizzard killed them mainly because they were rotten to her? If you met Amy in person then you'd never expect her to have parents like THAT! Still…

"So you killed Amy's parents just because they were jerks to you?" asked Sonic "I know it's not nice to be bullied and they had no right to be a jerk to you because you were different but killing them was not the answer! You could have always resigned from the council and lived somewhere else! I mean, you could have lived here instead! White Acropolis is perfect for you and no one can be mean to you and therefore, everybody's happy so what you did Blizzard was even more wrong then what they did to you!"

"You are begging for a penetrated heart here you loathsome rat!" snarled Blizzard "You'd be wise not to speak to me like that! This is my domain and you are vulnerable here so unless you want to die, I'd drop that irksome attitude of yours Sonic!"

"Whatever." said Sonic "So Blizzard, what's your next move then when you've finally decided that hiding's not fun anymore?"

"As if I'm going to tell you that Sonic!" growled Blizzard "You'll find out soon enough. Now, you two get out of my lair and deliver me my ice gem and I promise you'll leave alive! I'm reluctant to spare you though Amy as you make me think of your loathsome parents so I'd take this opportunity while you have it!"

"We're not going to give you your gem back Blizzard!" screeched Amy "But I am gonna bash your brains out! This is for mom and dad!"

She yelled a loud battle cry and she ran up to Blizzard, preparing to hammer her into the ground. Blizzard just melted down into the ground and disappeared into the icy floors beneath their feet. Amy tried to stop herself but she skidded on the ice and slipped. She landed sharply on her back and she grimaced in pain. Blizzard remerged from the ice and she raised her hands.

"I may not be able to freeze you at a single touch or use my ice weapons Amy now my gem's gone," said Blizzard coldly "But my powers are still too much for you to handle. Brace yourself because this shower is going to hurt very badly…"

With that said, she thrust her arms forward and began throwing icicles at Amy. Amy picked herself up and she began hammering the icicles away with her Piko-Piko hammer. Amy charged through the ice shower, hammering the icicles away as she did so, and she leaped into the air. Blizzard summoned an icicle to her hand and she threw it straight at Amy's chest. Amy blocked the icicle with her hammer and she landed just in front of Blizzard. She hammered Blizzard once and then gave her an uppercut with the huge mallet. Blizzard spiralled through the air but she landed on the wall and clung to it like a spider. She roared fiercely at Amy and she leaped off the wall. She spun around in mid-air, becoming a whirlwind as she spun at a speed faster then Sonic, and she struck Amy. She sent the pink hedgehog hurling through the air and crashing directly into the wall. Amy screamed as pain flooded through her body and she clutched her back in pain. A tear of pain trickled down her face for a minute. Blizzard landed in front of Amy and she summoned some sharp icicles to her hands. She flashed Amy a terrible grin that made her look pretty fierce for a hedgehog. She prepared to impale Amy with the icicles but Sonic spin-dashed towards her. Blizzard threw the icicles at Sonic instead. The icicles were shattered instantly by Sonic's spin-dash but Blizzard had many tricks up her sleeve. She shrunk down into the ice, leaving Sonic to accidentally spin-dash Amy instead. Amy screamed loud enough to bring the icicles in the ceiling falling down.

"OW! Sonic, you just spin-dashed me!" wailed Amy.

"Sorry." said Sonic "Blizzard gave me the slip that's all. Where is she now…"

Just as he said that, Blizzard reappeared directly underneath him and sent him flying across the room into a wall. Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed towards Blizzard again but Blizzard summoned a wall of ice from the ground and shielded herself with it. Sonic spin-dashed the wall and bounced straight off of it.

"Ouch! Hey! Blizzard that's cheating!" yelled Sonic, skidding to a halt only to slip and fall onto his face due to the slippery ice "Using walls of ice to defend yourself like this!"

"As I've mentioned already, this is my domain hedgehog." growled Blizzard "I'm without limitations here. I can manipulate the snow and the ice to my whims and do as I please with it. If I wanted to, I could even start an avalanche but that won't be of much use to me in a room full of solid ice."

"Well if you're gonna cheat then I'll just do what I can." said Sonic "For Amy, for the villagers of White Acropolis, you are going down Blizzard!"

Sonic spin-dashed towards Blizzard again but Blizzard blocked his attack again with a wall of ice she summoned from the ground. Amy jumped in behind Blizzard and hammered Blizzard directly into the wall. Blizzard groaned in pain as her head sharply knocked against the solid wall of ice she had made. Blizzard turned around sharply and swatted Amy across the face with her hand. Amy fell onto her side and before she could get up, Blizzard summoned a long, thick stick of ice and it wrapped around Amy's body. It formed the shape of what looked like a clamp and it trapped Amy to the floor. She was completely stuck and unable to move now. Amy squirmed in the grasp of the ice clamp but she could not move. Blizzard summoned and icicle to her hand and she prepared to stab Amy in the neck with it but Sonic spin-dashed her directly in the back. Blizzard fell over Amy and she dropped the icicle. Sonic grabbed Blizzard's quills and he threw her face first into a wall. Blizzard groaned in excruciating pain. Despite being an ice witch, even she wasn't immune to how hard the ice was. Blizzard picked herself up and saw Sonic preparing to homing attack him. He charged towards Blizzard and aimed his feet at her but Blizzard swiped her arms forward and blew him away with a powerful gust of wind she summoned from nowhere. Sonic hurtled across the lair and he crashed into the wall. Blizzard then attempted to kill the subdued Amy yet again but Sonic threw a chunk of ice from the section of ceiling Amy broke through at her. The chunk struck Blizzard in the head and knocked her down onto her back. The attack left Blizzard with a thin cut above her eye and it began to bleed. Blizzard felt the cut and scowled at Sonic, clearly annoyed at the fact her beautiful white fur was now stained with blood. Sonic broke the ice-clamp trapping Amy to the floor with a spin-dash and Amy was able to stand back up again. Unfortunately, Blizzard had other ideas. She summoned a pair of giant hands made of ice right beneath them and the hands grabbed Sonic and Amy. Sonic and Amy were now trapped in the grasps of two giant ice hands. Blizzard cackled at them wickedly and she made the hands extend up from the floor and into the ceiling. Sonic and Amy's heads were facing the ceiling so when they smashed into the ceiling, poor Sonic and Amy ended up getting a right headache from that onslaught. Blizzard then made the hands slam Sonic and Amy onto the ground and the two hedgehogs ended up lying on the ground in pain and unable to stand back up. Blizzard cackled at the two hedgehogs and she stood before them.

"There you see? You cannot defeat me while you're in snow and ice territory." sneered Blizzard "I am unbeatable here and you two are fools to challenge me! Now, get to the surface and order Rama to give me my gem back and I won't have to kill you both."

"We won't give you your gem back!" retorted Amy "And you haven't beaten us yet! You're going down!"

With that said, Amy leaped onto her feet and she walloped Blizzard as hard as she possibly could. Blizzard hurtled through the air and she landed painfully on her side. She skidded across the floor and crashed straight into the wall head first. The impact of the crash seemed to knock her out cold. Amy ran over to Blizzard, being careful not to slip, and she knelt down beside Blizzard. She poked her in the cheek to see if she'd react to it. Blizzard didn't stir. Amy poked her again, a little harder. Blizzard still didn't stir. The attack she'd launched on her appeared to have knocked her clean out. How long she'd be knocked out was anyone's guess but Amy knew that they had to flee for it while they could or Blizzard was going to wake up very furious indeed.

"Blizzard's knocked out Sonic." said Amy "Let's get outta here."

"Fine by me." said Sonic "I can't stand it down here anymore. But what about Blizzard and the village of White Acropolis? Blizzard will just wake up and start harassing the villagers for her gem again."

"Wrong Sonic." said Amy "We're gonna take Blizzard's gem back to New Mobotropolis, destroy it and Rama will tell her that the gem's been lost and it's gone forever."

"I hope Blizzie Lizzie buys that." said Sonic "Or we will be making right chilli-sauce outta this. Come on Ames, let's scraper and make off with the gem already.

With that said, Sonic grabbed Amy's hand and he leaped out through the hole in the ceiling and out of Blizzard's ice lair. Unfortunately for him, just as he left, Blizzard came to and her eyes opened up slightly…

After leaving the ice lair, Sonic and Amy quick ran into Rama's house and took Blizzard's ice gem. They had explained that for the good of everybody, they were going to destroy Blizzard's gem so that she'd stop bothering the village and she wouldn't be too big a threat without it. With the gem destroyed, Blizzard would probably stop bothering everybody and remain in hiding permanently. Rama had decided that it would be better to get rid of them gem so he gave it Sonic and Amy. Amy stuffed it in her pocket and the two hedgehogs began trudging through the snow back home to New Mobotropolis.

"As much as I'd have loved to bring the knocked out Blizzard to a prison cell where she can rot," muttered Amy "It was probably better if we didn't because if Blizzard escaped then she'd end up being a threat to New Mobotropolis. She's bad enough as she is here, we can't have her messing up our home city."

"Especially as the newly rebuilt Mobotropolis is almost finished." said Sonic "We don't want Blizzard messing up the city as it's so close to being finished."

"Yeah." said Amy "By the way Sonic, do you wanna know why I never told you about my past before?"

"I do." said Sonic "Why did you never talk about your past before to anybody?"

"Because it was too sad and horrible for me to bring up." said Amy "I wanted to forget that horrible day and move on so whenever I brought up my parents, I'd talk about them as if they were alive just to make me feel better and less lonely. But I guess I can't keep pretending my parents are alive or I will never be able to move on without them. Maybe it was better if I talked to someone about my past so I wouldn't feel so self-contained and depressed all the time."

"Well after hearing what Blizzard did to you Amy, I am gonna make your life better." said Sonic kindly "I'm gonna treat you better then I did before and I'm gonna help you get out of the ashes of your tragedy. And if Blizzard ever tries to hurt you again, I'll hurt her back, for you Ames."

"You…you will?" asked Amy "Oh Sonic…thank you! I…I can't believe this! You're gonna do this for me?"

"Sure." said Sonic "I'm the kind who believes in making people's lives better and helping them get over their losses."

"Oh Sonic, no wonder I love you so much!" cried Amy, throwing her arms around Sonic and kissing him on the cheek, making Sonic blush redder then a rose bush.

"Amy!" cried Sonic playfully "Take it easy on the mushy will ya?"

"Sorry Sonic, I'm just so overwhelmed with joy now I can't help myself." said Amy "Thank you for caring and understanding about my past tragedy."

"No problem Amy." said Sonic.

Then suddenly, Blizzard stuck her hand out from under the snow and she grabbed Amy's foot in order to make her trip over. She knew that Amy had the gem after spying on the hedgehogs from under the snow. Amy tripped over and the gem, unbeknownst to her, fell out of her pocket and lay in the snow. Sonic helped Amy back onto her feet and Amy brushed snow off herself. As she brushed snow off herself, she covered the gem unknowingly so she and Sonic had no idea about it. This gave Blizzard the perfect opportunity to pull the gem down under the snow and into her ice lair.

"You alright Ames?" asked Sonic "You just tripped there."

"I must have hit a stone." Amy deduced "Never mind, let's get going."

The hedgehogs continued on through the snowy land of White Acropolis and headed off for home to New Mobotropolis. Back in Blizzard's ice lair, Blizzard grinned wickedly to herself and she reattached her gem to her belt. In order to make sure it stayed on her belt, Blizzard froze it around the edges, sticking the gem to her belt and because Blizzard was cold and the gem was cold, the ice wouldn't melt. It would stay there permanently now. Blizzard cackled to herself as she felt her ice powers increase.

"I have my gem at last." she crowed "Now my powers are at their strongest and I can commence with my motives. I shall march over to Mobotropolis, take over Castle Acorn and rule over Mobotropolis myself. Since I'll be able to make the laws, I'll make anyone named Rose suffer and I can get revenge on the two hedgehogs who dare to assault me…"

New Mobotropolis was in for a lot of trouble when Blizzard decided to come out of hiding and make her sinister move at long last…

The Kingdom of Ice

Story 95: The Kingdom of Ice

Unbeknownst to anybody, while Sonic the Hedgehog and Amy Rose had been in White Acropolis dealing with new foe Blizzard the Hedgehog, Dr. Eggman's sinister fem-bot sidekick Katherine had been preparing a little experiment in Dr. Eggman's underground headquarters. Six whole months had passed since Eggman's reduction to insanity* and when Katherine had found the last remaining fragments of the Chaos Clusters and now Katherine was preparing to use the power of the cluster fragments to restore Eggman's sanity. Now for those of you wondering what's been taking Katherine so long to do so then here's your answer: Katherine feared that if she just went flat out with the fragments and tried to restore Eggman's mind with them without really knowing how to use them, something terrible would happen and Eggman may end up worse for wear or even dead so she ran several tests with the fragments first on other things like useless robots or captured Mobians. The testing had been an odious process and that wasn't the only thing keeping Katherine busy. She'd been rebuilding Dr. Eggman's destroyed flagship from his Egg-Fleet. When Alonzo, Eggman's first sidekick betrayed him, he caused the flagship to crash and burn and while Eggman had been out of his mind, Katherine had retrieved the remains from the scrap yard and had been rebuilding the flagship while also adding new things to it to make it even stronger. So you can see what took Katherine so long to try and restore Eggman's sanity can't you? Well, Katherine had finished testing the emerald fragments and came up with positive results and had some spare time so now was the time to bring Dr. Eggman back from the brink. Katherine sat Dr. Eggman down in his chair, the fat scientist still babbling like an idiot to himself and saying some really stupid stuff that quite frankly, I'm amazed they made it into this story!

"Ginger nuts, EM3 divided by the square root of the propulsion factor equals…socks!, need to wash my clunky, cheeseburgers do not come with celery sticks, hate that hedgehog, 2 + 2 = carrots, relish is the most important thing in life, no Alonzo that's my cookie, El Gran Gordo, flabby face, penguins fly south for the winter, the Animaniacs are scary, look on the briiiight side of life, worms, I am your father, what'cho talkin' about?, Sonic is a menace, ponies!, Falcon…Punch!, wakka-dakka. all your base are belong to us…"

Quite a lot of gibberish isn't it? Katherine ignored her gibbering master, knowing that what he was muttering was pure gobblefunk and she put a helmet on Eggman's head as he sat in the chair. Eggman was so busy gibbering to himself, he didn't even notice the helmet being put on. The helmet was wired up to a machine containing the emerald fragments and the machine would extract the energies from the fragments and transfer it to the helmet. The Chaos Energy would then hopefully, restore Eggman's sanity. Katherine flicked the switch and the machine whirred into life. Dr. Eggman was so busy talking about cabbage and pants to himself that he didn't even notice what was going on. The machine began to extract the Chaos Energy from the emerald fragments and the energy flushed through the connection pipes and into the helmet. The helmet was now full of Chaos Energy and Dr. Eggman suddenly began jittering and shaking like mad as the Chaos Energy began to seep into his head. He looked like he was being struck by lightening at this very minute. After thirty seconds, Katherine decided enough was enough and she switched the machine off, leaving Dr. Eggman to slump in his chair and pull a dopey expression. His tongue drooped out the side of his mouth and he made a very silly noise. Katherine stared at Dr. Eggman worriedly, wondering if six months of testing hadn't worked as well as she'd anticipated. Then suddenly, Dr. Eggman stirred and he woke up. He sat up in his chair and he readjusted his glasses. He then stood up from his chair and breathed in deeply. Then he let it out again.

"Aaaah…" he said to himself "What a good rest that was. Now I'm completely recharged and ready to get revenge on Sonic and friends for ruining my robot utopia!"

He then turned around and saw Katherine standing there as still as a statue. If she had a face, she'd be beaming with excitement right now.

"Oh hello Katherine." said Dr. Eggman brightly "How's things been while I've been napping?"

Katherine didn't answer Dr. Eggman. Instead, she took the scientist by the hand and led him to the main hangar bay, which was part of this underground lair that Eggman had to take refuge in. After all, Shadow had torn Robotropolis to the ground trying to find him* so Eggman only had this lair to hide in and do his work in. As Katherine led Dr. Eggman to the hangar bay, Eggman decided to ask something.

"Where are we Katherine?" asked Dr. Eggman "We're not in Robotropolis are we?"

Katherine shook her head. She showed Dr. Eggman an image on her visor that showed Robotropolis was no longer standing. It was completely wrecked and was now just a ghastly sight staining the scenery. Dr. Eggman fumed to himself at that sight.

"So Robotropolis is destroyed again?" muttered Dr. Eggman "What a pain in the diode this is! I'm getting tired of rebuilding that city over and over so I won't bother rebuilding it again. From now on, my place of refuge is here in my underground bunker. This is my underground bunker isn't it?"

Katherine nodded.

"Well from now on, my plans will be formed and my machines will be built in here." said Dr. Eggman "I'll rebuild Robotropolis once I take over the world. Now Katherine, what is it you're wanting to show me?"

Katherine didn't answer Dr. Eggman. She continued leading Eggman to the hangar bay until they finally reached it. Katherine opened the door and led Eggman into the hangar bay. The moment Dr. Eggman walked into the hangar bay, his eyes widened so wide his glasses couldn't hide them and his jaw dropped. For there in the hangar bay amongst his Egg-Fleet, was the fleet's flagship all being rebuilt and nearing completion. The Eggman robots were working like mad on the flagship, hoping to finish it in time so they could please their master. Dr. Eggman could hardly believe what was going on right now. Katherine had taken it upon herself to rebuild the Egg-Fleet's flagship? It really felt good to know he had a loyal sidekick for once, unlike Alonzo who decided to betray him.

"Well…this is a pleasant surprise Katherine!" blurted Dr. Eggman "You're rebuilding my fleet's flagship! Thank you so much you wonderful little girl!"

Katherine just bowed politely to him as if she was a knave bowing to her king. Dr. Eggman smiled widely and he looked back at his almost finished flagship.

"From the looks of things, this thing will be finished within a week." deduced Dr. Eggman "Speaking of weeks, how long has it been since the destruction of my Robian world Katherine?"

Katherine held up six long thin fingers to Dr. Eggman and Eggman decided to guess what she meant by six.

"Six…days?" he asked.

Katherine shook her head.

"Six…weeks?" asked Dr. Eggman.

Katherine shook her head again.

"Six…months?" asked Dr. Eggman.

Katherine nodded.

"Holy galoshes! I've been out for six months? SIX WHOLE months?" cried Dr. Eggman with his hands on his head "What happened to me? I must have had one heck of a nap if six months have passed! No matter, once my Egg-Fleet's flagship is complete, I can make up the lost time and wipe Sonic out once and for all! Then I'll roboticize the world again and make everybody my Robian slaves once again!"

He then proceeded to bellow with loud grating laughter that echoed through the hangar bay like a haunting ghost laugh…

A week passed since the visit to White Acropolis and right now in the beautiful village of Knothole, Sonic's hammer-swinging girlfriend (sort of) Amy Rose was staring at herself in a mirror and combing her quill hair. New Mobotropolis, the city that was to replace the Old Mobotropolis after Dr. Eggman destroyed it had finally been completed after months and months of construction and Queen Sally Acorn was hosting the grand opening ceremony for the new city. All the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were going to be there including Sonic the Hedgehog, his twin-tailed sidekick Tails the Fox, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, Bunnie Rabbot and Ruben the Water Panther and Amy was looking forward to it immensely, especially as Sonic had promised she could stand next to him in the crowd. Just standing next to Sonic and breathing the same air as him was glorious enough for a fan like Amy Rose. Not only were the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters going to be at the ceremony but Angel island residents Knuckles the Echidna and Shade the Echidna were going to be there amongst Sonic and friends and all the citizens who used to live in Old Mobotropolis were going to be there too, especially as they could all return back home at long last after spending a long time living in Empire City for the time being. Even citizens from Knothole were gong to see the ceremony such as Mariah the Medicine Cat, Cream's parents Vanilla and Porthos and a few others as they were interested in seeing the new city. As Amy finished combing herself, she preened at herself in the mirror and hummed happily to herself.

"Oooh, you look gorgeous Amy." Amy cooed to herself "Just right for the grand opening ceremony. I can't wait to see New Mobotropolis. I bet it'll be the perfect city to replace the old one and I bet my Sonic will love it too as he lived in Mobotropolis."

Amy stood up from her chair and she did a happy twirl across the room.

"What a beautiful day it is and I'm gonna enjoy every moment of it." she trilled to herself "Especially as I'm with my Sonic in the crowd. Hee, hee, hee! And best of all, that stupid Dr. Eggman won't be ruining anything as he can't be bothered to show his ugly face right now. Six months pass and he hasn't bothered us so he won't bother us now. Things are finally looking up for us."

With that said, Amy prance about happily and skipped out of the door. The moment she left the house though, she was blasted by a beam of ice that threw her backwards and froze her to the door! Amy gasped in shock and she struggled as hard as she possibly could. Her entire torso and arms were covered by a thick sheet of ice that would take a while to melt in this warm weather so she was going to be stuck for a while. Only her head, hands and legs weren't frozen but that wasn't going to be of much help to the pink hedgehog. Amy squirmed and struggled but the ice sheet was way too strong. She couldn't get free, she could hardly even move at all. She was frozen to the door and completely stuck. Amy began to panic, her heart was pounding. Oh on today of all days, some crud begins to happen! And unfortunately, Amy had a horrible idea on who it was. As Amy struggled furiously in the ice sheet, a familiar white-furred hedgehog in blue robes appeared from nowhere. It was none other then Amy's arch-enemy Blizzard the Hedgehog! The ice witch had decided she'd had enough of hiding and was on her way to New Mobotropolis to take the city for herself and she just happened to come across Amy on the way so she decided to deal with her first. Amy's eyes widened in horror and then they frowned fiercely at the ice witch that stood before her. Her teeth gritted and her hands clenched in rage.

"Blizzard!" she growled "How dare you freeze me to my front door! Release me and I won't have to give you a headache afterwards!"

"You are in no condition to give me orders my feeble-minded clot head." sneered Blizzard, a hideous smirk on her elegant face "Especially as I am now back to my full power now I have my gem back…"

She showed Amy the glorious shining ice gem that was now neatly attached back onto her belt and frozen on so it wouldn't detach from her belt again. Amy groaned to herself in annoyance, cursing her bad luck as she did so.

"Of all the unfortunate things to happen, you've gotten your gem back!" whined Amy "I had a feeling you did when I realized I'd suddenly lost it! If I were to guess, you were the one who tripped me up and it must have fell out of my pocket as I tripped."

"That's right Amy." gloated Blizzard "You're not as stupid as you pretend to be. Now I can freeze at a single touch again, I can carry out my motivations and because I've been hiding for eight years, nobody will suspect me as everybody will have forgotten about me."

"Wrong Blizzard, I didn't forget about you!" screeched Amy "And I bet Queen Sally will remember you as you used to be on the council and her parents will have likely mentioned you or talked to her about you!"

"So what if they might recognize me?" snapped Blizzard "They cannot stop me, I have ice powers and the Acorns have nothing. Mobotropolis is mine and nothing can stand in my way!"

"You wish Blizzard!" yelled Amy "Sonic will be at the grand opening of New Mobotropolis and so will the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis! You're toast Blizzard!"

"I sure wish I knew what prattle you're talking about girl." muttered Blizzard "Who are the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis and what do you mean by "grand opening of New Mobotropolis"?"

"Dr. Eggman destroyed the original Mobotropolis and the city's been rebuilt and named New Mobotropolis doofus!" snapped Amy "And the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis are a team of Royal Fighters working for the Royal Fighters Service. You really have been hiding to well haven't you? You know nothing about what's been going on since you've gone into hiding."

"Well after I killed your mother, I fled to White Acropolis and I've spent eight years there." said Blizzard "So I was bound to know nothing about what's been happening at Mobotropolis in my absence. Oh well, New Mobotropolis will suffice beautifully. I shall march over to the city, freeze any resistance, force Queen Sally to stand down and hand over her crown and then I shall make the city what it should be. And once I'm in charge, you shall spend the rest of your miserable life in the dungeons with nothing by icicles for company." she crooned darkly, jamming her face into Amy's face "And anyone named "Rose" shall be forced into slavery and made to suffer as that family name haunts me like a bad dream. You just wait here for me Amy and I'll return when I'm queen. I wouldn't hold my breath though as I'll be queen by the time that ice melts in this warm weather. Goodbye Amy Rose, I look forward to seeing you again when I'm the new ruler of New Mobotropolis!"

With that said, she decided to leave a thin scratch on Amy's cheek just to be mean to her. She scratched Amy's cheek with one sharp fingernail. The cut she left from that scratch was long, thin and trickling with blood. Blizzard cackled evilly at Amy and she turned her back on the trapped hedgehog. Blizzard strode away pride fully, leaving Amy frozen to her front door and unable to do anything but struggle and grunt. As Blizzard left, Amy scowled at her and she screamed at the top of her lungs.

" BLIZAAAAAARRRRRDDDDDD! "

Her screaming was pitiful though as Blizzard was going to leave her like this and there was no one around to stop her. Now Blizzard could freeze again, Sonic and the Royal Fighters were in for one heck of a grand opening ceremony…

New Mobotropolis.

A beautiful replacement for the old Mobotropolis that had been destroyed stood proudly in the place of the old city and everybody stared at it in awe. The buildings were marvellously constructed and put together, there was a long ring of wall around the city that was presumably for something like maybe keeping intruders out, there was an entrance gate on the fence for people to get in and out of the city and there were conveniences of every kind such as an airport, a hospital, an MPD station for the convicts and even restaurants, theatres, cinema, churches and parks to stroll and play in. Nobody could really see the new city in proper detail due to the fence blocking their view but they could see some of the buildings stretching up into the sky due to how tall they were. Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends couldn't wait to see New Mobotropolis when it finally opened. Sonic, Bunnie, Wilson and Mandy in particular as they were former citizens of Old Mobotropolis and they were looking forward to seeing what their new homes looked like.

"I can't see much over the fence." said Sonic "But I bet the city's gonna be good. It's just a pity Ruben decided to opt outta this."

"Yeah, according to you he's gone back home to Chun-Nan to see how it's doing right now." said Tails "I can see why he's not interested in seeing New Mobotropolis though as he doesn't even live in our country. His own country is more important to him then ours after all."

"That's one way of putting it I suppose Tails." said Sonic "Although Ruben left Chun-Nan to escape his sorrows and he's joined the R.F.S. so he technically does live in our country now. Oh well, it never hurts to visit your hold home once in a while. He can see New Mobotropolis when he gets back."

"I'm sure Ruben will love it when he sees it." said Cosmo, wrapping her arms around Tails' arm and making him blush "I know I'm going to love this city. It looks like it's going to be a lovely place."

"I bet it's gonna be great too Cosmo." said Tails, fighting the blush on his face before Cosmo could see it "Although I bet there won't be a house for me and you as we don't live in Mobotropolis."

"I'll share my new house with you if that's the likeliest scenario." said Sonic "As for you two," he added, pointing to Knuckles and Shade "What's made you wanna see New Mobotropolis? You live in Downunda."

"I know we do Sonic but there's no harm in seeing one of the most important cities on Mobius all nicely rebuilt is there?" said Knuckles "Not to mention, we felt it would be nice of us to see one of our little buddies on this special day and give this new city our best wishes as one of our buddies lives here."

"You're too kind Knuckles." laughed Sonic "And here's me thinking you were the embodiment of solitude."

Knuckles resisted the urge to snap at Sonic for that remark. The blue hedgehog was only kidding with him after all and he had trained himself to bear the hedgehog's obnoxious quips. As for Shade, she didn't really think much to Sonic's humour as she wasn't much of a humour person. Sonic left the echidnas to themselves and he turned to Wilson. The dog looked strangely nervous all of the sudden as if something was biting at him. Sonic picked up the signs immediately and he decided to see what was bothering the poor dog.

"Hey Wilson? Wassup?" asked Sonic "You look like a dog who's been told off for doing it's…"

"Sonic, please don't make that joke, I've heard it once too many." said Wilson hastily "As much as I'm looking forward to seeing New Mobotropolis, there's something on my mind."

"Such as?" asked Sonic.

Wilson just plunged his hand into his pocket and he fished something out of it. He showed Sonic his fist and he opened it. A small brown box sat in the middle of his palm and Wilson opened the box to show what was inside. The box contained a small ring with a purple diamond on it. Sonic instantly knew what Wilson was worked up about just looking at the ring.

"Oh I get it." he said "You're planning to get engaged. Engaged to be married. And do I get a prize for guessing who the lucky girl is?"

"If you want one then yes." chuckled Wilson "I've decided after ten years with the love of my life, Mandy Mouse, that I want to marry her and live my life in New Mobotropolis as a husband."

He looked over at Mandy Mouse who was talking with some of the Old Mobotropolis residents and having a good laugh with them. Wilson sighed happily at the sight of his gorgeous girlfriend.

"How I love her." he said "Those cute round ears of hers, those lovely yellow eyes, that gorgeous slender body and radiant purple fur, how could I not fall for her? Not to mention she helped me feel better about myself when no one else would. I was bullied for my fur colour and so was she and the two of us together put an end to the bullying and now nobody torments anybody for fur colour anymore. There's no one else for me, only Mandy is the right girl for me and now I want to marry her."

"I was kinda wondering when you two would eventually get hitched." said Sonic "And you picked quite a good day to get engaged. The city opens up and the first thing that'll happen in it is a marriage. So what are you so worked up for then?"

"You know how it is Sonic." said Wilson, putting the ring back in his pocket "You have glorious images of married life but then when you want to get into it, you feel like a complete wreck. I'm just nervous on how this'll all turn out. Maybe Mandy won't be ready for a married life or maybe she won't want to get married or…"

"Wilson, Wilson, Wilson buddy." said Sonic, putting a hand on his shoulder "Don't tell yourself stuff that won't happen. If you wanna marry Mandy then you're gonna have to put your all into this. If you want, I'll back you up on this to give you extra-support. You and Mandy love each other and I know that when you pop the question, Mandy will say yes in an instant. There's no reason why you two shouldn't get hitched."

"Thank you Sonic." said Wilson with a smile "I'm so glad I have a friend as cool as you."

"Ah, I'm just being me." said Sonic casually "Helping people when they need it, no matter what the situation is. Even engagement matters. You know when Tails and Cosmo are old enough to get married, I bet Tails will be coming to me for help."

The two Mobians laughed at Sonic's little remark. However, their laughter was brought to an abrupt halt when a sudden wind blew through the crowd and made everybody feel strangely cold for a second there. Sonic shivered and he wrapped his arms around himself.

"Brrr…where did that sudden draft come from?" he asked "There's no wind today."

"I dunno." said Wilson.

"Hey Wilson, hey blue dude, did you feel that sudden chill for a second there?" asked Mandy, shaking herself off "What happened there?"

"I dunno but if it happens again then I'll be concerned about something strange going on around here." muttered Sonic "And it better not happen now or…"

Before Sonic could say anything else, a big gust of icy wind blew over the crowd outside the city and Blizzard the Hedgehog materialized into view. She stood before the city gates and she smirked at the crowd that waited for the ceremony to begin. Sonic's eyes widened in shock, unable to believe that Blizzard had decided to show herself again so shortly after their first meeting.

"M-M-Mr. Sonic? Who's that evil looking woman?" asked Cream worriedly.

"That's Blizzard the Hedgehog." muttered Sonic "Me and Amy met her at White Acropolis last week and she tried to kill the both of us! She killed Amy's parents when she was only six and she's been in hiding for eight months and now she's decided to show herself!"

"She killed poor Amy's parents?" asked Bunnie in alarm "She never said anything about them being dead when she talked to me about em****."

"Well Amy didn't want to feel they were dead so she pretended they were alive whenever she bought em up." said Sonic "But never mind that now! That hedgehog's an evil ice witch and she can't be here for good things!"

As for Blizzard, she made an announcement to the frightened citizens of Old Mobotropolis who couldn't help but stare at her in horror.

"Greetings citizens of Old Mobotropolis!" she barked at the top of her rough, raspy voice "I am Blizzard the Hedgehog, former councillor of Castle Acorn and now I am here to become the Queen of New Mobotropolis. The Acorn Family may have been a good family to rule over the city but now is the time for a change my people. I will be every bit as good as the Acorn Family, only better and I shall make New Mobotropolis an even greater city then it already is! All you have to do is support me in my claims and you shall have what you all deserve, freedom, prosperity and a ruler who will honour the wills of every budding citizen, even the lowest ones such as the poor. If you support me citizens of Mobotropolis, I promise you that you shall all be honoured, free and…protected." she added with a sinister purr in her voice "Unlike the Acorn Family, I shall protect you all from the menace of Dr. Eggman and his barbaric machinations. I have the power to finish off that old goat and if you chose me to replace Queen Sally, you will be getting closer to being free from Eggman's tyranny!"

The crowd murmured amongst each other, wondering if Blizzard actually meant what she was saying. Sonic face-palmed himself in annoyance, unable to believe the audience were seriously looking like they were believing this obviously evil hedgehog so he leaped in front of Blizzard and addressed the crowd himself.

"Hey guys and gals!" yelled Sonic "Don't listen to this witch! Blizzard is evil and if you support her in this, you're gonna make things even worse then they already are!"

Blizzard scowled at Sonic and promptly prodded him in the back. The moment she poked Sonic though, he froze stiff on the spot, much to everybody's horror. Sonic was now an ice statue just standing there completely frozen and he'd remain like this until Blizzard released him or someone broke the ice.

"I'll thank you for not interrupting seminal matters here hedgehog." she snarled crossly.

She then looked back at the crowd and announced to them again.

"Do not head Sonic's words my people." she said "I am NOT evil, I'm just looking out for the people of Mobotropolis and hoping to carry out their best interests. Sonic here may have been fighting Dr. Eggman for months on end but is Mobius anymore free then it was before the fat man arrived?"

The crowd hesitated and began talking amongst each other. Blizzard smiled icily. Things were beginning to go her way so far, her beautiful plan was working!

"Whereas me, as you've just witnessed, I can freeze people in an instant." she said, prodding the frozen Sonic in the back and unfreezing him so she could get in the people's good side "Once I get my hands on Dr. Eggman, he'll become an iceberg! Can your present ruler do something like that? Huh? Of course not! The Acorn Family are poor simpering fools who have no powers of any kind and can't be bothered to get their royal hands dirty whereas I can not only rule your city but I can also protect this city. And I'll do a much better job then your current heroes the Royal Fighters." she added, smirking at Sonic as he lay on the ground shaking himself off "I can just freeze all your enemies and attackers in an instant and once they're frozen, I can bring them in and you'll never have to worry about them again. So tell me people, do you want a queen who can't defend the one city she rules over or do you want a queen who can not only protect you all, but actually end this stupid war with Eggman?"

The crowd seemed to be lightening up to her but they were still debating amongst each other. Blizzard was pleased to see the crowd appeared to be buying her act. Hopefully, they'd start cheering for her and Sally would be forced to stand down. Blizzard turned her back on everybody and headed towards the city gates.

"I'll consult with Queen Sally right now." said Blizzard "Let me know when you've made up your minds."

With that said, Blizzard leaped over the walls and into the city. The moment she landed, she pointed at the gates and froze them solid in an instant. She was not taking her chances with Sonic and friends so she was going to try her best to keep them out. In order to ensure them being unable to get in, she created an ice dome around the city so now the whole thing just looked like a dome of solid ice with a ring of wall surrounding it. Blizzard smiled to herself as she headed for Castle Acorn.

"Everything is going beautifully…" she purred to herself "Those poor, simple fools will be wanting me as ruler in an instant after hearing my lies and Queen Sally will have to stand down. The reign of Queen Blizzard the Hedgehog begins shortly…"

On the other side of the ice dome, Sonic picked himself up and began furiously spin-dashing at it. But the dome was made of solid, thick ice, thicker then cement blocks and just as hard, Sonic would never get through ice as thick as that. The ice would eventually melt but with Blizzard, ice took longer to melt then normal, especially with how thick it was so by the time it melted, it would be too late. After another failed spin-dash, Sonic grumbled to himself.

"Hey everybody, help me break through this thing will ya?" Sonic asked the crowd and his friends "We've gotta stop Blizzard before she harms Sally!"

"I don't know Sonic…" mused Knuckles "Do you think we should stop Blizzard? I mean, she seems to have good intentions and all…"

"Oh puh-lease!" groaned Sonic "Don't tell me you seriously believe that Blizzard's here to do good things? Blizzard is evil and I should know, me and Amy met her last week!"

"What's so evil about her?" asked Tails.

"Well she killed Amy's dad, who used to be a councillor for Castle Acorn," he made sure everybody heard that one and that certainly seemed to shaken everybody up "Kidnapped Amy as a kid and attempted to freeze her to death and then she killed Amy's mother, who used to be a cop, and ended up traumatizing poor Amy for a while. Does that sound like the kind of queen you want everybody? If you don't believe me, ask Amy herself, she told me the whole story."

The crowd went back to feeling nervous about Blizzard again. She definitely didn't sound as good as she claimed to be! Maybe supporting her was a bad idea after all? As for Sonic, something went click in his head and he realized something.

"Oh no…Amy! She's not here yet!" cried Sonic "Blizzard must have gotten her already! I'm going over to Knothole to see if she's OK pronto!"

"You find Amy blue dude, we'll try and break through the frozen gates." said Mandy, slipping on her trademark brass knuckle attachments.

With that said, Sonic the Hedgehog raced off at his trademark supersonic speed while his friends sought to trying to bust the frozen gate down. Mandy, Knuckles and Bunnie all began punching furiously at the gates while Geoffrey fired darts at it, Tails, and Cream kicked at it, Wilson slashed at it with his spinning blade weapon, Shade Blade Rushed it and Cosmo just sort of joined in with Tails and Cream on the kicking although it wouldn't do her any good given how weak she was. They had to get through the gates and fast before Blizzard could stir up a royal conspiracy inside Castle Acorn. If that happened the New Mobotropolis would be off to a rotten grand opening indeed…

Due to his super speed, Sonic arrived at Knothole in a matter of minutes and the moment he set foot in the beautiful village, he began looking around furiously for Amy. He zipped from house to house as quickly as he could; looking into the houses and wondering if Amy was there or anywhere around at all.

"Amy! Amy?" called Sonic as he looked around in the houses "Where are you? Are you OK?"

He wasn't looking around for long until he heard a familiar voice calling over to him.

"Sonic! Over here!" cried Amy.

Sonic heard Amy's voice and he ran over to Amy's trademark pink house with red roof. To his surprise, the house was still in one piece, meaning Blizzard obviously wasn't that bothered about Amy today as she was trying to take New Mobotropolis for herself. But one thing out of the ordinary was the obvious fact that Amy was frozen to the door. She had been spending the past few minutes trying to free herself but she just couldn't break free. The ice was too thick. Sonic stared at the ice sheet over Amy's torso and he couldn't believe what Blizzard had done to Amy.

"Amy, thank goodness Blizzard hasn't killed you!" gasped Sonic "But she's frozen you to the door. No wonder you haven't arrived at the grand opening ceremony yet, you're stuck fast!"

"Oh Sonic, you must get me out of this and fast!" screeched Amy "Blizzard's plotting to take over New Mobotropolis and overthrow Sally Acorn!"

"Yeah, I think I already know that thanks." muttered Sonic "Blizzard almost had the crowd fooled for a second but I've told them the truth so they're not falling for her ploys. Now, how do I get you outta this? I don't wanna spin-dash you free in fear of causing more damage then I'd like to."

"Use this." said Amy, summoning her trademark Piko-Piko hammer to her unfrozen hands.

Given her arms were frozen and only her hands were free, she wouldn't be able to use the hammer to its best effect so Sonic had to use it. Sonic took the hammer from Amy, surprised at how heavy it was and he began wondering how Amy was even able to lift the darn thing, and he raised it above his head, making sure he didn't fall over from the weight of the hammer.

"So you want me to smash you free with this?" said Sonic "No problemo. Apologies if this hurts you by the way."

"I promise I won't hammer you if it hurts Sonic." said Amy reassuringly "Just get me outta this!"

Sonic snidely smiled at Amy and he swung the hammer as hard as he possibly could. He whacked the middle of the ice sheet and it cracked heavily under the heavy hit of the hammer. The ice sheet cracked so heavily that it just shattered like glass and fell to pieces around Amy's feet. Amy flexed her arms and did a few stretches, relieved to be free from her door at last. Sonic passed Amy her hammer and Amy took it eagerly.

"Thank you my cute little Sonic." cooed Amy playfully "I can always count on you to get me out of a scrape."

"Anytime Ames." said Sonic, trying to keep himself from blushing at Amy's little pet name "Now let's kick Blizzard's icy hide outta our new city before she wrecks it shall we?"

"Do you even need to ask?" asked Amy, twirling her hammer around menacingly "I have many scores to settle with that witch! Especially as she killed mom and dad and nearly scarred me for life!"

"In that case, it's juice and jam time!" yelled Sonic excitedly "Hold on Ames, I'm going supersonic now!"

With that said, Sonic grabbed Amy's arm and charged off back to New Mobotropolis with the pink hedgehog squealing like mad behind him in excitement. Sonic hoped that things weren't already going south back at New Mobotropolis or he would be in a bad mood…

Back at New Mobotropolis, Queen Sally Acorn and her beautiful lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx were in the council room with the Council of Acorn members standing before her. The council was discussing about the new city and its features before the grand opening began. The Queen and council were looking forward to the opening of the new city as well as what people's thoughts of it were going to be.

"So the city's all fully completed and its facilities are installed and ready." said Sally as she read reports made by the construction crew of New Mobotropolis "Everybody's homes are up and running and the facilities in the homes all work as should do. Everything is safe and everything's been properly tested to make sure it's safe."

"So with a clean report like that, I see no reason to keep the citizens waiting any longer Sally." said Nicole "Let's begin the opening ceremony already."

"I was going to say the same thing myself Nicole." said Sally with a warm smile on her face "Councillors, are you ready for the ceremony?"

"Whenever you are your majesty." said the council members.

"Then let's get this grand opening started already." said Sally "I bet the eager citizens are dying of excitement on the other side of the gates."

"They will be Sally." said Nicole "All those poor Mobotropolis citizens get their homes back after all this time and there's new facilities, especially our secret defence system which I can't wait to show everybody."

"I can't wait for it either." said Sally "Especially as it was your idea Nicole. It's been tested so we know it works and I bet the citizens will be amazed at it when…"

Before she could say anything more, the door flung open and in stormed Blizzard the Hedgehog. An icy chill drifted into the room and made everything feel a little colder as she stepped into the room. Sally and Nicole looked like they were about to faint with shock whereas the council members looked astonished to see a stranger like her walk into the room like this. Blizzard sneered at the terrified squirrel and lynx and she smirked at the council. How pathetic it looked to her, when she was on the council, it looked a lot better then this bunch.

"Good morning Sally Acorn." purred Blizzard in an eerily polite tone, a very unusual tone for the ice witch.

"B-B-Blizzard the Hedgehog?" screamed Sally "Oh no, not her!"

"I remember her!" shrieked Nicole "She used to be on the council and she killed Aramis Rose because he kept bullying her!"

"Oh whoopee, you remember me!" applauded Blizzard sarcastically, clapping at them in a mocking manner "So nice to see your brains are still functioning. Ha, ha, ha, ha. Well now, I've come out of hiding after eight years of doing so and I've come to take what is mine… New Mobotropolis!"

"You are out of your bloody mind if you think we're going to relinquish the city to you freak!" snorted Hamlin, the council douche bag and rude little porker, storming up to Blizzard furiously "We will not let you have New Mobotropolis! There's a little thing called authority and paperwork that you'll need if you want this city and we…"

Blizzard just promptly froze Hamlin to the spot as if he was just a ham in the fridge, only colder. The silly little pig was beginning to get on her nerves now.

"I didn't ask you, you porky little runt of the litter!" snarled Blizzard, smacking the frozen Hamlin sharply and knocking him onto his side.

She walked up to Sally Acorn and stared her directly in the eye. Sally nervously took a step back and Blizzard advanced on her menacingly. Sally kept backing away from the ice witch until suddenly, she found herself with her back pressed against the council bench. She stared straight into Blizzard's eyes and began to shake with fear. Her heart was pounding like mad. Was Blizzard going to kill her? Blizzard grabbed Sally's face, the squirrel shivering in the touch due to the fact Blizzard was cold inside and out.

"Please, oh please, don't kill me Blizzard!" begged Sally "I haven't pressed any charges against you, I'm not planning to arrest you or anything…"

"Clam down my child, I do not wish to inflict harm of even the smallest kind on your weak, delicate little body." crooned Blizzard "Before we get to business though, where's Alicia and Maximilian, your mother and father? Shouldn't they be here if this is a council meeting?"

"They're dead." explained Sally, still shaking "An alien killed them so I'm in charge now."

"No wonder Amy referred to you as "Queen" instead of "Princess"." mused Blizzard, letting go of Sally's face and giving the squirrel breathing space "Anyways, Queen Sally Acorn, I am here to get what is mine. New Mobotropolis. I am going to respectfully demand you relinquish your title and hand it over to me otherwise you'll end up feeling and icicle through your heart."

"Blizzard, I know all about you from mom and dad." said Sally bluntly but bravely "And I know how "overly ambitious" and how much of a "dreamer" and "power hungry person" you are and I will not hand over the kingdom to someone like you, especially as you killed a councillor and a cop, both of which were fellow Royal Fighter Amy Rose's parents. You can either get out of my castle before things get unpleasant or face arrest."

Blizzard cackled with dark, evil, raspy laughter that made the whole council shiver in fear.

"So that's how it's going to be is it Sally?" sneered Blizzard "Well Sally, perhaps you'd love to hear the opinions of your fellow citizens."

"What do you mean?" hissed Nicole furiously, itching to beat the snot out of the ice witch.

"I've had a little pep talk with the citizens and I've told them the truth about me and you." explained Blizzard "Truth as in, you are unfit to rule a kingdom as you can't even protect anybody from Eggman's threats. You have to rely on your so-called "Royal Fighters" to do the dirty work. A proper ruler should do everything him or herself, not risk the safety of his or her people just so he or she can stay cooped up in their little luxury house, living a life of opulence while everybody else risks life and limb for their safety and wellbeing! Whereas I, I fill those quotas. I can stop the Eggman right there and end this conflict between Mobius and him whereas you cannot and now the people will be begging to have me on the throne!"

"Forget it Blizzard!" yelled Sally "I'm not letting you rule this kingdom! You're EVIL and you're gonna use your power for your own needs, not the welfare of everybody else! You can freeze me for all I care! I am not giving my crown to someone who will abuse their power for their own cruel, evil needs!"

Blizzard scowled at Sally, her fists tensing tightly and her eyes twitching furiously.

"Oh you are so unwise Sally…" growled Blizzard "Refusal to obey my orders will result in terrible punishment for you…"

Meanwhile, outside the city gates of New Mobotropolis, the Royal Fighters were still trying to break through the frozen gates. They had been trying valiantly for the past few minutes but try as they might, they couldn't break the ice down. It was just too solid and thick. After another punch, Knuckles began to pant and grumble to himself.

"This is useless!" he growled "We can't break the stupid ice! It's too thick!"

"Our combined efforts just simply aren't enough." said Cosmo despairingly "How can we get through the gates if the ice is too strong?"

"If there wasn't an ice dome over the city, me and Cream could just fly everybody over the walls." said Tails grimly "What are we gonna do now?"

"Hmm…" mused Mandy as she observed the frozen gates. A brilliant idea was creping into her head "We can't get through the gates or over the walls due to the ice dome which is likely to be as strong…but maybe we can get under the gates." she deduced with a snap of the fingers

"Get under the gates? As is dig under it" asked Wilson "That's a great idea Mandy! Blizzard didn't think about that did she? Let's tunnel under the gate!"

"I'll do the digging." said Knuckles "We echidnas are brilliant at it."

With that said, Knuckles began to punch at the soil at the foot of the gate and he began to dig furiously through the soil with his spiky fists. Shade joined in as she could dig well too and the two echidnas were going to dig under much better if they were doing this together. Knuckles and Shade were digging very fast, so fast in fact that they managed to dig a sizable tunnel under the frozen gates in a good amount of time and now everybody could crawl under it. Blizzard never really though of freezing things and making the ice expand down underground so tunnelling under was impossible so this little overlooking of details was going to be a costly one on her part. Now the tunnel had been dug, Tails, Knuckles, Shade, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie and Geoffrey all crawled under the frozen gates and into New Mobotropolis. The moment they got into the city though, they were met with the newly built replacement for Old Mobotropolis. The city looked incredible to them and if this wasn't a bad time right now, they would be admiring the city in an instant and checking it out already.

"Wow!" cried Tails "New Mobotropolis looks incredible!"

"I'll say it does young fox." said Shade "Your hedgehog friend has a good replacement for his old home. I wouldn't mind living here if I didn't have duties to Angel Island."

"If everything was alright right now, I'd be trying to find out where my new house is." said Mandy "But unfortunately, there's an ice witch trying to usurp the queen and rule the city."

"And all on the day New Mobotropolis opens and I plan to marry you." muttered Wilson crossly to himself.

"Excuse me?" asked Mandy.

"Nothing." said Wilson quickly "Let's stop that ice witch already!"

"I think we should wait until Sonic and Amy arrive first mate." said Geoffrey "We'll need them in a fight against an ice powered maniac like her."

"Come to think of it, here they come now." said Bunnie, flying up to the ice dome and looking through it.

On the other side of the walls, Sonic and Amy arrived at New Mobotropolis and Sonic screeched to a halt. He and Amy didn't see the tunnel under the frozen gate. They were just looking at the frozen gate and the ice dome stopping anyone from getting into the city. Sonic curled up into a ball and Amy raised her hammer up high.

"The old hammer-and-hedgehog trick will work on that frozen gate." said Amy "Get ready Sonic, I'm gonna hit you extra-hard to make sure we break through!"

"I'm ready Amy." said Sonic "And I really wish you'd come up with a better name for a move so awesome! Hammer-and-hedgehog is so corny!"

"I'll hammer you into the ground if you don't shut up!" snapped Amy "Now ready…steady…GO!"

With that said, Sonic spun as fast as he could in a spin-dash and Amy walloped him at her hardest. Sonic hurtled into the frozen gate and he ploughed straight through it as if it was a ball through glass. The ice shattered into pieces and Sonic hurled into New Mobotropolis. Now the gate had been broken down, anybody could get into the city again. Sonic skidded to a halt before his startled friends and he stared at them in surprise. Amy ran into the city and stared at her friends in disbelief.

"How the heck did you get through the frozen gate?" asked Sonic.

"We tunnelled under the gate." said Mandy with a bright smile on her face "It was all my idea ad our echidna buddies carried it out beautifully."

"Why didn't I think of that?" muttered Sonic "Oh well, now we're in New Mobotropolis, we can stop Blizzard the Hedgehog before she harms anybody!"

"Wrong Sonic." said Amy "I'm stopping Blizzard the Hedgehog. She's mine! You're staying here and waiting for me."

"Amy, I am not letting you face that demon alone!" snapped Sonic sternly "She traumatized you for a while and killed your parents! I'm not letting her harm you in any other way!"

"She won't harm me." gloated Amy, a smug expression on her face "She's in our territory not hers, she can't use her powers to their best as theirs not snow anywhere for her to use against us. Not to mention I have a hammer so I can smash all her ice weapons and everything. I'll be fine."

"Amy luv, I think Sonic has a point here." said Geoffrey "She can freeze things in an instant I mean just look at the gate and the dome she's made. She'll freeze you instantly if she gets you Amy."

"Please Miss Rose, let us help you!" begged Cream "You can't face Blizzard alone!"

"I can and I will!" snapped Amy "And you can't stop me now get outta my way everybody! Blizzard's mine and that's final!"

With that said, Amy stormed past Sonic and friends and flounced off to Castle Acorn, not caring what anybody wanted or said to her, her hammer in hand and ready for battle. Sonic and friends could only watch helplessly as Amy stormed off to Castle Acorn by herself.

"We should stop her before she gets hurt!" cried Mandy "Amy's gonna get herself killed here!"

"Yeah well if I see so much as ONE icicle come out of Castle Acorn then I'm coming in after her!" yelled Sonic "I really don't wanna leave Amy to do this herself but she has personal grudges on Blizzard so I guess it's fair she should take on Blizzard to make her pay for the pains she's caused her."

"I just hope Amy makes it out alive." muttered Knuckles "If not, I will slaughter that witch in hedgehog's clothing!"

Sonic and friends really wanted to help Amy finish Blizzard off but Amy wanted to do it herself so they stayed put and waited for the outcome. If Amy needed help, they'd give it to her and Sonic had a feeling Amy was going to need help in this match as Blizzard was way stronger then she was…

Back in Castle Acorn, Sally and Blizzard were beginning to get into a heated argument right now with Nicole and the Council members watching on worriedly, wondering what the outcome was going to be. The council room was ringing with the two women screaming at each other and debating over who should be ruler or not.

"You do realize how big a fool you're being don't you Sally?" yelled Blizzard "An opportunity to help save the world from the Eggman's threats is knocking at your doorstep and you refuse to take it!"

"We're doing just fine against Dr. Eggman Blizzard!" snapped Sally "Sonic and friends foiled his worldwide roboticizer six months ago and we haven't seen him since so we don't need you to help us!"

"Well if you haven't seen him in a while then doesn't it occur to you he might be hiding and plotting his next move?" noted Blizzard "And have you made any attempts to apprehend the vile man after his last encounter with Sonic and friends? Of course you haven't because you don't know the first thing about the safety of the citizens! You're too caught up in your own silly little world to bother about what's going on now and if Eggman comes out of hiding to attack much like I have, then we all know who's fault that will be then!"

"You can say what you like Blizzard!" shouted Sally "Heck, you can defeat Dr. Eggman and end this war with him for all I care, I'm not letting someone as evil as you rule New Mobotropolis! Besides, it's in the provisional constitution section I paragraph 89: "only those of a royal family are eligible to rule the kingdom, the only exception is if all royal family members are dead and a replacement is required." so you'll never get a chance to rule New Mobotropolis! Now get out of my castle now Blizzard!"

That did it. Blizzard lost her already short temper and she backhanded Sally across the room as viciously as she could. Sally hurled across the room and landed slap bang into the wall much to the horror of everybody in the room.

"YOU get out! I've had enough!" roared Blizzard, summoning an ice sword from nowhere and brandishing it menacingly.

The sword was made of solid ice but was as sharp as anything and had a lot of icicles near the hand guard. Blizzard stormed up to Sally and prepared to cleave her in two with the ice sword but Nicole stood in the ice witch's way and shielded Sally. Blizzard hesitated and she glared at the young lynx in the purple toga furiously.

"Get out of my way!" snarled Blizzard.

"No Blizzard!" said Nicole bravely "I'm not letting you kill Sally! You'll have to get through me first!"

"I'll be happy to arrange your funeral then you poor, pathetic, weak minded child!" growled Blizzard "Then once I've finished you off, I shall slaughter the queen and take the crown off her corpse since she won't hand it over to me!"

"Or you can leave the royals alone and face me instead!" screeched a voice that Blizzard knew too well.

Blizzard turned away from Nicole and she stared at the doors which had been flung open and there stood Amy Rose, hammer brandished and a vengeful look in her lovely jade eyes. Sally and Nicole looked stunned to see Amy here whereas Blizzard looked downright gobsmacked to see her hated nemesis standing there before them even though she sealed the city off so no one could disturb them. Regardless, Blizzard hid her astonishment and she put on her usual evil, icy glare.

"Amy Rose." muttered Blizzard coldly "You've just had to show up and interfere with seminal matters here didn't you?"

"Of course I did!" yelled Amy "You're trying to take a kingdom that isn't yours and you're trying to kill Sally and Nicole! Not to mention I still owe you a headache for killing mom and dad! I know they were mean to you as you say they are but killing them was inexcusable so prepare for an extra large hammer wallop Blizzard!"

"Good, I was hoping to add another Rose to the death list." cackled Blizzard wickedly "And you will be even more special then your scornful parents as you're a Royal Fighter apparently. So is Sonic not helping you on this one?"

"This is a battle between us two only." said Amy bluntly "Now put up or shut up witch!"

"Gladly you pink scum!" cackled Blizzard, raising her sword and preparing to twirl it.

Amy did not wait even for a second. She charged towards Blizzard and she swung her mighty hammer at her. Blizzard blocked the attack with her ice sword and she swung the sword at Amy. Amy jumped back, causing Blizzard to miss and she bopped the hedgehog on the head just as she swung at her again. Blizzard growled crossly and she rubbed her throbbing head. Amy leaped behind Blizzard and she walloped her in the back, causing Blizzard to hurl forwards and crash into the doors at the end of the room. Blizzard knocked them both down and she lay on the floor, grumbling savagely to herself. She picked herself up and Amy leaped at her again. Blizzard swiped at her with the sword and she slashed her directly across the belly. Amy screamed in pain and she doubled over, clutching her stomach. There as a long thin cut straight across it now after that attack. Blizzard cackled at Amy and she prepared to chop her in two with the sword but Amy rolled out of the way before she could hit her. Amy thought the stinging pain in her belly and she got back into the fight. She swung her hammer at Blizzard and Blizzard swung her sword at Amy, the two weapons clashing nosily off each other. They clashed weapons again and again and struck several blows at each other. Amy then tried to kick Blizzard in the gut but Blizzard leaned to one side, causing her to miss. Blizzard fisted Amy directly in the eye, leaving the hedgehog to scream in pain and clutch her eye. Blizzard slashed at her again with her sword, catching her on the arm this time and leaving a rather long cut on it. Amy growled in an exasperated manner and she walloped Blizzard with her hammer. Blizzard staggered backwards but she regained herself and began swinging her sword at her again. She and Amy clashed weapons but Amy caught Blizzard off guard by hammering her sword on the top side, breaking the blade and rendering Blizzard weapon less. Blizzard scowled at Amy and she summoned another ice sword from nowhere. With that ice gem of hers, she could summon ice weapons at will so Amy could break as many as she wished, she'd just summon a new one. Amy tried to smash Blizzard's ice sword again but Blizzard dodged her attack and whacked Amy in the back with the flat side of her sword. Amy cried out in pain and she fell onto her knees. Blizzard tried to stab Amy with the sword but Amy blocked the attack with her hammer and she hammered it out of Blizzard's hands before she could ready herself again. The sword skidded across the floor and crashed into the wall. Instead of retrieving it, Blizzard just summoned a new sword to her hand and she slashed at Amy with it. Amy walloped Blizzard in the face with her hammer and then in the gut But Blizzard got her own back by grabbing the hammer with her hand and freezing it. Blizzard snatched the hammer out of Amy's grasp and she cleaved it in two with the sword. But Amy could summon hammers from airspace so she wouldn't be rendered weapon less anytime soon. Amy summoned a new hammer to her hand and she swiped at Blizzard with it. Blizzard back flipped away from Amy and she made her sword disappear. She thrust her arms forward and sent a shower of sharp icicles hurling towards Amy. Amy ran through the shower, hammering the icicles away as they neared her. Blizzard scowled at her, furious to see her icicle shower wasn't working so instead, Blizzard thrust her arms forward and blew Amy away with a gust of icy wind (now you know why she's called "Blizzard" don't you?). Amy was propelled backwards through the room and sent crashing into the archway above the doors. After that hit, Amy fell back down to the floor and grimaced in pain. Blizzard didn't often resort to winds but when she did, they were a force to be reckoned with. Amy picked herself up, straining hard as she did so and Blizzard advanced on her with a cold smile on her face.

"Thank you for that little exercise Amy." crowed Blizzard "I've quite enjoyed this little workout. "But now I've had my fun, I'll just put you out of your misery already."

She raised the sword above her head and brought it swinging down on Amy. But Amy recovered just in time and blocked the attack with her hammer.

"I'll never fall at your hands Blizzard!" hissed Amy determinedly.

With that said, the two hedgehogs began clashing weapons with each other once again, progressing the fight. This fight was going to go on for longer then people thought but no matter what happens in the fight, it was going to end badly for Amy as Blizzard was clearly the stronger opponent and was waiting for the right moment to strike…

"Oh this walk is murder on my legs!" moaned none other then Marik the Martian as he trudged through the plains of Megapolis grumpily to himself "How I wish my jet shoes were still working!"

Ever since his defeat at the hands of Mandy Mouse, Marik had just been trudging around Megapolis aimlessly, wondering what to do as he was hiding yet again and waiting for the right moment to strike. As you can see, Marik's still grumpy about his disabled jet shoes. After all, he can't move around the landscape as quickly as he could do with them and he hates walking a lot as going slow and doing something boring wasn't Marik's cup of tea, he liked the exciting and dangerous yet evil stuff. Just as Marik was about to start complaining again, he noticed something and he stopped dead in his tracks. Marik stared at what he had just come across on his little trek. What he had come across was the sorry remains of Robotropolis. The city used to be Eggman's base of operations but now it was an enormous wreckage of steel, iron and machinery that just ruined the scenery for anybody walking around. Marik's evil face curled into a sadistic smile. He loved destruction after all and seeing a destroyed city always made him feel happy.

"So, it appears someone's destroyed a city huh?" mused Marik "Pity I wasn't there to join in, I would have loved to tear the place to the ground! But what city is this and what's it doing in the middle of nowhere? It looks a little out of place here…"

Then suddenly, something cut Marik off in the middle of his speech. It was an ominous rumble that filled the plains of the Northern Border of Megapolis and Marik could feel the ground shaking beneath his feet.

"What in the name of Jupiter is happening around here?" cried Marik "Is it an earthquake? If it is then it's time I fled for it!"

But it was not an earthquake. It was Dr. Eggman's underground hangar bay opening up so the Egg-Fleet could leave the bay and fly up into the sky. Marik watched in amazement as the ground seemed to open up directly next to the wreckage of Robotropolis. The ground opened up in the manner of two doors, bits of earth and soil falling into the hangar bay as they opened. After the doors finished opening, Marik ran over to the open doors and peeked inside the hangar bay. What he saw was an incredible sight for him. Dr. Eggman's flagship for the Egg-Fleet had been completed at last and now the Egg-Fleet was preparing for launch. Marik gaped at the flagship, unable to believe how large it was. This machine must have enormous firepower! He simply must have it!

"Look at that beauty of a flying machine!" cried Marik "I simply must have this ship! I'll lay siege to Mobius in an instant with this thing!"

So Marik decided he was going to hijack the ship. Marik leaped down into the hangar bay and he landed on the ship's fuselage. He took cover behind a gun turret on the huge vessel and waited as the flagship began to rise up from the hangar bay and into the open air of the outside world. Marik held on tight as the flagship flew up into the sky. To Marik's surprise though, there wasn't just one ship. As the flagship flew into the sky, it was followed by forty-nine other ships. Any that had been lost during the fleet's first outing had been rebuilt as well as the flagship so now all fifty ships were back in action and fully functional. Marik was slightly puzzled as to why the ships most resembled aquatic life but he didn't let that bother him, he was just too amazed at the fact he was now in the middle of a fleet.

"So there's a whole fleet of these eh?" he purred to himself, trying to make himself heard over the ship's engine "Nice, I could do with a fleet like this. I'm not too keen on the aquatic theme though so I may have to destroy them and rebuild them in a more suitable image."

As Marik began to picture himself taking control of the fleet in his foul little mind, the fleet flew away from the hangar bay and headed off to New Mobotropolis. In the cockpit, Dr. Eggman sat comfortably in his chair and he steered the ships to New Mobotropolis. Eggman smiled as widely as he could to himself. His fleet was back in action and now he was going to finish Sonic off for good. Katherine stood beside him as still as a statue and as silent as a grave, patiently awaiting orders.

"Thanks ever so much for rebuilding my fleet Katherine." said Dr. Eggman happily "I'm so glad that you're loyal to me unlike Alonzo. Now this fleet is airborne again, I will finish those Royal Fighters off once and for all! Royal HQ and Castle Acorn will join Mobotropolis in wreckage when I'm finished with them!"

He then laughed to himself as he pictured the destruction of Mobotropolis' last remaining building and the Royal Fighter's base of operations in his head. Sonic wouldn't stand a chance once the fleet arrived on his home turf…

What an opening for New Mobotropolis! Blizzard's trying to take it over and now Eggman's gonna try and destroy it! Can Sonic and friends save for day or is this day gonna end VERY badly for them? STAY TUNED! Reviews are welcome and now if you'll excuse me, I'm gonna try and work out how the heck 2 + 2 can possibly equal carrots...

P.S. Yes Chaos Kai X, you may choose the entire series! Well if you can't pick your favourite chapters, then can you pick your top ten favourite OCs in this story then?

Story 96: City Attack Part 1

New Mobotropolis was off to a great opening (not!). Before the grand opening ceremony even starts, former councillor Blizzard the Hedgehog returns and tries to subjugate the city for herself and now she and Amy Rose are in heated combat with one another. The two hedgehogs had been battling pretty fiercely these past few minutes and the residents of Castle Acorn could only watch as they waited for the battle to end and the winner to emerge. Amy and Blizzard clashed weapons with each other once more. Amy's Piko-Piko hammer and Blizzard's ice sword clashed nosily off of each other as they hit each other. Amy swung her hammer at Blizzard but Blizzard ducked and slashed Amy across the arm with her sword. Amy grimaced in pain and she clutched her throbbing arm. She'd already received a stomach cut, she didn't need an arm cut too.

"Quit cutting me Blizzard!" yelled Amy crossly.

She then proceeded to smash Blizzard's ice sword to pieces just as she prepared to stab her with it. The sword was reduced to ice shards and Blizzard growled furiously at Amy.

"Quit smashing my swords Amy!" snarled Blizzard.

Given her ice powers, Blizzard just summoned a new sword to her hand and she swiped at Amy with it. Amy leaped back to dodge the attack and she gave Blizzard an uppercut with her hammer. Blizzard staggered backwards and fell onto her back. She clutched her throbbing face and she picked herself up ever so slowly. Amy ran over to Blizzard but Blizzard swiped her arms and blew Amy away with a huge gust of icy wind. Amy hurled across the room, landed on the council bench and then fell off it and landed behind it rather heavily. The whole impact sounded rather painful and the council members made an "Ooh, that must have hurt!" gesture. Queen Sally Acorn and Nicole the Lynx just watched in horror as Blizzard cackled menacingly and went around the back of the council bench to presumably kill Amy. Amy picked herself up, moaning in pain and rubbing her throbbing back. That onslaught had done a number on her and now she was feeling a little too weak to stand up and fight the ice witch. She tried to pick herself up but she just found herself slumping back onto the floor. Blizzard smacked Amy in the face and knocked her down onto her back. Blizzard then pointed her sword at Amy's throat, the pink hedgehog gulping nervously and shivering at the mere sight of it. Her heart began to pound and her head began sweating like mad.

"You should have stayed in Knothole Amy." purred Blizzard in a voice colder then even her ice powers "That way you would have avoided your coming death. But you were eager to throw your life away for the greater good and I was willing to take it, especially as you're a Rose and I hate the Rose family for their treatment of me! Now, prepare yourself Amy, this will hurt either a lot or a little."

"No! Wait Blizzard please!" begged Amy desperately "Don't do this! Don't do this! Please!"

Blizzard ignored Amy and prepared to plunge the sword into the pink hedgehog's heart. Amy covered her eyes and whimpered in fear. Death was coming for her and it served her right for being so foolish. She should have let Sonic and friends help her but her stubborn nature and ego got the best of her and now she was going to die because of it. Pity she wouldn't be able to learn from that mistake because she was going to die now! But just as Blizzard lunged forward with the sword, Nicole ran around behind the bench and grabbed her in a chokehold. Blizzard gagged and she dropped her sword in surprise. The ice witch struggled in the lynx's tough grasp. Nicole was much stronger then Blizzard was given how Blizzard only relied on her powers for fighting and didn't know any combat skills of any kind whereas Nicole knew how to fight and constantly trained to stay in shape so physically, Nicole was stronger then Blizzard.

"Wretched child!" growled Blizzard "Release me at once!"

"Not on your life Blizzard!" grunted Nicole as she tried to keep her hold on Blizzard "You took Amy's parents, I won't let you take Amy as well!"

As Nicole held Blizzard into place, Amy suddenly had an idea. Blizzard was vulnerable now and she couldn't fight back so Amy could just snatch the gem off her belt and render her unable to use ice weapons or freeze people! Amy picked herself up and grabbed the gem on Blizzard's belt. She tried to pull it off but since Blizzard froze it onto her belt, it wouldn't budge. It was firmly fixed to the belt and Amy was unable to remove it.

"Hey! What's the big idea?" asked Amy "Your gem won't come off!"

Blizzard kicked Amy and made her let go of the belt. She then proceeded to summon an ice dagger to her hand and scratch Nicole's thigh with it in order to make her let go of her. Nicole screamed in pain and she let go of Blizzard so she could clutch her thigh which now had a small, thin cut that trickled with blood. It wasn't a serious cut luckily but Blizzard only held back because she wasn't interested in Nicole and only wanted her to let go of her. Blizzard elbowed Nicole away and she picked up her ice sword. She pointed it at Amy just as the hedgehog was standing back up and brandishing her hammer.

"I've frozen my gem to my belt." explained Blizzard "And since ice witches are cold on the outside and inside, the ice will not be melting anytime soon. My icy aura will keep the gem frozen to my belt so you shall never render me unable to freeze people or use my swords and other ice weapons."

"More's the pity." muttered Amy "I guess I'll have to rip that stupid belt off your waist then if I can't take the gem off!"

"Try it and you will suffer badly." snarled Blizzard icily.

The two hedgehogs then lunged at each other and they clashed weapons yet again. They then proceeded to push on each other's weapons and try to force the other onto the floor. It was going to be one heck of a sumo match now. But just as they were pushing on each other, a faint roaring sound could be heard outside the city of New Mobotropolis.

"Hey Blizzard! Stop roaring will you?" yelled Amy crossly.

"I'm not roaring!" snapped Blizzard

"Well someone's roaring!" retorted Amy.

The two hedgehogs then stopped what they were doing and they stared at each other in shock. The roaring sound was getting louder and it was not coming from anyone in the room. It was coming from outside up in the sky and it wasn't an animalistic roar either. It was…

"That's not the roar of a Mobian." said Amy slowly.

"It sounds more like…the roaring of…engines!" blurted Blizzard.

The two hedgehogs abandoned their weapons and they darted to the window and fast. Sally, Nicole and the council were wondering what was going on so they ran over to the window to see what was up. Blizzard unfroze Hamlin the Pig so he could see what was going on too. Everybody gathered to the windows and to their horror, the Egg-Fleet was coming towards New Mobotropolis and it looked like it was ready to attack! Sally almost fell over backwards and she fought to keep herself standing.

"Oh my gosh!" gurgled Sally "Eggman's fleet is back and he's rebuilt his flagship!"

"You mean to inform me that that fleet out there belongs to Dr. Eggman?" asked Blizzard.

"You got that right ice breath." muttered Amy "The Egg-Fleet attacked before but the flagship mysteriously blew up before it could reach us. Given how Eggman's sidekick Alonzo betrayed him, I'm willing to bet it was him that did it but now he's dead, I can't guarantee Eggman's ship will be blowing up again."

"So it appears that Eggman returns again." said Blizzard "Good. Now I can show the citizens of New Mobotropolis what a TRUE ruler of a kingdom should do!"

Before anyone could stop her, Blizzard darted out of the room as fast as she could possibly run and headed on out into the city. Amy, Sally and Nicole chased after the ice witch as fast as they could and the council stayed where they were. Blizzard was up to something and it couldn't possibly be any good. After Blizzard, Amy, Sally and Nicole ran outside, they ran up to Sonic the Hedgehog and friends, who were all staring up at the oncoming Egg-Fleet in horror. Sonic looked more horrified at the fact the flagship had been repaired then anything but the whole fleet being back was horrifying enough in it's own right. The poor citizens of New Mobotropolis were all scared by the oncoming fleet and since Sonic and Amy had busted the gates down, they ran into the city to take cover from the fleet. But that wouldn't do them any good as the Egg-Fleet would just level the place in a millisecond. As Sonic watched the fleet coming in, memories of Mobotropolis' destruction crept into his head like a spider in a bath.

"Oh man! New Mobotropolis is ready for opening and now Eggman's come to level the place!" muttered Sonic "Can this day get any worse?"

"Um blue dude? I wouldn't tempt fate like that." said one of his fellow friends Mandy Mouse "You never know what might happen."

"Eh." said Sonic casually "I wonder what took Eggman so long to come out of hiding then? Guess he finally got over his losses the last time we met him."

"Well it took him a while didn't it?" asked Tails the Fox, Sonic's twin-tailed sidekick "Six whole months have went by without him and now he comes out with his fleet. Maybe that's what he's been doing this whole time, rebuilding his flagship and ships he lost when we tried to stop it."

"Perhaps." said fellow fighter Geoffrey St. John the Skunk "I bet the bloke's surprised to see that Mobotropolis has been rebuilt and now he's likely gonna level it again with that darn fleet. Talk about fate being unkind to us!"

"Eggman's ships won't even lay a scratch on New Mobotropolis." said Sally slyly "We've installed some new features into the new city that'll protect us from anything Eggman throws at us."

"Really?" asked Sonic "What are those new features then?"

"Nicole's secret defence system." explained Sally "Nicole, demonstrate the defence system if you please."

"Yes Sally." said Nicole, taking a small silver bead off one of her ponytails.

The bead was really the controls for the defence system in disguise. After removing the bead, Nicole lightly squeezed it and it extended into a stick shape with a button on the end. The stick could transform from stick to sphere anytime Nicole liked and since she kept in on her hair, she'd always have it when the city needed it and she didn't have to worry about losing it, there were other means of activating the system without the control stick. There were touch pads around the city that only the rulers of New Mobotropolis could use and the moment you touched one of the pads, the system activated. Nicole pressed the button on the stick and a force field extended out from the surrounding walls and covered the city like a string of cling film being wrapped around cheese. The force field was colourless and couldn't be seen and the only way you knew it was on was when it activated, there was a bright flash that disappeared after the shield was activated. The crowd went "Ooh" in awe and Sonic whistled in an impressed manner.

"Im-pressive!" cried Sonic excitedly "A force field to defend the city from harm! Sally, you're a genius!"

"Thank you Sonic." giggled Sally in a flattered manner "Although really, it was Nicole who came up with the idea of defence systems and the team of inventors we hired were a great help to us, helping to bring this idea to life."

"In that case, way past cool Nicole!" congratulated Sonic, giving her his trademark thumbs up sign.

"This shield will protect the city from Eggman's fleet!" cheered Tails "Hooray!"

"Nice one luv." said Geoffrey with a wink of the eye "That defence system was a brilliant idea."

Nicole blushed with pleasure and she put her hands behind her back shyly.

"Why…um…thank you…" said Nicole bashfully "I'm flattered by your compliments."

"So what if the city has a force field?" retorted Blizzard in an annoyed manner "That doesn't mean we're safe! That Eggman will not give up until he destroys the city so raising a force field is likely to agitate him more then anything! All you're doing is provoking him you pea-minded mongrels and he'll try everything he can to bring the shield down! You'd better hope that the shield is as strong as you want it to be or we will be in trouble!"

"Nobody asked for your opinion Miss Creepy Snow Hog!" snapped Mandy "So you can shut up for starters or you'll feel my brass knuckle attachments!" she raised her fists menacingly and threatened to punch Blizzard in the face.

"Yeah! What she says!" put in Wilson, pointing his spinning blade weapon at Blizzard.

"So Miss Sally, how strong is the shield?" asked Cream curiously.

"Strong enough to hold off Eggman's fleet that's for sure." said Sally brightly.

"But if Eggman was to take the kamikaze route and maybe drive the fleet into the shield then we'd be dead." said Nicole gravely "The inventors claim that the shield can't hold off heavy onslaughts like a battleship or a meteor crashing into it so we'd best hope Eggman doesn't get that idea."

"Oh come on Nicole, Eggman's not that stupid or crazy!" snickered Sonic "He's not gonna drive his precious fleet straight into the shield!"

"Regardless of what his stratagem is, we must rid our city from the Eggman and his baneful machines." noted Blizzard "Otherwise we won't get any peace around here! And since you heroes can't so much as get rid of the fat moron, I shall have the honours of doing it myself."

"Oh really Blizzie?" sneered Sonic "What makes you think you have a better chance of defeating Eggman then us then?"

"The fact I can freeze people." gloated Blizzard "I'll just freeze the entire fleet in an instant and then shatter it while it's frozen. After that, I will have done the one thing you and your Royal Fighters never could Sally Acorn, get rid of Dr. Eggman!"

"OK then Blizzard, if you're so mighty and powerful then get rid of Eggman for us." said Sally grimly "Do us a favour and save us the dirty work and do something good for a change."

"I'm glad you're viewing this in a positive manner." said Blizzard sarcastically "However Sally, I'm willing to barter on something. If I can get rid of Dr. Eggman, which I know I will, you must relinquish your crown to me and stand down as Queen of New Mobotropolis. If I fail however then I get nothing and I'll have to try my luck some other time."

"Don't make that deal Sally!" screeched Amy "Blizzard will do terrible things if she becomes queen!"

Sally ignored Amy and strangely enough, shook hands with Blizzard as if she was accepting the deal.

"Deal." said Sally.

"Very well then!" exclaimed Blizzard happily "Now stand back and watch as I turn Eggman's fleet into a fleet of ice sculptures!"

With that said, Blizzard ran past the crowd of citizens, towards the busted down gates and out of the city to deal with Dr. Eggman. Sonic watched as Blizzard fled the city and he looked at Sally as if the squirrel queen was growing another head.

"Sal, please tell me you're not losing your mind!" cried Sonic "What if Blizzard wins? Then we'll have to play servant for the bad guy and this hedgehog will not be pleased with it!"

Sally just gave Sonic a sly smile and she showed Sonic her other hand which she'd hidden behind her back. Her fingers were crossed which meant she was lying about the whole thing and Blizzard had just been gypped. Sonic's eyes widened slightly and his lips curled into a mischievous little smile.

"Oh, ho, ho, ho! The ol' finger crossing trick!" laughed Sonic "So you didn't agree to it after all!"

"I lied to Blizzard just to get her to shut up already." said Sally "Did you seriously think that I'd be willing to surrender my kingdom to a witch like her? My parents kept me well informed on her and I'm not letting someone who killed a councillor and a cop rule New Mobotropolis."

"I'm glad you see it my way Sally." beamed Amy "So what are we gonna do then?"

"You will all get up to Eggman's fleet and try as hard as you can to bring it down before Blizzard does." said Sally "Make Blizzard look like a total fool and prove to the citizens of New Mobotropolis that you all are the ones who can defeat Dr. Eggman and not Blizzard. That way Blizzard won't be seen as much good in the public eye and your reputations won't be ruined by her."

"Say no more Sally." said Sonic with a cocky smirk on his face "The hedgehog is on it. Royal Fighters, let's do it to it!"

The Royal Fighters did not wait to be asked twice. They all ran off out of the city and into the open where Eggman's fleet loomed ominously above the city, casting it's shadow on the ground below. All fifty aquatic themed ships were armed and ready to fire down on the shielded city. Sonic stared up at the fleet and wondered what was keeping Eggman up there. You'd think his first response would be to open fire already but instead, he was waiting. Maybe he was so shocked at the fact Mobotropolis had just been rebuilt that he couldn't do anything for a minute. Nevertheless, Eggman had to be taken down otherwise the fleet would be a bother for the heroes and they'd never get any peace. Tails twisted his tails around one another and he took flight. He grabbed Sonic and Knuckles by one arm each and carried them off the ground and up towards the Egg-Fleet. Cream flapped her ears and took flight too. She carried Amy and Cosmo off the ground ad up towards the Egg-Fleet too and finally, Bunnie activated her rocket jets and she carried Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey and Shade all off the ground. She had extended her robot arm so she could carry Wilson and Mandy on one side, Geoffrey clung onto her back and she carried Shade under the other arm. The Mobians all flew up towards the Egg-Fleet, ready to take it down. Blizzard however, was already up there and preparing to freeze it. Blizzard was capable of flight too, using the blustery, icy winds she was capable of creating to levitate off the ground and fly in the sky. Blizzard decided to take down the flagship first so she flew past all the other ships and headed towards the flagship.

"Goodness, that fat moron builds a lot doesn't he?" she mused to herself as she flew past all the ships in front of the flagship "Well when I'm finished with him, he won't be building anything anymore! Ha, ha, ha, ha!"

As for Dr. Eggman, he was sitting comfortably in the pilot's seat of the flagship with his sidekick Katherine the Fem-Bot beside him and he peered at the screens to see if the fleet had arrived at Royal HQ yet. To his surprise, there wasn't just Castle Acorn and Royal HQ at the location. Mobotropolis, the very first city he destroyed, had been rebuilt and was now proudly standing were the wreckage of the original Mobotropolis had once been. Boy had he missed out on a lot since his dive into insanity!

"Well, things have changed over the six months I've missed out on." said Dr. Eggman "Mobotropolis has been rebuilt and seems to have some slight new features like that ring wall around the city. Oh well, I've destroyed it before! I'll destroy it again! Egg-Fleet!" he bellowed "Aim all your weapons down at Mobotropolis and decimate it!"

The fleet obeyed the evil (omelette) dictator's orders and their cannons all aimed down and pointed at New Mobotropolis, ready to destroy it. Then, after their aim was set, the cannons began firing down at the newly rebuilt city. But, as we already know, the city was surrounded by a force field so the gun shots just ricocheted off the shield harmlessly and did no damage of any kind. As the fleet began shooting down at New Mobotropolis, all fifty ships showering the city with cannon blasts that could level the city in seconds if it wasn't defended, Sonic and friends touched down on the first ship of the fleet, which was one of the red shark shaped ships, and Sonic took charge.

"OK, we've gotta take these ships down in order to weaken the flagship's defences and then we take out Eggman himself." said Sonic "We'll split up so we can take the ships down quicker. Me, Tails and Knuckles will stay here, the rest of you, sort your teams out and cause some damage."

The Royal Fighters did what Sonic told them to and they split up into teams. Team One was Sonic, Tails and Knuckles, Team Two was Amy, Cream and Cosmo, Team Three was Bunnie, Geoffrey and Shade and Team Four was just Wilson and Mandy. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles remained where they are whereas the other teams began moving onto other ships. Team Two leaped onto one of the purple manta ray shaped ships and they began to attack that one, Team Three leaped onto a sawfish shaped ship and Team Four went onto another shark ship. Now the teams had picked their ships, they began to cut loose and do as much damage as they possibly could to their targets. As the teams began to do their damage, Blizzard landed on the flagship, which was several ships behind the ships Sonic and friends were attacking and she touched the deck of the ship with her hands.

"What a large ship this is." she said to herself "This really will be a brilliant ice statue for me to display in my upcoming kingdom!"

She cackled to herself and then began to freeze the deck of the ship. The floor beneath her began to turn to ice and then spread all over the ship. Dr. Eggman immediately saw what Blizzard was doing through the window of the cockpit and he leaped to his feet in surprise. Seeing a strange white hedgehog freezing his ship was not what he was expecting to encounter right now.

"Holy steel girders!" blurted Eggman "There's a hedgehog in robes on my ship and it's freezing it! Katherine, stop that hedgehog and quick before my ship becomes a popsicle!"

Katherine nodded silently and she pressed a button on the control pad. Outside on the decks, Blizzard had almost frozen the entire front of the ship until something came up from the floor and up onto the deck of the ship. It was none other then Dr. Eggman's deadliest creation and strongest robot ever Metal Sonic! Katherine had rebuilt Metal Sonic during Eggman's time in insanity and had used the same tech used to make Metal Sonic 3.0 so he was completely loyal to Dr. Eggman unlike the previous model who hijacked Egg-Timer and used it to make the world in his image. Dr. Eggman stared at the screen that showed him what was going on outside and he beamed in surprise.

"Oh Katherine you wonderful girl!" cried Eggman, hugging Katherine without realizing it "You've rebuilt Metal Sonic for me! Thank you so much you lovely little fem-bot!"

Katherine just said nothing and took the praise from her master. How she loved it when she was praised by Eggman for her good deeds. Out on the decks of the ship, Metal Sonic stared at Blizzard ominously with his red optics and Blizzard stared back at him. Metal Sonic then began to scan Blizzard and copy her data much like how the original Sonic did so.

"Analyzing:" he droned in his deep robotical voice "Data scan complete: Subject lists as Mobian. Abilities: Ice and Snow power. Threat level: considered high. Prioritizing: must decimate target."

"Who are you strange robot?" asked Blizzard.

"Identification: Metal Sonic." explained Metal Sonic "Position: loyal robot servant of Dr. Eggman."

"Well I am Blizzard the Hedgehog, ice witch and soon to be ruler of New Mobotropolis!" announced Blizzard loudly "And you and your doctor will be an ice sculpture in my new kingdom when I am crowned Queen of New Mobotropolis!"

With that said, Blizzard held her hand out and a sharp icicle extended out of the palm of her hand and extended towards Metal Sonic. Metal Sonic just held his hand up and made the icicle shatter into pieces. Metal Sonic had scanned Blizzard's data so he had all the abilities Blizzard had. He could manipulate ice and snow and do anything Blizzard could do. Even prevent himself from being frozen as he would just unfreeze himself with his powers. Blizzard gawped in shock at the fact Metal Sonic had just stopped her icicle in mid-attack. Metal Sonic marched ominously up to Blizzard, his optics burning with rage at her.

"Analysis: subject wishes to harm master and I." droned Metal Sonic "Prioritizing: must eliminate threat."

With that said, Metal Sonic lunged out at Blizzard and slugged her directly in the stomach. Blizzard made an epically hilarious face as she was slugged and she wheezed heavily in pain. That punch was almost strong enough to plough it's way through her flesh. Blizzard fell down onto the floor and she coughed heavily. Metal Sonic stared down at her and he kicked the ice witch as hard as he could, sending Blizzard rolling across the decks of the ship. Metal Sonic held his hands out and made the ice covering the front of the ship shatter and disappear so the ship was no longer frozen. Blizzard picked herself up and she lunged at Metal Sonic. Metal Sonic lunged at her and the two began to tussle with one another. Metal Sonic smacked Blizzard down onto the decks and the ice witch groaned in pain. Before Blizzard could stand back up though, Metal Sonic blasted her with his torso laser and the ice witch was thrown across the battlefield. Unbeknownst to the two, Marik the Martian, who had stowed away on Eggman's flagship as the fleet launched earlier, was hiding behind a gun turret and he was watching the fight with great interest. He was enjoying it dearly and he was rooting for Metal Sonic as Blizzard was attempting to freeze the ship and if she froze it, he wouldn't be able to use it so he wanted Metal Sonic to win. Metal Sonic gave Blizzard an uppercut that sent her hurling into a gun turret and she hit it with a heavy crash. Marik punched the air and cheered happily.

"Whoo hah! Go Metal Sonic! Give that white snow hedgehog thing another one for me!" cried Marik "Make her suffer for trying to freeze a ship I'm attempting to steal now!"

Metal Sonic didn't hear the happy Martian's cheers but he continued to wipe the floor with Blizzard. He slammed her down onto the decks again by grabbing her arm and swinging her over onto her back and then he threw her across the deck. Marik stayed hidden and continued watching, enjoying this fight immensely.

Meanwhile, the four teams were doing well at destroying Eggman's ships upfront. Sonic, Tails and Knuckles were one destructive trio when they were together and the shark ships they attacked had no chance. Sonic spin-dashed the gun turrets into pieces and Knuckles punched the turrets into scrap metal. Sonic and Tails then did something they don't usually do. They curled up into balls and Knuckles grabbed them. He leaped into the air and threw Sonic and Tails at the ship. The ship was destroyed in an instant and Tails grabbed Sonic and Knuckles before they could fall to the ground along with the destroyed ship. He flew them onto the next ship and they kept up their team attacks. Sonic and Knuckles destroyed the ship's turrets again and then Sonic and Tails curled up into balls after the turrets were destroyed.

"We three should work together more often!" laughed Sonic as Knuckles prepared to throw him and Tails again "We're mondo epic together aren't we?"

"You could say that Sonic." said Knuckles cockily "It's a good thing I'm amazingly strong isn't it? If not then this attack wouldn't work as well as it does!"

Knuckles leaped into the air and threw Sonic and Tails at the ship again. The ship was destroyed instantly by the amazing attack and the remains fell down to the ground. Further up the fleet, Team Rose were dealing with the manta-ray shaped ships that were just behind the shark ship squadron Team Sonic were dealing with. The ship's turrets began firing at the girls but Cream avoided the shots and she put Amy and Cosmo down on the ship so they could take it down. Cream and Cosmo weren't really of much help as they weren't that strong or had any abilities or weapons so it was Amy who did mostly everything with her trademark Piko-Piko hammer. Amy smashed the turrets with her hammer, rendering the ship weapon-less and then the girls formed together to perform the team's signature move, the Twirling-Hammer Batter (yes, I think this name is corny too!). Cream spun Cosmo and Amy around in mid-air and Amy hammered the ship, knocking it out of the sky and sending it falling down to the ground. Bunnie, Geoffrey and Shade were dealing with the sawfish squadron of ships that were behind the manta rays. They were the only ships standing between this team and the flagship so Bunnie, Geoffrey and Shade were going to get past the centre one and then get onto the flagship. Bunnie carried her team mates over to the ship and they landed on the ship's long nose. The nose was full of gun turrets and they all began firing at Bunnie, Geoffrey and Shade.

Bunnie deployed her shield generator and she blocked all the shots. Her shield generator was stronger then it seemed but it wouldn't hold off the relentless bombardment of cannon shots forever.

"Geoffrey! Do ya'll have some explodin' darts darlin'?" asked Bunnie.

"I certainly do babe." said Geoffrey, loading his crossbow with exploding darts "You and Shade keep the turrets busy and I'll set them up."

"Then after the turrets are destroyed, we can destroy the ship and get to the flagship." said Shade, deploying her trademark twin blade weapons.

So Bunnie and Shade ran across the nose of the ship and headed towards the colossal vessel itself. The gun turrets followed them and started shooting at Bunnie and Shade but Bunnie's shield was still deployed so she and Shade were safe from attack at least. Geoffrey smirked happily to himself and he began firing darts at the gun turrets while running after the girls. He used up the supply he'd loaded himself with and then he set off the exploding darts. The darts exploded and the gun turrets were destroyed in an instant. The force of the explosion destroyed the turrets further back and rendered the ship weapon-less. Over on the flagship, Marik saw the explosion on the sawfish ship and he wondered what was happening so he left his hiding place, ran across the decks and straight past the still brawling Metal Sonic and Blizzard the Hedgehog, and over to the edge of the ship. He could see the explosions destroying the gun turrets and he instantly realized that he wasn't the only uninvited guest in the Egg-Fleet.

"Saboteurs!" cried Marik "They're wrecking the fleet! I must stop them before they finish it off and leave me with nothing to steal!"

He then proceeded to leap into the air and sail towards the ship in front of the flagship. It didn't appear as if he was going to make it but just as it looked like he was going to plummet to the ground, he stretched a hand out and grabbed the tail fin at the back of the ship. He pulled himself up onto the fin and jumped down onto the top of the ship. He was just about to dart forward but Shade jumped up and landed on top of the ship. She, Bunnie and Geoffrey were going to destroy the ship and Shade was going to take topside while Bunnie and Geoffrey messed it up on the inside. However, before Shade could do anything, she spotted Marik standing guard on the ship and he looked like he was ready for a battle. Shade raised her weapons and prepared to fight.

"Who are you?" she demanded "Identify yourself!"

"Indeed woman!" snickered Marik mockingly "Know your enemy. I am Marik the Martian, alien invader from Mars and nemesis of Sonic the Hedgehog! Who might you be then pretty one?"

"I am Shade the Echidna, secondary guardian of Angel Island and friend of Sonic and Knuckles." Shade introduced "If you're helping Eggman to destroy New Mobotropolis then stand down or face my blades!"

Marik laughed at Shade and he bent down in a battle ready stance, ready to pounce on the echidna.

"I am not in league with that idiot Dr. Eggman at all!" cackled Marik "I am my own person and I wish to turn Mobius into a war zone filled with nothing but violence, death and despair and I will not let some pretty girl in a head band and pretentious battle suit stand in my way! Stand down or have your heart torn out! Simple as!"

"I choose to do neither." said Shade "You will not destroy New Mobotropolis and you will not destroy Mobius either."

Marik then suddenly charged forwards and rammed Shade in the stomach, almost knocking her off the top of the ship and back down onto the nose. Shade picked herself up and Blade Rushed Marik. Marik was stricken by the pink energy waves and he was sent hurling off his feet and onto his back. Shade tried to attack again but Marik picked himself up, grabbed Shade's arm and slammed her into the decorative dorsal fin of the ship. Shade retaliated with a roundhouse kick to the face that sent Marik staggering for a minute and she slashed him across the face with her blades. Marik took a moment of the battle to lightly stroke his face and feel the long thin cut over his mouth and under his eye that Shade had just made on him and he growled at her. Marik swiped his arms and knocked Shade off her feet with an energy wave and Shade crashed into the dorsal fin feature again.

"You cannot stop me!" cried Marik, kicking Shade across the top of the ship and almost sending her falling off "I am a Martian, one of the most powerful beings in the galaxy and I will level this planet and purge it of all things peaceful and happy! Eggman's fleet here will help be greatly in my plans and I will take it for myself! I can't do that if you fools are going to destroy the ships so now I'm going to stop you from stopping me from destroying New Mobotropolis!"

Shade picked herself up and she lunged at Marik with another Blade Rush. Marik dodged and he scratched Shade across the rib with his metal claws. Shade grimaced and she clutched her throbbing rib. Marik didn't stop to let her rest though. He rammed Shade with his shoulder and knocked her into the dorsal fin again and then he grabbed the echidna by the legs and tripped her up. Shade was brought down onto her stomach and Marik tossed her over onto the flagship as if he was throwing the hammer for the Olympics.

Shade hurled through the air like a rag doll and she crashed straight into Blizzard on the flagship. Metal Sonic had been wiping the floor with the ice witch and now Shade had just crashed into her. The two girls lay on the decks, groaning in pain. Metal Sonic stared at Shade and began wondering where she came from but he quickly dismissed her as an enemy, given how she was a Mobian, and he decided to finish her and Blizzard off both at once. Metal Sonic raised his arm, stretched it across himself and then backhanded Shade and Blizzard both together off the flagship! The two girls were sent hurling off the ship and they plummeted towards the ground. Marik watched this and cackled with glee, pleased to see the two girls falling, hopefully to him, to their deaths. Bunnie however spotted Shade and Blizzard falling out through a window in the ship and she smashed through the window quickly to fly after Shade. Geoffrey looked through the broken window to see what was happening and saw Bunnie flying after Shade. Bunnie made it just in the nick of time and she caught Shade halfway down to the ground. She didn't bother about Blizzard though as Blizzard was evil so she left Blizzard to fall and she carried Shade back to the ship. Blizzard landed on the ground with a heavy crash but the fall didn't kill her as she was made of stronger stuff then a normal person. Ice witches or wizards have tougher skeletons then normal people thanks to their ice powers strengthening their bones and making them like thick chunks of ice so the fall didn't kill her. In New Mobotropolis, Sally and Nicole had seen Blizzard falling so they decided to go over and see what had happened to her. They ran out of the city and over to the battered and beaten ice witch that lay on the grass of the meadows surrounding New Mobotropolis. Blizzard was so beaten that she couldn't even stand up. Sally and Nicole stopped just in front of Blizzard and they looked down at the white furred hedgehog. Sally folded her arms and smirked smugly at Blizzard.

"Well, well, well Blizzard." she sneered "It seems you can't defeat Dr. Eggman after all. Look at you, you've been beaten like a cod! What's been going on up there?"

"Shut…up…Sally!" growled Blizzard, grunting heavily and trying to stand up but failing. "At…least…I'm…trying…to stop…it! You… wouldn't…dare…set…foot…up…there…and do the…dirty…work yourself you…royal little…brat!"

"Believe me Blizzard, if I had to go up there and stop Dr. Eggman then I would." said Sally dryly "Nevertheless, you lose the deal Blizzard and I keep my crown now get out of here."

"I would…if…I could walk…" grumbled Blizzard "I'm…too weak…to get…up now…"

"Then you can rest there for a minute." said Nicole "While you're doing that, you can watch Sonic and friends do what you've just failed to do and stop Eggman's fleet."

"WHAT?" cried Blizzard "Those…morons are…up there…too?"

"Yes." said Sally "I knew you was going to fail. Eggman would easily have some trick up his sleeve that not even ice powers could stop so I sent them up there to stop Dr. Eggman because I know they can do it and I believe they can do it unlike you who's had no experience with that evil man at first hand and relies solely on ice powers to do the dirty work."

"I…hate…you!" snarled Blizzard viciously.

"Dully noted." said Sally casually "Let's get back in the city Nicole and leave poor Blizzard to sulk to herself."

With that said, Sally and Nicole just promptly left Blizzard behind to lie on the ground and feel humiliated. She'd failed to win the deal and now she was being made a total fool out of by Sonic and friends as they were going to finish the job for her. As angry as Blizzard was, she couldn't do anything about it because she was too weak to move so she just had to grit her teeth and bare the humiliation of today. Still, there was always next time she could seize the throne of Castle Acorn so once this charade was open, she could go back into hiding and plan her next move on New Mobotropolis. She wasn't going to get the city today but she was going to get it some other day and no one could make any mistake on that.

Meanwhile, up on Eggman's fleet, Bunnie touched back down onto the nose of the sawfish ship she, Geoffrey and Shade were sabotaging and she looked at the beaten Shade she was carrying in her arms. She lay Shade down on the deck and Shade sat up, grimacing in pain. Geoffrey ran out onto the deck to see what was going on and he saw Shade picking herself up. She rubbed her head tenderly and she felt her stinging rib which was still throbbing from Marik's attack earlier.

"Shade! Sugah, what happened to you?" asked Bunnie concernedly "Please tell us sugah."

"Yeah, I wanna make the bloke who did this to ya pay dearly for darin' to knock you off the ship and nearly get you killed!" cried Geoffrey, loading his crossbow with a stun dart.

"I was…assaulted by a Martian named Marik…" said Shade weakly "He wants to steal…the fleet and destroy the world…with it…"

"Marik?" shrieked Bunnie "Marik the Martian? Oh mah stars! What's that psychopath doin' up here?"

"Well Shade claims the blighter's trying to hijack the fleet and use it for his purposes." said Geoffrey "Well we ain't gonna let him are we?

Let's get the Martian and knock him off the ship and see how he likes it!"

"Where is he Shade?" asked Bunnie "Is he on this ship?"

"I don't know." said Shade "I'm not sure if he's still here or if he's moved."

It was the latter, Marik had moved back onto the flagship. He was going to get rid of Metal Sonic so Metal Sonic wouldn't be able to get in his way. Metal Sonic saw Marik coming towards him but before the robot Sonic clone could do anything at all, Marik leaped on Metal Sonic and grasped him with his metal hand. He then proceeded to painfully electrocute Metal Sonic with his electrical abilities. As powerful as Metal Sonic was, not even he could stand being brutally electrocuted by Marik the Martian. Marik kept the electrocution up until Metal Sonic eventually short circuited and passed out onto the deck. Metal Sonic would need some good repair work done on him now Marik had just broken him. Marik cackled gleefully and he kicked Metal Sonic off of the ship. Metal Sonic plummeted down to the ground and crashed there. The crash broke him into several pieces, leaving him completely useless now. Marik cackled to himself and he began to walk off to the cockpit of the ship.

"That Metal Sonic is nowhere near as good as he was the first time I met him." he said to himself "Either I've improved or he's weakened. Oh well, I've gotten rid of him and since there are saboteurs on the fleet, I'd best take it before everything goes belly up."

However, just as Marik was about to make his move, he heard the sound of two Mobians jumping off of the ships in front of the flagship and onto the flagship itself. Marik turned around and saw that these two were none other then Wilson and Mandy! Given how Wilson and Mandy weren't really equipped with weapons that could destroy a ship, they decided to have the pleasure of getting rid of Dr. Eggman so they jumped across the ships until they reached the flagship. It had been a long trek but they'd made it at last only to find they now had an obstacle to deal with. Mandy was pleased to see it was Marik the Martian so now she could beat him up for almost killing Wilson in Megapolis and escaping before she and Wilson could arrest him. Marik was rather surprised to see the two were up on the fleet with him but he scoffed it off, not really caring that two of Sonic's friends where now going to challenge him on the flagship. He just smiled wickedly at the two and prepared for battle.

"Well, isn't this an interesting twist of fate?" asked Marik "Wilson the Dog and Mandy the Mouse show up and are now going to foolishly attempt to stop me from taking over Eggman's fleet! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! How cruel fate can be…for you two that is!"

"Marik!" snarled Mandy, itching to punch him in the face right now "I wasn't expecting to see your ugly face on Eggman's ugly fleet! I'm glad I am though so now I can kick the snot out of you for almost killing Wilson and escaping arrest!"

"Oh Mandy really, you still hold a grudge on me for that?" sneered Marik "You Mobians are as bad as I am, holding unhealthy grudges for a while and then getting into trouble because of it. Good, that means you Mobians have a bit of Martian in you after all."

"We are nothing like you malicious Martians!" growled Wilson, deploying his spinning blade weapon and itching to throw it "We Mobians have honour and humility, the two things you Martians lack and we have compassion for those we love and care for! That makes us better then you freaks by a long shot!"

"I hardly think the words "Mobians", "better", "then" and "Martians" can go in the same sentence together because we Martians are better then you Mobians in everyway!" crowed Marik "We're stronger, more powerful and way more intelligent then any of you! Now you two back off and let me hijack Eggman's fleet or you will end up finding out what your hearts look like!"

"In your dreams freak!" shouted Mandy "Your face will have a permanent imprint of my fist on it once I'm finished with you! Wilson, let's get him!"

"You said it Mandy girl!" yelled Wilson "For New Mobotropolis!"

The two Mobians cried out loud, fearsome battle cries and they charged towards Marik both together. Marik clenched his fists and waited to see what was going to happen. Mandy ran towards Marik from the right and Wilson ran towards Marik from the left. They both prepared to let the Martian have it with their weapons but Marik ducked, leaving Mandy to punch Wilson directly in the face and send him hurling across the deck on his side. Wilson clutched his cheek and he whimpered in pain, making a noise similar to a dog that's just had it's tail trapped in the door. Mandy gasped in horror and she ran over to help her boyfriend.

"Oh my god! Wilson I'm so sorry!" shrieked Mandy "I'm sorry, I'm so sorry! I didn't mean to punch you! Are you OK? Please be OK!"

"Ow!" whined Wilson "Those knuckle attachments are lethal! I didn't know brass could be that hard! Ouch, ooh that hurt!"

Mandy helped Wilson to stand back up onto his feet but just as Wilson was helped back up, Marik knocked him and Mandy over with a wave of energy. The energy wave swept over them and knocked them onto their stomachs. Marik dusted his hands off and marched over to the two Mobians. His face contorted with loathing.

"I did give you a chance to live you two." he growled "But since you've decided to exploit it by foolishly trying to take me on even though you both know I'm too powerful, I guess you want me to kill you both don't you?"

Mandy leaped back onto her feet and socked Marik in the face. She then proceeded to sock him in the face repeatedly and make him back away across the decks.

"Take that! And that! And that!" screamed Mandy as she let Marik have it continuously "You. will. not. destroy. our. planet!"

She then finished off her onslaught of punches with an uppercut to the chin that sent Marik hurling through the air and crashing down further up the decks. Marik landed on his back with a heavy thud and he screeched to a halt. He felt his face, which felt like it was going to shatter into a million pieces like glass, and he growled in annoyance. Those knuckle attachments were a pain in the arse for him and they really did hurt. But it was going to take a lot more then that to bring him down. Marik picked himself up and wiped away a trickle of blood from the corner of his lip.

"Very well, you've signed your death warrants." he said coldly.

He charged over to Wilson and Mandy and let fly a bunch of electrical jolts from his metal claws. Wilson and Mandy dodged the attacks and Wilson threw his spinning blade at him. Marik lowered his head and the spinning weapon pinged harmlessly off his helmet. The weapon boomeranged back to Wilson and he caught it in his hand. Wilson then slashed at Marik with it but Marik bent over backwards to dodge the attack and he head butted Wilson in the torso. Wilson was sent skidding backwards but he managed to stay on his feet. Marik ran towards Wilson but Wilson swiped at him with the spinning blade and caught him just across the chest with the tip of the blade. Marik roared in pain and he clutched his chest. Wilson put the weapon away and he grabbed Marik by the shoulder. He pulled him forward and kneed him in the gut and then kicked him towards Mandy. Marik tried to pick himself up but Mandy grabbed him by the jacket and tossed him towards the edge of the ship. Marik stopped himself just before he could fall off the ship and he pointed a metal claw as sharp as a flint at Wilson and Mandy. He fired a jolt of electricity and he zapped Wilson in the legs to trip him up. Mandy tried to attack him but Marik zapped her in the legs and tripped her up. The dog and mouse just picked themselves back up but Marik charged over to them, leaped in the air, hurled through them and split-kicked them both onto their sides as he soared between the two. Marik grabbed Wilson by the ankles before the dog could get back up and he slammed him on top of Mandy as if he was a newspaper being used to swat a fly. The two Mobians cried out in pain and Marik kicked both of them as hard as he could. Mandy was the first to get back up and she charged towards Marik, screaming a bloodcurdling battle cry as she did so. Marik lunged for her and tried to seize her but Mandy jumped up, somersaulted over him and landed behind him. The mouse then lunged at Marik with a sucker punch and got him straight in the mouth. Marik staggered backwards, clutching his sore mouth and he scowled at Mandy. Mandy just stood before him and made a "come here" gesture with her hand. Marik was about to oblige when suddenly, Wilson grabbed him from behind and held his spinning blade weapon close to his throat. The dog was attempting to make Marik surrender but the Martian wasn't giving in so easily. He grabbed Wilson's arm with his metal hand and electrocuted him, making the dog let go of him and shake his arm about to ease the pain. Marik the slashed Wilson across the face with his metal claws, gut punched him and roundhouse kicked him in the face. The dog was brought down onto his back and he dropped his weapon. Marik seized it and attempted to stab Wilson with it but Mandy stepped in and grabbed the weapon before Marik could make the killer blow. Marik and Mandy then began to fight over the spinning blade. The two pulled on it as hard as they could but neither one could pull the weapon out of the other's grasp. This was going to be one heck of a tug of war match. But Marik decided to cheat by pointing at Mandy's hips and then firing a jolt of electricity at them. Mandy squealed in pain and she let go of the spinning blade to rub her hips better. Marik saw the opportunity to whack Mandy in the forehead with the flat side of the blade and knock her onto her back. He then prepared to stab her but Wilson jumped on him from behind and pinned him down onto the floor. Marik picked herself up and helped Wilson pin Marik down. Marik tried to get up but Wilson and Mandy were too tough for him. They were pinning him quite securely so the Martian couldn't move.

"We've got him down!" cried Wilson.

"I can see we have!" grunted Mandy as she forced Marik's arms down onto the floor "Now we keep him here until Sonic and the others can get here and then we can all finish him off together!"

"You loathsome pests! Release me at once!" growled Marik.

"I'd have to have been born in the Stupid Kennels to do something like that!" jeered Wilson "You're not going anywhere freak!"

"Kindly refrain from referring to me as a freak!" snarled Marik "Just because I'm not your kind, it doesn't mean I'm a freak! Cosmo's not your kind but you don't call her a freak do you?"

"No because Cosmo is actually our friend." said Mandy "You're not so we can call you what we like! Now shut up or taste my brass knuckles Marik!"

Marik just grumbled under his breath and continued trying to get up only to be forced down by Wilson and Mandy. Meanwhile, in the cockpit of this enormous flagship, Dr. Eggman was beginning to wonder what was going on outside so he asked his servant bot Katherine about the current status of the fleet.

"Katherine! Status report!" barked Eggman.

Katherine, who was wired up into the fleet's mainframe and could see what the ships could see, began doing a thorough search through the fleet to see what was happening and came up with her report. She typed her report on the keyboard and the screen displayed what she was typing to Dr. Eggman. Dr. Eggman read Katherine's report aloud to himself and he wasn't pleased with what it had to say.

"Sonic and friends are destroying the fleet's front squadron and are making their way towards the flagship," he read "The white hedgehog has been beaten but Metal Sonic has been destroyed, the fleet's weapons aren't destroying Mobotropolis down below because it's shielded and Wilson and Mandy are on the decks of the flagship right now."

The fat scientist with the big bushy moustache began growling in anger to himself.

"Curse those meddlesome Mobians!" he roared in anger "I'll deal with those pests! Katherine, do you have any other deadly machines you can throw at them?"

Katherine nodded and showed Dr. Eggman some schematics to two machines she had also built during Eggman's time in insanity. The schematics were for Silver Sonic, a machine that had seen much action already, and a completely new machine called Titan Metal Sonic. Eggman liked Katherine's idea and he stroked his moustache with purring with delight.

"So you've rebuilt Silver Sonic as well as Metal Sonic and made a new Metal Sonic altogether?" he said "I like this Katherine! You're getting a promotion at the end of this day! Launch Titan Metal Sonic and Silver Sonic now! Titan will attack Mobotropolis and Silver will destroy Wilson and Mandy!"

Katherine obeyed and she pressed a button on the keyboard that launched the respective projects.

Outside the flagship, Team Sonic and Team Rose had destroyed all the ships that surrounded the front of the flagship and made it to the sawfish ship Bunnie, Geoffrey and Shade were on. Sonic skidded to a halt and he smiled triumphantly to himself.

"Oh yeah! Whoo! That was cathartic!" cried Sonic "Now it's time to tango on the flagship of the fleet itself, Eggman's flagship of the Egg-Fleet!"

"If only we were all in this together the first time the fleet was launched." said Tails "Then we could have prevented it from destroying Central City."

"Yeah we could have." muttered Sonic, thinking back to that day he longed to forget "But that was then and this is now. Let's get over there and stop Eggman from firing at our city and trying in vain to destroy it!"

"I'm amazed the shields are holding up so well." said Knuckles as he watched the rest of the fleet fire at the city and fail to get through the shield "Guess they're as strong as Nicole says they are."

"Hey Mr. Sonic and Mr. Knuckles." said Cream "Excuse me for interrupting but…what's that?" she shrieked, pointing at the flagship.

Sonic, Knuckles and the rest looked at what Cream was pointing at. Out from the top of the flagship launched a giant red sphere and it hurled through the air, soared over the sawfish ships that guarded the flagship and it headed down towards New Mobotropolis. The Royal Fighters all ran over to the edge of the ship's nose to see where the thing was going to land and it landed directly in front of the gates of New Mobotropolis. The sphere then began to transform from a sphere into something enormous and terrifying. The sphere formed a giant torso with huge arms, small legs and a head. The head was a mix of a cat and a hedgehog and it vaguely resembled Metal Sonic to some degree. The rest of the body resembled Metal Sonic to some degree and it's main colour scheme was red and silver. It was one colossal beast of a machine and it had to be destroyed and fast. This machine was Titan Metal Sonic and it was ready for destruction. The Mobians couldn't believe their eyes.

"Whoa! Eggman just built a giant red Metal Sonic and launched it at the city?" exclaimed Sonic "I didn't think Eggman was in THAT bad a mood today!"

"That thing looks like it's there to attack New Mobotropolis!" cried Bunnie "Ah know the shield will keep it out of the city but it might try and bring em down some how!"

"That's gotta be what it's doing down there!" yelled Amy "It's probably trying to kill the shields so Eggman has the city wide open for destruction! Well let's tear it apart!"

"But what about the fleet?" asked Cosmo "Shouldn't we finish the fleet off first?"

"That red Metal Sonic thing is the one to worry about Cosmo, not the fleet!" said Sonic "The shields will hold the fleet off but that robot's gonna try and take the shields out no doubt so we've gotta stop that first!"

"Has anybody seen Wilson and Mandy?" asked Geoffrey.

"They're hopefully on the flagship already." said Sonic "They can prepare the fleet for destruction while we get rid of that Metal Sonic bot. Let's do it to it team!"

Sonic and friends all leaped off of the sawfish ship and the flying members caught their team mates and flew them down to the ground to deal with Titan Metal Sonic. Back on the flagship, Silver Sonic spin-dashed his way up through the floors and onto the deck of the ship. Wilson and Mandy were so surprised by that sudden turn of events that they let go of Marik and leaped back. Marik picked himself up and stared up at Silver Sonic in surprise. The huge silver machine with the bladed quills on it's back and head glowered at the intruders with it's fiery orange optics. Wilson and Mandy had never seen Silver Sonic before so this machine was new to them, same with Marik.

"What is this?" asked Marik "Another Metal Sonic?"

"No." said Wilson "But whatever that is, it's terrifying and it's gonna slaughter us!"

And it seemed Silver Sonic was going to do just that as he advanced on the intruders menacingly, his feet making the floor shake as he stomped towards them and prepared to tear them apart limb from limb…

Honestly, can Sonic catch a break anymore? Now he's got to deal with the rest of Eggman's fleet and a giant red Metal Sonic and up on the flagship, Wilson and Mandy have to deal with Silver Sonic! How's all THIS gonna turn out then? Join me next time for the epic conclusion! Reviews are welcome.

P.S. LOL! I didn't realize the Seedrian and Martian war had so many similarities to World War II KratosPwns! Consider this a case of "any similarities to real-life events portrayed in this story are entirely coincidental"! Ha, ha, ha!

P.P.S. You may have noticed there aren't any footnotes in this chapter. Well, I've just got tired of putting them on and Christiansoldier5 complained about them so I've decided to abandon the footnotes for the rest of the story. But like you care about that! XD I'm pretty sure you don't need them anyway! ;)

Story 97: City Attack Part 2

New Mobotropolis, a brand spanking new replacement for Old Mobotropolis was not off to a good opening. First Blizzard the Hedgehog, former councillor and Amy's arch-rival tried to snatch the throne off Queen Sally Acorn and then Dr. Eggman comes out of his insanity (thanks to Katherine, his servant bot) and invades with his Egg-Fleet and now Eggman sends Titan Metal Sonic to try and lower the city's shields and leave the city wide open for Eggman's fleet, which is now missing half it's defences because of Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends so only half the fleet was left to finish it off. Titan Metal Sonic opened it's giant metal jaws and bellowed a tremendous, thunderous roar that echoed around the surrounding meadows of New Mobotropolis and it was so thunderous that the citizens of New Mobotropolis could feel the ground vibrating beneath their feet. Titan Metal Sonic raised his enormous arms and he began to pound furiously against the shield. The banging of his fists against the barrier made a horrible, pounding noise that boomed through the city and made everybody clutch their ears to drown the noise out. The noise was so incredible it felt like that Titan Metal Sonic was going to get the city to shake itself apart just by making a lot of noise. The terrified citizens began running around screaming in terror and looking for places to hide. Even though they knew Titan Metal Sonic couldn't get them, that still didn't stop the giant robot from scaring the living cuss out of them so they tried to find a hiding place from it. Sally and Nicole took refuge back in Castle Acorn and they watched the colossal beast of a machine pound away at the shields like a heavyweight boxer cutting loose on his opponent.

"In the name of the Acorn family, what kind of beast is that?" shrieked Sally.

"It looks like a giant red Metal Sonic." said Nicole "And I think it's trying to break the shields and leave New Mobotropolis wide open for the Egg-Fleet."

"Yeah, I kinda noticed from the heavy banging of the shields it's doing." said Sally "It can't get through though no matter how hard it tries. Eggman's whole fleet can't break through so that thing has no chance. Unless it finds out where the shield generator is."

"The shield generator is hidden safely behind the castle." said Nicole "You'd have to dig underground in order to get the generator. There's no chance of it getting destroyed while the shields are up."

"Then let's hope that thing doesn't find out where it is and work out how to get to it." said Sally gravely "Although I doubt that thing's even sentient. It's just a mindless beast, not an intelligent killing machine like the original Metal Sonic was. It'll never work out how to get to the generator."

Sally was right on that one. Titan Metal Sonic was an insentient robot, it did not have a brain like Metal Sonic did so even if it managed to find the generator, it wasn't clever enough to figure out how to get to it. Still though, Titan Metal Sonic knew only one thing: destroy. And destroy New Mobotropolis it was going to, even though it couldn't break through the shields. Titan Metal Sonic continued pounding like crazy at the shield but it's attempt were futile as the shield was just too powerful. Just as Titan Metal Sonic was beginning to lose his patience and get pounding even more, it was spin-dashed in the back of his head by none other then Sonic the Hedgehog. The Royal Fighters had made it back down to the ground and now they were going to take the giant red Metal Sonic duplicate down before it could cause any damage. Titan Metal Sonic hardly felt that attack given his excellent build and hide but that attack was still enough to tick it off. Titan Metal Sonic stopped attacking the shields and it turned around to face it's opponents. Down at it's feet stood Sonic the Hedgehog, Tails the Fox, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Shade the Echidna, Bunnie Rabbot and Geoffrey St. John the Skunk and they were all ready to take down Titan Metal Sonic. Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse were still up on Eggman's flagship so they weren't joining in with this battle. Sonic stared up at Titan Metal Sonic with his arms folded and a confident smirk on his face.

"So it appears I've got a giant Metal Sonic re-colour to take down." said Sonic "Well at least it's better then the first Metal Sonic recolour Eggman threw at me in the sense that it actually looks different to the original. Oh well, it's a Metal Sonic all the same and we're gonna take it down!"

"A-a-are you s-sure Mr. Sonic?" asked Cream nervously "That thing's a-awfully b-b-big!"

"So what if it is?" snapped Amy "The bigger they are, the harder they fall you know! And besides, my Sonic has taken down machines bigger then that before so this is no contest!"

"Amy's right! That thing is gonna be fit for the junkyard when we're through with it!" yelled Knuckles, flexing his muscles and preparing for battle "Let's tear that thing apart!"

"Knuckles, you took the words right outta my mouth." said Sonic with a snarky grin on his face "Let's do it to it everybody!"

Sonic and Knuckles were the first to attack by charging towards the giant robot and spin-dashing and punching it respectively. Sonic clouted it right in the face with a spin-dash and Knuckles leaped onto it's legs and began pounding them like mad. His spiked fists weren't making much progress so far but if he kept it up, he would cause some damage eventually. Titan Metal Sonic growled in annoyance and it swatted Sonic away before the hedgehog could make another spin-dash on him. It then noticed that Knuckles was punching it's left thigh so it reached out a with a giant hand and flicked Knuckles away. Knuckles was sent flying off Titan Metal Sonic's thigh and he landed rather sharply on his back. So sharply in fact, the echidna felt like his back had just about broken but it hadn't fortunately for him. Knuckles grimaced in pain and he sat up, rubbing his aching back.

"Urgh! I should have…expected that thing to pack a punch…given it's size and all…" he muttered to himself.

Sonic landed on his feet after being swatted by Titan Metal Sonic but the supersonic hedgehog was not down for the count yet. He revved his feet up and ran towards Titan Metal Sonic at breakneck speed. Titan Metal Sonic was too busy glowering at Sonic's friends to notice him so Sonic managed to get the drop on him this time around. He spin-dashed Titan Metal Sonic in the head and the colossal machine of death staggered backwards and fell against the shields. Sally and Nicole forgot the shields were up and they braced themselves for impact, thinking he was going to fall back and crash onto the city, only to realize that the shields were still up and Titan Metal Sonic had just been knocked backwards onto it and the shield was stopping him from landing on top of the city. Titan Metal Sonic picked itself up and it roared in annoyance. Sonic landed on top of the city barrier behind Titan Metal Sonic and he spin-dashed it in the back of it's head. Titan Metal Sonic staggered forward and nearly fell over, causing the others to run like hell and get out of the giant beast's way before he could crash down on top of them. Titan Metal Sonic managed to regain it's balance and it watched out for another sonic spin-dash. Sonic the Hedgehog landed down on the ground after that attack, ran for it, did a wild U-turn and charged towards Titan Metal Sonic. Sonic then launched himself at Titan Metal Sonic for another spin-dash but Titan Metal Sonic was ready for him. It held out a clawed hand the size of a small car and it grabbed Sonic just as he was spin-dashing towards it. Titan Metal Sonic then rotated it's entire torso section around to save turning all the way around and it slammed Sonic against the shield as if it was a person swatting a fly on the kitchen table with his/her hand. Sonic cried out in pain as he was squished against the shield and since the shields were see through, everybody in the shielded city could see that attack and feel Sonic's pain. Titan Metal Sonic then lifted it's hand away from Sonic and left him lying on the dome shaped barrier that shielded all of New Mobotropolis, wondering which part of him to rub better. Titan Metal Sonic rotated it's body back to the front so it could face the others again. Knuckles had just picked himself up and he saw what Titan Metal Sonic did to poor Sonic. He instantly lost his wick and he bared his spiky fists.

"How dare you hurt Sonic!" bellowed Knuckles "I'm gonna rip your arms off for that!"

He then proceeded to charge towards Titan Metal Sonic but Titan Metal Sonic raised a foot as big as a Peterbilt truck and stomped the ground, making it shake under his weight and Knuckles ended up falling over from that attack. Titan Metal Sonic raised it's foot again and prepared to squash Knuckles flat with it but Bunnie Rabbot flew in under it's foot and pressed both hands against it. She then boosted the power to her jets and began to push against Titan Metal Sonic's foot. Titan Metal Sonic tried to push down and squash both Bunnie and Knuckles but Bunnie's strength was just enough to keep it at bay long enough for Knuckles to move out of the way and escape being squashed by the giant robot. Knuckles quickly darted out of Titan Metal Sonic's way and Bunnie flew out from underneath it's foot, causing Titan Metal Sonic's foot to shoot forward and stomp the ground suddenly. The ground shook and the robot staggered briefly before regaining balance and preparing for it's next attack. Bunnie flew up to Titan Metal Sonic's face and she began blasting away at it with her arm cannon. The shots didn't seem to affect Titan Metal Sonic in anyway though, they just bounced off of it's tough armour harmlessly. However, Bunnie had an idea that maybe she could blind it if she took it's optics out. She aimed a powerful blast at Titan Metal Sonic's optic and prepared to shoot it out but Titan Metal Sonic lowered it's head, causing her to shoot it in the forehead instead. The shot didn't affect Titan Metal Sonic and the giant robot retaliated by clenching it's fist and smacking Bunnie out of the sky with it. Bunnie hurtled down to the ground like a bird that's just been shot by a hunter but Geoffrey was on hand to catch the Rabbot. Even though he couldn't tell Bunnie how much he fancied her, he could still save her backside in the heat of the battle. Geoffrey leaped up and caught Bunnie bridal style before she could crash into the ground. The two ended up rolling around each other on the ground and they both came to a halt with Geoffrey lying on top of Bunnie. This position would have been more appropriate in another time and now was not that time so Geoffrey quickly scooted off of the stricken Rabbot and he helped her get back to her feet. Bunnie felt her throbbing head and began to slur droopily.

"Oohee! Mah head's still swimmin' from that attack!" piped Bunnie dizzily "Ooh what a wallop that was!"

"Are you OK babe?" asked Geoffrey, oblivious to the fact he'd just used the word "babe" on her.

"Ah'm a little shaken hon but ah'll live." said Bunnie, getting her balance back and putting a hand on Geoffrey's shoulder "Thanks for catchin' me by the way."

"No problem Bunnie." said Geoffrey "Anything to maintain the welfare of a beautiful woman such as yourself."

That comment clearly seemed to flatter Bunnie and the Rabbot giggled with appreciation at that. The skunk began to blush scarlet to himself, unable to believe he'd actually managed to say those words aloud. But now was not the time for flirting with one another, Titan Metal Sonic was still functional and ready to kill and it was about to stomp Bunnie and Geoffrey into the ground but Knuckles leaped up and punched it in the leg, throwing the machine off balance and bringing it down onto it's side. Titan Metal Sonic landed with a heavy thud and the ground shook violently beneath the Mobian's feet. Knuckles punched the air triumphantly and laughed at Titan Metal Sonic.

"Oh yeah! What a punch!" he cried "Take that you giant Metal Sonic thing!"

But not even an attack like that was going to keep Titan Metal Sonic down for long. The machine was strong enough to resist tiny attacks like that so it picked itself up and roared demonically at his attackers. Knuckles grumbled furiously and he prepared to attack again.

"Damn, that thing just doesn't die does it?" he grumbled.

"It is a giant Metal Sonic robot." said Bunnie "It's gonna be difficult to bring down a machine like that."

"As difficult as it'll be, we'll get there eventually Bunnie." said Geoffrey, loading his crossbow with an exploding dart "Come on mates! We're not giving into that blighter now are we?"

Knuckles and Bunnie shook their heads as if to say "No of course not!" and they charged back into the battle…

Meanwhile, up in the air above New Mobotropolis, Silver Sonic was dealing with the flagship intruders, Wilson and Mandy and the extraterrestrial villain Marik the Marian who was hoping to hijack the fleet and was now having to help his enemies get through one of the guards for the sake of his life. Neither one had been in combat with Silver Sonic nor had they even seen him before so Silver Sonic was a new menace for them. Silver Sonic clawed at Wilson and Mandy with it's giant metal claws but the dog and mouse managed to dodged the heavy attack and run for it. Marik jumped on Silver Sonic's arm and tried to electrocute him but Silver Sonic swatted him clean off his arm and the Martian was thrown off of Silver Sonic and towards the edge of the flagship. Marik almost fell off the ship but Mandy ran over to him and grabbed him by his sleeve. She hauled Marik back onto the ship's deck and Marik dusted himself off.

"Thank you Mandy." said Marik with a heavy tone of bitterness in his voice "But…why did you save my life?"

"As begrudging as I am to admit it," muttered Mandy bitterly "We need all the help we can get in this battle and I think you'll help us defeat that silver bladed hedgehog bot given how strong you are and how you have electrical powers that can probably short-circuit that thing so I had to save your life there."

"I appreciate the save very much mouse girl." said Marik "But don't expect me to return the favour! I'm only looking out for myself and myself only! You watch your back and I'll watch mine!"

"Humph! Suit yourself Mr. Ungrateful!" spat Mandy, clearly huffed at the fact Marik was not being very gracious to her.

As for Wilson, Silver Sonic was so scary that the dog couldn't even fight him. He just kept running around the decks like a dog chasing another dog around the field. Silver Sonic kept trying to catch him but Wilson kept dodging his attacks. When Wilson was in panic like mad and run like hell mode, nothing could hit him. Not even Sonic in his spin-dashes so Silver Sonic was going to have a hard time snagging him. Wilson kept running around crazily until Mandy yelled at him angrily.

"Oy! Wilson! Will you stop arsing about and fight the bloody robot will you?" she shouted at her boyfriend.

"I am NOT fighting that bloody thing!" screamed Wilson as Silver Sonic clawed at him again but missed "I'll never be able to take that scary bladed thing on! It'll cut me in half!"

"And if you don't fight it Wilson it'll kill us all and then we can't stop Eggman and his fleet so quit the yellow-dog act and fight already!" shouted Mandy "Otherwise I'll make you have to do it and believe me, you won't want the latter to happen!"

Wilson stopped running around in circles and he screeched to a halt. He suddenly realized that Mandy was right. If he didn't help fight against Silver Sonic then he, Mandy and Marik were pretty much dead and if he got killed then he'd never be able to propose to Mandy at last so he had to fight.

"Thanks for talking some sense into me Mandy dear!" Wilson called over to his purple-furred girlfriend.

"You're welcome." said Mandy coyly "Now show that thing what your famous spinning blade weapon can do!"

With that said, Wilson deployed his trademark spinning blade weapon and he threw it at Silver Sonic. The blade chipped Silver Sonic on his ear and Silver Sonic made a mechanical noise that sounded like a groan of pain. The blade boomeranged back to Wilson and he caught it in his hand, pleased to see he'd managed to hit Silver Sonic. But that attack was far from effective. It was only Silver Sonic's ear it had managed to hit and it's not like the ear was needed for anything as it was more for decoration then anything. Silver Sonic glowered at Wilson with his orange optics and he spin-dashed towards him. Wilson yelped in fright and he scurried out of the way, leaving Silver Sonic to crash through the deck and back into the ship's interior. Silver Sonic quickly leaped back up onto the decks and he looked around for his next victim. Marik decided to distract Silver Sonic while Mandy carefully took position behind Silver Sonic and she waited for the right moment to strike. Silver Sonic lowered his arm and bent down in a battle ready stance as he and Marik prepared to duke it out. Mandy jumped up and grabbed onto Silver Sonic's claw. She pulled herself onto the robot's hand and climbed up his arm just as Silver Sonic charged towards Marik. Silver Sonic lunged at Marik but he missed and Marik zapped him on the leg with a jolt of electricity. Silver Sonic flinched and glared at Marik but Mandy climbed onto his head and drew her arm back. She stood directly in front of Silver Sonic's face and aimed at his black visor.

"Hey silver dude, here's mouse in your eye!" she cried out with a courageous smirk on her face.

She then proceeded to punch Silver Sonic directly in the optic and because she was wearing brass knuckle attachments, the attack was made all the more harder and the punch actually ended up cracking Silver Sonic's visor over his right optic! Silver Sonic made a robotical noise that sounded like a growl of fury and he tried to smack Mandy but Mandy jumped off of Silver Sonic, causing the robot to smack himself in the face and knock himself over. Mandy landed down on her feet and she smirked at the giant silver robot.

"Ha! This thing is pretty dumb isn't it?" she sneered "It fell for one of the oldest tricks in the book! This will be a piece of cake this will."

"I doubt Sonic has much trouble against that thing." said Wilson agreeably ""It's a very stupid robot. It's all size and scariness and no brain. Eggman really needs to work harder on his machines."

"Yes but let's be thankful he doesn't otherwise we'd be in a right royal mess if he did." said Mandy coyly "Now, enough chinwag and let's…"

Just as she was about to finish her sentence, Silver Sonic suddenly leaped back to his feet and kicked Mandy as hard as he could! The mouse hurtled through the air and she landed slap bang into the cockpit tower. Wilson stared in horror at the stricken mouse and he ran over to her just as she began to slide down to the ground. Marik just stood there and laughed at them and then decided to take down Silver Sonic himself, leaving Wilson to comfort Mandy. Silver Sonic pounded over to Wilson and Mandy but Marik leaped onto Silver Sonic's back and he dug his metal claws into his tough steel hide.

"Feel this for comfort you silver, Sonic, giant, robot, creature thing!" he exclaimed as he activated his electrical attacks and let Silver Sonic have it with all the voltage in his voltage compactor.

Silver Sonic felt that sudden surge of electricity coming from Marik's robot hand and the giant machine began to make an electronic wailing sound. For some really odd reason, Eggman makes it so his robots can feel pain. One theory behind this could probably stem from the fact that his robots are all Eggman has now he's no longer amongst human kind and the more human-like they are, the better although it'd be much better if your machines didn't feel pain so that when they get attacked, they won't be distracted by the pain they feel and just be able to carry on without a problem. Sadly for Silver Sonic, this wasn't the case as Marik was electrocuting him and he could feel the pain from that dearly. Marik began to cackle demonically as he let Silver Sonic have it with his electrical attacks. But Silver Sonic wasn't going to malfunction and short-circuit yet. He began to fight the pain in his circuits and he spun around into a spin-dash. As Marik was clinging onto Silver Sonic's back, he was spun around with Silver Sonic. Silver Sonic kept up the spin-dash until Marik was eventually thrown off of him and Marik hurtled across the decks and crashed face-first into the cockpit tower. Marik slid back down to the floor and he groaned like a ghoul in a church graveyard. He clutched his face and he began slurring to himself.

"Oooooh I feel like this planet's doing a spin all around me…" he droned "Stupid spin-dashing robot!"

Silver Sonic uncurled from his spin-dash and he stood towering over Marik with his orange optics glaring at him. He reached out with a giant clawed hand and he grabbed Marik. He lifted the Martian up to his height and he glowered at him. Marik struggled in the grasp of the giant silver Sonic clone but try as he might, he was not getting out of this one. Not even a being as strong as Marik would be getting out of the grasp of a giant silver Sonic robot. If Silver Sonic had a mouth, he would probably be smirking at Marik right now. Marik continued to squirm in Silver Sonic's grasp but he just couldn't get free. The robot was too powerful for him. As for Wilson and Mandy, Wilson had helped poor Mandy get back up onto her feet and the mouse rubbed herself better. That kick had done a number on her but surprisingly, she was alright. They both noticed that Marik was in need of help right now so they ran back into the battle. Wilson threw his spinning blade at Silver Sonic's head and the blade chipped him above his visor. Silver Sonic flinched and he threw Marik down rather sharply onto the decks. He glowered at Wilson and Mandy and he advanced on them, his heavy feet making the decks shudder as he stomped towards them. Wilson however was ready for him. He threw his spinning blade weapon at Silver Sonic's thigh and the weapon cleaved his thigh clean in two! Silver Sonic's leg had been severed and he was now stuck with just one leg. His right leg lay down on it's side and Silver Sonic fell down onto his hands and only remaining knee. Now it was down to their level, Mandy ran forward and fisted him in the other side of his visor, cracking that and leaving him with cracks over both optics. Now Silver Sonic was not only missing a leg but he was also semi-blinded at the same time. He couldn't really see properly with cracks over both his optics. But the giant silver killing machine was not down for the count yet. Just because he had one leg, it didn't mean he couldn't spin-dash. Silver Sonic curled up into a silver-bladed ball of pure lethalness and he spin-dashed towards the Mobians. Wilson and Mandy legged it double quick, scrambling frantically to get away from the robot. Marik just stood there and watched the Mobians run around like rabbits as Silver Sonic tried to spin-dash them and cleave them to pieces. Up in the flagship's cockpit however, Dr. Eggman was watching the two battles going on and he was liking how well his two machines were holding out although he could see that now Silver Sonic was missing a leg, he wouldn't be much of a threat for much longer and would need assistance.

"Titan Metal Sonic appears to be holding out well against Sonic and friends." noted Eggman "But it can't get through the shields and Silver Sonic's going strong but has had it's right leg severed so it won't be able to hold out much longer. Silver Sonic will need some help dealing with that infernal dog, that infernal mouse and that infernal Martian!"

He then turned to face his female sidekick Katherine and he smiled widely at her.

"Katherine, would you care to get down there and help Silver Sonic smite those intruders?" he asked sweetly.

Katherine nodded, clearly happy to get an assignment like this.

"Then total them Katherine!" bellowed Dr. Eggman excitedly.

Katherine's response was to play a voice clip of General Woundwort from the classic movie Watership Down .

"I'll tear out every throat in the place!" said the clip she played.

Dr. Eggman hooted with laughter at that response and he opened the windows so Katherine could leap out and attack. Katherine leaped out of the windows and played a voice clip of Transformers Prime Breakdown laughing as she leapt out of the window. She hurtled down from the cockpit window and towards the decks with her arms and legs to the side so she could hurl down to the ground quicker. She landed down on the decks with heavy force and she landed directly near Marik so the force of the impact ended up throwing him across the decks. Marik luckily however, managed to land on his feet and he skidded to a halt. Marik bent down in a battle ready stance and he glared at the attacker. Katherine got up to her feet and she glared at Marik with her emotionless, black visor while bending down in a battle ready stance. She was surprised to see a life-form on the ship that wasn't a Mobian but she didn't care, she was going to kill it all the same. Marik's eyes widened a little at the sight of another Eggman robot on the flagship but he didn't care, it just meant he's got another robot to smash up that's all and he would go through Eggman's entire army if it meant finally getting to the flagship and hijacking the fleet.

"What's this? Another Eggman robot?" mused Marik as he observed the sleek and slender Katherine "Looks like this robot supposed to be a female given it's feminine appearance. Does that mean it'll smash any differently to the other robots? Let's find out shall we?"

Marik charged towards Katherine, roaring at the top of his voice as he did so. Katherine just stood there and waited for Marik to attack. If she had a face there would probably be a smug smirk on it. Marik leaped into the air and propelled himself towards Katherine but the former warden-bot activated her barrier and Marik bounced straight off of it and hurtled backwards. He landed rather painfully on his back and he skidded backwards across the decks on it. He picked himself up, wincing in pain and he growled in annoyance to himself.

"A force-field?" he grumbled "Well that's just cheating! That fem-bot is begging to find out what her circuitry looks like now! I'll destroy her even if I have to break through the force-field to do so!"

With that said, Marik ran towards Katherine again and he fired a bolt of electricity at her. Katherine kept the force-field up and the force-field deflected the attack. Katherine then shortened the barrier until it was only a red outline all around her body. While you can now hit her when she's like this, you cannot damage her because the barrier still protects her. Marik charged into Katherine and he slugged her in the stomach as hard as he possibly could. He then punched her in the face as viciously as he could and then leaped up, spun around and kicked her in the face and knocked her down. Katherine wasn't down for long though, she was soon back up on her feet and she began firing bladed discs at Marik. Marik dodged the discs as they fired at him and he swiped his arm and sent an energy wave sweeping towards Katherine. The wave destroyed all her bladed discs and it swept over Katherine, knocking her over onto her back. Marik ran quickly over to Katherine and he tried to attack her but Katherine kangaroo kicked him in the gut, sending him flying backwards and crashing down rather sharply on his back. Katherine picked herself up and she clasped her hands together. Marik leaped back onto his feet and he ran towards Katherine as quick as he could. Katherine thrust her arms forward and she let fly a huge laser blast from the palms of her hands. The blast hit Marik and he was thrown backwards by the attack. He landed on his back and rolled across the decks backwards until he came to a halt on his front. Marik lay there moaning in annoyance.

"This robot is a nuisance!" he growled to himself "I'm so gonna enjoy destroying it when I'm finished with it!"

He was just beginning to pick himself up when Katherine suddenly began to charge at him. Marik got up just in time and he leaped up and dropkicked the fem-bot in the head, knocking her down onto her back and he stood on top of her as she was knocked down. Marik got off of Katherine, grabbed her by the arms and threw her across the deck as if she was a chunk of rubbish being thrown away. Katherine spiralled across the deck and she landed with a heavy clunk further up the decks. If her barrier wasn't still on, she'd probably be broken now. Katherine picked herself up and she began firing bladed discs at Marik again. Marik just swiped his arms and destroyed them all with an energy wave. He then charged towards Katherine and drew his arm back for a powerful punch. Katherine just stood there and waited for the Martian to come to her. Then she lashed out and blocked Marik's punch with the side of her arm. Marik just gritted his teeth at her and he began to push on Katherine's arm with the side of his own arm.

"Persistent little brat aren't you?" he grumbled through gritted teeth "And I can't help but notice a lack of communication from you. You don't seem fond of talking do you? I'm the only one giving the mid-battle banter out of us two!"

Katherine nodded as if she was saying "Yes" to Marik's question.

"Oh well, I always liked the silent type more anyway." said Marik "They're less annoying to beat up in battle because they don't irk me with stupid quips and clichéd phrases! Not to mention back on Mars I have an uncle named Zarondight who's mute and he's a hell of a lot better then you are girl bot!"

Katherine's response was to push Marik away and then swipe at him. Marik dodged and the two began pounding at each other while Wilson and Mandy continued being chased by Silver Sonic in the background. These two fights were going to get pretty hectic as they continued on…

Meanwhile, back on the ground, Sonic and friends were still having a hard time with Titan Metal Sonic. No matter what attacks they threw at the colossal machine, he just kept coming back and didn't seem to get so much as a scratch from their attacks. Sonic spin-dashed at Titan Metal Sonic the hardest he possibly could but his attacks seemed to be more annoying Titan Metal Sonic then hurting him and even at his hardest, Sonic couldn't seem to hurt him in anyway. Titan Metal Sonic grabbed Sonic before he could fall back down to the ground and he tossed him into the New Mobotropolis barrier. The citizens of New Mobotropolis made a wincing expression and an "Oooooh!" sound as if they could feel the pain from that blow. Titan Metal Sonic was about to attack Sonic again until Tails flew in front of his optics and covered one of them. Titan Metal Sonic tried to get Tails but Tails flew out of his way, causing Titan Metal Sonic to clout himself in the face. Titan Metal Sonic grumbled furiously and he tried to nab Tails but the little fox flew away from him as quickly as he could. Amy, Cream and Cosmo were next to attack the giant monster with their signature team move, the Twirling-Hammer Batter. Cream spun the two girls around and inched closer and closer to Titan Metal Sonic's head. Titan Metal Sonic saw the girls coming but he was too late to react. Amy's hammer hit Titan Metal Sonic and the giant machine staggered backwards and bumped into the barrier. The impact made a loud sound as if someone had burst a giant balloon above the city. Sally and Nicole held their ears and they watched as Titan Metal Sonic picked himself up again.

"Thank goodness the shields are strong enough to hold." said Sally shakily "Just imagine what would happen if that thing fell onto the city and it wasn't shielded! New Mobotropolis would end up having the shortest stand of any city in Mobian history!"

"Yes Sally." said Nicole agreeably "We're lucky Eggman hasn't got a robot the size of his own fleet or this city would be doomed."

Back outside, Titan Metal Sonic as back in the game but was now being double-teamed by Knuckles and Shade. Knuckles climbed up Titan Metal Sonic and gave the giant robot some hefty uppercuts while Shade blade rushed it several times over. But not even the attacks of the echidnas seemed to be having much effect on Titan Metal Sonic. The machine's armour was just too tough for them. Titan Metal Sonic raised his leg and threatened to squash Shade flat, causing Shade to run like heck and get away from it. Titan Metal Sonic then picked Knuckles off of it's torso and flicked him away as if he was a red spiny bogey. Knuckles hurled through the air but Tails was on hand to catch him and he did so before the echidna could become a nasty stain on the ground. Geoffrey was next to attack by firing exploding darts at the machine and setting them off in unison. The darts embedded themselves into Titan Metal Sonic's torso section and they exploded in chorus as they hit their target. Titan Metal Sonic roared in anguish as his entire torso section was cloaked with smoke that drifted from the explosions and spiralled around him. Geoffrey began to get a tingle of hope in his stomach for Titan Metal Sonic appeared to have been obliterated by his exploding darts. But, as bad luck would have it, not even Geoffrey's darts were working! The smoke drifted away, revealing a still in good condition and very much alive looking Titan Metal Sonic! Titan Metal Sonic bore down over the horrified skunk and he roared at him.

Geoffrey immediately turned chicken and ran for it. Bunnie Rabbot flew in and distracted Titan Metal Sonic by giving him an uppercut to the chin and sending him staggering nosily backwards. Geoffrey skidded to a halt and everybody else gathered around him.

"Blimey!" cried Geoffrey "No matter what attack we throw at the darn thing it's still standing! Even my exploding darts aren't working against it!"

"This thing's pretty tough!" grunted Sonic "How are we gonna defeat it if we can't even lay a ding in it's armour?"

"I bet that thing's invulnerable!" wailed Tails "We'll never penetrate it if it IS invulnerable!"

"Well it doesn't matter how strong that thing is, we're gonna beat it and bring it down!" declared Sonic "There's no way I'm letting that thing stay functioning! We're just gonna have to hit it as hard as we possibly can!"

"But no matter how hard we hit it, it just keeps standin' back up sugah-hog." noted Bunnie "How can we defeat it if it keeps shrugging off our attacks?"

"If we keep going at it, we might damage it at long last." suggested Sonic.

"Or maybe we could try bringing it down onto it's back where it'll be vulnerable and then we cut loose as much as we can on it." thought Tails "That might be our best option."

"Tails, I think that idea might just work." said Sonic "Bunnie, Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, you all take topside, the rest of us will take bottom side."

"You've got it Sonic." said Knuckles, bashing his fists together.

With that said, Bunnie and Team Rose all flew up to Titan Metal Sonic's head to provide the necessary distractions with Knuckles and Shade climbing up after them. Sonic, Geoffrey and Tails remained down on the ground at the feet of Titan Metal Sonic. Bunnie began to cut loose on Titan Metal Sonic's head with an array of cannon blasts from her arm cannon. The shoots bounced harmlessly off Titan Metal Sonic's armour but they were distracting him well enough for the others to attack. Team Rose did their signature move, Knuckles punched Titan Metal Sonic as hard as he could and Shade Blade-Rushed it as many times as she could. Titan Metal Sonic began to roar in annoyance. All those attacks coming from all angles was getting a bit too much for him to take. Then Sonic began to add insult to injury by attacking Titan Metal Sonic in the legs with a spin-dash. He spin-dashed his legs as much as he could and Geoffrey fired some stun darts at the legs just to provide extra pain as Titan Metal Sonic would be too big for the darts to have any effect. Tails joined in with Sonic and began to kick Titan Metal Sonic in the legs and the giant machine began to feel his legs giving way underneath him. The onslaughts being given to him on his head and his legs were too much for the giant machine. Titan Metal Sonic then suddenly fell forward and landed with a heavy crash on his front. The ground shook furiously under the sheer weight of the machine crashing down on it. Titan Metal Sonic was now down on it's hands and knees and Sonic and friends began to cut loose on him while he was down. Their attacks didn't seem to be damaging the machine yet but they might get there eventually if they kept going. However, Sonic and friends didn't count on the fact they had one shiny trump card on the field that could have helped them dearly in this match and that trump card was the insidious ice witch Blizzard the Hedgehog. She had passed out from her injures given to her by Metal Sonic but Titan Metal Sonic crashing onto the ground had woken her up with a start and the ice witch was now back on her feet in an instant. She saw Titan Metal Sonic and was absolutely gobsmacked to see such a giant machine trying to break through to New Mobotropolis. She could see that Sonic and friends had things under control but Blizzard wanted the throne of New Mobotropolis and she had to defend the city and stop Dr. Eggman in order to get the crown as she and Sally had made a deal on that (a deal Sally lied about as you remember).

"Well…it appears that there's a giant robot trying to break through the shields of New Mobotropolis." purred Blizzard "Now's my chance to redeem myself and prove to the wretched Queen Sally that I can defeat the Eggman after all."

Blizzard then attempted to run up to Titan Metal Sonic but her injuries from earlier kicked in and she tripped over. She fell back onto her knees and she panted heavily.

"Graah!" she grunted "Curse that Metal Sonic for pounding me to a pulp! I'm too weak to fight it! However, I'm not too weak to use my powers…"

With that said, Blizzard forced herself back up onto her feet and she wondered slowly over to Titan Metal Sonic instead of running to it. Sonic and friends seemed to be on top of the battle at long last as they were all attacking Titan Metal Sonic and amazingly enough, managing to keep it down. They still weren't causing any damage to the robot but their attacks appeared to be effecting it in someway as Titan Metal Sonic was having a hard time trying to get back up. If Sonic and friends kept this up then they might finally penetrate Titan Metal Sonic and defeat him. Blizzard watched the fight with a cruel smirk on her face and she rose her hands up.

"As impressive as this display of heroism is," Blizzard said to herself "It isn't enough. I shall finish it off. With a blizzard of icy winds!"

With that said, she thrust her arms forward and sent a huge gust of icy winds sailing towards Sonic and friends and Titan Metal Sonic. Sonic stopped spin-dashing Titan Metal Sonic and realized that Blizzard was back on her feet and letting loose a breeze of icy winds. Everybody was too late to get out of the way though. The winds swept over the Mobians and Titan Metal Sonic and the moment the winds touched them, they froze instantly. Titan Metal Sonic and the Mobians were now all ice statues and frozen stiff. Sally and Nicole had seen all this and they were horrified. They ran out of the safety of New Mobotropolis to confront Blizzard, who was cackling like mad to herself at her success. She had just defeated Titan Metal Sonic and frozen her enemies at the same time.

"I did it! I defeated the Eggman's giant robot!" crowed Blizzard "I did what Sonic and his bunch of morons couldn't do! Now all I have to do is get back up to the fleet and…"

"Blizzard!" yelled Sally crossly as she and Nicole stormed up to her.

Blizzard saw the squirrel coming towards her and she twisted her face into a polite grin.

"Your majesty." she crooned sarcastically "How nice of you to come out of hiding and commend me for my brilliant efforts in stopping the giant robot."

"I'm not here to commend you at all Blizzard!" snapped Sally "I'm here to chastise you!"

"I beg your pardon?" said Blizzard, a tone of shock evident in her voice.

"What did you think you were doing out there?" shrieked Nicole "Not only did you freeze the giant robot but you froze Sonic and friends as well!"

She and Sally both motioned to the frozen Mobians that all stood upon or next to Titan Metal Sonic. Blizzard just snorted at them and she folded her arms.

"Just a minor mistake in the heat of the battle I assure you." said Blizzard coldly.

"Minor?" screamed Sally "Blizzard, the ends do not justify the means here! You can't just go freezing our team of heroes just so you can prove to us you can help defeat Dr. Eggman! Besides, if you wanna be ruler of New Mobotropolis then you should set a good example in front of the citizens! What do you think they'll say about you freezing Sonic and friends?"

"They're dispensable!" snapped Blizzard angrily "We do not need those pathetic bunch of morons to protect our city! I'm all that's necessary! I can do what they cannot do and that's defeat the Eggman once and for all!"

"Yeah right, you did a brilliant job of THAT earlier!" said Sally sarcastically "Brilliant as in, got the snot kicked out of you by something and then thrown off the flagship! Yeah, that sounds like you can REALLY take down Dr. Eggman by yourself!"

"A minor setback I assure you." purred Blizzard "Once I get back up there, the fleet will be nothing but ice sculptures."

"Blizzard, Sonic and friends are adequate enough for the job!" yelled Nicole "They've destroyed half the fleet and were keeping the giant robot from trying to lower the shields and leave us prone! You on the other hand just got beaten up and thrown off the ship! Sonic and friends are more then capable of doing this whereas you are not!"

"As much as we appreciate the fact you've stopped the giant robot, we won't ignore the fact you've frozen our Royal Fighters." said Sally with a cold expression on her face "Unfreeze them at once or I will place you under arrest!"

Blizzard growled at the two ladies but she restrained herself and did as she was told. She snapped her fingers and caused the ice around the Mobians to shatter and break into pieces, freeing them from their icy hold. The Mobians all shook themselves off and began rubbing themselves to warm themselves up a little.

"Brrr, so that's what being frozen feels like!" said Sonic as he tried to warm himself up.

"Cold and stiff, just as I thought." shivered Amy "Stupid Blizzard for interfering with our battle!"

"Thank you." said Sally with her arms folded and a smirk on her face.

Blizzard really hated it when Sally smirked at her like that, it just annoyed her to some degree and Sally was beginning to get on her nerves now. In order to get her own back on the ungrateful squirrel queen, Blizzard decided to be mean and unfreeze Titan Metal Sonic. She snapped her fingers and the ice around Titan Metal Sonic broke away. Titan Metal Sonic was unfrozen and ready to cause mayhem once again. He picked himself up and bellowed at the top of it's voice box. Sally stared up at Titan Metal Sonic in horror and then she glared at Blizzard.

"How dare you Blizzard!" she shouted "You freeze him again right now!"

"No you ungrateful little royal brat!" snarled Blizzard "Since you're too blinded with pride to praise me for my efforts, I've decided that I won't waste my time here and I'll let you clean up the mess! If your heroes are really as good as you say they are then they can defeat the giant robot! And if they can't then don't come crying to me! Don't say I didn't warn you when I said that I can do what those hapless halfwits couldn't do! Good day wretch!"

With that said, Blizzard turned her back on everybody and flew away from the scenery with a gust of icy wind, leaving Sonic and crew to take down Titan Metal Sonic themselves. Sally was so furious with Blizzard's treachery that she almost went wild with rage. Nicole put a hand on her best friend's shoulder and spoke softly to her.

"Let it go Sally." said Nicole "Blizzard will get her comeuppance someday."

"I look forward to that day!" said Sally crossly "That witch just makes me even prouder of myself for not agreeing to that stupid deal she made earlier!"

"I'm glad you didn't agree to it too." said Nicole "Now let's get out of here before the giant robot gets us."

Sally did not wait to be asked twice. She and Nicole both ran for it back into New Mobotropolis while Sonic and friends continued to fight Titan Metal Sonic. Blizzard had just made things harder for the heroes now she'd unfrozen Titan Metal Sonic and put him back into the battle. But Sonic and friends had a tactic that was working earlier so they would just have to do it again and hope they get somewhere this time…

Meanwhile, back on Eggman's flagship, things weren't going so well. Wilson and Mandy were still being chased around by the spin-dashing Silver Sonic and to make things worse, Silver Sonic wasn't stopping, he just kept spin-dashing in hopes of eventually hitting the Mobians. He was missing a leg though so spin-dashing until he eventually hits his opponents was the best he could do. As for Marik and Katherine, their fight seemed even sided. Neither opponent could seem to gain the upper hand on each other. Katherine kept her barrier up so Marik couldn't damage her but Marik was a stubborn creature who didn't give up so Katherine could defend herself all she liked, Marik wasn't going to give up on trying to destroy her. Marik kicked Katherine in the head and made the fembot stagger backwards but Katherine retaliated with an uppercut to the chin that knocked Marik onto his back. Katherine then lunged forward and tried to grab Marik by the throat. Marik grabbed Katherine's arm and he pulled her forwards. He kicked Katherine in the stomach and sent her flying across the decks. Marik then picked himself up and ran over to Katherine. Katherine saw Marik coming and she prepared to attack. Marik lunged forward and prepared to attack Katherine but Katherine smacked him in the face and sent him sprawling on the decks. Marik was about to get back up until he suddenly had an idea. In order to destroy Katherine, he had to get her to turn her barrier off. And the only way to do that was make her think he'd won so instead of getting back up and attacking, he remained lying down on the deck and waited to see what was going to happen. Katherine marched up to Marik and she observed him. The Martian didn't move at all. It appeared to her that she'd knocked Marik out from that attack. That meant she had won the match and could finish off Marik once and for all. Katherine shut off her barrier, reached out and grabbed Marik by his collar. She hoisted the Martian up to her height but the moment she did that, Marik opened his eyes and zapped Katherine in the torso with a jolt of electricity from all five digits on his metal hand. Katherine dropped him and played a pre-recorded clip of someone wailing in pain at the top of their voice. Marik grinned wickedly and continued to zap her. Katherine was a strong robot but not even she could survive a vicious electrical jolt like this. Marik then suddenly threw his arm out to the side and sent Katherine hurling across the decks and over the edge of the flagship. Katherine fell off the flagship and fell down to the ground. As she fell, she played the famous Goofy Holler to add to the fall. She crashed onto the ground down below and broke into many pieces. Katherine was completely destroyed and Marik was pleased with this. He began clapping his hands and cackling like mad.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha! I destroyed the robot!" he crowed "I knew Eggman's junk bots were no match for me! Martians are the best!"

Up in the cockpit of the giant vessel, Dr. Eggman looked at the computer monitors and he wasn't pleased to see Marik had just destroyed Katherine.

"How dare that Martian destroy my lovely Katherine?" he growled "And after all the hard work she's done for me when I was out of it! Well I'll show him! Silver Sonic is still at large and I can just rebuild her! Egg-Pawns, gather up Katherine's remains and bring them to me!"

The onboard Egg-Pawns obeyed Eggman's order and using built-in jet packs, they flew out of the flagship and down to the ground to gather up the destroyed remains of Katherine. As for Marik, he didn't even notice the Egg-Pawns going down to get Katherine's remains. He was watching Wilson and Mandy get chased around by Silver Sonic and was clearly enjoying it. He was going to happily sit around and wait until Silver Sonic finally snuffed them and then he was going to get rid of Silver Sonic himself. Silver Sonic spin-dashed towards Wilson and Mandy again, the dog and mouse narrowly dodging the attack, and he crashed into the floor, leaving a huge dent in it. Silver Sonic unrolled from the spin-dash and he balanced wobbly on his one leg, picking himself up from the dent in the floor and steadying himself for another attack. Wilson and Mandy stared at the giant robot and wondered what to do.

"Hey Mandy, got any ideas?" asked Wilson "That giant robot's spin-dash is lethal and if it gets us, we're done for!"

"I dunno cute stuff." said Mandy helplessly "We need to bring this ship down but that robot's getting in our way and despite having one leg, it stays in spin-dash mode so we can't attack it without getting dissected."

Then suddenly, the mouse had a bright idea.

"Maybe we could get that robot…to do our job for us." she thought aloud to herself.

"Excuse me?" said Wilson, not really sure what Mandy meant.

"You wait there Wilson, I have an idea." said Mandy.

Wilson did as he was told and he waited where he was. Mandy then suddenly darted off towards Silver Sonic and ran straight past him. Wilson almost gasped in surprise, wondering what on Mobius his girlfriend was up to. Silver Sonic saw Mandy running across the decks and he wondered what the mouse was doing. Mandy then came to a halt near the cockpit tower of the flagship and she began taunting Silver Sonic by putting her fingers to her ears and wriggling them.

"Hey blade back! Come and get me!" she jeered "Or are you too useless with that one leg of yours?"

That remark offended Silver Sonic and the robot's response was to spin-dash towards her. Mandy grinned at herself, pleased to see the plan was working and she leaped out of Silver Sonic's way. Silver Sonic ploughed straight through the cockpit tower of the flagship and made a giant hole in it. Unfortunately for the flagship, Silver Sonic didn't stop there. He began churning through the machinery of the ship and causing major damage to the ship inside out. Silver Sonic thought he'd hit Mandy and was spin-dashing her as viciously as possible, that's why he kept going. He ploughed straight through the machinery until finally, he ended up inside a corridor inside the ship. Silver Sonic soon realized that he hadn't hit Mandy after all and he spin-dashed his way back to the surface. He was a stupid machine and it was not programmed to think so it didn't think that spin-dashing his way through the ship to get back to the surface was a bad idea, which it was. What made things even worse was the fact Silver Sonic was spin-dashing straight up and going straight up led to the cockpit itself and a lot of the important machinery and vital mechanisms were in the way up to the cockpit. Silver Sonic churned through machinery, circuitry and floors and ceilings until he made it up into the cockpit and spin-dashed his way straight through it. Dr. Eggman leaped out of his seat in sheer fright after that attack and wondered what the heck was going on. He turned around and saw Silver Sonic spin-dashing his way through the ceiling of the cockpit.

"What in the name of science are you doing Silver Sonic?" shrieked Dr. Eggman.

Silver Sonic ignored him and spin-dashed back down towards the decks. Dr. Eggman shrugged off that surprise and he got back to the controls of the ship. Only, Silver Sonic had caused a heck of a lot of damage to the interior of the flagship and spin-dashing his way up through the cockpit had damaged the controls. The ship couldn't be controlled and Silver Sonic had churned through a fuel tank on his way up so the ship was losing fuel and fast. Dr. Eggman almost went crazy with shock at that turnout. Katherine had just rebuilt his flagship and now Silver Sonic had damaged it in his stupidity and the ship was going to crash down! Of all the annoying things to happen!

"Stupid Silver Sonic!" whined Dr. Eggman "He's gone and damaged the ship's vital mechanisms! It's going to crash! I'm going to get out of here!"

With that said, Dr. Eggman ran off to the escape pods so he could get out of this alive and he called over to his fleet via a communicator he wore on his wrist.

"Attention Egg-Fleet! The flagship's been compromised!" he cried "Fall back to Megapolis now!"

The fleet obeyed his commands and the remaining ships in the fleet all turned around and flew away from New Mobotropolis and headed back to Megapolis, leaving the doomed flagship to fall down and crash onto the ground below. Eggman and the Egg-Pawns who retrieved Katherine's remains all got into escape pods and they flew away from the ship and headed back to Megapolis where Eggman would go into hiding again and plot his next sinister move. It looked like Eggman was going to get back into the swing of things after finally getting his sanity back and yet his flagship was going to crash down and he was retreating. Well his next plan was not going to fail when he decided to attack again…

On the decks of the flagship, Wilson and Mandy noticed that the flagship's defences appeared to be retreating as they were turning around and flying away from New Mobotropolis. Marik noticed this too and wondered what was going on. Why was this amazing fleet fleeing? Had something gone wrong? He soon got his answer when the ship suddenly shuddered as something exploded inside the ship. The damaged fuel tank was leaking fuel and the leaking fuel had been ignited by a stray spark caused by Silver Sonic churning everything in two and now the fuel was exploding inside the ship and making it shudder and sink down. Wilson and Mandy could feel the ship sinking down under their feet and they began to grow worried. It seemed that they were going to go down with the ship as the ship began to sink down and head towards the ground down below.

"I think my plan worked too well!" cried Mandy "That robot's damaged the ship to the point it begins falling!"

"We've got to get off of here and fast!" shrieked Wilson "But how?"

"Sonic and the others are down on the ground!" noted Mandy "Sonic will send someone to fly up and get us as they can see this thing falling down!"

As for Marik, he was not pleased to hear that the flagship was crashing down thanks to Mandy tricking Silver Sonic into damaging the ship. So much for hijacking the fleet! Looks like he'll have to change plans! Unlike Wilson and Mandy though, Marik was going to get off now and he was going to get off by jumping off the flagship. Martians can survive long falls due to their tough bodies after all. Marik had survived falling off a cliff so jumping off a ship wasn't going to do much harm, especially as the ship was beginning to fall to the ground. Marik waited until the ship was halfway down to the ground and then he jumped straight off the ship and hurled down to the ground. Wilson and Mandy saw him jump off and they ran over to the edge of the ship to see what was going to become of him. Marik hurled down to the ground and he landed on his feet. The fall made him fall down onto his knees and grimace slightly as pain surged up his feet but he was mostly OK despite that long fall. He then picked himself up and ran for his life.

"Curse that stupid mouse for ruining everything!" growled Marik in annoyance "I was so hoping I could hijack Eggman's fleet! Oh well, I'll get Sonic and friends next time!"

Marik disappeared into the forests of Green Hill Zone as he fled the scene. When he was going to attack again as anyone's guess but when he came back, he would come back good and hard. As for Sonic and friends, they noticed that Eggman's ship was crashing down but luckily for them, it wasn't going to crash down on top of them, it was a good distance away from them and yet this turnout provided a perfect opportunity for them to get rid of Titan Metal Sonic. If they could bait the robot into running into the falling ship's path then the ship would destroy Titan Metal Sonic as it crashed down on Titan Metal Sonic. Sonic spin-dashed Titan Metal Sonic in the back of his head and taunted it by pulling down the bottom part of his eye and sticking his tongue out at it. Titan Metal Sonic growled furiously and he tried to grab Sonic but Sonic dodged his attack and ran towards the falling flagship. Titan Metal Sonic ran after Sonic, the ground shaking furiously with every footstep. Bunnie Rabbot activated the rockets in her roboticized feet and flew towards the flagship to get Wilson and Mandy off as she knew they were still on there. Bunnie made it to the falling vessel and she extended her robot arm so she could wrap it around Wilson and Mandy both together. After doing that, she flew straight off the flagship. As for Sonic, he got Titan Metal Sonic directly underneath the falling flagship and sprinted off as fast as he could. Titan Metal Sonic wondered where Sonic had just gotten to and he saw him running back to New Mobotropolis. The giant machine roared furiously and ran back towards the city but the ship crashed down directly on top of him, destroying him instantly and reducing the machine to a tangled, mangled heap of scrap metal. The ship crashed down onto the ground and exploded into a terrific fireball of smoke and flames. The debris of the ship littered the ground and smoke billowed out of the destroyed ship. Silver Sonic had been destroyed in the crash too so he was no longer a threat. The wrecked remains of Titan Metal Sonic lay underneath the ship. Sonic and friends stared at the wrecked flagship and Bunnie landed down behind them with Wilson and Mandy in tow. She unwrapped them and they stared at the destroyed ship.

"Whoa! Eggman's flagship's crashed down again!" sneered Sonic "Who's responsible for this then?"

"I am." said Mandy "I tricked one of Eggman's robots into accidentally damaging the ships' mechanisms and the robot did the damage needed to bring it down. Eggman's fleet's in retreat and his flagship's down so New Mobotropolis can sleep easy tonight."

"You got that right Mandy." said Sonic "Also helped by the fact the giant Metal Sonic got destroyed by the crashing ship and Blizzard's gone away for now. We've won Royal Fighters! New Mobotropolis lives!"

"Wait a minute." said Shade quickly "What about Marik? Did he perish in the crash?"

"Marik?" blurted Sonic "Marik was on the flagship of the Egg-Fleet?"

"Yes, the freaky dude wanted to hijack the fleet and use it for himself." muttered Mandy "Me and Wilson started fighting him but Eggman distracted us with the robot I tricked into damaging the ship. The little freak escaped alive though so he'll be back."

"Oh well, never mind." said Sonic "Marik doesn't worry me anymore. We'll beat him for good next time he sticks his ugly face in where he's not wanted."

"I'm glad Marik failed to hijack the fleet." said Cosmo "He would cause a lot of malice if he had the fleet under his control. I do wish Marik would just leave Mobius already, although he doesn't have a ship so that won't be possible."

"You know what Cosmo, I think next time I meet Marik, I'll Chaos Control him back to his home planet." said Sonic "Then we won't have to put up with his farce anymore."

"Well Marik's fled and Eggman's retreated so now we can kick back and celebrate the opening of New Mobotropolis properly." said Tails "And explore the new city while we're at it."

"One moment." said Wilson "There's one thing I have to get off my chest first."

Sonic wondered what that could be but he didn't take long to find out. Wilson was going to propose to Mandy at long last! Wilson took Mandy's hand into his and he stared lovingly into Mandy's eyes.

"Mandy. There's something I have to ask you…." said Wilson, a knot tightening in his stomach as he prepared to pop the question to his girlfriend at long last…

Marriage Part 1

Story 98: Marriage Part 1: One Wedding and a Search

Things had been hectic between Sonic the Hedgehog and friends recently. First Blizzard the Hedgehog ruins the grand opening ceremony of New Mobotropolis, the replacement city for Old Mobotropolis, then Dr. Eggman comes in his fleet and attempts to destroy the city and Marik the Martian stows away on the ship, hoping to hijack it. Thanks to the quick thinking of Mandy Mouse though, she'd gotten Silver Sonic to accidentally damage the ship to the point it crashed and burned and Eggman had retreated along with the remains of his fleet and Marik had fled the scene alive. Right now, Wilson was going to pop the question to Mandy at long last. He took Mandy's hand into his and stared into her eyes lovingly. How beautiful her eyes looked to him.

"Mandy. There's something I have to ask you." said Wilson the Dog, a knot tightening in his stomach as he prepared to pop the question to his girlfriend at long last.

"Yes Wilson, what is it?" asked Mandy.

Wilson let go of Mandy's hand and he stuck his hand into his pocket. He fished out the box he'd been hiding in there and he showed it to Mandy. The mouse began to feel wobbly all over. Was Wilson doing what she thought he was doing? Wilson could feel his heart pounding against his chest. He gulped and he opened the box, revealing the ring that was kept safely inside it.

"I would be…most…most honoured i-i-if…if you would give me…the honour…of becoming my wife." said Wilson slowly "Mandy Mouse… will you…marry me?"

The mouse gasped in surprise and she took the ring from Wilson. Her face beamed at the purple diamond that was on the ring. It was a beautiful ring and she couldn't believe that Wilson was finally asking her to marry him!

"Oh! Oh Wilson…I…I thought you'd never ask!" gasped Mandy, her eyes filling with happy tears "I accept without a moment's hesitance!"

With that said, she threw her arms around Wilson and grasped him into a hug. Wilson was so happy right now he thought he was going to burst like an over pumped balloon. He hugged Mandy back and the two kissed each other affectionately. Sonic and friends all had different reactions to this. Sonic punched the air happily and yelled "Whoo! Way to go Wilson!", Tails beamed with happiness, Amy put her hands to her mouth in surprise and gasped, Cream beamed as wide as she could and began to feel tears of happiness well up in her eyes, Knuckles and Shade both stared at the couple in surprise but they smiled for them, Geoffrey yelled "Alright mate! You go for it!" and Bunnie could do nothing more then say "Oh mah stars!" at the two Mobians. What a turnout this was! After pushing back Eggman's fleet, New Mobotropolis now begins it's city life with a wedding! And not just any wedding but the wedding of two of Mobotropolis' most notorious Royal Fighters! This was a good end to any day this was and Sonic couldn't help but feel proud of Wilson for gathering up the courage to finally ask his girlfriend to marry him. The dog had a lot more courage then he gave himself credit for.

"Holy chilli-sauce, we've been fighting together for months on end and you two finally get hitched!" chuckled Sonic, giving Wilson a friendly knuckle punch "I never thought I'd see that day come."

"Well you're not the only one who can surprise everybody." said Wilson with a big cheesy grin on his face "In all honesty, I never though I'd have the courage to pop the question at last. Seeing your heroism and courage did inspire me a little over the months though and when I thought the time was right, I proposed and now I'm about to become a husband! I'm so happy I could just fly to the moon and back!"

"Well if we had a rocket somewhere then we'd be happy to arrange that." snickered Sonic "Well done Wilson for mustering up this much courage for so long."

"Thank you." said Wilson brightly "You've been such a good friend to me Sonic."

"Well that's what the hedgehog does best, be as good a friend as he possibly can." said Sonic with pride.

As for Mandy, all the girls were losing themselves with excitement over her.

"We're so happy for you Miss Mandy!" squealed Cream, giving the mouse a hug "You and Mr. Wilson are gonna be a lovely couple and I wish you all the best in your married life!"

"Aw you're such a sweetheart little Creamy girl." chuckled Mandy, hugging her back "Thank you. You know what, I didn't think Wilson was going to propose. Ever since I turned eighteen I had dreams of me and him in marriage and I was waiting for him to pop the question as the man always has to do it. As I waited and waited though I began thinking to myself "If Wilson doesn't propose already, I'll have to do it myself!"."

That little statement made all the girls laugh.

"Well Wilson beat ya'll to it Mandy-gal." said Bunnie "And now you two will be a happily married Royal Fighter couple. Ah can't congratulate ya'll enough on this."

"You don't need to." said Mandy casually, patting Bunnie on the shoulder "All I need is the support of all my friends, that's enough congrats for me."

Amy then chimed in on this conversation and the pink hedgehog was bouncing up and down with excitement. She was bouncing so much you'd think she'd needed restraining or something.

"Oh Mandy, this is so exciting!" squealed Amy "We need to get you a dress, and everyone will dress nice and Ohmigosh, we're gonna be so GIRL!"

"Ha, ha, ha, simmer down Amy!" chuckled Mandy "We've only just got engaged! But we won't wait long for this wedding, I think we should get married by next month, which is a couple of weeks away. That'll be more the enough time to prepare for this wedding."

"I'm in agreement on that." said Wilson, putting his arms around his fiancée "The sooner we get married the better. Next month it shall be then."

"And I look forward to every minute of it." said Mandy, tapping Wilson's nose playfully.

The happily engaged couple then embraced each other once again, earning a chorus of "Awws" from everybody. Tails in particular seemed touched by the whole affair.

"Aww, they're so wonderful together." he said "I'm glad they're getting married."

"I can see you are little buddy." said Sonic "So when can we fill you and Cosmo in for marriage then?"

Tails blushed scarlet and his tails straightened in surprise. Cosmo was blushing too. She had heard Sonic's little remark and was a little embarrassed by that.

"Um…uh…we're still just kids yet Sonic…" said Tails slowly, fighting to keep himself from blushing even further "We're…too young to get married. We'll have to…um…wait until…we're…older…"

"Are you sure me and Tails can even get married?" asked Cosmo in confusion "I mean, we're not exactly the…ahem…same species are we?"

"So what? Wilson and Mandy aren't the same species and they're getting married." noted Sonic.

"But they both come from the same planet at least Sonic." said Cosmo "I'm a Seedrian and Tails is a Mobian. I'm not from this world. Do you think a marriage between us would work?"

"If you want my view on this, I say no matter what species you are, true love triumphs in the end." said Sonic "I think you two would be a perfect couple when you're older."

"I'd love to marry Cosmo." said Tails quietly, blushing even harder "She's so beautiful…"

That little compliment set Cosmo off in a flattered giggle that made Tails' face turn even redder and he could feel himself getting warm from the embarrassment.

"That's so nice of you to say Tails." said Cosmo "I'm amazed that even though I'm not the same species as you, you fancy me. I really wish I knew what to say about this."

"You don't have to say anything Cosmo." said Tails "But I know what to say now, next month will be a treat for you as you get to see a proper Mobian wedding. What were weddings like on your planet Cosmo?"

"The same as all the other weddings on other worlds." said Cosmo "Our weddings are no different to the others. I look forward to seeing a Mobian wedding though, it'll be lovely for me to see one while I'm here."

"And trust me, you're gonna love it." said Sonic with an assuring grin on his face "There'll be people dressed smartly, lots of confetti, long boring talks and a buffet at the end."

"It all sounds nice." said Cosmo "I look forward to Wilson and Mandy's wedding."

"Hey blue dude." said Mandy, chipping in suddenly on the conversation "Me and Wilson are wondering if you would love to be our best man for this wedding.

"Best man huh?" thought Sonic "Well, as long as you don't pick Amy to be the bridesmaid then I'll accept."

"Aw Sonic, don't be cruel to poor Amy!" giggled Mandy, playfully rubbing the hedgehog's head and making him giggle.

"Ha, ha, ha! Stop it! I was just kidding!" laughed Sonic as Mandy ruffled his fur "I'll happily be your best man regardless of who the bridesmaid is!"

"Well that's wonderful to know because we've already picked Amy to be the bridesmaid." sneered Mandy.

"I should have seen that coming." snickered Sonic "Oh well, me and Amy will be a good best man and bridesmaid each so there's no harm done on that one."

"Yeah." said Mandy. She then looked up from Sonic and over to Knuckles and Shade who were watching all this and she decided to ask them something.

"So you two, would you mind coming to our wedding?" she asked.

"We maybe the only ones left on Angel Island to guard the Master Emerald but we will take a day off duty to see you two get married." said Knuckles "Me and Shade don't mind wishing our good friends well just for one day so we'll happily come."

"How nice of you rad red." snickered Sonic "So when can we expect you and Shade to make it official then?"

"We're just friends right now Sonic." said Knuckles "But should me and Shade consider a married life, I'll give you a shout out."

"And if we do wish to get married then you and your friends will be treated with a proper echidna style wedding." said Shade "You may like how we echidnas do ceremonies like this."

"Sounds interesting." said Sonic "But until that day comes, let's just sit back and enjoy the wedding of Wilson and Mandy."

He looked back over at the happy couple, pleased to see that they were finally getting hitched. Sonic had been with the dog and mouse for months on end and become great friends with them and now he was going to be seeing their marriage. Even though Sonic wasn't as much on the soppy side as say Amy or anyone else, he was looking forward to this marriage, especially as it was something nice and not Eggman related for once. It was about time they were owed a break, especially with all the hell they just went through earlier with Blizzard and the Egg-Fleet so it was going to be nice to kick back and relax for a change. Only one though bugged Sonic though. If only Ruben the Water Panther was here to see this now but he was in Chun-Nan and catching up on things right now*. Still, Ruben would come home eventually and then Sonic would fill him in on everything once he returned. The next month was going to be a month worth waiting for when the wedding day finally arrived…

Next month, which was only a couple of weeks away from the day Wilson proposed, arrived at long last and the preparations for the wedding were already well underway. The New Mobotropolis Church was open and ready for it's first ever wedding, the wedding reception was nicely set up for after the ceremony and the guests were all preparing for the big day, as well as the bride and groom. Mandy was being seen to by the girls. The girls were had all gathered around into Mandy's house, a house built especially for her during the building of New Mobotropolis and they were helping Mandy prepare for probably the biggest day of her life. During the time between the proposal and the wedding, Mandy had bought a beautiful radiant wedding dress that was pure snow white in colour, made of satin and full of glitter. There was a trim of silver around the waist and Mandy had accompanying gloves that went up to her elbows. She had a tiara on her head with an accompanying veil that drooped down behind her head. Now her wedding day was here, she was now putting on her wedding clothes with the girls helping her. Amy, Cream, Cosmo and Bunnie were all there and Cream had even invited her mother Vanilla to help out with the preparation. Mandy stood in the middle of her living room with her arms out to the side. The girls helped her get the dress to look just right and they helped tie some ribbons around the waist section.

"I can't thank you girls enough for offering to help me prepare for my wedding." said Mandy graciously "You're all so generous, especially you Mrs. Rabbit."

"You're quite welcome Mandy dear." said Vanilla brightly "I love helping people out and when Cream announced to me one of her friends was getting married I knew I had to come over and help out."

"I appreciate your contribution dearly." said Mandy with a smile on her face "So, um, how are you and Porthos getting along since you got back together after that fateful day where he ended up finding us and Cream?"

"We're doing fine love." said Vanilla as she tied another ribbon on Mandy's dress "Ever since Porthos came back, I've been up in the clouds with joy. I'm still a little mad that he abandoned me and Cream just because he did something bad and didn't want to face me for it but I love him too much to care about it. The day he disappeared still burns in the back of my head like a raging fire though. When he didn't come home from his man's night out, I called the police about it and they searched and searched for Porthos but no matter how hard they tried…they just couldn't find him." she paused to stifle a sob that was itching to come out of her mouth "I was so crushed when they came to me and said Porthos still hadn't been found and that he was likely dead. I thought Cream would grow up without a father and that I would have to be alone for the rest of my life."

"And yet, we found my daddy again and I managed to convince him to come back to the family." said Cream brightly "I'm so happy that happened, it's so wonderful to see mother looking so happy again."

Cream was wearing a lovely white dress and carrying a basket of flowers. She had been picked to be the flower girl for the wedding and Vanilla had taught her everything she needed to know about being a flower girl so she wouldn't mess up on the job.

"I'm sure it is Cream." said Mandy kindly "Seeing you get your father back didn't half fill my heart with joy. I love seeing families get back together, it's just such a wonderful sight."

"Hey Mandy, what kind of shoes would you like to wear?" asked Amy who was holding a pair of slippers in her hand.

She was dressed in a white satin dress laced with taffeta and had a pink sash with a bow around the waist. This was her bridesmaid outfit and she looked stunning in it to say the least. She couldn't wait to see what Sonic thought to her bridesmaid outfit when the wedding began.

"Oh Amy, I don't wear shoes with dresses." said Mandy, looking down at her feet and wriggling her toes "I don't like the way they look together. Call it a picky little preference if you will but that's just what I'm like with dresses and footwear. I wear one or the other, never both together."

"OK then." said Amy "It's not unusual for the bride to go to the wedding barefoot. I have heard many brides who did that."

"So have I." said Mandy "My mother told me she went to her wedding barefoot too so maybe I got this preference from her. Not that it matters or anything. I just hope Wilson watches where he's putting his feet because if he steps on my feet during the wedding I'll be sure to let him know about it!"

Amy and Cream couldn't help but chuckle at that joke.

"OK, your dress is looking just about ready." said Amy as she tied the back of the dress together "Ready to see yourself Mandy?"

"I sure am." said Mandy "Cosmo, can you fetch the mirror please?"

"Yes Mandy." said Cosmo, scuttling over to get a large mirror on wheels that sat in the corner of the room waiting to be looked in.

Cosmo was wearing a lovely looking white dress that was satin and had pink ribbons and bows around the torso section and lower section. She grabbed the mirror and pulled it over to Mandy so she could look into it and admire herself. Mandy looked into the mirror. A beautiful purple furred mouse in a satin dress full of glitter and ribbons and tiara looked back at her. The mouse was her of course and Mandy began to admire herself all over. She looked absolutely gorgeous and she knew it. The dress worked well with her slender curvy body and the glitter on the dress sparkled like diamonds, making her look truly glamorous. Mandy did a little twirl and the dress twirled around radiantly along with her. The mouse was so pleased with her appearance she didn't know what to say about herself other then:

"Boy is Wilson in for a treat!" she laughed "I look like I'm about ready to take the Mobotropolis Beauty Queen title from Nicole!"

"You look gorgeous Mandy!" trilled Cream excitedly "You look simply wonderful!"

"Ah couldn't agree more little Cream." said Bunnie brightly. "Ah've never seen Mandy lookin' so mighty dang fine before. She's a proper beautiful mouse isn't she?"

Bunnie was wearing a radiant peach dress made of silk that complimented her figure beautifully and looked as nice as all the other dresses the other girls were wearing.

"She is." said Cosmo "Mandy looks lovely in that dress. It's lovely to see that the Mobian race has good taste in clothing just like the Seedrians do."

"I can just imagine what a Seedrian wedding dress looks like." chuckled Mandy "Long and glowing and covered in petals. I bet it looks and smells very nice."

"They do." said Cosmo "I think you'd look very good in a Seedrian dress if you ever wore one."

"I'm sure I would but I have no means of space travel and even if I did, I dunno where your planet is so we'll never find out." said Mandy "Anyway, I cannot wait to see what Wilson thinks to my dress when I show up at the church. I think he'll faint at the sight of me!"

"If he does then I'll be on hand to wake him up." said Amy reassuringly "I'll have a bucket of water on standby should he faint in amazement at you."

That set all the girls off. They all burst out laughing at Amy's joke, filling the room with the sound of hearty chuckles that heavily indicated how happy they were.

Meanwhile, at Wilson's house, the orange furred dog was being seen to by the boys Sonic, Tails, Knuckles, Geoffrey St. John and Cream's father Porthos the Rabbit. Sonic and Tails were both wearing black tuxedoes with a red flower on the heart side of their chests and a red bow tie around their necks. They both looked very smart and Sonic had to admit, it looked strange to see him looking so gentlemanly and like a proper best man when he was usually a reckless, fast running jokester who crushed Eggman robots and made fools out of his enemies. It looked strange seeing Tails look so smart too, especially as he was only a kid but Tails liked the way he looked. He had been picked to be the page boy for the wedding, meaning he had to carry the wedding rings on a satin cushion and give them to the bride and groom when the vicar called for them. Tails had been practicing being a page boy so he wouldn't gaff on this and do something stupid like drop the rings and the cushion and look absolutely foolish. As for Knuckles, he was wearing tradition echidna attire which consisted of a tan coloured robe with green gems around the neck section and big tan boots. Geoffrey was dressed in a black tuxedo, black trousers and smart black shoes and he wore a black tie around his neck. He looked proper nice for the wedding and he looked pleased with himself. Wilson, the groom of the wedding, was wearing a black tuxedo with matching black tie but his tuxedo had tails unlike Sonic, Tails and Geoffrey's. He wore smart black trousers and smart black shoes to go with the tuxedo. He had a rose in his breast pocket that smelt wonderful and he had gold cufflinks. He also had a top hat that he decided to wear just for show more then anything. He looked proper gentlemanly and anyone looking at him would hardly get the idea that he was a Royal Fighter in another time. Despite his smart, handsome appearance, he was a nervous wreck right now. Weddings had that effect on anyone getting married, you're a nervous wreck but once the wedding happens, you feel much better and the nervous feeling goes away. Wilson put the top hat on his head and looked at himself in the mirror. He couldn't believe how great he looked and he looked forward to seeing Mandy's reaction to his appearance when he showed up at the wedding.

"Goodness me, I'm one smart looking doggy!" he cried at himself in the mirror "Mandy's gonna love this!"

"I bet she will." said Sonic supportively "You look great Wilson."

"You don't look so bad yourself Sonic." said Wilson "You look like a proper best man you do. It feels strange seeing you look all smart looking for once Sonic and yet it strangely suits you to some degree."

"Eh, I look OK I guess." said Sonic, adjusting his bow tie "I wouldn't wanna dress like this all the time though, I'm glad it's a special occasion only thing."

"I like the way I look in a tuxedo." said Tails as he admired himself all over "I wouldn't mind dressing like this more often. I'm glad you picked me to be the page boy Wilson and don't worry, I won't mess up on you."

"I'm not worried about that Tails." said Wilson "It's the wedding I'm nervous about! I'm so nervous right now I feel like I'm gonna drop dead! Why is it you always dream of being married and when it happens you have a stomach full of knots just before it happens?"

"I wondered the same thing too when I had my marriage to Vanilla." said Porthos "You want to get married and yet the whole thing makes you feel like you're going to burst. One way I managed to save myself from worrying myself silly was to take deep breaths and say to myself "Everything will be fine, everything will be fine." over and over. It worked like a charm and when I arrived at the church, I'd forgotten I was even nervous to begin with."

"I'll try that." said Wilson, adjusting the rose on his tuxedo and the brim of his top hat "I bet it'll work on me if it worked on you Porthos."

"Just out of interest, how's things been with you and Vanilla after you got back together at last?" asked Sonic.

"When I explained to Vanilla my reason for opting out of her life she looked like she was going to scream bloody murder at me!" said Porthos with a slight chuckle "But she looked into my eyes and saw how sorry I was and she forgave me in an instant. Vanilla's a very forgiving person and I feel fortunate that I married a woman like that. It feels so good to be back with my wife again and I get to raise the daughter I looked forward to but missed out on because of my silly gaff six years ago that could have easily been resolved by me just coming clean instead of hiding for the rest of my life."

"Well that's nice to know." said Sonic "But there's one thing else I'd love to know. Where the heck is Ruben? It's been two weeks and he hasn't come back from his visit to Chun-Nan! What has that water panther been getting up to since his visit back there? He said he was visiting there for a while and a couple of weeks have gone by!

Then again, he didn't specify how long a while he was wanting to go for but I think two weeks is a little too long for a while. Something must be up with him."

"Maybe Ruben's just having such a good time and has lost track of time." suggested Tails.

"That seems a little bizarre though Tails, I don't think Ruben would forget about us for two whole weeks!" noted Sonic "There's something going on at Chun-Nan and I'm gonna find out what it is."

"But Sonic mate, what about the wedding?" asked Geoffrey "It's due on sometime soon. If you go off to find Ruben you'll be late for the wedding."

"No I won't Geoffrey." said Sonic "The wedding isn't for a good few hours yet, and I can run at the speed of sound so I'll be at Chun-Nan and back again in time for the marriage of my two good buddies."

"Let's hope you're right Sonic or Wilson and Mandy will not be happy with you for walking out on them." said Knuckles sternly.

"Knuckles, I'm right here." said Wilson, clearing his throat "Sonic, I don't mind if you miss the wedding, the welfare of a friend is more important then anything in the world. If Mandy asks where you are, I'll just tell her where you are and what you're doing, she'll understand."

"Thanks Wilson." said Sonic graciously "I know that I'll find Ruben in time and I'll be back in time for your wedding. You can count on the hedgehog to be back in double quick time."

"I know I can." beamed Wilson "I hope you find Ruben, I'm beginning to wonder what's happening to him over at Chun-Nan."

"I wouldn't wear your best man outfit though as you might get it dirty while looking around for Ruben." said Tails

Sonic agreed with Tails and he removed his best man clothes. The last thing he wanted was to show up at his two friend's wedding with his clothes in tatters and covered in dirt. He folded the clothes up neatly and set them down on the sofa. He then prepared to leave the house and look for Ruben in Chun-Nan.

"I'll be off to find Ruben." said Sonic "I'll be back as soon as possible."

"Good luck Sonic." said Tails "And be careful out there."

"Careful? What's that?" sneered Sonic "Oh well, see you later everybody! I'll be back faster then you can say "chilli dogs"!"

With that said, Sonic charged out of Wilson's house, right through the city of New Mobotropolis, through the city gates and out into the surrounding meadows and off through Green Hill Zone. Chun-Nan maybe far away but when you can run at the speed of sound, distance is no worrying matter. Sonic would be at Chun-Nan in a few minutes and then he can start searching for Ruben and find out what's been keeping him for two whole weeks…

A good while later, Sonic arrived at hilltop in Chun-Nan and he skidded to a halt so he could quick admire the beautiful view he was met with on top of the hill. He peered into the distance and smiled at the beauty of the country.

"Aah Chun-Nan." said Sonic with a sigh "This country never stops looking so beautiful. I could get used to a view like this."

But now was not the time to be sight seeing. He had a friend to find and had to be home in a good amount of time before Wilson and Mandy's wedding started. He had no idea where Ruben could possibly be in this country but he had a good idea on where to start. The Pagoda of Prosperity, home of Chun-Nan's rulers Emperor Tai and Princess Matilda. They'd probably know where Ruben was. Sonic sped off at supersonic speeds and he ran through the village of Chun-Nan, earning some surprised gasps from the villagers as he ran by and almost blew them over with the winds he made from running at super speeds. Sonic luckily remembered where the Pagoda of Prosperity was after being led there by Ruben the first time he'd met Tai and Matilda. In a matter of seconds he arrived at the Pagoda of Prosperity and he knocked on the door politely. He waited for a moment, tapping his foot impatiently as he waited and the door slid open. Matilda was the one answering it and to her surprise, Sonic the Hedgehog was standing there and waiting to meet her.

"Oh my goodness." she said with a smile on her face "It's the hero of the west himself again. What a wonderful surprise this is."

"Thanks Matilda." said Sonic with a bow "You look great as always. How's the ol' kung-fu coming on by the way?"

"It's coming on great thanks." said Matilda "I'm almost at the expert stage now. I've got a few more lessons yet to complete and then I'll be at the highest level of kung-fu."

"Now that sounds cool." said Sonic "May I come in and meet the emperor?"

"Sure. A hero such as yourself is always welcome on royal grounds speedy warrior." said Matilda politely, letting Sonic inside her radiant home.

Sonic stepped inside and he looked all over the pagoda, admiring the rooms and kitchen as he walked over to a big soft cushion to sit on. The pagoda still looked glamorous and he proper felt at home here. Sonic sat down and respectfully waited for the emperor to come.

"Daddy. Sonic the Hedgehog is here." said Matilda.

Tai, who was in the back garden meditating, came back into the pagoda and he wandered into the living room where none other then Sonic the Hedgehog was waiting for him. It surprised the old mongoose to see Sonic here and he wondered what the hero of Mobius could possibly be here for.

"Well slay the dragons!" he blurted "It's Sonic the Hedgehog! What an honour it is to have you visiting us again hero of the west."

"Thanks emperor." said Sonic casually "I'm honoured just to be welcomed here. So how's things been going since we've last met?"

"Quite a lot Sonic." said Tai briskly "My daughter helped to stop the Yīnyǐng Mao clan and a traitor amongst the governors from assassinating me and replacing me with someone they wanted as emperor last year and she's also helped to prevent Zira the Ruthless from escaping prison. Unfortunately, she couldn't stop Fong Zarr from escaping the prison."

"So Fong Zarr got arrested but he's escaped?" said Sonic "Well that's not good. The ninja leader of the Yīnyǐng Mao clan's now free to cause trouble again."

"Me and the kung-fu masters can handle him easily." said Matilda in a determined tone "Fong Zarr's no match for us."

"I'll say he isn't, Mushu made short work of him after Zira was defeated." noted Sonic "Anyways, do you know where Ruben is? He told me he was visiting Chun-Nan again and he's been gone for too long. And two of my friends are getting married so I wanna find Ruben and bring him back in time for the marriage."

"Ruben's been spending these past couple of weeks looking for a traitor amongst the water panthers." said Matilda, her face was grave "You see, a friend of his from another water panther clan named Hydra has been stealing every water panther in Chun-Nan's aqua-collars. Ruben himself got robbed and he's trying as hard as he can to find Hydra."

"Oh my gosh!" cried Sonic "Ruben's had his collar stolen by a friend of his? Well I hope Ruben can find that Hydra guy and give him what for! Turning his back on his own kind and stealing all their aqua-collars? How dirty can you get?"

"I know. Even I cannot believe this." muttered Tai "If you want to know where Ruben is, he's gone to the great plains that are just beyond the village of Chun-Nan. He's looking for Hydra there. If you stand outside and face the east side, you should see the plains and you should go there. Watch out for the spider caves though. You do not want to get caught by them."

"Ruben's in the plains and I've gotta stay clear of the spider caves." said Sonic "Got it. Thanks a lot emperor. I'll find Ruben and hopefully tempt him to come home for the marriage and then we can come back and look for his aqua-collar."

"You don't need to worry about what's going on here Sonic." said Matilda reassuringly "Me, daddy and the kung-fu masters are looking for Hydra so you can leave it to us to find the aqua-collars while you deal with Dr. Eggman."

"OK, but I might just nose around and look if I have nothing better to do." said Sonic "Anything for a friend after all. See you later and if I don't come back then I've probably found Ruben and gone home."

With that said, Sonic got up and left the Pagoda of Prosperity. He faced the east side of the pagoda and saw the plains that Emperor Tai was talking about that stretched into the horizon and beyond. Sonic and Ruben had crossed those plains after going off to the Raiju clan's territory to ask for their help in defeating Zira so this wasn't unfamiliar territory for him. Sonic revved up his speedy feet and he charged away from the pagoda of headed off towards the plains where Ruben was said to be. Sonic hope this search would be easy for him as he didn't have time for a long search. Wilson and Mandy's wedding was due in a good amount of time so he had to find Ruben nice and quickly or he would miss it and the two wouldn't be too pleased at the fact their own best man missed their wedding…

Sonic arrived at the plains and he skidded to a halt. The plains seemed to go on forever and were pretty featureless save for cracked rocky grounds that stretched everywhere. They looked like that due to the lack of vegetation here and droughts mainly happened around here. Sonic couldn't see any caves around so he didn't see what the deal about the spider caves was. Regardless, he didn't know the land like the actual residents of Chun-Nan did so he had to take the emperor's advice for granted. Sonic began walking through the plains, calling out at the top of his voice.

"Ruben!" called Sonic, his voice echoing around the featureless plains "Ruben! Hey Ruben buddy! Where are you?"

No answer. Ruben wasn't around it seemed so Sonic would have to start searching all around the plains in hopes of finding him. Sonic picked up speed and began jogging around the plains like an Olympic sprinter.

"Ruben!" cried Sonic "Answer me Ruben old buddy! Ruben! Ruben!"

Still no answer. These plains were large and Sonic had no idea how long it had been since Ruben had been in here so Ruben could be anywhere. He could be out for miles for all Sonic knew but given Sonic's super speed, he'd be able to run around the plains quickly and find Ruben in a good amount of time. But if he went too fast he might accidentally miss Ruben since it was harder to see when going fast as the whole world became a blur around you when you ran at a good speed, especially a supersonic speed like Sonic so Sonic jogged around at a nice steady pace instead of running at top speed so should he see Ruben, he can stop quickly and he'd be likelier to see him. Sonic continued jogging through the plains and he cupped his hands around his mouth.

"Ruben!" cried Sonic "Where are you? Ruben!"

His voice continued echoing around the plains as he called out as loud as he could. He continued to jog at a quick pace and he headed for two large rocks that stood up side by side as if they were traffic posts. Big mistake though. Sonic ran in-between the rocks… and ended up running into some large sticky web and getting all tangled up in it! Sonic writhed about in the web, making disgusted sounds as he got tangled up in the web and he tripped up and fell down onto the ground. Sonic picked himself up and began to tear the sticky web off of himself.

"Urgh! Web!" he muttered with disgust as he tore it off of himself and shook his hands to get the web off them "Must be a spider trap! The caves must be nearby here so I'd best skedaddle before I…"

Then suddenly, Sonic was struck by a spout of web and thrown back against one of the tall rocks! The web pinned Sonic to the rock and he struggled in the grasp of the sticky web that tightly bound him to the rock. Sonic pulled and pulled but the web was much too strong for him. He pulled on his arms and he grunted with effort as he strained to get out of the web but he couldn't. The web was too strong and Sonic couldn't cut himself free as he didn't have any sharp objects on him and the web had firmly fixed him to the rock so he couldn't curl up into a ball and spin-dash himself free. He was stuck fast and he couldn't get free.

"Gyah! Urgh, Hurgh! Nyagh! Grrrr!" grunted Sonic as he tried to break free "Of all the rotten luck! I get trussed up in web! Urrrggghhh!" he growled as he pulled very hard on the web "Can't I do anything without getting in trouble these days?"

Then suddenly, a spider leg shot out from nowhere and stabbed the ground just at Sonic's feet. Sonic jumped and he looked up at the owner of the leg. There, standing before him with an evil look on it's beady pink eyes was a live Mobian spider. Mobian spiders look like actual spiders but they only have four legs instead of eight and they have two front limbs that acted as arms and had scythes or pincers for hands. They were also huge, some growing to be eleven feet tall if they were lucky! This spider was a female spider that stood about eight foot tall with two curved horns on either side of it's head and three spikes on top of her head. It had a thin neck and sharp scythes for hands with additional spikes near the base of her hands. She had spiked knees and a large abdomen that was especially good at web spinning. Her fangs were long and sharp and her mouth had a red outlining that made it look like she had lipstick on. Her skin was a fiery crimson colour and the tips of her scythe hands had purple markings and her back and abdomen had many strange yellow and purple markings. The markings on her abdomen looked a little like a web. The spider hissed evilly and she went straight up into Sonic's face, clearly showing that she had no respect for personal space. She licked her lips and stared at Sonic, green saliva dripping from her fangs and tongue.

"Well, isn't this a surprise?" purred the spider, her voice exactly the same as that of the Transformers Prime character Airachnid "I've already caught one luscious snack for my starving children and now I've just caught another one. My children shall have a delicious dinner tonight."

"Sorry missy, but hedgehog's off the menu." said Sonic "I haven't got time to stay for dinner, I've got a friend to find and if you can just let me outta this web then I can be on my way and you and me can forget we've ever met each other."

"No little hedgehog." purred the spider, her eyes narrowing down evilly "I've caught you in my web and we spiders eat what we catch."

Sonic just tugged on his web even harder.

"Forget it you web spinning freak, you're not eating me!" yelled Sonic "Let me go or I'll give you a hedgehog style pounding!"

"I hardly think someone in a position like yours is in any position to give me orders." fumed the spider "Do you know who I am boy?"

"No!" snapped Sonic "And should I care?"

"Yes you should you foolish little brat." snarled the spider "I am Gina the Spider Queen, leader of the Spiders of Anarchy and I'm having you for dinner tonight."

"Oh geez, not another group of anarchists!" muttered Sonic "We've already got a group of anarchistic reptiles, I don't have the patience for anarchistic spiders too!"

"And I don't have the patience for your annoying and obstinate nature blue boy." muttered Gina "Now stand still while I take you to my cave."

Sonic did not stay still. Instead, he turned his head and began to saw away at the web near his shoulders with his quills. He managed to cut a bit of the web open with his quills and he wrestled his arm out of the grasp of the web. Gina's eyes widened and she slashed at him with her scythe hands but Sonic moved his arm out of the way, causing Gina to miss and accidentally slice his web open. Sonic wrestled his way out of the web and he spin-dashed the giant spider as hard as he could. Gina was sent hurling backwards and she landed rather sharply on her back. The spider groaned in pain and Sonic ran away from her as fast as he possibly could. Gina picked herself up and she scuttled after him on her four long thin legs. Spiders were fast but Gina was nowhere near fast enough to catch Sonic. As Sonic sped away from her and Gina gave chase, the spider began to grumble to herself.

"How fast is this bothersome, manic bit of prey?" grumbled Gina "This is the fastest creature I've ever come across. That'll make eating him all that more special!"

Gina may not be fast enough to catch Sonic but she had ways of keeping up with him. She leaped up into the air as high as she could and she landed on the ground a few feet behind Sonic. Sonic did a wild U-turn and he spin-dashed Gina again just to slow her down and give him a chance to lose her. Gina fell down onto her stomach and Sonic ran away but Gina shot a web at him. The web wrapped around his ankles and tripped him up. Sonic fell down onto his face and Gina ran over to him so she could grab him. Sonic turned around onto his back and he swung his legs upwards, kicking Gina in the face. Gina growled at Sonic and she slashed at him. Sonic moved out of the way and began to tug on the web around his ankles so he could run again. This just gave Gina the perfect opportunity to spin a web around Sonic and trap him like a fly. Sonic was wrapped in web all around his body and his muzzle was covered in web so he couldn't speak or call for help. Sonic looked a bit like a mummy now and he wriggled and writhed like a caterpillar as he tried to get out of the sticky web. He called out but the web around his mouth kept him quiet. All he could do was make muffled yells and groans as he tried to get out of the web. Gina laughed softly at Sonic and she stroked his head with her scythe hand in a seductive manner.

"Please don't resist little boy." she purred seductively "You'll only make yourself tired and stringy and I don't like stringy food."

"Mmmf! Hurmmf! Grummf Umpf!" grumbled Sonic, his voice muffled by the web around his muzzle.

"What's that? I can't understand you with that web around your mouth." sneered Gina "Oh well, I think I can guess what you're going to say anyway. Do you know what I say? I say, it's time for dinner boy. My children will enjoy feasting on you, especially as you have this unusual ability of super speed. That'll make you taste wonderful."

Sonic continued his pitiful struggling but no matter how hard he tried, he just couldn't get free. Gina laughed at Sonic's pitiful struggling and she picked up the webbed up hedgehog. She draped Sonic on her back and scuttled off back to her cave where she and her children were going to feast on him. So not only would Sonic be late for the wedding of Wilson and Mandy, he would end up missing it as he was going to get killed and eaten alive by a group of spiders…

* Remember Tales from Mobius Arc 6: The Five Festivals of Holy Honour ?

Not your traditional wedding story is it? I mean this wedding story has SPIIIIDERS in it! Oh wait, Doctor Who's done it, never mind! XD So is Sonic going to be a meal for the spiders and end up missing his friend's wedding? Or will he get out at the last minute, find Ruben and get home? Well, there's only one thing for it. STAY TUNED OF COURSE!

To Pandamonium: I'm not sure how long this'll be in all honesty. I have ideas that might take me well beyond even 200! Sonic's just so easy to write stories for it's unbelievable! Oh well, I'm glad you're enjoying it.

So PROJECT 1-21-18-9-1-19, what do you think of the recent chapters of Heroes of Mobius then? Still going strong? Do tell, I'm eager to know! :)

P.S. I know I said I was dropping the footnotes but I think they'll be necessary for anyone who's reading this and NOT Tales from Mobius at the same time so there will only be footnotes when an event from Tales from Mobius is being brought up. Hope that makes sense.

Marriage Part 2

Story 99: Marriage Part 2: Late for the Ceremony

Wilson the Dog, fellow Royal Fighter and groom, looked nervously at the clock that hung proudly above his fireplace. It read quarter past three. The wedding was due on in another thirty minutes and Sonic the Hedgehog hadn't returned from Chun-Nan yet. He'd been gone for only fifteen minutes already so that wasn't something to be worried about. Sonic could get from Mobotropolis to Chun-Nan in a matter of minutes so if he managed to find Ruben now, he'd be back in record time but it wasn't Sonic that Wilson was just worried about. It was of course, his own wedding. Weddings are always something to look forward to but when they finally happen, your stomach ties into so many knots it's a wonder that any of your food gets through it in the end. Wilson nervously adjusted his top hat and began to gibber to himself.

"It's almost here, it's almost here, it's almost here!" he squeaked nervously to himself "Oh boy, I hope this goes right for me and Mandy! This is supposed to be the best day of our lives and if anything goes wrong then I will never live this down!"

"Wilson mate, take it easy on yerself, all yer doin' is making yerself stress over nothing." said Geoffrey St. John the Skunk, a good friend of Wilson's and a good Royal Fighter "Nothing's gonna go wrong. No bad guys are around and if they try to attack, we have the secret defence systems that have been installed in this new city so we can keep out any attempts to ruin the wedding so relax Wilson."

"I bloomin' wish I could!" piped Wilson "I wish Sonic hadn't left to find Ruben! He knows how to clam me down when my stomach's all knotted up like rope!"

"Well mate, Sonic's left to find Ruben I'm afraid." said Geoffrey "And I'm glad he is too, we don't want our little friend missing out on your wedding do we?"

"No we don't." said Wilson "I wonder what's kept Ruben for two weeks? I bet Sonic will find out once he finds him."

"I know Sonic will find Ruben, but will he find him in time?" wondered Tails "Sonic maybe fast but Ruben could be anywhere in a country as big as Chun-Nan so Sonic may have a tough time finding him."

"Don't worry about Sonic Tails." said Knuckles, putting a hand on his foxy friend's shoulder "He can handle himself and he'll be back in time. If he's not then I may have to give him a few bumps for missing out on his own friend's wedding!"

"Knuckles!" yelled Tails.

"Just kidding!" snickered Knuckles "If Sonic's late, we all know why that is and we can forgive him for it."

"I just hope he comes back with Ruben." said Tails "I'm actually missing the water panther and so is Cosmo. She's worried sick about him."

"Well little Tails, we all know that Sonic will be back with your missing friend." said Porthos the Rabbit, Cream's long lost father, kindly "The hedgehog has never let anybody down has he?"

"No Porthos." said Tails "He hasn't so he won't let us down this time."

"I agree." said Wilson, fumbling about with his tie to make sure it felt just right on him "Sonic will be back and we won't have to have a wedding without a best man."

Unfortunately, that didn't seem likely as Sonic was a little tied up at the moment…

Back in Chun-Nan, Sonic the Hedgehog had been taken to the spider caves, home of the Spiders of Anarchy and he was now hanging upside down from the ceiling by a strand of web wrapped around his feet. That was how spiders stored their food before eating it, they hung them upside down and then when feeding time came, they cut them loose and brought them down to the ground and then they devoured you at piranha speed. Sonic was tightly trussed up in web all over his body and his muzzle was covered in web as if he was gagged and he dangled upside down like a chrysalis. Sonic struggled in the thick, sticky grasp of the web but try as he might, he just couldn't get free. Web was much too strong for him to break out of. Sonic eventually gave up on his struggling and he looked around the cave. He saw nothing but web strands and crevasses where spider offspring slept in. Then Sonic noticed something as he looked around the cave. He wasn't the only one here. There was another victim all trussed up in web and hanging upside down from the ceiling like he was. And that victim was none other then Ruben the Water Panther! He'd been caught by the spiders just shortly after Sonic began looking for him in the plains and now he was all webbed up and waiting to be devoured by the insidious spiders. So now Sonic had finally found Ruben, it was just a matter of getting out of here that was now the problem! Ruben may know martial arts but not even he can break out of web and Sonic certainly couldn't break out of web so it seemed the two Mobians were doomed to become a spider's dinner. As Sonic continued to struggle, making muffled noises as he did so, Gina the Spider Queen stepped into the room and licked her slimy lips. Sonic stopped struggling and stared at Gina. His eyes narrowed down to pure slits of rage and anger.

"Feeling comfortable yet hedgehog?" purred Gina in a voice dripping with fake sweetness "I do hope you are because you won't be feeling comfortable for much longer."

"Mmmmf! Umpf! Grumpf!" muttered Sonic from under his web gag.

"Oh for goodness sake, I really shouldn't gag my prey when they want to speak to me." muttered Gina "If it'll make you feel better, I'll let you say your last words hedgehog."

With that said, Gina stepped over to Sonic and she slashed his gag open, giving the hedgehog the ability to speak again.

"Gasp!" cried Sonic as he was now able to breathe through his mouth again "Thanks. Now Gina, I've got a few things to say to you! One: I can't believe you've got my little buddy Ruben and two: you let us both go now and there won't be any trouble!"

"How can there be any trouble when nobody's around to save you hedgehog?" sneered Gina "You're stuck with me boy and that's all there is to it I'm afraid. You should have known better then to wander through these plains alone and walk right into one of my traps. You could have avoided this you know."

"Ok first off, I don't live here." snapped Sonic "I come from New Mobotropolis so therefore, how was I supposed to know there was a spider trap anywhere and two, my name's not just "hedgehog", I'm Sonic the Hedgehog, the hero of Mobius and if you don't let me go now then I'll have to go supersonic on you and kick your big fat abdomen!"

Gina was slightly offended by the fact Sonic called her abdomen big (It's like saying she's got a big arse since the abdomen is pretty much the spider's backside) but she seemed surprised at the fact she had the world famous Sonic the Hedgehog at her mercy.

"How droll this is, I have the world famous Sonic the Hedgehog in my parlour?" she purred "Well, this catch just got even more special. Ha, ha, ha, ha. I'm so going to enjoy sinking my fangs into your puny little neck boy."

"Look lady, you're making a big mistake eating me!" yelled Sonic "I have friends who will be very upset to hear that you've eaten me and if you eat me, I can't stop Dr. Eggman from taking over Mobius and if he takes over Mobius, you will all be robot spiders that serve his every will so you can't eat me!"

"I can boy and Eggman's no concern of ours." said Gina with a sly smirk on her hideous face "If he comes into my parlour, I'll just web him alive and eat him. Given his size, he'll last my children a whole week once we eat that fat dictator from another world."

"No you won't Gina!" retorted Sonic "Eggman was giant killer robots that are we bigger then even the biggest spider! He'll squash you all flat or put you and your children in the roboticizer! If you want to survive and avoid being robots then let me and Ruben go and that way, we can prevent Eggman from harming anybody, even freaks like you!"

One thing you must never do to a spider is call it a freak. Calling a spider a freak is almost like swearing at it to them and Gina was very offended to have been called a freak by Sonic the Hedgehog so she hissed angrily and frowned at him with her blank pink eyes.

"How dare you call me a freak!" snarled Gina "We spiders are people too and just because were scary looking, it doesn't mean we're freaks! It's no wonder we're anarchists, the people of Chun-Nan and even the government of Chun-Nan hates us and thinks we're heathens, freaks and savages!"

"I can't imagine why." muttered Sonic.

"You're lucky I'm patient enough to overlook that insult of yours." snapped Gina "Anyway, the people of Chun-Nan hate us and think we're an abomination to Chun-Nan life. We spiders took offence to that so we began trying to kill everybody and replace the government with a government of spiders but the kung-fu warriors beat us and that stupid oaf of an emperor Dalon Tai sent us all into exile for what we did. During my time in exile, I've been forced to live in this dark, lonely cave catching whatever comes by the caves and eating them just to keep my strength up. It's a hard life down here and…my poor, poor children are absolutely starving."

With that said, she motioned over to the crevasse on the left side of the cave and called for her children. The children heard her and they all crawled out of the crevasse and up towards their mother. There were hundreds of hungry baby spiders, all of them the same colour as Gina and they were barely the size she was. They were only about as large as Sonic's foot. They had some growing up to do but given lack of food in this life of exile, they would take a while to grow up and become as big as their mother. The spiders all looked up at Sonic and their fangs began dripping with green saliva. It looked like they were dribbling toxic waste. They were all eager to eat the hedgehog and they began making excited squeals of pleasure at the mere sight of food above their heads. Sonic just made a disgusted face and didn't look at them.

"Look at them Sonic, only tiny little innocent babies and they barely have enough food to go around all of them." said Gina sadly "It breaks my heart to think that…that…they may never get to reach the adult stage and become like me. They're such sad, hungry little souls and the fact I can never get enough food for them is just heartbreaking. Surely you can understand how desperate my situation is."

"I can but I don't care." muttered Sonic "You spiders brought this on yourselves by making everybody hate you so I think you all deserve this kind of punishment. If you want to survive Gina, I suggest you quite your life of anarchism and redeem yourself in the emperor's eyes. I'm sure he'll be willing to give you a second chance."

"He will never give me and my children a second chance!" snapped Gina "Nobody likes us, they hate us and they would sooner skewer me alive then think of letting me into their society! The only way we spiders can have any respect is if the country is run by spiders! I plan to rob Chun-Nan of it's scornful government and replace it with a government of spiders. I shall make myself the empress in place of Emperor Tai and then the spider race shall finally have the glory, respect and dignity we deserve!"

"Yeah Gina, you do realize you're just giving me a reason to stomp on you?" said Sonic coldly, not a usual manner for him to use.

Gina gritted her teeth and she glowered at Sonic. The hedgehog was beginning to get on her nerves now.

"That's it blue boy, it's time for the feast." growled Gina, raising her arm up and preparing to slice Sonic's web strand so he would fall down to the ground and get eaten by her children "Then you'll see what happens to those who bad talk us spiders!"

For the first time in his life, Sonic began to feel terrified. He was just about to become a spider's lunch and therefore, he'd end up missing the wedding of Wilson and Mandy and he'd be dead so he wouldn't be able to defeat Dr. Eggman and bring peace back to Mobius. He had to save himself and fast. Maybe he could stall Gina for long enough to think of an escape plan.

"Hey Gina, wait!" cried Sonic "Before you dine on me, can me and Ruben have one last conversation between us? Privately? Just think of it as us saying our last words."

Gina thought for a moment on that matter. Should she bother to let Sonic have a private conversation with Ruben or should she just eat him already? Gina thought and then came up with her answer.

"Very well." she said "You may have one last talk with your friend. After all, nothing like delaying a kill in order to raise their fear levels before me and my children devour them."

With that said, Gina wondered over to Ruben and sliced open his web gag so the water panther may speak again. Ruben, who was sleeping at the time, woke up as he suddenly began to feel himself breathing through his mouth again and looked around, wondering what was happening. He noticed his web gag had gone so he was now able to speak. He then saw Sonic all webbed up and in his position and he almost fainted with shock (although given how he's hanging upside down, it's kind of hard to faint isn't it?).

"Sonic?" blurted Ruben.

"Hey Ruben." said Sonic casually "Nice place for a reunion isn't it?"

Gina interrupted them.

"I'll give you two as long as you need but don't think about dragging your conversation for a needlessly long amount of time." she sad dryly "If you drag for too long, I'll come in and finish you both off. Have a nice last conversation boys."

Gina laughed softly to herself and she crawled out of the room and further up the cave. Her children all crawled back into their sleeping hole and waited until their mother said it was OK to come out again. Now the cave was empty of all spiders, Sonic and Ruben began their conversation.

"Sonic, I'm glad to see you, although it'd be much better if you weren't all webbed up like I am." said Ruben "What the heck are you doing here anyway?"

"I'm sightseeing, what do you think I'm doing?" snapped Sonic "You were gone for far too long and I got worried about you so I decided to come and look for you. I've found you now but now I'm all in a tangle as you can see. Talk about unlucky!"

Ruben's ears drooped against his head and he looked sad.

"I'm so sorry about this Sonic." said Ruben sadly "I should have come home and told you but I got so caught up in my search for Hydra and the stolen aqua-collars that I forgot about all of you. I'm so sorry, please forgive me."

"I do already Ruben." said Sonic "I understand your predicament. I met the emperor when I arrived here and he told me all about what's been going on with you. Something about a friend of yours stealing every water panther's aqua-collars, you included."

"Yes." said Ruben "Hydra betrayed us all and it's thanks to him the water panther race is now just a panther race. I so wish to get my collar back but I just can't find Hydra anywhere. I should just give up and leave it to the kung-fu masters."

"I wouldn't say you should give up Ruben but once we get outta this, you can take a break from your search if you want." said Sonic "It's not good for your health if you keep pushing yourself to the bone and don't rest you know. If I get any spare time, I'll help you find the thief."

"Thanks Sonic." said Ruben graciously "So, what have I missed out on while I've been looking for my stolen collar?"

"Quite a lot." said Sonic "First the opening of New Mobotropolis, then Blizzard the Hedgehog comes and tries to ransack the place, then Eggman comes out of hiding and attacks only to fail because the city has a shield and now Wilson and Mandy are getting married."

"Wilson and Mandy are getting married?" blurted Ruben in surprise "Aw, that's wonderful! I feel so happy for them now! If only I wasn't all webbed up and then I could go and wish them well! Looks like me and you are going to miss the wedding though as we're about ready to become a spider's dinner."

"No we're not Ruben." said Sonic determinedly "We're getting outta here. No spider's chowing down on this hedgehog! Not today, not any other day, not ever!"

Sonic then proceeded to feebly struggle in the web again. He may not be strong enough to get out of the web but he wasn't going to give up. He was getting out of this cave alive along with Ruben and nothing was going to stop him…

…but Sonic would have to hurry up because the wedding was about to commence at last! There was only fifteen minutes left and everybody was already beginning to pile into the New Mobotropolis Church for the ceremony. Everybody at this wedding was dressed nicely in smart tuxedos or looking absolutely beautiful in long flowing dresses. Four of the guests were Wilson and Mandy's parents and they were eagerly anticipating this marriage. To the citizens, this wasn't a wedding to be missed after all as it was the wedding of the century, the wedding of two of the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, the wedding of Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse. The New Mobotropolis Church was an unusual church. It didn't look like a traditional church. True it had a spire and a bell and a clock on it like all churches did but it was all made of steel and looked hi-tech and modern instead of old and ancient. Still, it was a church and that was were Wilson and Mandy were going to have their marriage. Wilson had arrived at the church first and he was waiting for Mandy to arrive. Tails stood beside him patiently with a cushion in his hands. The cushion had the wedding rings on them. The wedding rings were both gold in colour and one had an orange gem and the other had a purple gem. It was clear which ring was for which Mobian. Knuckles was standing beside Wilson too. He was waiting for Shade the Echidna, co-guardian of Angel Island, to arrive. She had no idea on how to dress for weddings so she had gone to Team Chaotix for ideas. Geoffrey and Bunnie had already gone inside the church. As the boys waited, the knot in Wilson's stomach began to tighten ever more.

"The wedding begins shortly and Sonic's still not back!" piped Wilson "What's keeping him?"

"Wilson, not even Sonic can find someone in two seconds flat." said Knuckles "He'll find Ruben eventually but don't keep expecting him to be here so soon. You should just focus on the wedding and nothing more or you'll end up making a fool out of yourself."

"I know." said Wilson "I'll try what Porthos told me to do, tell myself everything will be fine. Tails, you got the wedding rings?" he asked.

"Yes Wilson." said Tails, a tone of annoyance evident in his voice "Stop asking me, they're not going anywhere. They're safe and sound."

"Sorry." said Wilson "I worry too much for my own good at times. I should just calm down already."

"Hey look, here comes Shade and Team Chaotix." said Knuckles "Looks like they got Shade something to wear after all."

"I'm so glad Team Chaotix could come." said Wilson "I remember the time they helped me and Mandy take down a communications tower during the time Robotropolis still stood. I wonder how they've been recently."

Team Chaotix, a trio of Mobians consisting of Espio the Chameleon, Charmy Bee and their boss Vector the Crocodile came up to the church with Shade following them from behind. The Chaotix were all dressed in tuxedos and bow ties and they all looked very smart despite the fact they were a bunch of ragtag detectives and occasional fighters. Charmy didn't look so happy to be dressed like this.

"Aw this tuxedo sucks!" whined Charmy "I look like a ninny! Why did I have to dress like this?"

"Because that's how people dress at weddings now shut up Charmy!" snapped Vector in his grizzly voice "It was very kind of Wilson and Mandy to invite us here and I want you to behave Charmy or else!"

"You don't want to make our good friends look like idiots do you?" asked Espio sternly.

"No, I suppose not." muttered Charmy "OK, I'll behave Vector."

"Good." said Vector grimly "You'll know about it if you do misbehave at this wedding Charmy!"

"Hi Vector, Hi Espio, Hi Charmy." said Tails with a polite wave and a big smile on his face "You all look nice."

"Thanks Tails." said Vector brightly "You look nice too. Are you the page boy of this wedding?"

"I am, how did you guess?" asked Tails.

"Well you've got the wedding rings on a cushion so it was kind of an easy hint." said Vector casually "So who's the best man supposed to be Wilson?"

"Sonic. But he's not here right now." said Wilson glumly "He's looking for Ruben as he's gone back to Chun-Nan and has been gone for too long so he's worried about Ruben's wellbeing."

"Well let's hope he finds Ruben and brings him back here in time for the wedding or he'll miss it." said Espio grimly.

As for Knuckles, he caught sight of Shade standing Team Chaotix and looking shy and he went around to have a look at his partner. What he saw was an unusual sight for him. Shade was not in her Nocturnus battle armour. Instead, she was wearing a ravishingly beautiful black dress with no sleeves and shoulder straps that had purple sparkling glitter. She wore long black gloves and black shoes with high heels. She still had her trademark headband on. Shade looked incredible and Knuckles could hardly keep his eyes off the female echidna. Never before had he seen Shade looking so beautiful before. The combat suit did compliment her figure enough but seeing her in a dress just made her look even better. Shade however, didn't look too pleased with herself.

"Wow! Shade, you look amazing!" cried Knuckles.

"Thanks, you're too kind." muttered Shade "I don't really like this get up. I preferred my combat suit. But I suppose that I don't look too bad in this. I do like the colour and these gloves are rather nice."

"Shade, you look great, that's all that matters." said Knuckles "I can't believe how well a dress does you justice."

Shade fought to keep herself from blushing at the guardian's comments.

"You…you're…you're one flattering echidna Knuckles." said Shade bashfully "Thank you…"

"Don't mention it Shade." said Knuckles casually "I'm only saying what's true."

That just made Shade blush even harder. Vector and Charmy saw this and they both laughed at the echidnas.

"I bet those two will be getting hitched sometime soon!" sniggered Vector "Look at Knuckles go all lovey, dovey over her! Ha, ha, ha!"

"Knuckles and Shade sitting in a tree!" jeered Charmy "K-I-S-S-I-N…"

Knuckles and Shade both glowered at Charmy furiously, stopping the bee dead in his tracks and making him feel nervous.

"…G?" he squeaked nervously.

"Don't do that again Charmy." muttered Knuckles "Or I'll give you a knuckle sandwich if you do!"

"Was that pun intended?" snickered Vector.

Knuckles resisted the urge to break Vector's teeth for that bad joke. He restrained himself and just held hands with Shade. The two echidnas marched straight into the church along with Team Chaotix, leaving Wilson and Tails to wait for the bride to arrive. No sooner had the echidnas and Team Chaotix walked into the church, Mandy Mouse finally arrived at the church with Amy Rose, the bridesmaid, and Cream the Rabbit, the flower girl, walking beside her. Cosmo the Seedrian was with them too. Wilson caught sight of Mandy and he stared at his fiancée. He knew Mandy was beautiful but he didn't know that the purple-furred mouse could look so good in a wedding dress. The glitter on the dress and the tiara on her head made her look somewhat cute to him. Mandy's beauty seemed to put Wilson in some sort of trance as he stared at her like a dog that's got it's eye on something. He was completely frozen and his eyes were opened so wide, they looked like they were going to pop out of their sockets. Tails looked at Wilson and he tugged on the tails of his tuxedo to wake him up. Wilson snapped out of his trance and he regained himself. He cleared his throat and straightened his collar. Mandy came up to Wilson with a bright smile on her face. The dog could feel his heart beginning to pound.

"Hello there Wilson." said Mandy with a giggle "What's the matter? Do I look too good for you?"

"Uh no…no, not at all!" cried Wilson "You could never look too good for me! What I was meaning to say was…you…uh…you uh…you look…um…uh…wonderful!" he gasped aloud, wishing he had something less clichéd to say "You look like a descendant from heaven itself."

"Aw ha, ha!" giggled Mandy in a flattered manner "You're so charming and adorable when you're in a complimentary mood Wilson! Thank you, I really do look gorgeous don't I?"

"I don't even think the word "gorgeous" does you justice." said Wilson without even realizing what he'd just said.

"You're too charming for me Wilson, you really are!" chuckled Mandy "You look great by the way. I love the top hat, it's kinda cute and smart looking on you."

Wilson grinned from ear to ear and he adjusted his hat as he chuckled in a flattered manner.

"Thank…thank you Mandy." said Wilson "I…I knew you'd…you'd love…love it."

"Hey Wilson, sorry to interrupt this lovely tender moment but where's Sonic?" asked Amy "Shouldn't he be here already?"

"He's worried about Ruben so he's gone to Chun-Nan to find him." explained Wilson "He'll be back as soon as possible."

"Well I'm glad blue dude's on the case." said Mandy "Ruben's been gone for two weeks and he hasn't returned. I hope Sonic finds him. If he comes back late, I don't mind. At least he's not dropping out on us for no reason. If he finds Ruben and comes back at all then that'll more then make up for him missing the wedding, if he does that is."

"Unfortunately, I think he is going to miss the wedding." said Wilson sadly "It's due on in minutes and he's not back. He maybe super fast but I don't think even his super speed will help him this time around."

"Let's not worry too much about blue dude and focus on our wedding cute stuff." said Mandy, tapping Wilson's nose playfully "Sonic can take care of himself so there's nothing to worry about."

"I hope Sonic does make it back." said Amy glumly "I was hoping he could see me in my bridesmaid outfit and comment on how pretty I look."

"Enough chit-chat already, it's time to start." said Mandy "Come on Wilson, our big moment's here."

With that said, Wilson and Mandy held hands and stared lovingly into each other's eyes as they walked into the church. They were met with the wonderful, chiming sound of organ music playing the traditional wedding theme as they walked inside…

Da, da, da duuuuum, da, da, da duuuuuuum…

Back at Chun-Nan, Sonic continued to pitifully struggle in his web bonds but try as he might, he was still going nowhere. Ruben just watched Sonic's pitiful performance with a bored expression on his face as if watching Sonic try to get free of the web was literally boring him to death now. As Sonic groaned and struggled some more, Ruben finally snapped at him, clearly having enough of watching this pitiful performance.

"Sonic, just give up already!" yelled Ruben "You can't break free! This is web you're in! Nothing can break free of web, not even a kung-fu master!"

"You maybe willing to give up Ruben but I'm not!" snapped Sonic "It's gonna take more then web to get me to give in!"

"I'm not willing to give up you obstinate little pinhead, I'm merely stating the facts." retorted Ruben "I'd love to try and break free but there's not point in trying because it's impossible to break free of web! I doubt even Zira the Ruthless, Conquering Storm or even Matilda could break outta this!"

"Oh come on Ruben, web can't be that strong!" grunted Sonic as he writhed about again.

"Sonic, those spiders can drag down people many times their size with their web." said Ruben "I should know, I've seen it happen once before when I was only five. Web is one of the strongest substances on Mobius and definitely the stickiest substance on Mobius, we're never getting outta this!"

"I don't care what you say about web Ruben, I don't give up, no matter how tough the situation is!" retorted Sonic "There'll be a way outta this and I'm gonna keep trying until I can find it!"

Then suddenly, Gina the Spider Queen stormed back into the room and stabbed the ground with her legs in order to catch Sonic's attention. Sonic stopped his pitiful struggling and he turned around to look at Gina. Ruben looked at Gina too and he pulled a worried face at her. Gina looked a little fed up right now. She had heard Sonic struggling and she could see what he was up to. The whole conversation nonsense was just a failed attempt to ruse her into leaving him alone so he could break free and escape.

"Time's up boy." muttered Gina "It's time for the feast. And don't do anymore of your feeble begging because I ain't buying it again."

Sonic just scowled at Gina as the spider crawled up the wall and stretched out a long thin leg towards the strand of web holding him upside down. Gina sliced the strand in two and caused Sonic to fall down to the ground. Sonic had shifted his body to the side slightly so he would land on his side instead of his head as falling on his head was not going to be pleasant for him at all. Sonic groaned as he felt pain flood up his side. Gina stood towering over Sonic and she smiled wickedly at the webbed up hedgehog.

"Since my children come first, I'll let them eat first." she said "I'll eat your water panther friend while my children eat you. Oh children, it's dinner time!" she called out to her hideous offspring.

"No!" wailed Ruben "No please, don't eat Sonic!"

Gina ignored Ruben's pleas and stood watching as her children came out of their sleeping place and began to surround Sonic. Sonic just rolled onto his stomach and wriggled around, trying to push himself upright. He had one idea on how to escape this predicament that was hopefully going to work. Sonic pushed himself up onto his knees and the spider children all began to crawl up to him. Some spiders crawled up Sonic's body and they began to tear the web around his body away. Spiders do not eat their own web after all and in order to get to the juicy tender flesh of Sonic, they had to cut him open first and then feast. The spider children all began to tear the web off of Sonic with ease as they prepared to dine on him. Sonic smirked confidently at the spiders whereas Ruben looked like he was going to have a heart-attack at the sight of spider children crawling over Sonic and preparing to eat him alive. However, this was not going to happen. The moment the spider children finished tearing Sonic's web off, Sonic curled into a spiky ball and spin-dashed, throwing the spiders off of himself and sending them hurling across the room like rag dolls. The spiders hit the wall and the impact caused them to pass out. The spider children, despite how ravenously hungry they were, retreated in an instant. They were scared of the spin-dashing hedgehog and they didn't want him to hurt them. Sonic laughed at the spiders and he spin-dashed the horrified Gina in the face, knocking her over.

"Your stupid children should have just eaten me head first before un-webbing me you silly spider!" jeered Sonic "Now you're gonna see what happens if you got on the wrong side of Sonic the Hedgehog!"

Gina picked herself up and slashed at Sonic with one of her legs.

"Blasted, wretched, fast moving animal!" she cursed in annoyance "I'll tear you to shreds for that!"

Sonic jumped over Gina's slashing leg and he spin-dashed the spider directly in the abdomen. Gina squealed in pain and she looked at her throbbing abdomen. Sonic's attack had hurt it badly, so badly in fact that it felt painful just spinning a web. Gina tried to spin a web but the pain in her abdomen was too great and she winced as she tried to spin a web.

"Urgh! My abdomen!" she wailed "It hurts too much to spin a web! You stupid boy! You'll pay dearly for that!"

"Oh shut up already spider-girl!" yelled Sonic, spin-dashing Gina yet again and clouting her into the wall "You're boring me to death here!"

Gina cried out in anguish as she was smacked against the wall by the spin-dashing Sonic. Now the spider queen was stunned, Sonic could see to freeing Ruben and fleeing for it. Sonic spin-dashed the strand of web holding Ruben upside down and Ruben fell down to the ground. He landed on his side and groaned in pain. Sonic landed beside Ruben and he tore the web open. It was much easier to tear web off of someone then actually break out of it when you got stuck in it. Ruben was now free of the web and Sonic and he could escape with their lives. Ruben picked himself up and he hugged Sonic graciously.

"Thank you so much Sonic!" cried Ruben "And here's me thinking we were done for!"

"Well Ruben, when the hedgehog's around, you should never give up hope." said Sonic with a thumbs up at the water panther "I'm an ace at getting people out of scraps after all."

"Sure was clever to react the moment the children tore your web away." said Ruben "That could set an example for all the other people of Chun-Nan who fear getting caught by spiders."

"I think I just got lucky because I can spin-dash." said Sonic "So, you still got that warp ring Knuckles gave you so you could come here?"

"I do indeed." said Ruben, taking the warp ring out of his glove and preparing to activate it "We can just warp ourselves back to New Mobotropolis and get ready for Wilson and Mandy's wedding. I do hope we're not too late."

"I don't think we are Ruben." said Sonic "Give me the ring so I can warp us to the right place. I know exactly where to go after all."

Ruben was about to hand over the warp ring to Sonic until a strand of web shot out of nowhere and seized the warp ring. The web snatched the ring out of Ruben's hand and brought it to the spider that fired the web. This spider was a little taller then Gina and he was a lot more broader and scarier looking then her. His horns and spikes were longer, his eyes were red, his skin was an even darker crimson then Gina's and his fangs were longer and sharper then her's. He was Gina's husband but in the spider world, only the females have royal titles and such so he was just another spider, not a king spider or something like that. Gina picked herself up from Sonic's earlier onslaught and she sneered at Sonic.

"You know what blue boy?" said Gina smugly "You mess with the spider queen, you mess with my darling husband. I wouldn't get into a fight with him though, he's much stronger and faster then I am. Dak, eviscerate those bothersome bits of prey!"

"With pleasure your majesty." growled Dak, his voice was rather grand and gravely sounding at the same time.

Dak screeched a loud, horrible spider screech and he pounced on Sonic and Ruben. Sonic and Ruben both dived for cover as the enormous spider crashed onto the ground and picked himself up for another attack. Dak hissed at Sonic and Ruben and Sonic spin-dashed at him. Dak just whacked Sonic away with his leg and Sonic hit the ground in a rather awkward position. The attack had hurt him dearly and he felt like he could hardly move without pain flaring up his body. Dak crawled up to Sonic and he bared his glistening fang.

"The penalty of assaulting my wife is instant death hedgehog." growled Dak "And I shall have the honours of killing you."

He raised his scythe hands up above his head and prepared to slice Sonic to ribbons but Ruben leaped into the air and dropkicked Dak in the back of the head, knocking him down onto his front and giving Sonic time to stand back up and get back into the battle. Dak picked himself up and snarled at Ruben. Ruben just bent down in a battle ready stance and prepared to do battle.

"Touch Sonic and you get a water panther style pounding ugly butt!" yelled Ruben bravely.

"I hardly think a water panther who's missing his aqua-collar can give me a water panther style pounding." scoffed Dak.

"Don't you dare comment on my missing collar!" shouted Ruben.

With that said, he and Sonic both launched some attacks on Dak from front and behind respectively…

Back at New Mobotropolis, the wedding ceremony was finally beginning. The guests were all seated and the vicar stood at the counter, waiting to begin the marriage. The vicar was a Mobian badger who was dressed in traditional vicar attire. He wore a cross around his neck, hinting heavily at his religious character. Wilson and Mandy walked up to the counter hand in hand and they stood before the vicar. They looked around the room, looking at the guests they had seeing their marriage. Team Chaotix, Knuckles, Shade, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Cosmo were all sitting at the front row on the right side of them. On the left side sat Wilson and Mandy's parents, who had been de-roboticized after Tails had set Eggman's infamous worldwide roboticizer in reverse and de-roboticized the entire planet after Eggman had briefly roboticized the whole world. The four adults were crying happy tears at the sight of their respective children getting married at long last. Amy stood to the side and waited as the ceremony was about to commence. Tails stood with Amy and waited to give out the rings. The organ player stopped playing the music and the whole church fell into silence. The vicar got out the book of vows and prepared to begin the speech.

"People of New Mobotropolis." said the vicar "We have all gathered here to witness the marriage of two very special individuals. These two have risked life and limb to maintain the welfare of innocent lives anyway. These two take part in the ongoing crusade against our enemy, the Eggman, and it is thanks to their courage, selflessness and dedication to duty that we can enjoy this very special day. They have risked so much for us so now we commend them for their efforts by celebrating their marriage this day…"

As the vicar droned, Wilson looked nervously at the entrance door, wondering if Sonic was gonna burst through it at the last minute and be here just in time. The door stayed shut. Sonic still hadn't come back yet. Wilson was beginning to wonder if Sonic was coming back at all. Amy and Tails seemed to be sharing the same expression as Wilson as they stood to the side and waited.

Marriage is the union of husband and wife in heart, body and mind. It is intended for their mutual joy – and for the help and comfort given on another in prosperity and adversity. But more importantly, it is a means through which a stable and loving environment may be attained.

"Through marriage, Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse make a commitment together to face their disappointments, embrace their dreams, realize their hopes, and accept each other's failures." the vicar continued "Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse will promise one another to aspire to these ideals throughout their lives together, through mutual understanding, openness, and sensitivity to each other.

We are here today, before God, because marriage is one of his most sacred wishes, to witness the joining in marriage of Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse. This occasion marks the celebration of love and commitment with which this man and this woman begin their life together. And now, through me, he joins you together in one of the holiest bonds."

He then turned to Mandy.

"Do you, Mandy Mouse, take Wilson the Dog to be your lawfully wedded husband?" he asked.

"I do." said Mandy with a happy tear in her eye.

"And do you, Wilson the Dog, take Mandy Mouse to be your lawfully wedded wife?" asked the vicar.

"I…I do." said Wilson, fighting to keep himself from shaking.

"If anyone has any reason why these two should not be joined, let them speak now or forever hold his piece." said the vicar.

The church was silent and nobody said anything. After all, there was no reason Wilson and Mandy shouldn't be married so nobody could really say they shouldn't be married. The vicar continued.

"May I have the rings please?" he asked, looking at Tails.

Tails stepped shyly forward and he handed the vicar the cushion with the rings on. The vicar took the rings and gave them to Wilson and Mandy. Wilson took Mandy's hand and slipped the ring with the purple gem onto her finger.

"W-w-with th-this ring. I th-thee wed." said Wilson shakily.

Mandy proceeded to do the same to Wilson. She slipped the orange gemmed ring on his finger.

"With this ring. I thee wed." said Mandy.

This earned a chorus of awes from the crowd. The vicar then delivered the final sentence.

"I now pronounce you, husband and wife." said the vicar with a smile on his face "You may kiss the bride."

Wilson did not wait even for a minute. He and Mandy deeply embraced each other as the audience cheered for the newly wed couple. Some of the guests, one of them being Amy, broken down crying happy tears as this was such a happy and touching union. Wilson and Mandy were finally married and now they could live their lives as a happy couple…

…if only Sonic and Ruben could have seen this but right now, they're being perused by spiders! Dak swiped furiously at the hedgehog and water panther with his long, fearsome legs but the two Mobians dodged the attack and Ruben gave Dak a ninja style kick in the head. Dak growled furiously and he rubbed his throbbing head. Sonic spin-dashed towards Dak but the enormous spider turned around and spun a web at him. Sonic ploughed through the spinning web with ease given how sharp he was in spin-dash mode, and he whacked Dak's abdomen as hard as he could. As Sonic hit Dak's abdomen, he left a long gash across the side, making Dak scream in pain. His abdomen began to leak a sickly green coloured liquid. That was his blood. Mobian spiders have green blood instead of red. Dak roared furiously at his cut abdomen and he tried to spin another web at Sonic but now his abdomen hurt too much to spin a web. He winced in pain and just decided to fight with his limbs. Sonic spin-dashed towards Dak again but Dak bounced out of his way by propelling himself over the hedgehog with his legs and Sonic hit the ground instead. Dak grabbed Sonic and he scuttled up the ceiling with Sonic in his arms. Then he threw Sonic directly into a wall. Sonic hit the wall and went straight through it. Sonic groaned in pain and he felt limp all over. Crashing into rock really does hurt after all. REALLY does hurt. Dak cackled at Sonic and he scuttled eagerly over to Sonic with his jaws wide open. Ruben leaped in and kicked Dak in the head. Then the water panther began to unleash a flurry of ninja style attacks on the spider. He chopped him, he punched him, he kicked him and then he uppercut him all at once. Dak squealed in pain and he stepped back. Ruben ran underneath Dak and jumped straight up into his belly. He hit Dak as hard as he could and the spider made a horrible pained noise. Ruben ran out from underneath Dak and sneered at him.

"Had enough gruesome?" he snickered.

"The only thing I've had enough of is your irritable resistance!" growled Dak, clutching his stomach "I may not be able to spin a web but I can still kill you and your hedgehog friend!"

"Oh yeah? Well you'll have to catch us first slowpoke!" taunted Ruben, leaped straight over Dak and pile-diving him in the back.

Dak was forced down onto the ground and Ruben ran up his abdomen. He was about to attack again until he noticed that his warp ring was stuck to Dak's abdomen after he'd stolen it from him with a web attack. Ruben beamed happily and he was about to retrieve the warp ring until Gina pounced on him and knocked him off of Dak. Gina pinned Ruben down and tried to bite him but Ruben grabbed her neck and held her head away. A spider bite was fatal and Ruben did not want to get killed right now so he did his best to keep Gina's fangs away from him. Sonic picked himself up from that wall slam earlier and he noticed Ruben needed some help. He sped towards Gina and jumped on her back as if she was a trampoline. Gina gasped hoarsely and she began rubbing her throbbing back. Ruben was now free to get up and attack again. He roundhouse kicked Gina in the face and knocked her down onto her side. Dak had just stood up from Ruben's earlier attack and he wondered where the two Mobians were. Ruben ran behind Dak and snatched the warp ring right off of his abdomen. He called over to Sonic, who was preparing to deal with Dak.

"Sonic! I've got the warp ring back!" called Ruben.

"Ace Ruben! Toss it over to me and we can get outta here!" Sonic called back to him.

Dak lunged at him but Sonic dodged and kicked him in the shoulder. Ruben threw the warp ring over to Sonic and Sonic caught it in his hand. Sonic thought of Wilson's house in New Mobotropolis and he flicked the warp ring into the air. The ring spun around several times and then expanded to twice it's actual size. Sonic and Ruben eagerly dived through the warp ring, leaving Dak and Gina to stare at them in horror as their dinner escaped them. The warp ring shrunk down into nothingness the moment Sonic and Ruben disappeared. Gina roared in rage and she slashed Dak right across the face, leaving a long slash across his face that would later become a scar.

"You idiot! You let them escape!" shouted Gina.

"My apologies your highness." said Dak, bowing down to his wife "I beg for your forgiveness."

"You can have it if you can actually catch some prey." muttered Gina "Set up another spider trap and we'll see what we can catch this time."

Dak obeyed and he left the spider caves to carry out his wife's instructions…

As for Sonic and Ruben, the warp ring took them to Wilson's house just as Sonic wanted. The warp ring opened up and Sonic and Ruben exited it. After they left the warp ring, it shrunk down to size and Ruben tucked it away in his glove. Sonic ran over to the sofa and quickly put on his best man's outfit (he dresses as fast as he runs). Now Sonic was in uniform, he grabbed Ruben and ran out of the house as quick as he could. He knew the way to the church as he had had the grand tour of New Mobotropolis not long ago.

"Wait Sonic! I haven't got anything suitable to wear for this wedding!" cried Ruben as Sonic ran off at super speed.

"No time for that Ruben!" Sonic called over to him "The wedding must be starting any minute…"

He then screeched to a halt and stared at the church in surprise. Everybody was filing out of the church and heading to the nearby hotel for the wedding reception party. That meant the wedding was over and Sonic had missed it! Sonic moaned in annoyance to himself and he stomped the ground angrily.

"Damn it! We missed it!" moaned Sonic "Stupid spiders for keeping me at bay for a while!"

"Sonic, the spiders may have caused us to miss the wedding but that doesn't mean we've missed everything." said Ruben softly "We can join in at the wedding reception party instead. At least we were in time for that."

"You're right Ruben." said Sonic "So I guess I was in time for something at least. Also, the spider's capturing me was a good thing in some way. If they didn't capture me, I would never have found you Ruben."

"That's a good point." said Ruben "So in a way, we can thank the spiders. It's thanks to them that you found me and got me back home safe and sound and just in time to wish Wilson and Mandy well."

"Yeah." said Sonic "And as promised, if I get any spare time, I'll help you look for your treacherous, aqua-collar stealing friend Ruben."

"I know." said Ruben "But now, we kick back and relax. Now let's meet everybody before we end up missing the wedding reception as well."

With that said, Sonic and Ruben ran over to the crowd and Sonic called over to Wilson and Mandy. The dog and mouse heard them coming and they turned to see Sonic and Ruben coming towards them. All of Sonic's friends saw them too and their faces lit up.

"Sonic!" cried Tails "You're back! And so is Ruben! You found him at last!"

"We were beginning to think you weren't going to come back!" trilled Amy.

"What kept you Sonic?" asked Knuckles "The wedding's over now."

"Spiders." muttered Sonic "Nuff said. I'm so sorry I missed the wedding Wilson and Mandy." he said to the newly married couple "I got caught by spiders and it took me a while to break out of their web and…"

"Blue dude, we understand." said Mandy softly "You had to find Ruben because he was missing and now he's back, that's all that matters. Besides, you're in time for the wedding reception at least so you didn't miss everything."

"I know, that's something good at least." said Sonic happily "So, now I'm here I may as well say "Congratulations you two" and "Hope you enjoy the married life"."

"Thank you Sonic." said Wilson "Now let's go and enjoy the reception party shall we? This ceremony's not over yet."

With that said everybody went on to the hotel for the wedding reception party…

Miles away from Mobius, a huge, colossal, malevolent spaceship cruised through the empty void known as space and headed off to goodness knows where. The spaceship was very intimidating looking and anyone seeing this would faint with shock. It was heavily armoured in shiny chrome and had many weapons and four wings. It's jet boosters were unmatched by any ship in the galaxy. This ship acted as a home-away-from-home for it's insidious occupants. The pilot of this ship was an alien robotical creature sitting in a throne who's appearance as unlike any ever seen before. His head was vaguely emerald shaped with four horns, two on the top of his head and two from the side, a sharp pointed beak in place of a mouth, three spikes on each shoulder, a V-shaped visor with a holographic reptilian eye in the centre, a backpack like structure with two bull-shaped horns protruding from the top and chicken-walker legs with spiked feet. He wore a ragged, navy blue shoulder cape on his right shoulder. This alien was the leader of an insidious race, a race dedicated to conquest and power and right now, he was marking his next target. Beside him stood another alien robot who was the second in command of the race. This one had horns that grew down the sides of his head and curved inwards and pointed at his torso, chicken walked legs, two sharp claws on each foot, a differently built torso with different details to the leader, spikes on the top of his head and a fierce looking mouth. His most distinguishing feature were his wings. His wings were metallic silver and razor sharp around all edges and he could use them beautifully in flight and he could fly silently and stealthily. As the ship cruised through space, winged robot pointed at the scanners that were picking up something.

"Devion my lord." growled the winged robot, his voice was gravely sounding and he sounded like someone who was about to rip your head off "Our scanners are picking up another planet in this region of space. This is a planet called…Mobius."

The lead robot, who's name apparently was Devion (pronounced dee-vee-on) looked at the scanners and his visor narrowed into an evil slit of pure devilishness. He tapped the arms of his throne softly and he turned to his second in command.

"Mobius shall be our next target." purred Devion, his voice was low and cold sounding and made him sound rather sinister "Set the ship's course to Mobius Raicor. We shall now add Mobius to my universe-sized collection."

"Yes Devion." said Raicor (pronounced rye-core).

Raicor set the ship to go to Mobius and Devion began crooning to himself.

"Fourteen planets have been successfully subjugated under my planet conquering reign." said Devion lowly "Now I'm going to make it fifteen. Mobius shall be the next planet to succumb to the might of the Devatron race…"

Mobius maybe having a happy time right now, but that happiness was about to end once the Devatrons came to Mobius and invaded it, hoping to conquer it and make it a Devatron paradise along with all the other planets who have fell to their might…

Look out Sonic! Looks like you've got aliens coming your way! Who are the Devatrons and what are they here for? Join me next time for the titanic milestone spectacular, Story 100 as the Devatron saga begins!

Before anyone starts wondering "Why are you using the Devatrons again when you've done a trilogy about them already?" I'll tell you. The Devatrons were intended to be my greatest villains ever. But due to my incompetence as a writer before I got better, I executed them very badly and made them a bunch of punchable, unlikable Mary-Sues. So, I'm giving them another chance in this story and I'm going to make them better villains, take away their upgrading abilities and make it so you can actually kill them, it's just hard to do so, and they have a more plausible weakness. Not to mention I'm giving them a reason for their motivation. Trust me, the Devatrons will be much better villains this time around and they will put the Devatron trilogy versions of the characters to shame. I used Marik again in this story to better develop him and improve his character so now I'm doing the same with the Devatrons. I h ope you all understand this.

The Devatron Invasion

I...am...INCREDIBLE! It's a fact! I'm incredible! I mean, I'm on my ONE HUNDREDTH episode of Heroes of Mobius! How cool is that? (throws a wild party and begins disco-dancing to "Celebrate the Times") Well given how easy it is to come up with ideas for a Sonic story, it's not that hard to believe really. Oh well, I've made it to my fourth milestone and I'm sure to make it to my fifth milestone! Until then, let's enjoy this milestone phenomena which is the beginning of what is destined to be one of this story's most memorable sagas...

Story 100: The Devatron Invasion

A few days had passed since the Devatron ship had picked up Mobius on it's scanners and now the ship had arrived at Mobius at long last. The huge, colossal, chrome beast of a spaceship entered Mobius' atmosphere, the tips of it's wings glowing a bright red tinge as it began to pass through the atmosphere. The ship made it through Mobius' atmosphere and now it was flying through the bright blue skies of Mobius and looking for a suitable place touch down. The ship was flying over Megapolis, the hiding place of Dr. Eggman, the enemy of Mobius and all there was around were nothing but empty plains that stretched on for miles around. This was easily a good place to settle down in as there were no witnesses around and there was no signs of civilization so the Devatrons shouldn't expect a resistance from the locals so quickly. The Devatron ship hovered over the plains of Megapolis and then it slowly began to descend down to the ground. It's engines roared loudly as the ship descended and prepared to touch down. The ship gently touched down onto the ground and the engines died down into silence. The Devatrons had landed and their invasion was about to begin. The Devatron leader, Devion, stood up from his throne and peered through the windows of the ship and observed the scenery around him. The ship had landed on rocky plains with not much around and no signs of life. They had picked an excellent spot to camp out in.

Devion's V-shaped visor narrowed down to a thin, evil slit that looked like it was sharp enough to cut through something.

"So this is Mobius, one of the most notorious planets in this region of space." mused Devion as he surveyed the view "Looks very similar to other planets I've conquered. It's description matches that of the planet known as Earth almost to a T too. The only difference being inhabitants. This will be an enjoyable takeover I can see already."

He stopped looking out of the windows and he turned around to face his second in command, Raicor, the only Devatron in existence to have wings.

"Raicor, is the Doombringer stabilized and fully operational?" he barked.

"Yes Devion." said Raicor with a bow " The Doombringer is ready for campus activity and all systems are fully functional and awaiting use my lord."

"Excellent Raicor." said Devion dryly "Now my take over of this planet begins and I can add it to my collection of conquered worlds."

He walked away from the windows and wondered over to a Devatron who manned the controls to the ship, apparently known as The Doombringer . This Devatron was armoured in chrome much like Devion and Raicor were but he wasn't as fearsome looking as they were. He had the same arms as Devion as Raicor but everything else was different. He had three claws on each foot, different details on his torso and legs to Devion and Raicor and on his back, he had a pair of cannons that were spiked at the tips and looked like they packed a lot of firepower. His head was an unusual shape and had bull-shaped horns on either side. In place of a mouth, he had a mouth plate that moved up and down when he spoke. This Devatron was fanatically loyal to Devion, so loyal in fact it's actually kind of creepy in some sense.

"Tronic, activate The Doombringer 's satellite scrambling device." ordered Devion "I'm ready to send my message to the people of this world."

"At once my glorious lord Devion." droned Tronic, his voice all musical sounding much like Soundwave from Transformers .

Tronic pressed a button on the control pad and a satellite dish telescoped out from the top of the ship and formed the familiar shape of a satellite dish. After it had finished forming it's shape, it pointed up at the sky and began to fire out rays of discs out from the point in the centre of the dish. Devion cackled darkly to himself and he sat down in his control throne as the satellite dish did it's work.

"Every television system, every image projector, every computing device and every communications device on this planet will be displaying my image on them." crooned Devion "And everyone on this planet will hear what cryptic words I have to say to them. I do hope that they're willing to surrender to me. If not, then I'll be forced to slay them all. I hope they offer a good challenge, I like a nice long battle before I conquer a good planet."

Devion was going to be in for one heck of a crusade with Sonic and friends but given his superior technology and build, he was likely to win this one and Mobius would be his along with the other fourteen planets he had under his nefarious control…

The New Mobotropolis Coliseum was packed to the brim with excited attendees as tonight's show prepared to begin. A few days after the successful marriage of Wilson the Dog and Mandy Mouse, two of New Mobotropolis' most notorious Royal Fighters, world famous rock singer Sandy the Ferret had decided to host a tribute concert in honour of the R.F.S. and all the good they've done for Mobius over the years. All the Royal Fighters were there, including those from other regions on Mobius. There were the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, The Megapolis Royal Fighters, The Northern Royal Fighters, The Downunda Royal Fighters, The Grand Metropolis Royal Fighters and even the Adabat Royal Fighters. They were all in the audience and waiting for the tribute to begin. Even Queen Sally Acorn and her lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx and even Sonic's good friends Team Chaotix were attending this concert that was destined to go down in history as one of the greatest concerts ever. The tribute was going to consist of songs written especially for the R.F.S. and then the Royal Fighters were all going to go on stage and give a speech to the crowd. Sonic the Hedgehog, the super speedy hero of Mobius was looking forward to this tribute. People would be cheering for him and congratulating him on his heroism and selflessness. He couldn't wait for the speech too, he had a good idea on what to say to the crowd and what he said would be an inspiration to everybody. Sonic was sitting in-between his best friend Tails the twin-tailed fox and his would-be love interest Amy Rose. All his other friends were here too and sitting on either side of him in a line. They were eagerly awaiting the concert to start too.

"Can you believe that a famous singer's throwing a tribute for the R.F.S.?" asked Tails.

"Not really lil' bro." said Sonic casually with a snide smile on his face "I had a feeling we'd get songs written about us someday and from the looks of things, we are."

"This is so exciting!" shrieked Amy happily "I'm a fan of Sandy the Ferret's music and now she's gonna sing all about us! I'm so buying the album when this concert's over! They're selling the album in the souvenir stands after the show after all and I'm buying it instantly!"

"I think I'll get myself a copy too." said Sonic "Give Royal HQ something awesome to play when we're chilling out in the rest room."

"What's good about this concert is that it's a tribute to our heroism and nobody will be wrecking it." said Tails brightly "Especially Eggman as he's gone back to his hidey hole. I bet when he hears people listening to Sandy's songs, he'll go berserk."

"I can just imagine his face right now." sniggered Sonic "I look forward to the second song in the concert which is titled "We Hate The Egg Man". That song's gonna make us all laugh out loud I bet!"

"Of course it will!" laughed Amy "It's gonna take the mess outta that fat dumbo Eggman! I bet that's the song I'll enjoy the most!"

"I know that's the song I'm gonna enjoy the most!" laughed Tails "I bet you're gonna enjoy it too Cosmo." he said to his girlfriend Cosmo the Seedrian who was sitting on his other side.

"It's not really nice to enjoy the mockery of others, but Dr. Eggman doesn't deserve to have a nice song written about him and nobody likes him so there's no harm done at least." said Cosmo thoughtfully "I bet this concert's going to be enjoyable."

"It's all about us Cosmo, of course it's going to be enjoyable." said Sonic reassuringly "And it looks like it's about to begin. Here comes Sandy the Ferret."

Everybody focused their attention on the stage and surely enough, they saw Sandy the Ferret waltzing up onto the stage, looking very confident and looking very ready for this concert. Sandy was a coca brown ferret and she wore a red crop top, a navy blue skirt and red high heeled shoes. She wore glittering silver earrings and had green eye shadow on her eyelids. It was pretty easy to see how this singer ended up getting so famous. Sandy walked up to the microphone and she spoke into it.

"Good evening people of New Mobotropolis." she said "It's so lovely to see all you wonderful people here, especially the Royal Fighters themselves who are eagerly anticipating this tribute that I have put together for them out of the kindness of my own heart. Well now you're all here, it's time to bring the house down tonight! Are you all ready to ROCK?"

"YEAAAAHHH!" squealed the crowd.

"I said ARE YOU READY TO ROCK?" screamed Sandy even louder.

" YEAAAAAHHHH! " squealed the crowd even louder.

"That's what I like to hear!" cried Sandy "Now let's get on with the rocking and the rolling already! DJ! Hit it!"

But before any music could begin, the huge TV screen that loomed above the stage and projected images of the stage stopped flashing and began to go fuzzy instead. Sandy looked up at the screen and wondered what was going on. The crowd stared in wonder at the stage and began murmuring amongst each other about the static screen.

"Oy! What's going on here?" yelled Sandy "Faulty wiring job again?"

Then suddenly, the screen flashed back into life but instead of the stage, it was showing an image of Devion's sleek, shiny, evil face. Thanks to satellite scrambling device, everybody on Mobius was seeing and hearing this. Everybody gasped in horror at the sight of the chrome monster and Sonic stared hard at it, wondering what it was.

"Attention people of Mobius." Devion's voice boomed around the coliseum like thunder "I have hacked into your satellite systems in order to deliver this message to you."

The crowd began murmuring amongst each other and they waited for Devion to begin his testimony.

"I am Devion, leader of the Devatron race." Devion continued in his chilling, deep voice "Also know as Devion the Dreaded. I come to your world to claim it as my own. I have fourteen worlds already under my control and yours will join them. You shall not be harmed though. If you relinquish the planet to me calmly and peacefully, you will be allowed to co-exist peacefully amongst my Devatrons. Any resistance will be met with strict and merciless penance and all fighting me will ensure is your destruction. However, as I'm a lenient being, I'm giving you the chance to prove that your world doesn't need my Devatrons to improve it. Send your mightiest warrior to me and I shall challenge the warrior in a battle. If he wins then I shall leave this planet and go home to my own world, the chrome planet of Deaveron. If I win then I commence with my ambitions. Here are my coordinates," the screen changed from an image of Devion to a map displaying his current coordinates to the crowd of Mobians and a few seconds later, the screen changed back to Devion's face "If you're valorous enough to challenge me then send your warrior to these coordinates and we shall fight for the right to ruling Mobius. Take your time, I'm a very patient robot and I'll happily wait for you to make your minds up."

With that said, Devion's face disappeared and the screen went static again and then flashed back into life, completely back to normal and looking like nothing had happened. Now Devion's message was over, the crowd began murmuring amongst each other. Devion had just given them a cryptic message and now they were debating on what to do about it.

"What should we do?"

"Should we surrender to the scary robot?"

"We should kick his shiny metal ass!"

"But he says we can live along side him when he conquers the planet so he won't kill us."

"Mobius doesn't belong to him! He can get his own planet! He already has fourteen under his rule!"

"But he says he'll kills us if we resist."

"He won't! We'll kill him first!"

"He might be too powerful for us! He has fourteen worlds under his rule so what chance do we stand against him?"

Upon the row of seats where the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters all sat in a line together, Sonic and friends began conversing between each other about this pressing situation.

"Well, looks like some scary robot that ISN'T built by Dr. Eggman wants to take over our world huh?" muttered Sonic "In his dreams! This Devion guy can pack up his bags and go home! We're not surrendering Mobius to him!"

"But Sonic, he says he has fourteen planets under his control!" exclaimed Tails "That's one serious bad guy if he has fourteen worlds at his beck and call and serving him like there's no tomorrow! If he can conquer fourteen planets then what hope do we have against him?"

"Tails, we've taken on bad guys much worse then those Devatron jerks." said Sonic "We can take them easily. Besides, he's a robot.

And what happens when you pit a robot against me huh?"

"You spin-dash it to smithereens!" squealed Amy happily.

"That's right." said Sonic smugly "Those Devatrons are dead with me on the case. But if they're as bad as they say they are then maybe I should bring the Chaos Emeralds as a power boost just in case."

"So are you gonna fight Devion for Mobius then?" asked Tails.

"You bet I am!" laughed Sonic "I've been keeping this world safe from Eggman's bone-headed schemes for months on end! The Devatrons are just gonna be exercise to keep me on top form while Eggman's hiding! You come with me and get the Chaos Emeralds while I go to Megapolis and take Devion's stupid challenge. When I signal you like this," Sonic gave Tails a thumbs up sign "That means I need the Chaos Emeralds and you give them to me. Got it?"

"Every bit of it Sonic." said Tails "Let's go and kick some Devatron butt already!"

"Now that's my kind of talk!" laughed Sonic "Let's do it to it Tails!"

With that said, Sonic and Tails leaped out of their seats and headed out of the coliseum. Sonic sped out through the entrance gates whereas Tails just flew over the stadium. Everybody watched as the two headed off to face Devion and determine the fate of Mobius. Everybody had total faith in Sonic given how he's the hero of the planet and he never fails to save everybody, he was going to have this in the bag. But since the audience had no way of seeing this fight though, all they could do was hold their breath and wait for any updates from Sonic and Tails…

While Sonic headed off for Megapolis and Tails flew to Downunda to get the Chaos Emeralds, Devion stood on top of The Doombringer and he awaited his challenger with Raicor and Tronic standing beside him. His ragged, navy blue shoulder cape blew gracefully in the gentle winds that were blowing through Megapolis. That cape belonged to a leader on one of the fourteen planets he'd conquered and just wearing it made him feel powerful and intimidating. As Devion waited for his challenger, he began to think about his planet conquering reign that had been going on for years and years.

"Tengon, Krococ, Springfield, Mov, Kliptos, Koron, Alderoth, Cygnus X-25, Cyrus, Sram, Soleo, Seerah-Ix and Horaak. All under my nefarious control." purred Devion "And soon, this planet shall be added to my list. Mobius looks promising at least, I've heard many legends about it, one of them being the planet has seven mystical gems of unfathomable power. Now we're here, we can see how true those legends are."

"I bet this planet will be just as easy to take over as all the others." said Raicor gruffly "The only planet that's offered us any challenge was Krococ and even then, the planet's guardians, the Knights of Krococ, fell at our very might!"

"Do not underestimate a planet that doesn't look like it has much to offer Raicor." said Devion coldly "Mobius is one of the most noteworthy worlds in this region of space so it must be a planet that offers a good challenge for us. I hope the people of this planet are worth sparing and using as slaves for my vast army as I set one up here."

"I wonder what the inhabitants of this planet are like." thought Raicor "Are they a species that offer us a challenge or are they just pathetic little beings much like the residents of Springfield?"

"We'll hopefully find that out for ourselves when the people send us their mightiest warrior and I fight it for the planet." crooned Devion "I'll be amazed if they buy my ruse of leaving the planet if I lose the battle. If I do lose then I'll just order my entire squadron onboard The Doombringer to eliminate this warrior they send. After all, it takes many men to take down just one of us so one man will not have much chance against a whole squadron of Devatrons. So either way, no matter the turnout of this battle, I win."

"You are most certainly correct Devion my lord." droned Tronic in his musical voice "We Devatrons always win our battles in the end. True we may get setbacks and we may get some here but we always win in the end."

"We do indeed." said Devion agreeably "I'm amazed as to how successful we've been in this planet conquering reign. True there maybe someone out there better then me and I may meet my match some day but until that day, I shall continue to make the universe suffer for trying to destroy us and rob us of our rightful place as the supreme beings in the universe!"

"I couldn't agree more Devion!" agreed Raicor "We were once a race devoted to good and bringing peace to the universe and our invulnerability, intelligence and technology made us quite capable of fulfilling our duties and what was the universe's response? They tried to destroy us and prove we weren't so tough! The universe envied us and they ended up destroying our great King Hardigm (pronounced har-dime)! The universe doesn't want us so why should we bother doing our bit for the people of the universe if they don't even like us?"

"You are right on that Raicor." muttered Devion "And after Hardigm's unfortunate passing at the hands of the Knights of Krococ, I began my planet conquering reign and now here we are, fourteen worlds subjugated and becoming Devatron paradises as we speak. The universe brought this misery on itself after all. "Turnabout is Fair Play" as they say…"

"Devion, there is a rapidly moving object heading towards the ship." droned Tronic "Speed calculation: Seven-hundred and Sixty-five miles per hour."

"How is a life form of any kind able to operate and motion at such a blisteringly fast pace?" blurted Devion "It doesn't even seem remotely possible for anything in the galaxy to move that fast without the aid of transport! Looks like Mobius has a right to have such a famous reputation amongst the planets of this region of space."

Devion, Raicor and Tronic all wondered over to the side of The Doombringer and they looked into the distance where they saw a dust of cloud coming towards the ship. It was, of course, Sonic the Hedgehog. He could see The Doombringer and he headed towards it at top speed. Devion watched him running and the Devatron leader was surprised to see a small furry being like Sonic move on his feet so fast. He began to wonder how it was even possible. Maybe after he defeated Sonic in battle he could dissect him and find out how he worked. Sonic stopped running and he jumped straight up into the air. He landed on a sloped area of The Doombringer 's hull and he ran up to the top of the ship where Devion, the contender, stood waiting for him. Sonic hurled up into the air, did an amazing somersault and landed down on his feet right in front of Devion and his cronies. Sonic stood up straight and dusted himself off.

"Hello there Devatrons, no need to comment on my entrance, I already know how good it was." said Sonic snidely.

"So are you the planet's contender for it's freedom then blue furred being of fast operating nature?" purred Devion, glaring at Sonic with his evil red visor and holographic eye.

"You bet I am Devion!" said Sonic smugly "I'm Sonic, Sonic the Hedgehog, Hero of Mobius and the kicker of many evil butts! Believe me, I've kicked so many evil butts in my life I think my sneakers are close to getting worn out!"

"Sonic the Hedgehog." said Devion dryly "So I take it this is an animal inhabited world is it?"

"Depends on your definition of "animals" really." said Sonic "I say people, others say animals but I don't care what I'm called really."

"Indeed." purred Devion "And I like your extremely fitting name. "Sonic". A name like that tells me that you can move at an incredibly fast motion. And seeing you arrive here, I can see how fast you can move. Such a warrior is to be commended for having this kind of attribute. But I'm not here to flatter you, I'm here to challenge you for the fate of your world. Are you ready for this challenge Sonic?"

"I'm ready for anything Devion!" yelled Sonic bravely "You have no idea what's coming to you!"

"And you have no idea what's coming to you." said Devion coldly.

"I have some idea." joked Sonic "Anyways, I thought I'd warn you about something. I have a special nack for smashing robots so you'd better brace yourselves for this. It might hurt a little."

With that said, Sonic spin-dashed towards Devion. The Devatron leader just stood there with his arms folded and he waited for him to come. Sonic hit Devion and…bounced directly off of his armour! The attack didn't do any damage to Devion! All it did was make him stagger a little! Sonic landed on his feet and he stared at Devion in surprise. He couldn't believe his attack hadn't worked. The Devatron leader laughed hauntingly at him.

"Valiant assault hedgehog and I must praise you on the power and force behind it." crowed Devion "But I am nigh-invulnerable. Your attacks, no matter how vigorous will not penetrate me. And whether we can be penetrated or not is our secret. You will have to find it out yourself hedgehog as I am not an unintelligent being who gives away vital secrets out of sheer stupidity."

"Oh man!" muttered Sonic "A being with nigh-invulnerability? Geez, and I thought this was gonna be easy! Well this isn't the first surprise I've head in my life! Oh well, invulnerable or not, I'll still stomp on you Devion! I've come out on top of every conflict I've had in my life time and I'll come out on top of this one!"

"That will be determined by this very battle." said Devion coldly "Let us begin so we can determine the fate of this planet and who gets it."

Sonic did not wait to be asked twice. He charged towards Devion and leaped over him. Devion however leaped up after him just as the hedgehog sailed over his head and he grabbed Sonic in his two thumbed hands. He then proceeded to slam Sonic down onto the fuselage of The Doombringer as hard as he could. He didn't let go of Sonic after that attack. He swung Sonic over onto his back and then onto his stomach. He then threw Sonic a good distance across the fuselage of The Doombringer and the hedgehog landed painfully on his back and skidded across the chrome bodywork. Sonic came to a halt and he picked himself up, rubbing himself better.

"Nice attack Devion." said Sonic "But I'm just getting warmed up!"

Devion ran towards Sonic with his right fist bared. He tried to punch Sonic but Sonic leaped out of his way, causing him to miss and punch the chrome plating beneath his feet instead. Before Devion had chance to regain himself and prepare for another attack, Sonic spin-dashed him from behind and knocked him over. He maybe invulnerable but it isn't impossible to knock him down after all. Devion picked himself up just as Sonic heeled around and spin-dashed towards him from the front this time. Devion bent over backwards and left Sonic to hurl over him like a football whizzing over the goal net. Sonic uncurled from his spin-dash and landed on his feet, skidding to a halt and he swerved around for another attack. However, Devion managed to get the drop on him this time. He uppercut Sonic into the air and the hedgehog hurled across The Doombringer's topsidein a rainbow arch. He landed painfully on his face and he got a nasty scrape on his cheek from the shiny chrome plating on the ship's fuselage. Sonic took a pause from the battle so he could rub his cheek better, giving Devion time to run towards him and prepare for another attack. Devion leaped into the air and stretched out his legs. He shot down towards the ground feet first and he almost hit Sonic but Sonic rolled out of his way, causing him to crash into the chrome plating and leave a little dent on the spot he'd just landed on. Devion briefly paused from the battle so he could scowl at the dent he'd left on The Doombringer and he turned around, facing Sonic directly in the eye. The two bent down in battle ready stances and preparing to lunge at each other. Sonic lunged first by lashing out a punch but Devion grabbed his fist and held him into place. He then sharply twisted Sonic's arm to one side, so sharply in fact it pulled him over onto his side. Sonic yanked his hand out of Devion's grip and he picked himself up, only to get punched across the fuselage again. Sonic landed on his back but he quickly flung himself back onto his feet and he zoomed towards Devion. He jumped up and dropkicked Devion directly in the forehead. Devion staggered backwards and Sonic spin-dashed him in the gut, knocking him down onto his back and sending him skidding across the topside of The Doombringer . Devion picked himself up and Sonic jumped over him. As he sailed over he grabbed Devion's cape and pulled it over his head, covering his visor and blinding him for a moment. Devion yanked the cape off of his head and he proceeded to remove the item of clothing altogether so Sonic couldn't distract him again. Sonic lunged forward with a kick to the head but all the kick did was make Devion grumble more then hurt him. Sonic then punched Devion's stomach…and hurt his fists. Sonic sucked on it tenderly to ease the pain, giving Devion the perfect opportunity to knee him in the face and send him falling backwards. Before Sonic could get back up, Devion kicked him as hard as he could. Sonic was thrown over onto his stomach and he groaned in pain. Devion then pinned his arm down with his foot and glowered at him with his evil red visor.

"Excellent fighting skills hedgehog." said Devion dryly "Your super speed plays a big part in your attacks being strikingly effective but to actually be able to control yourself at such speed and use it to full effect is definitely an effort that even we Devatrons cannot ignore."

"Thanks…I suppose." muttered Sonic "You don't fight so bad yourself. Although it's kinda cheating how you're invulnerable and everything I mean, how can I defeat you if I can't even hurt you?"

Devion didn't answer Sonic. He wasn't the kind of villain who relies heavily on mid-battle banter and annoying quips a lot to annoy his victims. He only spoke if he was commenting on someone's fighting skills whenever he was in battle. Devion just reached into the structure on his back and drew out a huge, sharp, golden sword with a curved blade and a chrome X shape near the tip. He rose the sword above his head and then tried to cleave Sonic in two with it. Sonic jumped in fright and he moved out of the way and fast. Devion growled in annoyance and he slashed at Sonic with the sword. He missed as Sonic jumped away but Devion swung the sword at Sonic again and struck the chrome as he tried to slice him in two. Sonic leaped over Devion in a graceful manner but Devion slashed at him and nicked him on one of his quills. Sonic landed on his feet and he felt one of this quills, which had been slightly trimmed now.

"Hey! That's not fair!" cried Sonic "Who says you get a sword and I don't?"

"I never said you didn't get a weapon Sonic." noted Devion "You just didn't bring one. And besides, when did playing fair ever win you anything? I take full advantage over my opponents and that's why I defeat them so easily. Given your super speed, my sword is rather obsolete in this match so it'd be better to save it for later."

So Devion sheathed the sword and went back to hand-to-hand combat. After all, why use a weapon if you can't hit somebody with it? Sonic was too fast so it'd be better to use the sword when he was beaten and pinned down or something. Now Devion had sheathed his weapon, Sonic went back on the offensive. He charged towards Devion and he socked him directly in the face. Devion staggered for a moment but he regained himself and he pecked Sonic on the forehead with his beak. Sonic screamed in pain and clutched the bleeding cut on his forehead that Devion had just left after that attack. Devion then slugged Sonic as hard as he could in the stomach. A punch from Devion was like getting whacked in the stomach with a crowbar, only worse. After that crippling stomach blow, Devion kicked upwards and knocked Sonic onto his back. Then Devion stomped on Sonic and kicked him across the fuselage. Sonic crashed into a structure on top of The Doombringer and he groaned in pain, wondering what had just hit him. He rubbed his head better and tried to pick himself up. He managed to push himself into a sitting position but that was all he managed to do before Devion lashed out and grabbed him by his neck. Sonic gagged and choked as Devion hoisted him up to his height. Devion narrowed his visor down to an evil slit of unfathomable villainy and if he had a mouth, he'd probably be smirking right now. Sonic looked nervous and his ears drooped back against his head. Was Devion going to kill him? Devion laughed softly at Sonic and then he proceeded to throw Sonic clean off The Doombringer ! Sonic plummeted down to the ground, screaming as he did so. Devion watched as Sonic plummeted down from the top of his chrome vessel and headed towards the ground. The Doombringer was a high up ship and falling off of it and down to the ground below would easily kill somebody. But, unfortunately for Devion, Sonic had some help coming. Tails, who had gone all the way to Downunda and gotten the Chaos Emeralds, was flying to Megapolis and he was just coming to The Doombringer and he noticed Sonic plummeting down to the ground. Tails dropped the emeralds and he quickly flew over to Sonic and caught him in his hands. Devion's visor widened at the sight of assistance for the hedgehog but he kept his cool and watched on, waiting to see what was going to happen next. Tails lowered Sonic down to the ground and Sonic smiled weakly at him.

"Just in time…Tails." said Sonic feebly "You saved my life."

"You're welcome Sonic." said Tails "I've got the Chaos Emeralds for you. Do you need them now?"

"Yes." said Sonic "Devion's a lean, mean, nigh-invulnerable machine and he's a keen fighter too. I can't defeat him!"

"D-D-Devion's invulnerable?" squeaked Tails "Oh no! No wonder you can't beat him! Invulnerable means it's impossible to hurt or damage somebody so you'll definitely need the Chaos Emeralds for this!"

"Yeah, I'm invulnerable in super form and Devion's only nigh-invulnerable." said Sonic "That makes me the stronger opponent. Let's kick those Devatron jerks outta Mobius before they can claim it as their own!"

With that said, Sonic ran over to the dropped Chaos Emeralds and he tapped into their power. He willed for the power of the Chaos Emeralds and the seven glowing gems levitated off the ground and began to circle around Sonic slowly and steadily. The emeralds then began to pick up speed as they circled around Sonic and they spun so fast, they became a rainbow blur around Sonic. Then the emeralds disappeared and Sonic became the golden-furred, red-eyed entity known as Super Sonic once again. Super Sonic smirked happily and he flew to the top of The Doombringer . The Devatrons stared in horror at Sonic and they backed away fearfully. Super Sonic touched down and stood before Devion, Raicor and Tronic with a rather evil look in his eyes, an unusual look for Sonic to have.

"What do ya think Devion?" sneered Super Sonic "Cool isn't it?"

"So you use seven mystical gems to turn super." mused Devion "Very good…the rumours were true after all. Mobius will definitely be an excellent prize for me when I conquer it."

"Fat chance of that Deva-freaks!" yelled Super Sonic "I'm invulnerable in this form and super powered! You've got no chance against me in this form Devion! Give up while you still can!"

"I've heard of planets that have mystical relics, artefacts and gems that power them up in unimaginable ways." said Devion coldly

"That's why for future landings, I've installed a little contingency plan in this ship…"

He then turned sharply to Tonic and barked at him "Now Tronic!"

Tronic obeyed and he pulled a little stick device from his waist and pressed a button on it. After pressing the button, two cannons extended out from the inside of The Doombringer and they pointed directly at Super Sonic. Super Sonic stared at the cannons, wondering what on Mobius they were and the cannons fired at him. But they weren't laser beams, they were electrical energy beams and they zapped Super Sonic. Somehow, the beams were actually hurting him though. Super Sonic cried out in pain and Tails watched the whole scene in horror. He was so shocked he thought his heart would give out on him.

"Urgh! Aaaargh! What…are…you…doing…nugh! Devion?" grunted Super Sonic.

"Draining your power." purred Devion wickedly "These are energy siphoning turrets. Designed to drain anything mystical, enchanted or powerful of it's power and render them useless to anyone. Such a pity, those emeralds of yours might have been good prizes for me."

The energy siphoning turrets continued their evil work on poor Super Sonic. The super powered hedgehog was being drained of all power and the Chaos Emeralds were beginning to lose their colour as they were being robbed of their magnificent power and energy. Tails decided he couldn't stand by and let this happen to Sonic so he flew over to one of the turrets and desperately looked for a way to sabotage them. But he didn't have any tools with him so he wouldn't be able to sabotage them at all. The turrets were free to commence with their evil function and Tails was powerless to do anything about it. All he could do was watch helplessly as the Chaos Emeralds were drained dry of their power. The turrets eventually finished doing their work and Sonic, who was now back to normal, collapsed onto his knees and then fell forward onto his hands. He began to pant heavily, relieved that this torture was over at last but it wasn't all's well for him. He was too weak to continue the battle and the Chaos Emeralds had been drained completely dry of their Chaos Energy. The beautiful sparkling emeralds had lost their radiant colour and light too. They were a lifeless grey colour and when you touched them, all you felt was just the glass the emeralds were made of, nothing more. Sonic picked up one of the Chaos Emeralds and he stared at it in horror.

"Y-y-you…you drained the…Chaos Emeralds of their…energy!" cried Sonic.

"How observant of you to notice the obvious hedgehog." said Devion sarcastically as he picked up his cape and reattached it to his shoulder "And what's really wonderful is that once an item of mystical and magical nature is drained of it's energy, the energy is recycled into fuel for The Doombringer so I must commend you for giving us some more fuel for our ship."

"So you're telling us that the Chaos Emerald's energy is being recycled into fuel for your vessel?" shrieked Tails "Your tech's quite amazing isn't it?"

"Tails! Don't flatter them!" snapped Sonic.

"Yes, our technology is far beyond anything you'll see on other worlds." gloated Devion "We had glorious tech since the day the Devatrons first came into existence and now it continues to be of use to us to this day. Now then," he glared down at Sonic and he picked him up "It appears that the victor of this battle is me hedgehog. Therefore, I get to commence with my ambitions. You and your twin-tailed friend who you refer to as "Tails" had better go home and give everybody the bad news. Tell them to prepare for my take over and tell them not to resist because if they don't, I'll allow them to live and if they do, I'll slaughter every one of you without hesitance!"

"Oh Devion please!" begged Tails "We can't give up the planet to you! We've been fighting hard for Mobius' freedom for months, we can't just throw that all away and let you have our world! That'd be disrespectful to everybody on Mobius! Not to mention, we're freedom loving beings and all we want is to live in peace! We can't have that kind of freedom we want if you're ruling over us!"

"If I was capable of experiencing the putrid emotion known as "guilt" and "sorrow" then I'd be shedding an lubricants for you." said Devion coldly "But those emotions don't register in my programming so I feel nothing for you furry little creatures. Now then, you two do as I ask or Sonic ends up going back to his home minus his throat."

He then proceeded to lightly touch Sonic's throat as if he was preparing to tear it out. Tails stared at Sonic worriedly and he began to think fast. He didn't want Sonic to die and if Sonic did die then they'd never defeat the Devatrons so it'd be best to do as he's told and leave and give his friends back home the bad news then to keep standing up to Devion like this.

"OK, we'll go." said Tails "Just please don't hurt Sonic!"

"Thank you." muttered Devion, dropping Sonic carelessly onto the ground "Before you go though, I'll be taking these emeralds of yours."

With that said, he reached down and gathered up the power-drained Chaos Emeralds and stuffed them in a pocket the cloak had.

"I know these gems are going to be of no use to me given how I've just siphoned their energy but I cannot risk you using something to re-power them as you'll likely have that kind of tech." explained Devion "I wouldn't risk trying to retrieve them here and now as you are likely to lose your lives in the process."

"We're not gonna try and get them back now!" snapped Tails "But we will get them back someday and we will beat you Devion! You and your buddies will never conquer our world!"

"Just silence your accursed lips already and get off my ship!" snarled Devion "All you're doing is vexing me to the point I feel like breaking you both!"

That was more then enough for Tails to get going and buzz off already. Tails picked up the still weakened Sonic the Hedgehog and twisted his tails around one another. He flew off of The Doombringer and headed back home to New Mobotropolis. Devion watched the fox leave and he began musing to himself.

"This planet is full of extraordinary beings isn't it?" he purred "That little furry thing carrying Sonic accomplishes the impossible feat of being able to travel through the air without the aid of wings of any kind. He just rapidly moves those two tails around in a circle and they propel him into the air as if they're rotor blades. Those creatures are definitely a species worth sparing, provided they cooperate that is."

"I have a strong feeling they won't Devion." said Raicor gruffly "The yellow one was quite obstinate and Sonic has a high level of spirit and valour in him. Who knows what the rest of the creatures are like?"

"If they're as good as Sonic is then they should provide a nice, worthy challenge for me when I begin my take over." purred Devion "After all, I don't like battles that offer nothing for us…"

As Devion began to picture his take over of Mobius in his evil mind, he began to wonder what the rest of the Mobians were like and what powers they had. If they were as amazing as Sonic was then this planet was going to be one glorious prize for him and a worthy addition to his planet-sized collection…

Back at New Mobotropolis, Sally Acorn, Nicole the Lynx and the entire R.F.S. were all waiting outside the gates of New Mobotropolis for Sonic and Tails to return from the fight with Devion. They had been gone for quite a while and they were all getting worried about them.

"The suspense is killing me!" whined Sally "I do wish I knew what was going on over in Megapolis already!"

"Sally, clam down." said Nicole affectionately "Sonic and Tails will return and hopefully they'll be back with good news. Sonic always comes out on top so he'll come out on top of this one."

"I know Nicole but Devion claims to have fourteen planets subjugated and under his control." noted Sally "He must have unbelievable power behind him if he has fourteen whole planets at his beck and call! If he has that kind of power then we're done for!"

"No we're not!" yelled Amy "Sonic always wins! We always win! Those Devatron freaks are not gonna take over our world!"

"Hey everybody, blue dude and Tails are back at last." said Mandy, pointing to the forests of Green Hill Zone.

Everybody looked in Mandy's direction and surely enough, they saw Sonic and Tails coming towards them, Tails carrying Sonic and looking a little worn out. Tails couldn't fly forever and he did tire after a while so who could blame him for looking worn out? Everybody looked a little nervous when they saw Sonic looking weak and beaten. Had he lost the fight? Or had he won and had only been beaten heavily during the fight? Tails flew over to everybody and, panting and gasping, he put Sonic down on the ground and he fell down onto his hands and knees, trying to get his breath back. Sally knelt down before Tails and spoke to him.

"Boys, you're back thank goodness!" said Sally "Please tell me you have good news."

"I'm…afraid not…Sally…" puffed Tails "Sonic…lost the battle…the Chaos Emeralds have been…power drained and…stolen from us… and Devion's gonna…proceed with his ambitions…"

Everybody's reaction to that was legendary. They couldn't believe what they were hearing. Sonic had lost and the Chaos Emeralds had been power drained and stolen? Looks like Mobius is in for the fight of it's life here! Knuckles seemed very ticked off at the fact the emeralds had been power drained and stolen by Devion.

"Tails, would you care to explain how Devion managed to get the emeralds in the first place?" growled Knuckles furiously.

"I-I-it w-was Sonic's idea Knuckles!" whimpered Tails "He-He thought h-he'd need them since D-D-Devion sounded v-very p-p-powerful! He did and all b-b-but Devion had prepared for this since he'd h-heard legends about th-th-this planet h-having mystical gems and d-drained them with e-energy siphoning turrets! Please don't punch me Knuckles, it wasn't our fault this happened! We didn't think this would happen!"

He curled up fearfully and waited for Knuckles to flip on him. However, amazingly enough, the echidna with the spiked fists restrained himself and didn't do anything to him. Instead, he relaxed himself and put a hand on Tails' shoulder. His expression was a lot friendlier looking now.

"I understand Tails, you and Sonic were caught off guard by that Devion guy." said Knuckles "The fact he has something that can drain something of it's power is enough to catch ME off guard! Well we can't let that happen to something like the Master Emerald so to avoid the Master Emerald sharing the same fate, we'd best not use that to help us. But one thing we must do is get the Chaos Emeralds back and re-power them with the Master Emerald."

"And we must push the Devatrons off our doorstep." said Sally determinedly "The R.F.S. has been tussling with Dr. Eggman for far too long to have to put up with another attempt to take over our world! Sonic may have failed but the entire R.F.S. is here so they can't possibly take on all of us! Royal Fighters, we're gonna take the battle to them!"

"We're gonna fight the Devatrons ourselves I gather?" said Nicole "Well I'm willing to fight no matter the cost. Those Devatrons must be stopped."

"You're right Nicole." said Sally "Tails, you take Sonic to Royal HQ and let him rest. We're all gonna go over to Megapolis and fight those Devatrons back."

"Yes Sally." said Tails, carrying Sonic into New Mobotropolis.

"No…I can still…fight…" muttered Sonic weakly.

"No you can't Sonic." said Tails "You're too weak. The R.F.S. will deal with the Devatrons I'm sure so don't worry about them."

As Tails took Sonic away, Knuckles activated a warp ring that he'd given to Ruben when he went back to Chun-Nan briefly* and the warp ring extended to twice it's size. The warp ring would take everybody over to Megapolis where the Devatrons were hiding. The warp ring couldn't extend any higher so the Royal Fighters all marched through it in single file. As they marched through the warp ring and warped from New Mobotropolis to Megapolis, one thing ran through their minds: No matter the cost, no matter the odds, the Devatrons had to be stopped and they had to give it their all in this battle or Mobius was doomed to be a Devatron paradise alongside the fourteen other worlds they'd conquered…

Devion watched from on top of The Doombringer as the R.F.S. marched through the warp ring and into Megapolis. He sneered at the Mobians that were coming through to the terrain he was camping out in, thinking on how foolish they were to dare put up a resistance against him but one thing he couldn't help but admire was the warp ring. Never had he seen tech like this before and he began to wonder how the warp ring could possibly exist. It didn't look like it was made by science of any kind, it looked more mystical and enchanted. Maybe it was a magical item? Whatever it was, Devion knew that he could do with one of those.

"This technology of theirs is astounding." Devion complimented "They have rings that can transport them from place to place. How is this possible? No matter, I could do with one of those teleporter ring devices. Just imagine me warping us over from planet to planet with that ring. We'd never need to travel through space in The Doombringer ever again."

"Yes but our forces would be lacking without The Doombringer ." noted Raicor "We could just use the ring to warp The Doombringer itself from planet to planet. Save us a lot of refuelling it would."

"Somehow, I doubt a device as magnanimous as this teleporter ring will be capable of transporting vehicular structures given how it expands to a size adequate to only those furry creatures." Devion theorized "Still, we could definitely do with one of those ring devices or whatever they are. But enough of that, it's time to show those foolish creatures what happens when they resist me. Tronic! Order the entire crew of The Doombringer to meet me outside immediately!" he barked at his loyal servant.

"Yes Devion. Right away Devion." droned Tronic.

Tronic stood on a platform that took him back down into The Doombringer 's interior and he commenced with Devion's orders. As for Devion himself, he leaped elegantly off of The Doombringer and he somersaulted in mid-air. The R.F.S., which had finished coming through the warp ring, all stopped dead in their tracks as they watched Devion hurl down from the sky. Devion landed very powerfully on the ground, so powerfully in fact he made the ground crack beneath his feet and some parts of it stuck up in bug chunks! Raicor did things a lot less violently though. He just unclipped his wings, spread them out and flew down to the ground behind Devion. After landing, he clipped his wings back together, forming the cape that he was known for, and he stood silently by Devion's right shoulder, waiting for orders. The R.F.S. backed away a little nervously from Devion and Raicor but Sally wasn't so intimidated. She stepped forward bravely and cleared her throat.

"Devion, we are the Royal Fighter's Service, Mobius' stronghold against any evil threat and any attempts at world domination." announced Sally "I am the woman in charge of the organization after my predecessors, my parents, passed away. I am Queen Sally Acorn and I will throw everything I can at you if it means getting rid of you and keeping our much desired freedom."

Devion just snorted at Sally as if the whole speech just sounded corny and half-assed to him.

"Petty speeches aside, your "Royal Fighters" look like quite the group don't they Queen Sally?" purred Devion "How meritorious, I feared I was going to get a feeble resistance that isn't even worth stomping on. You creatures definitely do seem like a species worth sparing and keeping for slave labour."

"Please do not call us "creatures" Devion." said Sally coldly "We take that as an insult. You may refer to us as "Mobians" if you will as that is what the name of our species is."

"Very well then, "Mobians" it shall be from now on." snapped Devion in a voice with a vague hint of annoyance in it "Anyways, I'm going to kindly ask for you to not risk your lives by trying to push me and my soldiers out of your world Sally. I do not wish to have to slaughter you all so needlessly when this take over can commence peacefully and without a minute of unwarranted bloodshed."

"We will not let you have Mobius!" snapped Sally "This is OUR planet, not yours and we will not let you have it! We've been fighting for freedom against another other-world enemy named Dr. Eggman and we will happily fight for freedom against you chrome-plated freaks!"

"Do not use that childish term on me just because we are not your kind my child." snarled Devion "That'll just ensure your death. So it's like that is it?" he added with a growl in his voice "If you won't relinquish the planet to us then we have to fight you for it?"

"Yes." said Sally "Or to avoid unnecessary conflicts between two different species, you can just pack up and get out of here!"

"I don't travel light years through the cosmos of space just to be told to remove myself from the planet." said Devion coldly "I came here to conquer and if you won't let this take over commence without conflict then so be it! I tried to give you a fair chance but you exploited it and now you shall all be taken to your graves by me and my army!"

Just as he said the word "army" the sound of marching metal feet rang out from inside The Doombringer . The R.F.S. grew worried, wondering what that sound was. They soon found out what the sound was as the things making the sound stepped out of the darkness of The Doombringer 's interiors and into the bright sunlight of the outside world. The things making that noise were Devion's soldiers, ordinary Devatrons if you will. Tronic was with them. The soldiers couldn't compare to the leaders looks wise but they were still something to fear. Devatron soldiers looked like humanoid robots with a pair of horns on the side of their heads, muzzle-like structures in place of a mouth with sharp fangs protruding from the sides, twin cannons on their backs, spiked shoulders, three clawed hands with two clawed thumbs, a V-shaped visor with a singular holographic eye and reptilian pupil, three clawed feet and every Devatron was coated in an invulnerable chrome armour that shined like the stars in bright light. That wasn't all though. There were two more Devatron leaders amongst them. One Devatron had a head more helmet like in appearance with four spikes on them. It was rather tough looking in appearance although not as tough looking as Devion. It had two large jets on its back, each with two spikes on them. It still had the trademark V-shaped visor with holographic eye in the middle. His name was Triton and he had one of the most fearsome weapons in the Devatron fleet. A saw blade on a stick, known as the saw stick. Many had fallen to him via this mighty weapon. The other Devatron next to Triton had a crest that was attached to his forehead and pointed behind him, two spikes on either side of it's head, two toed feet and a back pack structure with four spikes on it, two top and two bottom. His name was Steelor and he was an assassin. His arsenal consisted of a saw blade on his arm and a handle bar shaped weapon with two blades on it. The whole army looked formidable and Sally could see how Devion got his job done. The whole R.F.S. seemed a little nervous about fighting them. Devion however, was not going to wait for them to start. He liked starting the fight himself so he gave the order.

"Devatrons, attack and slaughter every last Mobian on the battle field!"

The Devatron soldiers did as they were told immediately and they all charged towards the Royal Fighters. The Royal Fighters of Grand Metropolis and Downunda went on the offensive first. General Bostock and Commander Mortimer began unleashing a good round of bullets from their rifles that they'd brought with them with Mr. Staffer and Gerald adding extra support by shooting at them with some revolvers. Given their invulnerability though, the Devatrons just walked through the shower of bullets as if they were nothing. The bullets pinged harmlessly off their armour and the soldiers marched ever closer. The firing Mobians began to back off, still shooting desperately at the Devatrons but making no impact on them.

"Our guns don't work!" shrieked Bostock "Mortimer, try the grenades!"

Mortimer obeyed and he tore a grenade off of his belt. He pulled the stick out and he chucked it at Triton. Triton just stood there and let the grenade hit him. The grenade hit Triton and it exploded. But the grenade didn't harm Triton in anyway! The Devatron leader just took the blast as if it were nothing! The grenades didn't work! Triton just laughed at Mortimer and he prepared to use his weapon.

"That tickled." he crowed, his voice very masculine and tough sounding, fitting for a Devatron like him.

He then swung his arm and sent the saw blade flying off of the stick. Bostock and Mortimer ducked but Mr. Staffer and Gerald weren't so lucky. The saw blade sliced their heads clean off their bodies, killing them and bringing the resistance down two soldiers. The headless bodies of Mr. Staffer and Gerald lay on the ground, their blood staining the earth they lay on. Sally looked horrified at this and she gave the command.

"Come on Royal Fighters! Go for it!" she screamed "Fight for our freedom!"

The entire R.F.S. obeyed and they ran into battle without a moment's hesitance. Devion decided to divide the Devatrons up a little and he sorted the squadron out into groups. He'd lead one squad, Raicor would lead another, Tronic would lead another, Steelor would lead another and Triton would lead another. That would make things nice and even so each leader got a go at somebody. Devion's group took on the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and the Chaotix. Raicor's group went for the Northern Royal Fighters, Triton's went for the Adabat Royal Fighters, Steelor's went for the Megapolis Royal Fighters and Tronic's went for the Grand Metropolis Royal Fighters. The battle field was now in complete chaos with Mobians and Devatrons alike beating the tar out of each other and fighting for the planet.

Devion's group and the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were putting their all into this match. Since the team was incomplete without Sonic and Tails there, this match wasn't going to be as easy for them as it would be with those two helping out. Knuckles and his partner Shade took on Devion while the rest took on the soldiers. Wilson drew out his trademark spinning blade weapon and he cut loose on a Devatron soldier. He slashed at it as hard as he could but his weapon was ultimately useless given the soldier's invulnerable armour. Wilson slashed at it again and then tried to stab it but the Devatron block the attack with it's arm and it kicked Wilson away. Wilson retaliated with a roundhouse kick to the head but all that did was make the Devatron stagger more then anything. A kick was nothing to an invulnerable killing machine. Wilson growled exasperatedly and he slashed at the Devatron again pitifully. As for his wife, Mandy had slipped on her brass knuckle attachments and she began to punch the Devatron soldier she was fighting as furiously as possible. But try as she might, not even brass knuckle attachments were any good against a Devatron soldier. She punched it as hard as she could but the Devatron just took the attacks as if they were merely tickling it. The Devatron then proceeded to uppercut Mandy in the face and knock her down. Mandy quickly picked herself up and punched it in the muzzle but the attack yielded no results. The Devatron gut punched Mandy and then uppercut her again. Mandy staggered backwards, rubbing her tummy better, and she and Wilson ended up backing up to one another.

"We finally get married and the first thing we do as a couple is fight for our lives!" muttered Wilson "Aren't we the special ones?"

"Yeah, real special." muttered Mandy "What are those things made of? Our weapons are useless! They're like weaponized Alonzo! They take every blow we throw at them!"

"I'm guessing they're invulnerable." said Wilson "But there must be some weak spot on these guys. Try breaking their eyes, I bet that'll hinder them in some way."

"Hinder them, maybe but destroy them, definitely not." noted Mandy "But if they're flying blind then that'll give us some edge on them."

So Wilson and Mandy decided to try that idea. Mandy leaped up to the Devatron she was fighting and she punched it directly in the visor at full force. The Devatron staggered slightly and it glowered at Mandy. Then suddenly, it's visor cracked. The crack was quite serious too. The Devatron's vision was impaired now and it couldn't see properly. The Devatron began to stagger around and flail madly. Mandy decided to finish it off by giving it an uppercut to the chin and knock it down onto it's back. The Devatron lay on it's back, flailing around and wondering why it couldn't see. Mandy punched it in the visor again, cracking it even more and blinding the soldier completely. But her victory wasn't to last. The soldier fighting Wilson knocked Wilson out of the way and blasted Mandy in the back with it's back cannons. Furious to see his wife being attacked like that, Wilson stabbed the Devatron in the visor and blinded it with his spinning blade weapon. But not only did Wilson blind it, the blade went straight through the Devatron's head and killed it! Wilson yanked the blade out of the soldier's visor and the Devatron collapsed onto the ground, dead as anything. Wilson stared at it in amazement.

"The visor's it's weak point!" cried Wilson "That's it! We've got a way of defeating them!"

"Let's hope it works in our favour." muttered Mandy as she linked arms with another Devatron and began to fight it "Or we're really screwed out here."

As for the others, they were engaged with Devatron soldiers themselves. Amy, Cream and Cosmo all formed together to perform their signature move on the Devatrons. Cream swung Amy and Cosmo around and Amy hammered the Devatron soldiers away. But not even her hammer attacks could penetrate the Devatron's tough armour. After getting hit by her, the soldiers picked themselves up and began shooting at Team Rose with their back mounted cannons. Cream managed to dodge the attacks by flying out of their way but one Devatron leaped up and tackled her right out of the sky. Cream, Cosmo and Amy all fell down to the ground in a heap and the Devatrons prepared to attack them but Geoffrey St. John fired some exploding darts at them. The darts hit them and exploded upon impact but the darts had no effect on the invulnerable Devatrons. Geoffrey looked stunned to say the least at the fact his darts hadn't worked so he decided to just rely on his fighting skills. Bunnie was having an easier time then everybody due to her robotic limbs and enhanced strength. She punched one Devatron soldier as furiously as possible with her robotic left arm but another Devatron soldier got the drop on her with a powerful dropkick that brought her down onto her knees. The Devatron then grabbed Bunnie by the ears and slammed her right on top of Geoffrey. The two Mobians lay sprawled on top of each other, groaning in pain. The Devatron then deployed an arm cannon and prepared to blast the two to slag but Ruben jumped in and kicked it's arm, causing it to shoot up at the sky instead. Ruben then went all ninja on the Devatron, kicking it and punching it at speeds accomplished only by ninjas no matter what level they were. The Devatron growled furiously at Ruben but Ruben was moving too fast for it to react so it couldn't fight back. Ruben kicked the soldier down onto the ground but he got blasted in the back by another Devatron soldier. Bunnie jumped in and clobbered the soldier with one hefty punch but it's invulnerable armour held out against the attack. One Devatron conked Bunnie on the head with both it's fists clenched together and the Rabbot was in a daze. The soldier then grabbed Bunnie in a chokehold and prepared to snap her neck but Vector the Crocodile grabbed it by the horns and threw it over onto another Devatron soldier. Espio the Chameleon threw some shuriken at the Devatron soldiers but they just pinged harmlessly off their tough armour. Even if they did embed themselves into the Devatrons, the explosions they emitted wouldn't be of much help. Espio decided to just his ninjutsu on the Devatron soldiers. Invulnerability didn't stop the Devatrons from getting clobbered after all, all it did was prevent them from being damaged by the attacks. Charmy Bee just sort of flew around and distracted the Devatrons for his friends as he wasn't of much use in a battle like this. His sting was useless and he wasn't very strong so he was better off as the distraction more then anything. He kicked one Devatron in the back of the head, causing it to spin around and swipe at him and give Vector a chance to deck it in the back before it could fight back again. As for Knuckles and Shade, they were both in combat with Devion and were doing their best against the insidious leader but even their best efforts weren't enough. Devion uppercut Shade into the air and he grabbed Knuckles by his dreadlocks. He swung Knuckles over onto his back and then he swung him upwards, brought him back down and raised his leg so he ended up slamming Knuckles on his own leg (ouch!). Knuckles groaned in pain and he rubbed himself better. Devion was about to deck Knuckles until Shade stepped in and blocked his attack with her twin blades. Devion pushed Shade away and drew out his golden sword. The two then began to sword fight with one another, their weapons clashing heavily as they hit each other. Shade Blade-Rushed Devion but Devion sliced through the attack with his sword and clashed weapons with Shade again. Now Shade had Devion distracted, Knuckles could step in and do what he could. He pounced on Devion and punched him in the back of the head, distracting him a little and giving Shade time to slash him but her blades were useless against Devion's tough armour. Devion kicked Shade away and slashed at Knuckles with his sword. Knuckles dodged the attack and the two prepared to fight some more.

Raicor's group was fighting the Northern Royal Fighters which consisted of Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat, Kate the Eagle and the chipmunk brothers Thunder and Bolt. Miranda had her electro prod weapon at the ready and she lunged at Raicor with the prod switched on. Raicor just swatted her away and left the mongoose to land painfully on her back. Miranda picked herself up and thrust the prod at Raicor. She hit him but the prod didn't electrocute Raicor as she'd hoped it would. His chrome armour protected him from the prod's effects. Raicor drew out his own weapon, which was a staff with three prongs on both ends and he swiped at Miranda with it. Miranda screamed and she leaped back hastily. Raicor stabbed at Miranda but he missed the mongoose and Miranda tried to zap him with the prod again but it had no effect on him. Raicor laughed at her and he walloped her with the staff. Kate, who was wrestling with some Devatron soldiers, sensed her friend was in trouble so she pushed the soldiers away and ran over to help Miranda. Raicor tried to stab Miranda with his staff but Kate stepped in and grabbed the staff. She pushed back on Raicor and the two ended up having a sumo match with one another. Miranda could see that Kate had this covered and she tried a sneak attack on Raicor. She ran around behind Raicor and jabbed him in the neck with the prod. The prod zapped Raicor but given his tough build, it only felt like a zap rather then a flat out electrical shock. Raicor pushed Kate away and walloped Miranda with his staff yet again. As for Kari and the chipmunk brothers, they weren't having it so easy. Kari wasn't a very strong rat and she only had a crowbar for a weapon. Thunder and Bolt had the best chance with their electrical attacks but even they were ineffective against the Devatron army. Kari whacked one Devatron in the back of it's leg with her crowbar and she brought it down onto one knee. She then whacked the Devatron on it's head as hard as she possibly could but the Devatron took the heavy blows and then tripped her up by smacking one of her legs out from underneath her. The Devatron then snatched Kari's weapon off her and it prepared to smash Kari with the crowbar. Thunder and Bolt saved her by throwing thunder bolts at it and making it stagger. It dropped the crowbar and Kari got it back. She whacked the Devatron in the visor and cracked it, blinding the chrome covered machine. But blinding it wasn't going to be much as it was still functioning and more Devatrons were coming in to deal with the Northern Royal Fighters.

Triton and his team were dealing with the Adabat Royal Fighters, a team that had been newly recruited and was seeing it's first real major battle since the team had formed. Scott Lynx and his girlfriend Jessica Cougar (about flippin' time those two appeared in the main story isn't it?) Launched the first attacks by summoning energy to their hands and they punched at Triton. Their energy-enhanced punches were powerful, but not even those attacks could penetrate Devatron armour. Their punches more annoyed Triton then anything. Triton sneered at the lynx and cougar's futile attempts and he swiped at them with his saw stick. Scott and Jessica ducked, causing Triton to miss and Scott gave Triton an energy enhanced uppercut. Triton was knocked down on his back but he wasn't down for long. Jessica tried to attack him but Triton kicked her away and leaped back onto his feet. Triton swiped at Jessica and his saw stick nicked her on the cheek, leaving a long thin cut that started from the edge of her cheek and finished at the corner of her mouth. The cougar winced in pain and Triton was about to kill her but Scott leaped in and pounced on him like a tiger lunging for a deer. Scott brought Triton down on his back but Triton swung his legs up and pushed Scott straight off of him. The two stood back up and Scott punched at Triton with his energy enhanced fists again. Triton took the blows and then began to fight back. His punches however, were hard enough as they were and Scott soon found that out. Triton gut-punched him, then he elbowed him in the back of his head and then he uppercut the lynx into the air. Jessica watched on horrified and she began throwing energy spears at Triton. But not even those could penetrate the Devatron's tough hide. Triton scowled at her and just promptly blasted her with his own arm cannon. As for Felix the Peacock and Taran the Lynx, they were having a decidedly easier time then Scott and Jessica. Felix flew around whacking Devatron soldiers with his tail feather clubs and Taran blasted them with the laser cannon he'd found and kept after their last outing with Ravage Bloodfang. The blasts didn't do any damage to the Devatrons but they were powerful enough to knock them down. After knocking them down, Taran decided to aim for their visors as that was the likeliest weak spot on them. Taran ran over to one downed Devatron soldier and blasted it in the visor. But given how powerful the cannon was, the blast killed the soldier as it went through it's visor and then through it's head. Taran smiled, he had a way of killing the Devatrons! But that wasn't going to be of much help to him as he was outnumbered and the soldiers were likely to catch on to Taran's act. Felix had an easier time blinding the Devatrons though as he could just fly by them and whack them in the visor with his tail feather clubs. But one Devatron soldier shot him down with one blast of it's arm cannon and Felix was brought down to the ground, groaning in pain.

Steelor's group was against the Megapolis Royal Fighters. There weren't really many of them, just Field Marshal Thomas Tiger and his messenger woman Kiara the Cheetah. In order to boost up their numbers, Sally and Nicole decided to help them out. Thomas went for Steelor himself while the girls kept the rabble off his back. Thomas and Steelor began to exchange punches of various kinds, gut punches, roundhouse punches, uppercuts and right and left hooks respectively, on each other with Steelor's punched being the most powerful given how he's a robot. Thomas punched Steelor in the visor but his punch wasn't enough to crack it. Steelor retaliated by activating the spinning four-bladed saw on his arm and he nicked Thomas on the shoulder with it. Thomas screamed in pain and he kicked Steelor in the gut as hard as he could. The Devatron was sent skidding backwards but he regained himself and drew out his handlebar sword weapon. He slashed at Thomas with it but he missed and Thomas grabbed his wrist, trying to make him drop the weapon. Steelor chipper him on the shoulder again in order to make him let go of him and as Thomas did that, Steelor thrust the weapon at Thomas' neck and he pushed him down onto the ground. The two blades embedded themselves into the ground and the handlebar shape of the weapon kept Thomas down. It was almost like he had been stapled to the ground by a giant stapler. That was Steelor's main method of killing, trap the opponent by doing what he'd just down and then slice them open with the saw blade. But before Steelor could even so much as activate his saw blade, Kiara abandoned her opponent and leaped in for Thomas. She dropkicked him in the head and brought him down onto his back. Now he was down, Kiara grabbed Steelor's sword and yanked it out of the ground, freeing Thomas and allowing him to stand back up. The moment Thomas did though, Steelor uppercut Kiara into the air and sent her crashing down at the feet of another Devatron soldier. The soldier just promptly kicked her as hard as he could before she could stand back up. Sally and Nicole weren't having much luck with their opponents. Sally wasn't a very skilled fighter and Nicole wasn't very powerful. Any attack they launched was more of an annoyance to the Devatrons then anything. Sally kicked at one soldier but the attack didn't even make it flinch and the Devatron backhanded her across the terrain. Sally landed painfully on her back and she grimaced tensely. The soldier grabbed Sally by the ankle and then swung her over onto her front as if she was a fly swatter being used to swat a pesky fly. The attack left Sally feeling like every bone in her body had just cracked. The Devatron then proceeded to fling Sally as far as he could across the terrain and Sally came to a halt near a large rock. The squirrel queen backed up against the rock nervously as the Devatron marched over to her and prepared to kill her. It drew out a bronze coloured scimitar and he aimed for Sally's heart. But just as it seemed Sally would be joining her parents up in heaven, Nicole leaped on the Devatron's back and covered it's visor. The Devatron flailed about madly and tried to chop Nicole to pieces with it's scimitar. It swung the sword at her but Nicole leaped off her back, causing the Devatron to conk itself on the head with the scimitar. The Devatron fumed angrily and it swiped at Nicole with the scimitar. Nicole back flipped away and she rammed the Devatron in the gut. But all that did was give her a sore shoulder given how the Devatron was made of chrome and invulnerable and she was only a fleshling. The Devatron slashed Nicole across the tummy with it's sword, causing Nicole to double over and wince tensely. The Devatron then tried to slice Nicole in two with the scimitar but Sally kicked it in the back of the head, prompting the Devatron to spin around and try to slice her in two again.

Finally, Tronic and his team were against Bostock and Mortimer. Bostock and Mortimer weren't really much of a challenge as they relied heavily on their weapons and didn't really excel in the hand-to-hand combat area. Their weapons were useless though as the Devatrons were invulnerable so Tronic and his team didn't have much of a challenge. All Bostock and Mortimer could do really was throw grenades at them and hope the grenades would destroy them. But, their efforts were ultimately futile at most as the Devatrons just walked through the explosions as if they were nothing. Tronic drew out a long thin blade from his arm and he slashed at Bostock. Bostock dodged and he threw a grenade at Tronic's head. The blast distracted Tronic long enough for Bostock to flee for it. He primed his rifle and decided to try and see if he could blind the Devatrons. One soldier came forward with it's claws bared and it tried to grab Bostock but the chipmunk dodged its attack and he shot the Devatron in the visor. The bullet cracked the Devatron's visor and left it blinded. Mortimer could see his partner had a tactic and he tried the same thing. But his aim wasn't quite as good as Bostock's so it was harder for him to hit where he was aiming. He fired at the Devatrons but his aim wasn't quite with him and he missed their visor. One Devatron bent forward and blasted Mortimer with it's back mounted cannons. Mortimer was sent hurling forwards and he landed on his side and skidded to a halt, the impact leaving tears on his sleeve. The Devatron cackled at Mortimer and it ran towards him. Mortimer picked himself up and smacked the Devatron with his rifle. Big mistake as all that did was end up breaking the weapon and leaving him weapon-less! The Devatron snickered at him and he uppercut Mortimer as hard as he could. Bostock could see his friend was in need of assistance so he abandoned his fight with Tronic and ran off to help Mortimer. The Devatron soldier turned around and Bostock shot it in the visor. The visor cracked and the Devatron was rendered enable to see. Bostock pushed the Devatron over onto it's back and he helped Mortimer up onto his feet. But Tronic bent down and blasted both chipmunks with his back cannons. The chipmunks were thrown off their feet and sent sprawling across the landscape.

Back over to Sally and Nicole, they back out of the battle and observed what was going on around them. The Royal Fighters were beginning to tire in this battle of flesh and steel, organics vs. mechanics and furry beings vs. metal beings. The Devatron's invulnerability just rendered them incapable of receiving damage of any kind and although the Devatrons had a weak spot, and a pretty helpful one at that for the Mobians, they were outnumbered. Devion had an army sized squadron in The Doombringer , the Royal Fighters had come with just the highest ranking members of various teams and not the whole army. The Royal Fighters were getting tired and the Devatrons were beginning to overpower them. If they were to defeat the Devatrons, they would have to retreat and come back in bigger numbers or find an even more helpful weakness to them. The Royal Fighters would beat the Devatrons someday soon, but not now. They were just too weak and outnumbered as they are now.

"Nicole, this battle is going horribly against us." said Sally worriedly "The Devatrons are too powerful and we're lacking in numbers. Despite their weakness, their visors, their big numbers are getting too much for our soldiers."

"We have to get out of here and fast." said Nicole "You activate the warp ring and I'll tell everybody to run for it."

Sally obeyed and she flicked the warp ring into the air. The warp ring expanded to twice it's size and it awaited for it's travellers to go through it. Now the escape route was ready, Nicole ran over and called over to everybody.

"Royal Fighters! Retreat!" yelled Nicole "Fall back! We need a change of strategy!"

Everybody heeded Nicole's call and they quickly abandoned their fights and ran towards the warp ring. Everybody filed up in single file and they began darting through the warp ring as fast as possible with Sally and Nicole the first to go through. Devion could see the Mobians retreating and he had a wicked idea. Maybe he could follow them through the warp ring and find out where they're heading. Then he could steal the warp ring and bring his army over to their residence with it. Devion ran after the Mobians as fast as he could, hoping to catch up to them and run through the ring with them. Knuckles saw Devion coming and he punched the ground beneath his feet. He made several chunks of earth stick up and he tossed them straight at Devion. The chunks threw Devion off of his feet and he landed with a heavy clunk on his back. Devion wasn't down for long though. He picked himself up, unsheathed his sword and he ran towards the warp ring. All the Mobians had run through it and save Knuckles who was just catching up to them. Devion was a fast runner and he was just catching up to Knuckles as the warp ring began to shrink down in size. Knuckles leaped through the warp ring in record time and Devion leaped after him but the warp ring disappeared, leaving Devion to land back down on the ground and strike it with his golden sword. Devion growled in rage, furious at the fact he'd just failed to follow the Mobians and he picked himself up, wrenching the golden sword out of the ground and sheathing it.

"The Mobians chose to play it safe and flee for their wretched lives." muttered Devion "Ultimate cowardice but also the wisest thing for them to do as we were going to win anyway."

"Those Mobians aren't worth our time!" grumbled Steelor, his voice raspy and tough sounding a bit like Scourge the Hedgehog "Let's just conquer the planet and not bother with the furry beasts!"

"No Steelor." said Devion coldly "Those Mobians will not allow us to commence with our ambitions peacefully. They will go to great lengths to ensure our departure from this world so if we're to conquer the planet, we shall have to slaughter them. A pity, those Mobians would have been better as slaves as they're quite extraordinary and striking. But a Devatron's got to do what a Devatron's got to do when conquering a planet. If the Mobians want to throw their lives away then we'll let them, it's them who will be regretting all this in the end."

"So when shall we commence with the take over Devion?" asked Raicor.

"We will not be taking any action against the planet until I deem the time to be perfect." said Devion "We shall brainstorm and see if we can come up with a suitable plan that'll dampen the Mobian's spirits a little and then we shall strike and take over this world. Mobius will be a fine addition to my collection of worlds and the Devatrons shall settle nicely on a world as meritorious as this."

Devion then began to softly cackle to himself as he pictured Mobius' conversion from animal world to Devatron world in his head. The Devatrons had made a good impression on the Mobians and driven them back for now and the next time they fought, the Mobians would fall and the Devatrons would stand tall after the titanic battle was over…

Whew! What an intro for the Devatrons! Sonic's gonna have his work cut out for him isn't he? How's he gonna win this crusade of epic proportions then? Well join me on a wild ride as we partake in the Devatron saga, a saga that'll last FIFTEEN parts! Can you keep up readers? I sure hope so!

Thanks to everybody who's reviewed, favourited and followed this story through thick and thin. It's thanks to you all I could make it this far and I hope to continue pleasing you all with this story.

Heroes and Treason Part 1

Story 101: Heroes and Treason Part 1: Duty Calls

After the R.F.S had returned home to New Mobotropolis, the whole team rested up for the rest of the day and come the next day, Queen Sally Acorn had gathered the Council of Acorn together to discuss about their newest threats, the Devatrons. They had just landed in Megapolis and seek to conquer Mobius much like how they've already conquered fourteen planets. The R.F.S. had tried to push them away but their attempts had been in vain and they had ultimately been forced to retreat. Now Sally and the Council were conversing about how they should deal with the Devatron threat. Sonic the Hedgehog and friends were at this meeting to voice any opinions of theirs.

"OK everyone, the council meeting is in session." announced Sally "We're all gathered around here to discuss about our newest threat…the Devatrons."

The council members murmured amongst each other.

"So, what do we know about the Devatrons as of current?" asked Sally.

"I know plenty." said Sonic, steeping forward and addressing the council "They're a bunch of insidious robots who love to conquer worlds, are nigh-invulnerable and are pretty tough to beat. It's impossible to so much as hurt those guys. And they have energy draining weapons. They drained the Chaos Emeralds of their energy and now the Devatrons have them so we can't restore their power, although I'm not really sure if we can even do that. Those Devatrons are powerful, smart guys and they're way bigger threats then even Dr. Eggman.

Sally could only nod agreeably as Sonic gave his statement.

"They are Sonic." she said gravely "The Devatrons are difficult to damage and they completely overwhelmed us in the end. The Downunda Royal Fighters Mr. Staffer and Gerald lost their lives in the battle and we barely made it out of that battle alive. We do have one way of defeating them though," she added "Their visors are the weak spot but even then, all we do really is blind them. Wilson claims that if you blind them by stabbing them in the eye it kills them as the blade goes through the visor and into it's head."

"So we have a way of taking them down?" said Sonic, beaming "Alright! We're gonna get somewhere!"

"But not many of us are armed with swords or other bladed weapons." noted Sally "And the Devatrons are likely to be all the wiser about us after we've managed to kill a few of the soldiers yesterday so it may be harder to hit them in their vulnerable point. Not to mention when we fought them we were outnumbered in that match. If we fought them again then we might have a chance against them but Devion's got goodness knows what in that ship of his, he might have a production factory or something and he'll just make more and more Devatrons to outnumber us and overwhelm us."

"So we have an edge on them but it's not that helpful to us." muttered Sonic "That bites."

"What do you think we should do Sally?" asked Tails the twin-tailed fox.

"Given how the Devatrons are the stronger beings," mused Sally "And how we don't really have much of an advantage over them and their weakness isn't that helpful of one, I say we take no action against the Devatrons until we come up with a good battle plan and until we can find out a bit more about the Devatrons."

"What?" cried Sonic "Sally, that's mondo bone-headed there! If we take no action against the Devatrons they'll wreck the planet and take it over!"

"Sonic the Hedgehog will know his place and think carefully before he speaks!" snapped the council douche-bag Hamlin the Pig.

"Hamlin, please I can handle this." snapped Sally "I don't need you being rude to the Hero of Mobius."

Hamlin just snorted at Sally and folded his arms. Sally glared at the pig and then she looked back at Sonic.

"Sonic, the idea is that we can't fight the Devatrons without knowing how to counter their invulnerability." explained Sally "It'd be better to strike from the shadows then do something as predictable as unleash a full onslaught on him. I'm sure spies such as Sora Sumdac or even Espio the Chameleon are willing to infiltrate Devion's ship and find whatever helpful information they can to use against the Devatrons. The idea is a good one Sonic."

"Maybe so but what if they can't find the information we need?" asked Sonic "And what if the information isn't as helpful as we think it is? And what do you think Devion's gonna be doing while we play it like ninjas and strike from the shadows? He's probably attacking innocent people right now! We should just go full out on him before he harms anybody!"

"And what good what that do us?" asked Sally sternly "We can't beat them and all we're gonna do is get ourselves killed if we just take the direct approach. It'd be better to infiltrate them and use the information against them then just flat out attack them. The council will now vote on this proposal. All in favour of taking the subtle approach against the Devatrons?" she asked the members of the council.

Predictably enough, the entire council voted "Yay" given as how they all thought it was a good idea. It was in a way as the Devatrons wouldn't expect the Mobians to try something as subtle as that, infiltrate The Doombringer and use whatever information they could find against them. It was just a matter of if they could find the right information or if they could find ANY information at all. Sonic however, didn't like this idea.

"I still think we should stand up and fight those Devatrons!" yelled Sonic "Infiltrating them is a good idea but I don't think we should take no action against them whatsoever! I mean, what if we NEED to fight them and what if the infiltration plan doesn't work or…"

"Sonic, that is quite enough out of you young man." said Sally sternly "Nobody is to fight any of the Devatrons and that's all there is to it. We are to see if we can infiltrate the ship and see what information we can use against them. If anybody, that means you too Sonic, goes against our vote, then you will be arrested and put on trial and the jury will decide your fate. Is that clear?"

"Yes your majesty." said the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters.

"Good." said Sally grimly "This meeting is over."

With that said, everybody got up from their seats and left the council room, the Council of Acorn included. As the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters left the room, Sonic began grumbling to himself under his breath. He really didn't like the whole idea of doing the subtle approach and not taking action of any kind against the Devatrons, the whole idea just sounded bone idle to him but that was mainly due to the fact Sonic's a hands-on kind of person rather then a take it nice and slow kind of guy.

"Sonic sweetie, please stop grumbling." said Amy Rose with a voice of concern "I know you don't like the council's idea but we have to do as they say."

"I know Amy, I just hate it when the council thinks that not engaging the enemy is a good idea." muttered Sonic "Remember the time when they didn't want us to fight Shadow when he was evil? I still can't get over how stupid that idea was and now they think we shouldn't fight the Devatrons! True they are invulnerable but I'm willing to fight as hard as I can against them, regardless of how strong they are."

"But Sonic, if we can't even harm the Devatrons then how can we defeat them?" asked Knuckles the Echidna "The council's idea is a good one. Although it'd be better to have at least SOMEONE fighting the Devatrons. We should have someone keeping the Devatrons busy while the infiltrators do their work…"

"You know the council needs to reform when Knuckles' ideas are better then theirs!" snorted Sonic "Knuckles, your idea is much better then theirs. We could keep the Devatrons busy while the infiltrators do their stuff. Therefore, the Devatrons don't get to attack anybody or touch any places of residence and the infiltrators do their work without getting found out. I hope the council will consider that idea Knuckles."

"Well we need to wait until the next council meeting." said Geoffrey St. John "And that's not gonna be until maybe tomorrow or summet."

"Then we wait until then and we suggest Knuckles' idea to them." said Sonic "If they're not too stubborn to admit that their idea isn't as good as Knuckles' that is."

As the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters talked to each other, they failed to notice a shadowy robed figure sneaking out of the castle and towards Mobotropolis downhill…

Meanwhile on The Doombringer , Devion was doing some sword play with some of his soldiers in the training room of the colossal vessel. Even though they were robots, even a Devatron needed to train and keep active otherwise their servos wouldn't be in tip-top shape and their fighting skills would be sloppy. The Devatrons had lost a few of their soldiers already yesterday and Devion was not about to let any other Devatron lost their lives in this crusade. Not that it mattered given how the ship has a production line and Devion could just make more soldiers at the flick of a switch but Devion hated losing his soldiers, even a small number of them and he didn't want to have to resort to making new ones with his production line as it would make him look needy, desperate and helpless and that would ruin his insidious image and nefarious reputation. Devion removed his cape and drew out his golden sword and three Devatron soldiers who were training with him drew out a sword each. Their swords were made of chrome and they were silver in colour much like the Devatrons themselves. They were more standard looking then Devion's sword although the blade was broad near the hand guard of the sword. One Devatron soldier charged towards Devion with his sword raised above it's head. Devion just promptly lashed out with his sword and slashed the Devatron across the stomach. Given it's invulnerability though, the sword didn't damage it in anyway. It just made the Devatron flinch in pain and back off. Devion grabbed the Devatron's sword and yanked it out of it's head. He pushed the Devatron down and pinned it to the floor with both swords pressed against it's throat. Another Devatron lunged on Devion from behind and tried to attack him with it's sword but Devion heard it coming and he slashed at it with both swords. The Devatron was knocked off balance and it landed awkwardly on it's face. If that had happened to an organic being, chances are the impact would have broken it's neck. Devion gave the Devatron soldier his sword back and sheathed his own. The Devatron attacked Devion with it's sword but Devion grabbed the blade with his hands and threw it to the side, throwing the Devatron off balance and causing it to fall down onto the floor. The third Devatron tried to attack Devion but Devion kicked backwards and just as his foot hit the Devatron soldier in the gut, he flipped over, taking the Devatron with him and threw it down onto the floor ahead of him. The Devatron soldier groaned in pain and Devion decided to add insult to injury by kicking it again. Never show anyone any mercy, not even your own foot soldiers was the way Devion worked. The soldiers were lucky this was only a training match otherwise they'd be dead now. The other two Devatrons grabbed their swords and they tried to attack Devion but Devion deployed his arm cannons and blasted them both away. The two soldiers were thrown down onto their backs and Devion drew out his golden sword. He put his foot down on one soldier and pointed the sword straight at it's visor. The Devatron stared at the sword in fear and Devion narrowed his gaze at the helpless soldier.

"That was an abysmal performance you three." muttered Devion "Truly abysmal. Your main method of attack stems from charging at the opponent with the weapon raised above your head. Not a wise choice of attack. You shouldn't focus so heavily on your attacks and focus more on your battle skills. Remember my words of wisdom "To have great strength, one needs great skill to balance it out" my soldiers. The weapon is not the most important aspect of battle, it is the arm that wields it. I suggest you three get that message in your brain receptors or you'll all be scrap metal out there."

"Yes Devion." droned the soldiers.

Devion sheathed his sword and he let the soldier beneath him stand up again.

"Excellent." purred Devion "You three are excused from the training room now."

The Devatron soldiers bowed respectfully to their leader and they left the training room. Devion picked his cape back up and he reattached it to his shoulder. Devion left the training room and he went up to the cockpit of The Doombringer . Tronic and Raicor were waiting for him and the moment Devion entered the cockpit, they bowed to him respectfully.

"Lord Devion." droned Tronic loyally.

"At ease Tronic and Raicor." said Devion with the raise of a hand "Raicor, status report."

"All activity is quiet right now." reported Raicor "No Mobian resistance has been detected as of current and the dead Devatrons are being rebuilt and will be fully functional again some time soon."

"Thank you Raicor." said Devion, sitting down in his chrome throne and tapping the arms "I'm amazed how much spirit and valour those furry creatures have in them. The battle they put up yesterday was quite valiant. It's quite clear that Mobius definitely has more to offer for us then we initially thought. It's takeover will be a worthy one."

"What fate shall befall the Mobians when our takeover is complete?" asked Raicor.

"It depends on the Mobians themselves." said Devion coldly "If they do not abide to becoming slaves then we will just vanquish all of them. If they do then they will be spared. I do hope it'll be the latter as the Mobians are too worthy a race to destroy."

Then suddenly, Devion's crowing and gloating was cut off by an alarm blaring through The Doombringer . Devion began to wonder what the emergency was.

"Tronic! What is going on?" demanded Devion fiercely.

"Checking in now my lord." droned Tronic.

Tronic tapped on the keypad and peered at the screens as he began searching for what it was that set the alarm off. He soon found it. A mysterious robed and hooded figure stood outside The Doombringer and was waiting to be let in. A hover saucer was parked nearby, suggesting he had used it to travel here. Tronic activated the ship's scans to see what it was. The scans registered it as "Mobian" meaning they had a Mobian intruder in their territory.

"Scans confirm Mobian intruder outside The Doombringer ." droned Tronic "The Mobian is alone though so it cannot be here under hostile intentions."

Devion put a clawed finger to his beak and scratched it in thought.

"Why would those foolish furry creatures come to us alone?" he wondered "I must investigate on this mysterious situation. Raicor, you keep the ship running."

"Yes Devion." said Raicor.

Devion got up from his throne and he wondered out of the cockpit to deal with the mystery intruder. Raicor took Devion's place and sat in the throne so he could keep the ship running. Devion went down to the lower areas of the ship and he opened the cargo doors so he could step outside The Doombringer and confront this intruder. A docking ramp lowered down to the ground and Devion walked down it. The robed figure was beside the ramp and Devion strode up to it. The figure stepped backwards a little fearfully. Devion glowered at the figure with his V-shaped visor. The look he had could paralyze somebody in a similar fashion to Medusa turning someone to stone with her killer stare.

"Why do you curse my territory with your presence here lone one?" snarled Devion "You have a death wish if you think that you alone can get me to remove myself and my army off your accursed planet!"

"P-P-Please D-Devion." stammered the figure "I come here under peaceful terms. I-I have no intentions of the hostile kind at all."

"That already makes you the smartest Mobian I've seen so far on this planet." muttered Devion "So if you are not here to hinder me in anyway then what is the reason for your unwanted presence here then?"

"I come here to wager an alliance." said the figure "You see, I'm sick of the way I'm treated amongst my people so I wish to get my own back on those idiots who don't appreciate me at all."

Devion thought for a moment. A poor soul who's unappreciated and treated unfairly comes to him proposing an alliance? He must be desperate if he's coming to the one who threatens Mobius' peace and freedom. Devion could do with an alliance like this. It could help him dearly.

"You proposal is noted." said Devion "But give me a reason as to why I should accept it."

"Because I have valuable information." said the figure "Information that'll ensure your victory over the Royal Fighters."

"Information?" purred Devion "I like the sound of that. Speak on."

"The Council of Acorn proposed that the Royal Fighters take no action against you all and instead will try to infiltrate you from the shadows." explained the figure "Sonic doesn't like the idea though and if he we can get him to fight you, everybody will think he's rebelled against the council's wishes and he will get arrested and charged."

"That is a brilliant idea." Devion complimented "Frame the hero of this planet for treason and while they're busy chastising him, we can attack them and they will not be prepared for us because they're going to be distracted by a crime that Sonic hasn't committed under his own will."

"That's the idea." said the figure "I can tell you where Sonic and friends all live too. They live in a city called New Mobotropolis and if you bring that ship of yours, you can level the city while they're shooting Sonic down in court."

"Indeed." said Devion "So I can find the city though, I wish for you to wear this tracking beacon,"

He paused for a moment and he reached into his cloak pocket and pulled out a tracking beacon. He gave it to the figure and the figure took it and hid it in his robe pocket.

"Do not activate the beacon until Sonic is on trial." said Devion sternly "The beacon will display your coordinates to us and we will find this "New Mobotropolis" and tear it to the ground. Or even better, kick the Mobians out and take it for ourselves just to dampen their spirit and valour and maybe even their hopes."

"That would be the better option Devion." said the figure "Make the heroes suffer by taking their city and dampen their spirits. I'm gonna enjoy seeing the people of New Mobotropolis suffer for the way they dare to treat me."

"I admire your ambitions mystery Mobian." said Devion "And I like where this alliance will be heading. I accept your alliance without second thought."

Devion and the figure shook hands with one another and concluded business. The alliance was made and the two of them would benefit most nicely from it. Very nicely indeed.

"So how do you intend to get Sonic to come over to The Doombringer ?" asked Devion "The hedgehog will likely be unwilling to break the council's rules."

"I'll trick him." said the figure "I'm going to steal the warp ring they have and trick Sonic into running through it and into your ship. Once he arrives, you can engage him in battle and once the Royal Fighters realize he's gone, they'll come over here looking for him as there's nowhere else he'd probably be at. Since Sonic didn't like the council's idea, the queen's first instincts will be he's fighting you and going against the council's vote."

"Proves how flaccid they are in the brain department." muttered Devion "Jumping to conclusions like that and assuming one thing because of another. Are you Mobians usually like that?"

"Yes." said the figure "Sonic and his friend Tails were once framed for robbery and everybody believed that Sonic had actually done it so they'll easily fall for this trick of ours."

"Sounds to me like you Mobians have courage and special abilities but no common sense." crowed Devion "This takeover will be easier then I thought."

He and the figure began to cackle at each other as they pictured Sonic behind bars and New Mobotropolis being under Devatron control…

Back at New Mobotropolis, Sonic was having a conversation with his good friend Miranda Mongoose, leader of the Northern Royal Fighters. Given how the Devatron threat was big enough to need all the groups at once, the other groups were still here to aid the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters in this big battle of theirs.

"So how's the ol' team shaping up then Miranda?" asked Sonic.

"We've been just fine since we last met thank you Sonic." said Miranda "Kari's still as helpful as ever, Kate's still going strong and Thunder and Bolt are still Thunder and Bolt. It was so nice of you to ask though young man."

"You're welcome." said Sonic "By the way, you heard what the council's just decided on?"

"The whole service knows what the council's just decided on." said Miranda "Queen Sally told us all. We're not to engage the enemy and instead, everybody will work on infiltration instead of the direct approach. I personally think the idea has merit but I don't think we shouldn't not fight them at all. Those Devatrons might attack and we will HAVE to fight them."

"I know." muttered Sonic "Knuckles came up with a much better idea though. Someone should fight the Devatrons and keep them occupied while the guys doing the sabotaging work do their stuff. Wouldn't that be better? The Devatrons don't get to attack anybody or anything and the infiltrators won't like get caught or something and they won't know what's hit them?"

"That idea is indeed a brilliant one." said Miranda "Knuckles clearly has more brains then he seems to have. Whether the council will approve or not remains to be seen but I bet they'll like it much better then their other proposal."

"I know they will." said Sonic snidely "It's too good an idea to pass up. I just hope the Devatrons aren't doing anything right now or I will be furious."

"If those Devatrons are doing something then Sally will likely dispatch any willing saboteurs to get the information we need to counter-attack those vicious chrome monsters." Miranda suggested although she herself wasn't entirely sure on how this whole thing was going to play out should the Devatrons attack again "Until the Devatrons attack, we can't really guess how things will play out."

"Although it sure would be nice if it was us launching the first blow instead of us waiting for the Devatrons to attack first." muttered Sonic "But hey, if we're lucky we can sabotage the Devatrons before they even leave their ship."

"Yes, maybe we will." said Miranda "Now if you'll excuse me, I've got to get back to my team members."

With that said, Miranda and Sonic gave each other a friendly hug and Miranda left to see how her team was getting on. Sonic waved Miranda goodbye and he wondered off through the city with no particular place in mind. He just wanted a wander around to keep his mind off the Devatrons and the council's decision. He couldn't stop thinking about how beautiful New Mobotropolis looked and how worthy a replacement it was for the original Mobotropolis. He really did admire the look of the new city. Just a pity he never really had the time to settle down and get used to it given how fate keeps throwing things at him like a caveman throwing rocks at a trapped woolly mammoth. What Sonic wouldn't give to have a moment to settle down and get used to his new home but given current events, that would have to wait. All this really did bring a new meaning to the phrase "No rest for the weary".

"Eh, the Devatrons maybe threatening Mobius' freedom but they'll never get this place." said Sonic "Given how it has a shield and everything. They won't be able to lay a claw on New Mobotropolis when they attack. If only all the other places were as fortunate to have defence systems like ours and then the Devatrons wouldn't be able to attack any city at all."

As Sonic wondered around the city, the robed figure that had met up with Devion and made the alliance with him poked his head around the corner of a nearby building and watched Sonic wonder around aimlessly. If the figure's hood wasn't concealing his identity then you could probably see some kind of evil smirk on his face. After meeting up with Devion, the figure had returned home in his hover saucer and after returning home, he stole Knuckles' warp ring and now he was going to use it to send Sonic over to The Doombringer and frame the hedgehog for treason. The figure sneaked up to Sonic as quietly as he could, making sure to keep a low profile and that Sonic couldn't hear him. It seemed to be working because Sonic continued walking on and didn't show any signs of being aware he was being followed. The figure was doing an excellent job of sneaking up on him quietly after all. I doubt even someone with hearing as good as Rouge the Bat would have heard him. The figure then flicked the warp ring into the air and the ring spiralled over Sonic's head and landed in front of him. The warp ring expanded up to size and Sonic stopped dead in his tracks at the sight of the warp ring.

"Huh?" said Sonic confusedly "Where did the warp ring come from?"

Before Sonic could do anything else, the figure pushed him straight through the warp ring. Sonic went straight through the warp ring and vanished from sight. The warp ring shrunk down into nothingness and vanished into thin air. Sonic was on his way to The Doombringer now and Devion would be waiting for him. The figure snickered to himself and ran off as fast as he could.

"The plan is in motion!" the figure said with glee "Sonic's gonna be framed and I'm gonna get my revenge! This is going to be a good day for me, it really is!"

The figure could just see Sonic in court right now…

The warp ring opened up and Sonic flew straight out of it. He landed on his face and skidded across the shiny chrome floors of The Doombringer . Sonic groaned like a ghoul and he picked himself up, wondering what had just happened to him. The warp ring closed up and it fell to the floor with a ping. Sonic looked around and realized that he was no longer in New Mobotropolis. He was in a shiny chrome room but he had no idea where this room was.

"Where am I?" asked Sonic, rubbing his face better and surveying his surroundings "And why did a warp ring just open up randomly in front of me? And why did someone push me through it? And why did it bring me here? Did the guy who pushed me through it use the warp ring? If so then why did the guy make the warp ring bring me here?"

"I can answer all of your questions hedgehog." droned a spine-chilling voice that made Sonic's skin crawl.

Sonic knew that voice. It was Devion's voice! Sonic suddenly worked out where he was. He was on The Doombringer ! The guy who pushed him through the warp ring was obviously intending to get him killed or something! Sonic braced himself for an inevitable attack and looked around, wondering where Devion was. Devion emerged from a shadowy corner of the room he was in and he glowered at Sonic with his red V-shaped visor. Sonic glared back at Devion and he gritted his teeth.

"You!" cried Sonic "I didn't think I'd be seeing you again so quickly Devion! Now can you explain to me why somebody used a warp ring to bring me onto your ship?"

"Certainly hedgehog." purred Devion "One of your own has turned traitor and has brought you over to The Doombringer so I may eliminate you. Such a shame for you isn't it? One of your own decides to aid me in my conquest."

Sonic thought his heart was going to leap up into his throat and fall back down into his chest again. A traitor? A traitor amongst the Royal Fighters? Or a traitor among something else helping the Devatrons? How dare that person! Once Sonic found out who this mystery traitor was, he was going to spin-dash him into a pulp a dozen times over!

"One of my own has turned traitor?" asked Sonic nervously "Who?"

"I do not know." said Devion "The Mobian was dressed in a hooded robe to conceal his identity so whom this traitor among you is, is a mystery to even me. I doubt it'll be any of your Royal Fighter friends given how they all fought against me and my soldiers. It must be one of the lesser, more cowardly Mobians. It might even be somebody you don't know so I wouldn't worry too much about it. Now my agent has brought you here, I can eliminate you and lower the hopes of Mobians everywhere."

"In your dreams Devion!" yelled Sonic determinedly "I'm the fastest thing alive and I smash many a robot in my time! True you maybe nigh-invulnerable but I bet if I keep spin-dashing you I'll maybe penetrate you eventually. You're only "nigh-invulnerable" so that means there's some chance of damaging you."

"The last time I was damaged in battle Sonic, it took fifty men all armed with machine guns to put so much as a dent on me." sneered Devion "I doubt your spin-dashes will get through to me no matter how many times you hit me."

"Wanna put that to the test chrome-dome?" sneered Sonic.

Devion's response was to deploy his arm cannons and shoot at Sonic. Sonic dodged the blasts with ease and the blasts did nothing more then scorch the floor.

"Ha! Missed me!" jeered Sonic.

Devion blasted at Sonic again but Sonic effortlessly dodged the attacks given his trademark speed once again.

"Oh, so close but you still missed!" taunted Sonic.

Devion blasted at Sonic again but Sonic dodged the blasts with ease and stuck his tongue out at Devion.

"Three strikes and you're out!" snickered Sonic.

Devion could see what Sonic was up to. He was relying on mid-battle banter to annoy him and make him lose focus while Sonic remained cool and collected. Devion had fallen for that trick before and he was not falling for it again. So instead of shooting at Sonic again, Devion put his arm cannons away and instead decided to rely on his fists. Devion charged towards Sonic and he tried to punch the hedgehog but Sonic moved out of Devion's way and dropkicked him in the shoulder. Devion swatted at Sonic but he missed and Sonic rammed Devion in the gut. Devion kneed Sonic and then elbow-thrusted him on the head. Sonic went all dopey for a split-second and Devion back-handed him directly into a wall. Sonic crashed slap-bang into the wall and he slid down the wall and onto the floor, wondering which way was up. Sonic picked himself up and tried to regain his senses but Devion ran up to him and punched him in the face and since he was so close to the wall, Devion ended up punching Sonic's head into the wall. Being slammed into a wall was painful enough but being punched in the face and slammed into a wall both at once was extreme pain. Devion grabbed Sonic's face and hoisted him off the floor. Sonic made muffled noises and he struggled in Devion's grasp. Devion slammed him against the wall again and then he threw Sonic across the room. If Devion wasn't sticking to the plan, he would have just drawn his sword and killed Sonic already but he had to leave Sonic alive so that the Council of Acorn could put him on trial and then he could attack them while they were distracted. Sonic picked himself up and he rubbed his aching body. Never before had he experienced so much pain from a robot before. Eggman's robots were pretty serious but Devion was just downright demonic. Devion ran up to Sonic and he attempted to grab him but Sonic spin-dashed Devion and the hedgehog ricocheted off of his tough armour. Devion staggered backwards but he regained himself and he braced himself for another attack from Sonic. Sonic spin-dashed Devion again but his attack did nothing to him other then make him stagger. Sonic bounced off of a wall and spin-dashed Devion again but Devion was ready for it and he held his arms up so the hedgehog's attack didn't even make him stagger as he ricocheted off of the invulnerable robot. Sonic skidded across the floor on his feet and he ground to a halt, panting and frowning at Devion.

"You know what Devion I'll give you credit." said Sonic "Of all the foes I've ever faced in my life, you're the only one I have to worry about."

"What an honouree comment that is, I appreciate your compliment." sneered Devion "Being the only villain that you outright fear is quite an accomplishment for me."

"I don't fear you Devion but you're one I have to worry about due to your nigh-invulnerability." retorted Sonic "But not even you can lower my self-esteem! I'll beat you even if I take a million years to finally beat you!"

"How tiresome your quotes of valour and banter are quickly becoming." fumed Devion "Will you cease the unnecessary mid-battle banter and just fight already?"

"Fine then." said Sonic "We shall fight in silence."

With that said, Sonic propelled himself towards Devion but Devion raised his foot and Sonic hit it. Devion flipped himself up and over with Sonic on his foot and he threw Sonic over himself and across the room as he flipped over. Sonic crashed into the wall again and he fell with a heavy thunk onto the floor. If Sonic wasn't so strong and full of Chaos Energy that gave him a body greater then that of the average Mobian then Sonic would likely have broken some bones after falling down onto the floor. Sonic pushed himself up onto his knees and he grunted in pain.

"Urgh! I'm gonna feel really sore tomorrow!" muttered Sonic "Devion's freaking lethal!"

Devion charged up to Sonic and tired to attack him again but Sonic kicked him in the leg and tripped him up. Devion landed on the floor and his beak ended up embedding itself into it. Devion pulled himself free but Sonic jumped on his back and knocked him back down onto his stomach. Sonic grabbed Devion's cloak and he pulled it over his head again, blinding Devion for a moment. Devion took the cloak off of his head so he could see again and he removed the cloak so Sonic couldn't do it again. Devion elbowed Sonic off of himself and Sonic landed heavily down onto the floor. Devion picked himself up, grabbed Sonic's ankles and threw him into a wall. Sonic hit the wall and he lay against it in pain. Sonic then noticed the warp ring that had brought him here and he tried to grab it so he could use it to escape but Devion shot the warp ring with his arm cannon and destroyed it. Sonic gasped in horror at the destroyed warp ring and he looked up at Devion as the Devatron leader advanced on him.

"You're not going anywhere hedgehog." snarled Devion "This fight finishes and that's the end of it. Pity I had to destroy your warp ring device, it could have been useful to me."

"Well Devion, if you want this match to be a match to the death then I'll happily play it." said Sonic "You'll only regret it when I spin-dash your chrome backside to bits, once I finally penetrate you that is."

Sonic then charged at Devion and stepped on his head. He bounced off Devion and landed behind him. Sonic then spin-dashed Devion and slammed him against the wall. Devion retaliated with a furious swipe that sent Sonic hurling across the room and he skidded roughly across the floor. The skid left Sonic with a serious red scrape burn on his cheek that looked painful even to the touch. Sonic only just managed to stand back up but Devion pile-dived him and brought him down again. Devion picked Sonic up and slammed him down on his knee, making the hedgehog gasp in pain.

"It's amazing you're able to deal with this much punishment." Devion analyzed "Anyone in your position would have been broken by now."

"I've used magical rings and Chaos Emeralds over time and they supply me with a tiny bit of energy that strengthens my body and makes me more endurable." explained Sonic "So that means you get to toy with me a lot more before I'm finally down."

"You really are a fascinating warrior hedgehog." Devion complimented "It's just a pity I have to kill you."

Devion slammed Sonic down on the floor and then kicked him as hard as he could. Sonic rolled across the floor and Devion was about to stomp on him but Sonic rolled out Devion's way and Sonic pile-dived him down onto the floor. As he knocked Devion down, he began hoping that someone would come here and help him escape from this ship before Devion killed him or seriously injured him…

Meanwhile at Royal HQ, Tails walked into the rest room where all the others were sitting around relaxing as they had nothing to do right now. He had been looking for Sonic and he was wondering if they had seen him anywhere.

"Hey guys, any of you seen Sonic?" asked Tails.

"Sorry bud but I haven't seen him since the council meeting was over." said Knuckles.

"I ain't seen him either mate." said Geoffrey.

"I'm sure he's around here somewhere." said Amy "You'll just have to keep looking for him. Heck, I'll help you look for him if you want."

"Thanks Amy." said Tails as Amy got up to join Tails in his search for Sonic.

"What are you looking for Sonic for anyway?" asked Amy.

"It's just I haven't seen him since the council's meeting was over and I'm wondering how he is." said Tails "That combined with the fact he feels sore over the council's decision is worrying me a little."

"Oh Tails I'm sure he's fine." said Amy reassuringly "Sonic's probably trying to occupy himself since we haven't got anything to do right now. But let's look for him and see if we can find out what Sonic's up to."

"You know, if you want to find him any quicker mates, you can just use the computers in the lab and track him down that way." said Geoffrey "It'll save all the hassle and you get to find him faster."

"OK Mr. St. John, I'll find him by using the lab's computers." said Tails "Thanks for the suggestion."

With that said, Tails and Amy exited the rest room and they wandered over into the lab, Tails' favourite room in the entire base. Tails sat down to the computer and he tapped some keys on the keyboard. He ordered the computer to track Sonic's current location. Hi-tech computers like these were excellent for pin-pointing someone's exact coordinates. Tails tapped on some more keys and then waited to see what results the computers would give him. The screen flickered for a moment and then it displayed Sonic's current coordinates. A blue dot on the screen represented Sonic and his surroundings were displayed in green. The result made Tails and Amy's blood run cold.

"Oh my gosh! He's in Megapolis and he's on Devion's ship!" screeched Tails.

"What the heck is he doing over there?" exclaimed Amy "Didn't the council say we can't fight the Devatrons? Why is Sonic doing this?"

"I dunno." said Tails "It seems out of the ordinary for Sonic to willingly commit treason like this. We've gotta get him back and fast before the Devatrons kill him!"

So Tails and Amy jolted out of the lab and ran back into the rest room. Everybody could see they didn't have good news for them given their worried expressions on their faces.

"Everybody! You won't believe this!" cried Tails "Sonic's over at Megapolis and he's on Devion's ship!"

"Say what?" blurted Knuckles in surprise, nearly falling off the sofa as he did so.

"Oh mah stars!" cried Bunnie "What's sugah-hog doin' over at Devion's ship? Is he tryin' to git himself killed?"

"Not only that, he's committing treason too!" grumbled Geoffrey "The council clearly voted no action to be taken against the Devatrons and Sonic goes and takes action against them anyway!"

"That doesn't sound like Sonic to me." said Ruben the Water Panther "Sonic's not the kind of guy who'd willingly commit treason just so he can do what he likes."

"Well whatever's happening, we need to get him back and fast!" declared Knuckles, reaching into his dreadlocks to get the warp ring they'd been using "I'll just use my warp ring and…"

But to the echidna's horror, the warp ring wasn't in his dreadlocks! It was gone! Knuckles searched frantically, flicking his dreadlocks about and jumping up and down to see if it would fall out but he found nothing.

"My warp ring's gone!" cried Knuckles "Sonic must have it! He must have stolen my warp ring without me knowing about it and then used it to go over to Devion's ship so he can face him!"

"But why would Sonic do something as nuts as that?" asked Wilson the Dog "Sonic maybe reckless but he's not gormless. He knows he can't beat the Devatrons on his own. Heck, Devion beat him yesterday so Sonic wouldn't dare do something as stupid as that since he knows he can't win!

"Something doesn't sound right here." muttered Mandy Mouse "Sonic went over to meet Miranda Mongoose and we went over to the rest room of Royal HQ. How could he have stolen the warp ring if we didn't even go to the same room together?"

"He probably swiped it before we went to the rest room while we weren't looking." suggested Shade the Echidna "Sonic is fast so he could easily steal a warp ring without any of us looking or noticing."

"But Mr. Sonic would never steal from his own friends." said Cream the Rabbit "I know he wouldn't! Sonic's a good person, he'd never steal things that don't belong to him!"

"I agree with Cream." said Cosmo "Sonic wouldn't steal things from his own friends. But regardless, we have to get him back home before the Devatrons kill him. Hopefully he can explain everything to us when he gets back."

"I hope he can!" growled Knuckles "Nobody takes my warp rings and uses them for stupid purposes under my watch! I wouldn't be too surprised if Devion has it already and is going to use it against us!"

"Knuckles, we don't know if Sonic DID steal the warp ring or not." noted Tails "So don't just assume that he stole it, we don't know the full details yet."

"Let's stop standing around doing nothing and save blue dude's backside from those Deva-freaks already!" yelled Mandy crossly "He's probably getting his speedy backside handed to him right now!"

"I concur with my wife there." said Wilson with a grin on his face "Let's go already!"

"But how are we quickly gonna get over to Megapolis without the warp ring?" asked Cosmo "We can't run fast like Sonic does, we don't have the Chaos Emeralds to do Chaos Control with as Devion has them and they're power drained so we can't use them anyway and we don't have any other warp rings."

"I'll take my car although it can only fit five people in it." said Mandy "The rest will have to take hover saucers from the Royal Fighter hangar."

"Me, Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream and Cosmo will use the saucer." said Tails "You, Wilson, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben can use your car Mandy."

"Sounds good to me." said Mandy "Let's get going and get Sonic back over here and grill him on what's going on."

With that said, the Royal Fighters ran out of Royal HQ and headed outside towards the Royal Fighter Hangar to get the respective vehicles. As they did so, Tails began hoping that things weren't what they seemed right now as the very idea of Sonic committing treason just didn't sound right to him…

Back on The Doombringer , Sonic and Devion's fight continued to get more and more hectic by the second. Devion was still on top of this match and as the fight progressed, Sonic began to tire down and his attacks became weaker. After all, Devion's stamina matched his invulnerability and since Sonic couldn't damage Devion, he couldn't weaken Devion and get on top of him. Sonic spin-dashed at Devion but given how Sonic was faltering, the attack was only half as good as it usually was and it didn't even make Devion stagger. Devion cackled at Sonic and he drew out his golden sword. Since Sonic was slowing down, he might have an easier chance of catching him and slicing him to pieces with his sword. Devion charged up to Sonic and he tried to cleave Sonic in two with his sword. Sonic jumped over the sword and Devion missed. Sonic kicked Devion in the beak and made the Devatron leader flinch. Devion retaliated furiously with a slash of the sword. He managed to nick Sonic across the arm and Sonic screamed in pain. The cut on his arm began trickling with blood and it began stinging like crazy. But Sonic wasn't going to let a mere cut on his arm bring him down so he continued his fight. Sonic spin-dashed Devion from behind and Devion found himself being thrown forward onto his hands and Sonic then ran off to the other side of the room. There was a door at either end of the room and they were both locked. Sonic tried to spin-dash the door down but he wasn't at his strongest and the doors were pretty tough so his attack failed. Devion ran up to Sonic and slashed him across the eye with his sword. Sonic clutched his eye and let out a terrible cry of anguish as he felt the long thin cut across his eye. That cut would later became a faint scar once it healed. Devion wasn't finished yet though. He slashed at Sonic and nicked him across the cheek with the sword. He didn't aim for any of Sonic's vital points as he wasn't supposed to kill him but he didn't hold back on his attacks as that would make Sonic suspicious and it would make this fight seem more real and not just part of the ruse. Sonic backed against the wall and stared up at Devion as the Devatron leader prepared to cleave Sonic in two. He pointed the sword at Sonic and the hedgehog found himself shivering.

"Now then Hero of Mobius, given my rare moments of generosity, I'm going to let you decide how I kill you." said Devion "Should I just slit your throat and finish you off already? Or should I take the more painful approach? Maybe carve out your heart and show it to you as you die? Or maybe plunge my sword into your stomach and let you slowly bleed to death so you suffer more?"

"If I'm to die at all Devion." said Sonic, wiping away the blood from the cut on his cheek "It'd be peacefully in my sleep. I'm not dieing at your hands you chrome-plated monster!"

With that said, Sonic ducked down and he rolled out from between Devion and the wall. Devion tried to slice Sonic in two as he rolled away but he was a fraction too late and he just nicked Sonic on his fur. The attack didn't harm Sonic at all and the hedgehog picked himself up, ignoring the stinging pain in his arm and eye. The cuts had stopped bleeding but they were still stinging irritably. Devion fumed at Sonic and he slashed at him again with the sword. Sonic back flipped away from Devion and then spin-dashed towards him. He hit Devion in the gut and slammed him against the wall, causing him to drop his sword and before Devion could pick it up, Sonic grabbed it and tried to attack him with it. Devion raised his arm up and Sonic hit it with the sword. The sword didn't do any damage and Devion whacked it out of Sonic's hand. The sword spun across the floor and hit the wall. Sonic and Devion decided that the sword wasn't really worth fighting over so they left it and continued to fight each other.

Outside The Doombringer , Sonic's friends all arrived at Megapolis and they pulled up to the side of The Doombringer . What a sight it was for them and how huge it looked up close. Mandy, Wilson, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben got out of the hover car and Geoffrey primed his trademark arm mounted crossbow. He aimed it at the ship and he fired ten exploding darts into it. The Mobians all took shelter behind their vehicles and Geoffrey activated the darts. The darts all exploded at once and they blew a hole in The Doombringer 's armour. It was only a small hole that wouldn't effect the ship in anyway, even if it was in flight but the Mobians were only blowing a hole in it so they could get into the ship, they weren't damaging it to hinder the Devatrons. As the darts exploded, Devion and Sonic stopped their battle and Sonic instantly ran for it. The battle was going to end badly for him anyway so he may as well flee for his live and fight again another day. Devion had an idea on what was happening. Sonic's friends had come over to save him but in order to keep up the pretence, he pretended to chase after Sonic. He ran after him as fast as he could but Sonic was way too fast for even someone as powerful as him so Sonic managed to get away nice and quickly. Sonic leaped through the hole in the wall and he landed before his friends. He stared in surprise at the fact his friends were here but he smiled graciously at them.

"Hey everybody, you've come to get me!" cried Sonic "Thanks everybody!"

"I wouldn't say thanks mate." said Geoffrey "We've come to save you and bring you back home so we can grill you on what's been going on."

"Huh? Wha?" asked Sonic, confused on what the skunk meant.

"We found out via Royal HQ's computer monitors that you've gone over to Megapolis." explained Tails "And you're on Devion's ship and fighting him which is what we were told NOT to do."

"In other words, we think that you're committing treason Sonic!" growled Knuckles "And another thing! My warp ring's gone and I bet you have it don't you? You stole my warp ring and used it to get over here didn't you?"

"Guys, wait please!" cried Sonic, waving his hands hastily "I can explain everything! Honest!"

"We know ya'll can sugah-hog." said Bunnie "But we need to get ya'll home so that ya'll can clear things up with us and everybody and prove yer not guilty. Ah for one know ya'll ain't."

"I concur with Bunnie." said Ruben "I believe all this was a set up."

"It was." said Sonic "I'll explain everything when we get back, I promise you. I can get this all cleared up."

"We know you can." said Tails "We can count on you to tell the truth. Let's hope everybody believes you though."

With that said, Sonic joined Tails and his group in the hover saucer while Mandy's group got back into her car and the two vehicles started up and zoomed off back to New Mobotropolis. Devion watched the Royal Fighters flee for their lives and bring Sonic home where he was going to be grilled about current events and hopefully, prove himself innocent.

"So now the heroes flee back to their city to test Sonic on the truth." crooned Devion "The plan is in motion and my agent can now reveal to me New Mobotropolis' location. I look forward to taking over the city and kicking the heroes out of it so that I may dampen their hopes and overbearing valour and spirit. This agent of mine has really been a big help to me and it's thanks to him that my conquest shall begin…"

He began cackling to himself as he picture New Mobotropolis under his rule in his evil head. No matter how the trial turned out, nobody wins as Devion will get New Mobotropolis and the Mobians would be forced out of hiding and be vulnerable for the dastardly Devatrons…

Well, this isn't going to go down well! Sonic's being grilled and Devion's anonymous agent is poised to strike! Will this plan succeed and can Sonic prove himself not guilty in time to take down the Devatrons? Stay tuned for the next part of this lengthy saga!

So Chaos Kai X, is this story still holding out for ya? I'm curious to know what you think of it currently.

P.S. I was a little dissatisfied with the original chapter so I re-wrote it and re-uploaded it. Is this version better?

Heroes and Treason Part 2

Story 102: Heroes and Treason Part 2: The Trial of Sonic the Hedgehog

The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had returned to New Mobotropolis and they took Sonic the Hedgehog back to Royal HQ. After arriving back home with Sonic, the Royal Fighters explained everything to Queen Sally Acorn and the squirrel queen wasn't pleased to find out what had happened so she decided to put Sonic on trial and see if he was guilty or not. Sonic had desperately tried to explain himself but Sally refused to listen and told him to just save it for the court. She wasn't in a listening mood right now as she was so mad at the very though of Sonic disobeying the council again. Sonic didn't really mind as he knew he had a perfect explanation for everything and the court would see him as not guilty. The trial didn't start until tomorrow though so Sonic and friends had to wait in Royal HQ until then. Everybody gathered together into the rest room and waited for Sonic to explain everything to them. Sonic bandaged up his cut arm and put a plaster on the cut on his cheek and he spoke to his friends.

"So, if I've gathered correctly, you think that I stole Knuckles' warp ring and used it to go over to The Doombringer and face Devion and therefore, go against the council's vote and commit treason?" asked Sonic.

"Yes." said Tails the twin-tailed fox.

"Well guys, I'm afraid you've got it all wrong." said Sonic "I had just had a conversation with Miranda Mongoose and I was wondering around Mobotropolis, trying to keep my mind off the Devatrons and then a warp ring appeared straight in front of me and something or someone pushed me straight through it. Honestly guys, that's how it happened."

"It is?" said Tails "Thank goodness, and here's me foolishly thinking you'd gone the bone idle route for a minute there! At least we can safely say you're not guilty."

"Wrong actually Tails." said Geoffrey St. John the Skunk "Sonic mate, how do we know that you're telling the truth? I mean a warp ring can't just appear from nowhere and who in their right mind would use a warp ring and send you over to Devion's ship? Everybody in the city loves you, they wouldn't be trying to kill you mate!"

"Well there's obviously one person who doesn't like me." muttered Sonic "Because I was pushed through a warp ring sent over to The Doombringer . Either someone's double-crossing us or there's one of my enemies working for them and trying to get me killed by them. I wouldn't be surprised if Dr. Eggman or Marik the Martian were working with Devion. Scourge, he'd probably make an alliance with him just so he can beat me and then he'd try and stab Devion in the back afterwards. Either way, someone's working for the Devatrons."

"Sonic, you may have been pushed through the warp ring but that doesn't necessarily mean someone deliberately did it." said Wilson the Dog, recently wed Royal Fighter "Someone might have done it by accident or maybe you were pushed through by something rather then someone."

"Accidents may happen but I don't think the warp ring was there by accident." noted Mandy Mouse, Wilson's wife "Warp rings don't just appear, someone has to have activated it so I don't think Sonic was pushed through the warp ring and sent over to The Doombringer by accident I mean, who would do something as bone-headed as that?"

"I think the whole thing was a set-up." said Ruben the Water Panther, whom unfortunately is still missing his aqua-collar "Someone's obviously trying to kill Sonic and at the same time, is making it look like he's committing treason. The person doing this probably didn't wager on Sonic getting saved and was probably trying the former rather then the latter. Either way, he's almost succeeded on both grounds."

"Yeah, Devion almost killed me and you all believed for a minute I was committing treason." said Sonic grumpily "Whoever it is that's shoved me through a warp ring is gonna pay for it big time! Speaking of the warp ring, I'm sorry to announce that Devion's destroyed it. I tried to use it to get back here but he shot it and destroyed it before I could use it."

Knuckles was not pleased to hear this at all. He was so furious, his face went a very dark red, darker then the rest of his body.

"Well, whoever it was that shoved you through my warp ring is gonna get a nice helping heaping of my spiked knuckles now!" he growled "That was the only warp ring I had left on Angel Island and now it's gone! We can't use it anymore now!"

"I know, and warp rings are helpful." muttered Sonic "I'm glad you all believe that I'm not guilty by the way. You guys really are good friends. I just hope the court will be merciful and willing to believe me."

"Of course they will Sonic sweetie." said Amy Rose reassuringly, hugging Sonic lovingly and making Sonic groan "You're the hero of Mobius, why would they have a hard time believing you?"

"Because I've had a history of disobeying the council's orders so they might not be so willing to listen to me." muttered Sonic "Most times I've disobeyed the council, I've gotten away with it because I was in the right. Others, I got strikes against me and if the council finds me guilty this time then I'm off to prison. If you have more then five strikes against you, it's four months in prison for you. I already have four strikes against me, if I don't pull through this one then the Hero of Mobius will have to be out of action for a while."

"If the council declares you guilty then that'll make them the biggest band of dumbasses in New Mobotropolis." grumbled Mandy "If you're locked up then who's gonna save everybody from the Devatrons?"

"Precisely." said Sonic crossly "So I have to win this case or I'm toast!"

"I hope I'm not offending you Sonic but, your government isn't a very strong one is it?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian.

"You're too right on that Cosmo." said Sonic "The Council of Acorn are pretty stupid. If they declare me guilty then I'll officially lose all respect I had for them."

"In order to make sure you do win, I suggest that you get a defendant who knows you're innocent and knows how to argue against the Council of Acorn and beat them." said Mandy with a sly grin on her face and the wink of an eye.

"I like that idea Mandy." said Sonic brightly "And since you've had a history of arguing with the council and beating them, I think you can be my defendant in this trial. I can count on you to prove me innocent."

"Blue dude, you've made the right choice." said Mandy, stroking Sonic's head playfully "With me as defendant, you're as good as saved out there."

Sonic laughed as Mandy ruffled his fur and he couldn't help but agree with Mandy. The mouse was going to be a brilliant defendant for him and this trial was going to go perfectly in his favour…

The next day arrived and over in Megapolis, The Doombringer was receiving a message from someone. The message was coming from Devion's agent, the very person who set up this whole conspiracy and Devion entered the cockpit to see what the message was. The message was a set of coordinates displaying the agent's current location. The coordinates were displayed on The Doombringer 's main computer monitors and they showed Devion that the agent's current location was in New Mobotropolis, the very city that Sonic and friends resided in and the very city Devion had to capture. Devion sat down in his throne and surveyed the screens that displayed his agent's current coordinates. This meant to him the agent had activated the tracking beacon he'd given to him yesterday. Devion cackled to himself, pleased to see that his agent had just given him the location of New Mobotropolis. Now his takeover could begin.

"The agent's tracking beacon is on." said Devion "And according to the beacon's location, New Mobotropolis is approximately sixty miles away from our current position and is to the north-west of where we are. Excellent, now the takeover can commence. I can just imagine the Mobian's expressions when I enter their city and take it for my own."

"Once we take over New Mobotropolis Devion, what do you suppose we should do with the agent?" asked his second in command Raicor "Should we keep him for further use or just get rid of him?"

"We shall keep the agent until his usefulness value expires and then he can join the other Mobians in extinction." purred Devion "Why keep an agent if he's of no use to you? I have nothing to offer him and he offers nothing to me so once he's fulfilled his usefulness quota, he will be exterminated."

Devion rotated his throne around and he face his loyal servant Tronic, who was waiting for Devion to give him orders.

"Tronic, upload the agent's displayed coordinates into The Doombringer 's navigational systems." ordered Devion "And then take off. We're going to pay our new enemies a visit."

"At once oh glorious master Devion." droned Tronic (Like I said, he's one loyal sod!).

Tronic tapped some keys on the control pad and uploaded the agent's current coordinates into The Doombringer so the ship knew where it was heading. The coordinates were quickly uploaded and Tronic set the ship to auto-pilot and ordered it to take off. There was no need to pilot The Doombringer over a short distance after all so they may as well set it to auto-pilot as they flew off to New Mobotropolis. With a roar of it's formidable engines, the colossal vessel powered up and began to rise up off the ground. Slowly and steadily, The Doombringer rose up off the ground and it loomed above it in the bright blue sky like a hummingbird hovering over something. The Doombringer rotated to the north-west and then the engines kicked into full gear and the ship began to pull away from where it was and fly off to New Mobotropolis. Little did the Devatrons know, their take-off was being watched and recorded by none other then Dr. Eggman's servant bot Katherine. She had been sent up to the surface by Dr. Eggman to see how things were going topside and she had just come across The Doombringer . Katherine recorded every minute of The Doombringer 's ascent into the sky and departure from Megapolis and she sent the recorded footage to her insidious master, who was still hiding in his underground bunker. Dr. Eggman watched the footage of The Doombringer taking off and he was amazed by the giant chrome vessel.

"That ship is beyond anything in the entire Egg-Fleet alone!" blurted Dr. Eggman "Highly powered engines, solid structural build, very strong looking armour, elegant take-offs and it flies beautifully! This ship definitely doesn't belong to the Mobians! It must come from another world. Well this blasted universe is big enough as it is, there's bound to be plenty of alien races I'm yet to meet in this empty void known as space. Katherine!" he barked "If that ship returns, you will sneak aboard and spy on it! Find out who the occupants are and see if you can eliminate them so that I may take that glorious vessel for myself!"

Katherine nodded and she returned to the bunker for other duties. Dr. Eggman hadn't really been on the uptake recently, hence the reason he doesn't know about the Devatrons. Since his failure to level New Mobotropolis last month, he had been working like mad on his next project and hadn't been paying much attention to the monitors to see what's going on outside the bunker. Also, the bunker was soundproof so Eggman didn't even hear The Doombringer landing or the fight with the R.F.S. and the Devatrons the other day. He'd only come to know of The Doombringer after sending Katherine out on patrol and the first thing she had come across was The Doombringer and now Eggman wanted to know more about it and see if he can take it for himself. Although given how he can't even take care of a speedy, blue hedgehog, chances are he is mince-meat in a battle against invulnerable chrome-armoured robots…

Back in New Mobotropolis, the trial of Sonic the Hedgehog was about to begin. The trial was being held in the Castle Acorn courtroom. Sally Acorn was the judge in this trial with Councillor Hamlin as the prosecutor and Mandy Mouse as the defendant. The other council members Julian, Penelope and Dylan were members of the jury and the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were just sitting on the sides and watching this case. The Northern Royal Fighters were watching the case too. The other groups were on patrol. Sally sat at the bench and banged the hammer on the counter.

"Order, order please." she said "Honourable judge Queen Sally Acorn will pass judgement in today's case. Councillor Hamlin Pig will prosecute while Royal Fighter and recently married Mandy Mouse will act as the accused's defendant. The court is in session and we may now begin the trial."

Hamlin stood forward and he spoke to Sonic, who sat on a stool before Queen Sally and he had his arms folded and a scowl on his face. He was not happy to be here and he was even less happy at the fact Hamlin was the prosecutor.

"Friends, Council Members, Royal Fighters and her majesty the Queen, we're all gathered here today for the trial of Sonic the Hedgehog." Hamlin announced to everybody in the room.

"I'm amazed you've just noticed." snickered Sonic "Been admiring yourself too much to notice why we're here Hamlin?"

Even though Sonic was the accused, the court couldn't help but snigger at his clever remark. Hamlin fumed angrily and he pointed sharply at Sonic.

"The accused will kindly refrain from resorting to stupid banter!" snapped Hamlin "The court is no place for jokes you know!"

"I do know, I've been on trial before you stupid pig!" snapped Sonic.

"The accused will also kindly refrain from insulting the prosecutor!" grumbled Hamlin "Now where was I? Oh yes, Sonic the Hedgehog. You stand before the court under the suspicion of repudiating the council's orders and committing treason under your own freewill. How do you plead?"

"Not guilty of course." retorted Sonic "Why would I be guilty of something I haven't done?"

"You went over to Megapolis and fought the Devatrons!" shouted

Hamlin "Which is the very thing the council decided we should NOT do! That's going against the council's vote and committing treason! You are guilty!"

"Heck no I'm not." said Sonic "Allow me to tell you what really happened out there."

"No." said Hamlin "You'll only fill the court with lies you reckless little…"

"Objection!" yelled Mandy "Let the accused speak his peace you selfish little porker!"

"We pigs find that term offensive Mandy!" snapped Hamlin "And I will not allow the accused to speak. People who disobey council orders like Sonic usually does will only come out with lies and nobody likes a liar do they?"

"OK then." said Mandy, folding her arms and glaring at Hamlin "Then let's do it this way then."

She looked at Sonic and spoke to him.

"Does the accused promise on behalf of the court to speak the truth and nothing more?" she asked.

"I do." said Sonic brightly.

"There you go then." said Mandy with a smug expression at Hamlin "Now accused, what is the true story behind this conspiracy that's been going on with you and a warp ring?"

"Well, I'd just had a conversation with Miranda Mongoose, leader of the Northern Royal Fighters as you all know," explained Sonic "And then I went for a walk around the city to keep my mind off the Devatrons until suddenly, a warp ring appeared in front of me and something or someone pushed me through it. I ended up on Devion's ship, which is known by the corniest of all names, The Doombringer , and I tried to use the warp ring to get back here but Devion destroyed it and I got caught up in battle with him. Then my friends came and rescued me and I told them everything. I tried to tell Sally the truth but she wouldn't have it and told me to just save it for the court. Now you've heard it Sally, do you wish you'd listened to me now?"

Sally put a finger to her lips and mused for a moment. Sonic did appear to be telling the truth and since he'd promised to speak the truth, there was no way he could possibly be lying. Looks like things weren't what they seemed after all.

"Well, that sounded interesting." said Sally "Definitely not what I was expecting to hear from Sonic."

"Yes indeed." said Hamlin crossly "However there's one thing, after you got warped over to The Doombringer and your warp ring got destroyed, did you try to flee the ship alive? I think your injuries speak for themselves Sonic."

He motioned to Sonic's bandaged arm and plastered cheek. Sonic fumed at Hamlin, wondering why the pig was bothering to notify his injuries from the battle yesterday.

"So even if Sonic didn't willingly go over to The Doombringer , he's STILL committing treason!" declared Hamlin "He didn't try to escape from the ship and instead fought Devion, which is what the council decided we WOULDN'T do! So Sonic is still in the wrong here!"

"No he isn't you ignorant slab of bacon!" snapped Mandy "Devion fought Sonic first and Sonic's fighting was obviously self defence as Devion was attacking him! The council agreed on not taking action against Devion but did the order say anything about DEFENDING yourself against them?"

Hamlin tried to argue back but he suddenly realized that he had no answer, nor did he have anything that could trump what Mandy had just said. The mouse had got him there. Mandy smirked at him and she continued her testimony.

"That's what I thought." sniffed Mandy "And anyway, I'm pretty sure blue dude tried to escape from The Doombringer but because Devion had destroyed his warp ring, he couldn't use the warp ring to get away and since Devion had engaged Sonic in battle, Sonic couldn't get away because Devion wasn't letting him. Isn't that right Sonic?"

"To the letter Mandy gal." said Sonic "I did try to flee the ship but Devion had locked me and himself into a secure room and the doors were too tough to break down so I couldn't escape even if I wanted to. So you see, I'm not guilty of anything at all. Someone pushed me through the warp ring and sent me to The Doombringer and I tried to get out but Devion made it hard for me so I'm in the right for once."

"In the right my trotter!" retorted Hamlin "If someone DID push you through the warp ring then why would they send you over to the territory of our enemies? Are you concluding that somebody in New Mobotropolis is a traitor and is trying to kill you? Well I'm appalled to think that you'd think such a horrible thing! Everybody in this city is a decent person and they would never do something like that to the one person who's been saving their silly lives over and over for two years going on three now! So Sonic, your statement is perjured and I conclude that you are indeed the guilty one."

"Hamlin you gormless little hambone! Sonic promised on behalf of the court to speak the truth and he has done so!" screamed Mandy "Why are you having such a hard time factoring all this in?"

"Because unlike you, you gullible little mouse, I'm not content with believing everything Mr. Hero Hog says just because he's the Hero of Mobius!" retorted Hamlin "Even heroes are capable of lying to us and I believe Sonic's statement is all lies! He may have promised on behalf of the court to speak the truth but just remember that words can be said but that doesn't necessarily mean the speaker of those words actually means them. Anyone can say something like that and be lying about it so I do not believe what Sonic says!"

"Well if you're going to be that obstinate and pig-headed then maybe you'd like to call forth a witness or two and see if their stories match Sonic's or yours!" growled Mandy through gritted teeth "There's lots of people in New Mobotropolis, I'm sure somebody saw what happened with him and the warp ring!"

"Very well then." said Hamlin "Who in this courtroom witnessed Sonic, presumably, getting pushed through a warp ring?"

Fellow Northern Royal Fighter Kari the Rat raised her hand.

"Very well, will Miss Kari the Rat stand forward and speak her piece to the court then?" asked Hamlin.

Kari got shyly to her feet and she strode over to the bench and stood before Sonic, Mandy and Hamlin.

"So Kari, as you're a witness to this whole thing, what did you see?" asked Mandy curiously, hoping that what Kari had seen matched Sonic's description.

"Well, Miranda had finished talking to Sonic and she came back to me, Kate and the chipmunk brothers." explained Kari "However, I'd left to see if I could buy a new screwdriver as mine had worn down and I didn't have a spare on me before Miranda came back. I went around looking for a tool shop as I'm sure this city has one and then…I saw a figure dressed in robes pushing Sonic through a warp ring. And please don't accuse me of lying just because rats are known for that kind of stuff. I'm not like those rats, I am a rat with a sense of decency."

"Yes you are." said Mandy with a proud smile on her face.

Kari beamed and she walked back over to the sidelines and sat back down next to Miranda and Kate. The mongoose and eagle both smiled at her for her contribution to this session.

"So there you go Hamlin, we have a witness who's statement matches that of Sonic's so he is not guilty." said Mandy.

Hamlin, sweating madly, tried desperately to say something to counter attack this but try as he might, he couldn't think of anyway to trump Mandy this time. He was well and truly beaten and he didn't like that at all. He hated losing but since he couldn't beat Mandy, there was no point prolonging this trial so he reluctantly admitted defeat. He grumbled to himself and he turned his back on everybody.

"Fine! I'm beaten!" he grumbled "Congratulations Mandy Mouse!"

"Thank you." sneered Mandy "So your majesty, what do you think about all this?"

Sally thought about everything that had been said in the court and she decided it was time to deliver her verdict.

"I, the judge, concur with Mandy and Sonic." she announced "Sonic has spoken his side of the story and we have witness statements that prove him truthful and in the right. While we do not know who it was that tried to get Sonic killed and if he's still around, we do know that Sonic did not willingly go over to The Doombringer and fight the Devatrons under his own expense. Henceforth, I can happily declare the defendant Sonic the Hedgehog, not guilty of treason. All charges against him are to be dropped and this case is now dismissed."

She banged the hammer on the counter and Sonic whooped with joy.

"Whoo-hah! The court believes me and I'm declared not guilty!" cheered Sonic "I'm off scot-free again!"

"In your face you jerky pig!" jeered Amy Rose from the sidelines, sticking her tongue out at Hamlin.

"Well done Mandy!" cheered Wilson, giving his wife a congratulating hug.

"Oh come on Wilson, Hamlin's not that hard to beat in a court case." sneered Mandy, returning the hug "But thanks anyway."

However, their celebrating was not to last. For just as the court case had been closed, The Doombringer arrived at New Mobotropolis. The huge vessel cast it's shadow over the city and it loomed above New Mobotropolis ominously. It just hung there in the sky and hovered above the ground. Devion and Raicor were standing on top of The Doombringer and they peered down at the city. Devion snorted at it. New Mobotropolis didn't look like much to him but then again, nothing on any other world looks like anything to him.

"So this is the residential housing of Sonic the Hedgehog is it?" purred Devion "How droll of him to reside in such a vapid looking city. Once I take it as my own, I shall improve it dearly. That ludicrous looking ring wall around the city definitely has to go."

"I agree with you on that Devion." said Raicor "Sonic's home city is truly a festering pile of insipidity. Allow me the honour of preparing the city for take over my lord."

"No Raicor." said Devion, removing his cloak and handing it to Raicor "I shall do the honours myself. A true leader does not rely so heavily on his minions to carry out everything for him. You stand by and when I give the order, you, Tronic, Steelor, Triton and the whole army onboard The Doombringer will descend down to the city and attack it with me."

"Understood my lord." said Raicor gruffly "I bid you good fortune down there."

"I do not need fortune of any kind in this fight." crowed Devion "Luck is a ludicrous thing to believe in after all."

With that said, Devion ran forwards towards the edge of The Doombringer and he proceeded to jump up onto a point on the ship and leap straight off of it. He plummeted down to the ground, cackling maniacally as he did so. He put his arms to the side in order to make his fall faster and he plummeted from The Doombringer and towards the city underneath it like a missile being fired to it's target. Being invulnerable, this fall was going to do nothing to him. Devion crashed down very heavily and powerfully into the ground just behind Team Chaotix, who were on patrol with the other Royal Fighter groups, and Espio, Charmy and Vector were sent hurling forwards and they crashed into the ground further away from where Devion had just landed. It had almost been like someone dropped a bomb behind them. As for the crash, it was so incredible that everybody in the courtroom had heard it.

"What the sand hill was that?" shrieked Sally's lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx.

"I don't know." said Sally "Let's see what it was."

Everybody charged over to the window and they peered out of it whereas Hamlin, curiously enough, stayed where he was and began smirking evilly to himself. Outside, Espio, Vector and Charmy all picked themselves up and looked at the thing that had crashed down behind them. The dust that flew up from the impact hadn't finished clearing away yet so Devion's appearance was obscured.

"Holy galoshes, who's dropping bombs on us?" shrieked Charmy.

"I don't think that was a bomb Charmy." said Espio, summoning shuriken to his hands and preparing to throw them.

The chameleon, bee and crocodile all prepared to fight whoever this possible attacker was. The dust finally cleared and Devion stood up from that jump he'd just done. Devion bared his claws and he glowered at Team Chaotix. The trio was so shocked at the mere sight of Devion, they almost leaped out of their skins and did a somersault backwards and then landed back into them.

"EEK!" squealed Charmy "It's that scary Devatron leader guy!"

"How did he find us?" cried Vector "Never mind, it doesn't matter! Let's kick this guy out of New Mobotropolis!"

"But Vector, didn't the council vote to not take action against Devion?" asked Espio.

"They did but they didn't say we can't stop them from invading the city!" retorted Vector in a grizzly tone "So let's push this guy outta here!"

With that said, Vector, Espio and Charmy all charged towards Devion and they prepared to deck the Devatron leader. Devion just lunged at them and prepared to deck them. As for the others, they couldn't believe what they were seeing. Devion and The Doombringer had come to New Mobotropolis and were now attempting to take the city over! As if this week couldn't get any worse!

"I can't believe it! It's Devion and he's brought his ship with him!" exclaimed Sally.

"This can't be! Devion doesn't know where we live!" cried Sonic "How can he possibly know where this place is!"

"It doesn't matter!" cried Sally "Nicole, raise the shields and fast before The Doombringer can do anything!"

"At once Sally." said Nicole, taking the silver sphere off her hair strand and preparing to activate the city's defence systems.

But before she could press a single button or even make the sphere extend in size, Hamlin suddenly lashed forward and snatched the sphere from Nicole's hand. He then proceeded to smash the sphere by stomping on it with his trotters. The controls to the city's shields were completely destroyed now. Nicole gasped in horror at what Hamlin had just done and she scowled at him.

"Hamlin you crazy nutter!" shrieked Nicole "Why did you just do that?

"So the Devatrons may conquer New Mobotropolis." explained Hamlin with a maniac grin on his face "As you can see, I am in league with them now."

The entire courtroom exploded into a surprise chorus of horrified gasps and wide-eyed stares at the pig.

"You…you…you're with the Devatrons?" cried Tails.

"Why doesn't that bloody surprise me?" sighed Mandy crossly "He's a douche bag, of course he'd do something like this!"

"Correct you are Mandy dear." sneered Hamlin "You see, I'm sick to death of the way you morons treat me and how you don't appreciate my counselling efforts so I decided to just give up trying to do my bit for you ungrateful *^&$%! and aligned myself with Devion. I took the council's recent vote to advantage by stealing the warp ring we'd been using and sending Sonic through it and over to The Doombringer so that it'd look like he was committing treason. Since you morons would expect something like that, it worked and Sonic ended up being put on trial. But the faith of Sonic's friends was a little stronger then I'd anticipated and it helped Sonic win this case. Anyway, the court case was only a distraction while Devion and his troops get here. And they couldn't have found you without me using this…"

He reached into his pocket and showed everybody the tracking beacon Devion had given him. It was glowing with a red light on the top, meaning it was on. Sally was so shocked she felt like she was going to swoon over any second now. She quickly regained herself and scowled at Hamlin. Despite being a pretty little queen, she knew how to make epic death glares.

"You porky little scoundrel!" snarled Sally "You've set this whole thing up just so the Devatrons could find us and take over the city or destroy it depending on their motivations! You, Hamlin the Pig, are officially out of the Council of Acorn and you will be spending time in a cold lonely prison cell for this treachery!"

"Oh no I will not." sneered Hamlin "I'm going off with my new buddies, the Devatrons, and I'll be idly sitting by and watching as you morons get what you deserve. And don't think about using the touch pads to raise the shields as I've taken the liberty of disabling them all while you were sleeping last night."

"So we can't raise the shields whatsoever?" blurted Nicole "The touch pads are disabled and you've just destroyed the controls! We're doomed now!"

"Yes you are." said Hamlin "And so I don't get any annoying resistance as I make a clean getaway…"

He yanked out a spherical object from his pocket and he threw it down at the floor. He covered his snout up and ran for it just as the object exploded and emitted a faint, misty gas that had a horrible smell. He charged through the door and locked it, leaving everybody trapped in the room with this gas he'd just made after throwing the bomb. He cackled to himself as he ran for it and left everybody to choke on the gas. Everybody began to cough and splutter as the gas drifted around the courtroom and they all began to feel woozy and sleepy all of the sudden. Sonic could feel his legs giving out underneath him and he dropped down onto his knees.

"Hurk! A-hugh! It's sleeping gas!" he spluttered.

"That rotten little porker!" choked Mandy as she began to pass out "I'll kill him for this I'll…kill…him…for…this…"

Then everything went black as the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, Northern Royal Fighters, Queen and lady-in-waiting all fell down onto the floor and fell asleep from the effects of the gas bomb. They would be asleep for a very long time and by the time they all woke up, Devion would be bringing in his forces and conquering New Mobotropolis by now.

Outside Castle Acorn, Hamlin ran away from the castle, still cackling madly to himself, and he saw Devion taking on Team Chaotix and wiping the floor with all of them. Devion grabbed Vector by his jaws and clamped them shut. He then lifted Vector off the ground by his jaws and threw him across the perimeter. Vector crashed into a house and he groaned in pain. The impact of his crash had left the wall of the house dented and the resident of the house didn't look too pleased but given what was going on now, he didn't really care about it. Vector picked himself up only to get rammed by Devion. Devion bashed Vector as hard as he could by ramming him with his shoulder. The spikes on his shoulder pierced Vector's skin a bit and left large cuts on his chest. Vector cried out but Devion rammed him again. Vector growled like a crocodile fighting a rival crocodile and he grabbed Devion's face with his hand. He pushed on Devion and began to wrestle with him, pushing him away from himself and the house he was pinned against. However, Devion won the sumo match by throwing Vector up into the air and sending him hurling over him and crashing down a few feet behind him. Charmy instantly got mad and he attacked Devion as furiously as he could with his stinger. The sting had no effect on Devion's invulnerable armour of course and Devion elbowed Charmy in the helmet. The spike on his elbow left a hideous dent on Charmy's helmet and Charmy groaned in pain. He clutched his head where the dent on his helmet was and was about to start crying due to how much it hurt. Devion didn't even give Charmy the chance to sob though. The ruthless leader lunged forward and grabbed Charmy. He then slammed him down onto the ground like a rugby player getting a touchdown in a rugby match. Charmy squealed in pain and began sobbing in pain. Devion just scowled at the simpering bee and prepared to squash him with one stomp of the foot. Espio stepped in with a pair of kunai in hand and he stabbed Devion in the leg with them. But an attack like that wasn't going to work on an invulnerable robot. The daggers broke instantly and Espio stared at his broken kunai in horror.

"No! My…my weapons have f-f-failed!" stammered Espio "What is this guy made…?"

Devion backhanded him across the face and sent Espio hurling into an oncoming Vector the Crocodile. The two reptiles ended up sprawling over each other and they lay on the ground, wondering what had hit them so hard.

"Urgh…I can't believe I'm saying this Espio…" muttered Vector "But…I miss Lord Sycorax!"

"At least that guy isn't an invulnerable robot!" cried Espio "Devion's unreal! Everything we throw at him just doesn't work! How can we defeat him!"

"We'll get him eventually!" Vector declared courageously "We know one weakness he has! Try hitting him in his eye! It worked on his soldiers so it'll work on him!"

Espio nodded and he stood back up. He and Vector charged towards Devion again but the Devatron leader reached behind him and pulled out a large hand-held rotary cannon he had latched onto his back the whole time. Devion primed the cannon and began firing at Espio and Vector as madly as he could. Espio and Vector immediately turned turtle and ran for it as Devion began spraying bullets everywhere. The bullets ripped holes into buildings, shattered windows and made the earth leap up in surprise as they hit what they were aimed at. Devion cackled to himself as he scared off the two reptiles and he stopped firing his cannon so he could save some ammo. Now Devion had a moment to spare, Hamlin ran over to Devion and got his attention.

"Devion, it's me, your agent." said Hamlin "The plan is working beautifully! You've arrived and now you're getting the city ready for take over! Oh and you may like this, Sonic and friends are asleep in the castle thanks to me knocking them out with a sleeping gas bomb!"

"Now devious work like that is worth of commendation." praised Devion "You are a fine agent you are, um…"

"Hamlin."

"Horrid name." muttered Devion "You are a fine agent Hamlin. I'm so pleased you made the right choice by joining the winning side. I shall see to it that you are rewarded handsomely for your participation in Mobius' downfall."

"Thank you Devion." said Hamlin.

"As you are not safe out here, I'm beaming you back up to The Doombringer and that way, no one can arrest you." said Devion "Tronic! Activate transportation beams at our agent's coordinates!" he barked after touching the side of his head and activating a comlink he had in his head.

Tronic obeyed and he monitored the screens to see where Hamlin was. His tracking beacon was still on so Tronic knew where he was aiming at. Tronic activated The Doombringer 's transportation beams and a yellow beam fired down onto Hamlin. The moment the beam touched Hamlin, the pig levitated up off the ground and went straight up the beam and into The Doombringer . Hamlin waved Devion goodbye as he was transported up onto the Devatron ship. The ship had brought Hamlin up and the transportation beams switched off. Now Devion could continue with the battle. He readied his weapon and was about to fire it until a member of the Castle Acorn Royal Guards ran up to him with a machine gun in his hand. Devion glowered at the guard and decided not to waste valuable ammo on a mere castle guard. He put his rotary cannon away and he grabbed the guard by his arms. He then held the guard by his left arm and head and proceeded to peck him directly in the neck. His beak went straight through the guard's neck and he was killed instantly. Blood poured out of the gaping hole in the guard's neck. Devion dropped the dead guard and left him to stain the ground with his blood. He strode off, wondering if there was going to be anymore resistance in bound. Then suddenly, Team Chaotix and Bostock and Mortimer, the Grand Metropolis Royal Fighters, charged out of nowhere and they ran towards Devion. Thomas Tiger and Kiara the Cheetah, the Megapolis Royal Fighters, decided to join in too. Devion just got out his rotary cannon and began spraying more bullets at the attackers. This was more then enough to make the Royal Fighters back down and run for it. But Kiara was a fast moving Mobian so she dodged the bullets and continued running towards Devion. Devion wasn't pleased to see there was a Mobian that was equally as fast moving as Sonic was and he tried to hit her with the rotary cannon. Kiara dodged every shot and she leaped into the air. She dropkicked Devion in the face and knocked him down onto his feet. He dropped his rotary cannon and Kiara seized it. She threw the heavy weapon over to Team Chaotix and Espio threw some shuriken at the cannon. The shuriken embedded themselves into the cannon and they exploded on impact, causing the cannon to blow to smithereens and become useless to anyone now. Devion picked himself up and growled furiously at the fact he'd just lost a weapon. He slashed Kiara across the chest with his chrome claws and Kiara was brought down onto her knees. Kiara clutched her chest and Devion prepared to attack her again but Thomas stepped in and uppercut Devion in the chin. The attack almost broke his beak off. Devion staggered backwards and Thomas began to cut loose on him some more. He punched the Devatron leader as furiously as possible but Devion soon caught up with him. He caught one of Thomas's punches and then proceeded to slug the tiger in the stomach as hard as he could. Thomas doubled over in pain and Devion grabbed the tiger. He held the tiger high up above his head and swung the tiger down onto his knee as hard as he could. There was a horrible cracking sound and Thomas squealed in pain. Devion had just broken his back. Thomas was now useless to anyone in the service and was likely to be in a wheelchair for the rest of his life. Thomas lay on the ground, broken and unable to continue fighting. Devion had broken the lower part of his back so he wouldn't be able to feel his legs anymore. Devion sneered at Thomas and he picked the crippled tiger up.

"You Mobians have high valour and incredible spirit and yet you break as easily as all the other fleshlings in the universe." crowed Devion "I highly doubt all Mobians will be this easy to break though."

"You got that right chrome head!" yelled Vector, leaping in and socking Devion directly in the face "You'll never break us for starters!"

Devion was thrown straight into the wall of Castle Acorn by that attack. Espio and Charmy charged in for another attack and so did Bostock and Mortimer. They were armed with a pair of clubs each as projectile weapons were useless and a sharp weapon wasn't going to be of much use to them either so a solid weapon like a club was bound to last them longer in the battle and be of better use to them. Devion just waited for them to come and prepared to clobber all of them. He lunged forward and the Royal Fighters braced themselves for the attack.

Meanwhile, the Adabat Royal Fighters noticed what was going on and they were running through the city and towards Castle Acorn where the fight was going on. Team Chaotix and the Megapolis Royal Fighters were in need of assistance out here and they were the only other ones around right now so they decided to join in on this fight.

"Come on team!" yelled Scott Lynx "This may not be our home, but we're gonna help the citizens of New Mobotropolis beat back those Devatrons!"

"We heed your order Scott." said Felix the Peacock who was flying behind Scott "Although a verily question the absence of Sonic and his team of Royal Fighters on the battlefield. Shouldn't they be contributing too? This is their place of residence isn't it?"

"Maybe something's going on with them." suggested Scott's girlfriend, Jessica Cougar who was running beside Scott "We'll find out when this fight's over."

"I just hope the bloomin' shields are raised!" cried Scott's brother, Taran the Lynx who was running behind Scott and Jessica "I remember Sonic telling us summet about this city having defence systems and I'm just curious if the shields are raised. If not then that ship's gonna blow us all back to Adabat!"

"Given how it's only a barrier with no colour whatsoever, there's no way of telling." said Scott "Felix, fly up in the sky and see if you can reach the ship. If you can then that means the shield's aren't raised."

"At once my friend." said Felix, flying up into the sky and heading towards The Doombringer .

If the shields were raised then Felix shouldn't be able to fly up to The Doombringer . The peacock flew up towards the colossal chrome battleship that loomed ominously over New Mobotropolis. And to the peacock's surprise, he didn't bump into anything invisible on his way up to the ship. He just continued to go on and on upwards. That meant the shields weren't raised and something was wrong. Unfortunately for Felix, Raicor spotted him and he deployed his arm cannon furiously. He pointed the cannon at Felix and prepared to blast his feathers off.

"Halt cretin!" snarled Raicor "Nobody tries to get aboard The Doombringer !"

With that said, he shot at Felix but the peacock dodged the blast. The blast rocketed down to the ground and hit a building and blew a hole in it. Had the shields been raised then the blast wouldn't have even touched the building or gotten within twenty feet of it. After seeing that little blast, Scott and Jessica instantly deduced that the shields weren't up. And that was not a good sign at all.

"The shields aren't raised!" cried Scott "Are Sonic and friends insane? There's a big ship of death up there and they leave themselves unprotected? I thought they were supposed to be the big heroes of this city and they don't even defend themselves in dire situations like this?"

"Scott, there's obviously something wrong." said Jessica softly "I know Sonic and friends wouldn't be so bone idle as to leave themselves prone. Let's see if we can find out what the problem is."

"I say we should!" yelled Scott "Maybe I can yell in Sonic's face and find out what he's playing at in a time like this!"

So Team Adabat continued to run towards Castle Acorn with Felix catching up to them as fast as his wings would let him. They didn't get much further though for Jessica spotted one of the security touch pads mounted on the wall of a house. This touch pad was supposed to be used as a back up if the controls to the defence systems were destroyed. Jessica was interested in the touch pad and she bent down to see what it was. The pad had the words "Defence system touch pad" sculpted above the pad itself and Jessica knew what the words meant.

"How convenient, there's touch pads around the city so people can use them to activate the shields." said Jessica "Let's see if this works."

Jessica put her hand on the control pad. But, as Hamlin had disabled them all, the touch pad didn't do anything. If it was working, it would have beeped but it made no noise whatsoever. This made the cougar wonder what was going on.

"That's strange, it doesn't work." she mused "Maybe it's broken or something? Felix, fly over to the building next to Castle Acorn and see if you can find a toolbox or something. I'm going to see why this thing's not working."

"I shall carry that order out to the letter dear Jessica." said Felix, flapping his wings and flying off to Royal HQ.

Given how all the other R.F.S. teams were staying in New Mobotropolis to help with the Devatron threat, they had been given the tour of New Mobotropolis so they could get used to the place as they might be here a while so Jessica knew what Royal HQ was and that it would possibly contain something like a toolbox. Their headquarters at home did so Royal HQ would easily contain one. Felix kept well out of the way of the fight between Devion, Team Chaotix, Kiara the Cheetah and Castle Acorn's Royal Guards as he didn't want to get caught up in the fight while carrying out an order. Luckily for him, Devion didn't see him and he made it to Royal HQ. Felix opened the door and he went inside the headquarters. Felix hadn't really toured Royal HQ so he didn't know where everything was but he was looking to see if there was a tool box around and he was going to find one, even if he had to tear the place up from the inside out to do so. Felix went down the corridor and peeked into the lab. After seeing that this was a laboratory, he began looking around as a laboratory was likely to have a toolbox somewhere. Felix looked over at a table in the corner of the lab and he saw a red toolbox all full of tools, sitting there and waiting to be used. It belonged to Tails and whenever Tails wanted to build something in the lab, he would use this toolbox. Felix grabbed the toolbox with his talons and he carried it out of Royal HQ by flying slightly above the floor and out of the doors. He exited the headquarters and he flew back over towards his team mates, avoiding the big battle as he did so. He swooped over to his team mates and he delivered the toolbox to Jessica, who took it off of him and smiled graciously at the peacock.

"Thank you Felix." said Jessica "Now let's see what's up with this touch pad."

She fumbled around in the toolbox, the tools rattling loudly as she searched through them, and she pulled out a screwdriver. She undid the screws on the touchpad and she pulled the cover away from the pad. She set the pad down beside her and peered into the very innards of the pad. A cable that connected together in the centre of the pad had been unclipped. That was the central cable that made the pad work. Jessica was amazed at how simple this all was and she clipped the wire back together. She then proceeded to screw the cover back on and the touchpad screen lit up with a faint blue glow. That must mean it was working now. Jessica beamed happily and she placed her hand on the touch pad…and it still didn't work. The pad just bleeped and went red and said "Non-royal handprint. Access denied.". That was more then enough to make the cougar face palm herself in annoyance.

"Oh you've got to be kidding me!" she groaned "Only the royals can use this thing?"

"Now that really IS stupid!" grumbled Scott "How can we raise the bloody shields now?"

"Well if only the royals can use this then maybe we should get the queen and get her to activate this." suggested Taran.

"We don't have time for that." said Jessica "The Devatron ship could attack any minute now. We have to raise the shields and fast. But how can we activate them if we can't use the touch pads?"

"Is it possible to change the settings and make it so anyone can use it?" asked Felix.

"I'll see if it is." said Jessica, unscrewing the cover yet again.

She set the cover down beside her and she peered into the touch pad's innards yet again. She could see a lot of wiring and circuitry inside. She then saw a cube shape thing at the back of the pad. It was the settings drive for the touch pad but Jessica had no idea on what it was. She looked at the cube and wondered if it was important. She didn't want to remove the cube in fear of damaging the pad beyond repair so she didn't touch it. She did see a button on the side that was labelled in tiny writing "System reboot. Only use if you wish to alter settings.". Jessica couldn't make much of the writing out but she could see the words "System Reboot" so she decided to cross her fingers and hope this worked. She pressed the button on the cube and the pad bleeped for a second. Jessica then screwed the cover back on and the touch pad flashed into life again with the words "System Online. Change Settings?" Jessica beamed happily. She'd managed to change the settings so the touch pad would work for anyone now. Jessica touched the pad with her finger on the "No" option on the screen and the settings screen went away, leaving the touch pad blank once again. Jessica then placed her hand on the touch pad and the shields activated. A domed invisible barrier covered New Mobotropolis, protecting it from The Doombringer and any other outside attack. Jessica punched the air triumphantly.

"Yes! I did it! The shields are raised!" she cheered.

"So now Devion and his forces can't join in the fight." said Scott "Makes me wonder why they're buying their time in the first place."

"I am thankful that those baneful villains didn't take the full initiative." said Felix "Otherwise we'd be in one heck of a horrifying situation."

"We may have stopped the others from getting in but now we've got to get Devion out of here." noted Taran "He's still in the city!"

"Jessica, you stay here and prepared to lower the shields when we prepare to throw out Devion." said Scott "I'll blind the guy and the crocodile will throw him out."

Jessica nodded and remained where she was along with Felix and Taran. Scott summoned energy to his hands and he ran over to the big fight going on near Castle Acorn. It wasn't looking good right now. Team Chaotix, Bostock, Mortimer and Kiara the Cheetah were still holding out but they were getting beaten to a pulp and Devion had killed every single Royal Guard on site. Team Chaotix, Bostock and Mortimer and Kiara were all that were left to deal with Devion. Bostock and Mortimer weren't really of much help and Devion beat them easily. Team Chaotix and Kiara were the only real challenges for him as Team Chaotix kept using their skill to fight him and Kiara used her speed to get the better of him. Devion growled furiously as Kiara dropkicked him again and he drew out his golden sword.

"You Mobians are beginning to vex me to the point my tolerance for you has decimated!" he snarled angrily "I shall now proceed to slit open every body in the place!"

"Oy! Devion!" yelled Scott as he ran towards him "Here's energy in your eye!"

Devion turned to face the running lynx and Scott threw an energy sphere straight at Devion's visor. The sphere blasted Devion straight in the visor and Devion roared in pain. He staggered backwards and crashed into the wall, clutching his face and wincing in pain. The attack had blinded him and smoke poured out of his cracked visor. Devion looked around frantically, horrified at the fact he could no longer see.

"My vision is impaired!" shrieked Devion "I cannot see! You Mobians have blinded me! I'll destroy every last one of you for that!"

"Sure you will." sneered Vector "Now shut the hell up already!"

He then socked Devion straight in the face and knocked him against the wall of Castle Acorn. Vector punched him as hard as he could in the face and then punched him in the beak, bending it slightly as he did so. He then picked Devion up with both arms and ran over towards the ring wall surrounding the city with the Devatron leader in tow. Scott could see that it was time to get rid of Devion so he called over to Jessica.

"Jessica! Lower the shields!" he called to her.

Jessica gave him the thumbs up sign and she touched the touch pad again. The shields switched off and Vector began to spin around in a circle with Devion in his arms. He spun around as fast as he possibly could and then he threw Devion straight over the wall. Devion hurled over the wall like a baseball being smacked out the arena in a home run and he landed with a heavy clunk on the ground outside. Any normal robot would have been smashed by a crash like that. Now Devion was out of the city, Jessica touched the touch pad again and raised the city's shields. Now Devion wouldn't be able to get back in the city. Devion picked himself up but he was still unable to see so he didn't dare do anything else. Raicor had seen Devion being thrown out of the city so he deployed his wings and flew down to the ground to aid his leader. He landed beside Devion and instantly noticed that Devion's visor had been destroyed.

"Devion!" cried Raicor "You're blinded! We must get you back up to The Doombringer now! You cannot fight while you're blinded!"

"Spare me your concerns Raicor and order The Doombringer to level the city!" retorted Devion.

Raicor obeyed and he contacted The Doombringer .

"Tronic, fire the ship's cannons and destroy the whole city!" he ordered gruffly.

Tronic obeyed and he activated The Doombringer 's cannons. Several large cannons telescoped out from the sides of The Doombringer and they aimed down at New Mobotropolis. The cannons fired down at the city but since the shields had been raised, the cannons ricocheted off of the shields and didn't do any damage to New Mobotropolis whatsoever. Raicor couldn't believe his eye. The city was shielded! They couldn't destroy New Mobotropolis! The whole invasion had failed and they had to fall back since they hadn't prepared for this!

"Devion, the city is shielded!" cried Raicor "We cannot destroy the city!"

"How can this be?" yelled Devion "I jumped off the ship and into the city and I didn't hit any barriers or force fields on my way down! Well since they know of my presence, they likely raised the shields while I was fighting. But why didn't our agent tell us about this? The lack of this vital piece of information has just cost us this invasion! We need to fall back and rethink our methods!"

"I agree Devion." said Raicor "No point in wasting The Doombringer 's power when we cannot even enter the enemy's territory."

With that said, Raicor grabbed Devion by his arms and carried him back up to The Doombringer with a mighty flap of his wings. After Devion arrived back onto the ship, he ordered Tronic to pilot The Doombringer back to Megapolis and Tronic did so. The Doombringer turned around slowly to the left and it flew away from New Mobotropolis and headed off back to Megapolis where it had parked originally. Back in Castle Acorn, the effects of the sleeping bomb had worn off already and Sonic picked himself up. He heard the sound of The Doombringer 's engines going in full throttle and he ran over to the window to see what was happening. To his surprise, The Doombringer was leaving and he looked down at the city to see if Devion was gone too. He saw no signs of the Devatron leader. That meant Devion was gone and the Devatrons were retreating.

"Funny." mused Sonic "Devion and his goons are retreating. Why are they doing that? They have us at their mercy!"

"Huh? What?" mumbled Tails who was still waking up.

"Sonic just said the Devatrons are retreating." said Amy "That is strange. Why are they suddenly fleeing for it?"

"I'm glad they are retreating." said Knuckles "But even I'm wondering why."

"Hey Sonic!" Vector called up to the hedgehog "Down here! We can tell you everything!"

Sonic looked down at the ground and he saw Team Chaotix and the Adabat Royal Fighters looking up at him.

"Hey guys." said Sonic "Sorry me and my buddies couldn't join you in the fight against the Devatrons. Hamlin double-crossed us and knocked us out with sleeping gas."

"Hamlin? You mean that pig guy on the council?" asked Vector.

"One of the Council of Acorn members is a traitor?" exclaimed Espio "I shall have his hide for this!"

"I think he's long gone now Espio." muttered Charmy "If he knocked Sonic out then maybe he got away. I wouldn't be too surprised if he's on the Devatron ship right now."

"Forget about him." said Vector "Anyway, while you were sleeping, we all fought Devion and Scott managed to blind him." he called up to Sonic.

"Jessica then got a touch pad working again and altered the settings so we could use it as well and we threw Devion out of the city and rose the shields to prevent him from getting back in." explained Scott "That's why they're retreating."

"Suh-weet!" said Sonic with a thumbs up to his friends "You beat Devion and threw him out of the city and got the shields up! Way past cool work guys!"

"Sadly, our victory isn't on a high note." said Kiara sadly "Devion broke Thomas's back and all the castle guards have been killed. Your queen's gonna need more guards and the Megapolis Royal Fighters are gonna have to fight without Thomas helping us from now on."

Sonic looked down and saw Kiara kneeling beside the broken tiger and helping him to sit up. Thomas winced in pain and he looked to be in serious discomfort. Sonic also saw the dead bodies of the Castle Acorn Royal Guards. all of them had holes in their necks and their blood stained the ground beneath them red. This fight had been pretty intense and Sonic began to feel bad at the fact he wasn't able to help given how he was knocked out earlier.

"I'm sorry to hear that Kiara." said Sonic "I'm sure Sally can find some new guards. As for Thomas, we'll make sure the guy gets a good wheelchair and the R.F.S. can pay their respects for him."

"That sounds nice." said Kiara "Thank you Sonic."

"Think nothing of it." said Sonic casually "See you all later."

He stepped back from the window and he turned to face his friends.

"So Devion's been beaten but the Megapolis Royal Fighters have a crippled leader now." said Sonic "That really sucks for the Megapolis Royal Fighters and I bet Devion's gonna be back and he'll try to lower the shields so he can destroy us."

"Well we'll be ready for him should he try something like this." said Sally determinedly "We will defend our home under any circumstance and we will not let the Devatrons destroy us all. I may have said we won't take action against the Devatrons, but I've decided that idea wasn't a very good one so I renounce the council's vote from earlier. Tomorrow, we will make sure the Devatrons don't find the shield generator and three volunteers will go over to The Doombringer and infiltrate the ship for information we can use against those chrome monsters."

"I like the sound of that Sal." said Sonic happily "Tomorrow's gonna be much better for us I bet. Those Devatrons won't know what's hit them…"

Meanwhile, The Doombringer had just arrived back at Megapolis and touched down in the place it had landed the day it arrived. Devion had quickly gotten his visor and beak repaired and now he was chastising Hamlin for not telling him about New Mobotropolis' defence systems.

"P-P-Please Devion!" cried Hamlin "I didn't mean to…"

Devion backhanded him across the face and knocked him down onto the floor. Hamlin clutched his face and winced in pain. Devion loom above him and stared at him coldly with his newly repaired visor.

"You wanted to aid the Devatrons in conquest and yet you fail to give us all the required facts for our conquest!" snarled Devion, picking Hamlin up and staring straight into his terrified eyes "Why did you not inform us on New Mobotropolis' defence systems? That piece of information could have been vital and since you didn't give it us, the lack of that information cost me the whole invasion attack and my sword!"

"I'm sorry Devion!" cried Hamlin "I just forgot that's all! But I disabled the defence systems anyway so I didn't need to inform you about it!"

"And yet they were still able to raise the shields and prevent me from breaching their territory!" snarled Devion "Had we been prepared for this, we could have breached their shields and destroyed them anyway! You have failed me dearly Hamlin!"

"I'm sorry Devion! Really I am!" cried Hamlin "Please, give me another chance! I can redeem myself, I promise I can!"

"That promise is already broken." said Devion coldly "Because you won't get a chance to redeem yourself."

Hamlin's heart seized up and the pig began sweating like…well…a pig. Devion threw him down onto the ground and turned to Triton, one of his loyal minions and squad leaders.

"Triton, deliver our failed agent his penance." he barked at him.

"With pleasure Devion." said Triton darkly, grabbing Hamlin by his uniform and dragging him away.

Hamlin was going to be executed for his failure. Devion hated it when agents fail him so he kills them before they can fail him again.

"No! Wait! No please don't!" squealed Hamlin "No Devion! Help! Please! NOOOOOOOOOO…."

His screams were drowned out by the door closing as Triton left the room with the snivelling pig in tow. Now that was dealt with, Devion turned to Raicor and stared straight into his visor.

"You Raicor, will go to the city tomorrow morning and find the shield generator to New Mobotropolis." said Devion "And you will destroy it and leave the city prone."

"Yes Devion." said Raicor "I am honoured to receive such an imperative task. I shall not fail you unlike our agent."

"You had better hope you succeed." said Devion coldly "For your sake…"

He showed Raicor his sharp claws to give the Devatron an idea on what he meant. Raicor could see Devion's point and he bowed to his leader. Tomorrow, he was going to destroy the shield generator and New Mobotropolis would be wide open for the Devatron army…

Talk about "All in a day's work"! Sonic gets put on trial, then the city gets attacked, a traitor is exposed and Sonic's friends emerge victorious! But how long will this victory last? Will Raicor lower the city's shields? Or will Sonic win this one? And what's Dr. Eggman gonna do now he knows of these new visitors? Tune in as Sonic defends some "Valuable Resources"!

P.S. Hey ProwerPower85. What are YOUR top ten favourite chapters in this story?

P.P.S. Hamlin does NOT belong to me! He is a character from the Archie Sonic the Hedgehog comics whom I have an incredible dislike to. The guy was just an annoying douchebag to me and I only put him in this story so I could kill the bastard. Perfect revenge I say! So, how's the saga looking so far guys?

Story 103: Valuable Resources

"So Miranda, how does it feel for you and your team to be picked to defend the shield generator from an inevitable Devatron attack?" asked Sonic the Hedgehog as the Northern Royal Fighters began setting up the defence around the back of New Mobotropolis.

Tomorrow had come and the R.F.S. had been pretty busy this morning. The respective Royal Fighter teams had called for their resources so now all the teams had their foot soldiers to boost their numbers and give them an edge against the Devatrons as they had been outnumbered the last time they had a big battle. Now the whole R.F.S. was here, Queen Sally elected one of the teams to defend the shield generator for New Mobotropolis' defence systems. True the generator was in the city itself, just behind Castle Acorn, but there still needed to be some defence so they could push the Devatrons back and not give them a chance to find a way into the city and destroy the generator. The Northern Royal Fighters, Miranda Mongoose, Kari the Rat, Kate the Eagle and the chipmunk brothers Thunder and Bolt, had been picked for this mission and since the team's reinforcements were all there, the team had more numbers and had a better chance of standing against the Devatrons. Sonic decided to join in with them as he had nothing better to do and the team may need his super speed for this. The other teams were to wait in the city until the Northern Royal Fighters needed some extra help. As for infiltrating The Doombringer , Tails the twin-tailed fox and Kiara the Cheetah from the Megapolis Royal Fighters had been chosen for the mission and Cosmo the Seedrian decided to go along with Tails and Kiara as she wanted to help out and she thought she could be of good use in an infiltration mission. Tails had been sceptical about this but he decided to let Cosmo come along anyway as Cosmo hadn't really been on many missions with Sonic or anyone else for a while. Tails, Cosmo and Kiara were already on their way to The Doombringer and thanks to Kiara's speed, they'd be there in no time at all. Right now, Sonic was with Miranda and her team while the foot soldiers set up the defences.

They had all armed themselves with machine guns and Tommy guns and they had shields which they all used to form a wall together. The soldiers stood together with their shields together and their guns resting on top of the shields. It was a good defensive set up and hopefully, it would work. The shields of New Mobotropolis were already up so no Devatron would be getting into the city.

"I feel privileged really to have such an imperative task." said Miranda "But it's a bit nerve racking at the same time since we're going to be fending off a squadron of invulnerable robots."

"Our first fight with them didn't go too well." said Kari grimly "We may have found out a weakness of theirs, they can be easily blinded, but since they know that we know their weakness, they might be harder to get. And we don't know any other weakness they might have so we're pretty much flying blind out here."

"That, sadly enough, is pretty true Kari." said Sonic glumly "Blinding a Devatron doesn't do much other then have them wondering around like headless chickens and wondering where they are. My buddy Wilson tells me that if you like stab one in the visor with a blade or something, you will kill it but we don't have any swords on us. If we need the other teams to help us then Wilson can use his spinning blade weapon to kill a Devatron or two hopefully."

"One thing I dread to think about is how many Devatrons we may end up facing!" piped Thunder "We might end up fighting the whole army if we're unlucky enough!"

"I don't care how many Devatrons we end up facing, we'll fight them all off if we have to." said Bolt "I'll electrocute every last Devatron if it means keeping New Mobotropolis shielded and stopping those chrome monsters from taking over the planet."

"Huh, that's unusual." said Sonic with a snarky grin on his face "Usually in a situation like this, you'd be cracking jokes like I do."

"Well Miranda's taught us that there's a time and a place for jokes." said Thunder "And now is not the time."

"Now's the time to be serious." said Bolt "After the battle, me and Thunder can start taking the mess out of those stupid Devatrons like we do whenever we beat our enemies."

"And I will be joining in." said Sonic.

"Sonic! Team mates!" cried Miranda "There's a Devatron coming towards us!"

Everybody looked out into the distance and surely enough, they saw none other then the Devatron second-in-command, Raicor. Raicor was striding menacingly towards the defences. He had been sent to destroy the shield generator and he looked like he was ready to dish out some punishment. Sonic pulled a confused face at the sight of Raicor.

"Why is there only one Devatron?" asked Sonic "Is Devion so egotistical he thinks he can beat us all with just one Devatron?"

"Maybe." said Miranda grimly "I remember that one too. My team fought him and he's almost as powerful as Devion is."

"I remember him too." said Sonic "Dunno what his name is but I saw him standing beside Devion when I first fought Devion on The Doombringer . Since he's by Devion's side I'm guessing he's important."

"He's unusual too." said Kari "He's the only Devatron who appears to have wings. So he maybe harder to defeat then the others as he'll just fly out of the way of our shots."

"Well since he's here to obviously destroy the shield generator, we have to stop him!" cried Miranda "Everybody, start firing at the Devatron!"

The foot soldiers all obeyed Miranda's order and they began shooting at Raicor. Raicor was showered by bullets but, as you'd expect, the bullets had no effect on Raicor. Raicor just walked through the bullets as if they were nothing. To him, it was like getting showered by pebbles instead of bullets. Raicor sneered at the feeble resistance he was met with.

"A pitiful effort from pitiful beings with pitiful weapons." Raicor taunted gruffly in his gravely voice "I shall take it upon myself to put this pitiful resistance out of it's pitiful misery."

Raicor then deployed both of his arm cannons and set them to cannon mode instead of laser mode. He fired a pair of cannonballs at the defensive wall set up by the Northern Royal Fighters and the cannonballs hit the Royal Fighters. The foot soldiers, Sonic and Miranda's team were all sent flying backwards by the powerful blasts and they all crashed into the wall behind them that surrounded New Mobotropolis. The impact was pretty hard and the Mobians almost felt like they'd broken a bone or two after that. Raicor began cackling gleefully at his successful attack. He threw his arms up and began crowing at the top of his voice.

"Ah ha, ha, ha, ha! I am an asteroid and you are a spaceship!" he laughed "I strike you and I blow you all away!"

The Royal Fighters had all been shaken by the attack but Sonic wasn't down for long. Sonic picked himself up and lunged at Raicor.

"We're not going down this easily!" yelled Sonic, spin-dashing Raicor in the head "You're not getting anywhere near the shield generator Deva-dork!"

"Your insults are truly pathetic." sneered Raicor, backhanding Sonic into the wall "I've heard better taunts and banter from the people of the planet Springfield and they gave into us faster then any other race we've fought! Since you do not know my name, I shall give it to you. I am Raicor, Devion's second in command and the very Devatron sent for this mission."

"Raicor eh?" said Sonic, rubbing himself better "You Devatrons have interesting names I must say. Well then Raicor, you saw what I'm capable of doing as I fought Devion on your ship so you know what to expect from me."

"I do indeed hedgehog." sneered Raicor "And as my strength is almost on par with Devion's, you will have no chance against me."

"We'll see about that." said Sonic "You ready Miranda and friends?" he asked the Northern Royal Fighters.

"As ready as you are." said Miranda, pulling out her electro-prod and activating it.

With that said, Sonic and the Northern Royal Fighters all pounced on Raicor and the Devatron second-in-command braced himself to attack…

Meanwhile in the Northern Border of Megapolis, Kiara the Cheetah, Tails the Fox and Cosmo the Seedrian all arrived at the landing site of the insidious Devatron battleship known as The Doombringer . They dived behind a rock and they peeked over the edge of the rock to look at The Doombringer . It amazed Kiara and Tails to no end on how colossal the vessel was and how eerie it looked as well. The Doombringer was so scary looking that Cosmo began shivering at the sight of it. Cosmo stopped looking at the ship and she hugged Tails for comfort. Tails returned the hug and he could feel the shivering Seedrian against his furry chest.

"That ship…it's so scary looking." whimpered Cosmo "It's a horrible looking ship. I can't believe I wanted to take part in this."

"Well Cosmo, once we get on the ship you won't have to worry about The Doombringer 's appearance." said Tails "How does it look so far Kiara?"

"Looks all clear to me." said Kiara as she observed the scenery and noted that there was no one around at this point in time "I think we can get to the ship and get on it nice and easily."

"Are their any docking ramps open or not?" asked Tails "We can't get on The Doombringer if there's nothing open."

Kiara observed the ship and to her disappointment, there was nothing open. No doors, no docking ramps, no nothing. There was no way on the ship as of now.

"There's nothing open Tails." said Kiara "Our break-in maybe a little harder then we thought."

"We'll have to wait here until one of those Devatrons open a docking ramp and then we can get in." said Tails, letting go of Cosmo as the Seedrian had calmed down a bit now "We can't bomb our way inside as we don't have any weapons on us and even if we had, bombing our way in wouldn't be a good idea as it'd be likely to catch the attention of Devion and his cronies. This whole mission has to be subtle after all…"

"Wait a minute Tails." said Cosmo "What about that hole we blew in the ship when we rescued Sonic the other day? We could get in that way."

"Cosmo, it's been a couple of days since then, the Devatrons will have fixed it already." noted Tails.

"I think you're right kiddo." said Kiara "I can't see any holes on the ship although we're not really that close to it so it's not that easy to see anyway."

"Then we stick around and wait until a docking ramp lowers." said Tails "I hope that won't take too long."

"Or we can trick them into letting us in." said Kiara with a sly grin on her face.

Tails looked at Kiara as if she'd just grown an extra set of arms out of her back. He had no idea what the cheetah was on about. Kiara then suddenly grabbed Tails and Cosmo and she zoomed out from behind the rocks and towards The Doombringer . The moment the Mobians got near the ship, the ever-alert scanners picked up their presences and an alarm sounded off in the cockpit. Devion, who was sitting in his throne and resting, sat up straight with a start and looked around quickly.

"The alarm system has activated." he said "Tronic, find out what's setting the alarms off!"

Tronic obeyed and traced the source of the alarm trigger. Funny enough, he couldn't see anything on the computer monitors. There was no one around and everything seemed perfectly normal. That was because Kiara, Tails and Cosmo were hiding under The Doombringer and the security cameras couldn't see them. There were none stationed under The Doombringer either so Tronic couldn't trace the source of the alarm trigger.

"Everything seems perfectly fine my lord." droned Tronic in his musical voice "There are no intruders inbound."

"Then why are the alarms sounding?" wondered Devion "They don't go off for no reason. Send Steelor to patrol the area and find out what's going on."

"Yes my lord." droned Tronic.

He touched the side of his head and activated his comlink so he could communicate to the Devatron sub-leader.

"Steelor, Devion requests that you go outside and investigate the area as the alarms are sounding for unknown reason." Tronic said to him.

"You got it Tronic." said Steelor in his raspy tough guy voice.

Steelor pulled out his trademark handlebar sword weapon and deployed his spinning saw blade. He went over to the docking ramps of the ship and he lowered one so he could go outside. The ramp lowered down to the ground and Steelor strode down the ramp with his weapons at the ready. He made it to the bottom of the ramp and he began looking around the scenery, looking for what was setting off the alarms. The moment Steelor walked away from the ramp, Kiara, Tails and Cosmo ran quietly up the ramp and into The Doombringer . Steelor heard their footsteps and he looked up at the ramp only to see nothing there. He dismissed it as him just hearing things. He looked around under The Doombringer to see if there were any intruders hiding under the ship. He couldn't see anything under the ship and there didn't appear to be anyone around. Steelor walked out from under The Doombringer and he searched the surrounding terrain for any intruders. The only thing around right now was him and The Doombringer . There was no one else around. Everything was perfectly clear. Steelor sheathed his weapons and he strode back up the docking ramp, a bit disappointed this search had been for nothing.

"Devion." said Steelor "I've looked around and I can't see anything around here at all. Maybe some Mobian casually strode by the ship and set the alarms off unwittingly."

"Whatever it was that set the alarms off, it must have gone now because the alarms have stopped now." said Devion "Remain alert though in case anything else comes around or Sonic and his miserable bunch of fools attempt to attack The Doombringer and defeat us."

"I'll be amazed if those furry freaks even dare to do something as bone-headed as that." sneered Steelor "They know they can't beat us so why dare to do something they can't do?"

"Because the Mobians are obstinate, valorous and above all, high-spirited." noted Devion "I highly doubt that they'll be willing to succumb to our might so easily and they're likely going to be very persistent threats so we can't expect them to submit to us as easily as we'd like them to."

"I've gotcha Lord Devion." said Steelor "I'll remain vigilant my lord. If I see a Mobian, I'll slice them to ribbons."

So Steelor closed the docking ramp behind him and strode down the corridors. Kiara, Tails and Cosmo, who were hiding behind a wall, watched as Steelor went down the corridors and out of view and they began creeping up another corridor and searching for anything interesting.

"I'm amazed that worked so well." whispered Kiara "We're on The Doombringer ! You know what, those Devatrons really need a better name for this thing I mean, come on! The Doombringer ? That's the corniest name I've ever heard for a ship!"

"I'm sure they called the ship that name for a reason." noted Tails "It's a giant ship that brings doom to any planet it lands on so the name's extremely fitting, not corny Kiara."

"Whatever." said Kiara dismissively "I still say it's a cheesy name."

"Forgive me for asking so Kiara but, how long have you been a Royal Fighter?" asked Cosmo as the infiltrators crept quietly down the corridor.

"I only joined last year Cosmo." said Kiara quietly "I'm a rookie but I'm quite good for my level. At least that's what Field Marshal Thomas thinks."

"You must be good for a rookie because according to Wilson and Mandy, you took down Marik the Martian all by yourself*." said Tails "And he's enough to give Sonic a hard time."

"Well I didn't really beat Marik, I just ran him into exhaustion and then laser-cuffed him." Kiara admitted modestly "I'm a bit disappointed he got away though, I was looking forward to seeing him do time for killing some of Thomas's men and nearly killing Wilson. I bet next time Sonic faces him he'll take that freak down. I hope he does too because aliens scare me."

"Oh." said Cosmo, looking a little hurt at that statement "I guess I scare you then Kiara since I'm an alien, to you that is."

"No, no, no, no! Not at all Cosmo!" said Kiara "Please don't take it that way, I'm not scared of you Cosmo. You're a good person and you're not a scary looking alien so you don't scare me. I'm sorry if it sounded like I was offending you."

"I understand." said Cosmo "I'm sorry I took what you said the wrong way."

"Girls, can we please stop gossiping?" asked Tails impatiently "We've got a mission to do here. We've gotta infiltrate this ship and see what information we can find that can help us in our battle with the Devatrons."

"Sorry." said Kiara "I have a habit of getting carried away in a discussion."

"That's alright." said Tails reassuringly "Now let's see if we can find any rooms that look like they may be of some help to us."

So Tails, Cosmo and Kiara continued to creep down the hallway, being weary of any Devatrons around and being as quiet as possible so they wouldn't get caught. However, they were in for a surprise here. For outside The Doombringer , Dr. Eggman had sent his sleek, female sidekick robot Katherine out to infiltrate the ship and see if she can get it for Dr. Eggman. As Katherine walked up to The Doombringer , Dr. Eggman gave her a message.

"Katherine, find out who owns this ship and then destroy them all." ordered Dr. Eggman "I MUST have that ship and do not let me down Katherine or you shall end up being used for stress relief! Got it?"

Katherine nodded and she continued to walk up to The Doombringer . Unlike the Mobians, she couldn't be picked up on radar as she had signal scrambling devices to throw radars and detection systems off of her. Katherine walked under The Doombringer and she looked up at the ship's underbelly. She raised her arm and her arm extended up until she reached the underbelly of the ship. She then stuck her claws into the tough chrome armouring and she carved out a neat circle in the underside of the ship. She pulled the piece of chrome away and she pulled herself up into the ship. Katherine was now aboard The Doombringer and she could begin her assassination attempts. Katherine strode across the room and to a door at the end of the room. She was in the cargo hold of the ship and had to get to the upper floors. Katherine had no idea what she was gonna come across on this ship as she opened the door and left the cargo hold, but she had a feeling this mission was going to be a hectic one for her…

Back at New Mobotropolis, the fight had barely begun and already Raicor was on top of the battle. All of the foot soldiers had been going in first in an attempt weaken Raicor and give the more important Royal Fighters like Sonic and Miranda's team an edge on him. Unfortunately, their attempts had all been in vain as they weren't strong enough to take on a Devatron as strong as Raicor and Raicor had had experience taking on large numbers and coming out on top. A bunch of cannon fodder like mere foot soldiers were no match for them. Raicor had pretty much taken them all out already. There were only two soldiers left and they began showering Raicor with bullets from their machine guns. They desperately tried to hit Raicor's visor but Raicor kept raising his wings and shielding his face with them. His wings were on hinges that allowed them to reach over in front of him and they were as tough as his body was so no bullet would get through them. Raicor lowered his wings and he advanced on one of the soldiers. The soldier panicked and began to batter Raicor with his gun. Raicor took the weapon and snatched it off of him. Then Raicor grabbed the soldier and proceeded to plunge his claws into the soldiers throat and tear it! The soldier was killed instantly and Raicor dropped him down onto the ground, blood pouring out through the hole in his throat and trickling slightly out of his mouth. The last soldier, who was a woman, tried to blind Raicor with her gun but Raicor shielded his face with his win again. Then he deployed his arm cannon and shot the soldier. The soldier was thrown into the air and she landed in a very awkward position that ended up snapping her neck. She was down and out of the battle permanently now. Raicor cackled, pleased to see all the cannon fodder had been dealt with. Now all he had to get through was Sonic the Hedgehog and Miranda Mongoose's team. Sonic leaped towards Raicor and he landed a powerful kick slam on the Devatron's face. Raicor stumbled backwards but he managed to keep himself standing somehow. Sonic spin-dashed at Raicor again but Raicor shielded himself with his wings, causing Sonic to bounce harmlessly off of himself and his attack didn't affect Raicor the slightest. It didn't even push him backwards a little. Raicor unshielded himself and he pulled out a small pole like thing off his back. The pole expanded in length and three prongs protruded out of each end. This was Raicor's trademark weapon, a six pronged staff, three prongs on either end. Raicor pointed the staff at Sonic and he prepared to run him through with it.

"All your foot soldiers have fallen to me in minutes and now you and your friends shall fall." crowed Raicor "Prepare to meet your maker Sonic the Hedgehog."

Raicor lunged at Sonic with the staff but Sonic jumped out of the way and landed beside Raicor. He clenched his fists and prepared to charge into Raicor.

"I've survived your leader Raicor! Twice in fact!" yelled Sonic "You won't kill me Raicor!"

Sonic then spin-dashed Raicor in the shoulder and made the Devatron second-in-command stagger a little. Raicor swung his staff at Sonic but Sonic ducked, causing Raicor to miss and Sonic homing-attacked him. Raicor was knocked down onto his back and Miranda whipped out her electro-prod. She switched it on and before Raicor could stand back up, Miranda prodded Raicor in the neck with it and let him have it with a mighty jolt of electricity. The prod was set to it's highest voltage level. If she used it on a normal person he'd be dead in one zap. But, given the Devatron's nigh-invulnerability, Raicor wasn't effected by the zap. If anything, Raicor seemed to be ENJOYING it! Raicor stood back up with Miranda still zapping him but the prod wasn't doing any damage to him whatsoever. Raicor began to cackle at the mongoose as she tried pitifully to hurt him.

"A valiant attack young woman." sneered Raicor "But electricity does not harm Devatrons. Our bodies contain transformer devices known as Delta-Chrome Electro-Converters. It absorbs electricity and makes us feel stronger so all you're doing is making me stronger woman, not weaker. You cannot harm me with that puny weapon of yours."

Miranda immediately yanked the prod away from Raicor and quickly put it away. The mongoose in the backless shirt and chunky boots raised her fists and decided to change tactics as her weapon was assisting Raicor instead of hindering him.

"Fine, if I cannot shock you then I shall have to beat you." said Miranda bravely.

With that said, Miranda tried to punch Raicor in the face but all she ended up doing was giving herself a sore fist. She wasn't as strong as say Knuckles or Bunnie so punching metal wasn't a wise move for her. Miranda sucked on her fist furiously in order to ease the pain but Raicor put his weapon away, grabbed the mongoose and hoisted her off the ground by her neck. The mongoose began squirming in terror as Raicor glowered at her with his red visor.

"Your physical assaults are as feeble as your weapons female." jeered Raicor "Perhaps I should put you out of your misery so your feebleness can cease to embarrass you and your team further?"

"No! Oh god please no! No!" whimpered Miranda as Raicor closed his other hand around her head.

The insidious Devatron was just about to snap Miranda's neck in two. Miranda began kicking Raicor as viciously as she could but Raicor didn't even feel the kicks. All Miranda was doing was making a lot of noise as her boots kept clanging against his chrome armour. Raicor decided to just finish off Miranda already and he prepared to snap Miranda's neck. But before Raicor could make the killer blow, a pair of feathery arms wrapped around his neck and grabbed him in a chokehold. It was Kate the Eagle! The eagle hauled Raicor backwards and made him drop Miranda down onto the ground. Kate held Raicor into a very strong chokehold and she tried to snap Raicor's neck in two.

"Don't. Ever. Threaten my friend!" she snarled as she held Raicor good and tight.

Raicor growled at Kate and scratched her arm in an attempt to make her let go of him. The eagle fought the pain and she tossed Raicor straight into the wall of New Mobotropolis. But the shields were already up and even the ring wall around the city was shielded so Raicor didn't crash into it and leave a dent in it. He just hit the shields and bounced off of it. Raicor picked himself up and he growled at Kate. Kate wiped away the blood that trickled down her arm, which had three gashes in it after Raicor scratched it, and she charged towards Raicor. Raicor deployed his arm cannons and blasted Kate away with one brilliant shot. The eagle hurled backwards and landed on the ground. She skidded to a very painful halt that made her grimace in excruciating pain. Her back was grazed and the grazes stung like crazy. Raicor charged towards Kate but Thunder and Bolt both charged in and tackled him in the legs. Their twin attacks tripped Raicor up and the two chipmunks summoned lightening bolts to their hands.

"Good tackle!" cried Thunder.

"Now let's stab the blighter in the visor and blind him before he gets up!" cried Bolt.

The two chipmunks ran over to Raicor's head and they prepared to blind him. But Raicor swung his wings forward in an attempt to shield his head and because Thunder and Bolt were standing too close, Raicor conked both of them each with his wings. They dropped their bolts and they rubbed their heads better. Raicor then grabbed their bolts and stabbed them both with the bolts. But as they were lightening bolts, all it did was zap them painfully and make them leap a foot in the air each.

"Yeouch!" cried Thunder "Now I know how our victims feel!"

"Pity lightening powered beings aren't immune to their own power!" cried Bolt.

Raicor grabbed the two chipmunks and he bashed them both together. Thunder and Bolt both made gormless faces and stupid noises and Raicor threw them both into the air. Then he deployed his arm cannons and blasted them both out of the sky and down to the ground. Thunder and Bolt both lay on the ground feeling singed and sore. Raicor cackled at the lightening brothers but before he could do anything else to them, Kari the Rat charged in and began to whack him in the back with a large wrench. She was hoping to break his wings off and she whacked Raicor as hard as she dared.

"You chrome plated monster!" she squealed "I'll see you de-activated and destroyed you demons of science!"

Raicor turned around and grabbed the wrench. He yanked it out of Kari's hands and proceeded to snap the large tool in two with his bare hands, making Kari feel nervous and she backed away quickly.

"We're hardly demons of science considering we use it to it's best ability and we do not waste our scientific technology and knowledge unlike many other species in the universe." said Raicor dryly "It's thanks to our scientific technology and knowledge that we're such successful planter conquerors and our science shall help us again here."

"It's guys like you that make me disgusted over the fact science can do as much bad as it can good!" shrieked Kari "I almost feel ashamed that I follow science and technology!"

"Oh spare me your heartfelt speeches you verminous little rat." snarled Raicor, whacking Kari was hard as he could with his clawed hand "I harbour no interest in what you feel about science."

"Much like how we harbour no interest in giving ourselves up to you!" yelled Sonic, spin-dashing Raicor in the back of his head and knocking him down onto his hands and knees.

Raicor picked himself up but to his confusion, Sonic began running circles around him at top speed for some reason. Sonic was running so quickly he pretty much became a blue ring blur around Raicor and the Devatron began wondering what was happening.

"Hedgehog, there is no logic to this motion of yours." he said "Why are you doing this bizarre run around me?"

He soon found out his answer. Sonic was digging a hole around him as part of his plan. Sonic had dug a hole under Raicor and the earth underneath Raicor caved in and the Devatron fell into the hole. Sonic then buried Raicor up to his shoulders and made sure the earth around him was nice and solid so he couldn't get away. Raicor was trapped or so it seemed right now. Sonic stood beside Raicor and smirked at him.

"Since we can't put a ding in your armour, I thought I'd take you out of commission until I can think of something better." said Sonic "And I've got an idea. Since you're buried and immobilized, we can blind you and you can't do anything about it because you're stuck."

He then called over to Thunder and Bolt.

"Hey chipmunks! Blind Raicor while he's immobilized!" he called.

"No probs Sonic." said Thunder, summoning another lightning bolt to his hand.

Bolt did the same and the chipmunks ran over to the buried Raicor. As they did so, Sonic continued to further taunt Raicor.

"Maybe after we blind you, we could leave you like this and grow a garden around you." said Sonic "We could have some carrots grow around you and some string beans grow around your horns and maybe we can name it "The Deva-Garden" or something."

His crowing was brought to an abrupt end as Raicor began to strain with effort. He was attempting to pull himself free from his earth prison he was encased in. Sonic instantly stepped back and sensed that things were about to go wrong. Thunder and Bolt stopped running towards Raicor and they put away their lightening bolts, wondering what was happening. Raicor then suddenly pulled his arms out from the earth and he threw them up, sending chunks of soil and earth flying everywhere. To add more to this earth eruption he was making, he raised his wings and sent soil flying into Sonic and the chipmunk brother's faces. Raicor pulled himself out of the hole in the ground and he bore over Sonic with his wings still raised to make himself look more intimidating. Sonic had to admit it that Raicor did look pretty fierce but cool with his wings raised up.

"Your intelligence is greater then what your appearance and attitude suggests." Raicor complimented "But ultimately, you keep relying on ideas that are doomed to failure to defeat me and that is why you lose hedgehog."

He then grabbed Sonic and threw him straight into poor Kari, who was just getting ready to carry on fighting. Sonic knocked Kari off her feet and the two Mobians ended up sprawling on the ground on top of each other. Now Sonic was out of the way, Raicor flapped his wings and flew onto the shield of New Mobotropolis. As the shield was just a dome shaped force field, Raicor could just easily walk on it like a fly scuttling across a window. Raicor was looking for the shield generator and he had a feeling he'd find it if he walked across the force field and surveyed the city for anything that looked like a generator. He then noticed a large silver cube behind Castle Acorn. It had flickering red lights and it appeared to be activated. This must be the shield generator. Raicor cackled gleefully. He'd found the generator! Now all he had to do was get IN the city and then destroy it! But how was he going to do that? Raicor was sure he'd find a way but he knew neither of his weapons would help him get into the city. He flew back down to the ground and he drew out his six pronged staff again.

"Clever of the Mobians to station the shield generator within the city itself." murmured Raicor "No on can get in and attack it while the shields are up. However, nothing stands between a Devatron and it's mission and I have one way of entry that is bound to work."

He plunged one end of the staff into the ground at the foot of the wall and he began to dig a hole at the foot of the wall. He scraped away three lots of soil and then he put his staff away again. He began to dig with his claws but Sonic spin-dashed him in the back before he could dig any further. Raicor turned around sharply and deployed his arm cannons. Sonic tried to spin-dashed Raicor again but Raicor blasted him and knocked him down onto the ground. Raicor put his cannons away and he grabbed Sonic by his quills. He then slammed Sonic against the wall and Sonic felt the full strength of the shields as he was slammed against them. Raicor then drew out his staff again and he pinned Sonic down to the ground with two of the prongs around his neck. Sonic tried to free himself but Raicor was too strong for him.

"Cease your futile resistance hedgehog." growled Raicor "I'm sure your flaccid mind can comprehend from the current activity going on that you are unable to fathom me."

"Urk! Gyyyaaaarrrrghhh!" grunted Sonic as he tried to keep himself from being throttled by the staff "Raicor, you need to comprehend this! I don't give up! I'll never give up! We're not letting you win and that's all there is to it! Hurk!"

"You Mobians truly are the embodiment of obstinacy." snarled Raicor "And that shall be your downfall. We'll weaken that overbearing fiduciary of yours hedgehog, it's just a matter of time until you realize that you cannot win."

His crowing was cut off by a sudden punch to the face from Kate the Eagle. Raicor was thrown away from Sonic and Kate yanked his staff away from Sonic so the hedgehog could now stand again. Kate threw the staff at Raicor but Raicor caught it and he pointed it at Kate. Kate then suddenly surprised Raicor by drawing out Devion's sword from behind her. She had had the sword tied to her back the whole time and she decided now was a good time to use it. Raicor kept his staff pointed at Kate and the two prepared to lunge at each other.

"How did you manage to get Devion's sword?" asked Raicor.

"Well according to one of my buddies, he dropped it after getting blinded by Scott Lynx." explained Sonic "And since Devion got thrown out, he didn't get a chance to get his sword back and now we're gonna use it on you."

"Then it appears I have to destroy the shield generator and retrieve Devion's valued weapon at the same time." muttered Raicor "Prepare to fight me feathered one."

Kate obliged and she ran towards Raicor with the sword raised above her head…

Back on The Doombringer , Kiara, Tails and Cosmo had been searching through many corridors and were doing surprisingly well considering they're in unfamiliar territory and there's lots of Devatrons around. They hadn't been caught yet and they were still looking for a room of significance to them. Most of the rooms they'd looked in were either full of Devatrons, machinery or just training rooms for the soldiers. Still, it never hurt to look in various places and get to know the place up and down. It would be helpful to them should they attempt this again.

"Hey Cosmo, have you found any important rooms yet?" whispered Kiara.

"I'm sorry Kiara but I haven't." Cosmo whispered back "The two rooms in this section of the corridor are empty and are of no use to us."

"This is getting really annoying now." muttered Tails quietly "We've been searching this stinkin' vessel for minutes on end and nothing looks valuable to us. Sonic was right to think maybe an infiltration mission would result in nothing…"

"Tails honey, please stop moaning." said Kiara softly "We've barely gotten through the lower floors yet, we've got many more floors of this chrome dome to go yet so don't get irritated when we've barely begun."

"Sorry." whispered Tails "I'm just expecting us to find what we're looking for so soon a bit like what Sonic does when he's looking for something."

"I can see why you two get on so well then." chuckled Kiara "Anyway, let's try the upper floors and see what we find up there."

"We should try the very top floors." suggested Cosmo "That's were all the important stuff is likely to be."

"Good idea Cosmo, but we haven't got a means of getting up there." said Tails.

"We have." said Kiara "I've found a lift over there. Come on."

She pointed to a door in the wall a few feet from where they were and the three Mobians crept over to it. Kiara looked both ways first and then she pressed a button on the control pad. The doors opened and the three Mobians stepped into the lift. The doors closed and Kiara looked at the keypad on the wall next to her. There was a button pointing up and Kiara decided to press that and see where it took them. The lift obeyed the button's command and it began to descend up from the current floor it was on and went straight up to the top floor of The Doombringer . The Mobians could feel it under their feet how fast the lift was going. Devatron lifts are very fast after all. The lift reached the top floor of The Doombringer and the doors opened. Tails cautiously stepped out and looked both ways to make sure the coast was clear. There was no one around so Tails signalled for Cosmo and Kiara to come out. The trio stepped out of the elevator and crept down the corridor.

"You know what? I can imagine Sora from the M.S.I.U. doing something like this." said Tails "It'd be of great help if she was actually here with us right now. She's a super spy and she'd help us greatly."

"Who's Sora?" asked Kiara.

"A super spy who helped us stop the Region of Rebellious Reptiles from wrecking the Annual Acorn Awards last year." explained Cosmo "Tails feels like he knows her for some reason."

"You're right Cosmo." said Tails "And next time we see her, I'm gonna find out why I feel familiar with her. But now, we're infiltrating The Doombringer so I should focus on that now."

"Yes, that would be helpful." said Kiara impatiently.

The trio stopped talking and continued being stealthy. They crept down the quiet chrome corridors and they kept their eyes open for anything that looked interesting. They kept their senses alert for any signs of Devatrons around too. Unbeknownst to them though, they were heading towards the cockpit where Devion and Tronic were stationed currently. Not that it'd be anything to worry about as they had no idea about it. Tails looked over his shoulder and made sure there was nothing coming behind him. Then suddenly, as he was looking behind himself, he bumped into something and he instantly braced himself to attack. He raised his fists and stared at what he'd just bumped into. It was Katherine! Katherine had reached the top floor and was just looking around for anything important and now she'd just bumped into Tails. Tails lowered his fists and stared at the fembot in surprise.

"Katherine?!" blurted Tails "Wha…What?! What the heck are you doing here?!"

Katherine didn't answer him. Instead she stared ominously at him with her emotionless black visor.

"Who the hell is that?" asked Kiara.

"Dr. Eggman's new servant bot." said Cosmo "He's retired Alonzo and has decided to have Katherine instead. Katherine's a lot worse then Alonzo is according to Sonic and the Northern Royal Fighters."

"Well if she's Eggman's loyal clanker then let's smash it!" yelled Kiara "Anything that belongs to Eggman deserves to get torn apart as a sign of how much we despise him!"

"No Kiara, we can't do that or we're gonna get ourselves found out."

said Tails "Katherine, please step down for the sake of everybody here. We're here to infiltrate The Doombringer and you're obviously here to do something similar and we don't wanna get caught so please don't start a fight with us."

Katherine ignored Tails' pleas and decided to get rid of the trio. She wanted to get the ship for Eggman and if these three were infiltrating it then she had to get rid of them before they did any damage or find out anything important so that should Eggman get it, they'd be ready to take it down and capturing The Doombringer would have been all for naught. Katherine lunged forward and she slashed Tails across the face with her long thin claws. Tails screamed in pain and Katherine threw him into a wall. Kiara instantly reacted and she pounced on Katherine. She dropkicked the servant bot and then began to rapidly punch the silent fem-bot.

"Oy! You pick on my friends, you pick on me you tin-plated freak!" she squealed "We've got a mission to do and we can do without you getting in the bleeding way!"

Katherine just activated her shield generator and she repelled Kiara away with her barrier activating and spreading out. Kiara hurtled backwards across the corridor and she landed with a clunk on the floor. The cheetah lay on the floor with pain flooding through her back. Tails picked himself up from the wall slam earlier and he flew towards Katherine. He dropkicked her in the head and knocked her down onto the floor. Katherine picked herself up and rubbed her head better.

"Katherine, please don't do this!" yelled Tails "You're gonna get us all found out and likely killed if you fight us like this! Stand down and leave us alone already!"

Katherine refused to obey Tails and instead, fired a bladed disc at him. The disc skimmed him across the shoulder at the base of his neck. Tails cried out and he gripped his bleeding neck. Katherine then proceeded to uppercut Tails into a wall and the fox hit the wall with a heavy thud. Tails stared fearfully at Katherine and he kept his back pressed against the wall as the vicious servant bot advanced on him.

"Katherine, why won't you listen to me?" asked Tails "Do you WANT to get us found out or something? Please stop this!"

"Tails for god's sake! Stop trying to reason with her!" screeched Kiara, leaping in and kicking Katherine in the head "She's an Eggman robot and she wants to kill us so just smash the bitch already!"

"Kiara, we're on an infiltration mission." noted Tails "Starting a fight in the hallways is NOT infiltrating! It's attracting attention, which is what we DON'T want to do right now! That's why I keep trying to reason with her and get her to stop fighting us!"

"Well it's not working so stop trying and just kick her ass in!" yelled Kiara, throwing Katherine into a wall.

Katherine played an audio clip of a beat growling and she ran towards Kiara but Cosmo stuck her leg out and tripped the servant bot up. Katherine fell down onto her front and Kiara began stomping on Katherine's head in an attempt to destroy it. Katherine activated her barrier in order to save herself and Kiara found herself stomping on a barrier. Katherine picked herself up, switched off her barrier and grabbed Kiara by her neck. The servant bot then proceeded to throw Kiara straight into the door to the cockpit that was just inches away from where they were now. Kiara hit the door with a loud thud and that attracted the attention of Devion, who was sitting in his throne and awaiting updates from Raicor. Devion leaped out of his throne and he looked at the door.

"What in the name of Deaveron is going on out there?!" he snarled "If there are two soldiers fighting each other again I shall have to eviscerate them both! Tronic, keep an eye on things while in investigate what's happening outside."

Tronic obeyed and remained seated while Devion stormed over to the door and opened it. He stepped out of the cockpit only to find Tails, Cosmo, Kiara and Katherine all brawling with each other in his corridors. The four intruders stopped fighting and they stared at Devion in terror. Devion was livid and if he had a face capable of expressing any emotion known to mankind, his face would be legendary.

"INTRUDERS!" roared Devion "How dare you heathens invade my territory?! Well none of you will leave The Doombringer alive!"

He reached into his back pack and pulled out a new sword he had to temporarily replace his old one which he'd lost during his attack on New Mobotropolis yesterday. This sword was only silver in colour and looked a little like a Scottish claymore and it wasn't as impressive as his golden one but it had to do until he got his old sword back. Tails scowled at Katherine and he kicked her in the shin as hard as he could in temper. Katherine glared at him but did nothing.

"Way to go you dumbass!" snapped Kiara "You've given us away you stupid robot!"

"Our mission's compromised now Katherine!" yelled Tails angrily "And I bet yours is too! This is why you should have listened to me instead of beating the snot out of us all!"

"We've got to get out of here before Devion kills us all!" screeched Cosmo as Devion swung his sword at them and tried to cleave them all in two.

They all dodged and Devion hit the floor instead. Kiara scooped Tails and Cosmo up under each arm and she ran for it as fast as her legs would let her. Devion roared loudly and he ran after them as fast as he could go. But not even Devion could match cheetah speed. He was falling behind miserably but he wasn't about to let that stop him from slaughtering them all. Seeing as Devion was after the Mobians, Katherine ran down the other corridor and made her get away. She took a lift down to the bottom floor and when the lift arrived, she ran out of the lift and towards the hole in the floor she'd made to get into the ship in the first place. She leaped down the hole and ran away from The Doombringer as fast as she could, furious that her mission had been compromised and she'd had to retreat. She hoped Dr. Eggman was going to be merciful to her as the fat doctor didn't like failure and probably wasn't going to be happy with this failure of hers. Back on The Doombringer , Kiara was managing to lose Devion but the corridors seemed to go on forever. She couldn't keep running forever as cheetahs tire out after awhile of running so she had to get out eventually. Kiara looked over her shoulder to see how far behind Devion was. Devion was so far behind, she couldn't see him. Now was a good moment to stop and see if she could find a way off this thing before Devion caught up to them as going at her speed, she couldn't see anything as the walls all became a blur when she ran at top speed. Kiara screeched to a halt and she put Tails and Cosmo down.

"Kiara, why are you stopping?!" cried Tails "Devion's gonna catch up to us!"

"I'm looking for a way off this joint!" retorted Kiara "I can't see any lifts around here and I bet Devion's gonna call for back up to help him catch us so the lifts will likely all be full of Devatrons so we can't use them anyway. There must be a way off somewhere…"

"How about that window up there?" asked Cosmo, pointing to a window that loomed above the corridor.

Tails and Kiara looked up at the window and noticed that Cosmo had found their escape route.

"Good spotting Cosmo." said Tails "Let's get out that way."

Kiara jumped up to the window and she kicked it as hard as she could. The window shattered into tiny shards of glass and Kiara looked through the window. The height they were at was not a good height to jump off. They were on the top floor of The Doombringer and The Doombringer was a colossal vessel so they were going to be very high up from where they were. Kiara didn't dare jump out in case she crippled herself down below. Tails grabbed Cosmo by the arm and he flew himself and her out of the window. He then grabbed Kiara by the arm and lifted her away from the window and out into the open air of the outside world just as Devion caught up to them. Devion leaped up to the window and looked outside, only to see that the intruders were retreating. Tails but down Kiara and Cosmo and the cheetah zoomed off with them in tow again. Devion would never catch them now. He growled furiously at the fact he'd just failed to catch the intruders and he dropped back down onto the floor. He sheathed his sword and activated his comlink.

"Tronic! We've had intruders on the ship!" he barked "Run a diagnostic test for any sign of sabotage!"

"Yes Lord Devion." droned Tronic.

Tronic paused for a moment as he ran the scan. Devion patiently waited for Tronic to give him the report as he ran the scan. A minute later, Tronic spoke to him again.

"Scans show all clear." droned Tronic "The ship has not been sabotaged in anyway. The intruders have not caused any harm to the ship other then a broken window and a hole in the underbelly."

"Then they've failed their mission, which was obviously infiltrate our ship and hinder us." said Devion as he walked back up the corridors and back to the cockpit "Those Mobians are trying rather old fashioned tactics aren't they? Just about every planet I've landed on has attempted to sabotage The Doombringer and none have prevailed. Still, we're going to have to keep up our excellent security if we're to prevent this from happening again."

While furious the intruders had escaped, Devion was pleased that they hadn't managed to do anything while aboard The Doombringer . But there was no doubt the Mobians would try this again so he would have to remain vigilant and keep his senses alert for any signs of intrusion from now on…

Back at New Mobotropolis, Kate and Raicor were engaged in a heavy fight. Kate was using Devion's golden sword and Raicor was using his staff. The two clashed weapons heavily and their fight appeared to be even sided so far. Nobody had managed to get the other with their weapons and they were doing a good job of defending themselves from oncoming attacks from the other. Raicor tried to slash Kate with the prongs of his staff but Kate blocked the attack with the swing of the sword and she struck Raicor on the arm with the sword. But not even Devion's sword could penetrate a Devatron's armour. Raicor retaliated by whacking Kate in the face with the staff and the eagle staggered backwards. Raicor then slashed Kate across the stomach with his staff and made the eagle double over in pain. Raicor then tried to finish her off but Kate blocked his attack with the sword. However, Raicor had the sword's blade in between the prongs of his staff and Raicor gave his staff a sharp jerk that ended up wrenching the sword out of Kate's grasp and sending it flying up into the air. Raicor lunged up and grabbed the sword and he attacked it to his back under his wings, which were clipped together to form his cape again.

"Thanks ever so much for letting me have Devion's sword back." sneered Raicor "Now that's one matter over with, I can now try to destroy your shield generator."

Kate screeched a fearsome eagle screech and she charged towards Raicor. Raicor just pointed his staff at her and prepared to skewer her but Kate dodged the attack and she roundhouse punched Raicor in the face. she then tried to punch him in the visor and hopefully crack it but Raicor pushed her away and then quickly swerved around and raised his staff to block a spin-dash attack from Sonic. Sonic bounced back and he charged at Raicor again but Raicor kicked him away and sent him skidding backwards. Thunder and Bolt tried to bring Raicor down by throwing lightening bolts at him but the bolts ricocheted off his armour and did no harm to Raicor. Raicor deployed one of his arm cannons and he blasted the two chipmunks away. Miranda then foolishly ran in and grabbed Raicor's staff. She tried to yank it out of his hands but Raicor effortlessly shoved her aside and stormed off towards New Mobotropolis. he put his staff away and began to claw away at the earth at the foot of the ring wall that surrounded New Mobotropolis. Sonic helped Miranda get back up onto her feet and the two stared helplessly at Raicor as he began to dig his way under the wall.

"This is stupid!" cried Sonic "We hit him with everything we've got and he's STILL standing!"

"I know have a hatred of invulnerable beings." puffed Miranda "I'm useless against him, Kari's even more useless, Thunder and Bolt's aim isn't good enough to blind him and Kate's the only one out of my team who can stand up to him and even she can't stop him. We can't win this fight."

"Well we can't just stand here and let Raicor dig his way into the city." said Sonic "He's found the shield generator so once he gets under the wall, he's gonna destroy it and leave us vulnerable for The Doombringer . We've gotta do something."

"I know." said Miranda "And we've got something. Let's call in the other teams."

"Aha!" said Sonic "You've got it Miranda! I bet not even Raicor can't take down the whole R.F.S. if they all come out at once and face him! Especially as the whole service is here and instead of the important members who were invited to the concert the day Devion arrived."

Miranda whipped out a communications device and she called Queen Sally Acorn with it.

"Hello? Queen Sally?" she asked "We're going to need the other teams out here. We're having problems out here."

"OK Miranda, I'll give the message out immediately." said Sally "You may have to hold on as the soldiers arm themselves with the right weapons."

"We'll do our best." said Miranda.

She put the device away and informed Sonic on what she'd been told.

"Back up's coming but we've gotta wait while they arm themselves." she said.

"That shouldn't take too long." said Sonic "We'll hold on until they arrive. Right now, we've gotta stop Raicor from digging under the wall before our backup can come."

Luckily for Sonic and Miranda, Kate was already on it. Kate tackled Raicor from the side and knocked him away from the wall to stop him from digging. Raicor picked himself up and drew out his staff again. He lunged at Kate and Kate braced herself. Raicor tried to attack her but Kate grabbed the staff and held it in place. The two then began to fight each other over the staff. They both pulled and pushed on the staff, trying their hardest to wrench it from either one's grasp. Unfortunately, Kate lost and Raicor managed to wrench the staff out of the eagle's grasp…and then Raicor twirled the staff around and plunged it straight into Kate's stomach! The end of the staff went straight through her gut and came out of her back! The eagle screeched in pain and had a look of shock on her face as she was penetrated. Miranda and Sonic stared in horror at this and Miranda was about to lose her mind with horror.

Kate! No!" screamed Miranda.

Raicor cackled evilly and he kicked Kate straight off his staff. The eagle collapsed down onto the ground, staring up at the sky and clutching the hole in her stomach. She was bleeding like mad and quickly losing the will to live. Miranda bolted towards Kate and she threw herself down on the ground beside her fallen friend. Kari and the chipmunk brothers joined her and they stared at their friend who was slowly beginning to die. Sonic respectfully stayed back and let Kate's friends gather around her. Miranda held Kate's hand and began wailing to her.

"Kate! Can you hear me?!" she wailed, her eyes flowing with tears "Please, don't die on me! Don't die Kate! Please tell me you're going to be alright! Kate? Kate!"

The eagle only had enough strength in her to turn her head to Miranda and smile weakly at her.

"Good…bye…Miranda…" she breathed out weakly.

And with that, the eagle gave out her last breath and closed her eyes. Kate was dead. Miranda let out a horrified gasp and she lost her mind with grief. She began to wail into her hands and howl sadly.

"NO! No, no, no, no!" she sobbed "Oh Kate! You're dead! My best friend is dead! This team will never be the same again without you! Oh why did this have to happen to you Kate?!"

She continued to sob uncontrollably beside Kate's dead body. Kari, Thunder and Bolt couldn't help but shed a tear for their deceased friend. They knew how well Miranda and Kate got along and they felt her heartbreak. Even Sonic could feel the pain Miranda was feeling right now and he shed a tear himself. Kate had once saved his life during his time in Black Acropolis with the Northern Royal Fighters and he owed her one. But since the eagle was now dead, he couldn't return the favour. Raicor watched the snivelling mongoose grieve over Kate and the whole scenario seemed to disgust him.

"You Mobians are just like the other races we've beaten and subjugated." he crowed "You all rely heavily on the disgusting emotion known as love. Love is the weakest of all emotions and we Devatrons thankfully are incapable of feeling such a putrid emotion. No wonder we're so strong, we do not get distracted by heartbreak, grief and loss."

"Hey! Shut up Raicor!" yelled Sonic "Can't you see poor Miranda's crying her heart out here?! You've just killed her best friend! Of course she's sad about it and she can do without you belittling love right now!"

"I do not care what you Mobians feel." snapped Raicor "And if Miranda is so upset about her friend's death then maybe I should kill her and give her the pleasure of reuniting with her fallen comrade."

He pointed his staff at Miranda and he prepared to kill the heartbroken mongoose. Miranda saw this and she freaked at the sight of the staff.

"No! Please don't!" cried Miranda "Don't kill me too!"

Raicor ignored Miranda and prepared to put the mongoose out of her misery. Raicor was ready to plunge the staff into Miranda and Miranda covered her still wet eyes fearfully. Sonic was ready to stop Raicor but something beat him too it. A rocket roared onto the scene and struck Raicor in the chest. Raicor staggered backwards and he fell onto his back. Sonic looked to see where the rocket had come from and to his delight, it came from an R.F.S. soldier who was wielding a rocket launcher. The other teams had come to join in the battle at last! Pity they weren't in time to save Kate though. The whole R.F.S. ran onto the scene and they began bombarding Raicor with bullets and rockets. Raicor shielded himself with his wings and he growled in annoyance.

"Raaaaarrrrggghhhhh!" he roared "Curse those filthy stinking Mobians for having back up! As mighty as I am, even I can't take on such a big army by myself! I need to retreat in order to save myself! I hope Devion understands."

With that said, Raicor turned turtle and ran for it as fast as he could. He hated retreating but even he knew when he was beaten so he had to flee for it. Raicor deployed his mighty wings and he flew away as fast as he could before he could get overwhelmed. The R.F.S. soldiers kept firing madly at him but their weapons didn't hit him and Raicor was too high up and too far away for them to get him now so they stopped firing.

"Now that's how you scare a Devatron off!" taunted Amy Rose "Pity he had to run for it before I could hammer him!"

"You'll get him next time Amy." Knuckles the Echidna assured the pink hedgehog "For now, we can breathe a sigh of relief as the Devatron threat is pushed back and the shield generator remains safe."

"I question why Devion only sent one Devatron out to get the generator." said Shade the Echidna "Did he think he only needed one to do so?"

"I dunno luv." said Geoffrey St. John "But I bet they'll be back in bigger numbers next time so we'd best be ready for it."

"Hey guys?" said Cream the Rabbit "I'm afraid we've been stricken by tragedy. Look."

She pointed at the dead body of Kate the Eagle. Amy saw Kate's dead body and she put her hands to her mouth in shock.

"Kate!" screamed Amy "Oh no! What happened to her?!"

"Raicor stabbed her." said Sonic "And unfortunately, the attack killed her. We may have pushed Raicor back, but we've lost a valuable comrade not just to the Northern Royal Fighters, but to the entire R.F.S. itself. Kate was a credit to the service with her strength and bravery and I should know because during the eight months I fought before I met Tails, Knuckles and you and Cream, I've seen her fight and she fought well. The R.F.S. has lost a great member."

He then looked over at Miranda who was still sobbing over Kate's death. Kari, Thunder and Bolt all gave her a group hug to make her feel better.

"And nobody feels the pain more then Miranda does." said Sonic.

"I know." said Amy sadly "She and Kate were old school friends and now Miranda's lost her. I bet she'll never recover from this tragedy."

"She will eventually." said Sonic "But for now, we've gotta let Miranda get to grips with herself and only she can do that. We can't make her move on, she'll move on under her own steam."

"That is well said Sonic." said Sally "We shall throw a funeral for poor Kate the Eagle later today and pay our respects to her. Let's get back in the city and prepare the funeral."

With that said, the whole R.F.S. went back into New Mobotropolis and Sonic and Amy helped Kari, Thunder, Bolt and Miranda carry Kate's body into the city so she could be put to rest. This victory had been a pretty solemn one. They'd stopped Raicor but they'd lost a Royal Fighter and Sonic had a terrible feeling that they might lose another if the Devatrons keep coming at them. They were bound to be back and this time, in large numbers and there was bound to be a bigger death toll then just the one death they've had today…

OMG! A CHARACTER DEATH! Bet you didn't expect that! Well this isn't the first time so it's nothing special really. Anyway, talk about a double dose of crap for Sonic and friends! Kate's dead and the infiltration mission has gone belly up! WHAT MORE CRAP CAN HAPPEN TO THEM?! Oh wait, I shouldn't ask that as I'm giving fate some ideas...Anyway, things only get worse for Sonic and friends as Devion unleashes his new weapon(No it's not Chrome Blaster before any of you readers of the Devatron trilogy think that!)

Devatrons Unleashed!

Story 104: Devatrons Unleashed!

Raicor, the Devatron second-in-command nervously approached the cockpit of The Doombringer , the very place Devion was often stationed in when he wasn't in battle. He was worried on what Devion was going to do to him as he'd failed his mission and had been forced to retreat. Despite their cruelty and sadism, even Devatrons were capable of expressing fear and Devion often gave people who failed cruel punishments or even death so Raicor really wasn't looking forward to facing Devion right now but he had to do his duty and report to Devion so he didn't let his fear drag him down and he entered the cockpit. Devion was standing in front of a window and peering out into the distance with his back turned on everybody. Raicor walked slowly up to Devion, his circuitry humming rapidly like a racing heartbeat as he did so.

"D-D-Devion m-my lord." stammered Raicor nervously.

"I take it from the unsubtle tone of fright in your voice that you have not returned to The Doombringer with good news to deliver to me." said Devion coldly without even turning around.

"W-w-well Devion I-I have good and bad news for you." said Raicor "First the bad news. I-I-I-I…I've f-f-failed m-my mission L-Lord Devion. The Mobians have increased their numbers and I was forced to retreat…"

Devion's reaction to that was to turn around at a blinding speed and backhand Raicor across the cockpit as hard as he could. Raicor hurtled across the room and he crashed into the wall, leaving a massive dent in it. Devion then stormed up to Raicor and he seized the Devatron by his neck. He slammed against the wall and throttled him.

"You miserable chrome-plated failure!" snarled Devion "Did I not make it clear on what your comeuppance would be if you failed your mission Raicor?!"

"You did Devion!" cried Raicor "I didn't want to retreat but I had to! The Mobians were all armed with rockets and bullets and there were hundreds of them all wielding those weapons and only one of me! I couldn't possible fight off such a vast army by myself, even if my strength is on par with yours!"

"I see." said Devion coldly. "Those Mobians are definitely doubling their efforts I can see. So, what light have you got to break up the darkness then since you claim to have news of a good and bad nature?"

"Well I have several good things to tell you my lord." said Raicor as Devion let go of him "First, I've managed to retrieve your sword…"

He reached behind his back and pulled out Devion's trademark golden sword and presented it to him like a servant presenting a brave knight his sword. Devion took the sword from Raicor and he sheathed it into his backpack.

"Well done Raicor." said Devion "It feels good to have my sword back in my possession. So what else have you got to say?"

"I've managed to kill a Royal Fighter." explained Raicor "And in doing so, I've provoked an emotional breakdown for that Royal Fighter's leader. Sadly it wasn't Sonic but I bet Sonic and his friends will be distracted by the loss of that fighter and we can use this very moment to strike them while they're not prepared for us."

"Why do fleshlings have to have the misfortune of experiencing such a disgusting emotion I wonder." mused Devion, scowling "Love is so revolting and scornful I am mystified as to why organic creatures think so highly of it. All it does is make them weak and when their loved ones die, they get consumed by grief, despair and heartbreak to the point where it kills them."

"I couldn't agree more Devion." said Raicor "And finally, I've found the shield generator. It is behind the castle structure in the city of New Mobotropolis itself."

"Is it?" purred Devion "Clever of those Mobian mongrels to station the generator within the walls of their very city. When the shields are up, we have no chance of getting inside."

"We do my lord." said Raicor "We can dig under the wall itself and into the city."

"Indeed Raicor." said Devion "And what better Devatron to recruit for this task then our secret and most powerful weapon?"

"Secret and most powerful…you don't mean…?" said Raicor nervously.

"Yes I do Raicor…" purred Devion darkly as he left the cockpit and strode on down the corridors with Raicor following him.

Devion and Raicor went into one of the lifts and they took the lift down to the bottom floor of The Doombringer . The lift arrived and Devion and Raicor took a corridor that led to a giant door marked with warning stripes. It was quite clear this room was dangerous and only the most experienced and careful of Devatrons such as the leaders can go in it. Devion pressed his hand against the handprint pad beside the door and the door opened up. He and Raicor walked through the door and they found themselves standing on a balcony that loomed over something very big and very lethal. This room contained the Devatron's secret weapon and it was a giant monstrous behemoth of a Devatron that looked like it wasn't even the same species. It was about as big as three double-decker buses piled on top of one another and had six enormous legs tipped with three claws that had spikes at the tips. It had twin-cannons on it's back, a long tail that was almost as long as the EmpireStateBuilding is tall and tipped with spikes, a neck laden with spikes and a head that contained a row of spikes behind it and two long thin structures that formed horn shapes on the top spike on it's head. In place of a mouth, it had a grotesque maw of spikes that sort of resembled teeth and it had the Devatron's trademark V-shaped visor that glowed red and looked pretty hellish. Devion looked down at the monster with glee and he then entered exposition mode.

"Our own secret weapon, constructed by the very hands of the late King Hardigm himself." he said "The Deva-Beast. The main reason we win many of our battles. It's colossal size makes it impossible to take down and it has digging abilities unmatched by anything in the galaxy. It's limbs have the capacity of extending to five times their normal length so it'll easily get us into the city so we can destroy the shield generator."

"As much as I love the Deva-Beast Devion, don't you think using it is a bit of an overkill?" asked Raicor "We don't want to destroy New Mobotropolis as taking it over and running the city will dampen the hero's spirits more then if we destroy it. The Deva-Beast will easily destroy New Mobotropolis given it's immense size."

"I know Raicor." said Devion "The Deva-Beast will only dig a tunnel under the walls of New Mobotropolis and then it'll distract Sonic and his Royal Fighter cronies while I crawl through the tunnel and take the liberty of destroying the generator myself. The Deva-Beast is only the distraction Raicor. Once I take down the shield generator, I will contact you and you will bring The Doombringer over to New Mobotropolis and then our takeover can begin."

"That plan sounds like it's going to work to perfection my lord." said Raicor "Shall we unleash the Deva-Beast then?"

"We shall indeed Raicor." said Devion, pulling a lever on the wall that opened up a huge door in the wall that allowed the Deva-Beast to go outside.

The Deva-Beast heard the door opening. That was always a sign to it that it was time for it to come out. The Deva-Beast stood up and looked outside, wondering what it was going to be needed for. Devion leaped down from the balcony and he landed on the Deva-Beast's back. The Deva-Beast could sense that it' master had a task for it. Devion stood behind the Deva-Beast's head and he spoke to it.

"My dear pet, I have an imperative task for you." said Devion, talking softly to it as if he was a dog owner sweet-talking to his dog "I need your help breaching enemy territory and you will also keep the resistance at bay while I leave them prone to us."

The Deva-Beast liked the sound of that. It loved malice and mayhem and it was easily going to enjoy this task.

"Our enemies reside in a city sixty miles away from our current position and to the north-west of where we are." said Devion "Follow those instructions and go there my glorious weapon of mass destruction! Go forth Deva-Beast!"

The Deva-Beast let out a thunderous roar that made The Doombringer shake and it leaped out of it's resting place and into the outside world of Mobius. It dug down into the ground and headed off in Devion's directions. Devion had gone down into a special compartment of the Deva-Beast that allowed him to ride safely inside it while it was digging. After all, he needed to keep control of the Deva-Beast and make sure it didn't go out of control as a beast this big needed to be kept under tight watch. The Deva-Beast disappeared down into the ground and headed off to New Mobotropolis. Sonic and friends were doomed once this monster of a Devatron arrived at the city and attacked. New Mobotropolis was as good as captured for the Devatrons…

Meanwhile over in New Mobotropolis, the recently deceased Kate the Eagle, the strongwoman of the Northern Royal Fighters and best friend of the team leader Miranda Mongoose had just been put to rest in the New Mobotropolis cemetery. Queen Sally Acorn had hosted the funeral and everybody attending had paid their respects to the fallen eagle. Sonic the Hedgehog had decided to go last as he wasn't that keen on funerals and wanted the atmosphere to die down a bit so it didn't get to him. After everybody had left, Sonic went over to Kate's grave and laid down a bouquet of flowers at her grave. Kate's headstone said "Here Lies Kate the Eagle, a credit to the R.F.S. and brave woman who fell in the heat of the battle. May she rest in peace and have good luck in the afterlife." Sonic looked at the stone and his face fell. He neatly lay the bouquet near the headstone and he spoke to it.

"Kate, you were way past cool." said Sonic "You were as tough as many people I know, especially Knuckles, and you saved my life once. I've been meaning to return the favour one day but now you're dead, I can't do that. But I promise you that we'll defeat the Devatrons and make sure your death wasn't in vain. I'll take care of Miranda for you and that I do mean. The hedgehog gives his word Kate that Miranda, Kari, Thunder and Bolt will be just fine."

Sonic then stood up from Kate's grave and he left the cemetery, trying not to let the gloomy atmosphere of the place bring him down. As Sonic left the cemetery, he turned to the left and headed to Royal HQ that stood proudly on the hill beside Castle Acorn. Royal HQ was probably the only place that offered him any joy right now. Ever since the Devatrons had landed, things just hadn't been going his way. He fails to beat Devion's challenge and get the Devatrons to leave, then a councillor betrays everybody and tries to frame him and get New Mobotropolis conquered, Field Marshal Thomas Tiger gets crippled for life by Devion so the Megapolis Royal Fighters have to fight their battles without him from now on, Castle Acorn loses it's guards and now Kate the Eagle gets killed in a battle to defend the shield generator and the Devatrons are likely to come back and unleash hell on everybody and this time in big numbers. Sonic never thought he'd come to this…but he actually found himself MISSING Dr. Eggman now! At least he could handle Dr. Eggman, the Devatrons were way too much for him and the R.F.S. right now. They were invulnerable robots that have amazing tech, a big army and a giant battleship at their disposal whereas Eggman was only a human being with killer robots that were easy to smash and could never beat him…well maybe one or two could but that was besides the point. Eggman was a shadow of a threat in comparison to Devion and Sonic would rather be fighting the evil (omelette) dictator right now instead of a bunch of invulnerable robots that can only be beaten by being blinded. But since the Devatrons were here, he'd have to fight them first before continuing the war with Dr. Eggman. They were by far the bigger threat and Eggman was likely to still be hiding and waiting to make his next move right now so he wasn't something to worry about. If anything, the Devatrons would kill him should he come out and join in. Sonic put those thoughts to the side as he entered Royal HQ and went into the rest room where his friends Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Shade, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Bunnie and Ruben were waiting for him.

"Hey Sonic." said Tails, pleased to see him "Have you paid your respects to Kate yet?"

"I sure have Tails." said Sonic "Lay down a nice bouquet for her. That's the most she deserves for her hard work."

"The pitying thing is me, Tails, Knuckles, Cream, Cosmo, Shade and Ruben barely knew her." said Amy sadly "Well me and Tails know Kate more then the others but still it really is a pity that the others didn't really get to know Kate better. Kate was cool just like Miranda and her team and me and her were gonna get along just fine. And now she's dead."

"I feel sorry for poor Miranda." said Wilson who was polishing his spinning blade weapon "She's lost her mind with grief and hasn't stopped wailing since the tragedy happened. I have a feeling the death of her good friend's gonna get to her really badly."

"I'd love to give some support to Miranda." said his wife Mandy "She needs it right now. But I think Miranda's not in the mood for seeing anybody right now so we should just let her simmer down and come to grips with herself before we start interfering with her."

"Aye, the poor lass will move on some day soon but we can't rush that." said Geoffrey "Miranda will have to come to grips herself and I think the support of her team mates is all she really needs right now. I'm sure Kari and the chipmunk brothers will be of great help to her in getting out of the ashes of this tragedy."

"While I feel sorry about the death of your friend, I think we should put it behind us and focus on the more important tasks now." said Knuckles "Like defeating the Devatrons."

"Yeah Knuckles but we're not really sure how we can defeat them." said Sonic "They're invulnerable, blinding them isn't really that helpful to us and the leaders are harder to hit. Not to mention if we kill a soldier Devion will probably just make another as he's a robot and he probably makes his soldiers."

"I feel bad that the infiltration mission went horribly wrong." muttered Tails, thumping the sofa arm angrily as he thought back on the mission he, Cosmo and Kiara went on earlier "Me, Cosmo and Kiara were doing just fine until Katherine sticks her ugly face in where it doesn't belong and she gives us away by blatantly ignoring me and starting a fight with me and Kiara!"

"I wonder what Katherine was doing on The Doombringer in the first place." wondered Ruben "Does Eggman want to get rid of the Devatrons as well?"

"Ah dunno sugah, ah doubt Eggman knows anythin' about the dang Devatrons Ruben." said Bunnie Rabbot unsurely "Although they have landed in Megapolis and he's only in the Northern Border…"

"Well if Katherine's been nosing around on The Doombringer it means that Eggman's on our side for once." said Sonic "And that is a good thing. Makes a change from him constantly trying to roboticize us all and take over Mobius but I bet he's not doing this for a good cause if he is on our side."

"If anything, Eggman likely only wants to get rid ofthe Devatrons just so he doesn't have a threat to his tyranny." grumbled Knuckles "He's not gonna be doing it for us that's for sure!"

"Either way, we should not stop Eggman from helping us if he wishes to do so." said Shade "It'd be better to have him help us then hinder us or do nothing at all."

"I agree with Miss Shade." said Cream "If Eggman helps us fight the Devatrons then we might have a better chance against them. As my mother likes to say "The more the merrier" and "Many hands make light work"."

"While you are right in a way Cream I do not think Eggman's going to be very helpful." said Cosmo "Eggman can't even beat us and he builds machines many times larger then we are and are capable of doing damage as great as what the Devatrons are capable of. The Devatrons would beat him easily."

"You're right on the money there Cosmo." said Sonic "But that ain't gonna stop ol' Egg-Butt from trying as he never gives up on us. Still, I think it'd be interesting to see Eggman and the Devatrons actually fight each other…"

The conversation was interrupted by a rumble they could feel beneath their feet and the sound of something erupting from underneath the surface outside the city. The sound that followed it was a loud screeching roar that made the buildings shake and the ground tremble. Sonic wondered what the noise was so he dashed out of Royal HQ to see what was going on outside the city walls.

"Hey guys! Come one!" cried Sonic "Something's attacking and we're gonna find out what it is!"

Sonic's friends all got up and ran after the supersonic hedgehog to see what all this noise was and if it was a dangerous threat. The other R.F.S. teams had heard what was going on and they all ran out to see what it was. Queen Sally had heard all the noises too and fearing it to be a Devatron attack, ordered her lady-in-waiting Nicole to raise the city shields. Even though Councillor Hamlin (who is thankfully now dead) managed to destroy the controls for the shields, Nicole had a spare control sphere so she could still raise the shields. She took the sphere off her hair, pressed on it and it extended to stick shape. She pressed the button on the stick and the shields raised over the city again. But with what they're about to face, even the city shields wouldn't be of much help to them. Sonic, the Royal Fighters, Sally and Nicole all ran out to face whatever it was that was making all the noise and what they were met with was enough to blow them all the way to Holoska and back. The Deva-Beast had arrived at last and it stood before the city of New Mobotropolis, bellowing thunderous roars that were loud enough to create tremors. Sonic couldn't believe what he was looking at. A colossal six-legged machine that looked like it was capable of causing major damage to anything in it's path. It was the biggest machine Sonic had ever seen in his life. Nothing Eggman had ever built could compare to a creature of this size. All the Royal Fighters looked nervous. They weren't really sure if they should fight the behemoth or run like hell like a bunch of chickens.

"Ho…ly…Chaos!" cried Sonic "What in the name of Mobius is that thing?!"

"Isn't it obvious blue dude?!" shrieked Mandy "A giant Devatron weapon of mass destruction that is here to bring New Mobotropolis down to the ground!"

"That thing is colossal!" blurted Knuckles "I didn't think the Devatrons had something as big as this!"

"That thing could be the size of MountAdabat for all I care!" yelled the Team Chaotix boss Vector the Crocodile "We've gotta stop that thing before it tries to bring down New Mobotropolis!"

"I'm sure the shields are raised already but I doubt even they will do as much good against that thing." said Tails.

"So let's bring it down before it touches the city!" yelled Sonic "Devatron or not, that thing's going down!"

"I wouldn't get too in over your obnoxious little head hedgehog." purred a deep, chilling voice that Sonic really didn't want to hear again right now "If you're not careful, you'll end up going to an early grave."

Sonic began to wonder where the voice was coming from. He then saw something raising up from the Deva-Beast's back and that something was, of course, Devion the Dreaded himself. Devion stood proudly above the Mobians on the back of the Deva-Beast and he glowered down at the Mobians that looked up at him.

"My dear Mobians, you are now witnessing the Devatron's secret and best weapon." crowed Devion "This is the Deva-Beast, a marvellous invention created by the hands of our first leader King Hardigm before he was killed. The Deva-Beast is the main reason we win all our battles and none who have faced it have lived to speak about it. And now you get the privilege of facing this meritorious monster of ours Mobians. Let's see if you can become the first beings to face the Deva-Beast and live."

"Well that sounds like quite a challenge there Devion." said Sonic snidely "And I accept it on behalf of our recently deceased friend Kate the Eagle. Your Deva-Beast thing is gonna be a Deva-scrap pile!"

"We shall see about that Sonic." sneered Devion, leaping off the Deva-Beast and onto the ground "Deva-Beast! Attack!"

The Deva-Beast roared at the top of it's voice and it raised two of it's six legs. The Royal Fighters all ran out of the way as the giant behemoth slammed it's front feet down on the ground. That slam was enough to bring an entire village down. The Royal Fighters were well and truly shaken by that attack and they fell off their feet due to the ground shaking violently beneath them. Sonic picked himself up however and he stared straight at the Deva-Beast. He had a look of total determination on his face. Determination to not let this day get any worse and let the Devatrons beat them.

"Bring it on big guy!" dared Sonic "I've taken on robots many times my size in the past so you'll be no different! Even if you are a Devatron!"

With that said Sonic spin-dashed towards the Deva-Beast's head at full force…

Meanwhile in Megapolis, Katherine was reporting to Dr. Eggman about her infiltration mission earlier and how it had failed and how she'd been forced to retreat. Dr. Eggman had listened to her report and he wasn't pleased with her failure to infiltrate the ship and claim it for him.

"Well Katherine, I can't say I'm proud of you." muttered Eggman, standing up to his full height and glowering straight into Katherine's visor, making the servant bot stand backwards and look nervous "You're supposed to get that ship for me and then you decided to start a fight with Tails and two of his accomplices! Why didn't you stand down when Tails asked you Katherine?! You could have saved yourself this failure and yet you let yourself get found out!"

"I was fighting them BECAUSE they were on the ship *and they were obviously INTENDING TO sabotage the ship ." played seven different voice clips that Katherine had recorded.

"That's the likeliest reason they were on the ship." said Eggman, stroking his moustache "But rather then starting a fight Katherine, you should have just let them go and then shot a bladed disc or two into their backs and killed them while they were unprepared for you.

Oh well, since the Mobians have gone you can try again and this time without interference. Before you go though," he said quickly "Did you find out anything about the shop before you botched up Katherine?"

Katherine nodded and she played what she'd recorded while on The Doombringer . She projected the image in her visor so Eggman could see more clearly. Eggman watched the projected recording very closely as Katherine played it to him. He saw the fight Katherine was having with Tails, Cosmo and Kiara and then he saw Devion storming out of the cockpit and realizing he had intruders on the ship. Eggman ordered Katherine to pause the recording so he could get a closer look at Devion. Katherine paused the recording and Eggman stared at Devion in wonder. He had never seen anything like him before and he definitely didn't belong on Mobius, meaning he was from another world much like he was. Eggman could hardly keep his eyes off the image Katherine showed him.

"In the name of the science, what kind of robot is that?!" shrieked Dr. Eggman "I-I-I-It's an un-un-unusual looking th-thing isn't it?! What is it Katherine?"

Katherine just shrugged. She had no idea as she had been forced to retreat before she could find out anything about the ship. Dr. Eggman fumed at her, not pleased she didn't know what it was and he looked back at the image.

"It's definitely not of Earth origin." said Dr. Eggman as he analyzed Devion's appearance "And it doesn't appear to be of Mobius origin either. It must be a robot from another world. I wonder who created it? Or maybe it's an alien robot and nobody owns it. I must find out more about these robots. Katherine, you get back over to the ship and demand to see the robot who owns the ship. I want to have a little chat with it and I'll have it through you so that should things get ugly, I won't get hurt by them."

Katherine nodded and she left the secret bunker. She was so loyal to Eggman that she would willingly risk getting destroy and dissected for him. She didn't really care about Eggman taking the cowardly route and using her to communicate to the Devatrons, Eggman's life mattered more then hers after all. Katherine stepped out into the open air of the outside world and she walked slowly off to The Doombringer which wasn't very far away from Eggman's bunker. Since the infiltration mission earlier, the Devatrons had decided to double security to make sure it doesn't happen again. And by double security, Raicor had placed Triton and a squadron of guards outside to guard The Doombringer and make sure no one gets in. Some guards stood beside him, some guards stood on the other side of The Doombringer and some stood underneath it. No one was getting into the ship now without any Devatron spotting them. Triton had his saw stick at the ready and he was itching to use it. He looked both ways to make sure the coast was still clear. However, as he turned to his left, he spotted Katherine coming towards them. Strange he thought it was for one single robot to dare come to their territory and presumably start battling them. Nevertheless, this robot had to be destroyed before it could cause any trouble for him. Triton stood guard with his saw stick at the ready and be boomed at Katherine in his deep, masculine voice.

"Halt! You trespass on Devatron territory mystery robot! I am going to kindly demand that you leave or I will have to eviscerate you!"

The Devatron guards beside him all deployed their arm cannons and they prepared to blow Katherine sky-high. Katherine stopped in her tracks and she raised her arms in surrender. She wasn't here to fight after all, she was here to learn more about the Devatrons for Eggman and Eggman wanted a conversation with the leader. Triton was slightly taken aback at the fact the robot was surrendering to him but he didn't let it get to him. It had to be some kind of trick and years of conquering planets had taught him to be weary of people who claim they surrender as more often then not, they're actually lying. The Devatron guards surrounded Katherine and they kept their weapons pointed at her in case she tried anything funny. Triton went up to Katherine and he glowered at her, wondering what she was here for.

"Why do you curse Devatron territory with your foul presence little robot and then surrender to us?" growled Triton, holding the saw stick directly at her throat.

Katherine responded by playing a clip of someone saying "Take me to your leader."

Triton stared at Katherine, wondering what she wanted to see Devion for. Maybe she was brokering an alliance much like Hamlin did the other day? If she was then maybe she'd be a better agent then Hamlin was.

"Our leader is fighting Sonic the Hedgehog right now." said Triton "But you may see our second-in-command instead as he's here. Do not try anything foolish or you will end up finding out what your circuits look like."

Katherine nodded understandably as she wasn't even here to fight the Devatrons. The Devatrons took Katherine onto The Doombringer and they led her all the way to the cockpit where Raicor was stationed currently. Triton opened the cockpit door and he took Katherine inside and ordered the guards to get back to their duties while he and Raicor deal with her. Raicor, who was standing by a window and looking out of it and thinking demonic thoughts to himself, turned around and saw Triton with Katherine standing in front of him and not looking the least bit intimidated for she was a robot incapable of feeling or expressing emotions. Raicor advanced on Katherine menacingly and he glared down at her from his height. Katherine looked up at him.

"Who is this Triton?" demanded Raicor "And why have you brought her here?"

"She seems to come on peaceful terms as she didn't show any hostile intentions when she came here." explained Triton "And she wants to see our leader but since he's not here, you'll have to see what she wants instead."

"Very well." said Raicor "As I am in charge when Devion's away, I shall see what this robot wants."

Katherine then surprised Raicor by emitting a holographic image of Dr. Eggman sitting in his chair back at the underground bunker he resided in out of her visor. Raicor stepped back and looked at the holo-image, unable to believe what he was looking at.

"A human?!" he cried "This cannot be! We are not on Earth and we are not in Earth's galaxy yet! How can a human be here?!"

"That is a good question my mysterious friend." said Dr. Eggman "And here is your answer, I got kicked out of my world due to the doomsday devices and weapons of mass destruction I made and I've been forced to find civilization elsewhere and I've picked Mobius to be my new home."

"Have you human?" snorted Raicor "While to your displeasure, we are here to claim Mobius for ourselves and if you seek to get in our way then we will respond with brute force!"

"Oh fie." said Dr. Eggman "I've only just discovered you guys, why would I want to get in your way? Speaking of you guys, what are you and where do you come from?"

"We are the Devatrons." answered Raicor "The mightiest race of alien robotical life forms in the universe and we hail from the planet of Deaveron, a planet that you humans as far as we know, haven't discovered yet. We are the conqueror of fourteen worlds and we seek to add this planet to our ever-growing collection. We also wish to conquer ALL the planets in the known galaxy, especially yours human. Once we're done with Mobius, we will be targeting Earth next."

"How delightful." said Eggman sarcastically "I harbour no love for Earth anymore due to how ungrateful they are for my genius so you can do what you like with it. Blow it up for all I care. Anyway, Devatron, are you the leader that my servant bot's requested to see?"

"Negative." said Raicor "I am merely the second-in-command although I would love to be the leader someday. My name is Raicor. Who are you human?"

"I am Dr. Eggman, Sonic the Hedgehog's arch-nemesis and the very person he's been at war with over the past few years." explained Eggman "I've come close to defeating him on several occasions with my genius inventions and killer robots. I really am a genius you know. I've even built a machine capable of manipulating time itself! Unfortunately, one of my wayward inventions hijacked it and to prevent it from happening again, I've neglected from rebuilding it."

"A time manipulating machine?" mused Raicor "That is not new to us. That invention has already been done."

"It…it has?!" squeaked Eggman miserably, not happy to see that his Egg-Timer machine wasn't as original as he thought it was.

"It has." said Raicor "The people of the planet Kliptos first invented a time manipulator and they tried to use it to wipe us out of existence. We destroyed the machine and in order to prevent the machine from being duplicated, they wiped out any plans they have of the machine so we cannot make one ourselves. Not that we need one as relying on technology to do the work for you is not the Devatron way and is ultimate cowardice."

"Humph!" muttered Eggman, clearly offended by this "Well Devatrons, my technology is greater then any human and it can help you defeat Sonic the Hedgehog so don't sneer at me for relying on technology to do my dirty work."

"If your tech is as great as you say it is then you would have defeated Sonic by now." said Raicor coldly, folding his arms and glaring at him "You claim to have been in contact with him for years and yet he lives to face us now. Your tech cannot be that good if Sonic still lives."

"It is Raicor, I swear it is!" cried Eggman "It's just I need to make a machine capable of taking down Sonic the Hedgehog! I've built a couple of machines capable of this such as Metal Sonic and a suit of battle armour that can beat Sonic but his friends get in the way and…"

"You are clearly an incompetent foe for Sonic if a bunch of furry animals are capable of defeating your inventions." growled Raicor "If we agree to have you use your tech to help us then we're pretty much signing ourselves up for defeat. We will fight this battle by ourselves Dr. Eggman. Our invulnerability, superior tech and battle skills combined with our unmatched intelligence will win us this battle, not your poor excuse for technology."

"Raicor, please hear me out!" begged Eggman "If me and you team up Devatrons then Sonic's defeat is certain! You see, I've been fighting Sonic longer then you have. I know what he's capable of and what he can do. Come on Devatrons, trust ol' Eggman on this will you? I can help you defeat Sonic the Hedgehog and all you have to do is make this alliance with me. I assure you, me and you can defeat Sonic together."

Raicor put a claw to his muzzle and he thought on this matter for a moment. It didn't take him long to make up his mind thought as he didn't like this idea at all. Allying themselves with Eggman wouldn't change anything. They'd still conquer the planet and it'd be by themselves so Eggman was pretty much being obsolete in all this. Not to mention his technology was incapable of defeating a bunch of furry animals so it would he of no use to him. Not to mention Eggman would likely try and betray them later as a lot of alliances the Devatrons made ended this way and Raicor was not falling into that trap again. Raicor gave out his answer in an exasperated sigh.

"Ugh, I haven't got time for this nonsense!" he snarled.

"Shall I destroy the robot sir?" asked Triton eagerly.

"Yes." said Raicor "I do not wish to have technology of the incompetent kind in my presence. Nor do I wish to prolong this conversation with this flaccid little human who's tech is incapable of defeating small furry animals."

"No wait please!" begged Eggman "We'd make a good team together we would! We'd…"

He was abruptly cut off by Triton who sliced Katherine to pieces with his saw-stick. He sliced her head off, severed her limbs and then cleaved her torso in two. Katherine was reduced to scrap metal and her remains littered the floor at Triton's feet. Raicor glared down at the remains and he looked back up at Triton.

"Clean that up." he ordered.

Triton obeyed and cleaned up Katherine's remains. He then took the remains away so they could be recycled into chrome for any new soldiers that were going to be made. Raicor turned his back on everyone and went back to staring out the window. What a waste of time this had been. Oh well, it wasn't anything to worry about as Eggman was likely to have no chance against the Devatrons if he can't even beat Sonic and friends like they could. Eggman could fight them for all Raicor cared, the Devatrons would just have to eviscerate him as well as Sonic and friends which would be good for them as it would give the Devatrons their first insight on what a fight with a human's going to be like as they plan to invade Earth after Mobius. Raicor had a feeling Eggman was going to be very easy to take down…

Back in the bunker, Eggman stared at his screen, which had gone static now Katherine had been destroyed. Eggman got angry and he thumped the control pad in rage. If he wasn't wearing glasses, you could see a pool of fire in his eyes. He sat back in his chair and gritted his teeth. His face went red and steam poured out of his ears.

"How dare those stupid Devatrons turn down my offer and how dare they destroy my lovely Katherine!" roared Eggman angrily "Well just for that, I'm helping Sonic take them down! After all, I can't make my new home here if they take it over! Those Devatrons have just made themselves a new enemy now! Before I fight them though, I'm going to rebuild Katherine and then I'm going to bring back some inventions that were destroyed by Egg-Timer when it exploded…"

With that said, Dr. Eggman ran off to his inventing table and immediately set to rebuilding Katherine from scratch. He couldn't wait to join Sonic in with this battle against the Devatrons. He'd show those vain, egotistical chrome jerks how good his technology really is…

Back at Mobotropolis, Sonic got smacked down into the ground by a powerful whack from the Deva-Beast's long tail. The whole fight with the Deva-Beast had been going completely against the Mobians. The Deva-Beast's large size combined with it's many limbs, twin cannons and digging capabilities made it a pretty hard foe for anyone to get a decent shot at. Sonic had been spin-dashing the Deva-Beast as hard as he could but his spin-dashes were in vain as the Deva-Beast was just as invulnerable as the Devatrons were. None of the other Royal Fighters could really fight the Deva-Beast, only a select few could fight the monster along with Sonic. Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Shade, Bunnie, Ruben, Team Chaotix and Team Adabat were the only ones who could really fight it. The rest could only watch helplessly as the fights tried to bring down the colossal Deva-Beast. As Sonic lay on the ground trying to pick himself up, he began muttering to himself.

"Gah! That thing's tough!" he grunted "It puts the Devatrons themselves to shame! Oh how I wish I had the Chaos Emeralds with me but they've been power-drained and Devion has them so they're out of the question!"

As for the others, they were all throwing attacks all over the Deva-Beast. Knuckles and Shade were on it's back and they began to attack it's head. Shade Blade-Rushed the Deva-Beast's head several times over with her twin blades and Knuckles throw his punches as hard as he possibly could at the Deva-Beast. The attacked did not harm the Deva-Beast in anyway. Knuckles and Shade then tried to attack it in the visor to see if it could be blinded as easily as the other Devatrons. Knuckles ran down it's head and attempted to punch it in the visor but the Deva-Beast shook Knuckles off it's head and he fell down onto the ground. Shade tried to attack it in the visor but the Deva-Beast shook her off too. Shade fell down onto the ground beside Knuckles. Team Chaotix tried one of their signature moves. Espio and Charmy curled up into balls and Vector grabbed them with his jaws he then spun around as fast as he could and let go of them. Espio and Charmy hurled towards the Deva-Beast and they both ricocheted off it's head. Espio and Charmy hurtled back towards Vector but they uncurled from their ball forms and they landed on the ground just before they could accidentally hit him. The Deva-Beast stamped one of it's six feet and made the ground shake, causing Team Chaotix to fall over. Bunnie Rabbot was next to give it a go. She probably had the best chance of success against the colossal behemoth. She flew up to the Deva-Beast's visor and she deployed her arm cannon. She began shooting the Deva-Beast's visor but the Deva-Beast lowered it's head so that the shots would hit it's forehead instead. Bunnie flew down lower so she could shoot at the Deva-Beast's visor but the Deva-Beast pointed it's tail forward and it extended to twice it's normal length. The tail hit Bunnie like an extending fist and she was thrown down from the sky and onto the ground. Bunnie winced in pain as she hit the ground. Amy tired a few futile attacks by using her trademark Piko-Piko hammer to hammer the Deva-Beast's feet. The Deva-Beast didn't even feel the attack though. Amy grew frustrated with the monster extremely quickly and she threw her hammer at the Deva-Beast's head in rage. The hammer hit the Deva-Beast on the cheek but it the attack was futile and didn't harm it in anyway. The Deva-Beast did see the hammer fall down to the ground after it hit it and it looked to see where the hammer had come from. It saw Amy running over to pick up her hammer and it raised one of it's legs. It was about to bring it's foot down on top of Amy Rose and squish her flat but Sonic leaped in and pushed Amy out the way before it could squash her. The Deva-Beast's foot made the ground shake yet again. The Deva-Beast growled furiously at Sonic for interfering with it's kill and it aimed it's top mounted cannons at Sonic but before it could blast him, Tails flew in front of the Deva-Beast and covered it's visor. The Deva-Beast shook it's head furiously to get Tails off it's visor. Tails flew off the Deva-Beast's visor and he began making rude faces at it in order to get it to chase him and give Sonic time to launch a surprise attack. The Deva-Beast followed Tails as he flew away, plodding slowly after him. It's huge size did make it rather slow but only above ground. Underground it could move at the speed of slight. Now the Deva-Beast was distracted, Sonic and Amy decided to use the Hammer-and-Hedgehog move. Sonic curled up into a ball and Amy raised her hammer high above her head. Sonic prepared to spin-dash and Amy whacked him as hard as she could. Sonic zoomed through the air and he hit the Deva-Beast in the back of it's head between some of it's spikes. The Deva-Beast felt that and it turned around to see what had attacked it. Sonic however was still in spin-dash and he did a giant heel turn and came back at the Deva-Beast. He spin-dashed it in the back of it's head again and he landed beside Amy.

"Whew! I never get tired of that attack!" whooped Sonic "As corny as it's name is, it's still an awesome move!"

"As good as the Hammer-and-Hedgehog move is," said Amy "It doesn't appear to be doing as much damage as I'd hoped it would. That Deva-Beast thing still appears unscathed."

"What do you expect Amy?" asked Sonic "It's like a Devatron plus 100! Of course we're not hurting it! But that's not stopping me from trying! We'll bring it down somehow!"

Before anyone could launch another attack though, the Deva-Beast raised it's tail in scorpion fashion and then lashed forward with it. The tail expanded to several times it's length and it dug straight down into the ground about two feet away from the walls of New Mobotropolis. The Deva-Beast was doing what it had been ordered to do, dig a way in to the city for Devion so it was using it's tail to dig a tunnel under the wall for Devion to crawl through and get into New Mobotropolis so he could lower the shield generator and leave the city prone for the Devatrons. The tails dug straight under the wall and then the tip of the tail popped up from under the ground, startling some of the citizens in the city. The tail then retracted back down through the tunnel and out the hole and it returned to it's normal length. Sonic began to wonder what was going on. Why would the Deva-Beast only dig a hole with it's tail and then just retract it?

"I dunno what you're doing Deva-Beast but you're not digging your way into NewMobotropolis!" yelled Sonic, running underneath the Deva-Beast and then spin-dashing it in the underside.

The Deva-Beast wasn't harmed by the attack but it did not want Sonic underneath it and spin-dashing it as the underside was a vulnerable spot for the Deva-Beast. It couldn't attack anyone directly under it as it couldn't see them and didn't have weapons under it to take them out. The Deva-Beast leaped into the air and then dug it's way down into the ground, leaving a giant hole in it as it disappeared into the earth. The Mobians had a feeling the Deva-Beast was going to pop up from underneath them so they all ran for it before it could come back up. The Deva-Beast exploded up from under the ground just inches beside NewMobotropolis, sending earth flying everywhere and it stood before the Mobians. In order to keep it away from the city, the Mobians fled for it and got the Deva-Beast to follow them away from NewMobotropolis. The Deva-Beast was only doing this as it hadn't been ordered to destroy the city. If it had, it would have ignored the Mobians and went on with destroying the city. The Deva-Beast chased the Mobians and as it did that, Devion ran over to the tunnel it had dug for him with it's tail. Devion got down onto his knees and he crawled through the tunnel under the wall. He crawled under the wall and came up through the exit. He was in New Mobotropolis once again and now he could take down the shield generator without any resistance as it was all outside fighting the Deva-Beast.

"I'm in their city at last." purred Devion "Now if I remember…Raicor said the generator was behind the castle structure of this city. And if I remember, it's right over…there."

He spotted Castle Acorn and knew where he was heading. Devion ran over to Castle Acorn as fast as he could, earning some horrified gasps from the citizens of NewMobotropolis. How he enjoyed hearing the gasps of his victims. Devion arrived at the castle and he ran around to the back of the castle. He saw a silver cube with flickering red lights that sat behind the castle well out of harm's way. It hummed quietly, meaning it was functioning. Devion cackled to himself and he drew out his trademark golden sword.

"There it is." said Devion dryly "Now it's time to open up the doors to this city and allow my glorious army to enter the territory of my enemies…"

Devion held his sword in reverse grip and he raised it above his head. He then plunged the sword into the shield generator like a knife being plunged into a wedge of cheese. The generator made a groaning whirring noise and it sparked a little as the sword was plunged into it. The lights stopped flickering and the generator fell silent. The shields lowered, leaving NewMobotropolis vulnerable for a Devatron attack. Devion couldn't tell if the shields were down though for they were invisible so in order to make sure the shields were down, Devion deployed his arm cannon and he fired straight up at the sky to see if his shot would hit anything. His shot went straight up into the sky and it didn't ricochet off anything or hit anything, it just kept going on. The shields were indeed down and Devion's takeover could now begin. Devion touched the side of his head and he contacted Raicor.

"Raicor, this is Devion." he said "NewMobotropolis is prone now. You may bring The Doombringer over here and we can take the city for ourselves."

"That's excellent news Devion." said Raicor " The Doombringer will arrive as soon as it can."

Devion switched off his comlink and waited for his glorious ship to arrive. He was really pleased to see things were going his way and he was winning against the Mobians.

As for the Deva-Beast, the Mobians were still fighting against it. The Mobians had led the Deva-Beast a good distance away from NewMobotropolis and they began to cut loose on it again. Sonic had the idea that they should all attack it from underneath as it was vulnerable to being attacked from underneath. Scott, Jessica, Felix and Taran, who all formed Team Adabat, all ran underneath the Deva-Beast and they launched all kind of attacks at it. Scott and Jessica threw energy spears at the underbelly, Felix clubbed it in the back of it's legs and Taran shot at the underbelly with his handheld laser cannon. The Deva-Beast could feel this onslaught happening right underneath it but it couldn't do anything about it for the underside was it's biggest blind spot. The Deva-Beast began to stamp it's feet in order to make the attackers underneath stop what they were doing and run for it. It's stomping made the ground shake and Team Adabat fell onto their backs. Ruben however leaped in and dropkicked the Deva-Beast in the visor, making it stop what it was doing and shake it's head furiously. Ruben then unleashed one of his ninjutsu moves on the Deva-Beast. He rapidly kicked the Deva-Beast as hard as he could but his attacks were in vain and the Deva-Beast swung it's head and knocked Ruben down onto the ground. Ruben skidded backwards and he frowned at the Deva-Beast.

"It seems my ninjutsu won't work on you." he panted "Well let's see what you think to a nice big jet of water…"

He then cut himself off mid sentence as he remembered that he was still missing his aqua-collar and he felt his neck, which didn't have a collar clamped around it like it should do.

"…oh yeah…" said Ruben "My collar got stolen. Stupid Hydra!" he grumbled as he thought back to that fateful day it got stolen by someone he thought was his friend.

But it wasn't like his water powers would have been of much help as the Devatrons were invulnerable and water was not going to work on them so Ruben would be no better with his aqua-collar. Although his water powers would have been a good distraction if he was able to use them. The Deva-Beast loomed over Ruben and the water-panther stared up at the Deva-Beast in terror. The sheer size of the gigantic robot made Ruben feel nervous but he wasn't about to back down so easily. He had stood up to Zira the Ruthless before and he was going to stand up to the Deva-Beast. And it seemed he would get some help as Bunnie and Team Chaotix came in to join him. Espio and Charmy curled up into balls again and Vector grabbed them with his jaws while Bunnie picked Ruben up and flew up into the air with him. Bunnie had an idea on some kind of powerful move that might work. Down on the ground, Vector throw Espio and Charmy at the Deva-Beast's visor but the Deva-Beast lowered it's head, causing them to hit it's forehead instead. Espio and Charmy ricocheted off the Deva-Beast's head and they both landed on the ground. Bunnie however, began to swing Ruben around in a circle as fast as she could. The Deva-Beast looked up, wondering what Bunnie was doing. Bunnie then threw Ruben straight at the Deva-Beast and Ruben swung his feet forward so he'd hi the Deva-Beast feet first. He hit the Deva-Beast directly in the visor and the beast roared at the top of it's voice box. The visor was it's weak point as it was on any other Devatron. Sadly, Bunnie and Ruben's attack had only made a tiny crack on the visor that was so small you'd have to stand really close in order to see it so the attack didn't make much progress. The Deva-Beast got furious and it began to fire rapidly at the Mobians with it's back mounted cannons. Laser blasts showered the ground and the Deva-Beast rotated one of it's cannons around. It kept one cannon pointing forward and one pointing backwards so it could shoot in both directions and it rotated it's cannons about ninety degrees and back so it could fire at the sides as well as front and back. The Royal Fighters all scattered, making sure they didn't get shot by the blasts and they didn't dare charge under the Deva-Beast as it would just move out the way or stomp and make them fall over. Sonic dodged all the blasts with ease due to his superior speed whereas the others were manoeuvring as fast as they could in order to escape being shot. It wasn't an easy task though as they weren't as fast as Sonic. Then suddenly, it seemed tragedy was striking once again as one of the Deva-Beast's shots struck Vector in the back and knocked him clean off his feet! Vector was thrown across the landscape and he came to a halt on his side, his back singed and burnt with thin whiffs of smoke drifting away from it. The crocodile also passed out from that attack. Charmy and Espio stopped what they were doing and they saw the injured Vector lying a good distance away from them. Their faces contorted with horror and their hearts felt faint. Espio and Charmy ran over to Vector as fast as they could.

"Vector!" squealed Charmy "Oh no! Vector!"

"Vector! Are you alright?!" cried Espio.

Sonic screeched to a halt and he saw Espio and Charmy running towards Vector. Sonic zoomed over to the Chaotix and he saw Vector lying on the ground, passed out and injured. Sonic could feel himself about to fall down to his knees in shock as Espio and Charmy stood over Vector.

"Oh god!" gasped Sonic "Oh no, no, no please no! We've lost one Royal Fighter already please don't make it two!"

Charmy however was losing his mind with shock. The bee began tearing up over Vector's unconscious body and he wailed at the top of his voice.

"Vector! Vector wake up! Please wake up!" wailed Charmy "You can't die! You're our boss! We can't work without you! I can't work without you! You're the closest thing to a dad I have after my colony kicked me out! Please wake up!"

Espio grabbed Vector's arm and he touched his wrist for any sign of a pulse. To Espio's relief, he felt a very weak pulse. Vector was alive! But unconscious and badly injured and he was probably going to be asleep for a while. He'd need some medical care or he wouldn't be waking up at all.

"He's alive Charmy." said Espio with relief "But barely. If he doesn't get any medical treatment, he may not wake up."

"He's alive?!" cried Charmy "Thank goodness! We've gotta get him to a hospital and fast before he does die!"

"I'll zoom Vector over to the New Mobotropolis Medical Centre immediately." said Sonic "You hold on for me until I get back."

But Sonic wouldn't be taking anyone anywhere for before he could run off, The Doombringer suddenly appeared from nowhere and began flying over their heads and towards NewMobotropolis. Sonic stared up at the ship and he looked like he was about to go insane at the mere sight of it.

"Holy heck!" shrieked Sonic "It's The Doombringer ! Devion's brought in the cavalry and it's heading towards NewMobotropolis!"

"Don't worry about it Sonic." said Sally, running up to Sonic so she could see how Vector was "Nicole's raised the shields so they won't be harming the city at all."

But Sally was horribly wrong. The Doombringer loomed above New Mobotropolis and after it found a good place to hover, it opened up a deployment shaft in it's underbelly and it began to drop Devatron soldiers down into the very city of New Mobotropolis, including Raicor, Tronic, Triton and Steelor. Since the shields had been taken down, the Devatrons landed in the city and they began to roar menacingly at the terrified citizens of New Mobotropolis. The citizens fled for it as fast as they could and the Devatrons chased after them. Devion stood before the falling Devatron soldiers on the hill Castle Acorn resided on and he began to cackle maniacally as the Devatron invasion of New Mobotropolis finally began. Raicor, Tronic, Triton and Steelor all landed beside Devion and they watched the takeover begin. Outside the city, Sonic folded his arms and glared at Sally in an unimpressed manner whereas Sally stared in horror at the deploying Devatrons that descended from under The Doombringer .

"You were saying?" he said with a scowl.

"Bu-bu-but I-I-I don't understand!" blurted Sally "N-N-Nicole r-raised the shields! I kn-know she-she did! I watched her d-d-do it b-b-before we ran out to-to-to see what the n-n-noises were!"

"Well either Nicole's controls didn't work or Devion somehow got into the city and destroyed the generator." said Sonic.

"It's the latter Sonic." said Nicole grimly "I can see Devion standing next to Castle Acorn watching his invasion commence. I guess that's why he came with the Deva-Beast, so he could break into the city while the Deva-Beast distracted us."

"I should have gotten suspicious when it dug a hole under the wall with it's tail." muttered Sonic "It was digging a tunnel FOR Devion, it wasn't trying to do it itself! Gosh I feel so stupid for failing to realize this! Well let's kick the Devatrons out of NewMobotropolis before they wreck the place!"

"But Sonic we…"

Sally didn't even get a chance to finish off what she was saying before Sonic ran off towards New Mobotropolis. Sally sighed in an exasperated manner and she ran after Sonic. The rest of the Royal Fighters ran off after Sonic and Sally. Devion could see Sonic coming and he and Raicor ran towards the city wall. Raicor grabbed Devion and flew him over the wall with one flap of his mighty wings. He then threw Devion towards Sonic and Devion hit the ground foot first, creating a massive shockwave that threw Sonic backwards and made Sally stop dead in her tracks. The Royal Fighters all stood together before Devion and Raicor and they prepared to do battle. Devion just folded his arms and calmly glared at the Mobians that prepared to attack him. Behind him, The Doombringer had finished deploying all the soldiers and the ship, which was on auto-pilot hovered away from the city and landed down on the ground beside it. The Deva-Beast plodded over to The Doombringer and it stood by, awaiting any further orders now it's first priority had been completed.

"Well Mobians, it appears that the tides of victory has swept over us today." crowed Devion "I have lowered your shields and now I've taken your city. It also appears I have injured one of your own…" he added, noting the knocked Vector who was being carried by Espio and Charmy "Quite the heel turn for you isn't it Mobians? You manage to push me out of the city and then Raicor kills one of your soldiers and I take your city. You could have saved yourself all this unnecessary bloodshed if you'd just relinquished yourselves to me already."

"If you think we're gonna roll over to you conceited, arrogant, narcissistic jerks then forget it!" yelled Mandy bravely "You get out of our city before I punch your faces off!"

"Mandy, don't!" cried Wilson, holding her back "Don't agitate them or they'll kill you!"

"Amazing how much valour you Mobians really have." muttered Devion "We're on the winning streak and you still come out with obnoxious battle talk that makes you all sound childish and foolish. WellMobians, this city is mine now and I am in charge. My first act as ruler of New Mobotropolis is to have you all exiled to the wilderness and anyone still in the city… will either be used to make Devatron soldiers or just kept as prisoners for us to have fun with."

"You can't do this you sick, twisted, sadistic chrome-plated monsters!" yelled Sally "You can't just claim the city as your own just because you've invaded it and…"

Devion just promptly backhanded Sally in the head and knocked her crown off her head. Sally fell down onto the ground and her crown landed at Devion's feet. Devion then proceeded to smash the crown by stomping on it. Sally gasped in horror at her destroyed crown which was now in pieces under Devion's foot.

"No! Not my crown!" shrieked Sally "That's a symbol of honour and humility and it was passed down to me after my parents were killed!"

"Never before have I heard such nonsense." muttered Devion "Using a crown as a symbol of honour when it should symbolize something much more worthy such as power and conquest. Anyway, you Mobians are relieved of your citizenship here and you will remove yourselves from my new territory or I will order my entire army to blow the city to fragments and slaughter every last Mobian in the place. You have been warned and I would not recommend exploiting it."

Sonic was caught between a rock and a hard place here. On the one hand, he was not letting the Devatrons keep NewMobotropolis for themselves. On the other hand they didn't have a choice. They were outnumbered, outgunned and not at their strongest. They'd lost Kate the Eagle and the Downunda Royal Fighters, Thomas Tiger was incapable of fighting due to his broken back and Vector had just been injured, they could not afford to lose anyone else. Not to mention that they always had next time and maybe they could rethink their methods a little. Sonic would get NewMobotropolis back…but not now. They just couldn't now. They were worn out and weak, they would need to come back when they were feeling stronger. Sonic breathed in deeply and he sighed loudly.

"Fine, we'll go." said Sonic "But once we've rested, we'll be back and we'll kick your shiny metal ass outta Mobius for good Devion! Just remember that this is only the beginning Devion and this battle is far from over!"

"Once again your words of courage fall flat upon the leader of the Devatron race." muttered Devion "Remove yourselves from my sight already before you vex me to my breaking point."

Sonic scoffed at Devion and he stormed off.

"Let's go everybody." muttered Sonic "We'll rest up and then we'll get the city back."

The Royal Fighters obeyed Sonic and they went off after him, including Sally and Nicole. The Royal Fighters all left the city behind in Devion's evil hands and headed off to the one place they would be safe in…Knothole. Sonic looked back over his shoulder at the Devatron conquered NewMobotropolis and his face drooped into a grim expression. Today had been terrible for them. The loss of Kate the Eagle was bad enough as it was and now they've lost New Mobotropolis to the Devatrons. These were dark times for the R.F.S. and Sonic had a feeling it might get worse. What the Devatrons were going to do next was anyone's guess but Sonic was not about to let the Devatrons strike again. He WAS going to get NewMobotropolis back, but how he was going to accomplish it was a mystery even to him. But Sonic was not about to give up and he was going to do whatever it takes to save NewMobotropolis. Even if it cost him his own life trying…

What a double dose of crap that's been happening eh guys? Sonic's lost New Mobotropolis and Dr. Eggman's failed to make the alliance of a lifetime! Looks like the Devatrons are gonna be a little harder to defeat then we thought! What's gonna happen next? Join me next time as "Foes Become Friends"...

P.S. Numbuh006, you have indeed read all the chapters to this story. I was talking about my first three fanfics I uploaded onto this site when I mentioned "The Devatron Trilogy" previously so I hope that clears things up for you.

P.P.S. Hey Pandemonium! What are YOUR top ten favourite chapters? I'm interested in what your ten favs are.

Foes Become Friends Part 1

Story 105: Foes Become Friends Part 1: All The Help We Can Get

The dark, dull grey of the vapid skies above Mobius were miserable enough as they were with their dark, brooding and gloomy atmosphere and the pouring rain that fell from the skies just made things more dreary and miserable but not even this could darken Mobius' day any further then it already had been. A whole day had passed since the Devatrons had taken New Mobotropolis for themselves and exiled the Royal Fighters to the wilderness and things had been downright horrible for the Mobians. The Royal Fighters were stuck in Knothole and the forests of Green Hill Zone until they could get the city back and the helpless citizens of New Mobotropolis were all being rounded up and locked up in the Devatron ship, The Doombringer until the Devatron leader Devion could decide what to do with them. It was a depressing sight for many and the fact the famed hero Sonic the Hedgehog wasn't here to help them out meant they had no hope left in their hearts for rescue. Some still prayed that Sonic and the Royal Fighters would save them but others had just accepted that this was their fate, to be a Devatron prisoner and live in a city where they ruled supreme and they could not do anything about it. One person would be thrilled to see this kind of misery and horror happening to the Mobians right now though and he was walking through the rain and to New Mobotropolis, ignoring the trickling rain that ran down his helmet and onto his jacket. This person was the nefarious Marik the Martian. He'd rested up nicely from the whole ordeal on Eggman's Egg Fleet last month and he was back and ready for revenge. Marik had something very grisly planned for Sonic and it involved him tearing out the hedgehog's heart and keeping it as a trophy and since the Mobians were unprepared for him, he could get the drop on them easily. He remembered that New Mobotropolis was shielded after seeing the Egg-Fleet's weapons bounce off it harmlessly so he knew jumping over the wall was likely to be out of the question. Then again if there wasn't any threats going on then there would be no reason for the shields to be up so he could jump over the wall after all. As Marik trudged through the wet, muddy fields that surrounded

New Mobotropolis, rain trickling off his helmet and down the back of his neck and into his jacket, he observed NewMobotropolis and grinned to himself wickedly.

"There it is, New Mobotropolis." purred Marik "I remember walking through the city when it was still under construction the day I had my first walk about on the planet. The very day I murdered the Acorn Parents and tried to subjugate Castle Acorn and become king so I could make this planet how I liked. And now it's completed and waiting to be destroyed by me. Sonic will not see me coming this time around and when I strike, he shall have a gaping hole in the middle of his chest after I tear our his bleeding heart! It'll make a nice display piece on my bedroom shelf should I finally return to Mars. I may not have a way off the planet but Sonic has a way, those Chaos Emeralds that I tried to get. After I kill Sonic, I shall find the Chaos Emeralds, steal them and then use them to warp me back to Mars so I can get my friends and family to help me destroy Mobius. I've come to realize that I cannot destroy this world on my own, even if I am powerful and I can fight Sonic and friends to a standstill. One Martian does not yield enough muscle to destroy a planet. Sonic's death can be considered my last victory before I leave Mobius and it'll make the Martian invasion of Mobius all the more easy for my friends and family when they invade the planet and lay waste to it."

He then paused for a moment and thought to himself about something.

"Although there's always Scourge and Shadow who are very much like Sonic so I may have to kill them too." muttered Marik "Shadow's like Sonic plus ten and Scourge is like the mirror image of Sonic so they'll have to die too. One supersonic hedgehog is enough but three is too much and just killing Sonic won't be enough to clear any resistance that can stand up to the Martians. Scourge is a nuisance and Shadow actually broke my arm so I must get rid of those two as well. Yes, after I kill Sonic I shall hunt Shadow and Scourge down and kill them too. Then the Martian invasion will be able to operate without resistance! I can hardly wait for this…"

His bragging and crowing was brought to an abrupt halt when his evil orange eyes caught sight of something that made his heart seize up and his blood freeze. He saw The Doombringer parked next to New Mobotropolis and he could see Devatron soldiers pushing prisoners up the boarding ramp and into the ship so they could be locked up until further notice. Marik recognized The Doombringer instantly for he had seen the ship before and he almost went mad with horror.

"The Doombringer?! Here?! On Mobius?!" shrieked Marik "Oh Tyrahko, this cannot be! The Devatrons have invaded Mobius now?! Why must my life be a hurricane of misfortune on this miserable mud ball of a planet?! I MUST get off this stupid little world now the Devatrons are here! My dad, my uncle and his strongest men couldn't take down those chrome-plated freaks so what chance to I have?! Then again…"

Marik thought to himself for a moment. Maybe some good fortune could come out of the Devatron's invasion of Mobius after all. Hopefully he could persuade the Devatrons into letting him join them in their conquest and get revenge on the Mobians while he's at it. And maybe he could sabotage the Devatrons behind their backs and destroy them, thus becoming the first being to actually defeat a Devatron. So the Devatron's invasion was a glorious piece of serendipity, not misfortune. Marik would benefit from this alliance beautifully and since he'd be trusted by the Devatrons, he could get into the heart of the army and destroy them from the inside out without them suspecting a thing! Marik just hoped the Devatrons wouldn't play hard to get or this plan would end up being all for naught and just thinking it up would have been a waste of time. Marik ran over to NewMobotropolis as fast as he could (he'd be running faster if his jet shoes weren't still disabled) and he leaped over the wall. His leap wasn't quite enough to clear the wall but he just managed to grip the top of the wall with his metal claws. Marik then threw himself over the wall and he landed on the ground. He was inside NewMobotropolis and he took shelter behind a bunch of bushes in somebody's garden. He watched from behind the bushes as Devatron soldiers clamped heavy cuffs on the wrists of the miserable Mobians and began dragging them away to The Doombringer . Marik grinned wickedly as he heard the snivels and sobs of the captured citizens. How he loved it when people cried, pity it wasn't him making them cry, that would have been infinitely better.

"Move it you miserable mongrels!" bellowed Triton who was clearly looking fed up with the Mobians "Move it! And cease it with your disdained vocal sounds will you?! It's vexing me heavily it is!"

Since Devatrons were incapable of feeling sadness, Triton didn't understand why the Mobians were sobbing and making this kind of noise but he did know that it was annoying and he hated it. All the Devatrons hated it too. The Devatrons continued to move the Mobians aboard the ship. Marik was enjoying all this and he licked his lips gleefully. This was like watching a movie to him, highly entertaining and thoroughly worth watching but what made it even better was the obvious fact that it was real and not fictional like movies were.

"It appears the Devatrons have subjugated New Mobotropolis already." purred Marik "Not surprising considering they're invulnerable robots who have many planets under their rule. How many did they conquer again and have they conquered anymore since we first met them? Oh well, Mobius will be added to their list and I love it!"

Marik then heard two Devatrons conversing with each other and he looked over to the Devatrons. Those two were Devion and his second-in-command Raicor. Marik remembered the two Devatrons as if he'd only seen them yesterday. They were there the time the Martians had met them. Devion and Raicor were having a conversation with each other, rain trickling down their armour and onto the ground. Water was of no concern to a Devatron as they were not only invulnerable, but they were waterproof too. Their armour wouldn't rust and the water wouldn't harm their circuitry.

"Raicor, status report." ordered Devion.

"The population of New Mobotropolis has almost been entirely moved onto The Doombringer ." explained Raicor "We've got a few more citizens left and then the work is done. What do you wish for us to do next Devion?"

"After this I shall have all the Mobians killed and their remains will be recycled into chrome for any new soldiers for the Devatron army." said Devion "Then after that, I shall spread the Devatrons all over Mobius and have the invasion squads conquer the other regions of Mobius. Then after that, the planet shall finally be mine and I win yet another world for the Devatron race."

"Very well my lord." said Raicor "But what about the Royal Fighters? Are you sure exiling them was a good idea? They may just come back and try to destroy us again."

"Raicor my overly-anxious winged warrior, Sonic and his friends will not stop us." crowed Devion "Should they attack I'll unleash the Deva-Beast on them again. The Deva-Beast was enough to stop them yesterday so it shall stop them again. Anyway, once I begin to conquer the other regions of Mobius they will have no chance against me for my army will be too much for them all to handle."

"I still think we should have slaughtered them already instead of letting them go." muttered Raicor grimly.

"Are you questioning my motions?!" snarled Devion, grabbing Raicor by the throat and jamming his face into his "Do not question your leader Raicor or I shall remove your main power cell! Destroying Sonic and friends here and there is not enough! I'm allowing them to exist so that I may entertain myself by toying with their weak little minds and dampening their loathsome spirits. I'll push them to their breaking point and then I shall finish them off. It'll be a shame to do so as Sonic is a meritorious being and I admire his battle skills and bravery. But good things must come to an end as they say and Sonic shall come to his end but only when I decide. We can kill Sonic anytime, it's just more entertaining to prolong his existence and toy with him before we deliver the killing blow."

Raicor felt that all this was ridiculous (which it was but hey, that's villains for you, always prolonging the hero's existence just so they can get some sadistic entertainment) but he didn't dare question Devion in fear of having his circuitry torn out.

"I understand Devion." lied Raicor "I shall not prolong this discussion."

"Very good Raicor." said Devion dryly "You are dismissed to The Doombringer . Your job is to divide the prisoners evenly so that there won't be any overcrowded cells."

Raicor obeyed and he turned around and left Devion to his work while he went to The Doombringer to do his job. As he walked away, he began to say something quietly to himself.

"Just you wait Devion." he said to himself "I shall take you down and then I shall take the position of leadership for myself and I will exceed your skill in leadership easily as I am not foolish enough to prolong the hero's existence for sadistic pleasure like you do…"

Unfortunately, Devion seemed to have heard him.

"What was that?" demanded Devion fiercely "My audio-receptors didn't quite pick up on what words were coming out of your vocal processor Raicor."

"Nothing Devion." said Raicor quickly "Just talking to myself that's all."

"Well refrain from doing so Raicor." said Devion coldly "A habit of this kind makes you look delirious and I do not tolerate any hints of insanity in my army."

Raicor nodded and he walked off to The Doombringer without saying another word in case Devion heard him again. As Raicor left, a female racoon in a yellow strapped dress tugged on Devion's cape and Devion glowered at her. He yanked his cape out of her grasp as if just the idea of something that wasn't a Devatron touching his capewas vile to him.

"What do you want prisoner?" snarled Devion.

"Oh Devion please have mercy on us Devatrons!" begged the woman feebly "We haven't done anything to you so why are you doing these terrible things to us?"

"My dear Mobian." said Devion coldly "I have no understanding of this concept you refer to as "mercy" and these things I am doing to you are for a good cause I assure you. The Devatrons cannot be defeated and if Devatrons reside here, Mobius will never be threatened by anything and the planet shall have peace. The Devatron soldiers I will import here will keep you all safe and your world will be strong enough to take on anything that threatens it. If you do not believe me then you can ask the fourteen other planets I've subjugated. I've conquered them and improved them so you can be certain that my conquest is for a good cause. Just a pity you had to be obstinate and resist me which brought all this unneeded violence and despair upon you. Don't say I wasn't trying to be fair Mobian…"

He then proceeded to smack the raccoon in the back of the head and push her back in line. The racoon joined another group of Mobians being led aboard The Doombringer and Devion watched her being led aboard. He still began wondering why that woman dared to beg to him for mercy, especially as he had no understanding of the word (seriously, he doesn't know what the word "mercy" means! He's THAT evil!). Meanwhile, Marik had decided he'd had enough of watching Mobians suffer (although he was really enjoying it) and he came out of his hiding place slowly and quietly.

"Well, it appears Sonic's having a hard time." mused Marik "Devion's taken over his city and has apparently exiled him. I must commend him on sadism though, allowing the hedgehog to exist for his own sadistic pleasure. That sounds like something Uncle Drago and his girlfriend Mercury usually do. Well, I think it's time to meet with Devion and make the alliance of a lifetime…"

Marik straightened out his sopping wet leather jacket and he strode proudly over to Devion. Devion saw Marik coming and he stared at him in surprise.

"What is this?!" he blurted "A Martian pride fully strides upon Mobian soil?! What is a Martian doing on a planet such as this one?!"

"I'm so glad you've asked Devion because I have an excellent answer." said Marik smoothly and calmly "I came here chasing a Seedrian child and I've been battling Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends for months and months on end."

"How do you know my name?" asked Devion.

"Don't you remember me Devion?" asked Marik "I was there the time YOU and YOUR soldiers invaded MY dad's ship while we were cruising and you raided our fuel supply! I'm Diablo's son Marik, the one who stood up to you and tried to tear your cape to shreds remember?"

Devion looked at his ragged navy blue cape and noticed some cuts in it that had been caused by Marik the Martian the time they met. Devion then realized what Marik was talking about and he remembered the day he and the Martians met.

"Oh yes, I recall now." said Devion "I stole your ship's fuel and killed your father's parents because they tried to resist me. Very well then, Marik the Martian, why do you curse my territory with your damning presence then?"

"Because I was to broker an alliance." said Marik "While I still harbour hard feelings over you killing Grandfather Thor and Grandmother Jupiter, I can set aside those feelings and make an alliance with you. We Martians are very powerful beings and I will be of good help to you Devion. I've been in contact with Sonic for a while so I know his every move and information like that can be of good help to you Devion."

"So you wish to ally yourself with me?" mused Devion "I have a feeling that this armistice doesn't come without pay so what do you want from me?"

"Nothing." said Marik casually "I just wish to help you conquer Mobius and you can help me get some revenge on Sonic and his snivelling band of preschool children. We can both benefit from this so nobody loses in this alliance. You win Mobius and I get my revenge and with my help, your victory is guaranteed Devion. I know things you don't know about Mobius and that information will be useful to you. You know what? Instead of conquering the world, we could destroy it couldn't we?" he said quickly "I mean, I seek to see this world burn like wildfire and I'm sure you enjoy destruction as much as I do so why don't we team up and destroy the world?"

Devion thought on this matter for a moment and then he gave his answer.

"This alliance sounds very tempting Marik and I would say yes to this…if destroying worlds was my motivation." said Devion dryly "I seek to better the planets of the universe, not destroy them. If I wanted to destroy planets then I would have done so to the fourteen planets I've already conquered."

"Oh, OK." said Marik, a little disappointed at this "Then we'll just conquer it together instead…"

"No Marik, there is no "we" in this conquest." said Devion coldly, drawing his sword out and pointing it at Marik's chest "I do not need the assistance of a Martian warrior in this conquest. Besides, given your malicious lifestyle and unhealthy prejudice against peace, you would not like what I have planned for this world. Once the Devatrons have conquered every planet in the galaxy, there shall be eternal peace throughout the universe and you will not like that so this alliance is pointless as only I will benefit from it."

"Well you could at least let me help you win just so I can get some revenge on the Mobians." pleaded Marik, sweating fearfully.

"I do not need help." muttered Devion dryly "I am on the winning streak as usual. I've pushed Sonic into the wilderness and his city has been compromised. I shall spread my reign to the other regions of Mobius and then Mobius shall be conquered. As for you…"

Devion then slashed Marik savagely across the chest with his golden sword and the Martian dropped down onto his back. Marik clutched his bleeding chest in pain and he grunted as he felt the sting of the cut.

"…remove yourself from Mobius and save yourself an otherworld death or perish along with the Mobians!" growled Devion "I do not wish to make an alliance with you and I will not hesitate to kill you if I have to!"

Marik decided that his presence here was just going to agitate Devion further and there was nothing else he could do here. Devion didn't want to ally with him so he wouldn't waste time trying to sway his decision. Marik picked himself weakly and he staggered away from Devion. That slash had done a number on him and he was going to need to recover.

"I'll…go now…" grunted Marik as he limped over to the gates of the city with his hands pressed tightly against his chest as the cut began to sting more and more "I'm sorry I…wasted your time Devion…" he added sarcastically.

Devion just watched Marik leave and then he continued with his duties. Marik opened the gates of NewMobotropolis and he let himself out of the city. He staggered weakly away from the city and headed off to Green Hill Zone, the rain pouring harder and harder and the bitter cold stinging his drenched body and making the cut feel worse. He couldn't believe Devion refused his alliance! He could help Devion destroy the Mobians beautifully and he turns him down flat and slashes him across the chest! He'd get Devion for this. He'd get his revenge on that devious Devatron! And who better to recruit for his revenge plot then his own arch-nemesis Sonic the Hedgehog? He may play hard to get but Marik would convince him somehow to let him join in their battle against the Devatrons and that would serve Devion right…

Knothole, a rustic little village in the forests of Green Hill Zone and home place of the one and only Amy Rose was now being used a place for the R.F.S. to camp out in as they had been exiled from their city by the very invaders who wish to claim the planet as their own. Knothole wasn't a large village though and there was nowhere for any of the Royal Fighters to stay in. The houses were all taken although Amy was willing to share her house with Sonic and friends. The other Royal Fighter teams had to put up tents that the kind people of Knothole were gracious enough to lend to them to sleep in and shelter from the rain. There had to be a lot of tents put up given how many Royal Fighters there were but there was enough for them all luckily enough. The Royal Fighters all sat in their tents devising battle strategies while Sonic and friends camped out in Amy's house. Team Chaotix had gone to meet the Knothole nurse and miracle woman Mariah the Medicine Cat to see if she could help Vector the Crocodile heal from his recent injuries. Vector was still passed out from earlier and Mariah was observing the wound in his back from the cannon shot the Deva-Beast had fired at him. Vector's scales had been horribly singed and blackened by the shot and the whole wound looked pretty serious. Vector was lucky to even be alive after that powerful shot to the back. Mariah looked disgusted by the wound and she tried not to cringe as she observed it.

"Miss Medicine Cat?" asked Charmy Bee nervously "I-I-Is Vector going t-to be…alright?"

"That wound on his back looks pretty serious young man." said Mariah softly "I'm amazed he's still alive. What happened to him?"

"He was shot in the back by a Devatron weapon." explained Espio the Chameleon "I trust you know what we're talking about as the Devatrons are likely to be worldwide news by now."

"I do indeed sir." said Mariah bitterly as if the Devatrons were so bad that just thinking about them made her cringe "That Devion person broadcasted his message all over Knothole. Every television, every computer, every mobile phone was playing his message and nothing we did could stop it. Those Devatrons must have amazing tech if they can somehow play a cryptic message on every screening and communications device on the planet. I wouldn't be too surprised if the whole world knows about the Devatrons now."

"You maybe right on that because the other Royal Fighter teams claim to have heard Devion's message too." said Espio "And we got it in the New Mobotropolis Coliseum. Unfortunately, I don't think Chun-Nan will know about the Devatrons as I've visited the country and there isn't a speck of technology anywhere in that country. They're very traditional and old fashioned after all so they don't have technology and machines of the modern kind so they won't have anyway of receiving Devion's message. Although word does travel fast around Chun-Nan and since the whole world knows about them, the people of Chun-Nan will hear about the Devatrons from somebody."

"Let us hope they do." said Mariah as she tenderly dabbed Vector's wound with a wet cloth "I'm pretty sure the kung-fu warriors of the country will help us dearly against those Devatrons. I can't believe they've just taken over NewMobotropolis and exiled her majesty the Queen and all you heroes to Knothole! How horrible and vile this is!"

"We weren't exiled to Knothole." said Espio "We were exiled to the wilderness and Knothole is the best place we can reside in for now as it's in the wilderness."

"I see." said Mariah "Back on to your friend here, he'll need a good long rest as that wound heals up. I have a medicine that'll ease the pain and hopefully heal his wound. I can assure you your friend will be just fine in my capable hands."

"I know he's gonna be alright." said Charmy happily "Thanks for offering to take care of Vector Miss Mariah."

"You're welcome." said Mariah, turning Vector on his back and opening his jaws.

She got out the medicine she said Vector would need and she gently poured the contents down Vector's throat. Vector swallowed it and smacked his lips sleepily. The medicine would ease the pain in Vector's back and the wound would just recover naturally over the next few days. Espio and Charmy were just well chuffed that Vector was even alive after that powerful shot to the back from the Deva-Beast and he was going to pull through. At least something good was coming out of the doom and gloom Sonic and friends had been receiving recently although over at Amy's, the atmosphere was just as gloomy as it was outside. If you looked around Knothole for anything with an atmosphere as melancholy as the dull skies and the falling rain outside, Amy's house would be just the place to look. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters were all here: Sonic the Hedgehog, Miles "Tails" Prower, Knuckles the Echidna, Amy Rose, Cream the Rabbit, Cosmo the Seedrian, Shade the Echidna, Wilson the Dog, Mandy Mouse, Geoffrey St. John, Bunnie Rabbot and Ruben the Water Panther as well as Queen Sally Acorn and Nicole the Lynx and neither of them looked that happy right now. Not that they had anything to be happy about being as the R.F.S. had lost a member, one member is crippled for life, Vector is injured and now they've been exiled from New Mobotropolis, which is now under Devatron control and there was nothing they could do about it. Sonic was sitting in a chair and staring grimly out the window, watching the pouring rain trickle down the window pain. He could not stop thinking about New Mobotropolis, his new home after Dr. Eggman tore down the original Mobotropolis, being under Devion's control and he began having horrible thoughts about what Devion was doing over there now. It was bound to be terrible and just thinking about it made Sonic quiver angrily. How he hated those Devatrons! They made Eggman look like friendly competition in comparison! What he wouldn't give to get rid of the Devatrons and get back to trying to get rid of Dr. Eggman! But how could he? He couldn't destroy the Devatrons as they were invulnerable and they were just too clever and too strong for him. The Devatrons were already a serious threat as they were but the Deva-Beast was the cream of the crop for the R.F.S. They had no chance against a machine that's every bit like the Devatrons only larger and is capable of extending it's limbs and digging at the speed of light. True the Devatrons did have a weakness, they could be easily blinded, but that wasn't of much help to them and the Devatrons were robots, meaning they could be manufactured and produced on a mass scale so they were going to be continuously outnumbered no matter what they did. There had to be another more helpful weakness that they could use against the Devatrons and the only way they were going to find that out is infiltrate The Doombringer and we all know how well THAT went! It seemed that Sonic had met his match at long last and he'd found someone too strong for him. But not even that was going to make Sonic succumb yet. Sonic didn't know the meaning of the words "give up", "forfeit," "surrender", or any other word meaning the same thing so despite the fact he was on his toes right now, Sonic was not willing to cave in yet. Unfortunately, everybody else didn't seem to have his spirit right now. Everybody else seemed to have been dampened by the whole Devatron take over of NewMobotropolis.

"I can't believe it." said Sally, choking back tears "The Devatrons have taken our city and exiled us to the wilderness. Of all the misfortune we've encountered in our lives, nothing has ever been as bad as this! This is worse then anything Dr. Eggman's ever done! How are we ever going to recover from this?!"

"Oh Sally please don't lose faith." said Nicole gently, putting an arm around her best friend "This maybe a big setback but we'll come around and get the city back. I assure you we will."

"No we won't Nicole." muttered Sally, a single tear rolling down her cheek as she prepared to cave in and break down crying "Those Devatrons are a million times the threat Eggman ever was. Eggman we can handle thanks to Sonic, the Devatrons are too much even for Sonic. They're invulnerable Nicole! How can we possible destroy them if we can't even penetrate their armour?! Everything we've tried so far just hasn't worked! The infiltration mission failed miserably according to Kiara, Tails and Cosmo and all our fights have ended with us fleeing for our lives or someone getting killed or injured! We can't win this fight! I'm sorry Nicole but we just can't! It's all over and the Devatrons are going to win! I may as well just abdicate myself and put an end to this malicious conflict in which we have no chance of winning!"

With that said, Sally got up from the chair she sat in and left the room, wailing a loud, depressing, downhearted wail. She shut the door behind herself so no one would hear her cries and Nicole just remained where she was, her ears drooping down in sorrow and her eyes brimming with tears. She felt like she wanted to cry with Sally but that wasn't going to do much so she kept it in and decided to leave Sally to herself for a moment. Mandy, who was sitting on a sofa with Wilson beside her, sighed to herself and she began muttering grumpily.

"How do you like that? We're on the losing end and the royals are the first to give up hope. Goes to show that the royals are never a good symbol of hope even when they say they are." she moaned.

"I dunno Mandy girl, Queen Sally may have a point there." mused Wilson "We keep losing to those Devatrons and they're like two steps ahead of us constantly and nothing we do seems to be of much help to us, even their weaknesses and we keep losing fighters either temporarily like Vector or permanently like Thomas Tiger and Kate. Maybe we cannot win and maybe the Devatrons are going to win…"

"What?!" shrieked Mandy "I can not believe what I am hearing!"

She stood up from the sofa furiously and grabbed Wilson by the shoulders.

"Wilson the Dog, the man I've married and the man who's been at my side since day one of the R.F.S. suddenly decides to cave in just because we're on the loose end of the rope right now!" shouted Mandy angrily, making Wilson shrink back into the sofa in fear "Don't you dare give up on me now cute stuff! We maybe in dark times now but there's a single ray of hope waiting to shine through at any moment and if we give up now, there will never be a ray of hope shining on any of us ever again!"

"But Mandy…" squeaked Wilson.

"You listen to me Wilson!" snarled Mandy, jamming her face into his "I refuse to give into those Deva-Creeps! I would rather let myself get roboticized by Eggman then give up to the Devatrons! You may have lost hope like our majesty the Queen has but I haven't! I believe we can win this battle and although these are desperate times, we will get through them eventually and the only way we can do that is to act now and plot our next attack over the Devatrons!"

"Oh yeah, you said it Mandy!" cheered Amy, punching the air delightedly "If you're not willing to give up then neither am I!"

"I'm with you Miss Rose!" cried Cream "The heroes never lose!"

"I'm certainly not willing to give up!" agreed Knuckles, flexing his muscles "We echidnas have a solemn oath that I'm not willing to betray! "We, as part of the echidna race will plough our way through thick and thin in order to defeat our oppressors and save everybody everywhere."." he recited.

"And I'm not willing to betray the oath either." said Shade "I'm with you Knuckles, no matter the cost."

"You can count me in too." said Ruben "Things aren't exactly going well for me either. I've lost my aqua-collar and now I've lost my new home. But I'm not giving up on either of those. I know we can defeat the Devatrons eventually and if we don't then we lose Mobius for good and I will never get to find my aqua-collar if the Devatrons win."

"Ah ain't givin' up either sugah." said Bunnie affectionately "Things have been plenty hard for us but Eggman's givin' us a hard time too like the time he roboticized all of Mobius and only me, Sonic, Tails and Ruben were left. Even at that time, we didn't give up so ah ain't givin' up on this."

"Neither am I." said Geoffrey "Those blokes will end up wishing they hadn't tried to tangle with us! We will win this one!"

"You know what Mandy?" said Wilson "I think you've just talked some sense into me. I'm not backing out on this one. I'll fight for freedom like we've all been doing for months on end, for you, for Sonic, for everybody!"

"Now that's more like it." said Mandy happily, wrapping her arms around her husband "That's more like the man I fell for."

The happy couple then embraced each other warmly and lovingly. Tails and Cosmo watched with astonishment as their friends began to brighten up one at a time. Mandy had talked quite a lot of sense into them all hadn't she? Everybody seems to have forgotten that things aren't going so well for them now and everybody's about ready to get back in the battle! This certainly made Tails feel more hopeful and more willing to try and defeat the Devatrons.

"Well done Mandy." Tails said to himself "You've reinstated everybody's hope in defeating the Devatrons. Pity Sally didn't stick around to see this though."

"I'm sure when Sally feels better and comes out and sees everybody ready to defeat the Devatrons, her hope will be reinstated too." said Cosmo "I haven't lost any hope despite what's happened recently much like I haven't lost hope in my kind defeating the Martians in the Seedrian-Martian war back home."

"I'm really pleased to hear that Cosmo." said Tails, putting his arm around Cosmo and hugging her warmly "I haven't lost hope either and I bet Sonic hasn't too. Have you Sonic?"

Sonic finally stopped staring out the window and he turned around to face Tails and Cosmo. How sweet they looked when they hugged each other he thought. The hedgehog, despite recent events, somehow managed to crack a smile on his face.

"I don't even know the meaning of "give up" Tails." said Sonic snidely "I've always got hope in me regardless of what goes on. We've had tough scrapes like this before such as the time Eggman roboticized everybody, or the time where Scourge woke Chaos up from his prison, or the time we fought Zira in Chun-Nan and especially all the times Eggman's come close to beating us and what happened in all of those? We came out on top of course! I even managed to save an alternate zone from it's version of Eggman and that zone's Eggman had already conquered the world when I visited! The Devatrons maybe winning so far but much like all our other conflicts, we will emerge victorious in this one. Just you wait and see Tails and Cosmo."

He then looked over at his other friends who thanks to Mandy had now gotten their hope back and were ready to kick some Devatron hide once again.

"Way past cool of Mandy to talk some sense into everyone." said Sonic happily "Nice to know I'm not the only one with a lot of spirit around here. She's so cool isn't she?"

"Mandy's one heck of a girl isn't she?" said Tails "She never loses hope in anything and always remains calm, collected and ready for action. You were lucky to have her on your team when the R.F.S. first started."

"I know I am." said Sonic "Now we've all got our faith back, I guess we can start brainstorming on what our next move against those Deva-jerks is gonna be…"

The front door suddenly swung open, making everybody jump a foot in the air and an injured and weak Marik the Martian staggered into the house and collapsed onto the floor, grunting heavily while clutching his still bleeding chest. Everybody stared at him in horror and Sonic zipped over to Marik and stood over him. Cosmo instantly panicked and she dived for cover behind the sofa to hide from Marik. Sally, who had finished wallowing in self pity, heard all the commotion and she ran out to see what was going on, only to see the very person who killed her parents and forced her to take the throne too early. She stormed up beside Sonic and glowered down at Marik, who forced himself to sit up and he leaned against the wall. He looked up at Sonic and Sally's scowling faces and he just scoffed at them.

"I should have expected this kind of ceremony from you scoundrels." he muttered.

"Well, well, well. Look who should show his ugly face to us again but Marik the Stinkin' Martian!" said Sonic coldly.

"Marik you little demon, if you're here to harm any of us in anyway then so help me I'll…" growled Sally.

"Oh shut up you poor excuse for a Queen!" snapped Marik crossly "Didn't anyone ever tell you never to jump to conclusions?! If I was here to harm any of you then would I be here to do so while I myself have been harmed?!"

He lowered his hand and showed off the gash he'd received from Devion earlier. That made everybody stare at him and wonder what the heck had just happened.

"Who did this to you?" asked Sally.

"Who do you think genius?!" snapped Marik "Devion the Dreaded, leader of the Devatron race of course! You Mobians really don't have brains do you?!"

"I'll overlook that insult for the time being." muttered Sally through gritted teeth "In the meantime, care to fill us in on how this happened to you, how you found us and why you're here?"

"Well my dear royal dingbat, I was plotting doom on Sonic and friends again only to find out the Devatrons have taken over your city and kicked you all out into the wilderness." explained Marik "I've met the Devatrons before, they raided my ship's fuel supply while me and my family were cruising through space looking for more planets to ruin and they also killed my dear old grandparents. I tried to make an alliance with the Devatrons but Devion, the big idiot, decided not to take it and he slashed me across the chest with his sword. In order to get my own back on those Devatrons, I've decided to join you all in your conflict so I looked for you and I made a lucky guess that you'd be somewhere in the forests. I come across this loathsome village and after spotting a pink and red house, I had a feeling you'd all be in there as the pink and red combo reminded me of that obnoxious little brat Amy Rose and it seemed like a house she would live in and now I've found you all."

"Congratulations, you're an excellent tracker yadda, yadda." muttered Sonic "So why do you want to join us then Marik? And why should we let you after all you've done to us?"

"Because I can help you dearly Sonic and I have information that I'll only give you if you let me join you." said Marik with a sly grin on his face "It's information regarding…what the Devatrons are plotting to do to your city's populace."

Sonic and Sally looked at each other. Should they trust the tiny psychopath on this? Marik had done many terrible things in the past like killing the Acorn parents, trying to subjugate the kingdom, kidnapping a bunch of Chao* tricking Tails into helping him escape from prison, trying to get the Chaos Emeralds, trying to get the Sol Emeralds, attempted to use a dormant Eggman weapon and then attempting to hijack the Egg-Fleet. Should they really let him join them in this crusade against the Devatrons? Sonic was not willing to work with Marik under any circumstances given how you can never trust that Martian. Then again, they could use some extra help and Marik was powerful. And he had information that might help them and if they refused his offer then they'd never hear what he had to say. So despite his unwavering hatred of Marik, Sonic was going to have to swallow his pride and give into him. But just this once. Sonic take a deep breath and he gave Marik his answer.

"OK Marik, you can join us." said Sonic "But NO stabbing us in the back OK? And this had all better not be a trick or I'll hurt you worse then Devion already has!"

"Please Sonic, would I really be trying to trick you in THIS condition?" snapped Marik, pointing to the gash on his chest "If I was tricking you then I'd be in tip top shape! I do wish you'd all stop being so distrusting towards me!"

"Well Marik given what you've done in the past it's no wonder we're not willing to trust you." snapped Sally "Now, as you've promised, tell us the information you think we should hear."

Marik just smiled wickedly and he spoke to his hated enemies.

"I snooped on Devion before trying to broker in alliance with him my enemies." explained Marik "Devion has escorted the entire population of NewMobotropolis aboard The Doombringer and is planning to slaughter them all and recycle their remains into chrome to make more Devatrons and then he's going to spread his reign to the other regions of your world."

That alone was enough to make everybody in the room gasp in horror, much to Marik's satisfaction. Marik continued.

"Here's the particularly grim part for you all." he said "Do you wanna know why Devion's prolonging your existence instead of just killing you all right now? He's allowing you to exist so that he may entertain himself. He's toying with you all for his own sick satisfaction and when Devion decides he's had enough, he'd going to finish you all off. If I were you I'd start planning his defeat already before Devion decides your entertainment value has expired. Otherwise you're all dead."

"That's sick!" yelled Amy crossly "The Devatrons are gonna toy with us just so they get some entertainment?! Well let me stroll over to New Mobotropolis and I'll show those creeps how "entertaining" I can be!"

"Absolutely not Amy." said Sally "You will stay here like everybody else will. Going straight over to the Devatrons is just going to guarantee your death."

Amy sat back down on the floor and fumed to herself. Cream patted Amy affectionately on her back in a hopeless attempt to calm her down. But when Amy was in a bad mood, nothing could calm her down. Sally turned back to Marik.

"Thank you for this information Marik." she said graciously "But don't start thinking this is going to make me change my mind about you."

"I'm not trying to sway your opinions on me my dear queen." sneered Marik "I'm helping you Mobians stop the Devatrons for my own pleasure. After all, I can't destroy your world if the Devatrons take if over can I?"

"Even before the Devatrons arrived, you couldn't destroy our world." muttered Sonic "Still, I appreciate the fact you wanna help us win this fight. Let's just hope you're tough enough to take on the Devatrons."

"Oh believe me Sonic, I will be." sneered Marik "I can fight you and your friends to a standstill so I'll put up a better fight against them then you ever will Sonic."

"We'll see about that Marik the Martian." muttered Sonic "Now then guys and gals," he turned away from Marik and strode over to his friends "Let's start brainstorming for we need a plan to get NewMobotropolis back and save all the citizens from the Devatrons."

Sonic and friends gathered around and they began planning for their next move against the Devatrons. As they did that, Nicole stood up from the chair she was sitting on and looked around for anything she could use to warp up Marik's wounds as Marik was now on their side and he needed bandaging up badly. She tapped Amy on the shoulder and interrupted her for a minute.

"Excuse me Amy, do you have a first-aid kit around at all?" she asked.

"Sure." said Amy "It's in the cabinet above the TV over there." she pointed at the other side of the room where a cabinet hung above the television.

Nicole went over to the cabinet and she looked in it. She found a green box saying "First-Aid" on at the back of the cabinet and she pulled it out. She ran back over to Marik and she unravelled some bandages. Sally, who was keeping an eye on Marik, could see what Nicole was doing and she let her carry on with it as despite her hatred of Marik, it didn't mean she had to be needlessly cruel to him and stoop down to his level. Not to mention if Marik was joining them then he'd have to be in his best condition so he'd need some kind of hospitality so his wound would heal. Marik was surprised to see Nicole showing any shred of mercy towards him but he kept it in.

"I'm bandaging your wound up Marik." said Nicole "But this is only as a way of saying thank you for joining us and helping us in this fight. I hope you're not going to try and use my generosity against me Marik."

"Nicole, I would never do something like that." said Marik truthfully "Besides, I doubt I'd be able to manipulate you like that, even if I wanted to. After what happened last year you'll never trust me again."

"You're too right on that." muttered Nicole as she finished unravelling the bandages and got out a pair of scissors "Now remove your jacket please."

Marik, straining painfully, did as he was told and he removed his black leather jacket so Nicole could wrap the bandages around his upper torso to stop the gash on his chest from bleeding. Nicole then proceeded to warp the bandages around Marik's upper torso and under his arms. Marik grimaced as the gash began to sting but he was tough enough to deal with the pain so he kept it in. It sure was nice to be treated nicely by the Mobians for once, but this was only temporary. Once the Devatrons were dead, they'd be back to being enemies so Marik decided to enjoy this good treatment while he could as it wouldn't last forever…

Neither could the relative calm the heroes were having now for Devion decided to continue with his sadistic games of torture which he was using on Sonic and friends to break their spirits. He and Tronic had left NewMobotropolis and the two Devatrons were strolling over to Green Hill Zone. The rain had finally stopped much to Devion's pleasure as he hated it when it rained and the two stopped outside the forest entrance. Tronic had a tracking device with him and he looked at it. The device bleeped as he held it out ahead of him and scanned the forest terrain.

"Mobian life form presence detected." he droned in his musical voice "Residence: Some kind of forest village."

"So that's where the Royal Fighters have retreated to now I've exiled them from their city." purred Devion sadistically "Good. Now I've found them, the games can begin. And what better way to start off this game then burning down their only place of residence now their city is mine?"

He then reached behind his back and pulled out a huge cannon with a long barrel that was held underarm and spouted fired instead of bullets. It was a flamethrower and Devion was ready to use it. He primed the weapon and he aimed the flamethrower at the tree he stood in front of. It really was fortunate for him that the rain had stopped otherwise this attack wouldn't work for the rain would just put the fire out. Devion pulled the trigger and with one massive spurt of flames, he set the first three trees of the forest alight with fire and the heavy winds that were blowing carried the flames onto other trees and the fire began to spread faster then a swarm of locusts. Devion cackled to himself and he put the flamethrower back onto his back. He then proceeded to stride into the burning forests for he had something else other then burning Knothole down planned. Tronic stayed put and waited for Devion to come back out. As the fire began to spread and the forest was alight with flames, Devion began to cackle to himself.

"The surrounding growth will carry my glorious flames across themselves and the fire's reach will extend even to this so-called forest village they reside in." he purred "It's like King Hardigm once said "Fire is an excellent force of nature that can be carried and spread and the impacts fire leave are everlasting to anyone who experiences it." and now Sonic shall be another victim of the mighty fire. As well as a victim of the mighty Devatrons themselves."

The sheer speed the fires were spreading right now were incredible, mainly due to how many trees were around and how strong the blowing winds were. The winds blew the flames across the trees and they were all set alight. Each tree began to burn as the fires spread and sooner or alter, the fires reached Knothole and any citizens unlucky to be outside right now saw the coming flames and they began to panic. The citizens began running around like a disturbed hive of bees and they were screaming at the top of their voices. Mariah and the Chaotix could hear the panicked screams and they began wondering what was happening.

"Why's everybody running around like crazy?" asked Charmy.

"I think we should go and see." said Espio.

Then suddenly, Vector's nostrils began twitching and he began sniffing the air. The unconscious crocodile was beginning to come around at last and he could smell something for his nostrils wouldn't stop twitching.

"Hrrrrmmm…" muttered Vector sleepily "Charmy…? Are you… burning my ham…again…?"

"Huh?" wondered Charmy "What's Vector on about?"

"He's coming around and he smells something." said Espio, sniffing the air "And so do I. It smells like…smoke!"

That did it. Mariah shot through the front door and she looked outside only to see a huge fire spreading through the trees and threatening to burn Knothole as the fires surrounded the village. The poor medicine cat nearly died of shock.

"Oh great heavens!" shrieked Mariah "The forest is on fire! You two, grab your friend and carry him out of here! We've got to get out of here before we all burn alive!"

Espio and Charmy did not wait to be asked twice. Espio grabbed Vector by his top half and Charmy grabbed him by his tail. They carried Vector out with Charmy in front and Espio behind. They tried to go as fast as possible as the fires were beginning to spread to the village itself. Mariah ran for it, not bothering to take any of her medicines with her as she was likely to perish in the fire just trying to fetch them all. All the citizens began to flee the soon-to-be-doomed village of Knothole just as the first house on Knothole was set alight by the spreading fire. Over at Amy's house, Sonic heard all the commotion going on outside and he peeked through the window to see what the stir-up was about. He quickly found out at the sight of the surrounding trees on fire and the houses of Knothole beginning to catch fire as the flames began to spread. Sonic thought he was going to have a mental breakdown.

"Holy Chaos Emeralds!" shrieked Sonic "You're not gonna believe this everybody but the forest is on fire!"

"Oh no! Why now?!" wailed Tails "We haven't finished recuperating yet! And we haven't even begun to devise a plan yet!"

"Well we'd best skedaddle or we won't get to devise a plan!" cried Sonic "Everybody, evacuate the village while I put the flames out! My super speed will put out the fire easily!"

"Sonic, you're wasting your time!" cried Knuckles "This is no ordinary fire! This is a forest fire! You'll never put it all out!"

"Don't doubt the hedgehog Knuckles." said Sonic sternly "Now everybody, get going already!"

"If Hydra hadn't stolen my aqua-collar, I'd be helping you right now." muttered Ruben as he got up to leave "My water powers would overpower this fire easily."

All the Royal Fighters got up and fled for it as fast as they could with Sally and Nicole carrying Marik. Sonic ran outside to see how things were going now. All the citizens had evacuated their homes and fled for it deeper into the forest before the fire could catch up to them. All the Royal Fighters had evacuated too, abandoning their tents and leaving them to be swallowed up by the flames. Everybody had left and everybody was out of harm's way. Now Sonic could put out the fire before it could destroy all of Knothole. But before Sonic could so much as raise his leg, ready to run, Devion marched through the flames as if they were nothing to him and he barked at Sonic.

"I wouldn't try and put out this marvellous fire Sonic." he said coldly "Things can get very painful for you should you try."

"Devion!" yelled Sonic, bending down in a battle ready stance and preparing to fight "You couldn't leave us alone for one minute could ya? You've just had to come and wreck everything again! I bet it was you who started this fire!"

"Looks like you exceed better in the art of guessing then the art of common sense hedgehog." sneered Devion "I am indeed the starter of this fire. It's all part of my little entertainment run before I finally decided to destroy you all."

"I'm not surprised." muttered Sonic "A little birdie told us what you're planning to do to the population of NewMobotropolis and what you're planning to do to us Devion and it's not gonna work! You'll never break us Devion! Despite what's happened, we still haven't given up and we still have hopes of defeating you!"

"So it seems I cannot break your overbearing valour and spirit hedgehog." said Devion coldly "But if I cannot break your spirit…"

Sonic lunged forward at Devion, yelling at the top of his voice, only to get elbowed viciously in the back by Devion and knocked down onto the ground. The hedgehog spluttered heavily and he tried to get back up but Devion grabbed Sonic and held him high above his head. Sonic squirmed and tried to get free but Devion didn't let go of him.

"…then I'll just break your body instead." Devion finished in a voice colder then ice.

He then proceeded to slam Sonic down back first onto his knee. Sonic felt his spine crack slightly and the blue hedgehog fell down onto the ground after Devion let go of him. Sonic grabbed his back and he winced in pain. Devion had just dislocated his spine but the Devatron leader thought he'd broken it. To Sonic's good luck, Devion hadn't slammed him down on his knee hard enough due to the fact Devion didn't think he'd need to slam him that hard. Still, Sonic would be unable to fight like this. Devion picked up the injured hedgehog and he tossed him through the fires that surrounded Knothole. Sonic landed outside the fire, pain sweeping over his body like an ocean wave and his back felt even worse. Devion cackled to himself, believing he had finally broken Sonic and made the Royal Fighter's chance of victory even more impossible.

"You and your friends may crusade valiantly hedgehog." crowed

Devion "But just remember, your assaults are ultimately useless against a wall of invulnerable chrome-plated robots. You strike and break against me and I strike and break my opponents. So if you so wish to prolong this war Sonic then send your friends to defeat me. You're only going to make this game of mine more entertaining and only I will be getting any entertainment value out of the whole thing."

Devion then turned around and walked back through the fire, leaving Sonic behind to lie on the ground and wince in excruciating pain. Never before had he suffered such pain and torment. Even Eggman hadn't hurt him as bad as this. Sonic was just thankful his back wasn't broken but it felt like it was to him due to how much it hurt. Sonic was in so much pain, he couldn't even move. All he could do was lie there and wait for the fire to spread and engulf him along with Knothole. But that didn't seem like it was going to happen for Tails flew in to fetch him. Tails was wondering how Sonic was doing and to his horror, Sonic was lying there crippled on the ground and in bad shape. Tails flew down and picked Sonic up. He carried the injured hedgehog away from the burning village and he flew off to where the others had evacuated. Tails looked helplessly over his shoulder as Knothole continued to burn under the forest fires. Devion had done it. He'd destroyed Knothole and crippled Sonic. And just when there was a beacon of hope amongst the Royal Fighters earlier. Tails couldn't help but feel sorry for the people of Knothole for they were now helpless, especially Amy and Mariah. Tails arrived back to the gathering point and he touched down on the ground with Sonic in his arms. Sonic's friends surrounded Tails and they all stared at Sonic in horror.

"What happened?" asked Amy, her eyes brimming with tears "What's up with Sonic? He looks hurt!"

"I don't know." said Tails "I came back to see if he had the fires under control and he's lying there in excruciating pain."

"Hey blue dude! What happened to you?" asked Mandy.

"Looks like somebody's crippled him." said Marik with a delighted smirk on his face.

"Devion…got me…" grunted Sonic "He…tried to…break me…like he…broke Thomas…"

"Oh mah stars! Poor you sugah-hog!" cried a horrified Bunnie Rabbot "That horrible Devatron leader tried to break yer lil ol' back?! He looks like he hurt ya'll pretty bad!"

"He…has…" winced Sonic "My…spine…doesn't feel right…Argh! Ugh Gyaargh! Crud this hurts!"

The pain in his back continued to flare up. Mariah ran up to Sonic and instantly began observing the crippled hedgehog. A piece of vertebrae was sticking up in Sonic's back from that attack. It needed pushing back into place or Sonic was going to be in constant pain all his life and he wouldn't function properly.

"You spine's dislocated slightly." said Mariah "It needs popping back into place. Is there anyone around here who's exceptionally strong?"

"Well ah am Miss Medicine Cat." said Bunnie.

"I am too." said Knuckles "What needs doing?"

"Well all Sonic needs is a sharp hit and that should relocate his spine." said Mariah.

"What?!" cried Sonic "Don't do it! It's…ugh…gonna hurt real…bad!"

"I'll do it." said Knuckles "Bunnie's hit will be too hard, especially if she uses that cybernetic arm of hers."

Knuckles strode up to Sonic and he cracked his knuckles. Sonic could only lie there helplessly and brace himself for impact. Knuckles drew his arm back and he gave Sonic's back a good punch. There was a bit of a crick noise that was heard and Sonic screamed in pain. He reared up and grabbed his throbbing back and he winced as pain flooded up his back. He then noticed he couldn't feel the vertebrae sticking up anymore. Knuckles' punch had worked, his spine was back to normal but it would need some healing so Sonic couldn't get back into the action just yet. He'd need a good rest for now while his back fully healed.

"Ow! Thanks Knuckles!" grunted Sonic "I think that punch did it! My spine feels…more right now."

"Sadly though Sonic, you won't be able to get back into the battle yet." said Mariah "Your spine needs to heal. I recommend having a good rest for a while before you do anything rash and reckless."

"Well that sucks!" muttered Sonic "I'm the defining hero of the R.F.S.! How can we possibly win this battle with the Devatrons without me?"

"By getting some assistance from someone who will be of excellent help to you." said a grating voice that sounded all too familiar to the Mobians.

Everybody looked to their left and they saw none other then Dr. Eggman hovering above the ground in his Egg-Pod with a newly rebuilt Katherine by his side. Everybody gasped at the sight of Eggman, including Marik who wasn't expecting to ever see him again. Eggman grinned happily at his enemies and he stepped down from his Egg-Pod.

"Hello there everybody." said Dr. Eggman brightly "Is there room for me in this battle with the Devatrons at all…?"

Looks like the alliances just keep on coming! Eggman's come to join in the fun now! Can the Mobians save the citizens of New Mobotroplis? And will they do it without Sonic? And will Eggman and Marik be of much help in this crusade? You're gonna have to find out yourselves next time on Sonic the Hedgehog: Heroes of Mobius!

P.S. Erin D. The Devatrons are NOT inspired by the Metarex. The two races don't even have anything in common! Any smiliarites is purely a coincidence but they are NOT, emphasis on not, inspired by the Metarex. I've seen your D.A. page by the way and your work's OK. Foes Become Friends Part 2

Story 106: Foes Become Friends Part 2: Unhelpful Allies

"Dr. Eggman?!" cried the Mobians in unison.

"Hello there everybody." said Dr. Eggman brightly "Is there room for me in this battle with the Devatrons at all?"

Sonic the Hedgehog and his friends had been through a lot of crud recently. The Devatrons invade Mobius, hoping to capture it along with fourteen other worlds they've captured, Sonic fails to beat Devion's challenge, a councillor gives Devion the location of NewMobotropolis, The Downunda Royal Fighters get killed, Thomas Tiger of Megapolis is crippled for life, Kate the Eagle gets killed, Vector gets injured, New Mobotropolis gets taken over, the populace is being rounded up to get converted into chrome for the Devatrons and now Knothole's been burnt to ashes by Devion, leaving the Royal Fighters nowhere to stay for they'd been exiled from New Mobotropolis and Knothole is ashes. And to round it all up, Sonic got crippled although not for life and even though a good punch from Knuckles fixed his spine, Sonic would have to stay out of the action while his back fully healed, leaving the Royal Fighters the pain of having to fight this battle without him. And now Sonic's arch-nemesis Dr. Eggman's just shown up and seems to be wanting to join the Mobians in this fight against the Devatrons.

"How do you know about the Devatrons Eggman?" asked Sonic.

"I sent Katherine to meet them." explained Dr. Eggman "You see, my monitors in my secret hiding place picked up the Devatron ship and I wanted to capture it and use it in my battle against you Mobians but my attempts were unsuccessful. I even tried to wager an alliance with the Devatrons themselves and they turned me down flat! How dare they! They even destroyed my beautiful Katherine so I've had to rebuild her again!"

He motioned to the rebuilt Katherine that remained standing in the Egg-Pod as silent as a statue. She looked just the same as before. It was as if she'd never been destroyed.

"So since the Devatrons want to take over your world and won't let me join in with them, I decided I'll join you lot in bringing them down." said Dr. Eggman "Speaking of which, how's things been going between you and the Devatrons?"

"Terrible." muttered Sonic bitterly, rubbing his throbbing back "We've lost a few Royal Fighters, one of them being Kate the Eagle, Thomas Tiger is crippled for life, Vector's injured, a councillor sells us out to the Devatrons, we've lost New Mobotropolis, we've been exiled to the wilderness and now Knothole's been burnt down and I got crippled by Devion! Good old Knuckles managed to fix my back though but it still hurts and according to Mariah, I've gotta sit out of the action for a while until my back fully heals."

"Oh, ho, ho, ho, ho!" chortled Dr. Eggman "Now that IS quite the dilemma isn't it?! It's a pity I wasn't responsible for all this as that'd make it much better but this is just as enjoyable!"

"Here's the worst part though." muttered Mandy Mouse "According to the Creepy Little Midget over there," she pointed at Marik the Martian "Devion's rounding up the population of NewMobotropolis and is planning to make them into Devatrons! I bet it's like getting roboticized only worse and the whole thing just makes my fur quiver!"

"Now that will NOT do at all!" said Dr. Eggman crossly "If those Devatrons convert everybody into Devatrons then how can I roboticize you all and have my Robian army for my Eggman Empire?"

"So I guess you wanna call a truce with us then Egghead?" asked Sonic.

"Of course Sonic." said Dr. Eggman "The Devatrons refused my help and if they take over Mobius, I can never build my Eggman Empire here! Not to mention I've claimed Mobius as my own first so I get to take it over, not some silly bunch of chrome robots who claim to be invulnerable!"

"They claim to be invulnerable because they ARE invulnerable." said Tails "No matter what we throw at those creeps, we can't lay a dent on them. The only way to kill a Devatron is by impaling it through the visor with a bladed weapon of some kind but we don't have many bladed weapons so that isn't very helpful to us, and there's lots of them so we'd be overpowered easily if we tried to kill every last Devatron by impaling them through the visor."

"Well that bit of information could be helpful to some degree." mused Dr. Eggman "So Sonic, am I free to join you in your battle against the Devatrons? Or are you going to distrust me and leave me out, thus wiping out any potential help you can get in this battle?"

Sonic thought on that matter for a moment. He was willing to let Marik join them in the fight against the Devatrons so why not let Eggman join them too? Eggman was just as trustworthy as Marik, that is to say not very at all, so there was no reason not to let Eggman join them. Not to mention they need all the help they can get as he and Vector weren't fit for combat right now and could do with some replacements. Sonic decided what must be done. He was letting Eggman join them in the battle against the Devatrons. His technology might be of some use to the Devatrons given how he's spent a couple of years constantly battling it and at times had almost been bested by it.

"OK Eggman, we'll call truce for now." said Sonic, shaking Eggman's hand "You're part of this battle now and don't get any idea about backstabbing us or you'll know about it!"

"Sonic, Why would I go through all this trouble joining your side just to get the drop on you?" sneered Dr. Eggman as he finished shaking hands with Sonic "The Devatrons are the bigger threat right now and I must defeat them and I can only do that with the help of you and your friends. Once the Devatrons are gone though, that's when the truce is up."

"And then me and you can go back to beating the tar outta each other." said Sonic "Now that's all settled, we need a plan right now. We've gotta save the population of New Mobotropolis before Devion converts them all. But the Devatrons are too powerful and they'll be hard to get by. Also The Doombringer 's probably gonna be crawling with Devatrons and it'll be hard to get past them all. That plus me being out of the action means this mission will be even harder."

"I have an idea." said Dr. Eggman "I've brought along two robots for such a mission."

"Let me guess, one of them is Metal Sonic isn't it?" asked Sonic.

"Correct." said Dr. Eggman "After he got destroyed during my fleet's first attack on New Mobotropolis, I rebuilt him and now he's ready to face the Devatrons. Katherine, deploy Metal Sonic."

Katherine obeyed and she pressed a button on the Egg Pod's control pad. A compartment in the Egg-Pod opened up and a blue sphere shot out from the compartment and transformed into the familiar shape of Metal Sonic right before the Royal Fighters. Sonic looked at Metal Sonic and he scowled at him. How he hated that robot and how he wished he'd be forever rid of him. Still, Metal Sonic was on his side for once as he was going to help fight the Devatrons.

"Metal Sonic shall fill in for you Sonic as he's every bit like you only better." said Dr. Eggman "Although I kinda question why you haven't asked Shadow to help you. I'm sure the Devatrons would have a hard time taking on two supersonic hedgehogs."

"We have no way of contacting Shadow so we can't ask him to help us." muttered Sonic "We're just gonna have to hope he drops by and decides to help us."

"Indeed." said Eggman "Anyway, Metal Sonic shall be your replacement in the rescue mission Sonic and my other robot, Silver Sonic, shall keep the Devatrons busy. A machine as large and powerful as Silver Sonic will easily keep those Devatrons busy."

"You've got Silver Sonic too?" said Tails "But how can you carry him with you in that tiny Egg-Pod? He's enormous!"

"I've given Silver Sonic the ability to shrink when he's in sleep mode." explained Dr. Eggman "When Silver Sonic curls up into a ball, he can shrink down to size for travel purposes. Once he's awake, he'll expand back to his natural size."

"I didn't know humans were this clever." muttered Marik "Still, this kind of tech is impressive doctor. I feel fortunate to have you helping us after all."

"Thank you little Martian." said Dr. Eggman "Now we have a plan, shall we carry it out?"

"Whenever you're ready Dr. Eggman." said Queen Sally "While you and Silver Sonic distract the Devatrons, me, Nicole and the Royal Fighters shall all sneak aboard The Doombringer and rescue the populace of New Mobotropolis. And maybe sabotage something on the way and so we're stronger, all the teams will come and not just the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters. Are you all with me Royal Fighters?"

"YEAH!" cheered all the teams.

"Then let us carry out Eggman's plan and stop the Devatrons from converting the populace!" yelled Sally.

"Quick question Sal, we are we all gonna go once we rescue the citizens?" asked Sonic "NewMobotropolis is under Devatron control and Knothole's burnt to a crisp so where can everybody stay?"

"We'll relocate to Empire City." said Sally "Much like the populace did before when Eggman tore down the first Mobotropolis."

Eggman just smiled. Those were fond memories to him. Fond memories of his first impression on the Mobians when he arrived here two years ago.

"Now Royal Fighters, let's go and rescue the citizens of our lost city!" yelled Sally "Once the population is saved, we shall reside in EmpireCity to rest up and then once we're ready, we will take the battle to them!"

With that said Sally, Nicole, Dr. Eggman, Metal Sonic, Marik and all the Royal Fighter teams went off to carry out Eggman's plan. Sonic, Vector and Thomas stayed where they were as they couldn't fight. Sonic and Vector were injured and recovering and Thomas was permanently broken so they couldn't fight right now. The foot soldiers of each Royal Fighter team had stayed behind too to protect Sonic, Vector, Thomas and the citizens of Knothole in case anything should happen like, a possible Devatron attack or something. Sonic lay against a tree next to Vector, who was waking up and rubbing himself better and he folded his arms.

"Boy is this gonna be boring." muttered Sonic "I'm gonna be just sitting around while everybody else fights for Mobius. Man I wish I never got my back crippled by Devion now!"

"At least your back could be fixed Sonic." said Thomas Tiger, who was in a wheelchair and looking pretty downhearted "Mine's been broken and nothing can fix a broken back. I'll just be stuck in this wheelchair needing assistance and just stuck giving orders. I'll never be able to fight again whereas you will be back in the battle sometime soon."

"I will be too once my wound heals." grunted Vector "I'm amazed I'm still alive despite being shot by that Deva-Beast thing! It hit me pretty hard! So what did I miss while I was knocked out Sonic?"

"A lot Vector." muttered Sonic "New Mobotropolis is under Devatron control and Knothole's been burnt down."

"Now that is a big bummer." muttered Vector "Good thing all the Royal Fighters and Eggman have gone to save the citizens before Devion does something terrible to them. I hope they'll make it."

"With two of our worst enemies joining us and a rebuilt Metal Sonic replacing me, they'll be fine Vector." Sonic assured the crocodile "I just hope Eggman's plan will work. That Silver Sonic robot is a good machine I'll admit but I'm not sure that'll be enough to keep the Devatrons busy for long."

"Well since we can't join in the action, all we can do is wait and see what happens." said Vector "And hope for the best as we could do with something good happening now."

Sonic agreed with Vector. With all the crud they'd been going through recently, they could do with some good fortune for once.

And hopefully with Eggman's help, they'd get it…

Over at New Mobotropolis, the very city that Sonic lived in and lost to the Devatrons, the Devatrons had finished rounding up the citizens of NewMobotropolis into the prison cells on The Doombringer and were ready to convert them all into Devatron soldiers. What a wound on the hearts of Sonic and friends that would be when they return to reclaim their city only to find it'll be a city minus any inhabitants and will be nothing more then an empty civilization needing people for it to function otherwise it'll be a huge waste of land and resources and serve no purpose on the planet Mobius. The Doombringer had many prison cells, so many in fact that not even the whole population of New Mobotropolis was enough to fill every single one. The Doombringer could quite easily carry half the population of Mobius in those cells given how many there were and how many people each cell could carry. Devion prowled down the cell corridor, listening happily to the cries and wails of his prisoners. How he loved to hear his victims cower and whimper in fear in his prison cells. It sure did feel good to be on the winning streak. The Mobians looked pretty promising when he first arrived and yet he was having a relatively easy time in defeating them. His capture of Mobius could quite clearly be one of his quickest takeovers ever if he kept this up. Devion stopped prowling and he stood ominously in front of a cell door. He opened the cell and he walked inside. The prisoners in the cell all cowered back against the wall as he entered. To them, Devion was the scariest thing they'd ever seen. Devion glowered at his prisoners with his red visor, happy to see them looking petrified at the mere sight of him.

"Citizens of New Mobotropolis." he said ominously to them in his deep chilling voice "It is time for you all to start a new life. A life encased in chrome armour."

He lunged forward and grabbed a brown-furred female racoon in a purple frilly dress and purple sandals by her hair. The racoon squealed in pain as she was hauled out of the cell by Devion. The prisoners began to wonder what Devion was going to do to the poor racoon as she was dragged out of the cell and taken away. Devion looked at the other prisoners over his shoulder and said one last thing before closing the door.

"You are all to pay attention to the screens above the cell doors." he said coldly "They'll show you what fate awaits you all now and this female I have with me will be used as an example of what will happen to you."

He left the prison blockade and switched on all the TV screens above the prison cell doors inside the cells. The screens were there due to Devion's sadism. You see, he has great pleasure in terrifying his victims before he recycles them into chrome and likes to give them an example of what there is to come. He takes one victim and uses the unlucky victim as an example and the screens in the cells show the prisoners what will happen to them. All the prison cells that had prisoners in them had their screens switched on and the prisoners stared up at the screens, wondering what they were about to see. The screen showed them a rather eerie looking room with a rather large object shaped vaguely like a cauldron. There were lots of pods in the room too and they had robotical bodies in them. The bodies looked like protoforms of some kind and were waiting to be moulded into something. These protoforms were Devatron soldiers waiting to get their invulnerable chrome armour. This room was the Devatron Production Chamber, the very room where Devion made new soldiers for his ever growing army. The cauldron-shaped object in the chamber was full of searing hot liquid metal that bubbled and had steam drifting from it. This liquid metal would be poured onto the protoforms and then harden around the body, making the Devatron's trademark invulnerable chrome armour casing that made it so powerful and such a formidable foe. Once the liquid chrome set and formed the armour, there was no way of removing the armour. The Devatrons were encased in this chrome shell of theirs for life. That was how the Devatrons made new soldiers, the protoforms were made in the production facilities on the ship and the armour was added to them afterwards. And given how hot the liquid metal was, it could melt anything and that was how the Devatrons recycled their victims into chrome. The victim would be killed first and then thrown into the vat, the liquid chrome would melt them until there was nothing left and that victim's remains would end up becoming liquid chrome. The fourteen planets Devion had already subjugated were all suffering this kind of horror from the Devatron facilities installed on them after their takeover. Devion arrived in the Devatron production chamber with his victim for the example he would be showing. Devion threw the racoon onto the floor and he drew out his golden sword. The racoon remained on the floor, staring fearfully up at Devion and shaking madly.

"No! Please!" whimpered the racoon "Don't hurt me! Don't hurt me! Please! Please! Help!"

Devion ignored the cowering racoon and he plunged his sword into the racoon's heart. The racoon was killed instantly and her body lay lifeless on the floor with blood trickling out of the hole in her chest. The response to that was a prison chamber full of gasping from the horrified prisoners who were watching this horror unfold in front of their eyes like a really terrifying horror film on the screens in their cells. Devion sheathed his blood-stained sword and he picked up the dead racoon. One reason he killed his victims before recycling them was so they couldn't escape from the vat once they were thrown in. This had happened before, some victims had escaped by using gadgets of some kind to avoid falling in and some escaped before they could even be thrown in so Devion had resorted to killing his victims before throwing them into the vat of liquid chrome so nobody could escape from it or avoid being thrown into it. Devion threw the dead racoon into the vat and her body sunk straight down into the searing hot liquid chrome. In a matter of minutes, the body would melt and since the victim was dead, it couldn't escape from it. The prisoners were horrified at this for it would be their turn next. They were all going to be slaughtered by Devion and then thrown into the vat of searing hot liquid chrome. The next batch of Devatrons that was to be created would end up wearing them as armour. What a gruesome thought that was for all the unlucky victims that were imprisoned on The Doombringer . Devion cackled to himself and he left the production chamber to get the rest of the prisoners so he could begin recycling them all. And since he'd crippled Sonic, no one would be able to stop him. But as Devion began to picture the slaughtering of his prisoners, The Doombringer 's alarm began blaring throughout the ship and Devion began groaning in annoyance to himself.

"Why must fate throw something at me just as I'm about to convert this batch of prisoners?!" growled Devion "What is going on now?!"

So instead of heading down to the prison chamber, Devion stormed off to the docking ramps of The Doombringer and he opened one. The ramp lowered down to the ground and Devion stormed down it furiously, wondering what dared to interrupt him in his moment of glory. He soon found out as he stepped onto the ground and looked ahead of him. Dr. Eggman was standing there before him with his Egg-Pod beside him and a rather casual expression on his face. Devion's visor widened in surprise, mostly at the fact there was a human standing before him on Mobian turf. He didn't remember anything about Mobius having humans on it so he began to wonder how a human could possibly be here. Devion drew out his golden sword and he pointed it at Dr. Eggman. The evil (omelette) dictator didn't even flinch. He just kept up his cool attitude and remained smiling at him.

"So it appears a human stands before me even though this planet does not have humans on it." purred Devion "Explain yourself before I carve you to pieces human."

"I am Dr. Eggman, Sonic's worst enemy and soon-to-be-conqueror of this world." explained Dr. Eggman "I've been exiled from Earth so I've decided to make Mobius mine. You stupid Devatrons however have decided to come along and ruin all that by taking it for yourselves! I tried to bargain with you but your second-in-command made the mistake of turning me down flat and now I'm going to help Sonic get rid of you!"

"Ah, so you're this human that Raicor spoke to me about." mused Devion "He told me a human had tried to bargain with us and he turned the human down. Well since you've come crawling back claiming you're now on Sonic's side in this battle then I guess I'll have to kill you too. This'll be a good insight on what it'll be like to face a human as I am planning to take Earth next once Mobius is mine."

"I don't think you'll be getting Mobius Devion." sneered Dr. Eggman "For I have a surprise for you."

"And what surprise would that be?" asked Devion coldly.

Dr. Eggman just reached over to the Egg-Pod beside him and he pressed a button on the control pad. The Egg-Pod's upper half opened up and a huge silver ball shot out of the pod and spin-dashed Devion as hard as it could. Devion was sent hurling through the air and he crashed into the front-end of The Doombringer , catching the attention of Raicor, Tronic, Steelor and Triton who were in the cockpit right now. The four Devatron leaders stared outside the cockpit window, only to see Devion sliding down from the tip of The Doombringer 's nose and landing with a heavy clunk on the ground. Devion groaned in pain and he picked himself up, wondering what had hit him. The silver ball uncurled and formed the familiar shape of Silver Sonic, one of Eggman's deadliest killing machines. Silver Sonic clenched it's fists and glowered at Devion with it's fearsome red optics. Devion glared at Silver Sonic and he prepared to fight, removing his capebefore he did so.

"What abomination of science is that?!" he snarled fiercely.

"This is a machine of mine known as Silver Sonic." explained Dr. Eggman "A machine that is more than capable of fighting Sonic himself to a standstill. Raicor thinks my technology is weak so now as you fight him, I can show your second-in-command how great my technology really is!"

"As you wish." said Devion dryly "I shall take it upon myself to eviscerate your killing machine and show that not even human inventions can destroy the mighty Devatrons."

"Silver Sonic! Obliterate him!" bellowed Dr. Eggman.

Silver Sonic obeyed his master and it began running towards Devion. Dr. Eggman got in his Egg-Pod and reversed away from the fight. He was just going to sit on the sidelines and watch this titanic battle unfold before him. Devion charged at the eight foot tall killing machine and he leaped up into the air. He somersaulted and landed a powerful dropkick on Silver Sonic's head. Silver Sonic was knocked down onto it's back but it wasn't down for long. Silver Sonic got back to it's feet and he clawed at Devion. Devion dodged the attack and he jumped onto Silver Sonic's arm. He converted his arms into arm cannons and he began blasting Silver Sonic in the head. The blasts ricocheted off of Silver Sonic's head but they were doing a little damage to him for as the blasts bounced off, they left black singes where they hit. If Devion kept this up he'd eventually penetrate Silver Sonic's tough armour and bring the tough machine crashing down. Silver Sonic just swung his arm up and sent Devion flying up into the air. Silver Sonic leaped up after him and swatted him down into the ground. Devion hit the ground with a heavy clunk but the Devatron leader was unharmed. Silver Sonic landed down directly in front of him and it clawed the Devatron leader. Devion staggered backwards but Silver Sonic didn't stop there. It clawed Devion again and then punched the Devatron leader as hard as it could. Devion was thrown down onto his back and before he could get up, Silver Sonic charged over to him and then he stomped on Devion. If Devion wasn't invulnerable then that attack would have killed him. Devion pulled himself out of the ground after that stomp had embedded him in it slightly and he began blasting at Silver Sonic again. Silver Sonic raised his arm to shield himself from the attacks and Devion decided to take advantage of this. He drew out his sword and he charged towards Silver Sonic. Silver Sonic lowered his arm only to see Devion coming at him with his sword and the Devatron leader began to slash at him furiously. Silver Sonic defended himself with his arm again but Devion's sword was a lot stronger then his cannon blasts. Devion was leaving heavy gashes on Silver Sonic's arm as he slashed at him. Silver Sonic swatted Devion away again but the Devatron leader wasn't down for long. He picked himself up and braced himself for another attack.

"You are a powerful machine Silver Sonic." said Devion "I must commend Eggman on this well constructed fighting machine. But I have had many experiences in fighting giant killing machines, mainly in the gladiator arenas back on Deaveron where me and my soldiers would fight giant Devatron machines built especially for the training matches so like all well constructed machines, you will fall at my elegant blade!"

Silver Sonic's reaction was to spin-dash Devion as hard as he could. Sonic's spin-dash was already a nuisance to Devion but this was an eight-foot tall robot with blades for spines and was made of metal so it was much more powerful then Sonic's spin-dash. Devion was sent hurling backwards from that attack and he landed heavily on the ground. The Devatron leader growled furiously and he picked himself up…only to find that he had a thin gash that started from the base of his neck and reached down to his upper torso! A vaguely orange liquid began to trickle from the gash. That liquid was oil. Robots run on oil and so do Devatrons but their oil is different to ours and only this kind of oil can make them function. No other oil would make them work. If the Devatrons ran out of oil then they would shut off until they got new supplies. The fact Devion was shedding oil made him quiver with rage. Silver Sonic had actually managed to penetrate him! Well he was nigh-invulnerable, meaning that it is possible to damage him it's just very hard to do so. Given Silver Sonic's powerful spin-dash attacks, it's no wonder that only Silver Sonic has managed to penetrate Devion so far.

"Silver Sonic can penetrate me!" cried Devion in shock "This machine is definitely more powerful then I thought it was! I must destroy it before it destroys me!"

Devion stood back up with his sword in hand and he charged back towards Silver Sonic. Silver Sonic spin-dashed towards Devion again but Devion was ready for him. He ducked and Silver Sonic hurled over him. Silver Sonic screeched to a halt and it turned around to face Devion. It ran towards Devion again but Devion jumped up and slashed the silver robot across the face with his sword. Silver Sonic flinched and felt it's face. The attack had left a long gash across Silver Sonic's face. Devion jumped up and slammed the sword down on Silver Sonic's face. Silver Sonic swatted Devion away but Devion landed on his feet and he charged back towards Silver Sonic. Devion and Silver Sonic began swiping at each other. Devion attacked his sword and Silver Sonic attacked with his claws. The two swiped and slashed at each other as viciously as they could, their attacks making loud clangs and sparks flew as their weapons hit each other. As the fight went on, Dr. Eggman turned to a pile of bushes he was parked near and he spoke to the bushes.

"You can come out now." said Dr. Eggman "Silver Sonic's got what I think is the Devatron leader on the ropes."

The Royal Fighters were all hiding in the bushes and they had been waiting for Eggman to give them the all clear before they went into action. The Royal Fighters all crept quietly out of the bushes with Metal Sonic leading them and they headed over to The Doombringer . They tried their hardest to keep their attention diverted from the fight between Silver Sonic and Devion. Marik failed however. As the Royal Fighters crept, Marik couldn't resist glancing over at the fight and seeing how it was going. Silver Sonic uppercut Devion into the air and almost took his beak off. Devion landed with a heavy clunk on his back but he picked himself back up and charged back towards Silver Sonic. Silver Sonic just clenched his fist and slammed Devion in the back of his head and knocked him onto his front. Marik cheered happily at that for he hated the Devatrons and seeing one getting thrashed was giving him great joy right now.

"Ha, ha! Give him another one giant silver bladed Sonic bot!" cried Marik.

"Marik will you shut up?!" hissed Tails, clasping his hand around Marik's mouth to quieten the Martian "Do you want to alert the Devatrons to our presence?!

"Oh fie Tails!" grumbled Marik, pushing Tails away from him " The Doombringer has scanners that pick up anything within ten yards of it! They'll know of our presence easily!"

"Well hopefully they'll be too distracted with the fight between Devion and Silver Sonic to bother about us." said Tails "Now keep your voice down and come on!"

"I don't take orders from you furry vermin!" snarled Marik "Just because we're allies, it doesn't mean I fall under your line of command Tails!"

"Oh shut up already!" groaned Tails "We've got a mission to do and I can do without you moaning at me!"

Marik decided not to prolong this argument as it was getting them nowhere. The Royal Fighters continued sneaking up to The Doombringer but for some reason, it's scanners didn't pick up their presence. That was because after Silver Sonic had sent Devion flying into the nose of The Doombringer , the impact had damaged the sensor beacon that was stored in the nose of the ship. Without it, The Doombringer wouldn't pick up anything so they could get onboard without being detected. The docking ramp that Devion had lowered was still lowered being as Devion had forgotten to close it so the Royal Fighters sneaked up the ramp and onto the terrifying vessel that housed the Devatrons and their facilities. Sally began to feel a little nervous about this though being as how she'd heard Marik saying The Doombringer had scanners that could pick up anything within ten yards of it and yet there were no Devatrons here to stop them from carrying out their mission. The corridors were completely empty and there were no Devatrons around.

"This is weird." said Sally "I heard Marik saying to Tails the Devatron's ship has scanners with a great range and yet there's no one around. It's like they haven't picked us up on scanner or anything."

"Maybe their scanners aren't working or they're distracted by the battle with Devion and Silver Sonic?" suggested Nicole.

"I don't think so." said Kiara the Cheetah "When me, Tails and Cosmo got near that thing, a Devatron came outside looking for us. I doubt a battle would distract them like this and I don't think the scanners aren't working."

"Either way, I don't like this." said Sally "We need to remain alert and have distractions to keep any resistance away. Teams Megapolis, Adabat, Nekronopolis and Grand Metropolis will stay in this corridor and keep an eye out for Devatrons. Me, Nicole Team Mobotropolis, the Chaotix, Marik and Metal Sonic will look for the captive citizens."

"I'm up for it your majesty." said Miranda Mongoose, deploying her electro-prod "Anything to get back at them for killing Kate."

"We'll make sure no Devatron gets near you your highness." said General Bostock, priming his gun.

"Excellent." said Sally "We'll see you later and if we come back here with the people of New Mobotropolis behind us, that means we've completed the mission and it's time to flee. If we come back as we are then that means we've failed and we need to get out of here quickly."

"Understood." said Commander Mortimer "Good luck you lot."

"Good luck yourselves, you'll need it." replied Sally.

So the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, Royals, Chaotix and Villains all ran off down the corridor while the other teams remained where they were. Since Sally knew about prisons and the fact they were always at the bottom of something be it a castle or something like that, she took lead with Nicole beside her and Metal Sonic following her closely. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and Chaotix remained close and followed the squirrel queen through the corridors.

"It's a pity Sally doesn't do the Royal Fighter thing more often." muttered Mandy "She's doing pretty well at this. She seems to know exactly where we're going and her leadership skills are equally as good as Sonic's, maybe even better."

"You're right on that Mandy." said Wilson "I will always remember the time she actually joined us in pushing back the Region of Rebellious Reptile's first attack on Castle Acorn* and she actually took on the big muscular Komodo Dragon and actually beat him! She should be a Royal Fighter rather then a Queen I think."

"But if she does that then New Mobotropolis has no ruler." noted Ruben "Although Sally could always do both I suppose. Fight for freedom and rule the kingdom at the same time but doing two jobs at once would get very tiresome for her so it'd be best for Sally to do one job instead of two."

"Too right mate." said Geoffrey St. John "Although she always trains so that should she need to fight, she can do so and not end up being useless on the battle field. It's always important to defend yourself from oncoming attacks, even if you don't do much fighting."

"You Mobians talk too much." muttered Marik who was clearly getting annoyed with the Mobians conversing to each other behind him "Even more so then I! Shut up and focus on the bloody mission will you?!"

"You have no right to butt in Marik!" snapped Espio "Their conversation was between them and not you so you be quiet!"

"Yeah!" agreed Charmy "Shut up before I sting you!"

"Try it and you'll end up having that stinger down your throat you annoying little buzz bucket!" snarled Marik.

"Marik, we will not tolerate you threatening our comrades thank you." said Sally sternly without turning around.

"So sorry your highness." snorted Marik sarcastically.

"Of all the people we allow to join us, why did we have to take him?" muttered Tails in annoyance.

"At least he's helping us and not trying to kill us this time Tails so be grateful for that." said Cosmo "Please try and tolerate Marik for the time being. If we don't get along then we'll be a poor team and we won't be able to stop the Devatrons if we fight each other instead of them."

"OK Cosmo, I'll try and bear him until the truce is over." said Tails with a softer expression on his face.

Deep down though, Tails and Cosmo knew that Marik was going to be a right pain for them as the truce went on. Eggman was likely to be a bigger pain but he was more manageable whereas Marik was something to worry about so it'd be better not to start a fight with Marik then get the Martian to unleash hell on them all. The Royal Fighters continued creeping through the hall, this time in total silence, and they kept their senses alert for any sign of danger. Their eyes were wide open, their ears were on the alert and their noses were ready to smell out anything that would be a danger to them. But it seemed one person's senses were too alert. And that person was Metal Sonic. Metal Sonic stopped dead in his tracks and he turned his head to one side. He was looking down a corridor on the left hand side of this one they were in now and the corridor appeared to lead to what looked like a door at the end of the corridor. Metal Sonic wondered what this door was for so he abandoned the group and hovered down the other corridor to investigate. Knuckles spotted him and he yelled at Metal Sonic.

"Hey! Where the heck are you going Metal Sonic?!" yelled Knuckles

"Come back here! We're supposed to stick together!"

Metal Sonic ignored him and continued hovering down the corridor.

"Ah think we should leave him." said Bunnie Rabbot "Maybe Metal Sonic's investigatin' somethin' down there. For all we know, maybe Metal Sonic might find something useful for us."

"He'd better or he'll get Blade-Rushed to scrap for deserting us." muttered Shade, tightening her grip on her twin blades furiously.

So the Royal Fighters carried on down the corridor while Metal Sonic went his way. Metal Sonic reached the door at the end of the corridor and he opened it. He crept through the door and observed this room he was now in…

As for the others, Sally spotted what looked like a lift and she ran over to it.

"Tails, Cosmo, you two have already been on this ship." said Sally "Can you tell me if this is a lift or not?"

"It is." said Tails "In our first infiltration mission, me, Cosmo and Kiara took the lift to the top floor and Devion was up there so I assume important rooms like the cockpit are at the top. We need to go down though as the prison cells are likely to be at the bottom of The Doombringer ."

"You are correct Tails." said Marik "In the world of spacecraft, any spacecraft equipped with prison cells always have the cells built on the bottom floor of the ship and this ship will be no exception."

"Well let's hope you're right Mr. Know-It-All Spaceman." sneered Amy mockingly.

Charmy, Cream, Tails and Cosmo all giggled at that remark. Marik resisted the urge to slaughter them all and just gritted his teeth and bore the insult. He'd get Amy for that once the truce was over. Sally opened the lift and the Royal Fighters all piled into it. The lift was only just big enough to fit all twenty-one people in it at once. Now everybody was in, Tails pressed the button that took the lift down to the bottom floor of The Doombringer . The lift quickly took the Mobians down to the bottom floor of the ship and the doors opened upon arrival. The Royal Fighters all piled out and found themselves in another corridor. This corridor led to all the rooms on the bottom floors of The Doombringer . The Mobians took the left side and hoped that they had guessed correctly on where the prison cells likely were. It seemed their guess was right for at the end of the left side of the corridor was a door with bars in it much like a standard prison cell door. The door was locked with a code that only the Devatrons knew though so there was no getting in nice and quietly. The Mobians would have to bust the door down and luckily, there were some hard hitters. Espio and Geoffrey stepped in first to weaken the door. Geoffrey fired a few explosive darts into the door and Espio threw some exploding shuriken into the door. The weapons all exploded together and the many explosions left the cell down heavily damaged and about ready to fall down. Knuckles and Bunnie then went next and they both punched the door down together. The door was thrown off it's hinges by the double punches the two hard-hitters threw. It landed with a heavy clang on the ground and Knuckles and Bunnie smiled at each other.

"Good punch." said Knuckles.

"Thanks sugah." said Bunnie "Ya'll are an amazing puncher yerself."

The Royal Fighters all went into the room and saw a whole bunch of prison cells, most of them empty as the Devatrons had plenty of them and only one city population was occupying any of the cells now. The prisoners in the cells all exploded with joy at the sight of the Royal Fighters for they knew rescue had come at last. There were fifty cells each containing about fifty prisoners in them and they were all crying out with joy.

"Well, we've found them." said Ruben "But how can we get them all out of here? That lift we took was barely big enough to fit all of us in so we won't be able to take them through the lift."

"And if we all go individually, we may end up taking too long." said Sally "And time may not be with us right now."

"If only we had my warp ring." muttered Knuckles "We could easily use that but according to Sonic, Devion destroyed it after Hamlin sent him through it so we haven't got it!"

"And the Chaos Emeralds are all energy-drained and the Devatrons have them so we can't use them to teleport out of here." noted Cream "What are we gonna do?"

"I'm hoping that if we blow a hole in any of the walls in this chamber, it'll lead to directly outside The Doombringer ." said Geoffrey "First, let's get everybody out of their cells."

That wasn't a tough process at all. Knuckles and Bunnie all ran by the cell doors and using their great strength, they punched down the doors to the cells containing prisoners. Amy joined in using her Piko-Piko hammer. The cell doors were all busted down and all the citizens of NewMobotropolis were free. They all ran out of their cells quickly and began crying for joy at the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters. Now the cells were empty, Geoffrey wondered inside one and thought to himself.

"Is the outside world on the other side of this wall?" mused Geoffrey "There's only one way to find out…"

So the skunk primed his crossbow and fired his last remaining supply of exploding darts into the wall at the back of the cell. He ran out of the cell just before the darts went off. The darts all exploded and blew a hole in the wall. The hole the darts made was huge and as the smoke cleared away, Geoffrey could see daylight through the hole in the wall. His guess had been lucky! Outside was on the other side of the walls at the back of the cells! Now they could escort all the prisoners off the ship safely. Geoffrey peeked outside to see how high up they were. Given how the prison cells are at the bottom of The Doombringer , they weren't guaranteed to be very high up. In fact, the ground was only a small leap away. Everybody could get off The Doombringer easily without hurting themselves.

"OK mates, we can get outta here." said Geoffrey "Everybody through this hole I've made."

Nobody waited to be asked twice. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters, Chaotix and New Mobotropolis citizens all ran towards the hole in the wall that Geoffrey had made. Before they all got off the ship though, Sally tolled Tails to do something.

"Tails, you go back to the others and tell them the mission's complete and we have to get going now." she ordered.

"Yes Sally." said Tails, flying off out of the prison cell chamber to get the other Royal Fighter teams.

Everybody else just filed out through the hole in the back of the cell to freedom. The mission had been a complete success. It sure did feel good to win for once. But this victory of theirs was barely anything to get excited about. They still had a long way to go before they could win this battle with the Devatrons…

Meanwhile, Metal Sonic finished observing the room he'd just went into. This room was a very important room for The Doombringer . This room was where the fuel tanks were kept. The Doombringer 's fuel was in those tanks and Metal Sonic worked that out after giving the tanks a quick scan. Even though his mission was to save the population of New Mobotropolis, he could maybe sabotage the Devatrons as well. And now he'd found a very important room, he could hinder the Devatrons beautifully. Metal Sonic strode up to one of the fuel tanks and he blasted the tank with his torso cannon. The blast blew a hole in the tank and an orange coloured liquid began pouring out of the fuel tank. Metal Sonic then bent over backwards and activated his jetpack. The fumes of the jetpack set the leaking fuel alight and in a moment, the fuel tanks would explode. Devatron fuel was as flammable as any other fuel in the universe so the whole room would explode in minutes. Metal Sonic decided to get out of here and fast before the fuel exploded. Metal Sonic activated his jet pack and he flew out of the room and down the corridor as fast as he could. Due to the fact he was as fast as Sonic the Hedgehog, he could get out of here easily before the fuel tank exploded. But sadly, that's all that was going to happen. The Doombringer was built specially to withstand inside explosions so should anything malfunction and explode inside The Doombringer , that would be the only damage done. The explosion would not carry on and destroy the ship so setting fuel alight was not going to destroy the entire ship. All it was going to do was destroy the whole fuel tank storage in the room, nothing more. And that's exactly what happened. The alighted fuel exploded into a terrific fireball that engulfed the entire room and destroyed everything inside it. The door was blasted down by the explosion and smoke billowed out from the room. Metal Sonic's sabotage may not have been as destructive as he'd hoped it would be but it was still a big wound on the Devatrons for their ship no longer had any fuel and the tanks were destroyed so there was nowhere to keep any fuel should the Devatrons get anymore. The Doombringer was grounded until the Devatrons could get anymore fuel and given they were on another planet, that was very unlikely…

Up in the cockpit of The Doombringer , an alarm started blaring throughout the cockpit and Raicor began wondering what was going on.

"Tronic! Find out what this alarm is all about!" bellowed Raicor.

Tronic obeyed and began tracing the source of the alarm. It didn't take him long to find out. He traced the alarm to the fuel room on the ship. Since the alarm was blaring because of something in the fuel room, that meant something bad had happened in the room and since it was the fuel room, that was not a good sign. Not a good sign at all.

"Something is happening in the fuel room." explained Tronic "We must investigate this matter immediately."

"I will investigate the fuel room." said Raicor "You, Steelor and Triton go outside and make sure that Devion walks out of his battle alive. We cannot afford to lose our leader after all."

Of course, Raicor was only doing this to keep up his "loyal second in command" act. He couldn't care less if Devion got dissected by Silver Sonic but if he told everyone not to do anything about it then they'd get suspicious about him and suspect him of committing treason. At least he didn't assign himself with saving Devion. Tronic obeyed Raicor's order and he, Triton and Steelor all left the cockpit and headed out of The Doombringer to help Devion with his battle while Raicor headed off to see what was happening in the fuel room.

Outside, Devion and Silver Sonic's battle was beginning to turn to Devion's favour. Silver Sonic was heavily dented, scarred and was beginning to get slower and slower due to the damages it'd received. Devion had a couple of bent spikes on his head and a thin crack on the right side of his visor. The crack wasn't over the holographic eye in the centre of his visor so he could still see properly at least. However, Silver Sonic had managed to break Devion's sword so Devion was having to fight with his arm cannons and bare hands. Silver Sonic swatted Devion, it's attack much weaker this time due to the damages it'd received, but Devion wasn't down for long. He leaped back up and he charged into Silver Sonic's torso. He knocked the giant silver Sonic clone down onto it's back and he pecked it in the chest. His beak went straight through the tough armour and left a hole in Silver Sonic's chest. Silver Sonic pushed Devion off of itself and it picked itself up. Devion was about to attack again but Silver Sonic slammed it's hand down on Devion. It then closed it's claws around Devion and threw the Devatron leader across the battlefield and the Devatron leader skidded to a halt on his back. Silver Sonic charged towards Devion but Devion picked himself up and he leaped into the air. He dropkicked Silver Sonic and knocked him down again. He then grabbed Silver Sonic's arms and ripped them both out of their sockets! Silver Sonic made a horrible screeching sound as his arms were ripped away by Devion. Devion threw the arms away and he plunged his claws into Silver Sonic's neck. He crushed Silver Sonic's neck and the machine was finally defeated and dead at last. Silver Sonic's optics went blank and the machine lay down dead by Devion's feet. Dr. Eggman couldn't believe his eyes. Silver Sonic was doing so well and yet Devion had just defeated him!

"NOOOOOOO!" shrieked Dr. Eggman "My glorious silver killing machine!"

Devion staggered tiredly away from the dead Silver Sonic. The fight had tired him out but he was still standing.

"Valiant effort there human." said Devion "Your machine was quite the fighter. Especially as it's one of the few machines that's ever managed to penetrate me. But even your machine of destruction is no match for me. Now I shall finish…you…"

He then suddenly felt limp and he collapsed down onto his knees. The fight had done a good deal on him, especially the gash that Silver Sonic had left on him after that powerful spin-dash he did earlier. Devion was too tried to do anything else and he needed to rest. Dr. Eggman decided to get out of here before Devion could get back up and kill him. Eggman leaped into his Egg-Pod and he zoomed away from Devion and into the forests of Green Hill Zone. The rest of the Royal Fighters had all left The Doombringer and they followed the fleeing Dr. Eggman into the forests. The Devatron leader watched Eggman get away and he growled furiously.

"Curse that machine for weakening me!" he grumbled "I could have killed my very first human but my injuries picked the inconvenient moment to overcome me!"

Tronic, Steelor and Triton suddenly came out of The Doombringer and they ran over to their weakened leader. They saw the dead body of Silver Sonic lying near him, meaning that Devion had won the match but he needed some help getting back to The Doombringer . Steelor and Triton helped Devion onto his feet and they put each of his arms around them. They helped their weakened leader stagger back to his ship. Tronic picked up his removed cape and followed them silently.

"Well done Devion. You won." said Triton.

"But that silver machine did a number on you didn't it?" said Steelor "It's actually managed to penetrate you slightly! That human is dangerous if his machines can penetrate us Devatrons!"

"The human's involvement in this battle will not help the Mobians defeat us." said Devion "If his machines can penetrate us then we shall fight them in large numbers and not alone from now on. I have a feeling Earth may offer us many a good challenge if this one human's put up a good impression against me."

"If all humans are like that then we will have our hands full when we invade it." said Triton "But we won't worry about that yet for we're dealing with Mobius right now."

The Devatrons arrived back at The Doombringer but before they could step aboard, Raicor darted out of the ship and he screeched to a halt just in front of Devion.

"Devion!" shrieked Raicor "We've been sabotaged!"

"Explain that." demanded Devion.

"The entire fuel tank room has been destroyed and the prisoners have escaped!" cried Raicor "I have a feeling those Mobians did this while you were fighting the silver bladed machine!"

"How can this be?!" demanded Devion fiercely " The Doombringer should have detected their presence before they can even get near it! Those Mobians shouldn't have been able to get on without catching your attention!"

"I ran a diagnostic test and found out the sensor beacon is damaged." explained Raicor "You must have damaged it after the silver machine sent you flying into the nose of the ship."

"This day has been a string of unfortunate events for us indeed." muttered Devion "The sensor beacon gets damaged so you don't detect the Mobians coming to The Doombringer , I lose my batch of prisoners and the fuel tanks have been destroyed. We will need to do some imperative repairs immediately. Repair the fuel tanks and sensor beacon and then get some more fuel otherwise The Doombringer will be forever stranded on this world."

"How can we get more fuel?" asked Tronic.

"This planet will likely have a rocky structure of volcanic capabilities." said Devion "All planets containing organic life have them. We shall look for a volcano and drain it dry of it's lava so we can recycle it into fuel for our ship…"

Back in Green Hill Zone, everybody met up with Sonic, Vector and Thomas and Tails told them everything that had happened. Metal Sonic told Sonic what he'd just done too and Sonic was well impressed with what he'd just heard.

"Well, you've managed to save everybody and Metal Sonic blows up the Devatron's fuel supply?" said Sonic "Way past cool everybody! Just goes to show you don't need me for everything! Although I would have loved to have joined you all in this rescue mission and not have to be replaced by Metal Sonic."

"Well Sonic, Metal Sonic managed to hinder the Devatrons in ways we couldn't have." noted Tails "I'm thankful to Dr. Eggman for having Metal Sonic join us."

"It feels much better having him helping us instead of trying to kill us." said Knuckles.

"Don't get too used to it though Mobians for when the Devatrons are gone, Metal Sonic will be back to trying to kill you all." said Dr. Eggman "Still, I appreciate your compliments and gratitude. Thank you."

"Don't mention it." said Sally grimly "So now we've rescued the population of New Mobotropolis, we can relocate to EmpireCity and begin planning on getting New Mobotropolis back."

"I hope we can get our city back." muttered Sonic "I don't feel good knowing the Devatrons have my home city under their control. Well since it's empty now, they haven't got much have they? Just an empty city."

"If they do something like tear the city down and rebuilt it in their image then I will go berserk!" yelled Amy, fuming at the very thought of this happening.

"They could be planning to do something like that and that's why we need to get New Mobotropolis back." said Nicole "But not now. We need to get settled down in EmpireCity first for New Mobotropolis is subjugated and Knothole's been burnt down. Then we can start planning."

"And since the Devatrons have a damaged ship to fix, we can't expect them to start picking on us anytime soon." said Sonic "So we won't have to worry about them for a while. Although I wonder what their next move may be and when they'll carry it out…."

There was no telling what was going to happen next but Sonic knew the Devatrons would be up to no good once their ship was repaired. This battle wasn't over yet and unless they could think of a plan good enough to defeat the Devatrons then this battle would never be over…

Finally! The heroes get a victory! But will it last? What's Devion gonna do next and will the Mobians get New Mobotropolis back? The only way to find that out is tune in next time for something VERY unexpected happens...

Unexpected Events

Story 107: Unexpected Events

A good couple of days had passed since the team up between Sonic, Eggman and Marik and the Royal Fighter teams had all finally managed to get settled down in EmpireCity. When the first Mobotropolis got destroyed, the citizens had all relocated to Empire City until New Mobotropolis had been completed and yet the citizens had all had to relocate yet again. It seemed people who live in Mobotropolis suffer more misfortune then any other city. At least unlike the first time, the city wasn't destroyed and once the Devatrons were defeated and kicked out of Mobius at last, they'd be able to get back to it in no time.

The Devatrons had been busy too while the Mobians were settling down in Empire City. They'd been repairing the damages done to The Doombringer and Devion was resting up from his fight with Silver Sonic. Devatrons were fast builders so it didn't take them long to repair the damages. The fuel tanks were a little difficult to rebuild though and even now, they were still being finished. They'd be finished by tonight but they wouldn't be of much use to the ship if they didn't have any fuel in them. Devion had already sorted that out though. He had sent Triton and Steelor out to find a volcano to drain dry of it's lava so they could recycle the lava into fuel. Devatrons were experts at recycling things after all. They could recycle pretty much anything into fuel given their superior technology and fine machinery. Triton and Steelor had left The Doombringer to carry out this mission immediately. They were piloting a flying vehicle that was used for hovering across the terrain on planets and sucking up things they need to recycle into fuel. The vehicles were large, were coloured a desert camouflage colour and they hovered above the ground. They had four wings, a turquoise cockpit window that gave them a splendid field of view because of how clear and large they were, twin cannons on either side and a vacuum pipe under them. The vacuum pipe was used for collecting whatever they needed to recycle into fuel. It would suck up what they need and store it all in the large containers attached to the back of the vehicle. The containers were large enough to fit about eighty dead bodies in them so once they found a volcano to drain, they'd be carrying a lot of litres of lava and the vehicles were carrying four containers that could all be filled at once due to the vacuum pipe under the vehicle having a connection for all four containers each so they'd be going back to The Doombringer with a lot of lava. Triton and Steelor flew off in their vehicles and searched for a volcano. The vehicles had radars that could pick up lava substances so they'd find a volcano easily with them. Black Acropolis or Adabat were bound to be the places they'd be visiting as they were looking for volcanoes.

Meanwhile, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters had gathered together in a big building known as the Empire Research Centre, one of the largest laboratories in the world. Tails was so amazed at the Empire Research Centre he almost went wild with excitement. This was like his dream laboratory and easily beat any laboratory he'd already seen such as the lab in Royal HQ. The laboratory was full of computer monitors and technology that would impress any science fan. The tools the lab had were incredible too. There were tools pretty much for anything the people who used the laboratory would be building. Even Dr. Eggman swallowed his pride and admitted that this lab was pretty impressive and was amazed at the fact the Mobians were as technically advanced as his own kind were. This would definitely be a place worth capturing once he got back to being Sonic's enemy. Marik the Martian thought the lab was impressive too although he kept saying the labs back on Mars, his home planet, were better then it. This lab would be a good place for the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters to camp out in for the time being. The people who owned the laboratory were more then happy to let the Royal Fighters use it for any of their purposes so they let them in. Tails could hardly contain his excitement with this laboratory and he began to babble excitedly at everything he saw.

"This lab is unbelievable!" he cried "It's got everything! Great tools! Jumbo computer monitors and equipment that beats anything I've seen before! I wish our lab back at Royal HQ was as cool as this! I think I'm gonna love this place!"

"We're all really proud for you Tails." muttered Marik sarcastically with his arms folded "Now stop your fanatic babbling already! You're making yourself look stupid and your driving me crazy!"

"Oh shut up Marik! Tails is a mechanic and he loves technology so he can't help but get excited about this place!" snapped Amy "This place is like heaven to him! Honestly, can't you leave anybody alone Marik?!"

"I would if you didn't give me a reason to start griping at you!" retorted Marik "So get off my back Amy before I make you suffer for it!"

"You touch Amy and you'll regret it." said Sonic coldly.

"Oh Sonic, your threats mean nothing to me anymore." sneered Marik "They're as pathetic as you and your friends are so I'd quit it with the threatening attitude hedgehog."

The only thing stopping Sonic from spin-dashing Marik into a pulp was the fact he had to take it easy until his back finished healing from Devion dislocating his spine and Knuckles having to punch it back into place. Sonic restrained himself and didn't say anything else. Queen Sally groaned to herself, wondering why in the name of Mobius Sonic and friends couldn't stop bickering with Marik for more then two minutes. This alliance was clearly not going well since all they did was argue with each other.

"I think I'm beginning to regret this alliance with Marik." muttered Sally, putting her hand to her face and sighing exasperatedly "He does nothing but quarrel with Sonic and friends."

"I had no idea Martians were this quarrelsome." said Dr. Eggman "Or annoying for that matter. Marik brags more then I do and he never seems to know when to shut up either."

"Oh and you're no different?" snorted Marik "You brag to no end yourself and you never shut up on how great your technology is! Well if your technology was as good as you claim it to be then why didn't your Silver Sonic thing destroy Devion the other day?"

"I've never had a fight with a Devatron before so I have no idea on how good one was going to be!" retorted Dr. Eggman "I bet if I study those beings more, I'll be able to build something strong enough to destroy those meddlesome machines once and for all!"

"I'd love to see you succeed in accomplishing that." snickered Marik.

"Are you mocking me?!" roared Dr. Eggman angrily, towering over Marik menacingly and raving straight into his face "Are you implying that I am incapable of accomplishing such a feat?!"

"You two, stop raving at each other before I get the Royal Fighters to kick your heads in!" shouted Sally "If we're to defeat the Devatrons then we have to get along and work as a team! If you keep fighting each other then we're gonna get nowhere in this battle!"

Dr. Eggman and Marik glared at each other tensely but they stopped their arguing and they turned their backs on one another.

"I think I preferred it when those two weren't anywhere near each other." Sonic whispered over to Tails "They're more annoying together then they are individually."

"I agree on that one." snickered Tails.

"Now we've settled this argument," said Sally "Allow me to introduce you all to this place. This is the Empire Research Centre and until we get NewMobotropolis back, this'll be our base of operations. Our "Royal HQ" if you will. The lab has everything we need for our services and the owners were more then happy to let us use this place for the time being. I highly recommend being careful in this lab as there is a lot of delicate stuff in here and if you're not careful, you may accidentally break something…"

Just as she was saying this, Cosmo the Seedrian looked over at a table laden with lots of glass containers and capsules that were filled with bright colourful liquid. Cosmo was quite fascinated with this stuff and she couldn't resist picking something up and looking at it. Unfortunately, as she reached for a test tube containing boiling blue water, she accidentally knocked a capsule over and the contents spilled all over the table top. The capsule rolled across the table and bumped into a container. The container was near the edge of the table and the capsule knocked it clean off. The container landed on the floor and the contents inside made a loud bang as the container smashed to pieces. A cloud of red smoke drifted up from the broken container. Slithers of glass lay on the floor, twinkling in the light of the room. The knocked over capsule rolled off the table and smashed on the floor too. Cosmo put a hand to her mouth and went "Oops!" and accidentally dropped the test tube she had picked up as she reached out to clean up the mess she'd made. The test tube smashed to pieces and blue liquid flew over Cosmo's lovely white and green skirt. Cosmo's skirt was now stained with blue blobs and she was horrified at this. The Royal Fighters all stared in surprise at Cosmo whereas Marik just burst out laughing at her. Cosmo's clumsiness had stricken again and he thought it was very funny. Cosmo went red with shame as everybody glared at her.

"You clumsy great pudding!" yelled Mandy Mouse angrily "Didn't you hear Queen Sally saying we have to be careful in here?! Laboratories are not places to play in and the people who run the place won't be pleased to see broken equipment lying around!"

"I'm sorry everybody." said Cosmo glumly with her hands behind her back "It was an accident. Honest it was."

"Well Cosmo, you're going to have to be more careful in here." said Wilson the Dog "Laboratories have all kinds of things that can break easily and we can't do with having to pay for damages right now as we're in the middle of a battle."

"I'll try to be more careful." said Cosmo "And to make up for this, I'll clean up the mess if you want me to."

"That's very nice Cosmo but I think you've broken enough things already dear." said Nicole the Lynx softly "We'll clean up the mess ourselves thank you."

But there was no time to clean up any messes now. Before anything else could happen, one of the giant computer monitors began going static and then suddenly, somebody appeared on the monitor. It was a red furred ferret in a baseball cap and he looked like he was in need of help right now. The fear on his face was very perceptible to the Royal Fighters.

"Hello?! Hello?" said the ferret "Are the Adabat Royal Fighters here? We need them back in Adabat right now!"

"The Adabat Royal Fighters are with us but they're not here in this lab with us." said Sonic "Tell us what the matter is and I'll pass it on to them."

"OK then sir." said the ferret "You know them Devatron things that have come here to conquer Mobius?"

"You betcha." said Sonic "Let me guess, they're causing trouble in Adabat now aren't they?"

"They are!" shrieked the ferret "Two Devatrons have come here and they're attacking Mount Adabat! We think they're trying to do something terrible! Maybe even something apocalyptic if they're attacking a volcano! We need the help of anybody and fast! Please tell the Adabat Royal Fighters we need them right now!"

"I will do." said Sonic "Thanks for the message."

The ferret switched off and the screen went back to normal. Sonic turned back around to his friends.

"So it seems the Devatrons are up to no good again." said Sonic "Why are they attacking Adabat though? And why Mount Adabat in particular? What good's a volcano to them?"

"Whatever their motive is, it's not good." said Tails "We have to stop them and fast!"

"Tails, you, Amy and Knuckles will go with Team Adabat to stop those Devatrons." said Sonic "Eggman, since I'm still not in the right condition to fight, you can send Metal Sonic in my place and Marik, if you wanna help you can go too and make yourself useful for once."

"I'll go and save this "Adabat" just so I can get back at the Devatrons." said Marik "After all, I made this truce so I can help you beat the Devatrons so therefore, I shall keep true to my word and help you beat the Devatrons. I'll try and not bicker with your buddies too."

"You'd better try because I'm not in the mood for bickering with you." muttered Knuckles.

"Let's go everybody." said Tails eagerly, running off to deliver the news to Team Adabat "Adabat needs us now and we can't afford to waste any time."

Knuckles, Amy, Metal Sonic and Marik all ran after Tails. The fighters all left the lab and searched for Team Adabat so they could get going on this mission and stop the Devatrons from doing whatever it was they were up to over in Adabat. If they were attacking a volcano then that meant they were up to something disastrous and who knew what damage would be done if the Devatrons destroyed the volcano and all the lava spilled out into the environment. Adabat could well and truly be done for if they didn't stop the Devatrons from destroying Mount Adabat…

Shortly after getting the message, Knuckles, Tails, Amy, Metal Sonic and Marik met up with Team Adabat and explained everything to them. Team Adabat, consisting of Scott Lynx, Jessica Cougar, Taran the Lynx and Felix the Peacock, couldn't believe what was going on at their home country and they accepted this mission without a moment's hesitance. They'd been defending Adabat from the notorious Ravage Bloodfang for months on end so they were up for defending Adabat from the Devatrons easily. The Mobians all boarded a hover-saucer and they zoomed off to Adabat in it. The saucer was a fast vehicle and thanks to it's speed, they'd arrive at the sunny country in no time.

It took them half an hour, but the Mobians finally arrived at Adabat and the first thing Tails noticed was that all the citizens appeared to be evacuating the country since they feared something catastrophic was going to happen because the Devatrons were attacking Mount Adabat. The citizens all ran for it and they charged straight past the hover-saucer. Tails manoeuvred the saucer carefully so he wouldn't hit anybody as he tried to reach Mount Adabat.

"Everybody's running for their lives." Tails observed "I don't blame them, two Devatrons are attacking the local volcano. I think I'd run for it too if my enemies were attacking a volcano."

"I still can't believe those Devatron freaks are doing this!" said Scott crossly "I mean attacking a volcano?! Do they have no shame?! Do they even realize the kind of damage they can do if they attack a volcano?!"

"I think they do Scott." said Jessica "They just don't care. The Devatrons care about only themselves after all. I think that's why they're attacking MountAdabat, because they wanna cause a lot of damage."

"But why would the Devatrons change targets so suddenly?" wondered Knuckles "They've still got us to deal with and since we rescued the population of New Mobotropolis the other day, you'd think their first mission would be to recapture everybody. Why are they attacking Adabat now?"

"Maybe they're planning to expand their forces to the other regions of Mobius and began conquering the entire planet?" suggested Taran "I dunno, I'm only guessing here. If they are expanding their conquest then why have they only sent two Devatrons? I doubt two Devatrons can take over Adabat."

"I have a feeling in the base of my tail-feathers that there is more to this horrible attack on Adabat then we know about." said Felix "We shall find the answers once we engage them."

"I'm sure we will Felix but not before I put a few dents in them first!" declared Amy, summoning her Piko-Piko hammer to her hand.

"How does she do that?" asked Scott "She just pulls hammers from nowhere!"

"We have no idea." said Tails modestly "She's probably magical. Although it'd be nicer if she was magical in more then just summoning hammers from nowhere."

"Pardon me?" asked Amy.

"Nothing." said Tails quickly.

"Hey Mobians, I'm going out on a limb here but, is that your volcano over there?" asked Marik, pointing out to sea.

Everybody looked in Marik's direction and they saw the unmistakable shape of Mount Adabat out in the distance. The volcano was still standing tall and proud but there were explosions going off all around it and rocks were sent hurling into the waters. Those explosions were being made by Steelor and Triton's vehicles firing their weapons at them. The Devatrons were clearly trying to penetrate the volcano and they were doing an excellent job at it, the Mount Adabat was already full of large holes and the Devatrons didn't appear to be stopping anytime soon.

"That's it. That's Mount Adabat. Well spotted Marik." said Tails.

"Those monsters are destroying it!" shrieked Jessica "We've gotta stop them and fast or Adabat will lose a famous landmark and if they hit the lava inside the volcano, they will cause a terrible explosion that might cause a lot of damage!"

"But what can we do?" asked Knuckles "This thing hasn't got weapons has it?"

"It hasn't but the saucer doesn't need weapons because we already have one." noted Tails "Metal Sonic. Metal Sonic, you go out and stop the Devatrons from wrecking Mount Adabat. We'll back you up."

Metal Sonic obeyed Tails' order and he flew out of the saucer. Metal Sonic left the Mobians behind and he headed out to Mount Adabat. Tails turned the saucer around the Mobians followed Metal Sonic, the vehicle hovering above the water as they went across it. As for Steelor and Triton, they'd finished making holes in Adabat and they decided it was now time to drain Mount Adabat dry of it's lava. The four containers would hopefully have enough room for all the lava in Mount Adabat. If not then it didn't matter because they'd have enough anyway. The vacuum pipe's extended out from under the vehicles and they went into the volcano. The Devatrons switched the pipes on and the pipes started their work. They began to suck up the lava in Mount Adabat. They were powerful vacuums too so the Devatrons would be done with this in no time.

"Looks like we're due for an easy time Steelor." said Triton "We're already draining the volcano and no one's interfering with us."

"Well the Mobians don't have a way of finding out what we're up to since they're stuck in the wilderness." crowed Steelor "They know nothing about what we're up to now. We'll be done before they can even find out."

"I agree Steelor and once Devion sees all this lava we'll be bringing back, he'll be well pleased with us!" laughed Triton "Unlike Raicor who couldn't even lower a shield generator, we will not fail this task. At times I think me and you are more capable at being Devion's right hand men then Raicor himself."

"Well it's not our place to questions positions and ranks in the Devatron army." noted Steelor "Raicor's second-in-command and we're not and we can't argue against it or we'll be executed. At least we're leaders of battle squads, that's good enough for me."

"Being leader of something is better then nothing I suppose." said Triton "Still, Devion will be pleased with us when we come back to The Doombringer with a fresh supply of lava to recycle in fuel for our ship. I hope the fuel thanks are mended at last so we can get to refuelling The Doombringer ."

Then suddenly, Triton's vehicle jerked slightly and Triton fought with the controls to get the hover vehicle stable again. Metal Sonic had blasted it from behind with his torso laser but Triton didn't know who it was. After he stabilized his vehicle, He opened the cockpit window and he stood on top of his vehicle.

"What in the name of Deaveron was that?!" he cried.

"Something with a lot of power I'm guessing." said Steelor, opening the cockpit window to his vehicle and standing atop of it "Whatever it is, we've got to destroy it before it interferes with our mission."

Triton and Steelor drew out their respective weapons and they looked out for the attacker. Triton held his saw-stick at the ready and kept a keen eye out for anything out of the norm. Then suddenly, Metal Sonic spin-dashed Triton directly off his vehicle and sent him hurling down towards the water! But Devatrons were waterproof so water would have no effect on them. Triton however managed to avoid falling into the water anyway by activating his jetpack. Triton flew up into the air and he glared at Metal Sonic, who hovered in the air and prepared to do battle. The two airborne warriors were about ready to massacre each other.

"So what's this then?" snorted Triton "A robot Sonic clone? Puh! It looks even worse then Sonic himself! If I were to guess, that Dr. Eggman person who tried to ally himself with us built you didn't he?"

Metal Sonic nodded.

"Well in that case, I get to destroy ANOTHER Eggman robot then!" cackled Triton, thinking back to when he destroyed Katherine after Raicor turned down Eggman's proposal.

Triton charged towards Metal Sonic but Metal Sonic dodged the attack and he scanned Triton's data. Unfortunately, scanning Devatron data wouldn't be of any help to Metal Sonic given how there's not much to scan and the Devatrons were invulnerable by build, not magic or supernatural power so scanning Devatron data wouldn't make Metal Sonic invulnerable too. All it would do really is make Metal Sonic as strong as the Devatrons. Metal Sonic rocketed towards Triton but Triton swiped at him with his saw-stick. The weapon clipped Metal Sonic on the head and left a long scratch. Metal Sonic couldn't feel pain unlike Eggman's other robots so that attack didn't effect him in anyway. Metal Sonic retaliated by clawing at Triton but Triton raised his arm to defend himself from the attack. Metal Sonic kicked Triton and knocked him backwards but Triton came back at him and slashed him across the torso with his saw-stick. Metal Sonic then spin-dashed Triton and knocked the saw-stick out of his hand. The saw-stick landed directly in the pilot's seat of Triton's vehicle luckily so he wouldn't lose it in the sea. Triton go furious and he boosted his jetpacks. He rocketed towards Metal Sonic and rammed him directly out of the sky. Metal Sonic hurtled down towards the ground but he managed to position himself just right so he could stop himself from falling into the water with the aid of his jetpack. Metal Sonic stopped just centimetres above the water and he flew back up after Triton. Triton flew towards Metal Sonic and he rammed down again. Metal Sonic however, hurtled into the base of Mount Adabat instead of the water. Metal Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed Triton in the shoulder. The attack left a scratch on Triton's shoulder that was only superficial at best. Metal Sonic swerved around and he spin-dashed Triton again. Metal Sonic then grabbed Triton by the neck and he boosted his jetpack to maximum power. Metal Sonic rocketed into MountAdabat with Triton held in front of him. The two robots crashed straight through the rocky walls of MountAdabat but Metal Sonic didn't keep on going until they ended up in the lava crater of the volcano. He stopped before they could burst through the walls of the inside of the volcano and he turned around and rocketed back out, still holding Triton. He came out of the inside of MountAdabat and he threw Triton down into the base of MountAdabat. The crash sent chunks of rocks hurling into the air. The Mobians finally made it to MountAdabat and Tails stopped the saucer. They had seen the smack down and were well amazed at what Metal Sonic had just done.

"Wow! Metal Sonic got him!" cried Tails.

"And here's me thinking he'd be smashed to pieces in seconds!" blurted Marik "He's hit that Devatron good and hard!"

"We can only hope that that attack finished it off though." said Jessica grimly "They are invulnerable so I don't think throwing him into a volcano is going to get rid of the Devatron that easily."

Jessica, unfortunately, was right too. Despite that powerful attack, Triton was still functioning! The Devatron picked himself up and be brushed some rocks off of himself. He looked completely alright! He didn't have a dent or a scratch on him anywhere! Metal Sonic hovered down to Triton and couldn't believe his attack didn't work.

"Ha, ha, ha, ha! Do you seriously think throwing me into a mountain is gonna break me?" sneered Triton "I've been thrown into titanium walls before and I've had chunks of meteor hit me and I've survived that blow! We Devatrons are just too tough for you to break so you may as well just give up already!"

Metal Sonic's response was to fly down to Triton and prepare to attack him. Triton cackled at him and he flew up towards Metal Sonic. He grabbed Metal Sonic and he carried him up into the sky.

Metal Sonic tried to break free but Triton's grasp was too much for him. He couldn't break free. Triton stopped flying up and he held Metal Sonic above his head.

"You threw me into a mountain? Well let's see how you like it!" crowed Triton, throwing Metal Sonic directly into Mount Adabat just as Metal Sonic had done so to him already.

Metal Sonic hurtled straight into Mount Adabat near the top of the volcano and the impact of his crash sent rocks flying everywhere. The attack had definitely hurt Metal Sonic more then it hurt Triton. Metal Sonic was dented and scarred from that attack. Metal Sonic pulled himself out of the crater he'd made in the mountain and he flew back towards Triton. Big mistake though for Triton just raised his leg and kick-slammed him down into the water. Metal Sonic landed straight into the water with a big splash but he was waterproof so he survived the dip into the ocean. Metal Sonic flew back out of the water and he spin-dashed Triton in the head again.

"Come on Metal Sonic! You can do it!" Tails said "Crush that Devatron!"

"How ironic it is for you to be cheering on your enemies instead of beating them up." snickered Marik "I bet it feels strange doesn't it?"

"Not as strange as having you on our side Marik." muttered Tails.

"I think Metal Sonic needs help." said Knuckles "He doesn't look like he can keep on fighting for much longer."

"If my jet shoes weren't broken and disabled, I'd fly up there and help Metal Sonic." said Marik "As is, I am grounded so I am of no help."

"I'll fly up there and help." said Felix, plucking two of his tail feathers and stiffening them into clubs "And since Tails has flying capabilities, he can assist me in assisting Metal Sonic."

"OK Felix, we'll help Metal Sonic." said Tails "Everybody else, see if you can get that other Devatron."

Tails twisted his tails around one another and he flew up into the sky with Felix following him closely. They headed towards Triton just as he and Metal Sonic were engaged in a fist fight. Felix struck the first blow by flying into Triton and walloping him with his clubs. Triton hurtled forward but he regained his balance and turned around to glare at his attacker. Tails, Felix and Metal Sonic all hovered there, ready to beat him up and take him down.

"How marvellous, some Mobian flesh comes onto the scene." said Triton "Good, I was hoping I'd have something to soften my chrome knuckles on. So how did you Mobians come to know of our attack in this country then?"

"We're not telling you that Deva-Creep!" snapped Tails "All you should know is we're here to stop you from destroying Mount Adabat!"

"Oh fie upon you Mobians, we're not here to destroy the volcano at all." retorted Triton "We're here to drain it dry of it's lava. What we want the lava for is none of your business."

"So you're not here on pernicious purposes?" said Felix "You're here simply to empty Mount Adabat of it's lava substances? That is a relief."

"No it's not Felix." said Tails "They obviously want that lava for something and what they want it for is bound to be for something bad. We have to stop them from taking it."

"Just try it you cantankerous, fatuous little brat!" snarled Triton "I am one of Devion's strongest soldiers! I will take you all on if I have to!"

"If that is what you wish to do then so be it." said Felix "We'll all smite you together foul beast!"

Triton just cackled at them and the fighters all flew towards each other. Down below, Amy threw one of her Piko-Piko Hammers at Steelor's vehicle and the hammer sent the vehicle wobbling. Steelor almost fell off his vehicle but he managed to regain his balance and keep himself standing. Steelor jumped off of the vehicle and he landed on the base of Mount Adabat. He had his handlebar sword weapon and spinning saw at the ready. He saw Knuckles, Amy, Marik, Scott, Jessica and Taran in the hover saucer and Amy steered the saucer close to Mount Adabat so they could get onto the volcano and fight Steelor. They all leaped out of the saucer and they prepared to do battle.

"So it appears we're going to have resistance after all." muttered Steelor "No matter, I'll get the honour of terminating some of Sonic's friends just to make Devion happy."

"You're the one that's getting terminated freak!" retorted Amy "Brace yourself for an horrendous beating courtesy of us!"

"If Sonic, your strongest warrior, can't beat our leader then what chance do you canailles have against us?" snorted Steelor "You'll all break as easily as Sonic did when our leader got him after burning the forest village down!"

"Guess again Devatron!" sneered Knuckles "Sonic's just fine. Devion didn't break him, he only dislocated his spine but I fixed it. He'll be back on the battlefield in no time!"

"So it appears Devion didn't break him after all." said Steelor grumpily "So what if he didn't? Sonic couldn't beat us before so he's nothing to worry about."

"I'll make you eat those words you jerk!" yelled Amy, rushing into hammer Steelor's head in.

Steelor lunged for Amy and they raised their weapons high above their heads as they prepared to attack each other…

Back on The Doombringer , Raicor was fixing the last of the fuel tanks. The Devatrons, surprisingly enough, were ahead of schedule in these repairs and were almost finished. Raicor fitted on some new parts on this fuel tank he was working on. As Raicor began working, the Devatron second-in-command began thinking to himself about recent events. And about Devion.

Why am I second-in-command to that fool Devion? he thought to himself Devion is an incompetent leader! He relies heavily on sadism and breaking his opponent's spirits instead of just killing them already! We almost lost some of our battles because of Devion's stupidity! And now thanks to Devion not finishing Sonic and his friends off now, we lost a bunch of prisoners we could have executed! Devion needs to learn that he can't keep prolonging the hero's existence for his sadistic pleasure! He's giving the heroes ample time to strike back and if they do, they might strike back strongly and we may never win this conflict! Well I'm not putting up with Devion's poor leadership skills!

Raicor picked up a welding tool and in his anger, he crushed it in his claws instead of actually using it to weld the fuel tank's parts back together.

Granted under his rule we have fourteen worlds under our control but we came close to losing many of those conflicts! Raicor continued thinking to himself, throwing the crumpled tool down on the floor And it's all because Devion's too sadistic for his own good! Under my rule, the Devatrons would win every conflict without ever coming close to losing! Under my rule, the Mobians would already be vanquished and Mobius would be ours already! Well no more! It's time I dropped the subtlety! It's time I got rid of that fool Devion and took his place as leader! And it's fortunate that I have the perfect method of getting rid of him…

He began to cackle aloud to himself as he thought of his plan to overthrow Devion and take his position as leader. He was suddenly interrupted though by the sound of Devion's voice booming through an intercom in the fuel tank room. Devion clearly wanted him for something.

"Raicor! Meet me up in the cockpit immediately!" barked Devion.

"Yes my lord." said Raicor, putting down his tools and leaving the room as quickly as he could.

I will not prolong my act any longer. he thought to himself as he strode down the corridor to catch a lift up to the cockpit I will do it now, get rid of Devion and let the Mobians have him so that I may have the satisfaction of seeing Devion humiliated and helpless! Then I shall destroy him along with the Mobians!

It seemed Devion's days as leader were over for Raicor now had a plan and that plan was going to work, especially since Devion didn't know anything about this. Raicor opened up an elevator door and he stepped into the lift. The doors closed behind him and the lift took him straight up to the top floor of The Doombringer . The lift doors opened and Raicor stepped out of the lift. He strode up the corridors and he entered the cockpit where Devion was. He was standing in front of a window and staring directly out of it. Raicor walked up to Devion and he reached behind his back. He pulled out a small disc-shaped object and he patted Devion on the back, attaching the object to Devion's back. Devion began to wonder what Raicor was patting him on the back for. Raicor had never patted him on the back before.

"Why Raicor are you patting me on the back?" asked Devion coldly.

"I am merely showing my gratitude for your leadership skills by giving you a friendly pat my lord." lied Raicor.

"Well refrain from doing an action of this kind." said Devion with a voice colder then ice "Only the flaccid fleshling life forms do a ridiculous action like this."

"My apologies." said Raicor "I will not do it again. So why do you wish to have me in your presence then my lord?"

"I only wish to ask you how goes the work down in the fuel tank room." explained Devion.

"The repairs are almost finished." reported Raicor "The fuel tanks will be ready for when Steelor and Triton return here with the lava supplies we can recycle into fuel for the ship."

"Excellent Raicor." said Devion "As for Steelor and Triton, they've encountered resistance from the Mobians but they have the situation under control so far. How the Mobians have come to know of this I do not know. They've been exiled to the wilderness, there's no technology of any kind there to keep them up to date on the current situation."

"Those Mobians are full of surprises my lord." said Raicor "If I were to guess, they've probably gone to another place where there's technology they can use to keep informed on what's going on. Maybe they've gone to another city."

"So they're violating their exile order huh?" growled Devion "Next time I see those loathsome Royal Fighters, I may have to punish them even further. I've already broken Sonic, I will break all the other fighters if I have to."

"That sounds good my lord." said Raicor, reaching into his back and pulling out a remote device for the disc object he'd placed on Devion's back "Those Mobians will wish they hadn't decided to defy us like this."

He then pressed a button on the remote and the disc-object emitted a powerful electromagnetic pulse that ran through Devion's circuitry. Devion let out a loud, haunting wail of anguish as he was electrocuted by the pulse. Even though electricity had no effect on Devion, EMP shocks were a different matter. And this pulse had been specifically made by Raicor to do one thing. Put him out of action. The pulse went through Devion's body and the Devatron leader felt like he was about to explode. The pulse finally stopped and Devion collapsed down onto the floor. The disc-object slid off his back and lay beside him, smoking slightly since it was now useless. It had done it's job and that was it. Devion tried to pick himself up…only to find out his arms wouldn't move! He couldn't even feel his arms and legs! His limbs had been disabled by the pulse! That was Raicor's plan all along, disable Devion so that he wouldn't be able to stand back up and he wouldn't be able to stand against Raicor.

"My…my limbs! I cannot feel them!" cried Devion "My body! It's…It's disabled! What…what's happened to me Raicor?!"

"You have been zapped by an electromagnetic pulse Devion." explained Raicor "A pulse with disabling capabilities. A pulse that I created."

"You…created?!" snarled Devion "You…you did this to me…didn't you?!"

"I did." sneered Raicor "I attached this EMP emitter to your back and disabled you with it. You will never move again Devion. The only thing that will move on you now is your eye. Not much of a leader now if you can't even move are you?"

"Why…why did you do this Raicor?!" growled Devion "I thought you were my loyal second-in-command! Why are you betraying me like this!"

"Believe me Devion, it's all for a good cause." Raicor assured Devion "Your heavy reliance on sadism has almost cost us many victories in the past and it's costing you now. If you'd just finished the Royal Fighters off instead of prolonging their existence for your pleasure, we wouldn't have lost those prisoners and have damaged fuel tanks. You are not good enough to be a leader Devion so I am taking command. I will do much better then you."

"You are not fit for command!" shouted Devion "You do not have the skills needed to lead the Devatrons! If you get rid of me, we will not be able to win this battle!"

"Oh we will Devion." said Raicor "Especially as I will just destroy the Mobians here and now instead of playing with them for sadistic pleasure. The Devatrons will prefer me over you once I lead them to victory on this planet!"

"The Devatrons will not accept you as leader Raicor!" growled Devion "They will execute you for treason and fix me up so that I may function again!"

"They will not." said Raicor "For I am handing you over to the Mobians and they will keep you prisoner. I will blame the Mobians for your disabling and the Devatrons will rely on me to "rescue you". Instead of rescuing you though, I will just kill you along with the Mobians. As invulnerable as we are, not even a Devatron will survive being hit by a missile or a bomb from this very ship. As I destroy them though, I will fool the ranks into thinking I destroyed you by accident and then they will rely on me to be leader."

"Raicor, if it wasn't for the fact I am disabled, I would tear out your circuitry and rip your armour open!" roared Devion.

"Well Devion," said Raicor, removing Devion's cape and attaching it to his own shoulder "You are disabled so you cannot stop me. Now I shall use The Doombringer 's scanners to find out where the Royal Fighters are so that I can give you to them. I'm sure they'll have a nice prison cell to put you in. I can almost see the humiliation on your face now as you end up being a prisoner for the Mobians."

"You do realize if you give me to the Mobians, they can use me against the Devatrons?!" retorted Devion "They may find out some vital information about the Devatrons if they use me for research!"

"It will not matter for I will destroy you and the Royal Fighters together." noted Raicor "They may use you for research but they will not get the time to use any information against me."

Raicor began tapping keys on the control pad and he set the scanners of The Doombringer to find out where the Royal Fighters were. The scanners found them and displayed their coordinates on the screen. Raicor cackled to himself.

"They're in another city." he said "Not far from this city. I can just fly you over to the other city and drop you off there."

Raicor grabbed the disabled body of Devion and he opened the cockpit windows. He spread out his mighty wings and he flew out of the cockpit and headed to EmpireCity. Little did Raicor realize is that someone was watching him leave and that someone was none other then Devion's most loyal minion Tronic who had just arrived in the cockpit in time to see Raicor leave with Devion in his arms. The Devatron began to wonder what was going on and began to suspect if there was a hint of treachery creeping around The Doombringer at this moment. So Tronic decided to investigate by looking at the recorded evidence from the security cameras around The Doombringer …

Back over at Adabat, the Mobians and Devatrons were all in combat with one another. Tails, Felix and Metal Sonic were having an air-to-air showdown with Triton while Knuckles, Amy, Scott, Jessica, Taran and Marik were fighting Steelor on the base of the volcano. Triton retrieved his saw stick from his vehicle and he swiped it at his enemies. Tails and Felix ducked as Triton swung the weapon at him whereas Metal Sonic flew up to dodge it. Metal Sonic tried to dropkick Triton in the head but Triton blocked the attack by holding his weapon in front of his head so Metal Sonic hit the saw-stick instead. Triton walloped Metal Sonic with the saw-stick and sent him hurling into MountAdabat. That crash seemed to damage Metal Sonic even more. Metal Sonic looked like he wouldn't hold together much longer after that attack. Felix was next to attack the Devatron. Felix walloped Triton as hard as he could with his tail-feather clubs but try as he might, he couldn't harm Triton in anyway. His clubs were completely useless against the Devatron's invulnerable chrome armour. Felix then remembered that the Devatron weak spot is the visor so he aimed for Triton's visor. But Triton caught Felix's hands and made him drop the clubs. Then, while still holding Felix, he kneed the peacock directly in the gut and made him gasp. Then Triton threw Felix down into the water. Felix landed into the sea with a big splash but the peacock wasn't down for long. He came back up to the surface and he flew out of the water. Felix plucked two more tail-feathers and straightened them into clubs as he flew back up to Triton.

"I may have lost my clubs, but when you're a peacock, you always have spares." said Felix.

Triton saw the peacock coming towards him and he flew out of Felix's ways, causing Felix to zoom straight past him and continue straight up. Felix stopped flying up and he flew back down to Triton. He tried to club Triton in the visor again but Triton swung his saw stick at Felix and lightly nicked him across the face. The peacock squawked in pain and he clutched his face, which was trickling with blood from that thin cut Triton had left on him. Triton then held his saw stick with the flat side of the saw blade facing up. He raised the weapon above his head and he smacked Felix directly on the top of his head with it, sending Felix hurling into MountAdabat. Felix hit the volcano and the impact ended up leaving him weakened and unable to get back up. Triton cackled evilly and he put his saw-stick away. He deployed his arm cannons and he was about to shoot Felix until Tails sneaked up behind him and covered Triton's visor with his hands. Triton couldn't see now. The furious Devatron began flailing about madly in a desperate attempt to throw Tails off of himself. Tails held on tight as Triton tried to get him off of his head.

"Blasted, wretched child! Remove your hands from my visor!" he ordered.

"No!" cried Tails "I'm gonna keep you distracted so Felix and Metal Sonic can have a clear shot at you!"

"In that case, I'll just use you to take the brunt of their attacks!" crooned Triton.

Before Tails could work out what he meant, Triton swung around for he heard Metal Sonic coming towards him with his fists raised. Triton bent forward so Tails was now in Metal Sonic's path and Metal Sonic punched Tails before he could stop himself. Metal Sonic's attack threw Tails directly off of Triton and he fell down to the ground. He just managed to stop himself from falling into the sea and the twin-tailed fox flew back up to Triton. His head was still swimming from that attack Metal Sonic accidentally launched on him. Triton cackled and he fired his arm cannons at Tails. Tails manoeuvred around the blasts as Triton fired them but they were just the distraction. Triton drew out his saw stick and he slashed Tails across the forehead with it. Tails screamed in pain and he gripped his bleeding forehead. It hurt so much that Tails couldn't even stay focused on the battle. Triton put both his feet together and he gave Tails a terrific kick that sent him hurling into MountAdabat. Tails hurled into the volcano and he lay in on the hard rocky surface of the volcano, groaning in pain. He still had his hand over the cut on his forehead and he grimaced tensely. Triton was just about to finish off Tails by flying towards him and preparing to cleave him in two with his saw stick but Metal Sonic grabbed Triton, flew towards MountAdabat and used him as a cushion as the two robots hurtled into the volcano. Triton was unharmed by the attack of course and he just backhanded Metal Sonic away from him. Metal Sonic hurled backwards and Triton flew after him, ready to dissect him with his saw stick.

Down below, Amy and Steelor clashed weapons with one another. Amy walloped Steelor with her Piko-Piko hammer and Steelor slashed at her with his handlebar sword. Amy defended herself with her hammer but Steelor's weapon left some heavy gashes on the hammer. Amy tried to wallop Steelor again but Steelor just sliced the weapon into three parts. The hammer collapsed to pieces before Amy. Before she could summon another hammer though, Steelor pinned Amy against the wall and then he plunged his weapon into the wall on either side of Amy. The blades were pushed deep into the rocky wall and the handlebar shaped handle was around Amy's neck. The pink hedgehog was trapped against the wall thanks to the sword. Amy desperately tried to free herself but she couldn't pull the sword out of the wall, it was embedded to deeply and she was too weak to pull it out. Steelor stood ominously before Amy and he held his saw blade to Amy's face.

"Now let's see what a Mobian brain looks like." he crooned wickedly, activating the deadly weapon and preparing to cleave Amy's head clean open.

Before he could even do that though, Taran shot him with the handheld laser cannon he had. The blast pinged harmlessly off Steelor's armour but Steelor could do without someone shooting at him while he prepares to kill Amy so he switched off his saw blade and he deployed one of his arm cannons. He fired at Taran's weapon and the blast destroyed it instantly. Taran dropped the now useless weapon and instead, ran over to fight Steelor physically. But unlike his younger brother, Taran wasn't a very skilled fighter and was more of a shooter then anything. Steelor backhanded Taran straight into the water with one hefty smack. Taran fell into the water with a splash and Steelor cackled at him. But his victory wasn't to last. Scott and Jessica both stepped in and they began throwing energy spears at him.

"You may not be here to destroy our volcano, but we can't let you have it's lava!" yelled Scott "Who knows what you're gonna use it for!"

He had heard Triton mentioning this to Tails earlier so he now knew they weren't here to destroy the volcano. But stealing lava was a sign of something bad so Scott was determined not to let the Devatrons have it. His energy spears all ricocheted off of Steelor's armour but the lynx wasn't finished yet. He threw a mighty energy enhanced punch at Steelor and sent him hurling across the base of the volcano. Steelor landed heavily on the other side of the base but he was back on his feet in no time and he charged towards Scott and Jessica. Jessica gave Steelor an energy enhanced uppercut that knocked Steelor down on his back but the vicious Devatron wasn't finished yet. Jessica tried to punch Steelor in the visor but Steelor grabbed Jessica's arm and activated his saw blade. He was about to chop Jessica's hand off but Jessica saved herself by throwing an energy spear into Steelor's visor with her other arm. The attack broke Steelor's visor and the Devatron screeched in pain. He was blinded and he could not see anything now.

"Yaarrgggghhhh! My vision is impaired!" roared Steelor "I will disembowel each and every one of you freaks for that!"

"And how can you do that if you can't even see us?" said Jessica smugly, giving Steelor an energy enhanced punch that threw him backwards again.

Steelor hit a solid lump of rock and he lay on the rocky terrain, wondering where he was. Marik and Knuckles decided to step in and finish off the blinded Devatron. But Steelor didn't need his vision to fight. Steelor had excellent audio receptors. His hearing was as good as his vision. Steelor had the best hearing of any Devatron, mainly because he used to practice fighting blind back on Deaveron. Marik jumped into the air and he was about to let Steelor have it but Steelor heard him coming and correctly predicted where he was. He uppercut Marik and sent him hurling into Knuckles. Marik landed directly on top of Knuckles and the echidna was knocked down onto his stomach with Marik on top of him. Knuckles pushed Marik off of himself and he ran up to Steelor. Knuckles began throwing punches at the blinded Devatron. Relying only on his hearing, Steelor blocked every single attack Knuckles threw at him and Steelor roundhouse kicked him into the sea. Knuckles splashed into the water but Knuckles managed to swim back to the volcano and he climbed out of the water. Steelor heard him coming out though so he ran over to him and kicked him back into the water. Marik leaped on Steelor and gave him a good electric shock with his metal hand. But, as Raicor stated to Miranda Mongoose, electricity doesn't hurt Devatrons, it makes them feel stronger. Steelor grabbed Marik and threw him into the wall.

"Nice try whoever that is." said Steelor "But electricity does not harm us. It enhances us."

"Well then I'll just have to change tactics then!" retorted Marik, throwing an energy wave at Steelor.

The wave swept over Steelor and the Devatron was thrown into the water. Steelor wasn't in there for long though. He leapt out of the water and he landed straight on top of Marik. Marik gagged at the top of his voice as Steelor stood on his back. Steelor activated his saw blade and he was about to cleave Marik in two but Knuckles came in and uppercut Steelor off of Marik.

"Thanks spiky fists." said Marik sarcastically.

"Don't mention it." muttered Knuckles "Just fight the Devatron already!"

But before they could continue the fight, the two hover-vehicles began bleeping. Steelor knew what that noise meant. It meant the cases were full and their mission was complete. They had the lava needed to recycle into fuel for The Doombringer . Steelor ran off and felt the side of the wall. He was looking for where Amy was and since he couldn't see, he had to feel for her. He kept going until his hand felt Amy's face. He'd found her and now that he had, he yanked his sword out of the wall, freeing Amy and giving him his weapon back. He leaped up into the air, following the sound of the bleeping, and he landed directly in the seat of his vehicle. He retracted the vacuum pipe and turned his vehicle around.

"We've got what we came for Mobians." crowed Steelor "So we shall now be leaving."

He closed the cockpit window and set his vehicle to auto-pilot back to The Doombringer . It would not be a good idea for him to fly his vehicle if he couldn't see where he was going so the auto-pilot would guide him instead. The Mobians could only watch helplessly as Steelor fled the scene. Triton saw Steelor leaving the volcano, meaning that the vehicles had gotten as much as they could carry and it was time to leave. Triton however decided to get rid of Metal Sonic first since Metal Sonic wouldn't let him go. Metal Sonic tried to attack Triton again but Triton sliced him in two with his saw stick, destroying Metal Sonic and leaving him victorious. Triton flew down to his vehicle, seated himself, retracted the vacuum pipe and flew away as fast as he could. He began to cackle to himself as he left the Mobians behind.

"We win again!" he crowed "We've gotten what we've come for and the Mobians are left biting the dust! I can't wait to see Devion's face when he sees this glorious supply of lava we have!"

But as we all know, Devion won't BE there to congratulate Steelor and Triton when they come back to The Doombringer thanks to Raicor betraying him…

As for the Mobians, they were well distraught with this.

"I can't believe it! They got away!" moaned Scott, punching the wall furiously and making rocks fall as it was an energy enhanced punch.

"And with MountAdabat's lava!" added Jessica "I don't know what they want it for but it can't be good! I bet they're gonna use it as a weapon or something!"

"We can all agree on one thing though, the Devatrons won and we lost and it's all the fault of you morons!" blamed Marik "If you put a bit more effort into your fighting and maybe destroyed the vehicles first instead of fighting the Devatrons then this wouldn't have happened!"

"Look who's talking!" snapped Knuckles "You barely did anything yourself Marik and you didn't think to destroy their vehicles did you?!"

"I would have done if I didn't have to help you hapless halfwits in the battle instead!" retorted Marik "Face it, it's all your fault you failed!"

"You're to blame just as much as we are Marik!" ranted Knuckles "You didn't contribute much to the fight and you got your ass whupped just like we did!"

"Stop bickering all of you!" screamed Tails, flying weakly down to the base of the volcano "The Devatrons are getting away and all you're doing is stalling for time by arguing with each other! We can't stop the Devatrons if all we do is argue!"

"Tails is right!" said Amy "We're supposed to be a team! Even if we don't like each other we should still work together!"

"Will you blasted Mobians knock it off with your pontificating already!" growled Marik "I do not care if we're supposed to be a team, it doesn't mean I'm going to act like a team player! I'm only in this to defeat the Devatrons! It doesn't mean I have to start playing nice to you all and start treating you like team mates!"

"Nobody said you had to." retorted Tails "But you can at least stop arguing with us all the time can't you?"

"I shall try and not to start quarrels with any of you next time." fumed Marik "Now let's return to Empire City so we can report to your queen about your failure."

Tails decided to say nothing more about this as all it was going to do was start another argument. The Mobians all climbed back into the hover saucer and they headed off back to Empire City where a big surprise was waiting for them…

Raicor arrived at Empire City at long last and he found the Empire Research Centre. He guessed the Royal Fighters would likely be in there so he threw Devion straight at the doors of the lab. Devion crashed through the doors and slid across the floor towards the Royal Fighters. Raicor flew away back to The Doombringer after doing that. Devion slid across the floor of the laboratory and he came to a stop just at the feet of Sonic the Hedgehog. Sonic looked down at Devion and he leaped backwards in surprise.

"Devion?!" he shrieked.

"Devion's here?!" cried Sally "Oh my gosh! Royal Fighters! Get him!"

"Cease your hostile intentions child, I am completely harmless now." muttered Devion.

"Yeah right and I'm the King of Robotropolis." muttered Sonic sarcastically.

"I am serious Sonic." said Devion "Raicor has betrayed me and has disabled my body. I cannot move at all. I am completely at your mercy now."

"How do we know you're not trying to fool us?" asked Nicole sternly.

"If I was functioning properly, would I by lying down at the feet of my enemies instead of standing tall before them?" noted Devion.

"Maybe not." said Nicole "But this maybe a clever act you're putting up to trick us. Well we are not falling for it."

"I assure you foolish girl, this is not a trick of any kind." said Devion, getting annoyed at the fact the Mobians were being obstinate "Raicor has betrayed me and disabled my body! I cannot move at all! He's intending to have you take me prisoner so that I may bear the humiliation of being your captive and then he's going to destroy you all and take me with you."

The Royal Fighters all looked at each other in disbelief. This seemed all seemed a little sudden. Raicor's loyal to Devion and then he stabs him in the back? Then again, they didn't know what went on with the Devatrons when they weren't in battle so they didn't know everything about Raicor. Not to mention, Raicor was planning to destroy them all and take Devion with them? The Mobians were grateful that Devion had given them this information but what could they do about it? The Doombringer likely had missiles or some other powerful weapon that would wipe them out so they'd have to sabotage this plan and fast.

"I think I believe you now Devion." said Sally "But why are you telling us what Raicor's up to? Don't you want to destroy us too?"

"I do but Raicor plans to destroy me as well." said Devion "So I want you Mobians to stop Raicor's plan so that I may live."

"We will stop Raicor's plan." said Sonic "But only so we can live, we won't be doing this for you Devion."

"I know." muttered Devion "So Sonic, tell me how you are still able to stand with a broken back?"

"You only dislocated it doofus, you didn't break my back." noted Sonic "Knuckles fixed it though but I have to wait until it heals first before I can get back to kicking your butts."

"It appears I should have put more force into my slam." said Devion dryly "I thought your back would break quite easily so I didn't think to slam you hard enough. A mistake I shall rectify once I can get my body functioning again."

"You won't get that chance Devion." said Sally sternly "For you will be confined in the Empire City MPD prison station. Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie and Geoffrey, take him down to the prison immediately."

The fours Royal Fighters obeyed Sally's command without a moment's hesitance. They all picked up Devion's disabled body and took him away to the MPD prison station. Even though it had been destroyed by Super Scourge during the time Scourge super powered himself, it had long since been rebuilt and was ready to take prisoners again. And Devion was going to be one of them. The moment Devion was taken away, Sonic turned to Sally.

"Why are you letting him live?" asked Sonic "Couldn't we just get Wilson to plunge his weapon into Devion's visor and kill him?"

"I want to see if he can be redeemed first." said Sally "If not, then I'll see if Tails can reprogram him. Devion is a robot so I'm sure he can be reprogrammed. If he can then we can win the Devatron war without anymore bloodshed and the Devatrons will end up being heroes instead of villains."

"Are you sure the Devatrons will just switch sides just because their leader's now a good guy?" asked Sonic unsurely.

"I hope that happens." said Sally "Otherwise we're just wasting time trying a plan that's doomed to fail."

Devion's captured certainly provided ample opportunities for the Mobians. But would any of them work? And would Devion's capture be for the better? Or for the worse…?

Bet that was unexpected wasn't it? Um...maybe not THAT unexpected but hey, at least Devion's a prisoner now! But for how long? Join me next time in this ongoing saga...

Thanks for pointing out those errors I made in the previous chapter Kratos Pwns. I edited the previous chapter and re-uploaded it with the errors fixed. Thank you.

For Better Or For Worse

Story 108: For Better or For Worse

Steelor and Triton arrived back at The Doombringer with their supply of lava to recycle into fuel for the ship. The two Devatrons were well pleased that their mission had been a success and that they've managed to beat the Mobians, even though Steelor needed repairing because his visor was broken. Steelor and Triton flew to the side of The Doombringer and a door slid to the side, letting the two Devatrons into the ship. The two Devatrons flew into the ship's hangar bay, they landed their vehicles and they climbed out of them. They also detached the four containers at the back of the vehicles and began pushing the compartments to the exit of the hangar bay. Steelor pushed his compartments while following the sound of Triton's footsteps so he could deliver the containers to the fuel room. Steelor and Triton left the hangar bay and they took the compartments down the corridor and over to the fuel room. The repairs in the fuel room were finished at last and the fuel tanks could take the lava they had stolen from Mount Adabat. The two Devatrons arrived at the fuel room and they pushed the containers into a corner and they left them there for the time being. Some Devatron soldiers were already in the room. They wandered over to the containers and prepared to start recycling it into fuel. Triton left the fuel room with the blinded Steelor following him behind closely, using the sound of Triton's footsteps to guide him. The two Devatrons went into a lift and they took the lift up to the top floors of The Doombringer so they could report their success to Devion. The lift quickly whisked them up to the top floor and after arriving, the Devatrons left the lift and they headed to the cockpit. But to their surprise, when they arrived into the cockpit, only Raicor and Tronic were there. Raicor got up from Devion's throne and he faced Steelor and Triton whereas Tronic stayed where he was and remained silent.

"Steelor. Triton. I trust you justify your presences with news of the fortunate kind?" asked Raicor gruffly.

"We do Raicor." said Triton "We succeeded in our mission. We have eight containers full of lava and the Devatron soldiers in the fuel room are preparing to utilize it and convert it into fuel for The Doombringer ."

"Although we had a bit of resistance from those pesky Mobians." said Steelor, pointing to his broken visor.

"I can see you are blinded Steelor." said Raicor "I shall arrange for you to be repaired immediately."

"Where is Devion?" asked Triton, looking around the cockpit "We wish to report our success to him."

"I'm afraid that's when the good fortune ends." said Raicor in a fake tone of concern "The Mobians attacked Devion with an EMP bomb and they disabled his body. They've taken him prisoner and are hoping to extract information from him."

"What?!" shrieked the two Devatrons in unison.

"This is impossible! The mighty Devion is too powerful for any silly fleshling to get the best of!" cried Triton.

"Not to mention, how can the Mobians have EMP bombs?!" protested Steelor "They can't possibly have that technology! They don't look that technically advanced!"

"Remember what Devion says." noted Raicor " "Never underestimate the locals of the planets we invade. They will have many a surprising fact about them". And we have underestimated those Mobians. Their technology is greater then we gave it credit for."

"It appears so." grumbled Triton "Technically advanced or not, we have to rescue Devion from those heathens immediately before they crack Devion open and use him against us!"

"Indeed so." lied Raicor "Once The Doombringer is refuelled, we will take flight and invade the city they have evacuated to. With our ship and our forces, this rescue mission cannot possibly fail. The Mobians will be overwhelmed and their new hiding place will be wiped out."

"Let us hope we can get going nice and quickly before those Mobian freaks start interrogating our leader." said Triton grimly.

"Somehow, I doubt the Mobians are that savage." thought Steelor "And even if they are, they'll never get Devion to crack."

"Still, a Devatron in the possession of the Mobians can be dangerous to us so we must rescue Devion." said Raicor "And we shall begin once The Doombringer is refuelled. Triton, you take Steelor to get repaired and then after you've done that, start preparing the troops for the attack force."

"Yes Raicor." said Triton, leading the blinded Steelor away.

Triton left the cockpit with Steelor following him and Raicor turned to Tronic.

"Tronic, you are in charge of the cockpit." he said "I am going to prepare for the invasion."

"Yes Raicor." droned Tronic.

Raicor left the cockpit, leaving Tronic alone to keep an eye on things. As for Tronic, he knew the truth about Raicor. He had seen the security camera footage and it clearly showed Raicor disabling Devion's body and then taking him away. Devion's capture was not a capture, it was Raicor selling Devion out to the Mobians and hoping to seize power. Well Tronic wasn't going to let Raicor get away with it. He was loyal to Devion and would only serve a leader who was given the position after the previous leader fell. He would not serve Raicor, he was going to rescue Devion. The reason he didn't tell Steelor and Triton the truth was because he feared Raicor would rip him apart for it and the two would likely not believe him anyway for they believed Raicor was loyal to Devion. Now he was alone, Tronic could carry out his escape plan. It involved getting Devion functional again and getting a Mobian in trouble at the same time. Tronic opened the cockpit windows and he climbed through the open windows. The windows closed behind him and Tronic leapt off of The Doombringer . He was rather high up but a long fall was not going to do anything to him. Tronic landed on the ground and he headed off to Empire City. He used The Doombringer's scanners to find out where Raicor was heading with Devion and the scanners pin-pointed him at Empire City where Raicor dropped Devion off and returned back to the ship empty handed. Tronic had uploaded the coordinates into his own head. Because of this, he knew where Devion was and since Raicor wanted Devion to be a prisoner of the Mobians, that obviously meant Mobians would be here and then he could use one as a scapegoat for his plan. Raicor was going to be in serious trouble when Devion returned to The Doombringer fully functional once again…

Over in Empire City, Queen Sally Acorn decided to pay the disabled and imprisoned Devion a visit at the MPD station. The squirrel queen was feeling a little nervous about all this. Her heart was beginning to beat quickly. Would Devion listen to her? Or was she just trying to reason with someone who didn't care what anybody else had to say? Whatever happened, at least Devion couldn't hurt her since he was disabled. Sally entered the MPD station, and was met with a gracious salute from the policemen there.

"Your majesty." said Melchett the Hedgehog, the chief of the police of EmpireCity.

"At ease gentlemen." said Sally.

The police stopped saluting and they stood respectfully to the side as Sally headed off to the cell blockade. Melchett began wondering why Sally was here and what she wanted but he didn't dare interfere as you can't interfere with royal business. Sally entered the cell blockade and walked down the blockade until she found Devion's cell. Devion was sitting against the wall with his arms lying lifelessly beside him. How helpless he looked behind glass and with his body completely functionless sans his visor. It made Sally feel pretty good inside to have the Devatron leader all locked up in Mobian custody and the one she had to thank for that was Raicor, even though he was doing it for his own needs only. Sally took a deep breath and she opened the cell door. She walked into Devion's cell and Devion glared at her.

"Well, well." he crooned dryly "The high and mighty Queen of Mobotropolis steps down from her seat of royalty and descends down to the prisons to mock the lowly and imprisoned. You're just like all the other royals I've slaughtered in the past. Arrogant, vain and always showing off to the lowly life forms at the best available opportunity to make themselves feel grander."

"I am not here for any of those reasons you've stated Devion." said Sally coldly, sitting down in front of the disabled Devatron leader "I'm here to talk to you."

"And what pray tell could you possibly wish to converse to me about?" muttered Devion.

"About you Devion." said Sally gently "I've been wondering a few things about you so please, answer me this question: why are you like this? Why are you a planet conquering overlord? Why do you wanna do this to everybody?"

Devion sighed in annoyance, suggesting he was tired of answering this question. Sally wasn't the only person who's asked him this before.

"You are one of the many who's questioned me on this subject my child." answered Devion "And here is your answer…"

"Please tell." said Sally intently "I'm listening."

"Long ago, when time began, the Devatrons were created from the very core of Deaveron itself." explained Devion "We were primitive and much like any other machine existing at the time. I was merely a soldier at that time. Then, a hundred years later, enter our glorious ruler the great King Hardigm, the greatest Devatron ever to exist. Hardigm invented our invulnerable casings and strived to make us the perfect species. Hardigm had great visions of peace and prosperity throughout the universe and he felt that the Devatrons could make that happen given our intelligence, excellent sociability, strength, power and invulnerability so he strived to make us the greatest peace defenders of all time."

"Really?" said Sally in surprise "Wow, I never would have guessed that about you Devion. What happened to change you all into murderous monsters though?"

"The universe happened." muttered Devion "But first, let us start at the time of our peace defending: After inventing our armour, Hardigm decided to give us all a test run. We invaded a planet named Valo, a planet full of malicious creatures that like to prey upon the weak and the infirm. We destroyed them all and Valo is now an empty planet devoid of any life. Hardigm was impressed with us and decided we were all fit to fight for peace. So we began helping other inferior races defeat their enemies while defending Deaveron from our enemies. But nobody was grateful to us for our efforts save a few individuals. They just saw us as sticking our hides in where they don't belong and that we have no right to interfere with our battles. Some races even thought we were villains and they tried to destroy us. I was livid with this but Hardigm insisted they were a little shaky since they have never met us before and they will grow accustomed to us over time. But they did not. They feared beings with power as great as ours would end up turning to the dark side and end up dooming them, not saving them. So some races began challenging us for superiority. We always won of course but then came the Knights of Krococ. They attacked us, thinking they were preventing a coming apocalypse by getting rid of us. We defeated them but…they killed King Hardigm."

Sally's eyes widened. As much as she hated Devion for his evil, she couldn't help but feel sorry for him. That must have been awful. He was only doing good for the universe and this is how they get repaid? By having their king killed? Some people are just so ungrateful aren't they?!

"After the death of King Hardigm, we were all distraught." continued Devion "I was more deeply affected by the death of our glorious king then anybody else. I vowed on the oil that flows in my circuitry to avenge King Hardigm. And that way involved wiping out everything in the universe and repopulating it with Devatrons. After Hardigm's death, I began to see the universe for that it is: uncivilized, savage and out of control. A void of space full species and races with nothing but greed, thirst for power and hunger for dominance in their foul hearts. We offered to protect the universe and they turned their backs on us and scoffed at our attempts and tried to destroy us because they feared us. So I am going to return the favour by destroying them all and repopulating them with Devatrons. Once I have achieved my goal, I will avenge King Hardigm at long last and I shall fulfil his wishes. I shall bring eternal peace to the universe and nothing bad shall ever happen again."

Sally had been surprised by everything Devion had said. She would never have guessed in a million years that Devion's past was like this. She began to feel a little sorry for Devion. He was only trying to help protect everybody and the races of the universe just tried to destroy the Devatrons. But still, Devion was evil now and what he was doing was evil. She could not forget that.

"That was an interesting story Devion." said Sally "And I can see the pain you're feeling from neglect and the death of your king. But the ends do not justify the means. What you're doing may have good intentions, but it's still evil. You can't just kill everybody because you think you're the superior race and that everybody else is savage and uncivilized. I bet not every race in the universe has even done anything to you. I know from reading history books that no Mobian has ever had any conflict with Devatrons."

"Not every race has tired to terminate us but why give them the chance?" hissed Devion "They will all perish too. Every race in the universe must be converted into Devatron kind and the universe shall be at never-ending peace at long last."

"I know what you mean Devion but it's still wrong." said Sally, putting her hands on Devion's shoulders and staring directly into his visor "You're killing innocent alien races out there just because they tried to destroy you and they killed your king. Some maybe deserve it but you can't just take your anger out on everyone. Besides, wouldn't a universe full of nothing but Devatron life be a vapid place? I mean, you'd all look the same and every planet would have nothing but Devatrons. And what would you do once you've completed your goal? Everything in the universe has a purpose Devion and you're just taking them all away. So many purposes destroyed and what purpose will you have after the universe is full of nothing but Devatrons?"

"My purpose is to bring peace to the universe my child." said Devion coldly "And I will bring it in any means necessary. King Hardigm did not specify what needs I may take to achieving the Devatron goal so I may do whatever it takes to correct the universe and make it a prosperous place with no more warfare, bloodshed, crime and prejudice. And nothing, not even your pontificating, can divert my goals. I will wipe out every race in the universe and fulfil the Devatron purpose. Whether you like it or not you royal brat, I am going to make the universe a Devatron populated place and that is all there is to it."

Sally stared at Devion in horror. Her attempts had all been in vain! Despite her best arguments and valid points, Devion refused to deviate from his goals and reform himself! Devion clearly had no redemption in him! So much for reforming him! Sally was so angry with Devion she stood up very straight and kicked him in the chest as hard as she could. Then she pushed Devion over onto his side. Since he was disabled, Devion couldn't get back up. He was stuck lying there on his side.

"You horrible, chrome-plated monster!" yelled Sally "I try to reform you for the good of not just me, the Mobians and everybody else in the universe but for you as well and you refuse to listen to me and turn me down flat! It's clear there's no hope of redemption for you Devion! I hope Raicor does destroy you!"

And with that, Sally stormed angrily out of the cell and closed the door behind her. The glass door descended down and closed, preventing anyone from getting into Devion's cell. Sally left the cell blockade in a huff and headed back to the research centre. As for Devion, he could only lie on his side and mutter to himself.

"Unfortunately for you Queen of New Mobotropolis, you may get your wish." he murmured "And you will be destroyed WITH me once Raicor commences with his plan…"

Back at the Empire Research Centre, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and Team Chaotix were chilling out in the big laboratory. Tails appeared to be working on something and he was working quite vigorously, not showing any signs of stopping or slowing down. The others were sitting down and waiting to do something and Vector, who was beginning to recover from his injuries, was listening to a song on his headphones (which did I mention he's always listening to? Even during battles?). The song was a song he, Espio and Charmy had made about themselves some time ago and he loved to listen to it (not surprising considering it' a song the Chaotix made about themselves!).

"Team Chaotix! They're detectives you want on your siiiiiide…" played the song as Vector listened to it "They're directives, tracking down your criiiiime. Come along for the ride. The truth can run but not hide. For all the game is on now…"

But Vector's song would have to wait for the moment for Sally Acorn stormed into the lab with a furious expression on her face. Sonic the Hedgehog could instantly tell from Sally's face that the meeting with Devion didn't end well.

"What's up Sally?" asked Sonic "Devion turn you down flat?"

"You bet he did!" grumbled Sally "I had Devion tell me about his past and I offered my thoughts on the subject and he refuses to reform! He just dismissed my claims as merely pontificating! I should have expected this to happen! A being as evil as him isn't capable of being reformed at all!"

"So much for that plan then." muttered Sonic "Well, I guess we'll have to try Plan B then, reprogram Devion."

"That's the only way we'll be able to turn Devion to our side." said Tails "Although I'm not sure how we're gonna be able to reprogram a Devatron. Heck, can Devatrons even be reprogrammed?"

"Well considering the Devatrons are robots and robots have to be programmed in order for them to do something, I assume they can be." thought Sally "But these are robots like no other so who knows what makes them tick."

"Well since Devion's a captive of ours, we can study him and find out." said Sonic "I bet Raicor's gonna feel really stupid when Devion returns to The Doombringer with a change of personality. That is, if we can reprogram him at all."

"We'll do whatever it takes to defeat those Devatrons." said Knuckles "If we can't get Devion to reform himself and if we can't reprogram him then we'll have to do whatever we can to beat the Devatrons."

"If we do not do anything to stop the Devatrons, Raicor will destroy us all." said Shade "Devion said that he's planning to destroy us and take Devion with us and in order to do something like this, he may use that giant ship of theirs to destroy us."

" The Doombringer 's fuel tanks were destroyed by Metal Sonic." noted Amy "That ship's not flying any time soon so they can't use The Doombringer . They'll likely just all march over to EmpireCity and then bring the city down to the ground."

"And since Raicor knows where we are, he'll lead the Devatrons to us." said Ruben the water-panther "Although how Raicor found us, I'll never know."

"There's a lot of things about the Devatrons we'll never know Ruben mate." muttered Geoffrey St. John "Like how they're invulnerable and so technically advanced compared to other races."

"Speakin' of Devatrons…" said Bunnie Rabbot "There's one headin' towards the research centre right now!"

Bunnie was on monitor duty right now and the monitors had picked up Tronic coming to the centre and Bunnie was horrified to see this. The Royal Fighters were surprised to hear this and Sonic began thinking to himself.

"They're sending one Devatron again?" mused Sonic "You'd think after getting pushed back by sheer numbers, Raicor would use much wiser tactics."

"Something's up and it does not feel good at all." said Espio grimly.

"Well whatever's goin' on, ah'll deal with that Devatron before he can harm someone!" declared Bunnie "Ah feel like using a Devatron for stress relief right now anyway!"

"You do that Bunnie but for heaven's sake, please be careful." said Sally "We can't afford to have anyone else stuck on the sidelines like Sonic, Vector and Thomas or have any more Royal Fighters lose their lives like Mr. Staffer, Gerald and Kate."

"Ah'll be alright Sally-girl." Bunnie assured the squirrel queen "Ah'm one of the toughest gals around. That Devatron won't know what hit it. If ah need help, ah'll just give ya'll a holler."

With that said, Bunnie ran out of the research centre as fast as her roboticized legs could carry her. Bunnie ran out into the open daylight and looked around for Tronic. She spotted him running towards the centre as fast as he could and the Rabbot went on the offensive. She leaped towards Tronic and tackled him down to the ground but Tronic grabbed the upper half of her robot arm and attached something to it. Bunnie failed to notice this for the device was rather small and she didn't feel it being attached to her. Bunnie pinned Tronic down to the ground and she drew her robot arm back. She punched Tronic in the face as hard as she could, her response being a rather musical sounding groan from Tronic, and she proceeded to do it again and again. She then aimed for Tronic's visor but Tronic grabbed Bunnie's fist and used his other arm to push her away. Tronic got back to his feet and he drew out a long thin blade from his arm. Bunnie bent down in a battle ready stance and prepared to do battle.

"This should be fun!" she said cockily "Alright Devatron, ya'll can either git on outta here or get busted up by me!"

"I am here to rescue Devion, my glorious leader." droned Tronic "Raicor betrayed him and put him in your custody and I will not have that. Stand down or be slaughtered."

"So ah guess you ain't willing to leave." said Bunnie "Ya'll will end up wishin' you'd left though when ah'm through with you!"

Even though Tronic had completed his mission, he didn't want Bunnie or the Royal Fighters to get suspicious about him and if he just ran off after showing up, that would definitely look suspicious to them and they'd probably start wondering what he was up to. In other words, he's keeping up his act in order to fool the Mobians into thinking there's nothing out of the ordinary going on. Bunnie charged towards Tronic but Tronic dodged Bunnie's attack and twirled around rather dangerously. Bunnie ducked in order to avoid Tronic's deadly blade and she tripped Tronic up with a swift kick to the legs. Tronic wasn't down for long though. He picked himself up and he swiped at Bunnie with his blade. Bunnie dodged and she gave Tronic a tremendous uppercut with her robot arm. The uppercut almost took his head off. Tronic shook his head and regained his senses and he retaliated by slashing Bunnie across the chest with his blade. Bunnie squealed in pain and she clutched her chest. Tronic had left a long cut all the way across it. Tronic took advantage of Bunnie clutching her chest in pain and he gave her an uppercut to the chin that sent her hurling through the air. Bunnie spiralled through the air and she landed painfully on her stomach. Tronic marched up to Bunnie and he pinned her down to the ground with his foot. He pointed the blade at Bunnie's head and pretended he was about to stab her.

"You will perish for your insolence cyborg creature." droned Tronic.

But Bunnie wasn't finished yet. She deployed her arm cannon and aimed over her shoulder at Tronic's torso. She blasted Tronic and the Devatron was sent staggering backwards by the power of the blast. Tronic shook off Bunnie's blast and he bent down onto his hands and knees. Bunnie picked herself up but Tronic blasted her with the cannons on his back. Bunnie was thrown across the terrain and she crashed into a lamppost. The force of the impact bent the lamppost and Bunnie groaned in pain. Tronic ran towards Bunnie but Bunnie leaped back onto her feet and she extended her robot arm. The arm extended in length and punched Tronic directly in the face. Tronic staggered backwards and he clutched his face, groaning to himself. Bunnie then decided to add insult to injury by activating her jet boosters and flying towards Tronic. She grabbed Tronic, flew up into the air and then proceeded to throw Tronic straight down into the ground. Tronic flipped himself over and he landed on the ground feet first. Bunnie flew down towards Tronic as fast as she could go. Tronic blasted at Bunnie with his back cannons but Bunnie dodged all the shots. She then drew her arm back and roundhouse punched Tronic directly in the visor. Tronic was thrown off his feet and onto his back. That terrific punch had left Tronic with a cracked visor. He'd have to repair it quick before Raicor questioned him on it. Tronic decided he'd put up his convincing act long enough so he picked himself up and ran for it as quickly as he could. Despite his cracked visor, he could still see clear enough where he was going since the crack wasn't enough to obstruct his vision. Tronic left EmpireCity and quickly headed back to The Doombringer . Bunnie watched him leave and she smirked to herself.

"Ah sent him packing!" she laughed "He'll think twice before messin' with the Royal Fighters! Although he's probably gonna come back with some helpers and give me an even harder time then ah've already had now."

Bunnie went back into the research centre to report to her friends about her "victory" over Tronic. If only she knew the real reason why Tronic was here. Little did Bunnie know was that Tronic had set her up for his rescue plan to retrieve Devion from their custody and she would not be prepared for it…

Tronic arrived back at The Doombringer and he leaped up onto the ship's bow section and climbed through the cockpit windows and back into the cockpit. To his fortune, Raicor wasn't here but that didn't mean Raicor didn't know anything about what he had been up to. For all Tronic knew, Raicor might have been in the cockpit only to find him gone and was probably looking around the ship for him right now so Tronic had to make sure that Raicor didn't know he'd gone somewhere and that he wasn't looking for him or something. Tronic activated his comlink by touching the side of his head and he contacted Raicor.

"Raicor." droned Tronic.

"Yes Tronic? What is it?" asked Raicor "How are things going with you in the cockpit?"

Phew! Raicor didn't know he'd gone! Tronic was in the clear! If he was capable of feeling excitement (an emotion Devatrons don't have) then he'd be having tingling feelings of joy in his circuitry.

"They are going marvellously." droned Tronic "Everything is running as normal."

"Thank you for your report Tronic." said Raicor gruffly "I hope you're ready for combat because first thing tomorrow morning, we are going to level the Mobian's new place of residence so that we may destroy them and rescue our glorious leader."

Tronic really wanted to stab Raicor in the neck for saying that. What a big fat liar he was that big-headed, arrogant, lying treacherous scum-bag! But if Tronic did try to take on Raicor, he'd be dead in ten seconds flat since Raicor was much stronger then he was so he couldn't get the satisfaction of doing so anyway. Instead, Tronic just kept up his little pretence.

"Yes Raicor." droned Tronic "Why may I ask, are we attacking tomorrow morning?"

" The Doombringer takes a while to convert lava in to fuel remember?" said Raicor " The Doombringer won't be operational until tomorrow morning and in order to make this attack a powerful, terrifying onslaught, we need The Doombringer . We'll destroy the Mobians much faster with it and we can save Devion without any problems at all."

"I comprehend the meaning of the situation now." droned Tronic "Thank you Raicor."

With that said, Tronic shut off his comlink. So the attack was tomorrow was it? That was a perfect opportunity for Tronic to commence with his plan! He would carry it out tonight and break Devion out of prison and then have him terminate Raicor for treason! But first, he had to make sure the device he'd planted on Bunnie's arm was going to work. Tronic went over to a storage compartment in the corner of the cockpit and he opened it. The compartment contained the controls for his device. The controls were in the shape of a standard television remote with one button on it and it was silver in colour much like the Devatrons themselves and there was a screen that would show Tronic what the device was seeing if it was working. Tronic sat down in the cockpit seat and he prepared to test the device. Once he'd tested his device, he'd get his visor fixed before Raicor saw it and then tonight, if the device worked, he'd carry out his plan tonight. And this plan involved getting a Royal Fighter in trouble so that the others would be distracted by it and probably have a trial, and Devion's release from Mobian custody and return to the Devatron faction…

Back at the Empire Research Centre, Bunnie had reported her battle with Tronic to Sally and the Royal Fighters and they were delighted to hear Bunnie had pushed him back and sent him packing. They still couldn't stop wondering what Tronic was here for and why he came alone but they decided not to worry on the matter for it was nothing to be concerned about (or so they thought). Bunnie began wondering off to see how Cream and Cosmo were doing. They were sitting in the corner of the lab and talking to one another. But then the strangest thing happened to the Rabbot just as she was walking over to them. Bunnie's legs stopped directly in their path and Bunnie was left standing completely still. Bunnie looked down at her legs and began to wonder what was going on with them.

"What in the hoo-hah?" she wondered "Why are mah legs not movin'?"

They then started moving again, but not under Bunnie's will. They were moving because of Tronic. Tronic's device gave him total control over anything he planted it on be it mechanic or organic and once the device was activated, Tronic could make the person do what he wanted them to do with merely a thought. On Tronic's controls, he could see what Bunnie was looking at for the device could look in every direction. Bunnie was now facing a desk containing some tools. Tronic decided just to be cruel to make Bunnie destroy one. He then willed Bunnie's legs to start walking. Bunnie's legs carried her over to the desk and Tronic then willed Bunnie's robot arm to reach out and grab a tool. Bunnie stopped in front of the desk and she grabbed a welding tool with her robot arm.

"What are ya'll doin' robot parts?!" cried Bunnie "Ah don't wanna pick a tool up! Ah don't even wanna be over here! I wanna be…"

Before she could say anything else, Tronic willed Bunnie's robot hand to crush the tool like a plastic cup. Bunnie's hand did exactly what Tronic had told it to. It crushed the welding tool and rendered it useless to anyone wishing to use it. Bunnie gasped in horror and Tronic switched the device off, now knowing it worked and his plan could commence tonight. Bunnie looked at the crumpled tool in her hand and began to wonder why her robot parts had been behaving so strangely.

"Oh no, why did mah arm do that?" she fretted "Ah don't think it's got a glitch or anything, is there somethin' wrong with me…?"

"Bunnie!" cried a voice she knew too well.

It was Tails. Bunnie turned around only to see a very angry looking Tails glaring at her with his arms folded and his foot tapping. Bunnie looked nervous and she smiled weakly at him.

"Um…howdy Tails?" she said pathetically.

"I needed that!" exclaimed Tails, throwing his arms out to the side in an exasperated manner.

"Oh…um…is this yours?" asked Bunnie, looking at the crumpled welding tool in her hand.

"No, it's the lab's but I needed it for my new invention!" griped Tails "Why did you just destroy it Bunnie?!"

"Oh Tails ah'm so sorry." said Bunnie guiltily, putting the tool down on the desk "Ah dunno why ah did it, mah arms and legs just suddenly started controllin' themselves and then mah arm just grabbed the tool and crumpled it."

"Bunnie, I find that hard to believe." said Tails in an uncharacteristically cold voice "Your limbs can't just control themselves, even if they are roboticized. You have total control over them so I doubt your limbs just controlled themselves and did that under their own freewill."

"But Tails, ah swear on mah lil' ol' soul that's what happened!" protested Bunnie.

"Well if it happens again then I'll run a diagnostic test on you to see what's wrong." said Tails "I hope there isn't anything wrong with your limbs Bunnie, you're a real asset to the team and we can't do with you having to be sidelined along with Sonic, Vector and Thomas should there be anything wrong with your limbs that is."

"Ah hope mah limbs are OK too." said Bunnie, rubbing her roboticized left arm and feeling a little shaky about the whole thing "Otherwise ah'm gonna start to get worried. Worried that mah roboticized limbs are takin' over mah body or somethin' horrible like that."

"That would be terrible." said Tails "We have our plates full with the Devatrons already, we don't need another problem to deal with. I wouldn't worry about it Bunnie, I'm sure your limbs are fine."

"Well they seem OK now." said Bunnie "Ah mean, ah can move them by mah self again. Maybe ah just had a weird glitch or somethin' earlier."

"Perhaps." said Tails "Now, since you've crushed the welding tool I was using, I need to get another one."

"If you want Tails, you can borrow mine." said Dr. Eggman kindly, who was working on building yet another Metal Sonic after Triton had sliced the previous model in two earlier "I don't need it anymore and since you're in need of one, I'm going to relinquish mine so you can use it."

"Um…thanks Eggman." said Tails, taking the tool from Eggman, amazed that the fat scientist was actually sharing his tools with him despite being his worst enemy.

"Don't mention it Tails." said Dr. Eggman, grinning widely "Since we're comrades, I feel I should offer them any assistance should they need any."

"I shouldn't get used to it though because once Devion and his cronies are gone, we're gonna be back to smashing each other's heads in." muttered Tails as he went back to continue working on his invention.

Dr. Eggman just chortled at Tails' statement, knowing how true it really was. Tails began working on his invention while Eggman continued working on Metal Sonic. Bunnie left the two mechanics to their work and went over to Cosmo and Cream like she'd intended to before Tronic controlled her limbs. Even though the idea of losing control over her robot parts bothered Bunnie, she decided not to let it get to her since she didn't want to start worrying everybody and in this battle with the Devatrons, she had to focus and stay on task and not let her worries bring her down or she was going to be unprepared and unfocused on the battlefield. As for Tronic, he was looking forward to tonight. Really looking forward to it for it would secure Devion's release and get Bunnie in a lot of trouble…

Night time arrived and the daytime sky became dark and the stars began twinkling as bright as they always did when they came out. The moon was out and shining as bright as it always did. The Devatrons had all shut down for the night to preserve their power cells except for Raicor and Tronic. Raicor decided to stand guard outside The Doombringer and make sure nobody tries to attack the ship while the Devatrons are all sleeping. Tronic, was in the cockpit of The Doombringer and he was ready to unleash his plan. He had fixed his cracked visor at last so Raicor didn't suspect anything about him and he'd gone back to Empire City with a toolkit containing the tools needed to get Devion functioning again for he had been disabled by an EMP shock. He'd left the toolkit outside the city and gone back to The Doombringer before anyone could see him. The toolkit had been sitting there for the rest of the day and it was still there now, sitting alone in the fields around EmpireCity. The plan was all set up. Tronic had his scapegoat and he was completely in the clear. Raicor didn't suspect a thing about him and the Mobians didn't know anything either. Now was the time to bring Devion home and have Raicor terminated as punishment for his crimes against his glorious leader.

"Devion. You will be imprisoned no more." droned Tronic "Raicor has taken what is yours and I am going to give it back to you."

He then pressed the silver button on the remote control and activated his device…

Over in the Empire Research Centre, the Royal Fighters were all sleeping in sleeping bags that had been generously donated to them. The centre didn't have any beds to sleep in so they all had to sleep in sleeping bags on the floor. Tails was quite pleased though. He liked sleeping in a room with the sound of machinery humming quietly in his ears. Everybody was snoozing quite peacefully in their bags, even Marik despite the fact he didn't really like sleeping on the floor. Eggman had been forced to sleep in another room because his snoring was way too loud for the Mobians to bear (he snores louder then a warthog). Unfortunately, Bunnie Rabbot, who was dressed in a pink night dress, wasn't going to get any sleep at all. Tronic's device had been activated and Tronic willed her to get up. Bunnie woke up immediately and she got out of her sleeping bag and crept quietly out of the lab. Bunnie left the lab and she began walking through the dark streets of EmpireCity. Bunnie began to wonder what was going on and she noticed she was walking through the streets and she was wide awake, meaning she was not sleep walking.

"Oh mah stars!" cried Bunnie "Mah limbs are doin' it again! They're controllin' themselves and now ah'm walking in the darkness of the night!"

Bunnie tried to stop herself only to find out she couldn't control her organic arm either. She couldn't even turn her head. Tronic's device had complete control over her entire body. Bunnie tried to cry out for help but Tronic willed her mouth to shut and it did. Bunnie couldn't open her mouth and speak. She was stuck in silence and had no control over her body whatsoever. Tronic made Bunnie walk on and on until she reached the outskirts of Empire City. Bunnie was very frightened. What was going on and why couldn't she stop herself? Was this all a really bad dream? Obviously not since she was awake already so what was happening? Was somebody controlling her body? If so then who was it? Bunnie had many thoughts and while she was thinking about who it could be, her body came to a halt and she bent down to pick something up. She'd walked out of the city and into the meadows around Empire City where the toolkit was waiting for her. She'd picked up the toolkit and now Tronic willed her to go to the MPD station. Tronic had seen where the station was shortly after arriving at EmpireCity and since Raicor had dropped Devion off at EmpireCity to get imprisoned, he had a feeling this is where Devion is right now. Bunnie walked on an on through the city, wondering why she was doing this and what the tool kit was about.

What's goin' on? she whimpered in her thoughts It's almost like mah body's controllin' itself and it's doin' something! Is my half-roboticization takin' effect on me and it's taken over mah body? Or is somebody controllin' me? If ah'm being controlled then who's doin' it and what are they making me do it for?

Bunnie would soon find out for she had finally arrived at the MPD station and she marched inside. Melchett saw Bunnie coming into the station and he wondered what she was doing here.

"Hey you!" he said "What are you doing here in the middle of the night young lady? And in your pyjamas too! This isn't a sleepover club you know!"

Bunnie tried to speak but Tronic was keeping her mouth shut with his device. He then willed Bunnie to whack Melchett with the toolbox and knock out the stubborn, ego-driven hedgehog officer. And that's what she did. Bunnie swung the toolbox up and she whacked Melchett in the head with it. The attack knocked Melchett clean out and Bunnie marched on to the cell blockade. Bunnie entered the blockade and she walked down the blockade until she found Devion's cell. Tronic stopped her and made her turn around and face the control pad on the side of the door. He made Bunnie open the cell door and then walk into the cell with the toolkit in hand. Devion, who was still lying on his side, saw Bunnie coming to him and he began to wonder what was going on.

"Well, it appears a Royal Fighter has come to taunt me on my imprisonment before getting some much needed sleep." he muttered "Taunt away if you will, I am incapable of punishing you for it."

"Devion, I have come here to get you back online." Tronic's voice droned from the device on Bunnie's arm.

"Tronic?" mused Devion "So my loyal servant knows of Raicor's treachery and has come to get me working again so that I may take my title back and kill Raicor for his treasonous ways? Truly meritorious this is. I do not believe in fate but it seems fate is on my side once again."

Bunnie couldn't believe this. A Devatron voice had just droned from somewhere and said he has come here to get him back online. That meant she was being controlled by a Devatron and the Devatron was using her to get Devion working again! Very clever she had to admit but it was going to get her into a lot of trouble for this once somebody spotted her.

"I must commend you on using a nuvo-body-controlling link on a Mobian in order to fix me without having to do it yourself and risk getting found out by Raicor." said Devion as Bunnie knelt down and rummaged through the tool box "That way the Mobians will accuse this cyborg specimen of treason and begin grilling her instead of trying to recapture me. Tronic, you will become my new second in command once Raicor is finished off."

"Thank you Devion." droned Tronic's voice from the device.

He made Bunnie pull out a strange looking tool that fired lasers. He made Bunnie aim the tool at Devion's chest and Bunnie activated the tool. A laser shot out and melted the edges of Devion's chest. Tronic made Bunnie drag the laser all around Devion's chest which caused the chest plate to fall off, exposing Devion's internal mechanisms. Tronic then made Bunnie reach into Devion's chest and pull out a very important battery for him, that had been fried to the core by the EMP shock Raicor had given him. Without this battery, the Devatrons could not function and were stuck having a motionless body with only their minds still functioning. Bunnie put down the battery and she reached into the toolbox. The toolbox contained a spare battery for Devion and once this was equipped into him, he would be completely functional once again. Bunnie inserted the battery into Devion's body and the Devatron leader felt a tremendous surge in his circuits for his body was becoming functional again. Now the battery was inserted, Tronic made Bunnie put Devion's chest plate back over his chest and then make her use a welding tool to weld the panel back into place. Devatron welding was very quick and efficient so Devion's chest plate was back in place and it was as strong as it ever was. Devion cackled delightedly to himself and he stood back up onto his feet, which he could now feel again. He then began to move his arms and turn his head from side to side.

"Yes…" he crowed happily "I am functional once again! Devion the Dreaded has returned and now I shall deal with that traitor Raicor for plotting to terminate me and seize control over my army!"

He then glared at Bunnie, the Rabbot looking nervous as the Devatron leader looked at her coldly with his evil red visor.

"As for you…" he purred darkly "…you will go to sleep now. And face treason amongst your kind for getting me back online…"

He then proceeded to remove the nuvo-body-controlling link device from Bunnie's arm. Once the link was removed, the person wearing the link was instantly knocked out and would wake up a few minutes later with a bad feeling in their bones. Devion crushed the device in his claws so that Bunnie wouldn't be able to prove she was being controlled and he left his still open cell. He closed the cell behind him so that Bunnie would be trapped and be unable to follow him once she woke up. Devion strode through the blockade but he was quickly confronted by Melchett the Hedgehog, General Chipper and Big Dave. They all pointed their guns at him and they prepared to shoot him.

"Halt Devion!" cried Melchett "You will not leave this prison! You will get back into your cell or be destroyed! This will be your only warning!"

"And I do not heed your pathetic warning." muttered Devion, grabbing Melchett and hoisting him off the ground by his neck "For you cannot stop an invulnerable robotic life form with many planets conquered and under my control."

He then proceeded to crush Melchett's windpipe, killing the police officer instantly and reliving him of his duty. Melchett was no more and the Empire City Mobian Police Department would need a new leader. General Chipper and Big Dave respectfully stood back and allowed Devion to leave for they did not want to get killed too and Devion didn't bother with them because he was not interested in them. He just wanted to get rid of Raicor and take his position in the Devatron army back. Devion left the MPD prison station and he ran off through the city of Empire City and headed back to The Doombringer .

"I hope you enjoyed your brief time as ruler Raicor." growled Devion "Because I am about to put an end to it..."

The moment Devion left, General Chipper called the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters as quickly as he could. He picked up the phone and he dialled their number. The computer monitors in the Empire Research Centre began ringing loudly, a sign that a phone was ringing and the call was for them. Everybody woke up and Sonic, with a yawn, answered the call.

"Hrrum…hello who is it?" said Sonic tiredly.

"You're not gonna believe this!" cried General Chipper "But I went to see the security cameras and I saw Bunnie Rabbot in Devion's cell and she appeared to be fixing him and getting him functional again! We were about to confront her but Devion had already left his cell at the time and now he's killed Melchett and fled for it! Bunnie I think is still in the cell right now!"

Sonic looked like he'd just been stabbed in the groin.

"Say what?!" cried Sonic "Bunnie's fixed Devion and helped him escape?! This can't be true! It can't be!"

"It is Sonic!" cried General Chipper "I saw it all on the security cameras!"

"And Bunnie's not here right now." added Marik, pointing to Bunnie's empty sleeping bag "So what does that tell you Sonic? Does it tell you that your bunny friend is not the friend you thought she was?"

Sonic looked over his shoulder and saw the empty sleeping bag.

That obviously meant General Chipper's story was true and Bunnie had indeed helped Devion escape and get his body functioning again. But why would she do that? That was so unlike her! Something was up and Sonic was determined to find out.

"General." said Sally "If Bunnie's still with you, bring her back here right now so we can grill her on this. I am going to get to the bottom of this before the Devatrons make their next move and before we have to declare an arrest for Bunnie."

"Yes your majesty." said General Chipper.

He hung up and the phone line went dead. Sally turned to Sonic with a grave look on her face.

"This can't be happening!" she said "Bunnie can't be…turning traitor!"

"I don't think she is." said Sonic "If I know Bunnie she'd never do anything like that. Something's up and we're gonna find out. I hope Bunnie is innocent otherwise one of our best Royal Fighters will have to be arrested and we lose yet another Royal Fighter in this battle."

Sally nodded agreeably. Devion's escape was horrifying enough as it was but the very thought of Bunnie turning traitor was even worse. Sally refused to believe that Bunnie was really turning traitor and really hoped that she could prove her innocence. If not then she would have to be arrested and would be doing a lot of time for freeing the leader of the most dangerous race of robots in the universe…

Did you really think Devion was going to stay arrested for long? Of course he wasn't! I'm not the writer to let the heroes stay victorious for long ha, ha, ha, ha! So Bunnie's gonna have a serious grilling and Raicor's gonna get fragged! Or is he? Join me next time for a duel for leadership with the Devatrons and a grilling session with the Mobians!

Hey Erin D., just out of interest, who are your top 10 favourite OCs in this story and why? Just interested! ;)

The Devatron Showdown

Story 109: The Devatron Showdown

Raicor was pacing around The Doombringer and keeping a keen eye out for intruders. The Devatrons had had many instances of their ship being attacked at night while they were sleeping and Raicor was certain the Mobians would probably try that tired old ambush scheme on them even though no such attempts had happened yet. Raicor had his trademark double-edged staff with three prongs on each end in hand and he was looking around for any late night attackers. Devatrons had excellent night vision and could see even in total darkness so nobody would be able to sneak up on a Devatron in the middle of the night without being spotted. But it was not total darkness this night, the moon was out and shining as brightly as it ever did. Raicor looked up at the moon and had thoughts on destroying it. The Devatrons had once destroyed a moon while cruising through space and recycled it's remains into Devatron fuel so maybe just to add insult to injury, they could destroy Mobius' moon and recycle it's remains into fuel, even though they already had some fuel now thanks to Triton and Steelor stealing some of Mount Adabat's lava. The Doombringer was nicely refuelled and ready to take off again after two days of being grounded and Raicor looked forward to laying siege to Empire City and destroying the Mobians. But Raicor wasn't even going to get that chance. As Raicor began to pace around the side of The Doombringer , he heard oncoming footsteps and he pointed his staff at the coming figure.

"Halt! Identify yourself!" he growled "Reveal yourself to me night figure or I will run you through!"

The figure stopped running and glowered at Raicor from the darkness of the night.

"You do not have to resort to petty threatening on me Raicor." said a cold, chilling voice that Raicor knew too well "You abhor me anyway so you may as well just run me through and be done with it."

Raicor's arms began to tremble. The figure stepped into the moonlight and revealed itself to be none other then Devion the Dreaded. Raicor looked like he was going to have the mechanical equivalent of a nervous breakdown.

"D-D-D-Devion?!" he stammered "Wh-wh-what? N-n-no! Th-th-this cannot be! I-I-I-I…"

"Disabled my body, took my rightful position and left me in the hands of the Mobians while you plotted their destruction and plotted to have me destroyed too?" finished Devion, folding his arms and glaring at Raicor with a cold eye "Yes, you did Raicor. But somebody you and I both know took control of a Mobian with a nuvo-body-controlling link and used the Mobian to get me operational again. That Mobian will be bearing the brunt of the Royal Fighter's accusations, meaning there will be no interruptions from our enemies as I rip you apart for trying to terminate me!"

He began to advance on Raicor menacingly, the Devatron second-in-command backing away nervously as Devion prepared to kill him. First though, Devion snatched his cape clean off of Raicor's shoulder and he threw it to the side so that it wouldn't get wrecked in the inevitable scuffle that might come should Raicor foolishly attempt to fight him. It didn't seem likely though for Raicor looked like he was too scared to fight him. He was just backing away as he advanced on him.

"Devion! Please!" begged Raicor, throwing himself down onto his knees at Devion's feet in an act of begging for mercy "I apologize for my attempts! I've realized my mistake and that I am not meant to be leader! I apologize for disabling you! Let me redeem myself! Please! I beg of you!"

But Devion was having none of it. He was not falling for Raicor's lines ever again. He drew out his trademark golden sword, which Raicor had been stupid enough to not confiscate it after disabling him, and he aimed directly for Raicor's eye. The only way to kill a Devatron was stab it through the visor since that was the only part on a Devatron that isn't invulnerable.

"Your pleas fall upon an individual with a dark personality and a cold temper." said Devion dryly "You fooled me for years with your "loyal second-in-command" act but your cunning and subtle trickery will never gyp me again. Now face your sentence like a true Devatron you snivelling little coward!"

Raicor stopped begging and he awaited his fate, staring directly at the sword as Devion prepared to plunge it into his visor. Devion was amazed that Raicor wasn't even going to resist him and was just going to let him kill him. Devion decided not to waste anymore time and he drew his arm back, ready to make the kill. But Raicor had tricked him again. Before Devion could make the killer lunge, Raicor quickly deployed his arm cannons and he blasted him directly in the face with both cannons. Devion staggered backwards, clutching his smoking face and groaning at the top of his voice. Luckily, Raicor hadn't blinded him but a Devatron head isn't as strong as the rest of it's body so the attack was still very painful for Devion. Devion uncovered his face, only to get a terrific uppercut from Raicor that sent him hurling through the air and crashing down about twenty feet away. Devion picked himself up and he cricked his neck on both sides. Raicor picked up his six-pronged staff and he pointed it at Devion.

"I overthrew you for the good of the army Devion!" growled Raicor "Your sadistic ways have almost cost us in the past and it's gonna cost us now! Under my watch, the Devatrons will wipe out the Mobians in one mighty onslaught and we will have Mobius under our control! Do you want to stop me from achieving that?!"

"I'm all for you leading the Devatrons to victory Raicor." said Devion, strolling back over to Raicor and picking his sword back "But the ends do not justify the means. I will not tolerate you usurping me of my position just so you can get what you wish! I was planning to wipe out the Mobians eventually, I was just taking my time to give them the false hope that maybe they can defeat us at last and then wipe them out in the blink of the organic eye so you did not have to overthrow me so you can do it yourself!"

"Yes I did Devion!" snapped Raicor "Buying your time is foolish as it gives the enemy ample time to counter-attack and it makes our conquest much harder! If we just wiped them out immediately instead of picking and choosing times to destroy them then our fights would be over much quicker! But under your rule, we cannot get that because you're too arrogant, sadistic and vain to just get it over with and you like to toy with the victims instead of finishing them off already!"

"There is no point to conquest if you do not enjoy yourself while you're at it." retorted Devion, pointing the sword at Raicor's staff and preparing to do battle "If we just won our battles nice and quickly then our path of conquest would be pretty vapid and insipid. That is why I prolong our victim's existence, so that I may enjoy their suffering and misery before I have the pleasure of taking the planet for myself and wiping them all out. That makes our reign of conquest all the more entertaining."

"To you maybe." snorted Raicor "Well I do not wish to follow your lead anymore! If we continue to follow you, we may meet our match and we will lose and fail to avenge King Hardigm! I will be a much better leader then you Devion and I will keep the title anyway I can! Even if I have to terminate you to do so!"

"Then spare me anymore of your pontificating and let this unnecessary battle commence." said Devion coldly "The victor takes leadership title and the defeated gets recycled into chrome for any upcoming soldiers for the army…"

Devion and Raicor drew their arms back and they lunged at each other with their weapons. All hell was about to break loose with the two strongest Devatrons in the entire fleet battling it out with each other and fighting for leadership of the Devatron race…

Meanwhile, Bunnie Rabbot had been delivered back to the Empire Research Centre by General Chipper. Upon arrival, Queen Sally Acorn had taken it upon herself to restrain Bunnie in case her body acted up and she did something else since it seemed she'd turned traitor and had helped Devion get back onto his feet and escape from prison. Bunnie was sat down in a chair with her arms cuffed behind her back and the choice of cuffs used were (of course) laser cuffs so Bunnie couldn't escape. To add more restraint, a pair of laser cuffs were place around Bunnie's ankles. Bunnie was really worried about all this. She began wondering why she was being restrained like this and why her friends seemed a little mad at her save for a few.

"Is this really necessary Sally?" asked Sonic the Hedgehog.

"Well since it seems Bunnie's turned traitor Sonic, yes it is necessary." said Sally "I'm as reluctant as everyone else is to do this but it has to be done. Hopefully we can find out the whole truth from Bunnie now she's here."

"I still think you're all being idiots." muttered Sonic "We all know Bunnie would not intentionally free Devion and fix him up so he functions again."

"I know Bunnie wouldn't do something like that Sonic but we need to find out what's been going on with Bunnie so we can decide if she's innocent or not."

"If you want my opinion your majesty, you're wasting your time." grumbled Marik "Your cyborg friend is guilty as hell, she has no chance of proving herself innocent."

"And you Marik will shut up because you don't know what's going on either and you're just eager to jump to conclusions because you hate us." said Sally coldly.

"Whatever you royal ninny hammer." sighed Marik exasperatedly.

Sally scowled at Marik but she didn't talk back and instead, just looked at Bunnie. The cuffed up Rabbot could only look back at Sally with a worried expression on her face and her heart racing like mad. Bunnie really was worried on what was going to happen and what everybody was going to think of her being used to free Devion and if they would believe her.

"OK Bunnie." said Sally slowly.

"Sally-girl, please, ah'm innocent!" pleaded Bunnie "Please let me go. Ah didn't wanna help Devion, ah was being used ah swear! Please don't arrest me!"

"Bunnie, clam down please." said Sally "I'm going to ask you a simple question that's all."

But Marik decided to butt in since he was eager for the chance to prove a Mobian guilty of something.

"Why in the name of Mercury did you fix Devion and free him from prison you slimy little snake?!" he growled, pointing a claw as sharp as a spear tip at Bunnie's chest, threatening to stab her with it.

"Ah didn't do it under mah own intentions!" shrieked Bunnie.

"Yeah right and I'm the King of Pluto!" snorted Marik, jamming his face into Bunnie's "We heard from your officers that you went in there, knocked one of them out briefly, went into Devion's cell, fixed him and helped him escape! They saw their security tapes Bunnie and we have their eyewitness statements! You are guilty and you cannot convince me otherwise!"

"Marik please! Ah mean it!" protested Bunnie "Ah was forced into doin' this!"

"So what? You were blackmailed?" sniffed Marik "And here's me thinking you were one courageous Royal Fighter! You're brave enough to take me on but a measly blackmail is enough to make you squirm?! And who blackmailed you anyway? A Devatron?"

"No! Ah wasn't blackmailed at all!" cried Bunnie "Ah was controlled! The Devatron ah stopped from attack the centre earlier put some kind of body controllin' device on mah arm and he used it to control me and rescue Devion! Ah had no idea until ah heard his voice ringing out of mah arm and that's when ah realized ah was bein' controlled!"

"You Bunnie, are thicket then an asteroid storm if you think I'm going to believe such lies!" snapped Marik "If you were controlled by the Devatrons then where's this so-called "body controlling" device then? I see nothing on your arm Bunnie!"

"That's because Devion removed it after ah'd served mah purpose!" shrieked Bunnie.

"The accused: always coming up with crap excuses for anything!" snarled Marik, tipping Bunnie's chair backwards a little due to how far forward he was leaning into her "None of your officers seemed to have noticed Devion removing anything from you and someone as guilty and as subversive as you is not to be trusted! I do not believe a thing you say Bunnie! It's like my dad taught me "Never believe the accused. They are never truthful"!"

"But ah am truthful Marik!" argued Bunnie "Ah'm tellin' ya'll the truth! Ah was bein' controlled by a Devatron and the Devatron used me to free Devion and Devion removed the device after ah was finished!"

"You are going to have to do better then that to convince me you're innocent Bunnie!" snapped Marik "You have no proof you was body controlled and I highly doubt the Devatrons even have that kind of technology!"

"And how would you know Mr. Smarty-Ass?!" sniffed Amy "You only claim to have met the Devatrons once while you were out in space! You can't know everything about them!"

"Please do not offer your input Amy." growled Marik through clenched teeth "I'm trying to carry out a PROPER interrogation here!"

"Amy's right to ask you that though Marik!" shouted Tails "How would you know the Devatrons don't have body-controlling technology?!"

"I never stated I know they don't have that technology, I said I highly doubt they have it you moron!" retorted Marik "Besides, my dad's told me that body controlling devices are impossible to make and cannot exist so Bunnie's statement is therefore null and void!"

"Oh and you think that just because your dad said it?" snorted Knuckles "You think everything your dad says is right do you?"

"I bet he does because he's a little daddy's boy!" laughed Charmy Bee mockingly.

Vector and Espio laughed at their little friend whereas Marik began to fume angrily. That little bit of mockery really riled him. Nobody called him a daddy's boy and lived to tell the tale!

"I will happily counter your argument Marik." sneered Dr. Eggman "I, the absolute genius I am, have spent many of my days tinkering with machinery and the various possibilities they have and we humans have calculated that a machine that can control bodies while difficult to make, it is not impossible to actually make one. We just do not have the technology to make that kind of device yet."

"Wow, you humans are thicker then what Martian legends about them make them out as!" grumbled Marik, his fists clenched and a throbbing vein appearing on his forehead in typical manga fashion "We Martians are years ahead of you disgusting humans technology wise and we're nowhere near close enough to making a device capable of that! Even Korark, the former best scientist of Mars can't make something like that so my dad IS right! Body-controlling devices are impossible to make!"

"They are not impossible to make Marik!" snapped Eggman "Neither humans, nor Martians it would seem, are advanced enough to make that kind of device that's all!"

"Would you two stop playing technology war and shut up?!" bellowed MandyMouse "This is getting us nowhere! Whether body-controlling devices are possible are not, we have no idea how technically advanced the Devatrons truly are so we can't even begin to assume Bunnie's right or wrong on this subject! If we maybe studied them, we would know but we don't so we can't make these stupid claims!"

Marik and Eggman stopped bickering with each other and they fumed at each other but they said nothing more and turned their backs on each other.

"And anyway, I believe Bunnie." said Mandy "I know Bunnie very well. I knew her before I even met blue dude and I know she would never, ever do something like that under her own intentions."

"I concur with Mandy." said Wilson the Dog "I've known Bunnie as long as she has and I know she hasn't got an evil bone in her body.

Even the roboticized parts."

"Aw thanks sugah." said Bunnie sweetly.

Wilson and Mandy just smiled at Bunnie. Marik however, was still not willing to give up (he's the embodiment of obstinacy, what did you expect?).

"Do keep it in mind you two clots that appearances can be deceptive." noted Marik "I learnt that lesson the hard way when a friend of my uncle's, who seemed to be a decent soul, betrayed him and tried to defy my dad's laws. The Devatron's appearances are definitely deceptive I mean, the second-in-command whom Devion refers to as Raicor seemed like Devion's most loyal sod and yet he betrayed him and gave him to us to keep as a prisoner! So Bunnie can quite easily be one of those deceptive people who uses her skills as a manipulator to make you think these things about her and then strike the moment you let your guards down!"

"Marik, ah'm no manipulator!" retorted Bunnie "Ah couldn't manipulate anybody even if ah wanted to! Ah doubt ah could even so much as manipulate Cream the Rabbit!"

"Pretty words Rabbot." scoffed Marik "But people speak many words and few words they say are actually true so you're not fooling me Bunnie!"

"Marik you jerk, why are you so convinced that Bunnie's evil?!" shouted Sonic "Bunnie doesn't know the meaning of the word "evil" so why are you trying to set it in stone that she's evil?"

"Because Sonic, unlike you poor gormless idiots, I am not going easy on her!" replied Marik, pointing sharply at him "In an interrogation, you should never believe your victims and you must never give into them or be fooled by their lies!"

"That's ridiculous!" argued Espio "What if the victim's actually telling the truth?!"

"Yeah, you shouldn't just conclude that just because they've done something wrong, it doesn't mean they're guilty!" put in Vector.

"You Martian freaks may do interrogations like that but you are on Mobian grounds and we do not do things the way you do!" snapped Geoffrey St. John "You will stop being so stubborn Marik and do things the way we Mobians do them!"

"Besides, why do you care about this anyway?" asked Sonic "You hate us! You should be thrilled at the idea of Bunnie going bad, which I know she's not!"

"I would be Sonic, if I wasn't fighting WITH you instead of AGAINST you!" argued Marik "I've allied myself with you now to help defeat the Devatrons and I will not tolerate anybody helping those chrome plated creeps! A traitor to you as a traitor to me at the same time Sonic so that's why I care about the whole thing! You should be thankful I'm thinking about you idiots for once!"

"You're not thinking about us at all Marik!" retorted Tails "You only care what you want and what you want is to prove Bunnie guilty just to make us mad!"

"I think I'm agreeing with Tails." said Shade coldly and then she pointed accusingly at Marik "And your desire to prove Bunnie guilty is making me suspicious. How do we know YOU'RE not the one who's been controlling Bunnie and making her free Devion and you're just playing prosecutor to hide yourself?"

"Are you begging to have your head ripped off Shade?!" roared Marik "Why the bloody hell would I be helping the Devatrons win when I'm on your side?!"

"Well you hate us more then you hate the Devatrons." noted Shade "And Knuckles tells me you're a bit of a deceiver so maybe you've deceived us into thinking you hate the Devatrons when you're on their side and you're actually trying to hinder us, not help us."

"Shade, think about it for a second there." said Marik, advancing on the echidna in the black headband and black bodysuit "Would I be working for the Devatrons when they want to bring peace to Mobius once they've conquered it?! I hate peace so why would I help the Devatrons bring peace to the world when I want to replace it all with warfare, malice and ruination?! And also why would I be on their side after Devion SLASHED ME ACROSS THE FRIGGING CHEST?!"

He pointed to the scar he had from Devion slashing his chest with his sword. Shade face-palmed herself for not thinking about those facts and she muttered the word "stupid" under her breath.

"Your claims are invalid Shade and your argument was pointless!" growled Marik "Next time you want to argue with me, have a valid point instead of just giving me pure space crap!"

"OK! OK!" said Knuckles hastily "You've proven your point Marik! Shade's sorry she accused alright?!"

Shade shot Knuckles a glare, suggesting that she wasn't sorry she accused Marik after all.

"I apologize for digressing so needlessly Knuckles." said Marik "Now back onto Bunnie, if she can prove to me at all that her claims are true then I will be convinced she's innocent."

"How can ah prove ah'm innocent if Devion destroyed the only evidence ah had?" protested Bunnie desperately.

"That's your problem you filthy bunny!" retorted Marik "You can't prove yourself innocent so therefore, you are guilty of treachery and this interrogation is over!"

"Not so fast Marik." said Nicole the Lynx quickly "Maybe the security tapes at the MPD station can prove Bunnie right. If there's recorded evidence of another voice and Devion removing something from Bunnie's arm then that can prove Bunnie's innocent and her claims are true."

"That's a good idea Nicole." said Bunnie "Like ah said, when ah arrived in Devion's cell, a Devatron voice rang out from the device planted on mah arm and told him what was happening and after the Devatron made me fix Devion, Devion took the device off mah arm and for some reason, it knocked me out when it was removed."

"That might explain why you were sleeping when General Chipper dragged you back here." mused Sally.

"Here's something I've noticed that nobody else seems to have." put in Ruben the Water Panther.

"What might that be then Ruben?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian "Please tell us."

"Bunnie's body was just fine UNTIL she fought that one Devatron that came here this afternoon." noted Ruben "Then after that, she suddenly starts playing up and this happens. Earlier in the afternoon, she broke Tails' welding tool and supposedly claimed her limbs did it themselves and then all of the sudden, she goes down to the MPD station and frees Devion and claims to have been controlled. Doesn't this all seem like a weird coincidence to anyone? Or am I just over-analyzing everything?"

Everybody, even Marik stopped and thought for a moment on Ruben's analysis.

"Those are very good points Ruben." said Cosmo "Bunnie was OK until the Devatron fought her and then her body acts strange. That proves Bunnie's claims are correct."

"Miss Rabbot is innocent after all." said Cream happily "Hooray!"

"Chao!" piped in Cheese the Chao, Cream's little pet.

"Not it doesn't you disgusting little Seedrian!" growled Marik, jamming his face into Cosmo's face and making her feel nervous "How do we know that Bunnie and the Devatron weren't just fighting to put up a pretence and really, they're working together in helping Devion? That voice Bunnie claims to have heard from her arm must have obviously been a communicator, not a controlling device!"

"You stay away from Cosmo you creep!" yelled Tails, pushing Marik away from Cosmo "And what you're saying is pure stupidity Marik! Why would Bunnie be working with the Devatrons when they're trying to kill us all and conquer our planet?"

"Traitors can do very extreme things Tails, even betray their entire world and help someone conquer it or destroy it without a care for anyone." noted Marik "And while I don't know what Bunnie does behind her backs, for all we know the Devatron she fought might have contacted her and asked for an alliance."

"If that happened, ah would have reported it to ya'll." retorted Bunnie "And ah would have said no to the alliance if ah had been offered it."

"You would say that wouldn't you riffraff?!" growled Marik.

"Marik! That's enough!" screamed Sally "We're going to study the recorded security camera footage from the MPD station and find out if Bunnie's claims are true and that's the end of it so everybody please be quiet!"

Marik fumed at Sally furiously, his eyes were twitching furiously and his fingers were itching to close around her throat and strangle her. But Marik did as he was told and he shut up while Sally phoned the MPD station. He just though Sally was wasting time and he looked forward to what happened when Sally's studies came up with nothing. Sally phoned the MPD station and General Chipper answered her.

"Hello?" he asked.

"Hi General Chipper, may we please see the recorded security footage of what happened a few minutes ago?" asked Sally "We're hoping to find out if Bunnie's innocent or not."

"OK." said General Chipper "I'm sending the footage directly to the computers of the centre which you're currently stationed in. You're wasting your time though. The footage won't tell you anything different from what we've stated."

Sally sighed loudly. Why did everybody but her and the Royal Fighters seem to be against Bunnie right now even though she's been on their side for months on end?! Sally hung up and General Chipper sent the tapes to the computer screens that flashed brightly in the darkness of the room. The tapes arrived in the email box and Sally opened the email. She clicked on a file marked "security tapes" and she played them. She watched the tapes very closely and kept a keen eye out for anything useful to her. One bit of footage was filmed from the front of Bunnie and it showed her knocking Melchett out, and interestingly enough, looking very guilty about it. That must mean she didn't want to do that but had been forced to by something. Then she watched the next bit of footage. This was filmed in the cell blockade and the camera was facing Devion's cell. She couldn't quite see what was going on in Devion's cell since the camera was mounted in the ceiling and the position it was in didn't give Sally a clear view of inside the cell. The security footage had recorded audio too and Sally listened to it very closely. What she heard was concrete evidence that Bunnie was innocent:

"Well, it appears a Royal Fighter has come to taunt me on my imprisonment before getting some much needed sleep." came the voice of Devion from within his cell "Taunt away if you will, I am incapable of punishing you for it."

"Devion, I have come here to get you back online." came Tronic's voice which was ringing out from Devion's cell and from Bunnie's arm.

"Tronic?" mused Devion "So my loyal servant knows of Raicor's treachery and has come to get me working again so that I may take my title back and kill Raicor for his treasonous ways? Truly meritorious this is. I do not believe in fate but it seems fate is on my side once again."

Sally's eyes narrowed down to gleeful slits as if she was thinking "Bingo! to herself.

"I must commend you on using a nuvo-body-controlling link on a Mobian in order to fix me without having to do it yourself and risk getting found out by Raicor." came Devion's voice again "That way the Mobians will accuse this cyborg specimen of treason and begin grilling her instead of trying to recapture me. Tronic, you will become my new second in command once Raicor is finished off."

"Thank you Devion." droned Tronic's voice from the device.

The Mobians all gasped in surprise and they all smirked at Marik whereas Marik couldn't believe his ears. He'd been wrong about the whole thing and he'd failed to prove Bunnie guilty! It seems he can't beat Sonic and friends at ANYTHING, not even an interrogation!

Marik resisted the urge to throw a fit over this and instead, threw his arms up in defeat and wailed angrily.

"Fine! I was wrong! Mock me to the contents of your very hearts if you will!" he grumbled "Bunnie's innocent and I made a total fool out of myself! Go on! Mock me!"

"I would Marik but I don't think it's worth it now." snickered Sonic "I knew Bunnie was innocent all along and I'm glad all my friends agreed with me."

"And I'm glad I was right on the fact body-controllers can actually exist." gloated Dr. Eggman "I knew I was right about them. I'm amazed the Devatrons are the ones that have made them though, their technology is quite advanced isn't it?"

"Well, from that lovely piece of evidence," said Sally with a smile "We can safely declare Bunnie not guilty and she will not be arrested and put on trial for this."

With that said, she happily went over to Bunnie and un-cuffed her wrists and ankles. Bunnie stood up from the chair happily and the Royal Fighter all went over to give her some friendly hugs each to show how happy they were she was innocent.

"Ah'm so glad ya'll believe me now!" cried Bunnie "Thank ya'll for givin' me a chance and listening to me unlike Marik the Martian who was willing to have me arrested regardless of what ah said!"

"Don't mention it Bunnie." said Sonic "You all stood up for me when I was put on trial so I was returning the favour. Besides, I believe in all of my friends, even if it seems they're guilty. This hedgehog is always willing to listen to reason instead of jumping to stupid conclusions."

"Hooray! You're innocent!" cheered Cream "I'm so glad you were telling the truth!"

"I didn't lose faith in you at all Bunnie." said Cosmo.

"Nether did I luv." said Geoffrey with a sly smirk and a wink of the eye that made Bunnie blush "I knew you couldn't have done something like that under your own motives."

"I'm more too glad over the fact Marik was sorely proven wrong then anything." said Knuckles with a smug smirk on his face "Still, I'm glad you were right Bunnie."

"Well everybody, now this silly business is over, let's all get back to sleep so that we can rest up and be ready to fight the Devatrons again tomorrow." said Sally "We're gonna need to be at our best if we're to start fighting the Devatrons again."

"I agree Sally…yawn…" yawned Sonic "If I don't get enough sleep, my running is not at it's best."

"You still can't fight anyway." noted Sally "Your back's not fully healed yet."

"Not to worry Sally." said Dr. Eggman "I have an invention that shall get Sonic back in fighting condition."

"Really?" said Sonic.

"Yes Sonic." said Eggman "Something I've been building in secret since I've been here in order to surprise you. You'll see what it is tomorrow."

"Sounds great Eggman." said Sonic "Well, goodnight everybody."

"Goodnight Sonic." said his friends as they crawled back down into their sleeping bags and prepared to fall back asleep.

Sonic lay down in his sleeping bag and closed his eyes. He couldn't wait to see what invention Eggman had built for him in order to get him back in fighting condition again. He hoped it would be effective and that it would work to perfection otherwise he wouldn't be in tip-top form. He began to wonder what was happening with Devion now he's free and probably back at The Doombringer . He imagined that since Raicor had overthrown Devion, they were likely beating the tar out of each other…

…and of course, that's what they were doing. Devion and Raicor were locked in mortal combat with each over the title of leadership. Tronic was watching the whole fight from the cockpit window. Devion and Raicor were evenly matched so far and they were just clashing weapons with each other at lightening speed. Devion swung his sword and Raicor swung his staff and they clashed loudly as they hit each other, sending sparks flying and the clash of their weapons ringing in their audio receptors. Devion raised his sword up high and he swung the sword downwards at Raicor. Raicor raised his staff and blocked the attack. Raicor then kicked Devion in the gut while their weapons were pushing against each other. Devion staggered backwards and Raicor tried to stab him in the visor but Devion blocked the attack with his sword. The prongs on Raicor's staff were around the blade of Devion's sword as Devion kept it away from his visor. Devion then sharply twisted his sword to one side and yanked the staff out of Raicor's grasp. The staff was thrown down onto the ground and Devion swung his sword at Raicor. Raicor blocked the blow with his arms held out in an X shape and he pushed Devion back. Raicor picked up his staff and he slashed Devion across the chest but given his invulnerability, it didn't do any damage. Raicor then thrust the staff at Devion's neck but Devion swung his sword upwards and blocked the attack. Devion slashed Raicor across the face with his sword, the tip of the sword just narrowly skimming his visor, and then he gut punched Raicor with his other hand. Raicor doubled over and Devion elbowed him down onto the ground. Raicor was now lying squat on the ground and Devion kicked him up into the air. As Raicor hurtled upward, Devion slashed at him and left a serious gash on Raicor's arm. Devion's sword was one of the few things that can come close to penetrating Devatron armour. Raicor landed painfully on the ground and he clutched his arm. Devion stood over Raicor and he prepared to slice Raicor's head clean off with his sword but Raicor caught the blade in-between his hands and stopped it before it could touch him. Raicor tugged on the sword and pulled Devion down on to the ground beside him. Raicor quickly leaped back up to his feet and he spread out his great chrome wings and he flew towards Devion with a mighty flap of the wings. Devion picked himself up but Raicor flew into him and grabbed him. He flew up into the air and he threw Devion directly into the ring wall around NewMobotropolis. Devion crashed into it and left a large imprint of himself on the wall. Devion picked himself up and jumped out of the way just as Raicor dive-bombed towards him. Because of this, Raicor ended up crashing into the wall just as Devion dodged him and he almost went right through it. Before Raicor could get out of the wall, Devion grabbed Raicor by the neck, pulled him out of the wall and threw him across the battlefield. Raicor spiralled through the air and he crashed down and skidded to a halt. Devion began advancing towards Raicor with a killer look in his eye.

"Raicor, cease your senseless fight and just accept your penance already." said Devion "You know you cannot refute me."

"I will not accept my penance Devion!" retorted Raicor, picking himself up and turning around to face Devion "Why should I be destroyed when all I'm doing is looking out for the army and doing it a favour by disposing of you?!"

"Disposing of me will do more damage then good." said Devion coldly "And you're looking out for yourself Raicor. The army does not wish doom on me, only you do and I will not tolerate that among my ranks. Now stand down and face your sentence!"

Raicor just promptly deployed his arm cannons and shoot Devion in the legs. Devion's legs were taken out from underneath him and he was brought down onto his stomach. Raicor picked up his staff and he tried to plunge the staff into Devion's neck but Devion rolled out of the way, causing Raicor to embed it into the ground. Raicor tried to pull the staff out of the ground, giving Devion ample time to get back to his feet and retrieve his sword, which was lying nearby. Devion grabbed it and he charged towards Raicor with his sword raised above his head. Raicor yanked his staff out of the ground… only to have it sliced in two by Devion's sword. Raicor now had two three pronged weapons in hand because his staff had just been sliced in half. Devion lunged at Raicor with his sword but Raicor blocked himself with his staff halves. Raicor pushed Devion backwards and he put one of his staff halves away. Devion lunged at Raicor but Raicor caught his wrist with two of the prongs on his staff half, causing Devion to drop the sword, and he threw Devion over onto his back. Devion groaned in pain and he clutched his wrist. Raicor grabbed Devion's sword and prepared to kill the Devatron leader with it but Devion deployed his arm cannon and shot Raicor in the face before he could make the killer blow. Raicor dropped Devion's sword and he clutched his face in agony. Devion grabbed his sword and he sheathed it. He lunged at Raicor and tackled the second-in-command down to the ground. He then stood up, still holding Raicor, and he threw Raicor into the hull of The Doombringer . Raicor picked himself up just as Devion ran towards him and prepared to punch him in the face. Raicor dodged the attack and kicked Devion in the beak. Devion clutched his beak in pain, giving Raicor time to roundhouse punch him a couple of times and then uppercut him. Devion retaliated with a roundhouse punch to the face and he grabbed Raicor by the shoulders. He pecked Raicor in the neck, the attack making Raicor cry out in pain but it didn't kill him since Devion didn't embed his beak into his neck far enough. Devion was about to peck him again but Raicor smacked him with the side of his head. Raicor then shrugged Devion off of him and he roundhouse punched him in the side of his head. Devion staggered backwards and Raicor leaped up and dropkicked Devion in the face. Devion was brought down onto his back and Raicor deployed his arm cannons. He began to shoot Devion relentlessly with his cannons but, given his invulnerability, the shots didn't do anything. They were powerful shots though and Devion was finding it hard to stand up and push his way through the shots. But the Devatron leader was not about to let his second-in-command defeat him so he willed himself to move on. Devion got back to his feet and he deployed his own arm cannons. He began firing back at Raicor and since his shots were stronger, they hurt Raicor more then Raicor's shots were hurting him. Devion then got a well aimed shot at Raicor's chest and he fired. The shot hit Raicor's chest and he was thrown backwards across the battlefield. Raicor landed on his back and he began to wonder what had hit him. Devion charged towards Raicor just as Raicor was standing back up and Devion gave him a powerful sucker punch to the muzzle that left a heavy dent and sent Raicor hurtling backwards. Raicor was now lying on his side and clutching his damaged muzzle. Devion advanced on Raicor and he drew out his sword.

"You've often had cases of trying to impress me Raicor." said Devion "And today, you have. Such a pity that I have to terminate you for treason against me."

He raised the sword high above his head and he prepared to slice Raicor's head off. But Raicor wasn't down yet. He deployed his arm cannon and he shot Devion's hands, making him drop the sword and clutch them in pain. Raicor then roundhouse punched Devion and sent him flying backwards across the battlefield. This gave Raicor enough time to retreat into The Doombringer . Raicor ran back onto the ship as fast as he could and Devion picked himself up. Devion growled furiously and he ran after Raicor. Tronic had a feeling Raicor was up to something so he left the cockpit and he ran over to the nearest lift possible and took it down to the bottom floors of The Doombringer . Devion entered the ship and he looked around for Raicor.

"Hiding from your enemies in your own territory is a sign of weakness Raicor!" said Devion "Do you want to be forever remembered as being a weak Devatron?!"

"I'm not hiding from you out of fear Devion." came the gruff voice of Raicor as Devion entered the ship "This is an ambush and you've fallen for it!"

He then leaped out of his hiding place and tackled Devion down to the floor. He picked Devion up and threw him into the wall. Raicor then drew out his two staff halves and he plunged them into the wall around Devion's wrists. This in turn pinned Devion to the wall and left him helpless and at Raicor's mercy. Raicor picked up Devion's sword and he pointed it directly at Devion's visor.

"Now Devion, I shall do what I should have done in the first place." growled Raicor gruffly "Killed you the moment I disabled you!"

Raicor drew the sword back and he was about to plunge it into Devion's visor but he was stopped by a couple of missiles that fired from nowhere and struck him in the side, throwing him off his feet. It was Tronic! Tronic had arrived at the bottom floor just in time and he hit Raicor with some missiles he fired from his back mounted cannons. Devion was pleased to see Tronic was still loyal to him and was helping him in this battle.

"Raicor. You will not kill our leader." droned Tronic.

Raicor picked himself up and he growled furiously.

"Tronic! Why are you attacking me?!" he demanded "I'm Devion's second-in-command! Any attack on me is treasonous!"

"I am attacking you because you wish to terminate Devion." droned Tronic "I found out after seeing you leave The Doombringer with Devion in hand and after I studied the security footage. You are a traitor Raicor and you will be destroyed for this."

"You haven't got the strength to defeat me Tronic so don't even try to stop me from getting rid of Devion!" growled Raicor.

Tronic just bent down and let Raicor have it with another round of missiles. Raicor was thrown backwards by the blasts and he groaned in pain. Tronic ran over to Devion and he pulled the staff halves out of the wall, freeing the Devatron leader.

"Tronic, your loyalty to me is commendable." said Devion "You will be a great replacement for Raicor. Now, it is time to finish him off."

Devion picked up his sword and he prepared to let Raicor have it. Raicor tried to stop Devion but Devion pinned him down with his foot and he prepared to finish him off. But just as Devion prepared to deliver the final blow, he stopped and he lowered the sword. Devion sheathed his sword and instead, just grabbed Raicor's head and gave it a sharp powerful yank only he was capable of doing, breaking a vital joint in his neck and killing him. Devion got off of Raicor and he picked up his dead body.

"Tronic, see to it that Raicor gets his neck repaired." ordered Devion "I have a change of plan for him."

"What might that be then?" asked Tronic.

"Reboot his memory core." said Devion "Wipe out all his memories and reboot his mind. Raicor will be back to being my loyal servant. And insert a commanding chip into his head to make sure that he stays loyal to me."

"Yes Devion." said Tronic loyally.

Tronic took Raicor's body from Devion and dragged it away. Raicor was too good to kill and leave dead so Devion had decided to kill him in a way that causes the least amount of damage and ensures a chance of bringing him back alive. And with the adjustments Tronic would be making, Raicor would be back to being loyal to him and this time he would STAY loyal to him and no longer try to kill him. And yet, Devion began to think that Raicor's points about his sadism getting the best of him were probably right. Devion went outside The Doombringer in order to fetch his cape and as he did so, he thought on a few things.

"Raicor was wrong to betray me but his points are somewhat legitimate." he mused to himself "Maybe my sadism does get the better of me. Perhaps I should do one of his methods and wipe out the Mobians instead of prolonging their existence and giving them time to counter-attack. They cannot defeat me but you shouldn't really take chances and risk losing it all. Tomorrow, the city they now reside in will burn and they will be all wiped out…"

Devion picked up his cape and he reattached it to his shoulder. His mind was made up. He would take a page from Raicor's books and get rid of Sonic and friends already instead of toying with them for his own amusement. Sonic and friends will burn tomorrow morning…

"Hey Shadow! I haven't seen you around since the world got de-roboticized." cooed Rouge the Bat as she flew down to meet up with Shadow the Hedgehog, a genetic experiment with a lost purpose.

"Hello Rouge. Long time no see." said Shadow dryly.

The next morning had come and Shadow was walking through the thick growth of the Tropical Jungle and Rouge had just caught up with him. Shadow had been spending the past month through the Tropical Jungle looking for answers to his past. Given his luck, he hadn't found a thing and he knew nothing about the Devatron invasion since the Tropical Jungle doesn't have any citizens to hear things from or anything electrical to hear Devion's message when he first arrived.

"So what are you doing around here handsome?" purred Rouge seductively as she landed down beside Shadow.

"I've spent this past month looking for answers to my past." explained Shadow "I've come up empty and I'm just about to search somewhere else. Yourself?"

"Well I was looking for a mysterious ancient artefact that I've heard of." explained Rouge "It's a golden key and it has an unknown power. Treasure hunters everywhere have been searching for it and they haven't found it yet but I'm gonna be the first to find that treasure. But there's something more important then treasure right now."

"Really? What's that then?" asked Shadow.

"Some alien robots known as the Devatrons have invaded Mobius and have taken over New Mobotropolis and are planning to conquer Mobius." explained Rouge "I heard some people over in Grand Metropolis talking about it and I couldn't believe my ears. I decided to read any news about them and those guys sound like they mean business. They've conquered Sonic's home city and forced the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters into exile. I've decided I'm gonna join in with this conflict but I decided to find you first. We're gonna need someone as strong as you fighting those Devatrons."

"So Mobius is under threat from a race of robots called the Devatrons and they've taken over Sonic's home?" mused Shadow "And they wish to conquer Mobius? We cannot allow that. I can't find answers to my past if Mobius is conquered by the Devatrons. I am gonna help Sonic and friends. I've helped them before and I will happily do it again, especially as we're no longer enemies. You coming Rouge?"

"Of course I am Shadow." said Rouge coyly "How can I find treasures and priceless artefacts if the world's conquered? Let's get going Shadow!"

Shadow agreed instantly and he grabbed Rouge's arm. He zoomed off on his jet shoes as fast as he could possibly go and he set course for New Mobotropolis. Sonic was going to get some much needed assistance from him and Rouge and hopefully, they will be able to help turn the tides of the battle against the Devatrons…

Looks like Sonic's getting some assistance! But will Shadow and Rouge be able to help them? And is Devion gonna destroy Empire City and the Royal Fighters? Looks like you're gonna have to wait and find out next time...

Hey Pandamonium, what are your top 10 favourite OCs from this story? If you can, please answer.

So Erin D. I've read your fanfics and I must say, they're pretty good. Team Radical and The Wild Gang are cool OCs. I look forward to seeing your Sonic X-treme fic and I'm flattered to hear I've inspired you to make your own Sonic story!

Story 110: Data on the Doombringer

Despite their sleep being interrupted by Tronic using Bunnie to reactivate Devion and free him from prison, the Royal Fighters, Team Chaotix, Marik and Dr. Eggman had all had a decent sleep and they were all charged up and ready to fight the Devatrons once again. After everybody had woken up and gotten changed out of their night clothes, Dr. Eggman finished his new Metal Sonic model and got out his new invention for Sonic and he proudly showed it to him. The invention was merely a flexible steel rod with two clamps, one on top and one on bottom. Sonic looked at it and he wondered what on Mobius it could possibly do.

"This here Sonic is your ticket to being able to fight again while your back heals up." said Dr. Eggman, Metal Sonic standing silently beside him "It's a back-stabilizer. When you wear it, it'll provide corrective support for your back and allow you to fight as normal without any hindrance and without damaging the spine anymore then it already has been. It's flexible so you'll be able to spin-dash and do anything else you can do."

"Really?" said Sonic "Wow, you can build anything can't you doc?"

"Yes I can Sonic." said Dr. Eggman "I first built this back in 2135 in order to fix my grandfather Gerald Robotnik's back problem and I've built one for myself should I ever need it. And since you need one, I built one for you. Once the Devatrons are beaten and pushed back from Mobius though, I'll be taking it back so that I can hinder you. Ha, ha, ha!"

"Coward." muttered Marik "Instead of fighting Sonic yourself, you're just going to take advantage of his crippled state? I know I'm evil but even I will not stoop down to that level! We Martians are not afraid to fight to the end and we would never do something as cowardly as that!"

"Shut up Marik." muttered Dr. Eggman.

"I'd like to see you try and get this back from me." said Sonic snidely, taking the device from Eggman "You'll never catch me. So how do I put this on?"

Eggman took the device back off Sonic and he made Sonic turn around. Eggman clamped the top clamp around Sonic's neck and the bottom clamp around his waist. The rod ran straight down Sonic's back as straight as a ruler. Sonic's back had never felt so straight before and Sonic felt much better with the device supporting his healing spine. Sonic began to do some stretches and like Eggman said, the device was flexible and it flexed with his body as he moved around.

"This is pretty cool Eggman." said Sonic "Thanks."

"It's pretty snazzy bristle nose but woe betide you should the device have some catch to it." warned Mandy Mouse "It better not be a mind controlling device in disguise or something like that!"

"Spare me your overly cautious tone Mandy." sneered Dr. Eggman "I can assure you it's not a mind controlling device. It is a back-stabilizer and it's used for stabilizing people with crippled backs like poor Sonic."

"Well do you think you could make one for Thomas Tiger from the Megapolis Royal Fighters since his lil' ol back is broken?" asked Bunnie.

"No Bunnie." said Dr. Eggman "It stabilizes crippled backs. It will not be of any use to anyone with a broken back. Besides, according to Sally, he was crippled at the base of his spine, meaning his legs are of no use to him anymore. All the back-stabilizer would do to Thomas is stabilize him, not have him functioning again."

"Oh right." said Bunnie "So poor Thomas will be forever crippled since broken backs can't be fixed."

"Nevertheless, we're very grateful to Dr. Eggman for making this thing for Sonic out of the kindness of his heart so that Sonic may fight again." said Sally "Although he's only doing it so that we may beat the Devatrons. I can only hope that that act of kindness spreads to more then getting Sonic back in the game."

"Don't bet on it Sally." sneered Dr. Eggman.

"I'm not." said Sally "So, has anyone got any ideas on how we're gonna beat those Devatrons?"

"I have one." said Tails eagerly "And it involves my newest invention which I managed to finish before bedtime last night, even though a Devatron delayed my completion time by making Bunnie break the welder."

He showed everybody his new invention which looked like a metal backpack. It was box shaped and it had straps on it, meaning it was obviously intended to be worn like a backpack. It had an opening compartment for tools and such that could be stored inside and it had some kind of aerial wobbling around on the top. The Mobians seemed impressed by it whereas the villains weren't that convinced.

"Tails, as pretty as your gizmo looks, how exactly is that going to help us?" demanded Marik crossly "It's a metal backpack! What good is it to any of us?!"

"Well Marik, this "backpack" is actually a sensor scrambling relay carrier." explained Tails "It can scramble signals and radars of anything in the world and it can be doubled as a backpack. In the carrier…"

Tails opened the compartment and he took out what looked like a traditional USB drive only more hi-tech and futuristic looking with blue decals on it and a slot that had an unusual shape.

"…we have a size-adapting USB drive." Tails carried in "It's schematics are mostly the same as that of a normal USB drive but this drive has a slot that can change it's size and shape should it need to. It's equipped with sensors that immediately scan the slot it's being plugged into and the slot will transform into the size and shape needed to fit into slot so no matter where we go, we can plug this into anything."

"Fascinating." said Marik sarcastically "Now can you tell us why the ruddy hell we need a jumping USB drive?!"

"Isn't it obvious Marik?" asked Knuckles "Tails is using that techno-doodad to get some information. Information that can help us beat the Devatrons."

"That's right Knuckles." said Tails "We're going on The Doombringer and with this handy dandy drive I've invented, we can plug it into The Doombringer 's mainframe and download any information they have and we will use it against them…if there's any helpful information in the ship's mainframe that is."

"And with Tails' little signal-scrambling backpack, the Devatrons will not see us coming because their ship's sensors won't pick us up." said Mandy brightly "Genius! The Devatrons won't see us coming! Ha, ha, ha! Oh they're in so much trouble now!" she added, cracking her knuckles.

"Time to pay them back for kicking us out of New Mobotropolis, exiling us to the wilderness, burning down Knothole, injuring Thomas, Vector and Sonic and killing Kate!" declared Wilson, deploying his spinning blade weapon "The Royal Fighters will win again!"

"And you will be having a couple more helping you win." came a deep, youthful sounding voice that sounded all too familiar to the heroes and villains in the research centre.

Everybody turned to face the door only to find Shadow the Hedgehog and Rouge the Bat standing at it. They both entered the lab and Sonic stared at them in surprise. But his face brightened up at the sight of them and he ran over to greet Shadow.

"He-hey! Shadow!" laughed Sonic "Good to see you back again you walking powerhouse!"

"Good to see you too faker." said Shadow with a smirk on his face.

"Long time no see blue boy." cooed Rouge playfully "It feels good seeing you with my own eyes again after I was de-roboticized along with the rest of Mobius when Eggman roboticized it all."

"It's nice to see you back to normal again Rouge." said Sonic.

"Well if it isn't my former lackey!" sneered Dr. Eggman "Long time no see Shadow the Hedgehog. And Rouge the Bat too."

Shadow glowered at Dr. Eggman but he didn't bring himself to slaughter him on the spot even though he gravely desired to do so.

"Why is he here?" demanded Shadow angrily "Please do not tell me that you've allied yourself with him!"

"Wrong way round actually." said Shade the Echidna "Dr. Eggman is assisting us in defeating the Devatrons and so is Marik the Martian."

Shadow turned to face Marik, the Martian folding his arms and glaring at him. Shadow remembered Marik all too well, he was the first person he'd ever had a confrontation with and it ended well for him and not so well for Marik.

"Hello Shadow." growled Marik tensely.

"Hello Marik." smirked Shadow "How's the arm?"

Marik just frowned at Shadow and felt like he wanted to break HIS arm just for saying that to him. It pained him to think about the time Shadow had broken his arm after beating him.

"Yes, we all know each other, blah, blah, blah." said Sonic quickly "Why are you here Shadow and Rouge?"

"To help you beat the Devatrons of course Sonic." purred Rouge "Do you really think we're content with them conquering our world?"

"Well if you wanted to help us then what took you so long?" asked Sally "It's been eight days since they landed! The whole world knows about them since Devion broadcasted his message everywhere!"

"I've spent the whole time in the Tropical Jungle on my quest to find answers to my past." explained Shadow "I've only just heard about them now since the jungle has no locals to hear from and no technology to broadcast anything."

"And I've been treasure hunting." said Rouge "I heard about the Devatrons after overhearing some people talk about them in Grand Metropolis so I read the news about them and decided to come and help. I went looking for Shadow first since we're gonna need Shadow to help us in this fight."

"What have we missed out on besides the conquest of New Mobotropolis?" asked Shadow "Rouge knows about that and she told me about it."

"Well the Devatrons crippled one of the Megapolis Royal Fighters for life, they injured Vector but he's back on his fight and waiting to kick butt again, they crippled my back but Knuckles fixed it and now Eggman's given me this device to support my back while it heals, Kate the Eagle's dead and Knothole's been burnt down." explained Sonic "Oh and one of our councillors turned out to be a traitor although we haven't heard from him since and one of Devion's cronies disabled him and gave him to us to keep prisoner but another Devatron controlled Bunnie and used her to reactivate him and free him."

"You've been through quite a lot faker." said Shadow "And I'll give my sympathy for poor Kate the Eagle. I met her team before* and I helped rescue their leader Miranda when she got kidnapped as well as destroyed a prison blockade that Eggman runs. Kate was pretty cool and I'm sorry to hear about her death."

"I'm sure Miranda will appreciate that." said Sonic "Anyway, we're so glad that you're coming to join us. I've been thinking about recruiting you into the battle but we didn't have anyway to contact you so we pretty much just waited for you to come and join us."

"Well maybe you should give me some kind of communications device so that whenever you need me, you can give me a call and I will come and aid you in your fights." said Shadow "That would help all of us."

"Once we've carried out my plan, I'll make you an earpiece or something." said Tails.

"Oooh, we appear to have stumbled in on a plan shadow boy." said

Rouge coyly "So foxy boy, what plan has your genius mind concocted then?"

Tails blushed at Rouge's sly remark and he answered her question.

"Eh, heh, heh…ahem, the plan is," explained Tails "We're gonna sneak onto The Doombringer , the Devatron's ship, and we're gonna download their databases and see if any information about them can be helpful to us."

"Sounds like a great plan Tails." complimented Rouge "But won't the Devatrons spot us or something while we're on the ship? I bet that ship's full of them."

"Oh…I didn't think of that." said Tails despairingly.

"I have though." said Ruben the Water Panther.

"Aren't you supposed to be wearing a collar?" asked Shadow.

"I am but it's been stolen by someone whom I thought was my friend." muttered Ruben "Once this Devatron thing's over, I'm going to search for it and get it back. Anyway, everybody but Sonic, Shadow, Tails and Rouge will act as a distraction. We will draw the Devatrons out of the ship and get them to chase us and then we hide and get them to hunt us down. They'll be too busy looking for us to bother about the infiltrators and if we rely on the element of surprise, we may stay on top of them."

"I like that plan." said Amy "I'm gonna hide in Green Hill Zone and Piko-whop them in the visor with my hammer!"

"As much as I'm going to hate playing coward, it's a good plan." said Marik "Provided no one gets killed by the Devatrons and provided we can actually get EVERYBODY to leave the ship!"

"I'm hoping we can at least get the leaders off the ship like Devion and Raicor and those two who stole some lava from MountAdabat." said Knuckles "They're the ones to look out for."

"And so is this so-called "Tronic" who controlled Bunnie and used her to free Devion." said Espio the Chameleon "We're best getting rid of them in particular. If we can get the leaders off the ship and after us, Sonic, Shadow, Tails & Rouge will carry out the infiltration mission undetected."

"And since Eggman's on our side, Katherine won't get in the way and spoil everything like she did before." said Tails with a frown at Katherine who just stood silently beside Eggman along with Metal Sonic.

Katherine did not say anything to him.

"We will need a way of contacting each other." noted Nicole "I mean, how will we know when Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge have completed their mission while we're hiding in Green Hill Zone?"

"That's a good point Nicole." said Tails "I remember seeing a box of ear pieces in the steel cabinet over there. We can use those."

Tails ran over to the cabinet with the sensor-scrambling rely carrier on his back. He opened the cabinet and he looked through the shelves to see if he could find a box of ear pieces like he remembered seeing. He found a box marked with the word "earpieces" and he pulled it down. The scientists who use the research centre often used earpieces so they could stay in touch all over the centre and communicate with any of the other research centres out there. Tails held the box out and everybody grabbed an earpiece each. They put the devices into their ears and switched them on.

"Once Sonic completes his mission, he will tell us and then I will pass the message on to somebody and that person will pass the message onto another person and so on." said Sally "Once we get the message, we will all flee for it as fast as we possibly can and come back here."

"So now we've got a plan, let's go and get some Deva-Data!" cried Vector "Especially since I'm feeling much better thanks to Mariah's medicine I've been taking!"

"Deva-Data?" snickered Charmy "Did you seriously just say that? Ha, ha, ha!"

Vector frowned at Charmy and felt the need to pummel him for that.

"I agree with Vector." said Sonic "Ladies, gentlemen, anti-heroes and villains in the room, let's go and get us some information!"

With that said, the Royal Fighters all left the research centre and ran off to New Mobotropolis in order to carry out Tails' beautiful plan. With Tails' gadgets and the Mobians playing victims of the hunt, this plan was going to be a success and the Mobians would have some information on the Devatrons. Information that would hopefully be of some use to them and would turn the tides of the war into the Mobian's favour…

Things were getting quite busy on The Doombringer . The Devatrons were all preparing for their forthcoming attack which would involve them all bombarding Empire City and destroying the Royal Fighters once and for all. Raicor, the treacherous second-in-command, had been fixed up and rebooted after being killed by Devion last night and he was a completely new Devatron after the modifications Tronic gave him. He was loyal to Devion and had none of his treasonous ways left in him. As punishment for his coup d'etat though, Raicor had been demoted to fifth in command with Tronic taking his place as second-in-command, Triton in third and Steelor in fourth but given Raicor's new personality, he didn't gave a darn about the whole thing. Onboard The Doombringer , the Devatron soldiers were all arming themselves and preparing for the titanic battle that would unfold once The Doombringer took off. Devion had taken some of Raicor's criticisms of him to heart and had decided he wasn't going to take anymore prisoners and now he was just going to finish them off. It was a pity for him he had to cut his fun short but he could always have fun somewhere else once Mobius was his. Maybe the humans from Earth, his next target, would be weaker and therefore, he could toy with them as much as he liked before destroying them.

"Tronic, my new second in command, are the soldiers ready for combat?" asked Devion.

"The soldiers are registering as fully armed up and waiting to destroy the Mobians Devion." reported Tronic "They are reporting their statuses to me as they finish."

"Excellent work Tronic." said Devion " The Doombringer may take off and head to their new place of dwelling. Once there, we shall finally put the Mobians out of their misery before they can get a chance to spring back at me. They have no chance against me but as Raicor has pointed out, I should never take chances with my victims, especially with furry beings that have marvellous attributes like Sonic the Hedgehog."

"I understand Devion." said Tronic "We shall destroy the Royal Fighters and then finally, we shall conquer Mobius and add it to our cosmic collection."

"Indeed Tronic." said Devion "I will take great delight in joining my soldiers in the Mobian's defeat. Such misfortune that I failed to break Sonic but since he has been forced to the sidelines for recovery, he will be incapable of standing to us and providing the Royal Fighters any edge they can possibly get."

Tronic nodded agreeably. The Devatrons were nigh-invulnerable beings with amazing technology and great battle skills, the Mobians stood no chance against them even if some did have amazing powers. But, it seemed that the Mobians were bringing the battle to them because the alarms started blaring loudly, startling Devion for a brief moment. The alarms blared all around the ship and the Devatrons began to wonder what was going on.

"The alarms are sounding!" growled Devion "Are the Mobians daring to attack me before I make my big push?!"

"It seems that they are." droned Tronic "Let us see what is happening outside."

"Yes Tronic." said Devion, touching the side of his head with his claw and switching on his comlink.

"Steelor, Triton and Raicor! Bring a squadron of ten soldiers each with you!" ordered Devatron "I have a feeling we're going to have a resistance from the Mobians before we can begin our attack!"

"Yes Devion." answered Triton.

Devion switched off his comlink and he and Tronic headed off to the boarding ramps to confront the Mobians and finish them off. If it was the Royal Fighters then Devion could just finish them off right now and then use The Doombringer to destroy the rest of them. It would save the ship a job and if the Devatrons were doing it themselves then they can be 100% certain they've gotten rid of them whereas on The Doombringer , they'd possibly be likely to fail at killing them. Devion and Tronic lowered a boarding ramp and they stormed out of The Doombringer with Triton, Steelor and Raicor and thirty Devatron soldiers following them. Devion drew out his golden sword, Tronic drew out his arm blade, Raicor drew out his staff, Steelor drew out his handlebar sword and saw blade and Triton drew out his saw stick. The Devatron soldiers all deployed their arm cannons and they prepared to destroy the Mobians. After leaving The Doombringer , the boarding ramp closed behind them and the Devatrons were met with Sally Acorn, Nicole the Lynx, Dr. Eggman, Katherine, Metal Sonic, Marik, Knuckles, Shade, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Espio, Vector, Charmy, Wilson, Mandy, Bunnie, Geoffrey and Ruben all at once. They were all standing before the Devatrons, ready to fight them all to the bitter end. Devion instantly noticed that Sonic and Tails were absent but he thought he knew why Sonic wasn't here and he theorized that Tails was probably at home keeping him company or something. Devion pointed his sword at Sally and his visor narrowed down to an evil slit that could fit through a closed venation blind.

"Mobians, you are violating your exile order." said Devion coldly "Remove yourselves from our territory before we decided to kill you all."

"I have a proposition Devion." said Sally "I wager a game between us both that'll determine the fate of Mobius."

"And what pray tell would that be then my foolish female?" hissed Devion.

"We will all hide in Green Hill Zone and you will hunt us down." said Sally "If you can successfully find, catch and kill us all then you get to keep New Mobotropolis and conquer the rest of the planet. If not then you must relinquish New Mobotropolis back to us."

"I will not participate in such foolish acts of child's play!" growled Devion "I am not wagering upon who gets New Mobotropolis and I am not wasting my valuable time just playing predator with you all! I will however be quite content just slaughtering you all on the spot right now. Devatrons…"

"Now Wilson & Mandy!" cried Sally before Devion could finish his sentence.

Wilson and Mandy both yanked a black sphere off their belts and they threw them at Devion's feet. The black spheres were smoke bombs and the moment they hit Devion's feet, they exploded and the Devatrons were covered in thick black smoke. But the Devatrons had keen vision and smoke wasn't going to blind them for long. The moment the smoke bombs had been thrown, the Mobians all ran for it as fast as they could. They darted off to Green Hill Zone just as the smoke cleared up. Devion spotted them just as they vanished into the forests of Green Hill Zone. Devion fumed angrily. If they wanted to be hunted then he'd happily give them the satisfaction! Not to mention it made their demise more entertaining for him. As Devion often says, "There's no point to conquest if you do not enjoy it".

"Those Mobians really are signing their death warrants with me." snarled Devion "If they want to play around like foolish little half forms then I will give them the satisfaction. We shall hunt them down and slaughter every last one of them and after that, we shall commence with our global onslaught."

He touched the side of his head and activated his comlink.

"Attention Devatrons on The Doombringer , put the ship on full security and high alert." ordered Devion "Me and the sub-leaders are going hunting."

"Yes Devion." droned one of the soldiers still on the ship.

Devion switched off his comlink and he barked to the sub-leaders and their squadrons "Devatrons, onwards to this forested area!"

The Devatrons all obeyed their leader and they ran off to Green Hill

Zone to hunt down the Mobians and terminate them. The moment the Devatrons entered Green Hill Zone though, Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge all ran out of their hiding place and ran off towards The Doombringer . Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge had been hiding in some thickly grown bushes and they had been ordered to wait there until the Devatrons came into Green Hill Zone. Sonic was pleased to see that Devion and the sub-leaders were all taking part in this hunt, that meant they had something less to worry about in this infiltration. The soldiers wouldn't be too much to worry about since they weren't as capable as the leaders (In the world of villainy, that's ALWAYS the case after all). Tails had his sensor scrambling rely carrier on his back so and it was switched on so The Doombringer wouldn't see them coming. As they ran off to The Doombringer , Sonic couldn't help but feel magnificent as he was running again for the first time since his back had been crippled. It sure did feel good to be on his own two feet and running at top speed once more. Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge all arrived at The Doombringer and they hid under the magnificent but malevolent ship. They looked up at the underbelly above their heads and then they looked back down at each other.

"OK smart boy, how do we get inside?" asked Rouge.

"Well we can't use the boarding ramp since it's closed." said Tails glumly "And I didn't bring any weapons to cut our way into the ship. If only I had a laser stick or something…"

"Or you can use two supersonic hedgehogs that can both conveniently use a spin-dash." said Sonic with a snide grin on his face.

"And wouldn't you know it, you have two supersonic hedgehogs that can conveniently use a spin-dash." said Shadow, playing along with Sonic's joke.

"Oh my gosh! Shadow has a sense of humour!" said Sonic in mock shock "I can't believe my ears!"

Shadow snorted at Sonic for the bad joke but he brushed it off since Sonic was known for doing that and there was no sense in just punching him for it. Shadow and Sonic both curled up into balls and they spin-dashed up into the underbelly of The Doombringer and busted a hole in it. The two hedgehogs landed on the floor of the ship and they looked around for any sign of a Devatron. They were in a long corridor that was empty of any Devatrons at all but it probably wasn't going to stay like that. They would have to be on their toes and keep moving in order to avoid giving the Devatrons a chance of finding them as they were likely to be roaming the corridors for any possible intruders. Devion wasn't here so The Doombringer was likely to be on high alert. Sonic and Shadow began creeping through the corridor while Tails and Rouge flew up through the hole in the underbelly made by Sonic & Shadow and they followed the two hedgehogs. The moment the fliers caught up, Sonic let Tails take the lead.

"OK everyone, Tails will lead us to the ship's cockpit since he's been in here before and he knows where it is." said Sonic.

"Why do we need to go to the ship's cockpit?" asked Shadow.

"That's probably where the ship's database is." suggested Tails "So we're going up to the top floor of The Doombringer to try the cockpit."

"And if it isn't in the cockpit I guess we're gonna try somewhere else." said Rouge "A ship this big has gotta have a database somewhere."

"Keep on the alert for any sign of Devatrons." said Sonic "Those guys are nigh-invulnerable so starting a battle with them is not gonna be a wise idea, especially since this ship's possibly crawling with Devatrons and they'll all overwhelm us with sheer numbers should they spot us."

"We'll keep that in mind Sonic." said Rouge "Provided Shadow doesn't get in over his head and tries to fight them all that is."

Shadow fumed at Rouge but said nothing. Sonic, Tails, Shadow and Rouge all began to creep down the corridor and they kept their eyes peeled for any signs of Devatrons or a lift they could take to the top floor. This mission was going to be a risky one but it was their best chance at victory they had. They needed information about the Devatrons and The Doombringer was probably the only thing that was going to provide them with any so they needed to infiltrate the ship...

Meanwhile, the Mobians had all picked their hiding places in Green Hill Zone and they lay low and waited for the Devatrons to find them so they could ambush them. Some were hiding in bushes, some were hiding behind trees, up trees and even in holes in the ground. The Devatrons would be on one heck of a hunt in the forests of Green Hill Zone and they had about nineteen people to find. It's not like it was going to be a problem for the Devatrons given how they outnumber the Mobians (there's thirty soldiers and the five leaders) and they were much stronger then they were. But if this was a planned ambush then they had to be ready for them since the Mobians knew their weakness and they were likely going to ambush the Devatrons and blind them and, if they had any sharp weapons to stab them through the visor with, possibly kill them. Devion kept his sword at the ready and he began searching for his pitiful resisters. His keen visor scanned his surroundings and he kept note of any possible places the Mobians could leap out and surprise them. Devion looked up a tree, only to see no one there. He continued walking through the forest and he looked out for any of the Royal Fighters.

"You do realize with this putrid game you're playing that you're just delaying the inevitable?" said Devion "Your world will be mine and since your strongest fighter Sonic has been sidelined, you are all severely weakened and will be much easier to defeat. But given your stubbornness, I doubt you're willing to listen to me and will continue being needlessly obstinate."

He then turned to the sub-leaders and gave them an order.

"Steelor, you and your squad will go search this area of the forest." he pointed to his left hand side "Triton, you take your squad to this area," he pointed to his right "And Raicor, you will take your squad straight up the middle." he pointed straight up "Me and Tronic will remain here and search for those fatuous vermin."

"Yes Devion." said the sub-leaders.

Triton, Steelor and Raicor all took their squadrons to the designated areas while Devion and Tronic continued searching around for the Royal Fighters. He wasn't going to find any in this area he was in because the Royal Fighters had gone further into the forest. The sub-leaders were more likely to find the Royal Fighters then Devion and Tronic were. But that wasn't going to stop Devion from trying. He would find those Royal Fighters, even if he had to tear up all of Green Hill Zone to do it. He'd already burnt down Knothole, he would happily burn the whole forest down if necessary…

Triton and his squad were trudging through a section of the forest which had thicker growth then the area they had previously been in. They were bound to find a hiding Mobian around here since the hiding places in this section were just too good to pass up. Triton activated his saw stick and he began churning through thickly grown bushes, low hanging tree branches and vegetation that drooped over the path they were taking. If luck was on his side, he would probably slit a hiding Royal Fighter open while he was cutting things down. He very nearly did too because Amy was hiding behind a rose bush and Triton nearly sliced her head off as he cut through it but Amy had ducked just in time to avoid getting severed. Triton sliced through the rose bush with Amy just inches out of his way and he looked around for the Royal Fighters.

"Come out of your hiding places foolish fighters." boomed Triton "I promise you all your deaths won't be too gory for you all. I'll make sure you perish nice and quickly just to put you all out of your misery."

"Blah, blah, blah! Eat mallet you robotical demon!" shrieked Amy, leaping out of her hiding place and walloping Triton in the back of his head with her mallet.

Triton was thrown down onto the ground by the attack and to add insult to injury, Amy hammer a nearby tree down right on top of him. With one hefty smack, the thin, fragile tree that was withering from old age fell down on top of Triton, his squad leaping back in order to avoid getting crushed by it. Amy laughed at him and she began to run for it before she could get caught. But she heard the sound of the tree being shifted and she looked over her shoulder…only to see an unharmed Triton pushing the tree directly off of him as if it weighed nothing! The impact didn't even dent him! Triton looked perfectly fine save for dirt stains and a few scratches! Amy put her hand to her mouth in shock and she almost dropped her hammer in horror.

"Oh my gosh! I knock a tree down on him and he's STILL intact?!" she shrieked "Those Devatrons really ARE invulnerable aren't they?!"

Triton grumbled at Amy and he picked up his saw stick.

"How care you try to crush me!" he snarled "I'm gonna cut your worthless little heart out of your chest with my saw stick for that!"

That little rant sickened Amy and made her run like hell. But that wasn't going to stop Triton from getting her. Triton swiped his stick and sent the saw blade hurling towards Amy. The saw blade clipped Amy on the leg and made her trip up. Amy winced in pain as her body made sharp contact with the ground and the sting from the lethal cut left on her leg was enough to make her cry but she held it in and just clutched her leg in pain. The saw boomeranged back to Triton and he caught it with the stick. He then advanced onto Amy with his ten soldiers behind him. Amy looked up at Triton in fear, unable to escape from him since her leg had been severely cut and it hurt too much for her to walk on it. Triton smirked at her and he activated his saw stick. The circular saw blade spun around at 250,000RPM and he inched it towards Amy's chest. Amy began to back away in fear. She crawled backwards while staring straight at the saw blade that threatened to claim her life. Her heart began to pound and her head began raining with sweat as Triton's blade inched closer to her.

"Help! Somebody help me!" she whimpered.

"Screeching for aid is futile pinkie." sneered Triton "Your friends are all hiding from us and they are not around to help you."

"Guess again Devatron!" yelled a grizzly voice that Amy was pleased to hear.

Triton was so surprised by that he had no time to ready himself for any possible attack. Vector the Crocodile leapt out of his hiding place and he pounced on Triton. The two landed on the ground but Triton threw Vector off of him by swinging his legs upwards and he sent him flying into a tree. The impact made Vector grimace since his back was still healing and the wound hurt to the touch. The Devatron soldiers all deployed their arm cannons and they aimed them at Vector but ten shurikens all shot out from nowhere and impaled themselves into the Devatron's visors. It was Espio's doing of course, he had been hiding with Vector and he was invisible at this moment so Triton had no idea where the shurikens came from. To add insult to injury, the shuriken all exploded at once, killing the Devatrons instantly for the explosions of the shuriken went into their heads and damaged some vital mechanisms in them. The ten soldiers Triton had all fell to the ground with smoke billowing out of their destroyed visors. Triton was livid with rage and he held his arm up to avoid any possible attack on him. Espio threw a shuriken at Triton but the shuriken pinged off his arm. However, the Chaotix had their back up plan and that was Charmy Bee. Charmy flew down from the tree he was hiding up and he aimed his stinger at Triton's visor. Unfortunately, Triton saw him coming and he leaped up into the air. He grabbed Charmy and threw him down to the ground. Charmy cried out in pain as he hit the ground and Triton was about to land on top of the bee until Vector leaped up and sucker-punched Triton away from Charmy. Triton landed on his side and skidded to a halt with a huge mound of dirt covering his shoulder. Triton picked himself up and he activated his weapon. Espio turned visible and he drew out a pair of kunai. Vector stood by Espio with his fists clenched and Charmy picked himself up and bent down in a battle ready stance.

"Clever tactics you're resorting to Mobians." purred Triton "I commend you on your intelligence. However, even those tactics won't help you. I'm too powerful and too clever for you and we can easily replace those fallen soldiers."

"I'm pretty sure you can gruesome but can the Devatrons replace you when you fall?" sneered Vector "Boys, let's get him!"

Vector, Charmy and Espio all charged towards Triton at once but Triton aimed his saw stick at them and he swiped at them, forcing them all to duck. Triton then activated his jet boosters on his back and he took flight. He circled around behind the Chaotix and he tackled them all to the ground while slashing all three of them across the backs with his saw-stick. Espio, Vector and Charmy were thrown onto their stomachs and they clutched their stinging backs, which had long but thin cuts across them. Amy forced herself back onto her feet and she threw her Piko-Piko hammer at Triton. Triton saw the hammer coming towards him and he sliced the hammer in two with his saw-stick. Amy merely summoned another hammer and she threw it at Triton again but Triton sliced the hammer in two. Triton zoomed down towards the ground with his jet boosters and he rammed Amy to the ground by flying into her. Triton circled around and he landed back onto his feet. He ran towards Amy and Team Chaotix with his weapon in hand but Espio threw a shuriken at his visor. Triton quickly ducked in order to avoid the shuriken and he swung his weapon at the Chaotix. He missed and Vector gave him an uppercut that could make Lord Sycorax feel proud. Triton spiralled through the air from that attack and he crashed into a tree that fell down from the power of that hit and knocked down some other trees nearby. Triton was OK though and he was soon back onto his feet. Vector scooped Amy up and he ran for his life with Charmy and Espio running after him as quick as they could. Triton activated his jet boosters and he rocketed towards the Mobians but they jumped out of his way and they darted inside a nearby log that was big enough for them to sit up in. Triton halted himself and he turned around, only to see his victims were gone. They had obviously gone into hiding again but he wasn't falling for their trap again. He had a clever idea to draw them out. Triton flew up into a tree and he landed on a tree branch and shut off his jet boosters in order to make the Mobians think he'd given up and flown away. He sat still on the tree branch and he waited for the Mobians to come out of their hiding place. In the log, Amy, Vector, Espio and Charmy all waited for Triton to come looking for them but there was only silence. It seemed like Triton had possibly gone but they couldn't be too sure on that. It could be a trick. They listened out intently but they didn't hear anything.

"Do you think he's gone?" asked Charmy.

"I sincerely doubt that." said Espio "I'll turn invisible and see if he's still out there."

Espio turned invisible and he crept out of the log so he could look out for Triton without being spotted. Unfortunately for him, Triton could see the foot steps he was leaving in the dirt near the log. Triton activated his jet boosters and he rocketed towards the log the Mobians were hiding in. Espio jumped and he ran out of the way as Triton headed towards the log. He couldn't quite understand how Triton managed to spot him even though he was invisible. Triton landed directly in front of the log and he activated his saw-stick. He cleaved the log in two straight down the middle, forcing Amy, Vector and Charmy to flee out of the log. Espio lunged at Triton and he ninja-kicked him directly in the head but the attack didn't effect Triton. Triton gave Espio an uppercut that could rival a kung-fu master's and Espio was thrown onto the ground.

"Your running and hiding is getting you know where Mobians." taunted Triton "I'd cease your pitiful running and just fight already."

"If you want a fight then we'll be happy to give you one!" yelled Vector "Let's sick it to him boys!"

Vector and Charmy ran towards Triton with their fists clenched and Espio leaped back onto his feet and prepared to attack. Triton just raised his weapon and prepared to eviscerate them all…

Meanwhile, Steelor and his squadron were looking through a section of the forest that wasn't that thickly grown and had a lot of fallen trees. A lot of the Royal Fighters were hiding behind the fallen trees and they were waiting to attack. Steelor had his weapons at the ready and he prepared himself for any chance of an ambush that would strike out at him. The Devatron soldiers all deployed their gun arms and they kept their sensors alert. The squad all crept past a fallen tree, which unbeknownst to them had Wilson and Mandy hiding behind it. Wilson and Mandy poked their heads out from behind the fallen tree and they watched the Devatrons creep by them. Everything was going according to their plan.

"They haven't spotted us." whispered Wilson "Should we spring our trap?"

"Anytime you like cute stuff." said Mandy "You'd best hope your aim's as good as you need it to be."

Wilson nodded and he unsheathed his spinning blade weapon. He leaped out of his hiding place and he yelled out at the top of his voice.

"Hey Devatrons!"

Steelor and his squad stopped directly in their tracks and they turned around to face the orange dog in the combat suit. Wilson threw his spinning blade weapon like a javelin and it hurtled through the air and it impaled a Devatron straight in the visor, killing it instantly. The soldier fell down onto it's back, no longer functioning. Steelor growled furiously and Wilson ran over to the dead Devatron to retrieve his spinning blade. But the soldiers weren't willing to let him have it back. They all pointed their gun arms at Wilson and began shooting rapidly at him. Wilson yelped like a frightened dog and he ran for it as fast as he could. Mandy decided it was time she got her hands dirty and she leaped out of her hiding place. She had her brass knuckle attachments on and she ran towards the Devatrons with her fists clenched. The Devatrons saw her coming and they began shooting at her. Mandy somersaulted out of the way of the blasts and she turned around and ran away, getting the Devatrons to chase her. She was hoping they'd follow her and give Wilson a chance to retrieve his weapon but Steelor was a lot smarter then that. He grabbed Wilson's weapon and he yanked it out of the dead Devatron. But he wasn't going to keep it for long since Wilson and Mandy weren't the only ones he and his soldiers had to worry about. Marik the Martian, Metal Sonic, Katherine and Ruben were all nearby and they came out of their hiding places. Marik fired a jolt of electricity at Steelor and the zap made Steelor jump and drop Wilson's spinning blade. He turned around and charged towards Marik with his handlebar sword at the ready. This gave Wilson perfect time to retrieve his weapon and he ran off to help his wife. Metal Sonic, Katherine and Ruben all ran off after Wilson to help Mandy while Marik stayed with Steelor and did battle with him.

"So the Mobian's Martian friend is back again." snorted Steelor "As if that's gonna be of any help to them."

"You'll regret saying that when I make scrap metal out of you Devatron!" growled Marik.

He charged towards Steelor and he clawed him across the torso with his metal claws. But his claws didn't even lay a scratch on the Devatron's tough armour. Steelor sheathed his weapons and he gut punched Marik. Marik doubled over and he wheezed hoarsely in pain. Steelor picked Marik up by his head and he gut-punched him twice and then he threw him up into the air. He drew his arm back and roundhouse punched him into the ground just as he was coming back down. Marik crashed into the ground and he groaned in pain. Steelor drew out his handlebar sword and he prepared to pin Marik to the ground with it but Marik picked himself up and he knocked Steelor down with an energy wave. Steelor wasn't down for long. He picked himself up but Marik leaped up and kicked him in the gut. The attack sent Steelor hurling backwards but he skidded to a halt and he braced himself for another attack. Marik ran towards Steelor and he jumped into the air. He was about to let Steelor have it with an electrical shock (he doesn't know electricity doesn't work on them) but Steelor backhanded him with his free hand and knocked him down into the ground. Steelor then attempted to stab Marik with the handlebar sword but Marik leaped back up and he zapped Steelor in the visor. The attack appeared to hurt Steelor but his visor was OK. Marik then uppercut Steelor and kicked him hard in the leg. Steelor elbowed Marik directly on top of his head and knocked him down onto his knees and he kicked Marik across the ground. Marik landed on his feet and he was bent down in a ready-to-lunge pose. Steelor prepared to fight again while Marik leaped at him, snarling at the top of his voice…

As for the others, Mandy had been cornered by the soldiers. She was backed against a tree with the soldiers ready to shoot her and kill her. But Mandy wasn't scared at all. She just made some "come get some" gestures with her hands and dared them to do their worst.

"Go on. Shoot me." she dared "You'll only live to regret it since I have a cute little husband who will be very upset with you when you kill me."

The soldiers just scoffed off her warnings and they shot at her. Mandy ducked down quickly, causing them to shoot the tree and knock it down to the ground. Mandy then leaped towards one Devatron soldier and she roundhouse punched it in the face. The soldier staggered backwards and Mandy kicked it into another soldier. The two soldiers ended up sprawling on the ground. One Devatron soldier retracted his cannon arms and he ran up towards Mandy. He punched at Mandy but Mandy dodged and punched the Devatron in the visor, cracking it and leaving it's vision unclear. Another soldier however sneaked up behind Mandy and grabbed her around the neck.

"Ack! Let me go you gruesome, malevolent monsters!" she gagged as the Devatron soldier grabbed her in a chokehold.

The Devatron obliged but not in the way she was hoping. The Devatron picked Mandy up with both hands and threw her towards another soldier. The Devatron leaped up and fist-slammed her into the ground. The mouse groaned in pain but the Devatrons didn't stop there. The soldier that had fist-slammed her kicked her as hard as he could and the Devatron that threw her to the soldier kicked her even harder. Then the two soldiers deployed their arm cannons and they prepared to shoot Mandy. But Wilson, Metal Sonic, Katherine & Ruben arrived just in time and they began attacking the nine soldiers. Wilson impaled one of the Devatrons that was about to shoot Mandy through the visor with his weapon and he killed it instantly.

"Nobody ever threatens my wife's well-being!" he yelled angrily.

The other Devatron that was about to kill Mandy growled at Wilson and it lunged at the dog. Wilson ducked and he tried to stab that Devatron in the visor but the soldier ducked, the blade of Wilson's weapon just skimming it above the visor. The Devatron soldier then gave Wilson an uppercut that sent the dog staggering backwards and then the soldier deployed his arm cannons and blasted Wilson off his feet. Wilson was thrown down onto the ground beside Mandy and he grimaced in pain. The Devatron then advanced on Wilson & Mandy and it was about to kill them both but Ruben jumped in and kung-fu kicked it away from them. Ruben then turned around and helped Wilson & Mandy get back to their feet.

"You two OK?" asked Ruben.

"Never better." murmured Mandy "At least that plan of yours is going reasonably well for us."

"Yes, we've managed to bring down a couple of soldiers and Espio tells me on my earpiece that he managed to wipe out one of the sub-leader's entire squad." said Ruben "I believe he said it was the Devatron who has that saw-stick weapon."

"That is cool." said Mandy "I wonder how the others will be doing with Devion & Raicor should those two find him."

"Well we'll find out from them since they've got ear pieces and they'll be able to contact us." said Ruben "In the meantime, we should continue fighting off those Devatrons."

With that said, Wilson, Mandy & Ruben ran off towards a trio of Devatrons that waited to snag them. The other five Devatron soldiers were fighting Metal Sonic & Katherine and they were losing badly. They kept trying to shoot the two robots but Metal Sonic was too fast for them to hit and Katherine deployed her barrier so they couldn't hit her. Katherine raised her hands and she fired some bladed discs at the soldiers but the discs just pinged harmlessly off their armour. However, the soldiers had an idea. Two soldiers ran up to Katherine and they kicked her barrier as hard as they could. This attack threw Katherine back as if she was a football being kicked towards the goal. Metal Sonic flew in and tackled the two soldiers down to the ground with a hefty spin-dash. The other three Devatron soldiers began shooting at Metal Sonic but Metal Sonic dodged their attacks and he spin-dashed the three soldiers all at once. The five soldiers all picked themselves up and they tried to shoot Metal Sonic but again, Metal Sonic dodged their attacks with ease and he spin-dashed them all again. One Devatron soldier landed at Katherine's feet and she shot it in the visor with a bladed disc before it could get back up. The soldier was now blinded but that wasn't going to stop it from trying to fight. The blinded soldier picked itself up and it began shooting in random directions. Metal Sonic decided to finish off the soldier by blasting it in the face with his torso laser. The beam of the laser went into the Devatron's visor and fried the mechanics in it's head, killing it instantly. But this gave the other four Devatron soldiers a chance to blast Metal Sonic in the back and throw him across the ground. Metal Sonic landed with a clunk on the ground but before he could get back up, the Devatrons ran up to Metal Sonic and began stomping on him. Katherine however stepped in and saved him by leaping towards the Devatrons and using her deadly drill attack. The Devatrons were all thrown down onto the ground by the attack and Metal Sonic picked himself up. The two robots then charged towards the soldiers again and prepared to unleash hell on them all…

Meanwhile, Raicor's group had ventured all the way to the burnt down remains of Knothole. What had once been a proud forest village was now a smouldering wreck of burnt wood, ashes and destroyed homes. It pleased Raicor greatly to see this kind of ruination and he had a feeling that the Royal Fighters were hiding somewhere nearby since this was their place of dwelling after being exiled from New Mobotropolis. He was going to search this place and kill the Royal Fighters once he found them.

"Soldiers." said Raicor gruffly "Spread out and search this ruined village. The Royal Fighters could be hiding in the remains or somewhere nearby."

"Yes sir." droned the soldiers.

The Devatron soldiers all wondered over to the burnt down village of Knothole and began searching through the charred remains of the beautiful forest village. But what the Devatrons didn't know was that the Royal Fighters weren't hiding in the remains of Knothole at all. They were hiding in the surrounding growth and they were all watching the Devatrons search for them. Knuckles & Shade were watching Raicor as he searched for them and they were confused.

"Why is Raicor still alive?" asked Knuckles "You'd think that Devion would have terminated him for disabling him and then attempting to kill him."

"That's what we thought would have happened." said Shade "I guess Devion decided to let Raicor live and has maybe altered him so he's loyal to him again."

"Well loyal to him or not, Raicor's still going down especially as he plotted to destroy us as well as Devion!" growled Knuckles "You ready Shade?"

"Ready as I'll always be." said Shade, drawing out her twin blades.

Knuckles & Shade then jumped out of their hiding place and they both pounced on Raicor. But Raicor turned around and grabbed them both and threw them into a burnt down home, sending ashes scattering everywhere. The soldiers were alerted by this but before they could attack, Bunnie Rabbot, Geoffrey St. John, Cream, Sally & Nicole all appeared from nowhere and started fighting the Devatron soldiers. Dr. Eggman & Cosmo remained where they were since they couldn't fight. The soldiers immediately opened fire on the Royal Fighters but they all managed to dodge the blasts. Geoffrey began firing exploding darts at the Devatrons but the Devatrons managed to avoid getting hit in the visor since they had the feeling that's what the skunk was trying to do so the darts just ended up pinging off their armour. One soldier fired at Geoffrey's arm and destroyed his arm mounted crossbow, leaving Geoffrey weaponless. But Geoffrey wasn't down and out. He had battle skills on his side to make up for the lost weapon so Geoffrey ran forward to one of the Devatron soldiers and began whaling on it his hardest but the soldier took the blows as if they were nothing and it kneed Geoffrey in the gut. Bunnie however stepped in for Geoffrey and walloped the soldier in the back of its head with her robot arm. The soldier was thrown down onto its front and before it could attack again, Bunnie grabbed it by the neck with her organic hand and deployed her arm cannon. She aimed the cannon at the Devatron's visor and blasted it, killing the Devatron instantly. But one of the Devatron soldiers got the drop on Bunnie by blasting her robot arm. The attack didn't destroy it but it left her arm severely damaged. Bunnie cried out in pain and she clutched her robot arm. She then tried to blast the Devatron but her cannon arm wouldn't work. It was too damaged so Bunnie couldn't shoot anybody with it. Bunnie just retracted her cannon arm and decided to use her fist instead.

"Mah cannon maybe useless now but I can still give ya'll a good whoppin'!" she yelled.

She ran over to the Devatron soldier that blasted her and she gave it a tremendous uppercut to the face that almost took its head off. The soldier was thrown down onto its back but another soldier got the drop on Bunnie by bending down and blasting her with the cannons on its back. Sally and Nicole then leaped in and double-teamed the soldier with a pair of kicks each but their attacks were useless against the Devatron. The soldier socked the two ladies in the face but Geoffrey stepped in and tripped it up. As for Cream, she had Devatron soldiers firing at her but she managed to dodge their attacks by flying around and she threw Cheese at the Devatrons to distract them. The soldiers were unaffected by the attack but Cheese was doing a good job of distracting them. Cream flew around behind one Devatron soldier and kicked it in the back. The Devatron spun around and blasted at the rabbit but Bunnie came in and punched it down onto its face.

Over to Knuckles & Shade, they were double-teaming Raicor with various attacks but neither of them were working on him. Raicor's tough armour protected him from their attacks and to shield himself even more, he used his wings for defence so the echidnas couldn't get to his visor. Knuckles roundhouse punched Raicor but Raicor's wings defended him from the attack and Raicor let Knuckles have it in the gut with a powerful punch. Shade slashed at Raicor but the attack only clipped his face and left a scratch that could easily be buffed later. Raicor kicked Shade as hard as he could and Shade was thrown backwards into a tree. Knuckles leaped onto Raicor's back and began whaling on him but Raicor grabbed Knuckles and threw him off of him.

"I've already killed one of your members, I'll be quite content with killing another!" crowed Raicor, drawing out his six-pronged staff (which had been fixed from the battle last night).

He ran over to Knuckles and prepared to plunge the staff into Knuckles' body but Knuckles acted first and he uppercut Raicor in the chin. He then punched Raicor's leg and brought him down on one knee. Knuckles then punched Raicor in the visor but the punch wasn't powerful enough to break it. Raicor elbowed Knuckles and knocked him down onto the ground but before he could do anything to the echidna, Shade leaped on him and began slashing him across the back with her blades. She was trying to slice his wings off but to no avail. Raicor swung the staff and knocked Shade off his back. He then attempted to stab Shade but Shade Blade-Rushed him and the wave of pink energy hit him in the visor. The attack cracked it and left his vision a little unclear. But Raicor could still see well enough to fight and he slashed Shade with the prong of his staff. Shade clutched her face in pain as she felt the cut she now had on it and Raicor tried to finish her off but Knuckles leaped in and tackled Raicor to the ground, only to get thrown off by him. Shade then leaped in and began to Blade-Rush Raicor as madly as she possibly could. The attacks made Raicor back away but they weren't damaging him in anyway. Raicor decided enough was enough and he walloped Shade with his staff. Knuckles leaped in and pile-dived Raicor in the back, knocking him down onto the ground and Knuckles leaped over to the front of Raicor.

"You maybe plotting to destroy us Raicor but that's not gonna stop us from foiling that plan!" growled Knuckles.

"Devion is the one plotting to destroy you." said Raicor "I'm merely one of his players and I will be quite content being at Devion's side as he destroys you all and conquers Mobius."

It was quite clear to Knuckles that Raicor had indeed been altered by Devion, he doesn't even remember his own plan now! Still, Raicor had to be destroyed so Knuckles lunged at Raicor and prepared to deck him all the way to Kingdom Valley…

Meanwhile, Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge had found a lift and they took it all the way up to the top floors of The Doombringer . They were having a relatively easy time at the moment given how careful they were being on this infiltration and how slowly they were taking it. But this didn't mean their mission was going to continue being easy. Security might be even tighter on the top floors of the ship. The lift arrived and the infiltrators stepped out of it once the doors opened.

"OK, where's the cockpit?" asked Shadow.

"It's just down this corridor." whispered Tails "Be nice and quiet, we don't know what we're gonna encounter around here…"

Shadow just promptly zoomed off and in the blink of an eye, he was at the cockpit. He opened the door to the cockpit and he looked inside. All clear. Shadow stepped out of the cockpit and he signalled the others to come to him. Sonic, Tails and Rouge all ran over to the cockpit and they went inside it. Shadow closed the door behind them and the Mobians began surveying their surroundings. Nothing but Devion's throne, pilot seats, controls and lots of machinery in this cockpit. There were no Devatrons around amazingly enough.

"This is weird, why aren't there any guards around the cockpit?" asked Tails.

"I dunno, maybe Devion doesn't think the cockpit needs guarding." suggested Sonic "Oh well, this makes our job a lot easier."

"So where will we be able to plug that drive of yours?" asked Rouge "I don't see anything it can plug into."

"There's one right there." said Tails, pointing at a drive slot on the arm of Devion's throne "Maybe that's where we can download any information about the Devatrons."

Tails took out the drive from his sensor-scrambler and the drive slot converted into the size and shape needed to plug into the slot on the arm the moment he held it near the slot. Tails plugged the drive into the slot and a screen came up from the arm. That was the Devatron database. Unfortunately, the information on the screen was written in an entirely different language. Devatrons merely adapted the English language from the other races in the universe. They originally spoke a language known as Devatronic and they write things in Devatronic so should their databases be compromised, no one would be able to read the information since nobody knew Devatronic. Sonic frowned at the screen

"What the heck is this?" asked Sonic "It's nothing but symbols and weird stuff!"

"I guess the Devatrons have another language and they write their information in it." suggested Tails "We'll translate it once we get back to Empire City. It must be important info if it's written in a different language."

"Is the drive downloading the info?" asked Shadow.

"It is Shadow and the drive will glow yellow when its finished." explained Tails "We might be here for a while; it depends on how much data is in this database."

The drive seemed to be doing an excellent job on downloading the Devatron database though. It had downloaded one file of info already and was moving onto the next. Unfortunately, a Devatron soldier was pacing down the corridor and it was heading towards the cockpit to check on it. It was in for a shock though once it entered and found it The Doombringer had intruders onboard…

Oh dear! it looks like Sonic's in trouble! Can Tails finish downloading the Devatron database? Or is this plan going to go belly up for them? And how about the others? Will they survive? Tune in next time...

Going Beyond The Stars

Story 111: Going Beyond The Stars

Sonic the Hedgehog, his best friend and sidekick Tails and their two friends Shadow the Hedgehog & Rouge the Bat were all in the cockpit of the Devatron ship The Doombringer and they were downloading some information about the Devatrons from the ship's database. Unfortunately for them, a Devatron soldier was coming down the corridor and heading towards the cockpit to check up on it for it was on patrol duty. The Devatron soldier opened up the cockpit door and it stepped inside. The cockpit door opens up silently so the Mobians didn't hear the door opening up. The Devatron soldier couldn't believe it's visor when it stepped into the cockpit and saw that there were Mobians inside. It saw the drive in the slot and it was downloading the information from the database. The Devatron knew that it couldn't let them download anything from the database since the information on the database could be vital to the Mobians and help them defeat the Devatrons so it deployed it's cannon arm and aimed it at the back of Sonic's head. Unfortunately for the Devatron, Rouge heard it deploying it's cannon arm and she lunged at it with a mighty kick. The Devatron dodged the kick and it swiped at Rouge with it's claws but Rouge kicked the Devatron in the cannon arm. This attack though was a dreadful mistake. The kick had caused the Devatron to accidentally fire it's cannon arm and Rouge had unwittingly kicked the Devatron's arm so it was aiming at the throne arm where the drive was plugged in and downloading. The cannon blast hit the arm of Devion's throne, making Sonic, Shadow and Tails jump back in alarm and the blast destroyed the database in the arm of the throne. Electricity surged and crackled and a large hole had been left in the throne arm after that accidental attack. Thankfully, the drive was still intact…but the database had been fried to the core by the blast. The drive wasn't glowing yellow and Tails looked at the still projected screen. There was only one column of writing, that being the one file that had been downloaded already, and there was nothing else happening on the screen, meaning the download had been interrupted thanks to the Devatron accidentally shooting it and that one file was all they had. They could not get anymore now the database had been destroyed.

"Oh no! The Devatron fried the database!" cried Tails "We can't download any more information then we've already got! That one file's all we've managed to download!"

"I can't begin to describe how much that sucks!" groaned Sonic "One lousy file of info is all we've got! Let's hope it's actually useful!"

As for the Devatron, Rouge screw-kicked it but the attack didn't even harm the soldier and the Devatron just promptly back-handed Rouge directly into a wall. Shadow was livid with rage and he summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand.

"Shadow, throw it at the Devatron's eye!" Tails instructed "That's it's weak spot!"

"Thank you Tails." said Shadow, drawing his arm back and aiming directly at the Devatron's visor.

The Devatron aimed it's cannon arm at Shadow and it prepared to blast him with it but Shadow threw his Chaos Spear at the Devatron before the Devatron could fire. The spear hit the Devatron in the visor and destroyed it. The Devatron wailed in pain as it was blinded and the spear had damaged some of it's mechanisms, leaving the Devatron in great pain.

"OK, what do we do now?" asked Shadow.

"Now we get outta here before more Devatrons come and before we lose the only bit of data we have." said Tails, yanking the drive out of the slot and putting it back into his sensor-scrambling relay carrier "I don't wanna risk this getting shot by a Devatron."

"Humph, I don't like running away from my enemies." muttered Shadow "But we can't lose the data we have. I can always fight those chrome cretins another time."

"You sure can Shadow." said Sonic "And so we don't run into any Devatrons while we escape, we shall get out through the window!"

With that said, Sonic and Shadow both spin-dashed the cockpit window together and they shattered it to pieces. Now the cockpit window was smashed, the Mobians leapt through the broken window and they ran to the edge of the ship's nose. Tails grabbed Sonic, Rouge grabbed Shadow and the two fliers and they flew the two hedgehogs off the top of The Doombringer and they headed down to the ground. The moment they touched down on the ground, they ran off back to Empire City as fast as they could.

"Whew, we made it!" said Sonic "Now let's call the others and tell them mission accomplished…sort of."

"I really hope this one bit of data we have is gonna be really helpful to us." said Tails "If not then our plan's a failure because we can't go back and get some more data after the Devatron just destroyed the database."

"I'm sure those shiny boys will fix it." said Rouge "And then we can go back and download some more if we need to."

As they ran back to EmpireCity, Sonic activated his earpiece and he spoke into it.

"Yo Sally!" Sonic said into the earpiece "It's Sonic here, we've got some Devatron data and we're back off to Empire City."

Meanwhile, Sonic's friends were still fighting the Devatrons in Green Hill Zone. Knuckles, Shade, Bunnie, Geoffrey, Cream, Sally & Nicole were still in heated combat against the reformed Raicor and his nine Devatron servants he had left. They hadn't managed to kill anymore Devatrons since Bunnie's arm cannon had been damaged by a Devatron soldier so she couldn't shoot them, Geoffrey's exploding darts weren't hitting the Devatrons were Geoffrey wanted them to because the Devatrons kept dodging the shots and the girls didn't have any weapons to destroy any Devatrons with so they couldn't destroy any of them. Knuckles & Shade were teaming up against Raicor but Raicor was no mere soldier, he was one of the sub-leaders and although he had been demoted to fifth-in-command, he was a big problem for the Mobians. Knuckles & Shade had been fighting valiantly against him and trying hard to blind him and render him vulnerable but Raicor kept defending himself with his wings so their attacks were ineffective against him and Raicor just struck back with much stronger attacks. Knuckles uppercut Raicor in the chin but the attack didn't seem to hurt him in anyway. Raicor retaliated with a much stronger uppercut that could have broken Knuckles' jaw bones had it been any harder. Shade was livid with rage and she began Blade-Rushing Raicor like mad but Raicor took every attack she threw at him. Raicor just laughed mockingly at Shade. He sheathed his staff and then he deployed his arm cannons. He blasted Shade and sent her flying backwards. Shade hurled through the air and landed back-first on the root of a tree. The blasts had left a few holes in her trademark Nocturnus armour and landing on the tree root had left her back feeling quite sore. Shade winced as she forced herself up into a sitting position and she rubbed her back affectionately. Raicor retracted his arm cannons and he drew out his staff again. He ran up to Shade and he prepared to stab her but Bunnie stepped in and gave Raicor a powerful punch that sent him flying backwards and into a tree. Raicor knocked the tree over but the tree fell forwards instead of backwards and it landed directly on top of him. Thinking that that had finished him off, Bunnie smirked triumphantly and she ran over to help Shade get back up onto her feet.

"Are ya'll alright sugah?" asked Bunnie.

"I'm a little bruised and I feel sore but I'm OK." said Shade, rubbing herself better "Raicor shot me and I landed on this tree root. Ugh!" she groaned as she felt her aching back "Landing on the root really hurt my back!"

"Well ah've caused Raicor to get squished by a tree so he can't bother us anymore." said Bunnie "But we've still got those durn Devatron soldiers to deal with…"

Then suddenly to Bunnie's horror, Raicor threw the fallen tree off himself and he stood back up onto his feet! He wasn't harmed the slightest from the tree falling on him and he didn't even look damaged despite the fact a tree had fallen on him! Bunnie nearly died of shock after witnessing that. Raicor growled at Bunnie and he raised his wings to make himself appear larger.

"It appears the fact about us being invulnerable has escaped your primitive minds." he sneered "Mere plant life cannot crush us! You could squash us with a boulder and we wouldn't be crushed! A tree falling on us is going to have no effect on us you simple-minded cretins!"

"Well will THIS have an effect on ya?!" cried Knuckles, leaping in and socking Raicor in the back of the head.

Raicor fell down onto his hands and knees and Knuckles sailed over him and landed in front of him. Knuckles quickly spun around and punched Raicor in the visor, cracking it even more and making Raicor's vision even more disorientated. Raicor growled for he could barely see properly now and Knuckles began to whale on him some more. But the Devatron soldiers, who had just finished beating up Sally & Nicole, saw that Raicor was in trouble and they all fired at Knuckles. The cannon blasts hit Knuckles and brought him down onto his knees. Raicor then kicked Knuckles as viciously as he could towards the Devatron soldiers so they could deal with him. Knuckles landed at the feet of one soldier and three of them began to stomp on him as viciously as they could as if they were birds stomping on a snake. Sally & Nicole weakly picked themselves up and they watched as Knuckles was getting pummelled by the Devatron soldiers. Geoffrey & Cream ran in to help the echidna and so did Bunnie & Shade but the soldiers began shooting at them to keep them back. Sally forced herself up onto her feet and she coughed heavily.

"Cough! Ugh…Nicole…we're gonna have to…abandon this fight." croaked Sally "We're losing badly out here…"

"I agree…Sally…" said Nicole, clutching her arm "We can't win against…them…the Devatrons are too swift…for Geoffrey to hit with his…exploding darts…Bunnie can't…shoot them and…we don't have weapons…that will be…able to kill them…we can't even blind them…because they're too much…for us…"

But just at that moment, Sally received a call from Sonic in her earpiece. She answered it.

"Hello?" she asked.

"Yo Sally!" came Sonic's voice "It's Sonic here, we've got some Devatron data and we're back off to Empire City."

"Yes!" said Sally weakly "We'll…nugh…be falling back to Empire City…now. Well done…Sonic…"

"Are you OK?" asked Sonic with concern in his voice.

"I'm fine…don't worry about me…" lied Sally "We'll…be coming back as soon…as possible Sonic."

With that said, Sonic switched off and Sally & Nicole started limping away.

"Guys…" said Sally as loud as she could despite her injured state "We're…falling back now!"

"Right now, falling back sounds good to me." said Geoffrey "Let's go mates!"

With that said, Knuckles, Shade, Bunnie, Geoffrey and Cream all abandoned the fight and they retreated along with Sally & Nicole. Cosmo and Dr. Eggman left their hiding place and they retreated along with the others. Unfortunately, Raicor wasn't content with letting them get away. He ran after the retreating Mobians with his soldiers following him close behind.

"Come back here Mobians!" growled Raicor "Come back and come to your deaths!"

"Not in a long shot mate!" cried Geoffrey, turning around and firing some exploding darts at some trees.

The darts all exploded in unison and the explosions caused the trees they had been fired at to fall down on top of the Devatrons. The Devatrons were now stuck under a pile of trees for the moment. This distracted the Devatrons long enough for the Mobians to get away. In order to speed things about, Knuckles & Geoffrey scooped up Sally & Nicole bridal style respectively and they ran off with the injured ladies in their arms. By the time they were gone, Raicor and his soldiers burst through the fallen trees and Raicor roared at the top of his voice, angered that he had failed to stop the Mobians from escaping and kill them. He feared on what Devion would say to him when he reported on it…

Meanwhile, Wilson, Mandy, Ruben, Katherine, Metal Sonic & Marik were still in battle with Steelor and his remaining seven soldiers and the battle wasn't going too well for them. Steelor was far too strong for Marik and the Devatron soldiers were proving to be tough, efficient foes for the others. Metal Sonic was the only one who was making any progress in this battle and even then it wasn't much since the Devatron soldiers kept shooting at him in order to distract him and prevent him from shooting their visors. Metal Sonic flew towards one Devatron and attempted to punch it but the Devatron beat him to it and it punched Metal Sonic down into the ground. The soldier then attempted to blast Metal Sonic but Katherine stepped in and drill-attacked the Devatron. The Devatron was thrown onto it's side and before it could get up, Wilson stabbed it in the visor and killed it immediately. Now there were only six soldiers left. Mandy gave one soldier an enormous roundhouse punch to the face and then she roundhouse punched it again but the Devatron counterattacked with a roundhouse punch to the face of it's own. The punch made Mandy spit some drops of blood out and she was thrown down onto her side with her face throbbing madly. The Devatron clasped it's hands together and it tried to fist-slam Mandy on the head but Mandy dodged and then punched the Devatron in the visor, cracking it and leaving it's vision unclear. The Devatron immediately panicked and began shooting like crazy in a frantic fashion. This made Mandy throw herself down onto the ground in order to avoid getting shot as the Devatron went crazy. Wilson decided to finish it off before the Devatron shot anyone so he ran up to the frantically shooting Devatron and he threw his spinning blade at it. The blade hit the Devatron straight in the visor and finished it off. Now there were only five soldiers left. One Devatron soldier was furious with what Wilson did and it shot at Wilson with it's arm cannon. The blast hit the ground just at Wilson's feet and the dog was sent flying through the air. Wilson landed rather painfully on his side and he lay on the ground, clutching his shoulder and grimacing in pain. The Devatron ran towards Wilson and attempted to shoot him again but Ruben leapt in and gave the Devatron an enormous kick to the head that sent it hurling into a tree headfirst. Ruben ran over to Wilson and he helped the dog get back to his feet.

"Are you alright?" asked Ruben.

"I'm OK." said Wilson "Thanks for the save though."

"You're welcome." said Ruben "Those Devatrons are giving us a hard time. I so wish I had my aqua-collar so I could just let them all have it with a giant wave of water and send them sprawling to distract them long enough for us to land a decent blow on them."

"That would be helpful." said Wilson "Just a shame your friend had to steal it."

"Yeah, so now I'm stuck just using my mix of ninjutsu and kung-fu on them." said Ruben "Oh well, I'll use any means necessary to beat those monsters."

"You two! Look out!" cried Mandy all of the sudden.

Wilson and Ruben looked over at Mandy to see what she was so scared about only to be hit by two giant cannon blasts from a Devatron soldier. It had bent over and shot them with it's back mounted cannons and the blasts threw Wilson and Ruben threw the air like they were rag dolls and they landed side by side a good few feet away from them. The blast had hurt the two quite badly and they appeared to have passed out from the attack. Mandy immediately grew worried for the two and she darted over to them as quickly as she possibly could. The Devatron soldier that had shot Wilson & Ruben bent over and prepared to shoot Mandy with it's back cannons but Metal Sonic spin-dashed it in the side and knocked it down before it could shoot her. Mandy ran over to Wilson and Ruben and she knelt down by their sides worriedly.

"Wilson! Ruben! Oh god, please be OK you two!" she fretted.

She put her head near Wilson's chest and listened for a heartbeat. She heard it. She did the same to Ruben and she managed to hear his heartbeat. The two were still alive luckily but that blast had hit them pretty bad. But it didn't seem to have hurt them too badly since they were already coming around. Wilson put his hand to his head and he groaned as he felt a sudden surge of pain flare up in his brain. Ruben picked himself up and he rubbed his throbbing back. Mandy sighed with relief and she hugged Wilson affectionately.

"Oh thank goodness!" she cried "You're OK! I'm sorry my warning was too late."

"Don't fret about it…" said Wilson casually, trying to open both eyes but he could only open one eye "…that Devatron got a lucky shot… nugh!...a very lucky shot."

"I don't know if we can keep this up until Sonic and his team get the…Devatron data." said Ruben "I think we should…fall back."

"We probably should." murmured Mandy "You know we're in trouble when even Marik the Martian & Eggman's hench bots are having trouble against the Devatrons!"

Mandy couldn't be more right on this. Metal Sonic & Katherine were both failing to land any good shots on the Devatron soldiers and they were both getting damaged by them. Katherine may have a barrier that she can use to defend herself from the Devatrons but it wasn't helping her much since the Devatrons just kept kicking her around like a football so this had prompted Katherine to fight without the barrier and she ended up getting damaged by the Devatrons as a result. Marik was getting whooped by Steelor in his fight. The Devatron fourth-in-command was just too powerful for Marik. Marik's electricity was useless against Steelor since Devatrons like electricity and it makes them feel stronger instead of actually hurting them and his energy waves couldn't help him much since Steelor was invulnerable. Marik clawed at Steelor but Steelor swung his knee up into Marik's face and he sent the Martian staggering backwards. The attack had left Marik with a nasty cut across his forehead. Steelor cackled at Marik and he kicked the Martian before he could even retaliate. Marik was thrown down onto the ground and Steelor added insult to injury by stomping on him. Marik cried out in anguish as Steelor slammed his foot down on Marik's body. Steelor then plunged his sword into the ground and pinned Marik down with the handle-bar shape of it. The handlebar shape of the sword was around Marik's neck. Marik looked like he'd just been stapled down to the ground now. Marik tried to pull the sword out the ground and free himself but Steelor put his foot on the sword and kept it there. Steelor then activated his saw-blade, the weapon squealing ominously as it spun around at 250,000 RPM.

"You Martians say many things about yourselves." crowed Steelor "And neither of them are true. You're as pathetic as the Mobians and now you shall join them in extinction!"

He inched the saw blade near Marik's face but Metal Sonic spin-dashed Steelor and knocked him away from the Martian. Steelor landed on his back and he skidded to a halt near a bunch of bushes. His skid had left a giant dirt mound. Steelor picked himself up only to get walloped by Metal Sonic again. Steelor however managed to grab Metal Sonic and slam him into a tree. Any normal robot would have been broken by that attack. Metal Sonic retaliated by punching Steelor and knocking him down onto the ground. While all this was happening, Marik yanked Steelor's sword out of the ground after a lot of tugging. Marik was now free to get back up and he had Steelor's weapon in hand. He ran towards Steelor and he raised the weapon above his head as he ran to him. But Steelor saw Marik coming and he threw Metal Sonic into Marik. Metal Sonic knocked Marik down to the ground and Marik dropped Steelor's sword. Steelor quickly ran over and grabbed it and he prepared to stab Marik with it but Metal Sonic picked himself up and spin-dashed Steelor in the chest. Steelor growled furiously and he sheathed his weapons and began blasting at him. Wilson, Mandy & Ruben ran over to help Metal Sonic and Marik but Mandy received a call from Sally in her ear piece.

"Mandy…? Are you there?" asked Sally.

"I'm here your highness." said Mandy "What's your story?"

"Sonic's…got what we wanted…" said Sally "We're retreating…it's time for you to retreat too…fall back to the research centre."

"Will do your Majesty." said Mandy.

Sally switched off and Mandy turned to Wilson.

"We're falling back now." she explained "Blue dude and his team have some Devatron data."

"That's great! We're getting somewhere in this match at last!"

"Marik! Metal Sonic! Katherine!" Ruben called over to them "We're retreating now!"

Marik fumed angrily since he hated retreating but he knew why they were retreating. Sally had said once Sonic got the data he'd call her and inform her on this and then she'd pass it onto the others and it was clear that his team had gotten the message so that meant Sonic had the data and it was time to fall back. Marik abandoned his fight with Steelor and he ran for it as fast as he could. Steelor tried to run after him but Metal Sonic flew into Steelor, grabbed him and carried him up into the air. He then proceeded to throw Steelor down into the ground as hard as he could. Steelor hit the ground and left a crater the size of a large bathtub as he hit it. This gave the Mobians plenty of time to retreat. Wilson, Mandy & Ruben all ran off after Marik and so did Katherine. Metal Sonic flew off after them and joined up with the retreat. The soldiers tried to stop them by shooting at them but the Mobians were too fast for them and they missed every shot they fired. The Mobians eventually disappeared into the growth of the forest and the soldiers gave up the chase. As for Steelor, who was a good few feet away from them all, picked himself up and he climbed out of the crater he'd made after being thrown into the ground. He dusted himself off and growled furiously.

"Why are those cowards fleeing for their lives after fighting so valiantly against us?" he wondered to himself "Did we truly overpower them or is there more to their wretched game then we know about…?"

Meanwhile, Triton was continuing to hold out against Amy and the Chaotix. Even though he was on his own and had no soldiers to distract the Mobians, he was still too powerful for them and he was on top of this match. Triton swiped at the Mobians with his saw-stick but they all dodged and Vector lunged at Triton with a powerful punch to the face. Triton staggered backwards and he clutched his face. His visor was beginning to crack. It was only a small crack but it was surely going to get worse if Vector kept punching him. Vector ran in to deck Triton but Triton swiped his weapon at Vector and forced him back. Triton then sheathed his weapon and gave Vector a left and right hook each and then a gut punch that made Vector cry out hoarsely. Triton then grabbed Vector's jaws, clamped them shut, and he threw Vector into a tree. Vector roared in pain as his still-healing back flared up in pain. Triton drew out his weapon again and he prepared to slice Vector open but Espio kicked him in the legs and tripped him up. Amy then ran in and bopped Triton on the head several times with her Piko-Piko hammer in the vain hope she'd actually crush his head with her hammer. But that tactic was doomed to fail. Amy slammed the hammer on Triton's head but Triton rolled out of the way before Amy could bop him again and he blasted Amy in the gut with his cannon arm. Amy was thrown backwards and she went straight through a nearby bush, leaving a hole in it. Triton grabbed his saw stick and he picked himself up. He ran towards Amy but Charmy Bee flew towards him so Triton stopped and he sucker-punched Charmy in the face. Espio pounced on Triton only for Triton to effortlessly shrug the chameleon off of him. Triton kicked Espio as viciously as he could and he prepared to carve him to pieces with his saw-stick but Amy jumped in and knocked the weapon out of his hand with one fell smack of the Piko-Piko hammer. Triton's response was to gut punch Amy and then elbow-thrust her on the head. Vector charged in and he chomped Triton's arm with his jaws…only to hurt his teeth and make Vector cry out in anguish. Biting an invulnerable robot was never a wise move to make in the battlefield. Triton laughed at Vector's failed attack and he uppercut Vector across the battlefield. Espio was about to attack Triton but Sally called him on his earpiece and he answered it.

"Espio? Are you there?" asked Sally.

"Roger that." said Espio "Me, Vector, Charmy and Amy have are hands full right now. What's going on?"

"Sonic's…got the data…we need…" said Sally "We're all falling back to the research centre…get your team and Amy outta here and back to…the research…centre."

"Roger that." said Espio "We'll be back shortly."

Sally switched off and Espio called over to Vector and Charmy.

"Guys! We need to fall back now!" he called to them.

"Fall back?" asked Charmy "Does that mean Sonic's got the data thingy he requires?"

"Quiet Charmy!" hissed Vector seeing as Triton was still here and he probably heard that "Come on Amy! We're retreating now!"

"OK Vector." said Amy, running off as fast as she could.

Amy and the Chaotix fled the battlefield and they headed off out of Green Hill Zone and back to Empire City. Triton would have chased after them but he was a little mystified by Charmy's statement before the Mobians fell back so he didn't chase them. He put a claw to his chin and he mused to himself.

"What did that buzzing thing mean by "Does that mean Sonic's got the data thingy he requires"?" he wondered "Was Sonic doing something while we've been out here?"

Whatever Charmy meant by that, he knew it bared briefing when the Devatrons reported what had happened back at The Doombringer so he kept that thought in mind until he got back to The Doombringer .

Back at the Empire Research Centre, the Mobians had all gathered together around a table in the lab and Tails set his sensor scrambling relay carrier down on the table. He opened the carrier and he took out the USB drive.

"OK everybody I've got some good and bad news for you all." said Tails "The good news is we've got some Devatron data but the bad news is a Devatron shot the database and destroyed it before we could finish downloading it. We only have one file of data and it's written in a foreign language but we can fix that problem easily."

"Well that's just prime isn't it?!" moaned Marik, slamming the table with his fists "We go through all this trouble and all you morons manage to get is ONE lousy file of data?!"

"Marik! Cool it before I give you a black eye!" yelled Sonic "This one file of data might be of use to us!"

"And if it isn't?!" retorted Marik "Then our plan's pretty much screwed because a Devatron destroyed the database, meaning we can't get anymore data!"

"Not necessarily Marik." said Cosmo "Ships usually have a backup station for any data records and files should the database get terminated so I'm sure the Devatrons have a spare database somewhere on their ship."

"And how would you know that Cosmo?" snorted Marik "You don't know anything about ships so don't try to look clever in front of me!"

"You leave Cosmo alone Marik!" snapped Tails "I'm sure Cosmo knows plenty about ships don't ya Cosmo?"

"I do Tails." said Cosmo "My parents have a fleet which unfortunately got destroyed by the Martians before I was evacuated and I was taught on how ships work and ships usually have a backup station for their data should the original database be destroyed. I bet the Devatrons have one so if this file of data isn't useful then we can try again on The Doombringer and see if we can download the database that way."

"There you go Marik." sneered Sonic "Next time you'll probably listen to the very people who you're supposed to be working with not picking fights with!"

"Honestly, I though I was the one who'd be starting arguments out of us!" chortled Eggman "And I'm Sonic's number one enemy after all! Ho, ho, ho, ho!"

"Silence doctor." muttered Shadow "Nobody's interested in your poor sense of humour right now."

"Shadow's got that right." agreed Sonic "Now Tails, let's plug the ol' drive in and see what handy bits of info we have on those Deva-dorks."

Tails ran over to the centre's main computer and he plugged the drive into the drive slot near the keyboard. The screen displayed the downloaded information but it was written in Devatronic so nobody could understand it. Everybody gathered around the computer and they looked at the screen, wondering what all the weird symbols and characters were.

"This is no good. We can't read this." said Knuckles "Why have the Devatrons written their information in a different language?! They speak English like we do!"

"I have no idea Knuckles." said Tails "Maybe so that if anybody steals their data, they can't read it and therefore make the information useless to them. I'm sure we'll be able to translate it. Can this computer translate foreign languages?"

"It should be able to." said Nicole "This is a research…centre and the researchers who use it will need to translate languages incase they're working in foreign places and need to translate foreign… notes or ancient text and the like."

"Let's see if this computer has what I need." said Tails.

He began to tap a few keys on the computer and he ran a search for any translating features the computer possibly had. To his luck, the computer had the programme he needed and he set it up. Now the programme was up, he ran it and he set it up to translate the Devatron data for them. He managed to get the programme to translate the Devatron data into English for everybody. Now they had translated the data, Tails looked at it and he read some of it aloud. This data was about one of the planets the Devatrons had conquered.

"It says here that this file is about a planet called Sram." read Tails "It's one of the fourteen planets the Devatrons have conquered and it's a good few light years away from where we are according to these coordinates."

He pointed to the screen which displayed Sram's coordinates.

"Interesting." muttered Eggman "Now how is that helpful in anyway?"

"Please let me continue Eggman." said Tails in a huff "Now where as I? Oh yeah: It also says the inhabitants of Sram are robots called the Startrons, relatives of the Devatrons and while they may not be as strong or as advanced as the Devatrons, they're still a powerful race and one to look out for and they should be kept under tight watch at all times."

"Startrons?" mused Sonic "Relatives of the Devatrons?"

"Yup." said Tails "Relatives as in cousins of the Devatrons in fact."

"The Devatrons have cousins?" chimed Rouge "What's next? The Devatrons have other kinds of relatives?"

"No, just the Startrons." said Tails, turning back to the computer "Anyway," he continued to read from the file "An elite group of Startrons led by the Startron leader General Klight have defied our laws and orders and they abandoned the planet after it had been conquered and it's imperative we find them before they start a new army of Startrons and try to take us over."

"So there's a group of Startrons out there who are hiding from the Devatrons?" asked Sonic "So we now know the Devatrons have relatives and a group of them are hiding. How does that help us?"

"It helps us in this simple way Sonic." said Tails "The Startrons are related to the Devatrons and their planet has been conquered by the Devatrons…so if we go over and MEET the Startrons and ask for them to help us beat the Devatrons then maybe we can put an end to this war. After all, they'll easily say yes since their world's been conquered."

"Tails, you have completely lost your marbles!" bellowed Marik "How in the name of Neptune can the Startrons possibly help us in this conflict?! THEIR PLANET'S BEEN CONQUERED BY THE DEVATRONS! That means the Devatrons are too strong for them and the Startrons are useless against them! They can't help us at all!"

"Wrong Marik." said Tails "A group of Startrons, one of them their leader, are in hiding and I bet over the years they've been developing ways to defeat the Devatrons. Besides, they're related to the Devatrons so they must know their own cousin's weaknesses."

"And yet their planet still got conquered!" retorted Marik "So they still can't help us!"

"We don't know that for sure Marik but desperate times call for desperate measures and right now, we're very desperate and I'm willing to try anything." said Sally "We must meet the Startrons and see if they can be of any help to us in this battle."

"No Sally, we can't all go and meet the Startrons." noted Sonic "Nobody will be left to defend Mobius otherwise. Me and Tails will go and meet the Startrons. Tails will probably know how to pilot a spaceship and I'll need to give him some backup should he run into trouble."

"But Sonic, we need you to help us fight." said Sally "You're our best fighter, we can't win this without you."

"Ehk! Wrong!" said Sonic, tapping Sally's nose teasingly "Shadow will be my replacement and he's stronger then even me so he'll fill in for me while I'm meeting the Startrons with Tails."

"That's an excellent idea." said Shadow "I approve of it easily. I'll protect your people from the Devatrons until you get back Sonic and I promise you, everybody will be alive when you come back."

"You'd better keep to it faker or you'll be getting a very stern telling off from me!" taunted Sonic "I'm sure you'll do well to keep my friends safe and beat those Devatrons, especially with that Chaos Blast of yours."

"Speaking of Chaos, why haven't you used the Chaos Emeralds to destroy the Devatrons?" asked Shadow "If they're as powerful as you say they are then wouldn't the logical decision be to use the Chaos Emeralds to destroy them?"

"Oh I tried that Shadow and Devion just drained the emeralds dry of their power before he could even touch him." muttered Sonic "And he's taken them so we can't restore their power and if we use the Master Emerald to power up then Devion will likely just power drain me again and they'll probably end up finding it so Knuckles doesn't want me to drag the Master Emerald into this just to be safe."

"So I will be incapable of using Chaos Control." said Shadow grimly "While you're in space, I'll see if I can retrieve the Chaos Emeralds and give them their power back."

"Well Shadow if you can do that then I will be happy." said Sonic "But then what's the point of powering them back up since Devion has turrets that can drain their power? If we re-power the emeralds and try to destroy him, he'll probably just use the turrets to drain their power again."

"So we're pretty much at square one." murmured Shadow "Still, we can't let the Devatrons keep the Chaos Emeralds or we'll never be able to re-power them so while you and Tails meet the Startrons, I'll try and see if I can retrieve them."

"And I wish you good luck with that Shadow." said Sonic, shaking Shadow's hand "So Sal, where can me and Tails find a spaceship?"

"Well there was the Central Space Centre in Central City but Eggman made short work of Central City with his Egg-Fleet last year," muttered Sally with a glare over to Eggman who only smiled and sweat-dropped "And the only other place I can think of is Station Canaveral in Station Square but I doubt they're really gonna lend you a spaceship just so you can meet the Devatron's cousins and get some help from them."

"Well Sal we're in desperate times and these times are calling for REALLY desperate measures so we're gonna have to try." said Sonic "Me and Tails need a spaceship if we're gonna meet the Startrons so we will be going over to Station Square and we're going to get ourselves a spaceship. I'm sure the guys who work there will understand why we need it."

"I agree with Sonic." said Ruben "Every other option we have is useless and I don't think we'll be able to retrieve the Chaos Emeralds so easily especially since we don't know where Devion's keeping them so we need to meet the Startrons and see if they can help us. They are related to the Devatrons and there's a group of them in hiding and they've probably got methods to beat them but we don't know if we don't find out so we've got to try it. If all else fails then we'll have to try the last resort."

Sally sighed to herself and she thought on this. Ruben did have a point, and a very valid one at that, and everything else they'd tried hadn't worked on the Devatrons. There's too many of them, they can reproduce and they're invulnerable so they can't even be destroy and the only method of killing them was pretty much useless since it took good shots to hit the Devatrons in the visor but they were getting good at dodging them and the Devatrons would eventually overpower them with sheer numbers so getting a spaceship and flying off to meet the Startrons and ask for their aid in this battle was all they had left.

"OK." said Sally "Royal Fighters, we're going to Station Canaveral. Let us hope the people working there can spare Sonic and Tails one."

"That's the spirit Sal." said Sonic "But here's one thing I've noticed. How can we find this General Klight and his group of Startrons if they've gone into hiding and the Devatrons are looking for them? They don't know where he is so how will we find them?"

"I dunno." said Tails "But if we upload their planet's coordinates to the spaceship and jump to hyper speed and arrive there then maybe we could sneak onto the planet, find any imprisoned Startrons and ask them where General Klight is."

"I dunno Tails, that sounds pretty risky to me." said Sonic "How will we be able to sneak onto a Devatron conquered planet? If Devion's ship can pick us up a mile away then I'm sure a planet full of Devatrons will spot a spaceship coming before we even arrive."

"No they won't." said Tails slyly "We've still got my sensor-scrambling relay carrier. All I have to do is boost it's signal scrambling transmission and it'll stop our entire ship from being picked up on radar so they won't see us coming."

"Good idea but I'm sure they'll see us coming before we can land on the planet." noted Sonic "They may not pick us up on radar but that won't stop the Devatrons from seeing us coming. I bet the moment we arrive on the planet they'll just shoot us down."

"Oh yeah, of course they will." murmured Tails "If that does happen then we'll get out with an escape pod, all ships these days have one, and then we'll find the Startrons, get what we need and then steal a Devatron ship and find General Klight."

"That could work." noted Shade "But wouldn't the Startrons in hiding start attacking you once you arrive? You're in a Devatron ship so they'll think you're Devatrons and shoot you down."

"They might but once they do shoot us down and find out we're not Devatrons, they'll question us and we'll just tell them what's going on and they'll take us in to meet their leader." said Tails "Well I hope that's what they'll do."

"Well it's the only option we have." said Sonic "See if the Devatron's cousins can help us beat them. OK gang, let's do it to it!"

With that said the Royal Fighters all left the research centre and headed off to Station Square where Station Canaveral was located. This one bit of data they had may just be their ticket to victory against the Devatrons. If not then all hope was lost and Mobius was doomed forever…

Meanwhile, the Devatrons had all left Green Hill Zone and gone back to The Doombringer to report about what had happened on their hunt. Devion & Tronic, who had spent the entire time looking for the Mobians only not to find them at all, returned to The Doombringer and Devion listened to his sub-leaders as they reported to him. He was not pleased with their stories at all and he growled furiously.

"How is this possible?!" he roared as he strode past the sub-leaders who were all standing in a line "Raicor, Steelor, Triton, three of the best Devatrons in the entire fleet all go hunting for Mobians and do battle with them and yet all you've come back with is nothing more then an excuse! Tell me my sub-leaders! How hard can it be to vanquish a mere furry creature?! Only few of them actually have super powers so they can't all be difficult to defeat!"

"We're sorry my Lord." said Raicor "We shall double our efforts next time."

"You three had better do so otherwise you'll all be recycled into chrome and made into much more competent Devatrons." snarled Devion.

"Devion sir, may I say something?" asked Triton.

"This had better be of profound value Triton." muttered Devion "I'm already losing my patience with you, pray I don't lose any more of it."

"I was fighting the pink hammer-swinging Mobian, the purple ninja reptile thing, the large green reptile thing and the buzzing creature as you know." said Triton "And for some reason, as the Mobians were retreating, the buzzing thing said "Does this mean Sonic's got the data thingy he requires?". I have a feeling there was more to this hide-&-seek game then meets the optics."

"Sonic's…got the data he requires…?" mused Devion "This must mean…"

"I bet those Mobians orchestrated this game of theirs to distract us while Sonic and his twin-tailed accomplice, who also wasn't with the others, sneak onto our ship and steal our data!" cried Triton "In fact, there's a hole in the arm of your throne where the database is stored master!"

Triton pointed at Devion's throne, which had a hole in it from when the Devatron accidentally shot it. Devion looked at the hole in the throne and he fumed angrily. The whole thing had been a plot! Devion had been tricked! From the hole in the throne, he was getting the idea that the Mobians had possibly stolen the data and then damaged the database so the Devatrons would lose it forever. How fortunate for them that they had a back-up database. Devion decided to see the security cameras to see what had been going on in The Doombringer while he had been away. Devion wandered over to the control pad and he pressed a button that showed him the recorded security footage from earlier. He saw none other then Sonic, Tails, Shadow & Rouge all gathered around his throne and downloading the data with a USB drive they had. Devion watched the footage up to the part where the Devatron accidentally shot the arm of Devion's throne. That obviously meant the Mobians didn't get much information but whatever they downloaded was bound to be vital to the Mobians. He had no idea what file of info they'd downloaded so for all Devion knew, it could be information about them or some other kind of information. Devion stopped playing the security footage.

"Your estimation happens to be correct Triton." muttered Devion "Sonic and his twin-tailed friend were infiltrating our ship and downloading our data while we were out hunting their friends. I have not seen this black and red creature before though," he pointed at Shadow "Who is he and where has he come from? And why does his appearance mirror that of Sonic's to a degree of so many angles? And who is this winged creature with the pink heart on her attire? Are these two new accomplices of Sonic's? No matter, they must be destroyed too if they're affiliated with Sonic in anyway."

Devion turned away from the screen and he faced his sub-leaders.

"We must destroy the Royal Fighters before they can use any data they've downloaded against us." declared Devion "Tronic, track down their position and then fly The Doombringer there so that we may annihilate them in a rain of firepower!"

"Yes Devion." droned Tronic.

Tronic went over to the cockpit seat and he sat down in it. He began taping keys on the keyboard and searching for the Royal Fighters. Devion sat down in his throne and he waited for Tronic to take off. Raicor, Triton & Steelor all stood beside Devion and they waited for the ship to take-off. Tronic taped some keys and he peered at the screen very closely as he searched for the Mobians. He eventually found them and they appeared to be on the move because the dots representing them were moving. That's because the Royal Fighters were all in hover saucers sans Wilson & Mandy for they were in her hover car and they were off to Station Square.

"Found them." said Tronic "But they appear to be in motion. They must be heading somewhere."

"Well now we know where they are, we can follow them to where ever they're going." cackled Devion "Take flight Tronic! We will follow those Mobians and annihilate them all!"

"Yes my lord." droned Tronic.

He pressed a button on the control pad and he pulled some levers back. The Doombringer rose up from the ground and it began to ascend up and up into the sky. Tronic then pushed the thrust-levers forward and the jets of The Doombringer burned marvellously as they were pushed into their highest power and The Doombringer began to fly forwards. The malevolent vessel was now cruising through the air and Tronic followed the Mobians with the aid of The Doombringer 's tracking systems. Sonic and Tails maybe going on a space voyage, but if the Devatrons caught up to them, they may not even make it off the ground…

A good hour later, the Royal Fighters all arrived at Station Square and they headed through the giant city to Station Canaveral. It didn't take them long to arrive at the centre for Station Canaveral was quite near the outskirts of the city. Station Canaveral was truly a majestic sight for many. It was a super-modern space station with spaceships and space craft of any kind and space teams working 24/7 as they studied the mysterious realms of the world outside of Mobius. Tails was impressed with the look of the space station but he contained himself since now was not the time to be admiring things. Now was the time to operate with their only option to defeat the Devatrons and just hope it works. The Royal Fighters all pulled up to Station Canaveral and they all entered the marvellous space centre. Upon entry, they could see astronauts assembling new spacecraft and space equipment and they appeared to be working quite vigorously. A man in a smart suit, who was a muskrat with brown fur and orange stripes on his face, saw the Royal Fighters and he ran over to them quickly. He was in charge of the space centre and he wasn't pleased to have visitors here.

"Hold it right there you lot." he said "Station Canaveral is not open to tourists and if you're not here to apply for a job interview then you can all leave."

"We beg your pardon." said Sally politely "But we're not tourists, we're the Royal Fighters of New Mobotropolis. I'm Queen Sally Acorn, the successor to my parents after they were killed."

She resisted the urge to say that "The Martian with us did it". The muskrat's expression appeared to soften up after hearing that.

"The Royal Fighters eh?" he said brightly "Well that is a pleasant surprise. Especially as the world famous Sonic the Hedgehog is here. Well that changes everything, a team of heroes is welcome to Station Canaveral at anytime they like."

"That sounds cool sir." said Sonic "We've come here for a favour though."

"What favour would that be then?" asked the muskrat.

"We think we have an idea on how to defeat the Devatrons and we need a spaceship." explained Tails "Please can we borrow one for our mission? We need one because we need to go into space for the mission."

"You have an idea on how to defeat the Devatrons do you?" said the muskrat with interest "Marvellous. Those robotic demons are plotting to conquer our world! Why ever do you need to go into space though?"

"Because our idea to defeat the Devatrons involves Sonic & Tails going into space and meeting some relatives of theirs who have been oppressed by the Devatrons." explained Nicole "We think those relatives of theirs mighty actually be able to help us defeat the Devatrons so we're going to try it out."

The muskrat thought on this matter for a moment before making up his mind.

"Well most of our ships are on loan right now but we do have one free." he said "And I'll be happy to lend it to you if it means defeating the Devatrons at long last. So how many of you are going on this voyage?"

"Just me and Tails." said Sonic "The others are gonna keep fighting the Devatrons until we get back."

"Well that's lucky because the only ship that's free can only fit a crew of up to five or six people." said the muskrat "Come along then Sonic & Tails and I'll take you to your ship."

Sonic & Tails did as they were told and they followed the muskrat off to their spaceship while the rest stayed behind. Unfortunately for the Royal Fighters, The Doombringer was just coming towards Station Square and it was poised to strike once it cast it's shadow over the magnificent city…

The muskrat led Sonic & Tails into Station Canaveral's hangar bay where only one spaceship was left since the others were being used by other astronauts either near Mobius are beyond. This spaceship wasn't a large spaceship given how it only has enough room for six people but it was still a good looking ship. It had ogival delta wings like a shuttle, a round nose cone and one large cockpit window. It was silver in colour, the tips of it's wings were blue and it had the Station Canaveral logo on both sides (the logo being a red & blue sphere with many stars near it and making the sphere look like it was deteriorating into starts). Tails was well impressed with the spaceship and he was glad that they had been given it.

"This is the ship you'll be given." said the muskrat "We call this one The Silver Bullet and it's one of the finest ships we have on offer. Due to it's small size though it only has one escape pod but it can fit the whole crew in so don't worry about it not having enough room. It has no weapons so don't get in a fight out in space if you can. It has state-of-the-art navigation systems so it'll easily be able to locate Mobius when you come back from your mission."

"Sounds great." said Sonic.

"So you two, do you know how to fly a spaceship?" asked the muskrat.

"I do." said Tails "When I was six, I studied the schematics of spaceships from a book my mom gave me for my birthday. Since then I've been studying spaceships quite frequently so I've got an idea on how to fly them."

"Besides, he can build and fly his own plane so I'm sure a spaceship's no challenge for him, is it Tails?" asked Sonic snidely with a cheeky grin on his face.

"He can build and fly a plane?!" blurted the muskrat "But the kid looks like he's not even ten yet! That's incredible! Such brilliance and at such a young age! Never before have I seen a kid blessed with genius like that! We could do with you working right here Tails! I bet you'd fit right in Station Canaveral!"

"Well when we've defeated the Devatrons and then Eggman afterwards and Mobius is at peace again I'll think about it." chuckled Tails.

"OK you two, when you get into The Silver Bullet , taxi to the runway and then take off. The ship will reach 300 miles in under a minute and it'll take you into space easily."

"OK sir." said Tails "We'll be back as soon as possible and hopefully, we'll have a way to defeat the Devatrons."

"We all hope you do too." said the muskrat "Good luck Sonic & Tails. Station Canaveral will await your return."

With that said, Sonic & Tails ran up the boarding steps and they entered The Silver Bullet . The boarding steeps wheeled away from the ship and Tails closed the boarding door. He and Sonic went into the cockpit and they were met with quite a sight. The spaceship had controls by the dozen and thousands of blinking lights, levers, buttons and switches that did goodness knows what. Luckily for them, the controls were all labelled for the newcomers who maybe using the ship so Tails knew what controls he should and shouldn't be using. Sonic & Tails both seated themselves and they put on their seatbelts. Tails looked at the control pad and he gripped the steering column. He could feel himself tingling with excitement. Never before had he flown a spaceship and yet he'd studied vigorously for flying one and he'd dreamed of flying a real live spaceship. And now was going to be his chance. A dream come true for the young, intelligent little fox cub. Tails released the breaks on the spaceship and The Silver Bullet began to taxi out of the hangar bay and towards the spaceship runway. Unfortunately, it didn't seem they'd be getting any further. The Doombringer had finally arrived at Station Canaveral and it was ready to shoot them all down. The Royal Fighters all saw the colossal Devatron ship and they freaked immediately.

"No!" cried Sally " The Doombringer 's here! It must be here to stop Sonic & Tails from leaving Mobius!"

"But why would the Devatrons be doing that?" asked Cream "The Devatrons don't know that Mr. Sonic & Tails wanna meet their relatives, nor do they know we've got a bit of their data."

"I hate to break it to you kiddo but when we were on that ship, I kicked a Devatron and accidentally made it shoot the database which was in the arm of a chair in the cockpit so I think the Devatrons are gonna realize they've been sabotaged when they saw what damage I accidentally made a Devatron cause." said Rouge with a rather guilty look on her face "And the fact we broke through the cockpit window to get out of the ship might give them some ideas too."

"Well thanks to you Rouge, that blunder might have given the Devatrons the idea that we've stolen some of their data!" yelled Marik "And now they're here to stop us from using it against them! You Mobians really can't do anything without screwing up can you?!"

"Oh yeah and like you're any better?" sniffed Mandy "I haven't seen you hold up against a single Devatron since this truce and all you've done is try to get Bunnie arrested so at least we're doing some good around here!"

"Now, now sugah, don't start arguing with Marik." said Bunnie hastily "We've gotta stop the Devatrons before they attack the station!"

"And I will be able to do that." said Shadow "Bunnie, fly me up to The Doombringer and I'll remove my inhibitor rings. Hopefully, I'll be able to Chaos Blast the ship enough to critically damage it and either send them packing or make them fall."

"OK shadow-hog." said Bunnie "After all, ya'll have some durn destructive power in ya'll."

With that said, Bunnie grabbed Shadow and she flew the black hedgehog up to The Doombringer but just as Bunnie began to ascend up into the sky, The Doombringer fired a missile straight at Station Canaveral. The missile rocketed past Bunnie & Shadow, the Rabbot shrieking in fright and almost falling out of the sky in shock, and it hit the station, exploding into a brilliant ball of fire and rupturing a giant hole in the centre. The station was still standing but it wouldn't survive anymore shots should the Devatrons continue their assault. Down on the ground, Sonic & Tails were just on the runway but they saw the missile firing and hitting Station Canaveral and they were well horrified. What increased their horror was the mere sight of The Doombringer hovering over Station Square and getting ready to fire again.

"Oh no! The Devatrons have found us!" cried Tails "I bet they're trying to stop us before we can use the data we've stolen against them!"

"Why would they be doing that?" asked Sonic "They can't possibly know we've stolen any data! Oh wait…"

Sonic though for a moment and remembered the blinded Devatron that had tried to stop them in their mission. He theorized that the blinded Devatron probably told Devion, even though that wasn't the case.

"I think the Devatron that tried to stop us snitched on us." said Sonic "That's how they know."

"Either way, we've gotta take off before they shoot us!" screeched

Tails, ready to slam his foot on the throttle.

"But if we take off, we'll be easy prey for them!" noted Sonic " The Doombringer will just shoot us down if we try to take off!"

"Oh yeah, of course they will!" muttered Tails "Well let's hope our friends can do something to distract them long enough for us to get away!"

And luckily for Sonic & Tails, Bunnie & Shadow were doing just that. Bunnie flew Shadow to the top of The Doombringer and prepared to touch down just as The Doombringer was preparing to make another shot. Devion was sitting in his throne and watching as Tronic aimed the ship's missiles at The Silver Bullet . Tronic scanned the ship and found out the ship contained Mobian life on it.

"Devion, there's a ship on the runway preparing for take off." droned Tronic "There's Mobians inside."

"Destroy it." said Devion "Prevent that wretched excuse for actual space-going technology from ascending from the very ground beneath us and up to the void of space outside the planet."

Tronic obeyed and he prepared to fire the missiles. He was locking on target just as Shadow removed his inhibitor rings and handed them over to Bunnie. Bunnie quickly flew away from Shadow just as the black hedgehog's body began to glow a bright crimson red and energy flowed through his veins. He tensed up very tightly and he began to build up energy.

"Chaos… BLAAASSSSSTTTTT! " bellowed Shadow as he threw his arms out to the side and unleashed the power within him.

Chaos Energy exploded out from within his body and it ripped it's way through the tough chrome hull of The Doombringer . The Devatrons were well surprised by that sudden attack and the Chaos Blast continued to rip it's way through the ship and severely damage it. Sonic & Tails watched the whole thing from The Silver Bullet and they were will amazed by it.

"That's Chaos Blast!" cried Sonic "Shadow's damaging The Doombringer !"

"Cool!" cried Tails "I bet Shadow's gonna end up destroying The Doombringer if he keeps this up! We can take-off now!"

Tails threw the thrusters forward and the ship's engines roared into life. The Silver Bullet began to move down he runway at a fast speed and it began to speed up and up as it went down the runway. The Doombringer fired a desperate missile at it but it missed and The Silver Bullet continued to rocket down the runway. The ship rocketed down the runway at 300 miles per hour and it began to ascend up into the air. The Silver Bullet took off at last and it flew up into the sky while Shadow's Chaos Blast continued to damage The Doombringer . On The Doombringer , Shadow finally finished his Chaos Blast and Bunnie flew down to collect him. She grabbed Shadow and flew off the ship with him in hand and his rings around her wrists. Shadow's Chaos Blast had done a critical amount of damage to The Doombringer . The top of the ship had a giant hole in it, some of the interior had been blown away and smoke billowed out from the top of it. The Doombringer only had enough energy left in it to remain flying and that was saying a lot since it was losing energy and fast. Devion growled furiously and he thumped the arms of his throne in anger.

"Those Mobians have critically damaged my ship yet again!" he fumed "Those loathsome little cretins are vexing me more then ever! They'd better not be wallowing in triumph yet because this battle is still not over! Tronic, take us back to New Mobotropolis and we'll begin repairs once we get back!"

"Yes sir." droned Tronic.

"As for that little spaceship that's taken off." muttered Devion "I shall put my forces on the planets under my control on full alert for it. Those Mobians must be destroyed. I do not know why two of them are leaving their own planet behind and are ascending up into space but I do not care. They must be destroyed otherwise."

He watched The Silver Bullet fly past his critically damaged vessel and head off into space. Devion knew that he had lost this battle and it was time to fall back. His reinforcements on the fourteen planets he'd conquered already will hopefully get the ship. The Doombringer slowly began to turn around, smoke still billowing out from the top of it, and it left Station Square behind. Sonic & Tails looked out the cockpit window where they saw The Doombringer leaving Station Square and heading back to New Mobotropolis.

"Devion's packing up and going." said Sonic "Shadow did it. The Doombringer 's damaged and it won't be bothering anyone for a while. I bet that'll give my friends an edge on the Devatrons."

"It will, the Devatrons will be very busy fixing their ship, thus giving our friends the moment to strike them while they're vulnerable." said Tails "As for us, it's off to Sram we go and hopefully, the Startrons will help us defeat the Devatrons once and for all!"

Tails continued to push the ship upwards as it flew up towards the atmosphere. The space voyage was on and Sonic & Tails' adventure to Sram was about to begin. Would the Startrons be of any help to them? Would they make it back? And will the others survive without Sonic helping them? So many thoughts circled in Sonic's head like a roundabout that never stopped spinning. And fate had the answers to those questions. It would be a matter of time until they were revealed and they would hopefully be the answers Sonic wanted…

Ooooh ho, ho! This is getting intense now! Sonic & Tails are going to meet the Devatron's cousins! Will they be willing to comply though? Or are Sonic & Tails wasting their time? Tune in as we meet some "Victims of the Devatrons" next time!

Meanwhile, tune into the spin-off title* Tales from Mobius *as Sonic's friends try to hold out against the Devatrons until Sonic & Tails come back!

Victims of the Devatrons

Story 112: Victims of the Devatrons

Going into space is a dream of many individuals. Travelling into space, the very world outside of the planet you walked upon, forever continues to be a fascinating concept to many young minds and These young minds will dream and dream of going into space and seeing the stars and what Earth looks like from a distance. Many species of the galaxy had fulfilled this dream thanks to superior technology and space travel and get to live the dream of going into space. And now, Sonic the Hedgehog and his best friend Tails the twin-tailed fox have become another pair of individuals to go up into space. Their ship The Silver Bullet had taken them all the way up through Mobius' atmosphere and now they were leaving their glorious world behind and entering the vast empty void of space. Sonic and Tails looked out the window and they could see Mobius behind them. Mobius looked very much like Earth only it had slightly less water the Earth and thus, had a greener look to it. Sonic had always wondered what Mobius looked like from space and Tails, despite reading many books and seeing pictures of Mobius from space, had been fascinated with the idea of going up into space and seeing this for himself. The two were awe-struck and they could hardly keep their eyes away.

"This is way past cool isn't it buddy?" said Sonic "We're up in space looking down on Mobius. The planet looks just as cool from up here then it does down on the planet itself."

"I'm so amazed that we're up here right now on this very spaceship flying up into space." said Tails "I'd always dreamed of this and now my dream's come true at last. If only mom and dad could see this now."

His expression fell into a solemn one as he thought about his parents. He hadn't seen them since their roboticization and despite his life with Sonic, he had been missing them dearly and just bringing them up made him feel down. Sonic could see that Tails had just ended up making himself feel sad so he decided to cheer him up. He patted the young fox on the back affectionately.

"I'm sure they would have loved to see you flying this spaceship." said Sonic gently "But I don't think they'd want you to start worrying about them while you've got a mission to do. Chin up Tails, we're gonna meet the Startrons and see if they can help us defeat the Devatrons. I need my best buddy at his best for this mission."

Tails looked up at Sonic and his solemn expression brightened up into a happy expression.

"You're right Sonic." said Tails "I can't get distracted now. The fate of Mobius depends on us now. Thank you Sonic."

He then hugged his best friend in gratitude for making him feel better. Sonic hugged him back, pleased to see he'd managed to cheer Tails up. It did pain him to see his friends looking miserable so he was always happy to make them feel better about themselves.

"You're welcome buddy." said Sonic "The hedgehog is always happy to cheer his friends up after all."

"I'm so glad I met someone with a heart as big as yours Sonic." said Tails happily "So, do you think we're ready to activate the hyper-drive and head off to Sram?"

"Whenever you're ready Tails." said Sonic.

So Sonic and Tails ran over to the control pad and they sat back down in their seats. The put on their seatbelts and Tails prepared to activate The Silver Bullet 's hyper drive. He had uploaded Sram's coordinates to the ship's navigation system with the aid of his size-adapting USB drive so the ship would take them to Sram once Tails activated the hyper drive. But before Tails could activate it, the radio communicator started going static, much to the surprise of Sonic & Tails.

"Whoa, the radio communicator's crackling!" cried Sonic in surprise.

"I think somebody's trying to contact us." said Tails "Let's see who it is."

The crackling stopped and the voice of none other then Queen Sally Acorn herself rang out from the communicator.

"Sonic? Tails? Can you hear me?" asked Sally "Are you two alright?"

"We're A-OK Sal." answered Sonic "I've really got to say that space is more amazing then you'd think it is. It's way past cool up here!"

"I can imagine it is." said Sally "So are you two preparing to go off to the Startron planet?"

"We are your majesty." said Tails "With the aid of my USB drive, I've uploaded Sram's coordinates from the data we downloaded into the ship's navigational systems. We're just preparing to jump into hyperspace now."

"Well it seems I was lucky enough to call you two then." said Sally "Well, I wish you two the best of luck and…"

But before Sally could finish, Amy Rose chipped in and spoke to Sonic & Tails.

"Sonic, we all wish you luck in your adventure and you'd better come back alive or we'll never win this stinkin' war!" she exclaimed.

"Don't sweat it Amy." said Sonic casually "I'll be back before you can say "Knothole."

"That's what I like to hear." said Amy happily "And don't worry about us Sonic, we'll be fine. Especially as we have Shadow helping us."

"Whoever said I was?" said Sonic snidely "I know you'll all hold on until me and Tails return. You guys are the greatest and if there's anyone I can count on to do my job for me, it's all the friends I have."

"We're all touched by your statement Sonic." said Sally "Thank you."

"No problem Sal." said Sonic "I've gotta go now though, we're preparing to activate the hyper-drive. See ya later everybody and remember, you're all way past cool…"

Tails switched the radio communicator off and he grabbed the lever for the hyper-drive. He pulled it outwards, twisted it to one side and prepared to push it back in. He looked over at Sonic.

"Ready?" he asked.

"I'm always ready." said Sonic "On to the Startron planet we go!"

Tails nodded and without further ado, he pushed the hyper-drive leader back into it's slot. The ship kicked into hyper gear and shot off into the vast emptiness of space faster then any supersonic aircraft on Earth. Sonic was overwhelmed with amazement as the ship zoomed off into hyperspace. He gripped the edges of his seat and whooped with joy. Tails clearly seemed to be enjoying this too for he was whooping with joy too.

"Whoo hoo!" cried Sonic "This is way past cool! Even I can't move as fast as this! Ye-ha!"

"I can't believe how awesome this is!" squealed Tails "We're moving so fast! We'll be at the Startron planet in two seconds flat at this rate!"

The Silver Bullet zoomed off at hyper-speed and headed off to it's set destination, the planet of Sram which was home to the Devatron's cousins, the Startrons. Hopefully they'd be able to help them defeat the Devatrons. If not then there was no hope left for anyone on Mobius…

Not long afterwards, The Silver Bullet came out of hyper-space and it slowed down to it's normal cruising speed. The Silver Bullet began to slowly fly through the void of space and headed towards a silver planet that was just ahead of it. This planet was ten times the size of Earth and was completely silver. The planet was also made of pure solid chrome like the Devatron planet of Deaveron. This planet was of course, Sram. Sram was pretty much the Devatron twin-planet and ever since the Devatron take-over of Sram, the planet had not changed a bit save for the fact the Devatrons were now in charge instead of the Startrons. Sonic and Tails stared at the silver sphere that loomed in front of them and they looked over at each other.

"Well, I guess we're here." said Sonic slowly.

"Sram, the home of the Devatron's cousins and one of the fourteen planets the Devatrons have subjugated." said Tails, his expression drooping as he began to imagine the poor Startrons suffering under the Devatrons' chrome-fisted rule "They have a chance though since the data we stole states their leader, General Klight by name, is in hiding and is probably devising a strategy to defeat the Devatrons whereas nobody else who's worlds have been conquered do."

"And hopefully, the Startrons are gonna tell us where General Klight is so we can meet up with him and see if he can help us defeat the Devatrons." said Sonic.

"That's right." said Tails as The Silver Bullet cruised further and further towards the planet of Sram "Hold on tight, we're very likely to get shot down upon entering this planet."

"If we do get shot down, I'm hoping we make it out alive." said Sonic.

The Silver Bullet cruised onwards and it flew straight into the planet's atmosphere. The Silver Bullet's wings and nose cone began to glow a bright crimson red as the ship ploughed through the planet's atmosphere. After a minute or so, the ship finally made it through Sram's atmosphere and it began to fly elegantly through the skies of the planet, which were a dull bronze colour. Sonic & Tails were speechless at what they were looking at upon entering the planet. Sram had huge chrome cities that stretched on for miles around. The cities went all over the planet in fact. The buildings themselves had been changed to meet the Devatron quota but if you had seen Sram before the Devatrons took over, there wouldn't have been that much of a difference between then and now. Down on the ground Sonic & Tails could see Devatrons working away and forcing along their Startron slaves. The Startrons were made of chrome like the Devatrons but they were a completely different design. They resembled humanoids only their heads had five enormous red spikes jutting out from the top. They had a long sharp beak that was even longer then Devion's. They had two eyes instead of one and their eyes were permanently moulded into an angry expression so they always looked angry. They had long pointed shoulders and five metal claws on each hand. A huge golden jetpack sat on their backs. Their feet were rather long like clown's shoes and to add to the effect, they were red like their eyes and spikes. They had an S-logo on their chests with a line going through the S. The Startrons weren't being treated too nicely either. Unlike the Devatrons, the Startrons weren't invulnerable so the Devatrons could torture them in many ways because of this. Some Devatrons stood guard and prodded the Startrons with electro-prods to get them moving and if any Startron dared to collapse during their work hour, they would be subjugated to an hour long torture session that many would consider to be downright brutal. Amazingly, no Devatron or Startron had seen The Silver Bullet yet but that was mostly because they were too busy keeping the Startrons in line and they couldn't hear The Silver Bullet because the machinery on the planet and the working Startrons was too loud for them to hear the ship's engines. It seemed that Sonic & Tails might be lucky enough to land on this planet without getting shot down. Sonic & Tails watched out the cockpit window as the Devatrons forced the Startrons to work harder.

"This is horrible." said Tails "Look at the way those poor Startrons are being abused."

"And to think they're actually related to the Devatrons." said Sonic "The Devatrons are treating them the same way they treat everybody else. The funny thing is, wouldn't you expect the Startrons to actually be on the Devatrons side and yet the Devatrons conquer their planet?"

"A lot of species in the galaxy don't work the way we think they would Sonic." said Tails "Just because they're related, it doesn't mean they have to get on with each other."

"Much like me and Scourge." said Sonic "So, where do you think we should land?"

"Down there." said Tails, pointing ahead of him "It's an unoccupied area and it doesn't look to be of any interest to the Devatrons or the Startrons. It'll hide us well."

The area Tails was talking about was merely an old Startron factory that had been abandoned and torn apart but the Devatrons hadn't bothered with it because they had enough factories as it was and they felt that the sight of a destroyed factory would just dampen the Startrons spirits further and make them succumb to their might. How big a mistake this would end up being on their part for Sonic & Tails were going to use it as a hiding place. The factory had no roof so Tails was free to manoeuvre The Silver Bullet towards the factory and just descend directly into it. The Silver Bullet hovered over the abandoned factory and it descended down into it nice and slowly. The dust that blanketed the old, abandoned machinery of the factory was sent flying up into the air as the ship neared the ground and it's fumes began to blow the dust around. The Silver Bullet eventually landed and Sonic & Tails unbuckled themselves from their seats.

"So Tails, do we need a suit or is the air of this planet not gonna kill us?" asked Sonic.

"I'm not too sure on that." said Tails "The air outside doesn't look deadly but we can't take chances out here so I think we should put a space suit on just in case."

So Sonic & Tails walked over to the storage compartment on their left hand side and they opened it up. The compartment contained some white space suits with red and blue loops on the arms and some space helmets for anyone using The Silver Bullet . Sonic & Tails put on the space suits and they activated the oxygen tanks.

"We can't stay out here for too long." said Tails, his voice slightly muffled by the space helmet "We only have an hour's worth of oxygen in the tanks according to the meter on them."

"Well Tails, with me on the case, we won't be too long out here." said Sonic.

Now they were suited up, Sonic & Tails stepped out of The Silver Bullet and into the world of Sram that awaited them outside. The moment Sonic & Tails set foot upon the floor of the abandoned factory they had parked their ship in, Sonic said something.

"It's one small step for man…and one giant LEAP for a hedgehog!"

he cried delightedly "Ha, I've always wanted to say that the day I ever went to another world."

"Keep your voice down Sonic!" hissed Tails "We can't get spotted out here or we're dead meat! There's lots of Devatrons out here and we're sure to get shot should they see or hear us!"

"Sorry Tails, the statement loses it's effect if you say it quietly." said Sonic "Now, where are we gonna find a Startron that's not surrounded by Devatrons here? It'll be better for us if we find one that's isolated or something so the Devatrons don't kill us."

Sonic & Tails walked across the empty area of the abandoned factory and they exited the building via the broken door at the end of the factory. It seemed rather eerie due to how empty and quiet it was around here and being as they were on a hostile world, Sonic & Tails couldn't be too cautious. They kept their senses alert for any possible sign of danger as they left the factory. There was none to be found so they carried on. Their surroundings had a lot of old Startron buildings, all bronze in colour, that had been run down and forcibly abandoned since the Devatrons weren't interested in using them. Sonic & Tails ran up to one building and they looked around the corner of it. What they saw was a line of Startrons slaving away for the Devatrons and being pushed along by their evil masters. They all had battle scars, cracks in their armour and wear and tear. It was quite clear they had been working for a long time and were just being pushed to their limits by the Devatrons for no reason other then sadistic pleasure. One Startron in the line collapsed from exhaustion and it was down on it's hands and knees. A Devatron soldier came up to the Startron and zapped it with a staff that emitted an electromagnetic pulse. The Startron screamed in pain as it was electrocuted and the Devatron then proceeded to kick it as hard as it could.

"Get up you Startron scum!" snarled the Devatron "You are forbidden to laze around! Come on! Get up!"

The Startron feebly forced itself back onto it's feet. It re-joined the line of Startrons and the Devatrons continued to force the line to move on. Sonic & Tails were livid at the sight of that and they really wanted to run in and stand up for the poor Startron.

"How could the Devatrons do this to their own cousins?" asked Tails "They have no shame in doing what they do don't they?"

"It would seem so." said Sonic "I'd love to bust a few Deva-heads while we're here but there's no way we're possibly gonna beat all them guys at once. The Devatrons will kill us if we dared to try and fight them all."

"I'm as reluctant as you are to stay out of this." said Tails "But we have a mission to do and if we get killed by the Devatrons then our friends back home will lose all hope on ever winning and the Devatrons will win."

Then suddenly, their conversation was interrupted by the sound of pounding metal feet. Sonic & Tails freaked and they both dived behind the corner of the building, fearing that a Devatron was coming. They could hear the pounding metal feet getting closer and closer to them. The sound got louder & louder until finally the sound stopped. Sonic & Tails wondered why that was and they peeked around the corner to see what was there. To their surprise and relief, it was none other then a Startron soldier. This soldier had bronze outlines around it's beak and it had a nasty crack in it's jet pack, suggesting it probably no longer worked. The Startron appeared to be hiding from the Devatrons since it was crouching down behind the building Sonic & Tails were hiding behind too. The Startron peeked around the corner and made sure that no one was watching it. Sonic & Tails decided to take their chance and speak to it. They crept out from behind their corner and sneaked up to the Startron.

"Hey! Psst!" hissed Sonic.

The Startron jumped and it deployed it's arm cannons. It spun around and pointed them directly at Sonic & Tails' heads. Sonic & Tails jumped in surprise and they instantly held their hands up.

"Whoa! Easy, easy, easy!" cried Tails "Please, don't shoot us! Please! We mean no harm!"

The Startron just glowered at the two Mobians with it's red reptilian looking eyes but it didn't shoot Sonic & Tails. It retracted it's cannon arms and stood up nice and straight, it's eyes still fixed on the Mobians.

"Who are you furry freaks and why do you stride upon Startron territory?" growled the Startron.

It's voice was very gravely and would give you a sore throat if you tried to impersonate it. Sonic fumed at the Startron, clearly offended at the fact it just called him & Tails "freaks" and he stormed up to him angrily.

"Hey buster! I don't take kindly to being insulted so you take that back before I spin-dash you to bits!" yelled Sonic.

"You dare to threaten a Startron warrior?" snarled the Startron "Only fools would dare to battle us! The Devatrons are exceptions since they're more powerful then we are!"

"Look sir, we don't wanna harm you." said Tails "We're Mobians from the planet Mobius and we're here to ask for help from your leader."

The Startron gave Tails a cold stare. If it's eyes could change shape, they'd probably be widening.

"You wish to meet our leader?" said the Startron in surprise "Why ever would you want to meet our leader?!"

"The Devatrons have invaded our planet and are trying to conquer it." explained Tails "We've tried all we can but we can't defeat them. Me and Sonic infiltrated their ship The Doombringer and we downloaded some information about the Startrons and their Homeworld and we theorized that your leader General Klight might be able to help us since he's in hiding."

"You are right to theorize young one because General Klight is indeed in hiding and in the time he's been hiding, he's been devising a strategy to defeat the Devatrons and wipe them all out." said the Startron.

"Cool." said Sonic "So do you know where he is?"

"I do little "Mobians" but I'm not sure if I should relinquish such information to you." said the Startron sternly "How do I know you're not working for the Devatrons and want to find General Klight so that you may terminate him?"

"You can trust us buddy." said Sonic "We're the heroes of our world and we only wanna stop the Devatrons from conquering our world."

"Please sir, we're not affiliated with the Devatrons." said Tails "We hate them as much as you do. Please help us out. I'm sure your leader would approve of this."

The Startron thought on this matter for a moment. It didn't take him long to make up his mind though.

"General Klight would approve." said the Startron "He's always happy to help a soul in need. Mobians, you have convinced me you're innocent party and I will supply General Klight's whereabouts to you."

"Neat-o!" said Sonic happily "Thanks Startron um….do you have a name?"

"Yes. My name is Lieutenant Stark and I am General Klight's most trusted advisor." said the Startron "I've been sent to Sram to monitor the Devatrons and see how things are going. My reports have mostly been the same but now, I've got a different story to tell him."

"So how do you get here then Stark?" asked Tails "Do you come by ship or something?"

"Not at all little one." said Stark "I have teleporting abilities. After General Klight and a group of Startrons escaped, we installed teleportation abilities into ourselves so we could warp back to Sram and our hiding place at will and see how things are going. Our teleport has no limits so we can teleport to anywhere we wish."

"So can you just teleport us over to General Klight then?" asked Sonic.

"No I cannot." said Stark gravely "We can only teleport ourselves. We cannot teleport and bring something with us. You will have to come by ship. Take me to your ship and I shall upload General Klight's coordinates into the navigational systems so you may meet him. I will warp back to him and inform him of your arrival and explain your motives so he knows that he has innocent party coming to him."

"Sounds great." said Sonic "Now follow us, our ship's quite near to where we are now."

With that said, Sonic & Tails ran off with Lieutenant Stark running after them. The two Mobians led him to the abandoned factory where The Silver Bullet awaited them. Stark was impressed with the look of The Silver Bullet and he climbed up into the ship after Sonic & Tails. Sonic & Tails closed the hatch behind them so nobody else could get in. Sonic & Tails removed their spacesuits and Lieutenant Stark wandered over to the control panel.

"Will we still need our suits where General Klight is?" asked Sonic.

"No. The air he's in is habitable for you organic beings." said Lieutenant Stark "Now wait a moment while I upload the coordinates in your navigation system."

Sonic & Tails stood by while Lieutenant Stark uploaded the coordinates to General Klight's location in the ship's navigational system. A long wire extended out from his chest and it slotted itself into the control pad. That was how Startrons transferred information. Stark shut off for a moment while he uploaded the coordinates into the system. A few minutes later, Stark had finished his job and he re-activated. He stood up from the cockpit seats and he turned to face Sonic & Tails.

"The coordinates to General Klight's location are now uploaded." said Stark "Me and the General shall be waiting for you to arrive."

"Sure thing Starky." said Sonic "Thanks for everything. You're way past cool."

"A Startron is always willing to help those in need of assistance." said Stark "That is the life of a Startron. Just a pity our cousins didn't want to follow our lifestyle and betrayed us when they had a sudden heel turn all those years ago."

"It is a pity." said Sonic "You Startrons have more sense then the Devatrons."

"Indeed blue one." said Stark "Well I must go now. Goodbye for now."

With that said, he touched the Startron logo on his chest and he teleported into thin air. He was returning to General Klight right now and Sonic & Tails were soon going to join him. Sonic & Tails sat down in the cockpit seats and activated the thrusters to The Silver Bullet. The Silver Bullet could take off and land in two different ways. Like an aeroplane or like a helicopter. The Silver Bullet hovered up off the ground and then it began to descend up into the bronze coloured skies of Sram. Unfortunately, some Devatrons on the ground saw them taking off. They instantly grew suspicious at the sight of The Silver Bullet given how it wasn't even of their own make and design.

"What is that abomination?!" blurted on Devatron soldier.

"It is not one of ours!" snarled one soldier "We must shoot it down and see who owns it!"

The Devatron soldiers all deployed their arm cannons and they aimed at the ascending ship as it began to lift out of the factory. The Silver Bullet stopped ascending and it turned around so it could activate it's jet boosters and rocket off into space again. The Devatrons instantly began shooting at the ship. Their blasts soared towards The Silver Bullet but some of them missed and some hit it but didn't damage it in a way that was bad for the ship. The blasts just rocked the ship more then anything. Sonic & Tails cried out in surprise and Tails pulled on the controls to stabilize the ship.

"Holy mackerel Sonic!" cried Tails "Someone's shooting at us!"

"No prizes for guessing who that is then." muttered Sonic "Step on it before we get shot down Tails!"

Tails was about to activate the jet boosters and set the ship zooming off but just as be began to pull the lever, one of the Devatrons shot one of the ship's rocket boosters and damaged it. The attack made the ship jerk heavily and Sonic & Tails would have fallen out of their seats if they hadn't been wearing their seatbelts. The Silver Bullet regained balance and Tails looked at the diagram of the ship that was displayed on a screen on the control pad. One of the rocket boosters was coloured in red on the diagram. That meant the damage done to it had been quite bad and it was out of use. Tails was horrified to see this.

"Oh no!" cried Tails "The Devatrons destroyed one of our rockets! We can't zoom away from here!"

"What's the fastest we can go?" asked Sonic.

"About medium speed at the most." Tails theorized "We can't afford to sustain any more damage or we're stuck here!"

"Then step it on quickly!" cried Sonic.

Tails pulled pack on the thrust levers and The Silver Bullet 's only remaining two rockets (it had three like a shuttle) kicked into gear. The Silver Bullet began to cruise away from the shooting Devatrons, moving at a considerably slower pace then before. The Devatrons continued to shoot madly at it but their efforts were in vain for The Silver Bullet was too high up for them to accurately hit and it was pulling away. The Devatrons kept shooting and shooting but The Silver Bullet was finally out of their reach and heading up into the planet's atmosphere. The Devatrons cursed their bad luck and they returned to their duties.

"We missed that ship!" moaned one Devatron.

"The ship is leaving so the owners of the ship obviously did not intend to interfere with us." said another Devatron "But what they were doing here mystifies me. We must send some Devatron scouts to track that ship down."

"I shall give the order immediately." said another Devatron.

The Devatron ran off to give the command. They would find that ship and once they did, they'd find out why it was here on Sram and what the occupants inside the ship were planning on doing. It seemed that Sonic & Tails would have a lot on their plate right now…

A couple of hours later, Sonic & Tails finally arrived at General Klight's destination. The coordinates that Lieutenant Stark had uploaded into their navigation systems had taken them a long, long way away from Sram and through a treacherous asteroid field. It had been a tense flight through those asteroids but Tails had managed to steer them through it and now they were coming towards a particularly big asteroid at the end of the field. Tails manoeuvred the ship past the asteroid and flew on past the asteroids. What they ended up coming across was a small planet that was barely bigger then Pluto and was completely icy blue in colour. Despite the planet's small size, it could sustain life on it for it had water and it's own sun nearby. Tails looked at the navigation systems and it was telling him to continue moving forward. That obviously meant General Klight was on this small planet.

"Well Sonic, I think this is it." said Tails "General Klight's hiding place."

"No wonder he's hiding here." said Sonic "It's surrounded by asteroids and it looks quite small for a planet so the Devatrons aren't gonna expect to find him here are they?"

"I'm pretty sure I'd overlook that planet if I was searching for a runaway Startron." said Tails.

The Silver Bullet cruised on through the realms of space and it headed towards the small planet. It entered the planet's atmosphere, the tips of it's wings and nose cone glowing red as it did so, and the ship found itself cruising through a bright blue sky. They were inside the planet and Sonic noticed something immediately. The planet was fully covered in water with only tiny bits of land in sight. If someone came to this planet and sucked up all the water here and took it to Earth, they could flood every single country on the planet. Sonic felt like he was going to faint in his seat.

"Oh shucks!" moaned Sonic "The planet's a water planet! Now I REALLY know why General Klight's hiding here!"

"Don't complain Sonic." said Tails "There's some land around here and the navigation system is telling me to head to that big looking mountain over there."

Sonic & Tails looked ahead of them selves and they could see a rather big mountain that stood proudly above the mass amount of water that stretched for miles around the planet. The mountain had a wide ledge that stretched out a good distance from it. This ledge was used as a landing strip and Tails steered The Silver Bullet towards that. To their surprise, Lieutenant Stark was waiting for them on the ledge and he had another Startron with him. This Startron was General Klight himself. He had the same build as the Startron soldiers except his shoulder pads pointed upwards and had a black stripe on them, he had black stripes on his arms, black outlines around his beak and eyes and two metallic wing like structures from his shoulders. He carried an impressive looking staff in his hand that proudly had the Startron logo on it. Sonic & Tails could easily tell he was supposed to be the leader of the Startrons. The Silver Bullet closed in on the ledge and it landed down onto it just in front of Klight and Stark, the fumes of the ship making Klight's metal shoulder wings blow out behind him. The ship touched down and Sonic & Tails stepped out of it. They climbed down the boarding steps and they walked up to General Klight. The Startron General looked down at them with a cold look in his eyes.

"These are the individuals who wished to meet you my lord." said Stark.

General Klight pointed his staff at the two and Sonic & Tails jumped backwards.

"So you two have journeyed from afar to meet up with the very leader of the Startron race?" he boomed, his voice was considerably grander sounding then a Startron soldier's "Interesting. State your cases little furry ones."

"My name's Sonic the Hedgehog and this is my buddy Tails." said Sonic "We're from Mobius and we've come all this way to ask you guys to help us."

"Our world's being invaded by the Devatrons and we're desperate to stop them." said Tails "We infiltrated their ship and got some data about you guys and we thought that you could help us."

General Klight held his staff back up and he put one hand on his hip.

"Well visitors from Mobius, you have come at a most perfect time." said General Klight "Come with me and you shall see what I mean. But first, do you swear on your very souls that you come on peaceful terms and you are not Devatron agents hoping to extract information out of me?"

"We're squeaky clean General." said Sonic truthfully "We hate the Devatrons, we don't want anything to do with them."

"Please trust us sir." said Tails "We're really honest here. We just wanna stop the Devatrons."

General Klight thought for a moment and then he answered.

"Your words have convinced me." said Klight "Startrons are excellent at sensing the words of truth and the words of liars and your words are completely truthful. You are free to see my hideout. Follow me and I shall explain to you on what I meant earlier."

General Klight led Sonic & Tails across the landing ledge and up to the mountain it was connected to. Sonic tried his best not to look down at the water that lapped at the foot of the ledge and mountain. They reached the start of the landing ledge and General Klight pressed on a rock that was sticking out. The rock was a secret button and pressing it opened up a secret door. A chunk of rock moved up and everybody went through it, the rock closing back down after they'd walked inside. Sonic & Tails looked around and they found out that they had just stumbled into a secret lair that the Startrons were now occupying. The lair was merely just a giant laboratory that had technology that was on par with the Devatrons' own technology and there were Startron soldiers working by the dozen. Tails, being the techno-geek he is, beamed like a sunrise and he was amazed with everything there. The working Startrons looked up from their duties and stared at Sonic & Tails but the two didn't seem to notice.

"Wow! Look at all this!" exclaimed Tails delightedly "This is incredible! Your technology looks so cool!"

"We are pleased to hear that our technology appeals to you my twin-tailed friend." said General Klight "The Startrons in the realms of technology are second only to our cousins the Devatrons."

"Speaking of which General, how did you and this group of Startrons escape the Devatrons anyway?" asked Sonic.

"I shall tell you the story Sonic, but first let's start at the beginning." said General Klight "Back during the times where the Devatrons were good, the Startrons were created from the core of Sram and we were lead by an emperor whereas the Devatrons were led by a king. We were created for the sole purpose of helping out those in need and the Startrons were willing to fulfil that vow in any mean's necessary. The Devatrons suddenly had a change of heart after King Hardigm, their ruler was killed by the Knights of Krococ and they began conquering planets. After conquering four planets, they targeted us next and they prevailed over us with their invulnerable armour and superior fighting skills. In the last days of our fight against the Devatrons, I sensed that we would eventually get defeated so I sought desperate methods to survive. And the only way to ensure survival was me and a group of the best Startrons flee the planet and devise a strategy to defeat the Devatrons. The Emperor Startron decided to remain behind and keep up the battle against the Devatrons. I tried to convince him to come but he refused. He preferred to die among his people then flee in cowardice. So me and my elite group fled Sram via warship and our Emperor covered for us with a big squadron of Startrons. Sadly, our glorious Emperor ended up being…terminated. After leaving Sram, we found this planet and given how it's small size makes it look like it cannot support life, nobody will expect to find us here so we settled down here to think on our methods."

"Interesting." said Sonic "So how long have you been here?"

"Eighty years." said General Klight "We've been spending most of our time trying to devise a tactic to defeat the Devatrons. The first thing we did was invent our teleportation devices so we could regularly check up on Sram and see how things were going. It pains me to send Stark to do such tasks only to hear that the Devatrons still continue to abuse us all like this."

"Eighty years?!" blurted Tails "I guess devising a way to defeat the Devatrons isn't as simple as one would think isn't it?"

"No Tails, we haven't been spending this long trying to devise a method, we already have one." said General Klight "We've been this long because it's been an excruciating process trying to get it to work."

"So you have a method?" asked Sonic "What method is that then?"

General Klight didn't say anything. Instead, he walked over to a steel casket that was sitting on a table nearby and he opened it. The casket contained a spherical object that looked like it could shatter easily. General Klight took the object out and he showed it to Sonic & Tails. They both stared at it, wondering if it was some kind of bomb or something.

"This is a Negaton-Virus bomb." explained General Klight "It contains a virus that when released, has a spread of fifty yards and should devour anything that's made of Devatron chrome. Devatron chrome is a distinct material and the virus has been created to only effect that kind of material. Should it work, it should destroy the Devatron's armour and expose their exoskeletons and make them vulnerable and easy to destroy. The problem is that we've tried many times but the virus has been ineffective in our tries. We used our teleporters to sneak to Deaveron, steal a sample of Devatron chrome and then test the virus on it."

"And the virus didn't destroy it." said Sonic "Now that explains the eighty years you've spent here."

"We've spent most of our time just CREATING the virus." said General Klight "We've spent the past twenty years just trying to get it to work. Our last attempt was a month ago and we had some kind of success when the virus actually managed to leave scars on the chrome sample but it still wasn't the desired result. We've tinkered with the virus again and we're giving it yet another try. We're hoping we've got it right this time."

"Well I'm crossing my fingers for you." said Tails, crossing his fingers like so "Let's hope it works."

"If it works then we can FINALLY put an end to the Devatron's malevolent nature and malicious lifestyles once and for all." said General Klight.

"Wait a minute." said Sonic "If you're making a virus to kill the Devatrons…then does that make you as bad as them? I mean the Devatrons kill anyone for conquest and you're resorting to killing just to get rid of them. Isn't this genocide attempt kind of…wrong in some way?"

"Genocide is never right my furry friend." said General Klight softly "But there's no other way. Nothing can match the Devatron might. They're just too powerful and the only way we'll be free from them is if we destroy them. This virus, if it works, will save the entire universe and free everybody who's been conquered by the Devatrons."

"OK then." said Sonic "I'll let you guys off. After all, some people prefer to use violence and such as a last resort and that's what you're doing, using that virus as a last resort."

"Indeed Sonic." said General Klight "Now, you two stay where you are while I test the virus."

General Klight wondered over to a glass container that had a fresh new sample of Devatron chrome that had been stolen from Deaveron itself by Lieutenant Stark. General Klight knelt down to the container and he opened a latch on the bomb. He put the bomb in the container and he closed it to prevent the virus from spreading and drifting around the base. The bomb leaked a faint, violet mist that filled the whole container up and fogged it up, preventing anyone from seeing it. Sonic & Tails watched, their stomachs tightening as they waited for the result to be revealed. General Klight waited for a minute before finally sticking his hand into the container and retrieving the bomb. The bomb was now completely empty and the virus still drifted around inside the container. But it didn't last very long and another minute later, the mist died down and General Klight looked at the container. Sonic & Tails could feel themselves trembling with worry. Had it worked? Was this another failure? They were keen to see the result. General Klight stared into the container as the virus drifted away and what he saw…was the sample of chrome still standing up nicely as it had been before but with a very noticeable difference. The sample was cracked very badly and it looked extremely brittle now. General Klight poked it with his claw and the sample crumbled to pieces after that one tiny prod. General Klight stood up and delivered the result to Sonic.

"While the virus still doesn't devour chrome…it makes it extremely brittle and easy to destroy." said General Klight "That's near enough to the desired result."

"Yes! It works!" cried Sonic "Whoo! Way past cool!"

"We can stop the Devatrons now!" cheered Tails "Mobius is saved at last!"

"That depends if the virus has the same effect on a proper functioning Devatron." said General Klight gravely "It may have made the sample brittle but the Devatrons are more then this small sample. We have no idea if it can just as easily dissolve a proper sized Devatron as it did this small sample."

"Well Klight, why don't you give me and Tails one of those bomb thingy's and we'll put it to the test?" asked Sonic "If it works, we'll let you know and then you can make some bombs and destroy the Devatrons."

General Klight had a think on this idea. Should he really risk the lives of two innocent over-world beings just for the Startron cause? This was not the Startron way but then again, trying it on Sram and it not working would risk him everything and Sonic & Tails were willing to try so he could let them. If they failed then the Startrons could take this into account and try and improve the virus once more. They'd been at this for eighty years now and they were finally making progress. They had to test this so General Klight decided to let them try it.

"I have taken your thought into consideration…and I approve of it." said General Klight "You and Tails may take one bomb and try it out on the Devatrons invading your world. I shall give you this communications device so that you may inform me on the virus's effect."

He handed Sonic a futuristic looking ear piece that had the Startron logo on it. Sonic took the device and he put it on his ear. It surprisingly had a snug fit and didn't feel uncomfortable on him.

"Thanks." said Sonic "And thanks for everything General. You're way past cool you are."

"Your compliments are endearing and I appreciate them Sonic." said General Klight "Now, return to your home and help the Startrons get a step closer to the deaths of the Devatrons. Help us save the universe and free it from our treacherous cousin's might!"

"We will do sir." said Tails "We can't thank you enough for helping us out like this. We're forever in your debt General Klight."

"You do not need to thank us." said General Klight "We Startrons are just happy to help out. Now go you two. We will stand by and await your reports on the virus."

"OK General." said Sonic with a wave "See ya around. And let's hope this virus works!"

General Klight just saluted Sonic & Tails as they were leaving. Sonic & Tails left the lab with the Negaton-Virus Bomb in hand and General Klight watched them as they ran down to the end of the landing ledge and they boarded The Silver Bullet . The Silver Bullet 's engines roared into life and the ship took off from the ledge. It rotated around a full ninety degrees and it flew up into the sky. Klight watched it as it disappeared from view into the bright blue skies of this planet and Stark strode up to him.

"Did you really think those Mobians were trustworthy sir?" asked Stark.

"Yes." said Klight "I did. I sensed no lies in their statements. Those two were definitely an interesting pair and I hope that they carry out the bomb's test successfully. If the test is successful, we can finally get rid of our cousins and restore peace to the universe. They deviated from their purpose but we shall not make that same mistake…"

Klight began to picture a future without Devatrons in his head. He was so looking forward to seeing Devion and his cronies all dead and crumbled to pieces by the very virus they created. What joy it would bring to the galaxy when the Devatrons were finally dead and unable to threaten anymore planets…

A few minutes later, Sonic & Tails were up in space again and they were cruising through the asteroid field that they had gotten through when they arrived at the planet. Tails was flying the ship and Sonic had the bomb on his lap. Sonic looked at the bomb and began to wonder what damage the virus could really cause.

"This bomb maybe our ticket to winning the battle against the Devatrons." said Sonic "But what if it doesn't work as well as it did on that test sample?"

"If it doesn't then the Startrons will just have to make another virus and see if that one works." said Tails "But I don't think we can hold out that long. We just have to cross our fingers and pray for the best."

"I'll say." murmured Sonic "I hope my friends are OK right now."

"I'm sure they're doing just fine." said Tails reassuringly "They've got Shadow helping them. Shadow will keep those Devatrons busy I'm sure."

But unfortunately, it seemed that Sonic & Tails would have more then just their friend's well-being back home to be concerned about. They exited the asteroid storm and found themselves staring at what appeared to be a fleet of chrome ships all close together and cruising through space in search of something. Sonic & Tails instantly guessed what they were due to their designs having similarities to The Doombringer .

"Oh no!" cried Sonic "There's a fleet of Devatron ships out there! And there's a lot of them too!"

"I think we've just went out of the frying pan into the fire!" shrieked Tails as the ships began to cruise in their direction…

Eek! Sonic & Tails are in trouble! There's a fleet of Devatron ships and I bet they're looking for them! Can they escape the fleet? Can they get home and use the virus on the Devatrons? And will it work?! Tune in as the three part finale to this saga begins...!

Meanwhile, tune in to* Tales from Mobius *for the last two parts of the current arc to see how Sonic's friends have been doing during this story!

The Tides of War Part 1

Story 113: The Tides of War Part 1: Turn Up For The Books

Things had finally been looking up for Sonic the Hedgehog after he and his sidekick Tails left Mobius to visit the Startrons and see if they could help the Mobians in their battle against the Devatrons. They had been given a Negatron Virus-Bomb, a weapon that contained a virus that would destroy the Devatron's armour and leave them vulnerable and easy to destroy. But just as they had been leaving Sram to go back home to Mobius, the two ended up coming across a fleet of Devatron ships. The Devatrons had been suspicious of their visit to Sram so they'd been on the look out for them and now it looked like they were going to catch them. There were hundreds of ships and they were all cruising towards The Silver Bullet , the ship that Sonic & Tails were in. Sonic & Tails stared in horror at the oncoming ships. It would take them a couple of minutes to get to them but once they did get to them, Sonic & Tails would be doomed. The Silver Bullet was used for space missions, not combat and thus, was not equipped with any weapons. They would be unable to fight the ships so they would just have to outrun the ships and luckily they would be able to since they had a hyper-drive. They would just have to get into the right place first as activating a hyper-drive when facing a fleet of ships was probably the stupidest thing you could ever do. As the ships cruised closer to The Silver Bullet , Sonic turned to Tails desperately.

"Tails! The Devatron ships are coming towards us! You got any ideas?!" asked Sonic.

"I have." said Tails "We can't fight the ships because our ship has no weapons. We're gonna try and outrun the Devatrons and once we get into the right place, we'll activate the hyper-drive. They'll be biting the dust once we do that!"

"But what if they have hyper-drives too?" asked Sonic "Then they'll end up following us to Mobius!"

"So what if they do?" sneered Tails "We've got the Startron weapon. We'll just use it to wipe them out as well as the ones on Mobius."

"And if the bomb doesn't work as planned?" noted Sonic, remembering that the Startrons weren't sure if the bomb would work as well on a live Devatron as it did on the test sample.

"Then we're in big trouble." said Tails, his ears flattening down to the sides of his head "Let's hope they don't have hyper-drives but knowing their technology, they'll probably have a hyper-drive in their ships."

"We should just hope that the Devatrons won't be able to track us once we activate the hyper-drive." said Sonic "Now Tails, I think we should floor it, the ships are getting closer!"

He was too right on that. The ships were almost up to them. They were a good few feet away yet and in a minute, they'd be directly up to them.

"Hold on tight Sonic, we're getting outta here!" cried Tails, grabbing the controls and turning the ship around.

The Silver Bullet rotated a full ninety degrees and it's rocket boosters kicked in. The ship began to speed away from the oncoming Devatron fleet. But one of it's rockets had been damaged earlier so it couldn't go at top speed. It could only go at a medium speed. The Devatrons in the ships that made up the fleet saw The Silver Bullet flying away and they activated their ship's rocket boosters.

"There's the ship we were looking for!" cried the leader of the fleet "Chase it down and destroy it! We must find out why it was on Sram!"

This Devatron was the fleet leader and it had the same standard Devatron appearance with the only difference to the soldiers being a new head with had two structures on either side of it's face with one point facing forward and three points protruding behind it. The fleet of ships picked up speed and they flew after The Silver Bullet . The Devatron ships could go at top speed and they were brilliant ships which were far more technically advanced then any spaceship on Mobius so they'd catch up to The Silver Bullet easily. As the Devatron ships chased The Silver Bullet , the ships all flew away from the asteroid field and they headed on out into the void of space and beyond. Sonic watched as they headed away from the asteroid field and he looked back at Tails, who was pushing the ship to it's fullest, making it go as fast as he could. His heart was racing like mad and he was gripping the controls so hard he looked like he was going to accidentally crush them in the palms of his hands.

"Hey Tails, don't you think flying through the asteroid field might have been a good idea to lose them?" asked Sonic.

"It would but I'm not risking the Devatrons finding the planet the Startrons are hiding on and then terminating General Klight." said Tails "That could happen and the Startrons would be livid if General Klight got terminated and it was our fault."

"Good point there Tails." said Sonic "Hopefully if we come across another asteroid field, we can use it to slow the Devatrons down. I have a feeling they're gonna catch up to us anytime soon if we don't do something to slow them down."

He was right on that. The Devatron ships were beginning to catch up to him and Tails. The entire fleet began to open fire on The Silver Bullet . Laser fire began to zoom towards the ship and Tails steered the ship out of the way of the firing lasers to avoid getting hit by them. The Silver Bullet was a small ship and he could not afford to have it get damaged, especially as it was damaged in a way that was hindering them already. The ship would be going at top speed if it wasn't for the damaged rocket although even that wouldn't have helped since the Devatron ships were still faster then The Silver Bullet . If this chase continued though, the Devatrons would catch up to Sonic & Tails and then they would be doomed…

Meanwhile over in New Mobotropolis, the Royal Fighters had all been taken onboard The Doombringer after being knocked out by a Devatron laser grid. Despite their best efforts during Sonic & Tails' time in space, they had been sorely defeated* and now they were being locked up in the Devatron prison cells were they would get to see their last words to each other and then they would all be executed in proper Devatron fashion. The cell blockade had been repaired from the time the Mobians broke in and rescued the citizens of New Mobotropolis and now all the Royal Fighter teams were imprisoned in the cells. There was no way out for any of them. Even Shadow the Hedgehog. He had been fitted with an inhibitor collar, a device the Devatrons had for containing rouge soldiers or dangerous prisoners. Shadow couldn't Chaos Blast his way out of the cell, he couldn't teleport out of the cell, he was stuck being just a perfectly normal being now. He had tried to remove the collar but it was invulnerable, like the Devatrons were, and it could not be removed by the user. That meant only a Devatron could take it off of him. The Royal Fighters had no way out of this predicament now. Sonic & Tails were their only hope and they were being pursued by Devatrons so the chances of them coming to the rescue were a hundred to one. This truly was, Mobius' darkest hour. The Mobians had fought long and hard against the Devatrons and yet they were about to be executed. Mobius was lost and the Devatrons had won. Mobius would be added to Devion's long list of conquered planets and then he could move onto another one. In the cells, there were up to four or five Royal Fighters in a cell and they were all restrained to the wall by clamps around their wrists and ankles that could only be opened via remote control so there was no getting out of them so easily. Sally & Nicole were in a cell together and they were both in tears. The fact that they'd been beaten and that they were going to be executed shortly made them so downhearted that they'd pretty much given up hope on everything, including the return of Sonic & Tails.

"I can't believe it Nicole." sobbed Sally, looking down at her feet and allowing the tears to flow down her furry cheeks and splash down onto her toes "All our time fighting Dr. Eggman and other threats such as Marik, Scourge and even Blizzard and this is how it ends for us. We're all going to be executed by the Devatrons! I feel so stupid for getting us all captured like this! I knew it was a trap and yet I ordered everybody to walk into the city! I should have known better then to just walk into NewMobotropolis when we have no idea what we're up against!"

"Sally, don't blame yourself." said Nicole, her sorrow getting worse and worse just listening to Sally beat herself up like this "We were all sure that the Devatrons were planning to trap us and yet we still fell for it. There was no telling what kind of trap the Devatrons laid for us. It's just unfortunate for us that we got caught in it. I will admit it was clever of the Devatrons to set up a trap involving a laser grid so that they could catch us all easily."

"That just further proves that the Devatrons were too clever for us." muttered Sally "Despite our best efforts, the Devatrons outsmarted us all in the end. The Devatrons have proven that they're more clever then us as well as stronger then us. They've won this battle and now Mobius is going to be conquered by the Devatrons."

"Sally don't lose hope." said Nicole gently "There's still Sonic & Tails out in space and meeting the Startrons. They'll arrive back home and save us all."

"No they won't Nicole." said Sally, the tears flowing even faster now "We'll all be dead…by the time they…sniff!...arrive back and…it'll be too late for…them…to…save Mobius!"

Sally then broke down crying even harder then before. The tears flowed like a waterfall down her cheeks and they dripped down onto her toes. Nicole began to feel even more depressed and felt like crying with Sally. She wanted to say something else but she didn't think it was worth saying anything else. Nothing she could say would be of any use or of any help. When Sally was depressed, there was no cheering her up. Nicole decided to keep quiet and not say anything more.

In another cell, Team Rose were all together and they were equally as depressed as Sally & Nicole were. Amy was the only one who remotely had any hope left in her heart and that's only because she's a big fan of Sonic. If she wasn't, she'd probably be as depressed as Cream & Cosmo.

"Oh Amy, this is it for us all!" wailed Cream "We're all gonna die at the hands of those horrible Devatron monsters!"

"This isn't how I wanted to go." sobbed Cosmo "Dying on another world. Mother and father will never know what happened to me. If they win the war with the Martians they'll search the galaxy for me and they'll never find me. I can just…imagine their faces…right now…"

Cosmo could feel herself beginning to break down as she pictured the horrified look on her parent's faces when they discovered she was gone.

"And…I'll never get to tell Tails…how I feel about him…either." Cosmo added, feeling even sadder now and the tears in her eyes finally falling down her cheeks.

"Oh girls, don't be so depressed." said Amy "Sonic will save us. He always does remember?"

"I know Sonic's saved us before Amy but I don't think he'll be back in time." said Cosmo in a defeated tone "He and Tails have gone far away to meet the cousins of the Devatrons. I highly doubt they'll be back in time."

"I think I agree with Cosmo Miss Rose." said Cream reluctantly "I don't think Mr. Sonic will make it in time."

"I can't believe it, you two have given up all hope?!" blurted Amy "Well I must say I'm surprised at you girls! Sonic wouldn't give up hope, even if he was in our position, so we shouldn't give up on him! You might be convinced it's all over but I'm not! I believe Sonic will make it back in time and he'll save us all from the Devatrons!"

"Mr. Sonic might make it in time Miss Rose, it just seems unlikely that's all." mumbled Cream.

"Well just you wait Cream, Sonic will arrive in the nick of time and save us all before the Devatrons can execute us!" declared Amy "You'll see!"

Cream and Cosmo just looked down at their feet, much to Amy's chagrin. Even though she was still hopeful for Sonic's return to Mobius in the nick of time, she secretly began doubting if he would make it in time too. Sonic maybe fast but not that fast and he's in a spaceship so that would slow him down a lot. Sonic & Tails could well be halfway across the galaxy by now and the Devatrons were preparing to execute them all. If Sonic made it in time then it would be a miracle.

Knuckles, Shade and the Chaotix had all been put together in another cell and rather then feeling downhearted, they were more trying to break out of the cell. Knuckles had struggled in his bonds vigorously and so was Vector but even their strength was not enough to get them out of this predicament. Shade, Espio & Charmy just watched them waste their strength, knowing that struggling was futile. They had tried themselves and they'd failed miserably. Knuckles & Vector continued to struggle in their chrome bonds and Charmy yawned, clearly bored with all this. They'd been at it for ten minutes and they were still trying. Would they just give up already?

"Hey you two, quit it will ya? You're just boring me to death now." muttered Charmy.

"Shut up Charmy!" snapped Vector "I am not willing to get executed by those Devatrons so I'm getting us all outta here!"

"Same here!" grunted Knuckles as he writhed about.

"Knuckles, we're never getting out of these bonds." said Shade "They're too tough. They're Devatron bonds too so they're likely to be as strong as they are."

"I don't care Shade!" shouted Knuckles "I'm not going down so easily! I'll break free of these bonds even if I have to struggle forever!"

"Boy will that be boring." muttered Charmy "Doing nothing but struggling forever, won't you get tired after awhile?"

"Shut up Charmy!" grumbled Knuckles.

"Charmy has a point though." said Espio "All you're gonna do is tire yourself out Knuckles. This feeble struggling won't get you anywhere."

"You can say that again." muttered Vector "None of us will be going anywhere at this rate. We're chained up in a Devatron prison cell along with everybody else and we can't break free. How are we gonna get out of this one?"

"I don't know Vector." said Knuckles "But I think we can all agree that if I decided not to be too overly cautious and let Sonic use the Master Emerald to turn super then we could have ended this conflict already and we wouldn't be in this mess. I maybe the guardian of AngelIsland but at times, I think I'm too protective of the emerald for my own good! And once the Devatrons finish us off, who knows what they'll do to the Master Emerald once they find it?!"

"They'll just use it for fuel knowing them." murmured Shade "They stole the Chaos Emerald's power and use it for fuel so I can assume the same will be done to the Master Emerald."

"I bet you're right Shade." said Knuckles grimly "When the Devatrons are finished with us, they'll take over all of Mobius, even AngelIsland. And I won't be there to protect the island from them. Or the Master Emerald. I can just imagine what the Devatrons are gonna do to AngelIsland when they find it. It'll be a floating chrome island populated by Devatrons."

Shade nodded agreeably. Once the Royal Fighters were executed, none of Mobius would be safe, not even AngelIsland. The island had survived Imperator Ix but it won't survive the Devatrons when they discover the island and take it along with the rest of the world…

Over in another cell, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey & Bunnie were together and they were all as downhearted as the rest. Wilson and Mandy were chained next to each other and Bunnie and Geoffrey were chained next to each other and facing directly at Wilson & Mandy.

"How about that for poor rotten luck?" muttered Wilson "Me and you finally get married Mandy and before we can even settle down as a couple we end up as prisoners of the Devatrons and we're awaiting execution! How can fate be so kind and yet so cruel to us at the same time?"

"I don't know Wilson." said Mandy glumly "But I'm glad we got married. So now we can die a couple. I do wanna say this Wilson, I'm glad that you'll be beside me as we get executed. You were the best boy a girl could ever ask for."

"Aw Mandy I'm happy to hear that." said Wilson happily "And I couldn't ask for a better person I could've married."

Geoffrey & Bunnie stared at the two and they were amazed to see the two were still able to express their love for each other despite the fact the Royal Fighter's time was coming for them. It didn't half make them feel better to see this though.

"Aw, they're so cute together." said Bunnie softly "No wonder they got married, they were just perfect for each other. Just a pity that we're all gonna die shortly."

"Yeah, it is a right pity." muttered Geoffrey "I can't believe it though. Months of fighting Dr. Eggman and it's the Devatrons that we're gonna fall to. Fate does have surprising twists and turns after all."

"Ah know sugah." said Bunnie "I do hope that sugah-hog and Tails make is back soon or we're all gonna be slaughtered by the Devatrons."

"Somehow, I doubt Sonic will make it." said Geoffrey "As begrudging as I am to say it, I think Sonic will be too late. We've had it. We're all doomed and Mobius is going to be a chrome paradise for the Devatrons. And when Sonic & Tails do return, they'll be killed on the spot."

"It sure does look that way Geoff." said Bunnie downheartedly "We're never gonna get outta this and sugah-hog might be too late to save us all."

"Too right." said Geoffrey "By the way Bunnie, since we're so close to death," he added, his face beginning to feel hot as he prepared to say the one thing he'd been wanting to say for months now "I want to tell you something."

"Yes? What is it?" asked Bunnie.

"I…uh I…" stammered Geoffrey as he tried to twist his lips and say those words "I just want to say that uh…I…"

"Yes? Go on." said Bunnie "Ah'm listening."

Geoffrey swallowed a nervous lump before finally getting the words out.

"I…love you Bunnie." said Geoffrey, blushing bright red.

Bunnie, Wilson & Mandy were all amazed by that revelation. Geoffrey fancied Bunnie? All this time together, Geoffrey had a crush on Bunnie and it had taken him till now to reveal it. Bunnie's surprise quickly turned into a smile though.

"Oh Geoffrey, ya'll love me?" said Bunnie "Ah…ah'm speechless. Ya'll love me?"

"I do luv." said Geoffrey "I always have. When I first laid my eyes on you I fancied you. Even those robot parts couldn't hide your true beauty from me."

"Well Geoffrey, ah'm flattered by yer comments." said Bunnie, blushing a little "Ah've been quite fond of ya'll too. Ever since ya'll saved me from total roboticization, ah've been growin' a fondness for ya'll Geoffrey. Pity ya'll had to pick now to reveal your love for me."

"At least I can die happily now, happy I managed to confess my feelings at long last." said Geoffrey, content with himself for finally revealing his true feelings to Bunnie at long last.

Bunnie just smiled lovingly at Geoffrey. Geoffrey smiled back. If they weren't restrained to the wall, they'd probably by trying to kiss each other now. Wilson & Mandy were both touched by this heartfelt scene in front of them.

"Aw, Geoffrey and Bunnie love each other." said Wilson "I never would have expected them to ever be in love with each other. But I think they're just about right for each other."

"Geoffrey's a good man with a big heart and Bunnie's a strong woman with a caring personality." said Mandy "They're perfect for each other. Such a shame that we're all gonna die soon so they won't even get to build their relationship."

Wilson could only nod agreeably. As heartfelt as this moment was, it was all for naught since the Devatrons were going to execute them soon. At least the two had finally decided to reveal their love for each other instead of keeping it secret so when they die, they can die knowing that they loved each other.

Speaking of the Devatrons, they had been watching this whole performance via the security cameras in the prison cells. Devion enjoyed listening to his victims wail and fret over their forthcoming fate before killing them. He had arrived back moments ago with the captured Dr. Eggman and he had put him in a cell of his own. Now he was in the cockpit of The Doombringer enjoying the Mobian's sorrows. He was sitting comfortably in his throne and sitting in total silence, totally engrossed in what was going on. The four sub-leaders were beside him and Triton was clearly getting annoyed with all this.

"Devion, how can you bear to listen to the prisoners emitting disdained and anguished vocal sounds?" moaned Triton "It's the most annoying audio entity that can tune through a Devatron's audio receptors!"

"Spare me your whining Triton." said Devion without even looking at him "The sorrows of a prisoner are very pleasing to my audio receptors. And for some reason, seeing a distressed prisoner brings much enjoyment to me."

"I enjoy it too Devion." said Steelor "Bringing misery to our victims is the way of the Devatrons after all. They deserved it too for daring to resist us all like this. I especially won't forgive them for what they did to our ship!"

"Speaking of the ship, how are The Doombringer 's repair coming along Tronic?" asked Devion.

"The ship's repairs are 60% complete Devion." droned Tronic "The ship will be flying again by tomorrow morning."

"Excellent Tronic." purred Devion " The Doombringer needs to be repaired so that once we kill the Royal Fighters, I may spread my reign to the other regions of Mobius and then we may return to space so that The Doombringer will take us to our next destination. Which will be the human planet of Earth."

"So Devion, when may the executions begin?" asked Raicor.

"Right now." said Devion darkly "Release the prisoners of their restraints and escort them all outside. We shall execute them in the traditional Devatron fashion, the execution circle."

"I always enjoy that." purred Triton, pulling out his saw-stick "I'm gonna chop up every one of those Royal Fighters for what they've done to us in this battle!"

"You will execute your designated victim Triton." said Devion coldly "The Devatrons deserve to have an even amount of victims to execute. Now prepare the circle, the prisoners are now ready to be executed."

"Yes sir." said the sub-leaders, all running off to the prison cells to get the Royal Fighters.

Devion got up himself and he left the cockpit to go outside and join the execution circle. The end of the Royal Fighters was coming at last and Mobius was going to become his at long last. The Devatrons had secured yet another victory in their ongoing planet conquering reign…

"Whew! That shot almost hit us!" yelped Sonic as a laser blast from one of the Devatron ships skimmed the underside of The Silver Bullet .

The chase through space was still going on and The Silver Bullet was only narrowly dodging all the attacks that the Devatron ships were firing at it. Tails' ace piloting skills were the only things saving the ship from disaster right now but even then, Tails knew that the Devatrons would snag them eventually and the ship would crash and burn, taking them with it. Tails manoeuvred the ship around to dodge another blast that was fired at them. The poor fox looked like he was going to have a heart attack as he continued to pilot the ship and save it from getting hit. His teeth were clenched, his eyes were fixed firmly ahead of him and his forehead was raining with sweat. His hands were clenched tightly around the controls of the ship and he was gripping them so hard, if he wasn't wearing gloves you could see his hands beginning to go pale. His heart was thumping so heavily you could actually see his chest going up and down. The Devatron ships pursued The Silver Bullet closely and they continued to fire at it. Tails threw the controls to the left and The Silver Bullet banked sharply to the left, dodging all the fire from the pursuing Devatron fleet. The leader of the fleet was beginning to get annoyed with the ships not hitting The Silver Bullet and he barked to the commanders of the ships in the fleet.

"That ship is dodging all our firepower!" blasted the fleet leader "Lock your ship's weapons onto that ship and shoot it down!"

"Yes sir." said the ship commanders.

The fleet ceased it's relentless shower of laser fire for a moment as the pilots began to aim at their target. The fleet began to focus it's weapons on The Silver Bullet and they resumed firing. The Silver Bullet was now being showered from behind by laser fire and it was all missing the ship by mere inches. Tails began to breath very fast. He was panicked as hell and he was about to lose it. Sonic watched all the lasers narrowly miss the ship and he was amazed at the fact they hadn't been hit yet.

"Holy galoshes!" cried Sonic as one laser skimmed the fuselage of the ship and left a black singe mark on it "Those Devatrons really wanna catch us don't they?! They're missing us by inches! It's a miracle we haven't been hit yet!"

"I know!" shrieked Tails "But I don't think we'll survive out here much longer! We're close to getting hit by those ships and they're close behind us! I think I'm gonna lose my mind with panic out here!"

"Tails! Get a grip on yourself!" yelled Sonic "We need you to make sure we don't get shot by those Devatrons! If you start panicking then we're both dead out here!"

Tails took in Sonic's words and he began to calm down a little. He breathed in deeply and he let it out again in a heavy sigh. His heartbeat began to slow down too and Tails looked over at Sonic, his expression much more settled now.

"You're right Sonic." said Tails "I can't lose my mind out here or we're gonna get shot for sure. We'll make it out alive. I know we will. We just need to find the right place to activate our hyper-drive."

"Well whatever you do, don't activate it here." said Sonic "There's a big field of asteroids out there."

Tails looked ahead of him and surely enough, he saw an asteroid field just ahead of them. This field was much bigger then the one that they went through to reach General Klight's hiding place. The asteroids in the field were bigger then a football pitch and flying into one of them would be a very unwise move. Tails' face brightened at the sight of it for some reason.

"Oh yes! That's just what we need!" he exclaimed delightedly "That asteroid field will slow the Devatrons down and give us somewhere to hide too! We'll lose them for sure in there!"

"Well just be careful in that field!" cried Sonic in a frenzied tone "We do not wanna accidentally fly into one of those rocks! We'd be chilli-sauce out there!"

Tails nodded and he stepped on that pedals. The Silver Bullet picked up speed and it headed towards the asteroid field. The Devatron fleet followed it but the leader of the fleet saw the asteroid field and realized something was up.

"The ship's flying towards an asteroid field!" growled the fleet leader "It's trying to lose us by going into it! Well an asteroid field will not slow down the Devatron fleet! We'll just blow up every last asteroid there is!"

The Devatron fleet aimed it's weapons at the asteroids in the asteroid field and the ships all began to fire at the asteroids. The Silver Bullet flew over the asteroids and it began to fly onwards as the fleet's laser blasts began to destroy the asteroids, reducing them to smaller chunks of rock that drifted through the empty void of space. Sonic & Tails were gobsmacked by this. You'd think an asteroid field would make even a Devatron hesitant to follow it's enemies but instead, they're just destroying the field so that they have no obstacles in their way as they chase down The Silver Bullet .

"Oh my gosh! They're destroying the asteroids!" cried Tails as another asteroid was destroyed just behind them.

"I'll give them this, they're persistent!" grumbled Sonic "Those jerks just don't give up do they?! And I thought I was stubborn!"

"Well let's hope that once we get to the end of the field, we'll be in the right place to activate the hyper-drive and hyper-jump back home to Mobius!" shrieked Tails "Otherwise we're dead meat out here!"

Then suddenly, a horrendous clunk sound was heard as something big and heavy was thrown into the ship's fuselage and a giant dent formed in the wall just beside the boarding door. Sonic & Tails were well surprised by that and they turned around to see what it was. A piece of asteroid had flown into the ship as it was destroyed by the Devatron fleet. Smaller pieces of asteroid pinged harmlessly off the ship's armour and Sonic & Tails heard it. It sounded like someone dropping pebbles on a polycarbonate sheet.

"The debris of the asteroids is hitting the ship!" gasped Tails "If we don't get outta here, we might get hit by a really big piece of asteroid and it'll smash the ship to pieces!"

"It's amazing how far these bits of rock fly after an asteroid gets destroyed." said Sonic "We're a good height above the field and we still manage to get hit by the debris. So what can we do to avoid getting hit?"

"I've got one idea that might work." said Tails "I bet the Devatrons will be so busy tearing the asteroid field apart they won't notice if I fly off down under the field and head off to the left out of their sight."

"Well it's a possibility." said Sonic "It could work. Give it a shot buddy. I'm counting on you to get us outta here safe and sound."

Tails smiled with appreciation. He loved it when his friends counted on him. It made him feel very useful and helpful. He was not about to let Sonic down now. He was going to get them away from the Devatrons just long enough for them to escape back home to Mobius. Tails swerved the ship to the left and The Silver Bullet banked sharply to the left as so. The Devatrons were so busy shooting the asteroids, they didn't even see the ship. The explosions from the lasers destroying the asteroids helped to hide The Silver Bullet from them too so the Devatrons were unknowingly helping Sonic & Tails sneak past them. The Silver Bullet dived down towards the asteroid field and Tails manoeuvred the ship around the asteroids to avoid hitting them. The Silver Bullet carried on going until it reached the underside of the asteroid field and the ship stopped diving downwards. It rose up to the correct axis and it began to fly off to the left still, leaving the Devatron fleet behind to continued shooting asteroids and heading off to a clean open area of space so they could finally use the hyper-drive. Unfortunately for them, a Devatron commander in a ship near the back of the fleet noticed The Silver Bullet fleeing for it and it was surprised to see this. The ship had evaded them and it was getting away! The asteroid field had only been a distraction so the ship could get away from them! The commander spoke into a communicator on the control panel to the fleet leader.

"Sir! The ship's evaded us! It's to the left of our position and is heading away from the asteroid field!" it informed the fleet leader frantically.

The fleet leader ordered the fleet to stop firing and it looked to the left to see if the commander was right. It could just see a silver speck moving away from the asteroid field and heading off to seemingly nowhere in particular. The fleet leader was furious to see that it had been outsmarted by the pilots of the ship. Well all they were doing was delaying the inevitable. The Devatron fleet would still catch The Silver Bullet and they would still destroy it.

"Fleet! Follow that ship and destroy it!" barked the fleet leader.

The fleet obeyed and all the ships turned away from the asteroid field. The ships all began to follow The Silver Bullet and because they were faster then The Silver Bullet , they'd catch it easily. But The Silver Bullet was a good distance ahead of them and it was finally in the right place to activate the hyper-drive. There was nothing but a big empty void of space ahead of Sonic & Tails so they could activate the hyper-drive right here and be back home to Mobius at last.

"This looks like a good spot." said Sonic "What do you think Tails?"

"Well the ship's navigation system seems to agree with you Sonic." said Tails, peering at it "If we activate the hyper-drive now, we'll arrive past Mobius but we can just steer the ship around and head towards the planet. Hold on Sonic, we're ready to jump into hyper-space!"

"Home here we come at last!" cheered Sonic happily, holding on tightly to the virus-bomb.

Tails activated the ship's hyper-drive just as the Devatron fleet was beginning to catch up to it and the fleet fired it's weapons at The Silver Bullet . But The Silver Bullet rocketed off at the speed of light before the lasers could even touch it. The ship was long gone now and the fleet was never going to catch it. It was far out of their radar scans and it was heading back home to Mobius. The fleet leader roared in annoyance, angered at the fact The Silver Bullet had escaped them. There was nothing left to do now except return back to Sram and resume their original priorities. As for The Silver Bullet , only time would tell if it would get back in time for Sonic & Tails to save the Royal Fighters from execution back on Mobius…

…but it already seemed as if Sonic & Tails were too late for the Devatrons were already setting up the execution circle. All of the Mobians had been released from their cells and taken outside to be executed. They were all outside of New Mobotropolis for this since Devion felt that executing them all outside of their own city would be a fitting end for them all. All their arms were cuffed behind their backs with laser cuffs to stop them trying anything at the last minute

(as if it would do them any good trying to escape now anyway.) The prisoners had all been lined up and formed around in a big circle, hence the reason the Devatrons called it the execution circle. A circle of Devatrons stood behind the circle of Mobians so you know had two circles, a circle of Devatrons on the outside and a circle of Mobians on the inside. The Mobians were down on their knees, completely helpless at the feet of the Devatrons that stood behind them. Shadow began to grumble to himself as the execution was about to begin.

"I swear if I wasn't equipped with this collar I'd Chaos Blast every last Devatron out here!" he growled.

"Well Shadow, unfortunately you are." muttered Rouge who was kneeling beside Shadow "There's nothing we can do about it now. I just can't believe we're all gonna die right now. I'm beginning to wish I never joined in this conflict."

"Rouge, you would have ended up fighting them anyway." noted Shadow "After they've finished with us, they're gonna conquer all of Mobius so staying out of the whole fight wouldn't have made any difference."

"Oh yeah." muttered Rouge.

"If I die now though, I'll never find out who I am and who my creator is." murmured Shadow "And he'll never find me if he's looking for me."

"Poor him." said Rouge sarcastically "I do wonder where Marik is though. Was he not captured along with us?"

"No Rouge, the coward fled for his life by using one of MY Chaos Cluster fragments!" informed Dr. Eggman, still cross at Marik for abandoning them all like this "Marik's decided to abandon us all and leave us to the Devatrons! Can you believe that extra-terrestrial scoundrel?! And I though I was bad!"

Shadow and Rouge were livid to hear this.

"Marik left Mobius?!" snarled Shadow "Just so he can escape the Devatrons and leave us all to perish?!"

"Well it's not like he was really that helpful in the first place." said Rouge grimly "Even if Marik didn't leave we'd still be in this mess so it's not that big a deal. Still kinda jerky for him to just leave us all like this just to save himself."

"Silence your accursed chattering!" roared Raicor who was standing behind Shadow, Rouge & Dr. Eggman "The prisoners are to remain quiet during the executions!"

Shadow, Rouge and Eggman stopped talking and remained silent since arguing with the Devatrons and talking back to them was not going to do them any good right now. The execution circle had all been set up and now the Devatrons were ready to commence with the killing. Devion, who had Sally Acorn kneeling in front of him, gave out the announcement to all the Devatrons in the vicinity.

"Devatrons, you have all gathered here to witness the execution of this heathen Mobians that kneel helpless before you." he announced "These wretched heroes are guilty for the crime of objecting and attempting to terminate us all and their sentence is death. We will all execute these vermin and they will set an example to the rest of Mobius what happens to those who dare to resist us."

Devion then looked over to a Devatron soldier who had General Bostock and Commander Mortimer by it's feet.

"Bring those two up." said Devion "They shall be the showing example to the rest of the Mobians."

The soldier obeyed and it brought Bostock and Mortimer to the centre of the circle, earning a pair of horrified gasps from Wilson & Mandy. Bostock and Mortimer both began pleading pitifully to the Devatrons.

"No wait! Please! Spare us all! If you let us live we'll surrender to you and be your slaves! We'll do whatever you want!" begged Bostock.

"Silence!" snarled the soldier.

"Please, have mercy on us all!" whimpered Mortimer "We're freedom loving beings, all we want is to live in peace!"

"Only the Devatrons deserve peace you verminous beings." said Devion coldly, deploying his arm cannon and aiming it at the two chipmunks "We were built to bring peace and we're bringing it in any means necessary and those means are wiping out all the races of the universe and replacing them with us."

"You can't do this!" cried Bostock "That's evil, that's sick! You're not bringing peace, you're bringing calamity to…"

Bostock was cut off as Devion and three soldiers all began to open fire directly onto him. The blasts tore through Bostock's skin and flesh and the bombardment of laser fire was too much for him. Bostock collapsed onto the ground and Devion finished him off with a shot to the head. Bostock was dead and Mortimer was soon to join him. The Devatrons all opened fire on him too and Mortimer was now dead along with Bostock. Their bodies had black singes from the laser fire and blood poured from their wounds. Wilson & Mandy were both horrified to watch this for they were good friends with the two chipmunks. The two lowered their heads in sorrow. First the Downunda Royal Fighters, then Kate and now Bostock and Mortimer. Soon the rest of the Royal Fighters were to join them. A pair of soldiers came out into the circle and they carried away Bostock and Mortimer's bodies. Devion grabbed Sally by her hair, earning a shriek of pain from the queen squirrel, and she was yanked up onto her feet.

"You're next my child." hissed Devion "And I shall execute you myself. Your death will be an enjoyable one."

Devion dragged Sally out into the centre of the circle by her hair. Nicole watched in horror and she wanted to cry out for Sally but she was too shock to even speak. Devion threw Sally down onto the ground and he aimed his arm cannon at her head. Sally got up on her knees and she turned her head to face Devion.

"Any last words?" asked Devion coldly.

"Yes." said Sally "Devion, please reconsider your way of life. What you're doing is evil and immoral on so many levels. You're taking away innocent freedom and innocent lives on planets everywhere and you're making the universe a vapid place. If you have any compassion left in your circuitry then please stop all this and reform yourselves."

"The Devatrons will not reform." said Devion dryly "The universe despised us and envied us and all they wanted was for us to perish. So we're returning the favour. This is who we are now and nothing you say will divert me from my ambitions."

"Oh Devion please! Listen to me!" begged Sally "It's all for your own good! If you continue this way you'll just bring death to yourselves! Anyone who lives a life of conquest and power just ends up worse off then they were before! Please Devion, if you reform yourself you'll benefit from this and so will everybody else…"

"Spare me your pontificating you poor simpering child." said Devion crossly, he was clearly getting annoyed by her pleas.

"Devion please! Have mercy!" shrieked Sally helplessly "Mercy!"

"I do not know the definition of this strange five-lettered word you Mobians use." said Devion "What does "mercy" mean anyway?"

"You don't know what we mean by mercy?!" cried Sally "You really have lost all sense of decency when you decided to turn evil after the death of your king!"

"Decency is a weak little bit of morality that the good-natured thrive on." said Devion "Decency means nothing to me now."

He aimed his arm cannon at Sally's head again and prepared to fire. Sally just gave up pleading to him and she turned away, her head facing the ground and she stared straight at the grass she knelt upon. Tears came to her eyes and Sally closed them, accepting her fate and realizing there was no way out of this. Nicole stared intensely at Devion as he prepared to kill Sally. Right now, the lynx felt like her heart was just going to abruptly stop beating.

"No please! Don't!" shrieked Nicole, trying to come forward but a Devatron soldier held her back.

Devion ignored her and the inside of his cannon began to glow bright yellow as his shot began to charge up. Sally could hear the ominous whirring sound of Devion's cannon powering up. In the blink of an eye, her head would be blasted clean off her shoulders. But just before Devion could deliver the killing blow, Raicor interrupted him.

"Devion! Look up there!" cried Raicor, pointing up at the sky.

Devion ceased his charging up and the inside of his cannon arm stopped glowing. Devion looked up at the sky and he saw The Silver Bullet just finishing entering Mobius' atmosphere and heading towards the ground. The ship had arrived back at Mobius at last and it had just flown through Mobius' atmosphere and was now coming in to land. Devion couldn't quite see the ship fully yet for it was too high up for him to make out the details. The Mobians and Dr. Eggman all looked up at the sky and they saw The Silver Bullet coming in. Devion began to wonder what it was.

"One of mine? Or one of theirs…?" he mused to himself.

"It must be one of theirs my lord." said Triton "We haven't ordered any reinforcements so it can't be one of our ships."

Triton was right on that one. As The Silver Bullet came in closer and closer, the details on the ship became clearer and clearer and Devion realized it was indeed, a Mobian ship and he recognized it too. It was the very ship that had evaded him after Shadow damaged The Doombringer . As for the Mobians, they could see that the ship was the very ship they had been waiting for since it had left with Sonic & Tails aboard.

"It's Sonic & Tails!" cried Amy delightedly "They're back at last! I knew they'd return in time to save us!"

"Indeed they have returned my foolish Mobian." sneered Devion "Returned to die with you all. Whatever reason they left Mobius for does not matter since they're back and I can terminate them along with all of you."

Devion then aimed his arm cannon up at The Silver Bullet and he set it to cannonball mode. The Mobians stared at Devion in horror and they willed to stop him but they knew they couldn't. They were surrounded by Devatrons so anyone attempting to stop Devion would be shot instantly and their hands were cuffed behind their backs so what could they do? They could only remain on their knees and watch helplessly as Devion locked on target and fired at The Silver Bullet . A tremendous cannonball blast fired out of Devion's arm cannon and it whizzed towards The Silver Bullet at a blinding speed. Sonic & Tails were too late to dodge the blast and it ended up blowing off the entire right wing of the ship. The Silver Bullet began to spiral down to the ground out of control. The Mobians watched, horrified as the ship came hurtling down to the ground, pinning around wildly like a falling biplane. The ship then crashed into the ground and went up in flames as the fuel ignited from the impact. The Silver Bullet was no longer a sleek, hi-tech ship for space missions, it was a miserable wreckage of debris and fire. If Sonic & Tails were still in the ship then they would be dead. Nobody could survive a horrifying crash like this. Amy looked like she was about to die of shock as she watched the ship burn.

"NOOOO!" she screamed "SONIC! TAILS! NOOOOO!"

The rest of the prisoners were too shocked to even say anything. Their only hope of survival had just been shot down like a duck that's being hunted and went up in flames like a bonfire. Even Dr. Eggman was shocked by the whole thing. He would very much have liked it if HE had been the one who fired that killing blow. Devion admired the wreckage of the ship gleefully and he retracted his arm cannon. He turned around to face the others, clearly pleased to see their horrified faces.

"Now we're even." he purred "You wrecked my ship and now I've wrecked yours. And not only that, the hero of Mobius is dead at last so all hope you had is now gone."

"Oh yeah?! Well what if the hero of Mobius is still alive Devion?" came a voice that Devion never expected to hear again.

Everybody looked up at the sky and saw none other then Sonic & Tails up in the air alive and unharmed! Tails was flying by twisting his namesakes around and he had Sonic by the hand. Sonic had the virus-bomb in his other hand. The Mobian's faces all brightened up at the sight of the two.

"Sonic! Tails! They're alive!" squealed Amy "Yippee!"

"Incredible!" blurted Knuckles "They made it!"

"How is this even logically possible?!" roared Devion in annoyance "You two were in the ship! You should be burning with it down on the ground!"

"We WERE in the ship for a moment." said Sonic "But once me and Tails saw that blast coming, we bailed out at the last minute just as the ship got hit. You almost got us Devion so be proud of yourself!"

"I'll be proud of myself once your pathetic life ceases to continue!" snarled Devion "Devatrons, shoot those two heathens now!"

"Wait a minute!" yelled Sonic "Before you start trying to kill me, I've got something to try out first."

He then proceeded to throw the virus-bomb down to the ground at Devion. Devion leaped backwards and the bomb shattered like a glass vase upon smashing into the ground. The moment the bomb was broken, the virus, which was a pale brown misty substance it contained drifted up into the air and the wind blew it towards the execution circle. Devion watched it and he wondered what was going on.

"What is your plan Sonic?" he asked suspiciously "You throw a spherical object at me and all it's done is emit a misty substance."

"Just watch the show Devion and you'll see." said Sonic as he and Tails touched down onto the ground.

Devion looked at the Devatrons in the circle and the virus drifted over them. The Devatrons didn't think it would harm them since they were invulnerable and they didn't breathe so they couldn't suffocate on it. But they were dead wrong. As the virus began to drift over the Devatrons, their armour began to crack like an eggshell. The Devatrons looked down at their bodies, horrified to see their armour cracking and flaking away like chrome paint. Their arms were cracking, their torsos were cracking, their legs were cracking and their faces were cracking. The virus was eating away at their armour and it was destroying them bit by bit.

"What is this?!" shrieked Raicor "My armour is falling apart!"

"That mist is destroying us!" squealed Triton "How is this possible?!"

"I'm cracking!" wailed Steelor "My armour is falling apart like a faulty generator!"

Devion looked like he was about to go mental.

"What have you done?!" he snarled.

"Just given the Devatrons a taster of our new weapon, a little gift from your cousins known as a virus bomb." said Sonic "Me and Tails left to meet General Klight and he generously gave us that bomb. He'd been working on it for years and it's finally paid off for it's now destroying all your men's armour Devion!"

"That wretched general!" roared Devion "How dare General Klight make a virus that can destroy Devatron armour! When I find that scoundrel I will rip out every last bit of circuitry in his body!"

"That's not gonna happen Devion." said Sonic "Since you're gonna lose all your armour too!"

He then spin-dashed towards Devion but Devion dodged his attack and he ran for his life. Devion knew he was in trouble now. His men were losing their armour and Sonic was going to try and throw him into the virus as it was still around so he had to get away and fast. The virus wouldn't stay forever, it would eventually drift away like a dense fog and once it did, he'd be free to come out again. Sonic saw Devion trying to get away and he ran after Devion. Devion saw Sonic coming towards him at Sonic speed so he turned around, deployed his arm cannon and shot at him. It was still set to cannonball mode so Devion fired a cannonball at Sonic. The cannonball hit the ground at Sonic's feet and he was thrown backwards by the tremendous force of the blast. Sonic skidded across the ground backwards and he came to a stop just at the feet of a Devatron soldier who's armour looked like it was about to fall off at any minute. The Devatrons weren't the only ones who were being effected by the virus though. The virus weakened the laser cuffs on all the prisoners and they were soon free in a matter of seconds. The sphere that generated the lasers was made of Devatron chrome and so was Shadow's inhibitor collar so Shadow managed to simply break the collar off his neck by pulling on it and it shattered like glass. The virus began to drift away into the wind though where it would eventually dissolve into the air and never be seen again. Devion had evaded the virus and The Doombringer was still at large so Devion could just replace all his fallen comrades but since Shadow was able to use his powers again, he could just Chaos Blast the ship to pieces and destroy Devion in an instant. As for the Devatrons that had been effected by the virus, Sonic's friends began to destroy them all in a matter of seconds given how their invulnerable chrome armour was no more and their exoskeletons were considerably weaker then their armour. Knuckles & Shade pounced on Raicor and they completely annihilated the winged Devatron once and for all. Bunnie Rabbot punched Tronic to pieces, finally getting pay back for what he did to her, Team Chaotix all teamed up on Triton and they tore him to pieces and Wilson & Mandy took down Steelor. The rest all took down the soldiers. Shadow Chaos Speared them, Rouge screw-kicked them, Amy hammered them, Scott & Jessica used their energy attacks on them, Miranda and Kari took them down by double-teaming them, Thunder & Bolt zapped them to pieces, Geoffrey blew them up with his exploding darts, Ruben smashed them with his martial arts skills and Kiara used her skills to destroy the weakened soldiers. Sonic & Tails watched this whole fiasco and they beamed happily.

"The virus worked like a charm." said Sonic "I would have preferred it if I didn't have to resort to this but it was the only way to stop them."

"Pity Devion's avoided the virus." said Tails "But we can handle him. Shadow can Chaos Blast him to bits and we can destroy The Doombringer too. The Devatrons will finally be defeated."

"Yup. And I can give ol' General Klight the good news." said Sonic, activating the earpiece he'd been given before leaving.

"Hey Klight, the bomb works like a charm, the Devatron's armour weakens and makes them easy to destroy." reported Sonic.

"Excellent!" cried General Klight delightedly "Thank you for carrying out this test Sonic. We're indebted to you for your contribution. Now we know the bomb definitely works, we can finally wipe out the Devatrons for good and bring peace back to the universe!"

"Good luck with that General." said Sonic.

"Thank you Sonic." said General Klight "Until the next time we meet, farewell and may peace return to your world."

"I wouldn't be too sure on that." muttered Sonic, thinking about Dr. Eggman and knowing what he'd get up to once this conflict was over.

He switched off the earpiece. Then suddenly, the ground began to shake beneath their feet. Sonic just managed to keep himself from falling over as the ground suddenly began to shake.

"Whoa! What's going on?!" cried Sonic.

"Is it an earthquake?!" exclaimed Tails "If so then why did it have to happen just as we're defeating the Devatrons?!"

It was not an earthquake though. The ground suddenly erupted under their feet and Sonic & Tails were thrown up into the air. The Royal Fighters all stared in horror as Sonic & Tails were thrown up into the air and then they plummeted down to the ground. Tails just managed to save himself & Sonic by twirling his tails around and catching Sonic before he could go splat. The dust cleared away from that sudden attack and it revealed that it was none other then the Deva-Beast! Devion had hidden it underground and it had been waiting there since the day NewMobotropolis had been taken over. And now it was here to attack once again! Devion stood proudly on the head of the Deva-Beast and he crowed at the Mobians that were blow the enormous monster.

"That virus your brought home was merely a minor setback in my conquest Sonic!" gloated Devion "Now it's gone, the Deva-Beast and I are free to continue our offensive and I shall make up for this setback by destroying you all with the Deva-Beast!"

The Deva-Beast let out a thunderous roar that could have knocked several buildings down all at once…

Good grief! The heroes finally score a winning point and yet it looks like "victory is slipping away"! Well let's see if it is doing so next time as the three part finale to this great saga continues...

The Tides of War Part 2

Story 114: The Tides of War Part 2: Victory is Slipping Away

Things had finally been looking up for Sonic the Hedgehog & friends. Just as the Royal Fighters were all about to be executed, Sonic & Tails arrived back to Mobius with a gift from the Startrons, the Devatron cousins. That gift was a simple bomb containing a virus that weakened the Devatron armour and made them vulnerable. The Devatron sub-leaders Raicor, Tronic, Triton and Steelor had all been terminated by the Royal Fighters thanks to the virus. But unfortunately, Devion still lived and the virus has gone so he was still free to make the hero's lives a living hell for them. And to add insult to injury, Devion had brought out his most fearsome weapon, the Deva-Beast. The Deva-Beast had helped him conquer New Mobotropolis thanks to it's enormous size and digging capabilities and now it was going to help him terminate the Mobians once and for all. His ship The Doombringer was still intact, despite repairs not being finished yet, so Devion could quite adequately replace the destroyed Devatrons. The virus-bomb had only been a minor bump in the road for Devion and now it was gone, the Devatrons could take back their victory and the heroes would be back to square one. The Deva-Beast roared at the top of it's voice and it stomped the ground with two of it's six legs. The Mobians all found themselves falling over onto the ground from that incredible stomp. Devion began to cackle at them from atop the Deva-Beast's head.

"So Mobians, you've managed to evade execution and Sonic has destroyed my sub-leaders and some of my soldiers with a virus created by our loathsome cousins." said Devion "But you have not won yet. This conflict is far from over. The Deva-Beast will slaughter you all and I will continue with my conquest!"

"We'll see about that Devion!" yelled Sonic courageously "We'll destroy that stupid beast of yours!"

"Sonic, have you lost your mind?!" shrieked Queen Sally Acorn "We can't fight that thing! Last time we all fought it we couldn't so much as lay a scratch on it!"

"Sally, if we don't stop that Deva-Beast then we're back to square one in this conflict and Devion might actually end up beating us!" retorted Sonic "I don't care what you've gotta say, I'm gonna fight that thing and destroy it just like we've destroyed Devion's sub-leaders and some of his men!"

"We only succeeded in that one because of that virus-bomb the Startrons gave you." noted Sally "You didn't bring any spares and we won't know how to make the virus ourselves so we can't destroy them!"

"Sure we can Sal." said Sonic "We've got Shadow and his almighty Chaos Blast on our side haven't we? He'll make mincemeat of the Deva-Beast."

"You got that right Sonic." said Shadow, removing his inhibitor rings and handing them to Sonic "I'll run onto that beast's head and let it have it with a Chaos Blast."

Shadow skated off at top speed towards the colossal Deva-Beast and he began to glow red with Chaos Energy. Devion saw Shadow coming and he knew what the black hedgehog was planning to do so he decided to counter-attack before Shadow could use a Chaos Blast.

"Deva-Beast, strike him with your tail!" he ordered.

The Deva-Beast obeyed and it raised it's long tail up above it's body. Shadow leaped into the air and he tensed up as he prepared to unleash the Chaos Energy within him.

"Chaos…" he said.

But before he could land on top of the Deva-Beast's head, the Deva-Beast's tail lashed out at him and struck him like a stinging scorpion, throwing him backwards and sending him hurling towards the Mobians. The Mobians quickly dived for cover as an energy filled Shadow hurled towards them, ready to unleash his Chaos Blast.

Shadow hit the ground and he unleashed his Chaos Blast. A big red sphere of energy expanded out from within him and all he ended up doing was making a crater beneath him. The Chaos Energy soon died away and Shadow was left lying in the crater he'd made. Devion cackled evilly at Shadow and the Deva-Beast advanced on Shadow, hoping to stomp on him and squash him. But the Deva-Beast was rather slow when walking and Shadow was a few feet away from it so Sonic or somebody else was easily going to reach Shadow first and save him before he gets squashed. And that's exactly what happened. Sonic ran towards Shadow at top speed and he grabbed him just before the Deva-Beast could reach him. He then ran off with Shadow in tow. The Deva-Beast aimed it's tail at Sonic and the tail extended to twice it's normal length. The tail struck the ground just behind Sonic but it had missed and Sonic continued to run. The Deva-Beast retracted it's tail back to it's normal length and it plodded after him. But Sonic was already well ahead of the Deva-Beast and after running a good distance away from it, he put Shadow down and Shadow reattached his inhibitor rings.

"Thanks for the save Sonic." said Shadow as he clipped his right ring around his right wrist.

"No probs Shadow." said Sonic "I'm kinda surprised to see that Deva-Beast trump your Chaos Blast though. It simply swatted you away before you could finish unleashing it."

"Devion did the same thing when me and him battled during your time away." muttered Shadow "Devion knows my strongest move and he knows how to counter it so my Chaos Blast won't help anybody."

"That's one heck of a bummer right there." muttered Sonic "Your strongest attack and Devion knows how to counter attack it. We need a different strategy."

"If we could both turn super then we'd be able to destroy that thing and finish the Devatrons off for good." said Shadow "But the Chaos Emeralds are still in Devion's possession. We need to retrieve them first."

"We could always use the Master Emerald to go super but Devion might follow us to Angel Island and power-drain the Master Emerald." noted Sonic "We also need to give the Chaos Emeralds their power back and I'm guessing the Master Emerald has that kind of power so let's retrieve the Chaos Emeralds and then we'll take them over to Angel Island and re-power them and then turn super with the Chaos and Master Emeralds. So Devion doesn't follow us to Angel Island, my friends will keep the Deva-Beast busy while me and you head over there."

"Good plan Sonic." said Shadow "You help your friends keep the Deva-Beast busy while I search for the Chaos Emeralds."

With that said, Shadow just teleported away without saying another word, leaving Sonic behind to continue battling the Deva-Beast. Sonic was surprised at the fact Shadow just promptly decided to do just that but he knew that Shadow would find the Chaos Emeralds and retrieve them so he and Shadow can take them to AngelIsland to get re-powered and then use them to destroy the Devatrons.

"Good luck with finding them Shadow." said Sonic "I'll keep Devion up on his toes until you find them."

Sonic ran over to his friends, who were all standing there staring at the colossal Deva-Beast and wondering what to do about it. The Deva-Beast towered over them and it raised it's tail, preparing to strike at them with it. Devion sneered at the helpless Mobians that stared up at the Deva-Beast and he prepared to give the command.

"How helpless those fools look at the feet of the mighty Deva-Beast." he crooned to himself "They know that Sonic's interference hasn't helped them at all and soon I will be back on top of this battle."

He then pointed down at the Royal Fighters and barked at the Deva-Beast.

"Deva-Beast, kill them all!"

The Deva-Beast obeyed and it's tail lunged towards them all. The Royal Fighters all scattered around like a frightened colony of ants and the tail struck the ground, narrowly missing Team Chaotix by mere inches. Vector grabbed hold of the Deva-Beast's tail just as the Deva-Beast began to raise it's tail back up again. The Deva-Beast didn't seem to notice the crocodile holding onto it's tail as it raised it back up. Vector let go of the Deva-Beast's tail and he hurtled down towards Devion, who saw him coming towards him. Vector drew his arm back as he hurtled towards Devion and he prepared to punch him. Devion just drew his arm back and punched Vector as he hurtled towards him. Vector was thrown backwards across the Deva-Beast's back and he landed in-between the cannons on it's back. Devion deployed his arm-cannon and he aimed it at Vector. He shot at Vector but Vector dodged the attack and he ran towards Devion. He and Devion ended up linking arms with one another. Vector tried to push Devion off of the Deva-Beast's head but Devion managed to hold his ground and he pushed Vector back away from the Deva-Beast's neck and onto it's back.

"Hey Devion! I owe you a smashed head for what this giant metal pet of yours did to me!" growled Vector, remembering his unpleasant outcome from the last fight with it.

"It's remarkable you even survived such a blast from the Deva-Beast, and all in a short period of time." growled Devion "You Mobians must be experts in the realm of medical science if you managed to recover impossibly fast after bearing the brunt of the Deva-Beast."

"Well all you need to know is we have a little cat who's an expert in medicine who helped me recover." said Vector "Now prepare to be crushed Devion!"

Devion's response was to push Vector away and send him falling down onto his back. Vector picked himself up and he socked Devion directly in the face, nearly knocking him off of the Deva-Beast. Devion regained his balance and he uppercut Vector in the jaw. Vector rubbed his jaw and he growled in fury. He ran into Devion and tried to push him off of the Deva-Beast but Devion managed to keep Vector from pushing him off the giant Devatron monster. Devion wrestled Vector back and he then managed to grab him into a chokehold. Vector gagged as Devion wrapped his arm around his neck and began to choke him. Devion then proceeded to throw Vector off of the Deva-Beast and send him plummeting down to the ground. Luckily for him, Charmy Bee was on hand to catch him before he could crash onto the ground. Charmy caught Vector by the hand and he lowered him down to the ground.

"Nice catch Charmy." said Vector.

"Thank you." said Charmy, beaming like a kid that's just been given a lollipop as a treat "How are we gonna stop this giant robot monster thingy?"

"Beats me." said Vector "But I'm not resting until Devion and that Deva-Beast are reduced to scrap metal! Especially as that thing shot me in the back and nearly killed me!"

The Deva-Beast looked down and it spotted Vector and Charmy. It raised one of it's feet and it was about to squash the two but Vector & Charmy both dived out of the way as the foot stomped down onto the ground. The result was an earth-shaking tremble that threw everybody down onto their backs. The Deva-Beast growled and it began searching around for unfortunate victims to squish or blast to bits. Sonic jumped towards the Deva-Beast and he spin-dashed it directly in the visor. Despite that being it's weak spot, the Deva-Beast's visor was not as easy to destroy as an ordinary Devatron's was. Given it's size and build, it was going to be stronger then an ordinary Devatron in practically every way. Sonic wasn't willing to give-up though. Sonic keeled around and he spin-dashed the Deva-Beast in the visor again. If he repeatedly hit it in the visor he might just smash it. The Deva-Beast wasn't too pleased with Sonic constantly spin-dashing it in the visor so it aimed its back mounted cannons at him. The Deva-Beast blasted at Sonic but Sonic, who had just landed on the ground, dodged the cannon shots and spin-dashed towards the Deva-Beast again. The Deva-Beast lowered it's head and Sonic ended up hitting Devion instead and knocking him clean off the top of the Deva-Beast. Sonic & Devion both plummeted down to the ground and they crashed with Sonic on top of Devion. Devion threw Sonic off of himself shortly after they landed and he picked himself up. Sonic spin-dashed towards Devion but Devion caught him in his hands and threw him at Tails, who was flying up towards the Deva-Beast in order to distract it. Sonic hit Tails and the two ended up plummeting down to the ground. The two crashed onto the ground front first right next to each other. Tails sat up, wincing in pain, and Sonic got up, dusting himself off and then kneeling down to comfort Tails.

"Tails! You OK buddy?" asked Sonic nervously.

"Ow! Now I knew how your enemies feel!" whined Tails "That spin-dash of yours really hurt Sonic!"

"I'm sorry big guy, Devion threw me towards you while I was in a spin-dash." said Sonic, helping Tails back up onto his feet "Do you still feel up to the task or do you need to sit out of this one?"

"I'll be fine Sonic." Tails reassured his best friend with a cheery smile on his face "I've been hit by worse then a spin-dash before."

"That's cool." said Sonic "Now, can you help distract the Deva-Beast while I keep Devion occupied?" he asked "Shadow's on The Doombringer and he's looking for the Chaos Emeralds so we can take them to AngelIsland to get their power back."

"I certainly can." said Tails "And don't worry, I'll be careful against that thing."

"You'd better, we don't want you to end up like poor Vector after the first encounter." said Sonic, whizzing off to resume his fight with Devion.

Tails waved to Sonic and he twisted his tails around one another. He took flight and he flew towards the Deva-Beast to attack it. To his delight, there were already people on it right now. Bunnie Rabbot and Rouge the Bot were double-teaming the behemoth. Bunnie was flying around the Deva-Beast and punching it, extending her arm as she punched so she could hit it from a distance, and Rouge flew towards the monster and screw-kicked it in the visor. The two girls weren't pulling their punches either, they were attacking the visor relentlessly. But despite their best efforts, they couldn't seem to lay a crack in the Deva-Beast's visor. The Deva-Beast's visor was just too strong for them to penetrate. It would take them a while to finally penetrate it. The Deva-Beast was getting riled pretty badly by the attacking Bunnie & Rouge and it tried to swat them with it's tail but the girls dodged the attack as it swung towards them. Bunnie wiped sweat off her forehead and aimed another punch at the Deva-Beast.

"Dang! Ah wish Tronic didn't damage mah arm cannon again and maybe ah could dish out the heavy artillery!" she grumbled "Instead, all ah can do is punch at that gruesome robot and mah best hits aren't even scratchin' that visor!"

"Me and you give it all we've got and we still can't blind it." muttered Rouge "What do you think we should do honey?"

"We should keep dishin' it out ah think!" declared Bunnie "We might blind it eventually if we keep hittin' it!"

"Let's hope we live that long." said Rouge dully.

The Deva-Beast then suddenly extended it's neck and it's head hurtled towards them like an oncoming train. Bunnie and Rouge tried to dodge it but the Deva-Beast just managed to hit them with the edges of it's head and send the girls spiralling down to the ground. Bunnie and Rouge managed to regain balance with the aid of their wings and jets respectively and they flew back up to the Deva-Beast. Tails joined up with them and he flew in front of the Deva-Beast's visor, hoping to distract it so that Bunnie & Rouge could hit it without the Deva-Beast retaliating. It was working too. Tails flew around the Deva-Beast's visor and kept it focused on him. Bunnie and Rouge attacked it in the visor again but the Deva-Beast immediately reacted by extending it's neck again and hitting all three of them. That attack sent Tails, Bunnie and Rouge all hurtling down to the ground and they landed on a soft patch of grass that cushioned their fall. The Deva-Beast stared squarely at them and decided to finish them off, aiming it's back mounted cannons at the three Mobians. But before it could attack, Shade the Echidna, Scott Lynx, Jessica Cougar and Thunder & Bolt all jumped in at once and they unleashed an onslaught of attacks on the Deva-Beast. Shade Blade-Rushed it, Scott & Jessica threw energy spears at it and Thunder & Bolt zapped it with their electrical attacks. The Deva-Beast could barely see who it was up against due to how many attacks were being launched at it and the attacks were obscuring it's vision. If they kept this onslaught up, the Deva-Beast's visor could well be shattered at last and it would be blinded. But the Deva-Beast was not going to be defeated so easily. The Deva-Beast used it's six legs to launch itself into the air and it soared over the Mobians like a giant cannonball. It landed on it's front two legs and it began to start digging down into the ground, using it's feet like drills as it ploughed down through the soil and started digging down and down into the ground. As the Deva-Beast began to dig, it left an enormous hole in the ground. The hole was so big you could put two three-storey buildings in it. Shade instantly grew worried for the Deva-Beast could pop up from the ground at any time and given how deep down it was digging, there was no telling WHERE it would pop up.

"Everybody, keep your senses alert." ordered Shade "That thing's going to emerge from the ground and it'll likely emerge directly beneath us."

"I can just imagine what's gonna happen when that giant thing emerges from underground!" yelped Thunder worriedly.

"Yeah, we're gonna have the world's largest molehill!" whimpered Bolt, who for the first time had just made a joke and neither he or Thunder were laughing at it like they usually did "And we're gonna go sky-high if it comes up directly underneath us!"

"We'll hear it coming up and when we do, we can run for it before that thing gets us." said Scott "And then we can continue to attack it's visor…"

Then suddenly, the ground beneath them began to shake and Scott could hear a rumbling noise directly beneath his feet. The Deva-Beast was coming up to the surface!

"Holy smokes, it's coming! RUN!" screamed Scott.

Shade, Scott, Jessica and the chipmunk brothers run for their lives just as the Deva-Beast erupted through the earth and sent showers upon showers of earth and soil flying everywhere. The Deva-Beast spiralled through the air like a giant six-legged drill and it landed down on all six legs a good few feet away from the hole it had just come through. The Deva-Beast raised it's head and bellowed a thunderous, titanic roar that could have made Mount Adabat tremble. The Mobians staring up at it were Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Wilson, Mandy, Geoffrey, Ruben, Sally, Nicole, Miranda, Kari and Kiara. The Deva-Beast looked down at it's victims and it prepared to stomp on them. Amy summoned her Piko-Piko hammer to her hand and threw it directly at the Deva-Beast's head as it prepared to stomp on them. The hammer pinged harmlessly off of it's head and it's stomp attack was uninterrupted. The Deva-Beast stomped the ground but the Mobians had already run clear before it could stomp on them. Knuckles ran over to one of the Deva-Beast's legs and he leaped onto it. Using his spiked fists, he climbed straight up the Deva-Beast's leg and up onto it's shoulder. Geoffrey distracted it by firing a bunch of darts at it, all of them pinging harmlessly off of it's invulnerable chrome armour of course. Amy joined in by throwing Piko-Piko hammers at the Deva-Beast's visor but her hammers couldn't do any damage at all. The Deva-Beast extended it's neck again and it's head shot forward and plunged into the ground in an attempt to smash the two with it's head. But instead, Amy and Geoffrey grabbed onto the Deva-Beast's head and the Deva-Beast raised it's head back up. Knuckles had just climbed onto the Deva-Beast's shoulder and he ran across it's neck and onto it's head. Now the Deva-Beast had three Mobians clinging onto it's head. Amy ran onto the Deva-Beast's visor and began to hammer it as hard as she could with her hammer. Geoffrey stomped on it with the heel of his boot and Knuckles punched it with his trademark spiked fists. The Deva-Beast didn't need to do much to get the Mobians off of it's head though. It lowered the front half of it's body down to the ground and then sharply jerked it's head up and sent the three flying straight up into the air. Knuckles, Amy and Geoffrey hurtled up into the air but Knuckles managed to save himself by spreading his dreadlocks out and entering gliding mode. He grabbed Amy and Geoffrey's hands and he glided down to the ground with the skunk and hedgehog in two. The Deva-Beast had other ideas though. It aimed it's tail at them and extended it. The tail extended to a great length and it was positioned directly under the gliding Knuckles. This in turn caused Knuckles to crash into it and now he, Amy and Geoffrey were clinging onto it's tail. The Deva-Beast then swiped it's tail and sent them all hurling across the battlefield and towards NewMobotropolis. Luckily for them, Tails, Bunnie & Rouge were on hand to save the three of them. Tails flew up into the air and caught Knuckles, Rouge caught Amy and Bunnie caught Geoffrey.

"Whew! Good catch luv." said Geoffrey, gasping for breath.

"Thanks sugah." said Bunnie brightly "Ya'll admitted how much you love me so I've gotta show how much ah love you Geoffrey St. John. Ya'll saved mah life before and now ah've saved yours."

Geoffrey nodded happily. Bunnie had returned the favour at long last and saved his life. No wonder he fell for the cyborg rabbit. Not only was she beautiful but she was a life saver too. The Deva-Beast growled in fury, furious to see it's attempt to kill them had just been thwarted and it shot at the fliers with it's back mounted cannons. Tails, Rouge and Bunnie all flew out of the way before they could get shot and the cannon blasts hit a random building in New Mobotropolis, blowing a giant chunk off the top of it. The fliers all flew down to the ground and they dropped off Knuckles, Geoffrey and Amy and they flew towards the Deva-Beast to continue their attack. The Deva-Beast was ready for them and it was poised, ready to strike at any attacking Mobian that dared come near it.

As for Sonic and Devion, the fight was going even sided so far. Sonic kept spin-dashing Devion but Devion was resisting all his blows and hitting Sonic back hard with his own attacks. Devion kicked Sonic away as he tried to spin-dash him again. Sonic landed on the ground and uncurled from his spin-dash so he could land on his feet. Sonic charged at Devion but Devion kicked upwards and hit Sonic before Sonic could hit him. Sonic was thrown onto his back but he picked himself up and he punched at Devion. Devion took the blows and all Sonic ended up doing was hurting his fists. Sonic shook his hands and he leaped back as Devion clawed at him. Then he and Devion ended up linking arms with one another.

"You destroyed the sub-leaders and some of my men Sonic!" snarled Devion "And with a weapon created by the Startrons no less! I will decimate you for this and your planet will suffer gravely for this crime of yours!"

"I'm committing no crime Devion!" retorted Sonic "I'm doing what's right! Defending Mobius from your evil take over Devion! As for your little army, I don't think you'll be in charge of any number of planets anymore since the Startrons are going to unleash their bombs on the universe and it'll wipe out every Devatron in the galaxy now they know their little weapon works!"

Devion looked like someone had just ripped his circuits out of his chest.

"The Startrons are going to wipe out all the Devatrons with that virus-bomb that you used on my troops?!" he croaked, hardly able to believe what he had heard.

"Yes Devion!" said Sonic with a smug expression on his face "How about that? The mighty planet conquering Devatrons are gonna be wiped out by your cousins! Maybe if you tell the Devatrons to call off all invasion and conquest plans and play nice then maybe they'll stop and let you all live!"

"I will not succumb to those lowlife Startrons just because they possess a weapon that can decimate our armour and leave us prone!" snarled Devion "Once I conquer Mobius, I shall remake the Devatrons and make them immune to the virus somehow! Then I will find General Klight and wipe out his entire bomb supply and then destroy him myself! General Klight should know better then to mess with me and my troops, all of whom are renowned for their invulnerability, superior technology and unmatched fighting skills! Even you, Sonic the Hedgehog, have sufficient reason to respect my battle prowess! You should cede to me and relinquish this world to us instead of delaying the inevitable!"

"I'll never give up Devion!" snapped Sonic, spin-dashing him in the chest and knocking him back "I never will give up and I will never let you or any other evil win! I'm the hot-shot hero of this planet and heroes don't give up no matter what they're up against!"

Devion just picked himself up and deployed his arm cannons, glaring at Sonic with his red V-shaped visor.

"Then allow me to deliver your karma." he said coldly.

He aimed his arm cannon at Sonic and blasted at him, narrowly missing the hedgehog by mere inches. Sonic retaliated by leaping towards him and preparing to punch his daylights out…

Meanwhile, Shadow was skating through the halls of The Doombringer and searching for the Chaos Emeralds. Now Devion wasn't here to stop him like last time, he'd find the emeralds and no one would stand in his way, not even the Devatron soldiers for they weren't as big a threat as Devion and the sub-leaders. Shadow had skated through a good few hallways already, looking in the rooms on the current floor he was on while he was at it, and he was almost at the top floor. He skated to the end of the current hallway he was in and then he teleported up onto the next floor of the ship, which was two floors away from the top floor. Shadow skated through the corridor and looked in as many rooms as he could. He found nothing in any of the rooms he looked in and he skated to the end of the corridor. He teleported up onto the next floor of The Doombringer . The top floor was directly above him now. All he had to do was skate to the end of this corridor and then teleport again. Through all the corridors he'd been skating through, he hadn't seen any possible hiding places for the Chaos Emeralds. Most of the rooms he'd looked in while skating down the corridors were either of no use to him or were just full of Devatrons. His luck might just be about to change though for he saw a group of four Devatrons carrying a pile of chrome panels over to a hole in the wall of The Doombringer . The ship was still being repaired from the damage he'd caused earlier and it was almost done. If Shadow managed to find the Chaos Emeralds and Sonic was able to restore their power though, The Doombringer wouldn't even get finished for he and Sonic in their super forms could just as easily destroy it. The Devatrons saw Shadow coming towards them and they dropped their supplies. They began to shoot at Shadow with their arm cannons, trying to hit him before he could attack them. But Shadow was much too fast for them. He dodged their attacks with ease and he spin-dashed towards them all. He walloped all four Devatron soldiers and knocked them over. Two soldiers picked themselves up and they began shooting at Shadow but Shadow picked up one of the panels they were going to use to fix the hole in the wall and he threw it at the two soldiers. The panel hit them both directly in the sides of their heads and they clutched their heads, wondering what on Mobius had just hit them. Shadow then jumped up to their eye height and unleashed an onslaught of attacks on them all while yelling battle cries. The two soldiers were thrown backwards and they fell out through the hole in the wall. They plummeted from The Doombringer and they crashed onto the ground. They survived the impact thanks to their invulnerable armour. The other two soldiers tried to attack Shadow but Shadow teleported out of their way and reappeared behind them. He threw a bunch of Chaos Spears at the Devatrons but his attack didn't phase them the slightest. The Devatrons shot at him but Shadow teleported out of their way and he reappeared just above their heads. He split-kicked them both and knocked them down onto the floor. Shadow then spin-dashed one of the Devatrons out through the hole in the wall and sent that one plummeting down from The Doombringer and onto the ground. The impact didn't effect the Devatron in anyway. It picked itself up, along with the other two that had fallen out of The Doombringer , and the three soldiers ran back onto The Doombringer via the boarding ramp which was deployed for the workers to come and go as they please. Back up on the next to top floor, Shadow stood over the last soldier fighting him with his foot on it's chest and he summoned a Chaos Spear to his hand.

"Alright you, tell me where Devion's keeping the Chaos Emeralds hidden and I won't have to blind you!" he threatened.

"Why are you asking me?" snorted the Devatron soldier "I don't know where Devion keeps anything! I don't even know what these so-called "Chaos Emeralds" you speak of are!"

"Don't play stupid with me Devatron!" snarled Shadow "You must know of the Chaos Emeralds! Sonic tells me that Devion de-powered them and took them for himself! He's keeping them somewhere on this vessel and you're going to tell me where they are!"

"I do not know where Devion's keeping your emeralds Mobian and even if I did, I do not know why I should tell you!" snapped the Devatron.

"Because if you don't, I will blind you with my Chaos Spear!" yelled Shadow "Now tell me where they are or so help me I will use this on you!"

"Spare me the petty threats Mobian!" retorted the Devatron "I really do not know where they are but if I were to guess, Devion's likely holding them in the cockpit. Devion tends to hide things there when he's stolen them."

"Thank you." said Shadow coldly, his expression a perfect reminiscent of a stoic person.

He then proceeded to throw the Chaos Spear at the Devatron's visor and kill it. The Devatron was now dead and it lay on the floor with it's visor blackened and smoke seeping out of it. Shadow teleported up onto the top floor of The Doombringer and he searched for the cockpit. He remembered the way to it since he had been in it before. He should have known that the Chaos Emeralds were going to be kept in the cockpit. The cockpit was the least likely place to expect to find them and when it comes to searches, you'd often find the item you're looking for in an unlikely place. Shadow skated through the corridors until he found the cockpit and he skidded to a halt. The cockpit was closed but Shadow knew how to get in without opening the door. He just merely teleported into the room. Since the cockpit door was closed, no Devatron could see what Shadow was doing and they wouldn't suspect him of doing anything in there. Shadow looked around the cockpit, wondering where the Chaos Emeralds could possibly be hidden in a place like this.

"OK Chaos Emeralds…where are you?" wondered Shadow.

He wondered past Devion's throne and he looked all around the control pad. There didn't seem to be anything for the Chaos Emeralds to hide in so far. Maybe the Devatron soldier had been lying to him the entire time and they weren't in the cockpit. He then noticed a handle on the control panel and wondered what it was there for. He grabbed the handle and he pulled on it. To his surprise, a compartment opened up for that was what the handle was for. And in the compartment were none other then the Chaos Emeralds! Devion had put them back into the compartment after they had been used for his trap earlier. Shadow grinned happily for he had found them at last. Amazing how dull they looked without their amazing power and they were all now a dull grey instead of their respective colours. Well he and Sonic were going to sort that out now he'd found them. As part of the plan, they were now going to deliver the Chaos Emeralds over to AngelIsland and see if the Master Emerald could restore their power. Shadow gathered up all the Chaos Emeralds and he teleported out of The Doombringer 's cockpit…

Back outside, the Royal Fighters were all putting their hardest into the fight with the Deva-Beast but their attempts were ultimately futile and they just could not phase the beast at all. The Deva-Beast just took all their attacks and fought back with stomps, cannon blasts and even digging. It was a miracle that none of the Mobians had even been hit or injured or even killed yet. Sonic's battle with Devion was beginning to go towards Devion once again as the fight continued and Sonic began to get tired whereas Devion was the lest bit worn out. Given how he is a robot, Devion does not need to breathe and therefore, doesn't tire out after excessive fighting. Sonic spin-dashed feebly towards Devion but Devion dodged his attack and smacked him down onto the ground. Sonic skidded across the ground painfully and come to a stop with a mound of dirt around his face and horrible scrap marks from the impact. Devion then stomped on Sonic's back before he could get back up and Sonic yelped in pain for his back had still not fully healed from after Knuckles had helped fix it after Devion had dislocated his spine. Devion then grabbed the back-supporting device that Dr. Eggman had equipped him with and he proceeded to rip it clean off of Sonic.

"This device supports your still healing back Sonic." sneered Devion "Now I've just broken it, let's see you fight me now. I bet your back still hasn't healed from the day I nearly broke it and that'll be a hindrance to you."

"I'll beat you Devion, back stabilizer or no back-stabilizer!" yelled Sonic.

He picked himself up and he spin-dashed towards Devion but Devion dodged the attack and Sonic uncurled from his spin-dash, landing on his feet and skidding backwards. Sonic was about to attack again but a sudden surge of pain ran up his back and he grimaced, clutching it.

"Ouch! I guess my back still hasn't healed!" he winced "Why is it when you break something it takes forever to heal?"

"That is just the function of the organic body Sonic." gloated Devion "When a fleshling creature breaks something, it takes a period of time for you to recuperate, thus leaving you vulnerable to attack from the enemy. We machine creatures though can merely just replace our broken parts and we'll be back to normal again with merely a switch of body parts. The fact we are machines instantly makes us the superior beings and you organic creatures have no hope of victory against me."

"For Chaos' sake, you gloat more then Eggman and Marik the Martian Devion!" muttered Sonic "Do you ever stop bragging?"

"I am not bragging Sonic, I am merely stating the facts of life, something that you cannot comprehend due to how flaccid your mind is." claimed Devion "Now, I failed to break you before Sonic…"

Sonic charged towards Devion but Devion socked him in the gut with a powerful punch. Sonic gasped hoarsely as he felt the air in his lungs began to deplete. Devion then smacked Sonic down onto the ground, making him cough and clutch his stomach in pain. Devion reached down and seized Sonic by his body. He hoisted the hedgehog above his head and he stuck his knee out. Sonic squirmed in Devion's grasp, desperate to get free before Devion could make the killer blow.

"No! No! Please! No Devion!" yelped Sonic.

"…so I shall break you now." said Devion "And this time, I'll make sure you really DO break!"

Devion was just about to slam Sonic down onto his knee again and this time actually break Sonic's back but before he could do so, something spin-dashed him in the back and sent him flying across the battlefield. He dropped Sonic as he was hit and he crashed into the ground about thirty feet away from him. He skidded to a halt and ended up with his face buried in a mound of dirt. The attacker was Shadow the Hedgehog of course. He had arrived just in time to save Sonic from getting his back broken by Devion. Shadow grabbed Sonic's hand and helped him stand back up.

"Thanks Shadow!" gasped Sonic "I was about to get my spine snapped until you showed up!"

"You're welcome faker." said Shadow smugly "And look, I've found the Chaos Emeralds at last. Shall we commence with the next stage of your plan now?"

Sonic was gobsmacked to see the Chaos Emeralds once again. True it would be better if they weren't power drained but it was still good to see them again. Sonic's face brightened and he took three emeralds from Shadow so he didn't have to carry all seven at once.

"You betcha Shadow!" said Sonic with a cheeky smile on his face "Hey, how about we race each other there? Last one to Angel Island has to sit and watch the other turn super!"

"You astound me blue hedgehog." muttered Shadow "You manage to make a game out of just about every confrontation you get into."

"Well that's the fun of being the hero of Mobius to me." said Sonic "Having a little fun while I'm saving lives everywhere. Now let's go!"

With that said, Sonic zoomed off at top speed, leaving Shadow to choke on his dust momentarily. Shadow chuckled and he skated off after Sonic, desperate to catch up to him and beat him to Angel Island. He had been touring Mobius looking for answers so he knew where it was and he was going to beat Sonic there.

"I'll teach you to get a head start faker!" said Shadow with a cocky smile on his face.

Sonic & Shadow both ran off and they headed into Green Hill Zone. Devion picked himself up from Shadow's attack and he watched the two hedgehogs flee for it.

"Why are Sonic & Shadow fleeing the battle?" he wondered to himself "There is no logical reasoning behind their departure from the battlefield. Sonic insists he'll never give up and then he flees. He and Shadow are up to something and I'll have to catch them before they can do anything to stop me."

Devion then suddenly ran over to the Deva-Beast and he leaped up onto it's head just as it fended off attacks from Shade and Team

Adabat. Felix the Peacock had been whacking the Deva-Beast in the visor with his feather clubs but the moment Devion leaped onto the Deva-Beast's head and pointed his arm cannons at him, the peacock fled for it. The Deva-Beast looked up, pleased to see Devion back on it's head again and Devion gave the command.

"Deva-Beast! Sonic & Shadow are up to something and we must catch them!" he barked "Dig underground and follow them! With your expert tracking systems which allow you to track any moving heat signature no matter how fast or how far away, you'll catch them easily."

The Deva-Beast obeyed and it leaped up into the air. The Mobians all dived for cover as the colossal Deva-Beast soared through the air and it then landed on it's front two legs. The Deva-Beast dug down into the ground using it's feet like drills and it disappeared from view in a matter of minutes. The Deva-Beast was completely submerged underground and it began to dig straight forward, following the direction that Sonic & Shadow's heat signatures were heading. The Deva-Beast was incredibly fast when digging underground so it was likely to catch up to the two hedgehogs. The Royal Fighters watched as the Deva-Beast fled the battle scene underground. They couldn't quite understand what was going on.

"Now this situation merits upon puzzling motives." mused Felix "Why ever has that behemoth chosen to flee the battle when it is on top of the battle and has us on the ropes?"

"I'm not entirely sure on that one feathers." said Mandy "But we must catch it before it causes any damage to anything that gets in it's way."

"Has anyone seen Sonic & Shadow?" asked Wilson "They've gone too. I didn't see them run after the Deva-Beast so they can't be chasing it down."

"I saw them running off in the direction AngelIsland is." said Knuckles "Why they're doing this I am not sure but if that thing's following them, which I suspect it probably is, then we've gotta stop it before it arrives at Angel Island! Devion match find the Master Emerald and try to steal it once he arrives there!"

"What can we do to catch up to them?" asked Sally "We don't have any modes of transport on us and New Mobotropolis is fitted with a laser grid that'll zap us into submission upon entering the place so we can't get any modes of transport from New Mobotropolis. We're going to have to sit and wait this one out I'm afraid and hope Sonic and Shadow stop Devion from touching Angel Island."

"If only Hamlin hadn't used my warp ring to try and frame Sonic and then have it destroyed by Devion then maybe I could use that!" grumbled Knuckles "We'd all be over there in no time!"

"It's times like this I really need to equip myself with a new warp belt." muttered Shade "Metal Sonic destroyed my original and the Nocturnus Clan are all dead so I can't get one from them and I'm not sure how to build one since Imperator Ix never taught us the schematics of the warp belt and simply just gave us them pre-made and constructed."

"So there's no way we can get over to Angel Island and defend it from the Deva-Beast when it arrives there." muttered Knuckles "We've just gotta sit back and hope Sonic & Shadow can stop it."

"They'll use the Master Emerald to turn super Knuckles, they'll stop that thing." said Tails reassuringly "I know they will."

It seemed Tails was probably right but Devion still had more tricks hidden away and ready to unfold before Sonic & Shadow…

A short while later, Sonic & Shadow both arrived at Angel Island (Sonic won the race with Shadow by a whisker by the way), the home of Knuckles the Echidna and the Master Emerald. No matter how many times Sonic saw Angel Island, he continued to be amazed at it for it was truly a floating majestic beauty for anyone who saw it. Without a warp ring to warp up to the island or Tails to fly him up there, Sonic had no way of getting up onto the island but Shadow did. He grabbed hold of Sonic and he warped himself and Sonic up onto Angel Island. The two hedgehogs appeared just in front of the emerald shrine and they ran up the steps and up to the Master Emerald. The glorious glowing green gem never ceased to astound Sonic and Shadow was fascinated with how much energy there was in the giant emerald and even more amazed at the fact the emerald was keeping Angel Island afloat.

"The Master Emerald is truly an amazing gem isn't it?" asked Shadow "How does this powerful relic keep the island afloat?"

"I dunno." said Sonic "I guess it's all that power it has. OK, let's see what happens if we put the Chaos Emeralds on top of the Master Emerald."

Sonic and Shadow both put all seven emeralds on top of the Master Emerald and they ran down the shrine to stand a good distance back for they were likely to be blinded by the dazzling light of the Chaos Emeralds getting their power back should it work. To the hedgehog's luck, what Sonic was hoping would happen ended up happening. The Chaos Emeralds reacted with the Master Emerald's power and they began to float up off the Master Emerald a few inches. The Master Emerald glowed brighter and brighter and the Chaos Emeralds were beginning to glow again too with trials of energy going up into them. The Master Emerald was literally feeding the Chaos Emeralds energy and powering them back up like a battery charger charging up some batteries. The Master Emerald was giving it's power to the Chaos Emeralds and re-powering them! Sonic's face brightened at the sight of the Chaos Emeralds powering back up.

"Whoo hoo! It's working!" cried Sonic "They're getting their power back!"

"Now the Chaos Emeralds can be used to go super again." said Shadow "And Devion's going to get scrapped once me and you turn super Sonic!"

"You bet they are!" laughed Sonic "As a matter of fact, let's power up and return home so we can finish this Devatron war once and for all!"

Shadow nodded and he and Sonic both jumped onto the Master Emerald. The Master Emerald now had two more individuals to feed power to. Sonic and Shadow both closed their eyes and let the Master Emerald do it's work. Their fur began to change colour and their spines pointed upwards. Sonic turned a brilliant golden colour and Shadow's turned a radiant lemon-yellow colour. Sonic's eyes turned red whereas Shadow's remained as they were because they were already red. Super Sonic & Super Shadow were now standing above the Master Emerald and they were ready to save Mobius from the threat of the Devatrons once and for all. Super Sonic & Super Shadow levitated off the Master Emerald and they clenched their fists, feeling the Chaos Power that flowed through their veins. Super Sonic felt great in particular for the Chaos Energy in him had healed his back so he was back in proper fighting order again.

"Look out Devion! The super hedgehogs are in town and they're gonna smash your face in!" declared Super Sonic.

Little did they know that Devion was already coming their way and that the Deva-Beast had a surprise for the two of them…

Oh ho, ho! Ladies and gentlemen this is it! The Devatron saga comes to a close in an EXPLOSIVE finale next time! I'm actually kinda sad at that. :(Oh well it was fun while it lasted. So stay tuned as Super Sonic & Super Shadow bring an end to the Devatron's reign of terror at long last!

Story 115: The Tides of War Part 3: War's End

Sonic the Hedgehog and Shadow the Hedgehog had made it to the mystical landmark that is Angel Island and they had restored the Chaos Emerald's power thanks to the Master Emerald. The Chaos Emeralds could now be used once again and Sonic and Shadow had used the Master Emerald to turn super. Super Sonic and Super Shadow were all super charged and ready to unleash their power on the Devatrons. Once they did that, the Devatron war would finally be over and then the Mobians could get back to dealing with Dr. Eggman and his crazy schemes of conquest. Super Sonic flexed his muscles and he felt the super power surge through his veins. It had never occurred to him how good it felt to have this super power surge through his body.

"Boy does it feel good to be able to go super again." said Super Sonic "Right Shadow, you ready to bust some Devatron heads?"

"Whenever you are Sonic." sneered Super Shadow, a cocky smirk spreading out onto his face.

The two super hedgehogs were ready to charge off and fly back to New Mobotropolis but something stopped them before they could leave. They looked down at the ground and they noticed bits of the ground appeared to stick up and form a long trial and the trial only just got longer and longer as it went along and began to get closer and closer to AngelIsland. It looked like something was digging towards them.

"What's that?" asked Super Sonic.

"I'm not sure but I think I can guess Sonic." said Super Shadow grimly.

And before Shadow could even do that, the thing erupted out from the ground, sending chunks and chunks of soil and earth showering everywhere as it emerged from beneath, and spiralled through the air before landing down on it's own six feet. It was, of course, the Deva-Beast and it had Devion riding on the back of it's head. The Deva-Beast bellowed a thunderous roar and it looked up at Angel Island. Devion stared at the island and his attention was briefly focused on the island.

"This planet continues to amaze me." he mused to himself "It has an island that levitates above the ground somehow. This planet must have magical heritage of some kind."

His attention was quickly diverted from Angel Island and onto Super Sonic & Super Shadow for they charged towards him and the Deva-Beast and a brilliant speed through the air. The Deva-Beast jumped out of the way of the charging super hedgehogs and amazingly actually managed to evade them. The super hedgehogs swerved around and they glowered at Devion. The Devatron leader could only stare at them in horror as he saw them in their super mode.

"What is this?!" he blurted "You two have become super powered?! How is this possible?! I have deprave you of your Chaos Emeralds and power drained them! You cannot be in your super form Sonic!"

"Well Devion we got the emeralds back and we restored their power!" sneered Super Sonic "And I am not gonna tell you how we did it!"

"I do not need you to apprise me on this kind of information as I can guess how you did it." muttered Devion "That mystical island must have a powerful relic of some kind that you used to restore the emerald's power. And maybe that so called relic also keeps the island airborne too. This just means I have another location to target as I continue my conquest."

"You'll have to get through us first Devion!" growled Super Shadow "And I sincerely doubt that even a being as invulnerable as you will fall victim to our super power!"

"We Devatrons are not strong enough to resist super power." said Devion grimly "But the Deva-Beast is. Especially as he has a feature that has never seen action until now…"

"Oh great, Devion has yet another Plan B?!" blurted Super Sonic "What the heck might that be then?"

"Stand by and watch." said Devion "Deva-Beast, begin your conversion to battle mode!" he ordered.

The Deva-Beast obeyed and it lay down onto the ground, clearly preparing to do something amazing and shocking. It's back opened up like a pair of doors and something rose up from the inside of it's back. It looked like a golden suit of armour with an enormous pair of golden dragon like wings attached to it and a long golden dragon tail near the bottom at the back. The Deva-Beast's back closed back up and the suit of armour opened up as if it was getting ready to attach it self to the Deva-Beast and close around it's body. The Deva-Beast then suddenly began to change and shape shift. It's middle and back legs attached themselves together to form a giant pair of legs with three clawed feet. The Deva-Beast then stood up completely straight on it's new pair of legs and it's front legs formed a pair of arms with three clawed hands. The Deva-Beast's head even changed shape. The face extended a few inches in length and grew a mouth crammed with razor-sharp teeth underneath the muzzle section. Then finally, the suit of armour clamped itself onto the Deva-Beast's back and closed around the body, completely encasing the Deva-Beast's entire torso section. There was even a helmet for the Deva-Beast to wear with this suit of armour. The helmet neatly sat on top of the Deva-Beast's head and covered it, shielding it from any possible attack. There was even a see through visor cover that protected the visor from any attack. Devion was inside the Deva-Beast's head and he was a part of the transformed killing machine. He was the Deva-Beast's controller and brains now. Every action the Deva-Beast did would be completely of Devion's will and motives. The Deva-Beast roared loudly and the super hedgehogs stared at it in surprise. They were completely speechless at what the Deva-Beast had just transformed itself into.

"Holy Chaos Emeralds!" cried Super Sonic "The Deva-Beast just transformed!"

"It's now an armoured killing machine with wings and everything!" blurted Super Shadow.

"You are absolutely correct super hedgehogs." the Deva-Beast boomed with Devion's voice.

Whenever Devion spoke, the Deva-Beast's mouth moved up and down as if it was talking with Devion's voice.

"What you see before you is the grand debut of the Deva-Beast's battle mode." continued Devion "It is now the Deva-Dragon and it is the most invincible invention of the Devatron race. After King Hardigm had created the Deva-Beast, he installed these features into it which were meant to be used as a last resort. The Deva-Dragon is stronger, more powerful and is completely invulnerable now. The Devatrons are only nigh-invulnerable whereas the Deva-Dragon is absolutely impregnable and impervious to any attack. Even the super-powered ones. We've been lucky to not need the Deva-Dragon to finish our battles before but now you Mobians shall be the first to witness it's destructive and invincible power!"

"You're all big talk Devion!" taunted Super Sonic "Let's see if the Deva-Dragon lives up to your boasting!"

Super Sonic charged towards the Deva-Dragon at top speed and he prepared to plough straight through it's chest and out through it's back. But Super Sonic hit the golden suit of armour that the Deva-Dragon was encased in and he ricocheted directly off of it as if he was merely a pebble skimming off a glass window. Super Sonic ended up diving down into the ground like a meteorite and he groaned in pain. It was lucky for him he was super powered otherwise that impact would have been even more painful then it was now. Super Sonic picked himself up and he rubbed his face better. The Deva-Dragon peered down at Super Sonic and Devion laughed at him.

"I warned you Super Sonic, the Deva-Dragon cannot be penetrated by anything, even super powered beings." crowed Devion "You're just wasting your energy trying to destroy it. You'll never break the Deva-Dragon!"

"We'll see about that!" yelled Super Shadow, zooming towards the Deva-Dragon and drawing his arm back.

"Chaos…SPEAR!" bellowed Super Shadow.

He swiped his arm and sent a bunch of Chaos Spears hurling towards the Deva-Dragon but the spears all ricocheted off of the Deva-Dragon's invulnerable armour. The Deva-Dragon didn't even feel that attack. Devion laughed at Super Shadow and the Deva-Dragon swatted Super Shadow with one of it's hands. Super Shadow was sent hurling down into the ground. Super Shadow crashed into the ground and he was left grimacing in pain. The Deva-Dragon then lifted up it's enormous foot and it prepared to stomp down on Super Shadow with the foot. Super Shadow warped out of the way of the Deva-Dragon before it could stomp on him and he reappeared just behind the giant monster. Super Shadow spin-dashed the Deva-Dragon in the back but the attack was useless and Super Shadow just ended up ricocheting off of it's back. The Deva-Dragon didn't even feel that attack and it was looking around for Super Shadow. Super Sonic picked himself up and he spin-dashed the Deva-Dragon in the visor. But with the Deva-Dragon transformation for the Deva-Beast, even it's visor was shielded so the Deva-Beast's only weak spot was no longer a weak spot. Super Sonic spin-dashed off of the Deva-Dragon's visor and he hurled up into the air, spiralling crazily as if he was in a drunken daze.

"Oogah! The whole world's doing a spin-dash around me!" slurred Super Sonic woozily.

Devion laughed at Super Sonic yet again and he began to crow some more.

"The Deva-Dragon has no weak spots Sonic!" he gloated "The Deva-Dragon's design protects every part of it's body, including the visor. Any weakness the Deva-Beast once had is not a weakness to the Deva-Dragon! I was not bluffing when I said the Deva-Dragon is invincible. You will never destroy it and the Devatrons will finally destroy you Mobians once and for all!"

"Over my rotting carcass!" yelled Super Sonic.

Super Sonic spin-dashed at the Deva-Dragon again only to ricochet of it's armour again. The Deva-Dragon then opened up it's mouth and it fired an amazing electrical blast of energy at Super Sonic.

Super Sonic dodged the blast just narrowly and the blast hit the ground, leaving a giant crater in it. The Deva-Dragon fired at Super Sonic again but the blast missed Super Sonic and made another crater in the ground. Super Shadow attacked the Deva-Dragon from behind again but the attack was useless and the Deva-Dragon didn't feel it. The Deva-Dragon span around and glowered at Super Shadow with it's visor. The Deva-Dragon opened up it's mouth and it fired an electrical blast at Super Shadow. Super Shadow dodged the blast and he tried to super-charge into the Deva-Dragon's mouth, thinking that if he got inside the beast he could tear it apart from the inside out. But the Deva-Dragon closed it's mouth quickly before Super Shadow could get inside it. The Deva-Dragon then suddenly spun around and swatted Super Shadow with it's tail. Super Shadow hurled into the ground and he made a deep hole in it. The Deva-Dragon then suddenly turned it's attention to Angel Island. Devion decided it was time to see what secrets and mysteries AngelIsland had.

"Deva-Dragon!" barked Devion "Fly over to that levitating island! I wish to see how this island is capable of floating and I also wish to retrieve the Chaos Emeralds and destroy them for good."

The Deva-Dragon obeyed and it spread it's enormous wings. The Deva-Dragon's wingspan could stretch over four tennis courts. The Deva-Dragon swooped it's giant wings and it flew towards Angel Island. Super Sonic & Super Shadow watched the Deva-Dragon fly towards Angel Island and Super Sonic could only watch in horror as the giant Devatron monster headed towards the mystical floating island.

"Oh no! The Deva-Dragon is heading towards the island!" cried Super Sonic "We've gotta stop it before it destroys the island or something!"

"We can stop it quite easily." said Super Shadow.

Super Shadow then flew towards the Deva-Dragon at a blinding speed and he quickly caught up to it. Super Shadow landed on the Deva-Dragon and he yelled out loud.

"Chaos…CONTROL!"

The Deva-Dragon was suddenly engulfed in a bright flash of light as Super Shadow activated his Chaos Control. Devion began to wonder what was happening as he too was engulfed in the light. The Deva-Dragon then suddenly disappeared into thin air and the dazzling light that had engulfed it quickly died down afterwards. Super Sonic stared ahead of him, momentarily gobsmacked, and he was pleased to see what Super Shadow had just done. The Deva-Dragon had been warped away so it could not attack Angel Island and take back the Chaos Emeralds.

"Sweet Shadow! You teleported the Deva-Dragon away from Angel Island!" cried Super Sonic happily "But where have you gone to? I guess I'm gonna have to start teleporting and looking around for you."

Super Sonic then yelled out loud "Chaos…CONTROL!" and he disappeared in a bright flash of light, leaving no trace of his existence in the plains of Downunda. He had no idea where Super Shadow and the Deva-Dragon had teleported to but he was determined to find them so that he may finish off the battle with Devion and his ultimate weapon of death…

Back at New Mobotropolis, all the Royal Fighters were standing around and waiting for Sonic and Shadow to return from Angel Island and hoping dearly that the Deva-Beast wouldn't catch up to them and attack Angel Island. They had been gone for a few minutes already and Knuckles the Echidna was beginning to lose his patience. He was losing his mind with worry over what could possibly be happening over at Angel Island and if the Deva-Beast was going to destroy it.

"Urgh! I can't take the waiting anymore!" yelled Knuckles "We've gotta go to AngelIsland and see if everything's OK over there!"

"Knuckles, ease up will you?" asked Amy Rose crossly "Sonic and Shadow will mash that metal monster to itty bitty little bits when it catches up to them! Have you forgotten about the Master Emerald and what it can do? I bet over at Angel Island right now Sonic and Shadow are in their super forms and they're tearing that Deva-Beast and Devion apart as we speak!"

"You do have the right to feel positive about this whole thing Amy but there's a number of things that could go wrong over there!" retorted Knuckles "What if the Deva-Beast catches Sonic and Shadow before they get to the island? What if it destroys the island before they can use the Master Emerald? And what if Devion decides to take the Master Emerald itself and use it's immense power against us?! The whole world will be in catastrophe if that happens! We've gotta go over there and…"

"Do what exactly? Stand around and stare helplessly at the Deva-Beast?" put in Mandy Mouse with a stern expression on her face and her hands on her hips "Because that's pretty much all we can do against that thing. Our attacks are useless against it and people such as myself can't even lay a finger on that thing so even if we do go over to Angel Island, how are we possibly gonna stop it from tearing it apart rock by rock?"

"We could distract the Deva-Beast and give Sonic & Shadow time to power up with the Master Emerald!" snapped Knuckles "But then that'll just big the question of whether they'll be able to destroy it, even in super form. They Devatrons are invulnerable and so is the Deva-Beast so will Super Sonic & Super Shadow be able to destroy the Deva-Beast?"

"Well if they just freeze it with a Chaos Control and then spin-dash it in the visor, the Deva-Beast will be history." noted Tails the Twin-Tailed Fox "Super Sonic & Super Shadow can easily do that with the power of Chaos in their veins."

"I think the best thing to do would be to sit back and hope for the best." said Queen Sally Acorn "We really cannot afford to lose this battle just as it was beginning to turn in our favour. That virus-bomb may have saved us all but all it ended up doing was delaying the inevitable. Devion can easily replace those that the bomb destroyed and we can't afford to have Sonic and Tails go back into space just to get another one, they barely arrived in time to save us and if we get captured again, we might not be so lucky."

"I agree Sally." said Nicole the Lynx "All we can do is hope that Sonic and Shadow get to the Master Emerald and use it to destroy Devion and the Deva-Beast. Then all that's left to do is get rid of what's left of The Doombringer and all it's occupants inside."

The Royal Fighters agreed with the lynx. The Doombringer was still around and repairs were on the way to being completed anytime soon. The Devatrons still had their production chambers and other facilities that would get them back in the fight any time soon and if The Doombringer remained intact then the Devatrons would reproduce and have the Mobians on the ropes yet again. It seemed that The Doombringer 's destruction may well be inevitable though for a bright dazzling flash of light appeared from nowhere and everybody shielded their eyes from it with their hands or arms.

"Whoa! What's that light and where did it come from?!" cried Bunnie Rabbot.

"I have a feeling I know what it is babe!" said Geoffrey St. John, peeking through his fingers to see if his guess was right.

The dazzling light continued to flash for a few seconds before finally dying down and revealing none other then Super Shadow and the Deva-Dragon hovering in the air and staring each other down. The Royal Fighters were all amazed at the sight of the Deva-Dragon and they didn't know what to say about it. They were pleased to see Super Shadow but they began to wonder where Super Sonic was.

"What in the name of Spagonia is that?!" cried Wilson the Dog.

"It looks very scary and deadly!" whimpered Cream the Rabbit.

"Is that the Deva-Beast in a new form?" asked Cosmo the Seedrian.

"It must be." murmured Shade the Echidna "It could not be anything else. The Devatrons clearly have a lot of tricks in their circuitry."

"Does this make the Deva-Beast harder to defeat then before?" mused Ruben the Water Panther "That golden armour it's wearing looks like it can take a beating, a very big beating even."

"Oh phooey! It's a suit of armour! Super Shadow will destroy that thing easily!" sniffed Amy "I wonder where Sonic is though? Has he not turned super too?"

"I'm sure he has, Shadow just used a Chaos Control to warp that thing away from Angel Island and back here so Sonic's likely looking for him now." said Tails "The one thing I'm wondering is how strong is this new form of the Deva-Beast and can Super Sonic and Super Shadow take it down?"

The Mobians were all about to find out for the battle was getting ready to continue up in the air. Devion observed his surroundings and he quickly found out he was back over at New Mobotropolis, the very home of Sonic and the very city he'd captured.

"We're back at New Mobotropolis." muttered Devion "You teleported me back here Shadow. Very clever of you to resort to such tactics in order to prevent me from going to that strange floating island. No matter. I remember it's location and once I rid this world of you and Sonic's hides then I shall go back to the island and find out what secrets it may hold."

"You will never get the chance to do that Devion!" growled Super Shadow, removing his inhibitor rings and holding them in each hand "For I am going to blow that Deva-Dragon of yours away!"

Devion just glowered at him, clearly not impressed with what was coming next. Did Sonic and Shadow not understand the meaning of "The Deva-Dragon cannot be penetrated by any being, even super forms"? Truly they were desperate beings and truly pitiful creatures if they continue to believe they can win when it is obvious that Devion is going to be the victor of this battle and that all their attempts are in vain. Super Shadow tensed up for a moment and then he threw his arms out to the side.

"Chaos… BLAAAAAAASSSSSSSSTTTTTTT! " he bellowed at the top of his voice.

A huge sphere of golden energy erupted out from Super Shadow's body and it blasted the Deva-Dragon head on. The Deva-Dragon just hovered there, taking the attack and remaining completely un-phased by the attack. Super Shadow unleashed all the energy he had in him and he desperately tried to make this Chaos Blast count but try as he might, the attack just didn't work. The Deva-Dragon was completely unaffected by the whole attack. Super Shadow eventually finished his Chaos Blast and he clipped back on his inhibitor rings so that he could power back up. Super Shadow panted and he stared at the Deva-Dragon. He was gobsmacked at the fact the Deva-Dragon had just survived his most powerful attack without so much as a scratch on it. The Deva-Dragon then opened it's mouth and began to thunder with laughter as Devion laughed at Super Shadow's pitiful efforts.

"That attack did not even come close to harming the Deva-Dragon Shadow!" crowed Devion "That attack didn't even tickle it! Now do you see how powerful the Deva-Dragon truly is and that all you're doing is wearing yourself out as you battle it?"

He then continued to laugh manically at Super Shadow. Super Shadow could only stare at the Deva-Beast in horror, unable to believe his most powerful attack didn't even tickle the Deva-Dragon. The Chaos Blast was probably the only chance he had at destroying the behemoth and yet even that failed. If Super Shadow couldn't Chaos Blast the Deva-Dragon to bits then what could he do? The only option really was look for a weak spot on the Deva-Dragon and then attack it. But the Deva-Dragon's only likely weak spot was it's visor and that was now shielded by the visor cover on the helmet. If only he could remove the helmet and then super-charge into it's visor then perhaps he could do some damage to the Deva-Dragon and bring it down. Super Shadow clenched his fists and he charged towards the Deva-Dragon at top speed. Devion sneered at Super Shadow and the Deva-Dragon opened it's mouth. It fired a new attack this time though. Instead of a ball of electricity, it fired a spiral of searing hot lasers that were like fire. They made a shape similar to the DNA structure and they spiralled towards Super Shadow. Super Shadow didn't have time to get out of the way and he was stricken by the attack. His super-enhanced invulnerability saved him from too much damage but the attack still greatly affected him. Super Shadow was thrown down into the ground by the deadly attack.

"Shadow!" cried Rouge the Bat in horror.

The bat couldn't bear to watch Shadow get hurt like this. She somewhat liked Shadow even though the two hadn't really been with each other that long and watching the Deva-Dragon floor him like this was becoming a pain to watch. Amy could see that Rouge looked immensely upset so she decided to comfort him.

"It's OK Rouge, Shadow's super. He'll easily have survived that attack." she said "And when he gets back up, he'll mash that Deva-Junkie to bits!"

"I hope so." said Rouge "Although Shadow's gonna have to work hard. That thing survived his Chaos-Blast and that's his strongest move. If the Chaos-Blast can't stop it then what will?"

A very good question was what Amy thought. She had no satisfying answer to give to Rouge though. Despite Super Shadow's best efforts, the Deva-Dragon remained un-phased by them. And where was Super Sonic when you needed him? Was he still looking for them? If he was then he'd better hurry up and arrive here so Super Shadow can get some much needed back-up. As for the Deva-Dragon, it flew down to the ground and stared down at the spot Super Shadow landed in. Devion was wondering if Super Shadow had survived that attack. There was a lot of smoke drifting up from where Super Shadow had landed. Maybe the attack had killed him. But just as Devion began to think that the Deva-Dragon's attack had succeeded, Super Shadow picked himself up and charged straight up into the Deva-Dragon's lower jaw. The charge knocked the Deva-Dragon's head backwards sharply but no damage was done and it remained standing. The Deva-Dragon stared eerily at Super Shadow, the super-powered hedgehog just scowling at him.

"Impressive, you survived the Deva-Dragon's attack." purred Devion "These Mobian super-forms are impressive entities aren't they?"

"Well I'm invulnerable in this form just like your beast is invulnerable Devion." said Super Shadow "You'll never kill me while I'm in this form!"

"I gathered as such." muttered Devion "But can you maintain your form for as long as you wish? Or is your power limited like most super-powered entities? If so then how long do you have until your power expires Shadow?"

Super Shadow thought to himself for a moment. True his super-form didn't last forever. He found that out the hard way when fighting a weaponized Alonzo. If he and Super Sonic didn't finish off the Deva-Dragon in time then their power would run out and they would be at the mercy of the Deva-Dragon. Super Shadow decided to pick up the pace and fast before his super-power expired. Super Shadow began throwing showers of Chaos Spears at the Deva-Dragon but they all pinged harmlessly off it's armour, not causing so much as a scratch on the Deva-Dragon. The Deva-Dragon retaliated by tail-whipping Super Shadow and sending him hurling all the way over into Green Hill Zone where he knocked a few trees over. Devion cackled darkly at Super Shadow and the Deva-Dragon took flight once again with a mighty flap of it's colossal wings. Just as it was flying up into the sky, a bright golden flash appeared from nowhere and Devion stared at it, the light not even blinding him given how he's a robot and robots can't be blinded by bright lights.

"So Sonic has caught up to us at last." he mused to himself "Good, now I may finish him off too."

Devion was right, the golden flash was Super Sonic. He'd finally managed to find them after doing several Chaos Controls to look for them. Devion decided to make the Deva-Dragon launch a sneak attack while he had the perfect chance. The Deva-Dragon opened up it's mouth and fired the spiralling laser attack at Super Sonic just as he finished materializing into existence. Super Sonic was hit by the attack and sent hurling away into Green Hill Zone where he landed directly next to Super Shadow. Super Sonic picked himself up and he shook his head.

"Whoa! Devion got the drop on me with a sneak attack!" he grunted "Cheating little demon!"

Super Shadow picked himself up and he looked to his right to see Super Sonic directly beside him.

"Well faker, you caught up at last." muttered Super Shadow "Now we can both finish off the Deva-Dragon together."

"We sure can Shadow, but there's one thing I must yell at you for." said Super Sonic "Why the heck did you warp the Deva-Dragon over here?!" he yelled, grapping Super Shadow by his chest hair and jamming his face into his "Do you realize what's at stake now it's here?! My home city could well be destroyed and all my friends could get killed by the Deva-Dragon!"

"Well where did you want me to warp it to?!" snapped Super Shadow "It's not like it matters where we fight that thing as long as we destroy it! Besides, I brought it here so that we may immediately destroy The Doombringer after we finish off the Deva-Dragon."

"I see." said Super Sonic "Well we'd best hurry up and destroy that thing before our power runs out otherwise we're sitting ducks and Devion will have us at his mercy."

With that said, Super Sonic & Super Shadow both rocketed out of the forests of Green Hill Zone and they charged towards the Deva-Dragon. They both slammed straight into the Deva-Dragon's gut but despite the power of that charge, all they did was just ricochet off of the Deva-Beast's armour and dive-bomb into the ground. The Deva-Dragon looked down at Super Sonic and it opened its mouth. It fired an electrical energy ball at Super Sonic but Super Sonic warped out of it's way. The ball hit the ground and left a big mark of impact on it. Super Sonic charged towards the Deva-Dragon's visor but given it's protection from the visor cover on the helmet, Super Sonic didn't do any damage to it and just ended up skimming off of it like a pebble being skimmed across water. Super Sonic flew straight up into the sky and then he rocketed straight back down and hit the Deva-Dragon on the top of it's head. The Deva-Dragon's helmet took the attack and the colossal chrome monster head-butted Super Sonic just before he could fly away. Super Sonic hurtled down into the ground and went straight through it, leaving a hole and going down pretty deep before stopping. This made him think back to when Super Scourge sent him ploughing straight down into the ground which in turn caused him to discover the Chaos Clusters. Super Sonic flew back out of the hole and he spin-dashed the Deva-Dragon in the chest. The Deva-Dragon swiped at Super Sonic with a giant clawed hand but Super Sonic ducked and he spin-dashed it in the shoulder. The Deva-Dragon was unaffected by the spin-dash and he smacked Super Sonic away with a hefty swipe of its arm. Super Shadow flew back up into the sky and he fired a shower of Chaos Spears at the Deva-Dragon. The Chaos Spears did no damage to the Deva-Dragon and the Deva-Dragon fired it's spiral laser attack at him. Super Shadow dodged the attack and he super charged towards the Deva-Dragon, hoping to zoom into it's mouth and down it's throat so that he could cause some damage to it from the inside out. Just before he could get into it's mouth though, the Deva-Dragon closed it and Super Shadow ended up bumping into it's jaw. Super Shadow gripped his head and shook himself off for a minute but the Deva-Dragon smacked him down into the ground with it's hand. Super Shadow crashed down into the ground and the Deva-Dragon prepared to stomp on him and squash him flat. But before it could do that, Super Sonic flew in under it's foot and he pushed up on it, stopping the Deva-Dragon from bringing it down on Super Shadow. Super Sonic put all his might into pushing the Deva-Dragon's foot and the Deva-Dragon tried to finish it's stomp. The Deva-Dragon seemed to be winning this pushing match though for Super Sonic was being pushed down towards the ground slowly but steadily. If Super Sonic lost this sumo match then he would be squashed flat like an insect. His super-empowered invulnerability would not save him from such a grisly fate. The Deva-Dragon pushed down on it's foot and it began to overpower Super Sonic but Super Shadow came in and pushed on it's foot too. Super Sonic and Super Shadow both pushed together and after a good strenuous effort, they managed to overpower the Deva-Dragon and they pushed it's foot upwards, causing it to topple over onto it's back and land on the ground with an earth-shaking thunk that could bring a whole city crumbling down. The impact caused all the Royal Fighters to all fall over onto their backs or bottoms. To them, it felt like an earthquake had just happened.

"Oohee!" cried Bunnie "Now that's an earthquake if ah ever felt one!"

"If that thing falls over anymore it'll shake the planet apart!" squeaked Vector the Crocodile "Super Sonic & Super Shadow best watch what they're doing in this fight!"

"I must admit, that thing is quite resilient isn't it?" mused Espio the Chameleon "Super Sonic and Super Shadow can't seem to phase it no matter what attacks they throw at it!"

"Does that mean they can't beat it?" asked Charmy Bee worriedly.

"It looks that way." said Tails grimly "But Sonic and Shadow will beat it somehow. Sonic always wins and Shadow's like Sonic with extra power. They'll come out on top of this. I know they will."

Tails could wish and believe all he liked though, it was evident that the Deva-Dragon was too strong for the super-hedgehogs and that it was going to win this battle. The Deva-Dragon picked itself up from that shove-over and it glowered at the super-hedgehogs with it's V-shaped visor. Devion in particular seemed pretty miffed at them for doing this even though merely shoving the Deva-Dragon over onto it's back wasn't going to do much of anything to it.

"Such strength in you super-powered hedgehogs." muttered Devion "The two of you combined can push the Deva-Dragon over onto it's back. This'll just make getting rid of you all the more enjoyable. And as for your precious Chaos Emeralds, if they can give you Mobians power as great as this then how much power do you think a Devatron can gain from them?"

"I bet the Chaos Emeralds wouldn't even work on you Devion." sneered Super Sonic "Although we've never really tried them on a robot yet so how would I know? Either way, you're not getting those emeralds back Devion! We've spent all this time trying to retrieve them and we're not gonna lose the Chaos Emeralds again!"

Super Sonic spin-dashed towards the Deva-Dragon yet again but the Deva-Dragon fired it's spiral laser attack at him. Super Sonic hit the lasers and he ploughed straight through them with his spin-dash. The Deva-Dragon however managed to overpower Super Sonic by strengthening it's attack. The spiral-lasers became larger and more powerful and to really add extra power, some electricity from it's electric energy attacks were added to it. As powerful as Super Sonic's spin-dash was, even that attack was too powerful for it. Super Sonic was thrown backwards by the combined attacks and he spiralled through the air dizzily before coming to a halt in mid-air and regaining his balance. He gasped and panted for breath.

"Hurgh! Devion's beginning to get on my nerves now!" he grumbled "It's time for a Sonic Overdrive!"

Super Sonic tensed up for a moment and began to build up all the Chaos Energy he had inside him. He then curled up into a golden spiky ball and he rocketed towards the Deva-Dragon. He began to rapidly spin-dash it all over his body with enough force to bring a whole skyscraper to pieces. Super Sonic was going much to fast for the Deva-Dragon to attack back. Super Sonic let the Deva-Dragon have everything he had and after a minute of spin-dashing, he stopped his overdrive attack and he flew away from it so he could see what he'd done to it. To his horror, the Deva-Dragon was STILL unharmed and unaffected! Sonic's Sonic Overdrive hadn't done the slightest bit of damage to it! He'd given the Deva-Dragon everything he got and he STILL couldn't phase it! Devion wasn't kidding when he said the Deva-Dragon was invulnerable to anything, including super-powered beings! How on Mobius was he going to win this match now?

"No!" cried Super Sonic "Even my strongest attack doesn't do any good! How am I possibly gonna destroy that thing now?!"

Super Shadow flew in and decided to try another Chaos Blast on it. They had been giving the Deva-Dragon a good beating or so already and he and Sonic has used their strongest attacks on it already. Maybe all their fighting and super attacks were wearing the armour out and if he Chaos Blasted it again he'd make some progress on it. It was a risky gambit and a thought that could be completely wrong but Super Shadow wouldn't know if he was right unless he tried it. So Super Shadow removed his inhibitor rings and he unleashed his Chaos Blast once again. Super Sonic decided to add insult to injury by using another Sonic Overdrive. His and Super Shadow's strongest attacks together were bound to bring the Deva-Dragon down for sure. Super Shadow activated his Chaos Blast and Super Sonic activated his Sonic Overdrive. The Deva-Dragon was hit by a wave of raw Chaos Energy and Super Sonic's spin-dashes all at once and it couldn't fight back because Super Sonic was too fast and it couldn't really see where Super Shadow was. Super Shadow's Chaos Blast finally finished and wore out and Super Sonic finished his Sonic Overdrive. Super Shadow clipped his inhibitor rings back on and Super Sonic flew down beside him to see if their attacks had done anything to it. The two attacks had been valiant and powerful ones. But even they did not do any damage to the Deva-Dragon! The Deva-Dragon just stood there and looked as if nothing had happened at all! Super Sonic & Super Shadow were frozen with horror and they could not speak. Devion delivered a haunting evil mocking laughter that just got under their skin.

"Why do you continue to press your offensive supers even though you know you cannot penetrate this giant, invulnerable wall of chrome I'm shielded by?" sneered Devion "All you're doing is wasting your energy and giving me some much deserved entertainment! Well as fun as this fight's been, I'm going to have to reluctantly end it. You know what they say after all: "It was fun while it lasted"."

The Deva-Dragon then lashed out and tail-whipped Super Sonic & Super Shadow. The two super hedgehogs were thrown backwards through the air and they crashed into the ground a few feet away from New Mobotropolis. They skidded to a very painful halt on their sides and the impact would have left scrape marks on their sides had they not been super-powered. Super Sonic picked himself up, rubbing his arm.

"Gyah! Urgh!" he grunted "Devion…has every right to gloat…that thing's too powerful!"

"We hit it with everything we have and we can't even scratch it!" fumed Super Shadow "That thing's impossible to destroy!"

"Well we need to stop that thing or the end of Mobius is upon us!" cried Super Sonic "We'll all be dead and the Devatrons will add Mobius to their cosmic collection! Maybe this might be the event that destroys the future that Silver and Blaze are wondering about…"

"I do have one idea but it keeps failing." muttered Super Shadow "I have a strong feeling if we attack it from inside then maybe we'll destroy the Deva-Dragon. But I can't get into it's mouth and I'm not sure what other method of getting inside we can use."

Super Sonic thought for a moment on this matter. Super Shadow had a brilliant idea and it was their best option. His super-form was beginning to run out so they had to try it or they would lose this match and Mobius would be conquered. And unlike Super Shadow, he knew exactly how to get inside the Deva-Dragon.

"Shadow you doofus!" jeered Super Sonic, slapping the super-powered hedgehog on the back "We can just Chaos Control ourselves into the Deva-Dragon's insides! I can't believe you didn't think of that one!"

"I'm amazed I didn't either." muttered Super Shadow "Well then, let's try it shall we?"

"Be my guest Shadow." said Super Sonic casually "And I'll let you do the honours. All you need to do is warp yourself into the Deva-Dragon and then Chaos-Blast it from the inside out. While you're doing that, I'll make mince-metal out of The Doombringer ."

"Very well faker, let's do it." said Super Shadow smugly.

He threw his arms out to the side and yelled "Chaos…CONTROL!" and he disappeared into thin air. Super Sonic smiled cockily to himself and then he sped over to The Doombringer . The Deva-Dragon saw him heading towards The Doombringer and it flew over to the under-repaired ship and blocked it from Super Sonic. Super Sonic ended up crashing into the Deva-Dragon and spiralling down to the ground in a daze.

"I can see your little plot Sonic." Devion said coldly "And it will not work. For the Deva-Dragon will keep you away from my ship."

"I don't think it'll be doing that for long Devion." said Super Sonic "For your little pet's about to get a stomach ache."

"What prattle escapes your lips this time Sonic?!" snarled Devion "Devatrons are incapable of experiencing organic being pains and cramps since we are not primitive organics! You are starting to talk nonsense now!"

If only Devion knew what was really going on. Deep inside the Deva-Dragon's body, Super Shadow materialized into existence and he observed his surroundings. The scenery around him was pretty amazing. He was surrounded by wires, machinery and cogs of all kinds that all functioned in perfect motion to make the Deva-Dragon operate as flawlessly as it did. Super Shadow was inside the Deva-Dragon's body and now he could try out his plan.

"Say goodbye Devion." said Super Shadow with a wicked smile on his face.

Super Shadow removed his inhibitor rings once more and he activated yet another Chaos Blast. Super Shadow threw his arms out to the side and he unleashed a giant mass of Chaos Energy that swept through everything and began to destroy every last bit of machinery in the Deva-Dragon's enormous body. Every cog, every piston and every wire was fried instantly by the blast. The Deva-Dragon began to groan loudly in pain as the Chaos Blast began to destroy everything inside of it. The blast expanded up it's body and towards it's neck. Devion could sense that something was wrong and that the Deva-Dragon was about to become slag. The Deva-Dragon flailed about madly as it's internal mechanisms were vaporized from inside it's own body.

"What's happening?!" cried Devion "The Deva-Dragon's systems are failing! Something's attacking it from the inside!"

"Yep. And guess who it is." sneered Super Sonic "While you're at it, I'll get to destroying your ship now."

Super Sonic flew past the crippled Deva-Dragon and he charged towards The Doombringer . The Deva-Dragon tried to stop him but Super Shadow's Chaos Blast overcame the beast and prevented it from defending the ship. After a good few seconds of Chaos Blasting, the Deva-Dragon finally stopped functioning. It's visor went blank and it's wings and arms flopped down to it's sides. It's entire insides had been destroyed and it was now useless to Devion. The Deva-Dragon had been defeated and it was no longer a threat for the Mobians. The Chaos Blast wasn't finished though. It went up into the Deva-Dragon's head and blew all it's circuitry. Devion braced himself as the machinery around him began to explode.

"No, no, NOOOOO!" he bellowed "This cannot be possible! The Devatrons are the supreme beings in all of creation! We cannot be defeated! We are invincible! WE ARE THE ULTIMATE BEINGS!"

The Deva-Dragon then suddenly fell forward and it crashed down on top of the front half of The Doombringer , smashing it to pieces and leaving only half the ship intact. Super Sonic decided to finish the job by using his Sonic Overdrive on the other half of The Doombringer . In a matter of mere seconds, the rest of The Doombringer was completely destroyed by Super Sonic and the ship, it's inhabitants and resources were no more at long last. The Devatrons had finally been destroyed and the Deva-Dragon was out of action for good now. There was only one thing left to do now though. Super Sonic looked over at New Mobotropolis. He could see the laser-grid generator that the Devatrons had set up in it and he instantly realized that it was not of Mobian design. He knew it was Devatron and he had to destroy. Super Sonic flew towards the laser-grid generator and he smashed straight through it, destroying the generator and allowing New Mobotropolis to be habitable again for the Mobians. Super Sonic & Super Shadow had finally done it. The Devatron battle was over and the Mobians had won yet again. Super Shadow teleported out of the Deva-Dragon's dead body and he landed down on the ground. Super Sonic touched down beside him and the two hedgehogs both powered down, their colours reverting back to normal and their spines going back to their original style. The two hedgehogs looked over at the wreckage of the Devatrons and they both smiled at it. The Royal Fighters were all amazed at this sudden turn around and they erupted into a chorus of cheering over the defeat of the Devatrons. Tails and Cosmo hugged each other, Knuckles and Shade hugged each other, Bunnie and Geoffrey bugged each other and the others all cheered triumphantly. Queen Sally could only cry happy tears for Sonic and Shadow. After days of battle, pain and loss, they'd finally won the war and emerged victorious. This match had been Sonic's biggest battle ever and he'd managed to pull a miracle card and emerge victorious. Sally could not commend Sonic enough on this victory. Unknown to the Mobians though, someone else was enjoying the defeat of the Devatrons and that person was Marik the Martian. Marik had decided to come back to Mobius and see who the winner of this war was and to his surprise, it was Sonic and friends. He stood upon the ring wall of New Mobotropolis and he admired the wreckage of the Devatrons.

"Sonic and friends win again." muttered Marik "Good, so now I can bring my family into this and we'll succeed where the Devatrons failed..."

He then whipped out the emerald fragment he'd stolen from Dr. Eggman and he used it to Chaos Control himself away from Mobius once again. He was going to the Seedrian planet Greengate so that he may finish off the war with the Seedrians and then convince his family to come to Mobius and wipe out Sonic and friends...

As for Sonic, he began to cheer over the defeat of the Devatrons.

"YES!" cheered Sonic triumphantly, punching the air "We did it! We beat the Devatrons at last!"

"All we had to do was super-power and destroy Devion's best weapon from the inside out and we won." said Shadow "We well and truly barely made it through this match alive. But we won and now the Devatrons will no longer be a threat to us."

"They won't be a threat to anyone anymore since General Klight and his Startron buddies are going to unleash their virus-bomb supplies on the entire Devatron race." said Sonic "On every planet they've conquered and the very planet they live on, the Devatrons will be dying and the universe will be safe from them at last."

Sonic and Shadow were then suddenly met with another kind of cheering. The cheering was coming from all the Royal Fighters and they ran over to congratulate the two hedgehogs.

"Way to go Sonic and Shadow!" screamed Amy delightedly.

"You two magnificent boys pulled through in the end." said Rouge coyly "Well done."

"I knew you two could do it!" cheered Tails "And you did! I can't believe you managed to turn this fight around but I'm glad you did! You saved all of Mobius and now we're free from the Devatrons!"

Queen Sally stood forward, her eyes still flowing with happy tears.

"You two have performed a miracle today." she said, wiping her eyes dry "I cannot commend you two enough for what you've just done. You've stopped our deadliest enemies to date and freed Mobius from the Devatrons. You two deserve a knighthood each. I shall see to it that you both get knighted later today for your actions and bravery today."

"Knighthood eh?" mused Sonic "I think "Sir Sonic the Hedgehog" might be a good title for me. But I think I'll pass. I don't need a knighthood, the safety of all of you is what I really need."

"Thank you Sonic." said Sally happily "We will forever be grateful to you for your heroism and selflessness. Now then let's get into New Mobotropolis and hold a celebration for our victory today."

"That sounds cool." said Sonic "And since we've got the city back, the poor citizens can come back here and they'll get their homes back. And we can have Royal HQ back too!"

"I was just starting to like the Empire Research Centre." said Tails "But it'll be great to be home again."

"As for you Eggman." said Sonic, looking over at Dr. Eggman who was just beginning to walk away "When can I expect to see your gluttonous behind again?"

"Sooner then you think." said Dr. Eggman, stroking his moustache "I'll allow you to celebrate your victory over the Devatrons though. You're all deserving of that. After that though, I shall commence with my ambitions and I shall succeed where the Devatrons failed and take Mobius for my own!"

"Yeah right." said Sonic snidely "See you on the flip side fathead."

Dr. Eggman fumed at Sonic but he said nothing and walked off, leaving the Mobians to celebrate the Devatron's defeat. The Mobians all prepared to walk off to NewMobotropolis and begin the celebration. But unbeknownst to them, Devion was still alive! Only barely. His life signal was flickering and he barely had enough energy left in him to do anything. His body was dented, scorched and scarred and he could barely get up. He crawled out of the wreckage of the Deva-Dragon as feebly as he could and he lifted his head up. He saw Sonic walking away with his friends and he scowled at him. If he was to die then he was going to take Sonic with him. Devion deployed his arm cannon and he aimed it at Sonic's back. He then fired his last laser cannon blast and the blast soared towards Sonic. The blast struck Sonic in the back and Sonic was thrown forward while shrieking in pain. He crashed down onto the ground a good few feet away from them and he closed his eyes. He was unconscious now and the blast had horribly singed his not-so-long-been-healed back. The Mobians all screamed in horror and they rushed over to Sonic as quick as they could. Devion, now devoid of any energy left to live after that shot, collapsed onto the ground and his visor went blank. He was dead at last and his tyranny was over. But he had left his mark on Sonic and now the hedgehog was clinging for life at this very moment. Tails, Amy and Sally all picked up Sonic's body and they began to cry over him.

"Sonic! Oh no! Something shot him! Is he alright?!" shrieked Amy, unable to control her sobbing.

"He's alive, barely." said Tails, feeling his pulse "We need to get him to hospital and fast or he'll die!"

"We'll need some medical staff since the city's empty of any citizens thanks to the Devatrons!" cried Sally "I'll get Mariah the Medicine Cat the moment we get Sonic in hospital! Everybody, get him to the hospital now!"

The Royal Fighters all obeyed and they ran into New Mobotropolis, Tails and Amy carrying Sonic's unconscious body gently as they rushed into the city. As for Dr. Eggman, he was pleased to see what had happened to Sonic and he sincerely hoped that that shot had killed him. But it was only too much to hope for that outcome and Sonic was likely to pull through. But Dr. Eggman had a great consultation prize though and he stared at it right now. The dead body of Devion the Dreaded, leader of the Devatrons, a race that was soon to become extinct. Dr. Eggman looked at Devion's body and he thought to himself about it. He smiled darkly and he reached out to grab the dead body…

An hour later, Sonic was set up into a room in the New Mobotropolis Hospital and Mariah the Medicine Cat had been quickly brought over to check over Sonic while all the citizens arrived back at New Mobotropolis and settled back down in their homes. Sonic was bandaged up and lying in a bed, unconscious but alive. A heartbeat monitor was on and it determined that Sonic's heart was beating pretty weakly. The Royal Fighters from every team were gathered around Sonic's bed and praying with all their might that he was going to pull through. Mariah was beside Sonic and she poured some kind of medicine down Sonic's throat. She tipped Sonic's head back to make him swallow it and she turned to the others.

"Sonic…will pull through my friends." she said with an expression that couldn't really decide what emotion she had right now "But it'll be a while until he awakens. The medicine I've given him may accelerate his recover by only a little bit. We're just lucky he's even going to live."

"Thank you Mariah." said Sally "It's such a shame that we've been through all this and we can't even celebrate our victory right now because of what's happened to poor Sonic. At least we're all there for him and we'll help him pull through."

"Sonic, if you can hear me I'll let you know this." said Amy, weeping a little "I'll never leave your side Sonic between now and when you get better. I'll take good care of you and I'll make sure that no harm comes to you."

"We all will Sonic." said Tails, wiping away a tear and kneeling down beside the bed "You never leave our side Sonic and now we'll return the favour to you."

"I'm sure Sonic would be pleased to hear all this you two." said Nicole softly "After all, he deserves it for what he's been through for all of us these past couple of years."

"Hey guys?" chipped in the voice of Vector "Sorry to interrupt you all but…I think we're going to need another bed."

Everybody turned around to face Vector and they were all met with an unexpected surprise. Vector stood before them all and in his arms was the body of a very battered and very beaten Princess Matilda! Her hair was long and flowing instead of in a bun, her slippers were missing and her dress had tears in several places. Her body was bruised and laden with cuts, suggesting she had gotten into a dreadful fight and barely made it out alive. She was also unconscious. While the Royal Fighters had been commiserating over Sonic, a visitor had called to New Mobotropolis and Vector had answered it only to see a Chun-Nan resident with a pull cart that carried the unconscious Matilda. Now Vector had brought her to the hospital to be treated. What had happened to her and why she had been brought all the way over here was anyone's guess but once she woke up, they'd soon find out. And the revelation was going to blow them all away…

Well folks, the Devatron saga's finally over :(and it's not ended well for our heroes. Sonic's out of bounds for a while and what does Princess Matilda have to do with all this? Well the answers await you over in Tales from Mobius so tune in to Tales from Mobius for the arc that'll explain everything! And after that, tune back in to this story as we "Return to Chun-Nan" and embark on a saga that does the unthinkable...a Sonic story WITHOUT Sonic...! (I don't mean without Sonic as in he's dead of course! I mean without Sonic as in he's out of bounds but he'll be back on his feet in the next saga!).

I've re-uploaded this chapter because there was a bit I forgot to write in, that bit being Marik's one bit.

Return to Chun-Nan

Story 116: Return to Chun-Nan

A couple of hours later, Princess Matilda had been set up in another room and was lying comfortably on a hospital bed with a heartbeat monitor hooked up to her to monitor her condition. She had been changed into a hospital gown too. As Matilda slept away, the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and the Chaotix all surrounded her bed and stared at her, wondering what had happened to her and why she was here. It seemed that no matter what happened to Sonic and friends, something was always happening. The Devatrons had finally been defeated and yet there was no time to celebrate because Sonic the Hedgehog had just taken a laser to the back from a dying Devion. And just as Sonic was receiving treatment from his wounds, a Chun-Nan resident comes to the city and delivers a battered and beaten Princess Matilda to them. The Royal Fighters and the Chaotix couldn't help but wonder what she was doing here and why she'd been brought here but once she woke up, Matilda could tell them everything and they'd find out what was going on at last. Mariah the Medicine Cat looked over the unconscious princess and she deduced that Matilda was still alive and she'd probably wake up soon.

"This poor woman will pull through and might even wake up soon everybody." said Mariah "I'm glad too, I'm beginning to wonder who this is and why she's been brought to us."

"That, Mariah, is the princess of Chun-Nan herself, Princess Dalon Matilda." explained Ruben the Water Panther, who was more shocked then anybody to see Matilda here right now "She's the only child of the country's current emperor, Dalon Tai, and she's made history by becoming the first ever princess to learn kung-fu. I should know, I've seen her fight before*."

"No way, that's the actual princess of Chun-Nan?!" piped Mandy Mouse "I never would have guessed! I've heard much about her, mostly from the blue dude himself that is, I never thought we'd end up seeing her for real though."

"Nor I." said Wilson the Dog, Mandy's husband "I must say, she's prettier then I imagined."

"Totally in agreement there mate." said Geoffrey St. John the Skunk "But I'm having a hard time believing this girl knows kung-fu. She doesn't look like kung-fu material to me."

"Oh yeah Geoffrey? How would you know what a kung-fu warrior looks like?!" snapped Mandy crossly "She may not look like she knows martial arts of any kind but that doesn't mean she doesn't!"

"You're telling me." muttered Shadow the Hedgehog "Matilda surprised me when she ended up flooring me in a matter of seconds that time I attacked Chun-Nan."

"You're not serious are you Shadow?" snickered Rouge the Bat "You mean to tell me you, the all powerful Shadow the Hedgehog, got his butt kicked by the pretty little princess of Chun-Nan? I don't know what can be more humiliating then that!"

"Dare mock me again Rouge and you will end up finding your head slammed against the wall!" snarled Shadow.

Rouge jumped back in surprise and made sure she didn't purge Shadow's anger further.

"Let's settle down everybody." said Sally Acorn, the Queen of New Mobotropolis "I'll take Ruben's word on Matilda's battle prowess since he comes from the same country as her and has seen her in battle. Unfortunately, it seems that Matilda's met her match. The poor dear looks terrible."

"Who could have done this to her?" asked Tails the Fox, Sonic's twin-tailed friend and sidekick "Zira the Ruthless is in prison and Fong Zarr and his cronies aren't much of a threat. If Matilda can beat Shadow then those cats have no chance against her. And it certainly isn't Conquering Storm and her cronies because they're on our side."

"Yeah, they helped save Chun-Nan that time we visited." agreed

Amy Rose, hammer-wielding berserker and Sonic's would-be-girlfriend "So I'm not gonna even think of accusing that coolie-hat wearing lynx of doing this to Matilda. Maybe the Devatrons got to Chun-Nan and they attacked her."

"That's preposterous Amy, the Devatrons did not expand beyond New Mobotropolis." said Cosmo the Seedrian "The only other country they've attacked is Adabat and that was only to steal lava for their ship so they can't have done this to her."

"Especially since we've now destroyed them all." added Ruben "And I definitely don't think the Spiders of Anarchy did this to Matilda, they're mere hunters, scavengers and vermin. They couldn't get their web around Matilda if their lives depended on it."

"Spiders?" squeaked Cream the Rabbit "Chun-Nan has sp-sp-spiders?"

"Yes Cream." said Amy "If you remember Sonic saying so, they delayed his search for Ruben and he ended up missing Wilson and Mandy's wedding because of them. But I think Matilda would have known better then to dabble with spiders so I don't think they have anything to do with her current condition."

"I think we should stop guessing what's happened to Matilda and just wait for her to tell us herself." said Knuckles the Echidna "We won't find out anything until she wakes up."

"Ah'm just mighty furious that just after we defeat the dang Devatrons, somethin' else happens." muttered the Southern Belle of the team, Bunnie Rabbot "Can't we have a rest even for a minute? Ah mean it's bad enough we have sugah-hog unconscious and unavailable for us all, we really can't cope with somethin' else happening at this dark hour."

"Well that's hero life for you, there's no rest for anyone, even the weary." muttered Tails.

"Hey everybody, the princess is stirring a little." said Shade the Echidna.

Everybody stared at Matilda and watched as the princess began to stir a little in her sleep and the heartbeat on the heart monitor began to beep a little faster, indicating her heartbeat was getting stronger. Matilda was waking up at last. She began to mumble sleepily and the words she was mumbling were barely audible to the others.

"No…hmmm…mmmmf…Chun-Nan…mmmrrrff…no…mmmble…"

"What's she saying?" asked Knuckles.

"I think she's in a dream." suggested Cosmo "And it doesn't look too good, she looks very distressed suggesting from her mumbles and stirring."

"Hey, Matilda." said Ruben, leaning forward and whispering into Matilda's ear as she continued to stir "If you can hear me, wake up. Please wake up, we're anxious to see you."

"How's talking to the poor woman supposed to help?" asked Mandy "She's sleeping, she can't hear you Ruben."

"It is often said that the voice of someone familiar can guide a lost spirit back to it's home." explained Ruben "Talking to Matilda might help her come out of this."

"It seems to be working." said the Chaotix ninja, Espio the Chameleon, observing Matilda's stirring and mumbling and noticing a little change in it "She's beginning to come out of it."

"Keep talking Ruben, you'll wake her up eventually." said Vector the Crocodile, the Chaotix boss.

"How about I wake her up?" asked the Chaotix dingbat Charmy Bee "I'll get her up. I'll fly really close to her ear and scream "Wake Up!" as loud as I can."

"Don't you even think about it you idiot!" snarled Vector.

"Yes, shouting at her will only gonna startle the poor princess, she must wake up peacefully or she'll think she's under attack or something." said Ruben.

He looked over at Matilda and whispered into her ear "Wake up Matilda, your little buddy Ruben's here for you."

"Mmmm…Ruben…? Wha…huh…?" muttered Matilda, finally waking up much to the delight of Ruben.

Matilda's eyes opened at last and she observed her new surroundings. She suddenly realized she was no longer in Chun-Nan. She was in a hospital bed and surrounded by the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters and the Chaotix. Matilda recognized a few faces such as Ruben, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream and Cosmo's but the rest were new to her. Matilda gasped in surprise and she began to sit up in the bed. A sudden surge of pain ran up her side and she grimaced in pain.

"Easy there love, you've received a very nasty wound in your side." said Mariah, reaching out to help her "I've stitched it up and it'll recover in a few days or weeks depending on how serious it is."

"Ugh…thank you…miss." said Matilda, settling down and looking at the others "Hello there everyone, can you please tell me where I am?"

"You're at the NewMobotropolisHospital your highness." said Sally Acorn softly "This is the home place of the Acorn Family and the notorious Sonic the Hedgehog. I believe you've met him already."

"I have." said Matilda "Well that's good to know, the cart man reached his destination at last and I made it. Where is Sonic right now? I don't see him with you."

"He's…" Tails began but he suddenly silenced himself as he couldn't bring himself to say those terrible words.

"He's in here too." said Sally sadly "He's in another room receiving treatment right now. He was shot in the back by a Devatron and he's unconscious but alive. We're not sure when he'll wake up."

"So Sonic's unavailable right now?" asked Matilda in a depressed tone "Oh no, I was hoping he could help me save Chun-Nan."

"Help you save Chun-Nan?" asked Amy "Matilda, what do you mean?"

"Chun-Nan's in terrible danger right now." explained Matilda "I'm sorry to say this but…we were betrayed…"

"Betrayed?!" shrieked Ruben "By who?!"

"The Raiju Clan." muttered Matilda, scowling angrily and clenching her fists "The Raiju Clan were secretly evil and they've unleashed their evil plan on the country."

Ruben, Tails, Knuckles, Amy, Cream and Cosmo were gobsmacked to say the least at this haunting revelation that Matilda had just delivered to them. They were so surprised they could hardly speak.

"Conquering Storm and her ninjas…were really evil?!" cried Tails.

"Oh my gosh!" shrieked Amy "That's horrible! Those dirty double-crossers backstabbed you?!"

"Oh I will make those guys pay for doing this!" growled Knuckles, punching his fists together.

"Um, pardon me sugah but, who are the Raiju Clan?" asked Bunnie "Ah'm afraid the rest of us don't know what yer talking about hon."

"Of course, my apologies, I should have started from the beginning." said Matilda "Ahem, the Raiju Clan are a clan of ninja lynxes and they are led by the Bride of the Conquering Storm…"

"Phsst! Are you real princess?!" snickered Mandy "Bride of the Conquering Storm?! What sick, twisted parent names their kid that?!"

"No Mandy, her name's just Conquering Storm." corrected Matilda " "Bride" is just her honouree title."

"Whatever, Conquering Storm's still a daft name to call someone." scoffed Mandy.

"I always wondered if it was her real name or is it a nickname she prefers." mused Matilda "Anyway, the Raiju Clan are pretty ruthless, preferring might and strength over anything else. They've been plotting the take-over of Chun-Nan for years and they've finally made their move. They fooled us all into thinking they were defenders when really, they're conquerors. I tried to stop Conquering Storm but she was too powerful for me. She completely annihilated me and left me beaten and scarred. She's also the one who gave me this." she added, pointing to the horrible, red scar across her right eye.

"Eew! That's disgusting!" said Cream, sticking out her tongue and screwing her face up.

"This Conquering Storm woman must be serious if she did that to you!" blurted Wilson "That's one horrible scar you've got your grace!"

"I know." said Matilda "I now carry this scar as a reminder of what happens when I trust the wrong person. I probably should have seen their treachery coming as I kept having nightmares about an evil force ravaging Chun-Nan and I bet my nightmares were trying to warn me about the Raiju Clan. Seeing it all unfold, I think my nightmares were referring to the Raiju Clan, if only I'd seen that but I didn't and now they've stricken the country. The Raiju Clan's attack has been very successful unfortunately. The kung-fu masters are having trouble and even my mentor can't hold them off. Last I saw of him, he got knocked out by a nerve pinch so he's likely captured. I was sent away from Chun-Nan to receive medical care as Chun-Nan's not safe for me anymore. I'm also meant to deliver this cryptic message to Sonic and friends but Sonic's unfortunately unavailable as you've informed me so you'll have to save Chun-Nan without him."

"Not necessarily." said Shadow, standing forward so he can see Matilda "Sonic maybe unconscious right now but I'm still around and I will take Sonic's place in this mission to relive Chun-Nan of those oppressors."

Matilda turned to face Shadow and the moment she caught sight of him, her jaw dropped and her eyes nearly popped out of their sockets. Shadow stared back at Matilda, wondering why she was looking at him funny as if he had three heads or something.

"Oh…oh my…oh my gosh! It…it's you! Shadow warrior!" cried Matilda in surprise "I…I don't believe this! I didn't think I'd ever see you again Shadow!"

"Nor I princess." said Shadow with a dry smile on his face "I still remember that beating you gave me the time I was wrongly on Eggman's side. When you recover, I'd very much like a rematch with you Matilda."

"Ha, ha, ha. Well I'll be sure to arrange a rematch between us once I'm back on my feet." said Matilda brightly "Anyway, long time no see Shadow. How's your quest going?"

"On standby for the moment." explained Shadow "Had to help Sonic and friends stop the Devatrons. I trust you know of them as does everyone else?"

Matilda looked at Shadow as if he'd just said something stupid like "Is Saturn made of broccoli?". She had no idea what he was on about although she had heard about the Devatrons through rumours more than anything.

"Um…no." said Matilda "I'm unfamiliar with these so-called "Devatrons". But rumours spread about the planet being invaded by beings called Devatrons and we citizens of Chun-Nan were unsure why."

"I thought the Devatrons broadcasted their message all over Mobius, how can Chun-Nan not know of those brutes?" asked Mariah confusedly.

"Chun-Nan is devoid of any technology Mariah." explained Ruben "There's nowhere IN Chun-Nan for the Devatrons to broadcast their message. We haven't got screening devices and radios like you guys have so Chun-Nan couldn't hear about the Devatrons. The rumours they heard were likely picked up from gossiping citizens from nearer regions. Pity really, Matilda would have been of great help against the Devatrons but they're destroyed now so it doesn't matter."

"We're off track here anyway." interrupted Tails "Right now we should be planning a trip to Chun-Nan and a rescue operation to save the country and stop that treacherous Raiju Clan. We've gotta save Chun-Nan from oppression or the country will never taste freedom again."

"Does this mean you'll help save my country?" beamed Matilda happily.

"Of course we are Matilda." said Tails reassuringly "Sonic would want us to save Chun-Nan. We saved it before and we'll save it again. Sonic would die if he heard Chun-Nan was under attack from a treacherous ninja clan."

"Are you sure this task will be applicable for you all?" asked Sally unsurely "I mean, you'll be up against a clan of ninjas. These ninjas maybe no worse then the Devatrons but, only a martial artist can defeat another martial artist as legend has often said."

"That's preposterous because I took on Bladefeather and Mushu and beat them both!" crowed Shadow "If I go in Sonic's place to Chun-Nan, I will wipe out all of those ninjas with one big Chaos Blast!"

"I quite fancy going to Chun-Nan but why the heck do you wanna go Shadow?" asked Rouge, wondering why Shadow would want to bother saving a country he once attacked.

"Because I got off on the wrong foot with the princess and the kung-fu warriors of Chun-Nan last time." muttered Shadow "I feel it's time I made it up to the country by helping save it. I've helped save the world from Perfect Chaos and the Devatrons, I think it's fair I help save Chun-Nan too. Not to mention, I'm the best replacement for Sonic you can ask for so I'll need to fill in the void for him."

"That's very thoughtful of you Shadow." said Sally "But if you all go to Chun-Nan then who will defend Sonic from the inevitable Eggman attack? He knows Sonic's weak, he knows he's vulnerable and he'll strike at any available opportunity while he can't stop him."

"The other teams will defend him for us." suggested Geoffrey "After all, the blokes and lasses from the other R.F.S. teams are still here and guiding the populace back home, they'll be willing to defend Sonic in our stead."

"Let us hope they're fit for this kind of task." said Shade "We are the mightiest of the R.F.S. teams after all."

"So now all that's settled, we can go to Chun-Nan and bust some evil ninja heads!" bellowed Knuckles, clearly itching to get in on the action.

"Not right now Knuckles." said Tails "It's getting late outside and we're all worn out from the war with the Devatrons, we need to rest right now. We can't beat the Raiju Clan if we're all too tired to fight."

Knuckles fumed angrily, not happy with the fact they needed to sit on their backsides and rest up a moment before saving Chun-Nan from the Raiju Clan. But Tails was right, they can't save Chun-Nan if they're too tired to fight so they would have to wait until morning before making their move.

"Tails is right, we need a good rest before we can do anything about Chun-Nan." said Sally grimly "The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters will set off for Chun-Nan first thing tomorrow morning. I will be helping to return New Mobotropolis back to normal as well as fixing whatever damages the Devatrons may have done."

"Very well Queen of Mobotropolis, I will respect your decisions and I hope that you all can save Chun-Nan for me." said Matilda "If not then my country will forever be doomed to live a life of dominance and slavery."

"We'll do everything we can Matilda." said Sally softly "We will not leave your country to be ravaged by traitors. OK Royal Fighters, let's fall back. Return to your homes and have a goodnight's rest."

The Royal Fighters all obeyed and they left the hospital room to go back to their homes, which they hadn't been in for a while, where they would rest up and begin their mission to save Chun-Nan. As everybody left though, for some reason, Sally's lady-in-waiting Nicole the Lynx looked a little nervous all of the sudden. All of this talk about the Raiju Clan had brought back some kind of memories to her. Memories of her past life before she joined the Castle Acorn staff. She tried her best to hide her expressions as she didn't want people asking her anything. Luckily for her, nobody seemed to notice her odd expression. She just went on her way like a normal person with Sally Acorn close by her side. As they all left Matilda alone in her room to rest and recover from her terrible injuries, Matilda sighed to herself and looked up at the ceiling.

"I hope Conquering Storm isn't causing too much harm to my friends, my dad and my master back home." she worried "Oh how it pains me to think about them in this dark time. Oh ancestors, please let them be alright."

She began to pray to her ancestors and hoped dearly that everything was alright back at Chun-Nan…

It hadn't been that long since the Raiju Clan had made it's insidious move on Chun-Nan and yet as the sun disappeared behind the horizon and darkness blanketed the world for the night, the Raiju Clan had pretty much subjugated the whole village and the Pagoda of Prosperity, Matilda's home and place of royalty. The village was now full of Raiju Ninjas all out on patrol and rounding up the population of it together and assigning jobs for them. The population had pretty much just been entirely enslaved and were now going to be forced against their own will to do whatever it was the Raiju Clan wished them to do whether it was relevant to anything or simply just to be cruel to them. The Pagoda of Prosperity had been ransacked and all riches and treasures contained in the fabulously wealthy pagoda had been taken for the clan itself just to showcase it's superiority. The Pagoda had been left intact though since Conquering Storm didn't think it was deserving of destruction. She felt that maybe she could use it for something and that leaving it intact would lower the esteem of the citizens of Chun-Nan whenever they saw it. Just the sight of the ransacked and conquered Pagoda would be enough to lower anyone's hopes. All around the village, you would see a Raiju Ninja on patrol with a weapon of some kind be it spear, sword or mace and they would be ordering the poor citizens about. You would not however see Conquering Storm about for she was back at her fortress and waiting for updates from her star ninja Dàfēng Rai. As a sign of her conquest, Conquering Storm was wearing a pair of golden shoulder pads that gleamed in the light and the shoulder pads were accompanied by a long, flowing black cape. Conquering Storm believed that conquerors should wear a cape after they've taken over the country and being as the Raiju Clan had pretty much already conquered Chun-Nan right now, now was the perfect time to be wearing the cape. Right now she was sitting in her throne and waiting for updates. She couldn't keep that evil grin of hers off her face as she kept thinking about the Raiju Clan's plan and how successful it had been. All those years of trickery had paid off beautifully. If only her dead parents, or "masters" as she preferred them as, could see her now.

"I've finally done it my masters." purred Conquering Storm "I've conquered Chun-Nan, just as you said we were destined for. Finally, me and my clan shall get the power we deserved, we shall get the power we fought for before Zira slaughtered my original clan and I will not abuse it unlike many fiends that have tried and failed to conquer this pathetic, weak country that relies too much on pathetic "honour" and "tranquillity" for it's way of life. The Raiju Clan has stricken…and it has won. My masters, I wish you could see this replacement clan of mine and how successful it's take-over has been. You would be so proud of me."

Her crowing was suddenly interrupted by a knock on the door and the caped conqueror decided to see who it was although she had a feeling she knew who it was.

"Enter." she ordered.

The doors opened up and in walked Rai, striding pride fully and looking very pleased with himself. The look on his face suggested he'd crushed somebody's skull and enjoyed it dearly. Conquering Storm's grin widened. Seeing Rai looking so pleased meant good news was coming to her and that's what she loved to hear from her star ninja. Rai bowed down at Conquering Storm's feet.

"My honoured matron." said Rai respectfully "I am honoured to say this to you, I justify my presence in your throne room with news of the fortunate kind."

"I sensed from your body movements and expressions." said Conquering Storm with a sly smirk on her evil face "So, deliver your testimony then."

"The population of the holy village has been fully rounded up and the empty Pagoda of Prosperity has been looted clean of it's riches." explained Rai "Slavery can be expected to commence tomorrow morning and with all the kung-fu warriors locked up and out of the way, no one can stop us."

"Excellent news Dàfēng Rai." said Conquering Storm happily "Any news of that little brat Matilda?"

"None my mistress." said Rai regrettably, not pleased he couldn't give Conquering Storm any news on the princess "She appears to have disappeared. We haven't seen her since your battle with her."

"Last I saw of her, she was being carted away and I strive to know where that brat is so that I may kill her!" growled Conquering Storm, standing up quickly and clenching her fists "Matilda maybe no match for me and she maybe weak and useless but if she's fled the country, she might rile up help from the outside and come back to challenge my position! I've worked this hard just to dethrone the emperor and take my rightful place as ruler of Chun-Nan, I can do without anybody trying to usurp my position! Rai, make it your top priority to find Matilda and bring her to me…alive! Alive so that I may have the honour of finishing her off myself!"

"Yes Ma'Am." said Rai with a heavy tone of loyalty in his voice.

"You may leave now." said Conquering Storm "I'm going down to my little dungeon to see how my "guests" are settling in."

Rai smiled wickedly, horrid thoughts about what Conquering Storm was going to do the prisoners filling his head. Rai got up off of his knee and he left the throne room to commence with his new priority, capture Matilda and bring her to Conquering Storm alive. The moment Rai left the room, Conquering Storm wondered off to a door in the far side of the throne room and she twisted some knobs on the door. The door was coded with Chinese characters and only she knew the code to open the door. She put in the code and the door opened up, allowing her to stroll down into the dungeon. Conquering Storm walked down the steps that led to the dungeon at the bottom and she put in the code to that door. This door was coded too. Having two coded doors was definitely going to make this dungeon hard to break into and that's why Conquering Storm installed this feature into her fortress. Conquering Storm opened the door and strode into the dungeon in a very prideful manner. In the dungeon where her prisoners which were Bladefeather and Mushu, their mentor Master Gāng, Matilda's mentor Master Kai Zen (who had had his mask taken off, revealing his real face underneath and revealing his species to be a badger), Matilda's friend Li Moon and the emperor himself, Emperor Dalon Tai. They were all clamped to the wall by acupressure cuffs and they looked very grim and miserable. So would you be if you were chained up in a dark dungeon and your wrists and ankles were firmly clamped to the wall by cuffs that only got tighter the more you struggled. The prisoners all looked up at Conquering Storm and they all scowled at her. Conquering Storm didn't give a toot about their scowls and just decided to pontificate to them.

"It amazes me to no end that I've managed to capture Chun-Nan's only remaining kung-fu warriors and the emperor of Chun-Nan himself." she gloated "You all make fine prisoners you do and I cannot wait to start having fun with you all. And I do not mean fun as in the enjoyable kind…"

"We are very well aware on what type of fun you're referring to Conquering Storm." muttered Bladefeather crossly "Kindly cease your vexing round of bombast for we do not harbour any interest in hearing or even listening to any of it."

That response earned a kunai being pointed at Bladefeather's throat. Conquering Storm scowled at the falcon and wondered how he managed to keep up his rude, pompous manner even in this dark time.

"One would think being in chains and a dark environment would lower that overbearing cheek of yours." muttered Conquering Storm "Well, once I leave you like that for a few days, maybe you'll be more kindly disposed towards me."

"You could leave me like this forever and I would not succumb to you, you rapacious little serpentine." grumbled Bladefeather "You do not frighten me half as much as Zira did."

"And yet I have succeeded where Zira has failed foolish falcon." crowed Conquering Storm, sheathing the kunai and giving him a punch to the gut for punishment "I am soon-to-be ruler of Chun-Nan and Zira is stuck rotting away in the Lóng de dòngxué prison. You have every reason to fear me right now."

"Conquering Storm, please leave us alone." said Emperor Tai "Our imprisonment is punishment enough at your hands, you don't need to pour on the taunts just to upset us all."

"You will silence that pathetic mouth of yours emperor or I will see to it that you have both of your eyeballs torn out!" snarled Conquering Storm "You're in my domain emperor, you have been relieved of your royal seat. You no longer have command over anybody."

"That maybe so but I still have hope for Chun-Nan." said Tai dryly "My daughter escaped your clutches with help from Bladefeather, she will get help and she will bring an end to your dictatorship Conquering Storm. After that, you will end up wishing you hadn't decided to betray us."

"Yes, your lips are moving but all that emits out of your mouth is meaningless words that are as empty as a vase on sale in the market." muttered Conquering Storm "Emperor, your words mean nothing to me."

"Then you truly are lost traitor." muttered Kai Zen "Emperor Tai is trying to make you see what your actions are going to ultimately bring but you continue to let yourself be clouded by greed and power. If you had any decency then you would stop what you're doing and allow us all to live in peace."

"Do you honestly think I harbour any interest in what the mentor of Princess Matilda has to say to me?!" snarled Conquering Storm "You will remain silent in my presence vigilante warrior! Or can't you hold onto that title anymore given how your mask has been disposed of and your true identity revealed?" she smirked.

Kai said nothing more but he scrunched his face up into a very tense scowl that made it look like he was going to pop a blood vessel. Conquering Storm continued to gloat.

"And you're not the only mentor I have in my captivity." she sneered "I have the famed steel-quilled warrior Master Gāng too, whom I believe is Bladefeather and Mushu's mentor." she added, pulling a smug face at the porcupine.

"That is correct Madame." muttered Master Gāng "And I'm ashamed to see you commence with such appalling crimes Conquering Storm. You must have had a terrible mentor if this is what you've become."

"Don't you dare disgrace my masters by belittling them you old fool!" snarled Conquering Storm, kicking poor Master Gāng in the gut as hard as she could "My masters were excellent teachers and they're the reason I am the mighty and powerful warrior I am today! If you dare to say anymore insulting comments about them then I will see to it you die slowly and very painfully! I'll make it so painful you will scream for mercy as you die!"

Master Gāng couldn't say anything else for he was horribly winded by that kick and he was stuck coughing and spluttering for a moment. Bladefeather and Mushu were furious at Conquering Storm for doing this to their mentor but given their current status, they couldn't do a thing about it. Conquering Storm sniffed at Master Gāng and she turned her back on him.

"So as I've said, all of Chun-Nan's kung-fu warriors and their precious emperor are contained and at my mercy." she said "And I will not hold back on any of you when I decided to make you all suffer painfully for daring to resist me."

"Wait, I'm not a kung-fu warrior, I don't even know martial arts of any kind. Why did you imprison me?" asked Li Moon curiously.

"You're friends with Matilda, that's more then enough reason for me to punish you little girl." said Conquering Storm coldly "Anyone affiliated with that wretched princess deserves to be locked up in my eyes."

"Well you'll regret locking us all up like this you scum!" yelled Li Moon "When Matilda recovers from her injuries and comes back, she will make you pay for all you've done to us!"

"Little girl, you need to learn not to cling onto false hope as it is not healthy for you at all." snorted Conquering Storm "Matilda will be mine before she can even begin to recover. I've sent my best ninja to find her. He will capture her and bring her to me and then I will take it upon myself to kill her and force you all to witness this as she dies by my hand. How glorious it'll be to see you all stare in horror as your only hope becomes a victim of the Raiju Clan!"

"No! You can't do that to my little treasure Conquering Storm!" cried Tai in horror "Please spare her! If you take away my precious daughter then you will take my whole life away too!"

"I'll be happy to do so emperor." sneered Conquering Storm "Now, I believe my time with you has prolonged enough now. I'll leave you all in peace while I oversee the management of MY new Chun-Nan."

With that said, Conquering Storm left the dungeon and left her prisoners alone to do nothing but converse with each other. She was having the time of her life right now and the lynx in the coolie-hat couldn't get enough of the joy she was getting from her conquest right now. Everything was going so well it'd be hard to imagine if anybody could actually stop her right now. Conquering Storm was truly whipping up a storm that was conquering all of Chun-Nan and the storm showed no signs of stopping anytime soon. There was no hope for anyone in Chun-Nan now, they were all doomed to be slaves for the Raiju Clan forever…

The next morning arrived and the Royal Fighters were already setting off to go to Chun-Nan. They had all gone over to the hospital to pay Sonic and Matilda their farewells and they got ready to leave. The other Royal Fighter teams arrived at the hospital to keep watch on Sonic since Eggman was bound to try and attack him while he was weak. Team Nekronopolis, Adabat and Megapolis were all standing in Sonic's room and guarding him, even the crippled Thomas Tiger who was in a wheelchair and was pushed around by Kiara the Cheetah. The Mobotropolis Royal Fighters bade the other teams good luck in their mission and a fond farewell.

"Good luck in keeping Sonic safe Miranda." said Tails "We'll be back as soon as possible."

"Thank you Tails." said Miranda "We wish you good luck in your mission in Chun-Nan. It disgusts me to think that anyone would want to take over such a wonderful country."

"I'm disgusted by that too." said Tails "Those Raiju Ninjas must have no heart if they wanna conquer Chun-Nan and ruin everything for everyone."

"Well that's villains for you, they're always trying to ruin everything for everyone for their own selfish, evil needs." muttered Kiara "Much like Dr. Eggman and his evil robot army."

"I agree Kiara." said Tails "Well bye everybody, we'll see you later and I know you will all keep Sonic safe while he's in this comatose state."

"Oh you bet we will!" said Scott Lynx determinedly "Eggman will get nowhere near Sonic with us on guard!"

Tails beamed, pleased to see such dedication from the Royal Fighters and how willing they were to defend Sonic from the inevitable Eggman attack. With that all said and done, Tails left Sonic's room to join the others as they prepared to leave for Chun-Nan. Over in Matilda's room, Ruben decided to leave the princess a get-well soon gift. He'd gone out into the city and bought a bouquet of flowers for Matilda. He entered Matilda's room and he handed the recovering princess the bouquet. Matilda was touched to see Ruben bringing her such a wonderful gift, especially as she loved flowers.

"I bought these for you Matilda." said Ruben "It's a little get-well-soon present to show how much I long for your recovery your highness."

"Aw this bouquet is beautiful, thank you so much Ruben." said Matilda kindly "I never thought I'd see someone with a heart as big as mine. Before you leave Ruben, there's something I forgot to tell you."

"What's that then?" asked Ruben "Is it about Hydra and the aqua-collars?"

"It is." said Matilda grimly "Conquering Storm revealed to me that she was the one behind the aqua-collar thefts. She just blackmailed Hydra into doing so."

Ruben was so shocked he thought he was going to collapse onto the floor. Given this whole revelation about the Raiju Clan's heel-turn, he should have worked that out already but it was still so shocking to hear this. At least that meant Hydra really was innocent after all and Ruben could forgive him for stealing his collar since he didn't do it under his own freewill.

"I had a feeling Hydra was innocent all along!" cried Ruben "No wonder he was acting all apologetic before he stole my collar! He stole it because he was forced to! Well, if I ever see Hydra again I'll help free him from the Raiju Clan's grasp!"

"I hope you can Ruben." said Matilda "Also, will you promise me on your word of honour that you'll get all the water panther's aqua-collars back?"

"I promise, I give my word of honour that as we fight the Raiju Clan, I will get every water panther's collar back." said Ruben "I'll put an end to this crime against the water panther race."

"I hope so." said Matilda "A race as sacred and honouree as yours doesn't deserve to be stripped of it's trademark power."

"No we do not." said Ruben "And I swear when I get my collar back I will give Conquering Storm one heck of a water blast! I'll sweep her away with one big jet of water I will!"

"I wish I could be there to see that." muttered Matilda "I owe Conquering Storm much for what she's done to me and my country. Her betrayal has wounded me more then anything that's ever happened to me before. Even more so then Governor Shen's betrayal last year."

"Well Princess Matilda, Conquering Storm may have inflicted these wounds on you but we Royal Fighters shall fix them by defeating Conquering Storm and her insidious clan." said Ruben "The Raiju Clan maybe powerful but we're not going to let that bring us down. We've defeated the Devatrons so we can defeat a clan of ninjas."

"That'll be easier said then done though." said Matilda grimly "Conquering Storm fared well against Zira and she can even give me a run for my money so she'll be no easy foe. And she knows the dreaded nerve pinch too so that makes her even deadlier. This maybe the battle of your life Ruben and I hope you get through it alive. My heart would stop beating if you and the Royal Fighters fall to the Raiju Clan."

"We'll win this fight princess." said Ruben reassuringly "We'll work out how to defeat those ninjas and we'll kick them out of Chun-Nan and restore peace to the country. I swear that I will not return until my former home is safe from those oppressors!"

"You dedication is on par with mine Ruben." said Matilda with a weak smile "I bet your old clan would be thrilled to see what you've become Ruben. A strong, determined little water panther who's heart is always in the right place."

"Yeah, I sure would love to see what mother would think to me now." said Ruben, looking down at the floor with his ears drooping down "Well anyway, I think I've stalled long enough, the others will be waiting for me. Goodbye Matilda. I'll see you when we return."

"I give everybody in the R.F.S. my sincere thanks for what you're going to do now and I wish good luck upon all of you." said Matilda softly "Please don't become Conquering Storm's next victims."

"I give my word of honour Matilda that we will return safe and sound." said Ruben with a bow "Goodbye."

With that said, Ruben dashed off to meet with the other Royal Fighter teams, leaving the hospitalized Matilda to lay back comfortably in her bed and smell the flowers in the bouquet she'd been given by Ruben. The sweet odorous scent of the flowers definitely made her feel more relaxed. She'd need to do plenty of relaxing since she maybe in bed for a while yet. She'd recover eventually but it would take a while so all Matilda could do was lie back and patiently await her steady recovery…

Outside, the Royal Fighters had gotten out some modes of transport in order to get to Chun-Nan nice and quickly. There were two hover saucers with enough room for seven Mobians each, Wilson and Mandy were going in Mandy's hover car and Shadow was quite content with going on foot as he felt like transportation was just going to slow him down. One saucer had Tails at the controls and he had Knuckles, Amy, Cream, Cosmo, Bunnie and Geoffrey with him while the other saucer had Rouge and the Chaotix. Vector was at the controls of this one although Charmy wanted to drive it and the two had a bit of a squabble before Espio threatened to smack them silly if they didn't stop. They were all waiting around for Ruben to arrive as he gave Matilda his gift and farewells. After patiently waiting for a good couple of minutes, Ruben finally arrived at last and he hoped into the saucer with Rouge and the Chaotix in.

"You took your time kiddo." purred Rouge "Did you and the princess get too invested in your goodbyes huh?"

"We got carried away in discussion that's all." said Ruben "I'm ready to return to my old home and stop the Raiju Clan! Let's go Royal Fighters!"

"You said it Ruben." said Tails happily "You ready for this Shadow? I mean, this is your first time dealing with ninjas after all…"

"I'm ready for anything Tails." said Shadow "This "Raiju Clan" will be no obstacle for me. I'll Chaos Spear every last ninja!"

"We'll see about that won't we Shadow?" sneered Knuckles.

Shadow scowled at Knuckles but said nothing more. Now everybody was here, the Royal Fighters all set off for Chun-Nan. The hover-saucers kicked into gear and Mandy's hover-car zoomed off at the speed of a Formula-1 race car. Shadow activated his hover-shoes and he skated across the ground, following the vehicles since they knew the way to Chun-Nan from here and they could lead him there. The Royal Fighters pulled away from New Mobotropolis and the vehicles hovered off into the distance, leaving New Mobotropolis behind and setting off for the holy country that was in need of their help…

Meanwhile, over in the Northern Border of Megapolis, the great scientist Dr. Eggman had been working busily for the past few hours. He hadn't had a moment's rest upon returning back home after the whole Devatron invasion had been foiled at last and he'd already managed to do a few things. One was fix up his female servant bot Katherine after she had been destroyed again and two was fix up the underground bunker from the damages the Devatrons had done after invading it. Katherine had been finished minutes ago and she was already activated and helping Dr. Eggman fix things up.

"I cannot believe the mess the Devatrons made after storming the place!" grumbled Dr. Eggman "Stupid chrome monsters! They even destroyed those Chaos Emerald fragments you found Katherine so I no longer have Chaos Power on my side! And woe betide Marik for stealing the only ones left so he can abandon us and flee back home! What I wouldn't give to throttle that Martian I would!"

Katherine nodded agreeably. Even though she had been destroyed before Marik had left Mobius, she still hated the sound of what Eggman was telling her. Marik had joined them in the battle against the Devatrons and then ditched them, how she wanted to make Marik suffer for that! But Marik was not important this time, there were more important matters at stake here.

"Well Marik's dead to me just like the Devatrons are." said Dr. Eggman "What's more important now is getting rid of Sonic the Hedgehog while he's weak."

Katherine titled her head to one side as if she was wondering what the heck Dr. Eggman was talking about. Eggman read her expression and he grinned widely.

"Sonic's been shot in the back by Devion and he's out of bounds at the moment Katherine." explained Dr. Eggman "So I'm going to kill him while he's weak and unconscious. He'll never emerge from his hospital bed Katherine! And look who I'm going to recruit for this devious task of mine…"

He directed Katherine's attention over to the wall at the end of the room where the dead body of Devion, the Devatron leader, was all propped up and leaning against it. His visor was blank as a sheet of paper and he showed no signs of life at all given how he was dead. Eggman had fixed his damages and given him a bit of a polish so he looked good as new again. All he needed now was a new brain and Eggman would have Devion back alive, fully functional and completely under his evil control now. Dr. Eggman grinned so wide it almost popped out of the sides of his face. Just imagine him using the deadliest enemy Sonic's ever faced against him and with Sonic hospitalized and in a coma, Eggman would kill Sonic easily and at the same time, he'd be giving Devion the honour of killing Sonic at the same time. Sonic's days were definitely numbered once Eggman got Devion back alive and set on the task to terminate him…

The Oncoming Storm

Story 117: The Oncoming Storm

A good, long amount of time had passed since the Mobotropolis Royal Fighters set off to save Chun-Nan from the Raiju Clan but they finally made it to the holy country and they pulled up their vehicles. The Mobians all stepped out of their vehicles and they looked out into the scenery ahead of them. They could see the village of Chun-Nan ahead of them. If it wasn't for the fact Chun-Nan was being subjugated by the Raiju Clan, Ruben the Water Panther would be feeling glad to be back home. But now was not the time for sight-seeing. Chun-Nan was being oppressed and they had to save it or the country was never going to be free or happy again. The village seemed OK from where the Mobians were standing right now but that was only because the Raiju Clan hadn't begun changing Chun-Nan into their image yet and from where they were, they couldn't see the Raiju Ninjas rounding up all the citizens and making them do whatever they want them to do. But that didn't mean they wouldn't have any ninjas to take out once they got down there.

"Well, we're here. My old home." said Ruben "Why is it every time I return to Chun-Nan, something bad happens? First water panthers are getting their collars stolen and now the country's taken over by the Raiju Clan?"

"It's just a weird coincidence Ruben." said Tails the twin-tailed fox "Hopefully next time we see Chun-Nan, nothing bad will be happening at all."

"Hey Ruben, if you're from Chun-Nan then why did you leave?" asked Rouge the Bat curiously.

"I don't wanna talk about it." said Ruben sadly, his ears drooping back in sorrow "It's a sad subject and thinking about it just upsets me."

"OK kiddo, sorry I asked." said Rouge affectionately, hoping she hadn't hurt Ruben by asking that.

"It's OK, you were curious." said Ruben "We Mobians are a curious race after all."

"So, has anybody formed a plan?" asked Shadow the Hedgehog "We'll be dealing with a clan of ninjas and from the sounds of things, they won't be easy prey so we'll need a plan."

"Well I have one that might work." mused Tails "I thought maybe we could sneak into the village, take down a ninja or two and then force him to lead us to Conquering Storm so we can stop her."

"You, Sonic, Knuckles, Amy, Cream and Cosmo have been here before Tails, don't you know where Conquering Storm is?" asked Geoffrey St. John.

"Well, no really as only Sonic and Ruben went to meet the Raiju Clan." said Tails downheartedly.

"Conquering Storm lives in a fortress beyond the Great Plains." explained Ruben "But we have to get through a couple of challenges. We have the Valley of Stepping Stones and the Plains of Deception. Both are death traps and we'll have to be careful when we get to them."

"Eesh, Conquering Storm's not much for visitors is she?" scoffed MandyMouse "Two areas full of death traps? Bit of an overkill isn't it?"

"It is." muttered Ruben "Me and Sonic barely made it out alive! Although if we all went, we'd have an easier time surviving as we actually have flying members with us. Tails, Bunnie, Cream and Rouge could just as easily fly us over the Valley of Stepping Stones but the Plains of Deception might have a surprise for flying people so that raises more problems…"

"Wait Ruben." said Shade the Echidna "I've just thought of something."

"What's that then?" asked Ruben.

"Is there an alternate route to the fortress?" asked Shade "I mean, what if Conquering Storm needed to go somewhere and she wanted to avoid her own traps?"

"There is one actually." said Ruben, his mind suddenly going click "How could I forget? Conquering Storm took me and Sonic down an alternate route after we'd won her favour and she agreed to help us defeat Zira. But I've only been once so I don't remember the alternate route. I'm sorry everybody."

"Don't sweat it Ruben." said Amy Rose brightly "You can't just remember routes and pathways after only going through them once. Nobody can, unless they have photographic memories that is."

"I could try warping you all to the fortress." suggested Shadow "But I have limited range and I won't be able to carry all of you. Not to mention I need to know WHERE I'm teleporting otherwise I'll just get you all totally lost."

"That would really suck too." muttered Charmy Bee "I hate getting lost."

"Same here." said Espio the Chameleon "So warping wouldn't do us any good."

"So what are we gonna do then?" asked Knuckles "Just beat up a ninja, ask him where Conquering Storm is and if she's at her fortress, lead us the un booby-trapped way? Because we're all fresh outta ideas right now and that one's probably the only one that'll work."

Tails thought on that idea for a moment.

"I think Knuckles is right." said Tails "The Raiju Clan will now how to get to the fortress without going through the traps. We can get a ninja to lead us there, unless of course Conquering Storm's already around and we don't need to go to the fortress."

"Knuckles came up with a good idea? I'm genuinely shocked by this ordeal!" cried Rouge sarcastically "Please tell me I'm not going nuts because right now, I think I am!"

Knuckles scowled at Rouge. Why did that sassy bat have to constantly make fun of him and make him look like a total idiot?!

Knuckles clenched his fists and stomped towards Rouge.

"Rouge, dare joke like that again…" growled Knuckles "THEN I'LL TAKE YOUR HEAD AND SMASH IT AGAINST THE…" he suddenly bellowed aloud as he raised his fists.

"OK, OK! Thank you Knuckles, that'll be enough!" cried Tails, holding the echidna back by grabbing his dreadlocks.

"Rouge, don't make fun of Knuckles or you will answer to me as well as him!" growled Shade "Knuckles has told me much about you and how you've tormented him many times before so while I'm here, you'd better not mistreat him or you'll know about it!"

"OK tough girl, I'll play nice." said Rouge cheekily "I can see why Knuckles picked you over me as his girlfriend, you're as hot-headed as he is sunshine."

That statement made Knuckles and Shade both blush and fume with anger at the same time. Shade was really tempted to Blade-Rush Rouge to pieces right now and Knuckles was itching to bash the bat's brains out.

"Rouge hon, stop making fun of the echidnas will you?" asked Bunnie Rabbot "Teasing people isn't gonna get any of us anywhere sugah."

"Fine, I'll keep it to myself from now on." muttered Rouge, folding her arms and frowning a little before whispering to herself "Spoilsports."

"OK, now we know what we're doing, let's get down there and kick some ninja butt!" yelled Tails eagerly "Come on Royal Fighters, let's go!" he ordered, ready to sprint off.

"Who put him in charge?" snickered Rouge "I must say, despite being a kid, he seems adequate for being a leader."

Shadow sorted of nodded agreeably. Tails had a lot of leader qualities in him despite being only eight years old. So now the team had a plan, they all charged off down to the village of Chun-Nan that awaited them. It didn't the Mobians long to get to the village as it was a hearty jog away from where they had all parked their vehicles.

They were soon at the village and they sneaked around behind some of the buildings in it. The Royal Fighters all gathered around behind a wok shop and they peeked around the corner to get a look at what was going on. What they saw disgusted all of them, even Rouge. The Raiju Ninjas had rounded the whole population up like a herd of sheep and they were all fitted with handcuffs that looked really hard to break and very uncomfortable to wear. The citizens looked dearly miserable and some were even sobbing about their current dilemma. Conquering Storm's star student, Dàfēng Rai, strode proudly by the line of citizens and he began to make announcements to them all, not caring what any of them thought about the whole thing.

"OK citizens." boomed Rai in his grand voice "Here's the update for all you miserable cretins. You emperor has been dethroned as ruler of the country and he is in our captivity. Your princess is missing and hopefully dead. Conquering Storm is your new ruler now. If she ever shows her face around here then you must instantly bow down to her and refer to her as "Empress Conquering Storm", nothing less. Is that comprehended you lot?"

"Yes sir." muttered the crowd miserably.

"Good." said Rai "Now then, here's what our empress has assigned for you all." he added, taking out a list and reading it aloud to the crowd "You will knock down this old village and rebuild it in the Raiju Clan's image. The plans will be provided for the new village once the old one has been knocked down. You will not be allowed to rest from the work except for mealtimes. Anyone who attempts to flee, attempts to skive off the work, stands up to any of the Raiju Ninjas, insults us, talks back to us, ignores us and refuses to obey any given orders will be met with merciless punishment. The punishment you receive will be too graphic for you to handle so you'd best make sure they do not get assigned to you. Do you understand all that?"

"Yes sir." muttered the crowd.

"Good." said Rai, putting the list back in his sash "All of you wait here while a group of ninjas fetches the tools you'll need for the demolition work. I have other matters to attend to right now so I'm leaving you in the capable care of my clan mates here. Remember, if you step out of line then they will punish you badly."

The crowd nodded miserably and they stood in line, waiting for the tools needed for the demolition work to be given to them. Rai strode off to do his given task which was search for Princess Matilda and bring her to Conquering Storm so that the bride of the clan may finish her off personally. The moment Rai left, some ninjas stood guard around the citizens to make sure they didn't do anything and they were all armed with spears. Seeing and hearing all this made Ruben quiver with rage. The Raiju Clan had definitely performed quite a heel turn since the last time they'd met. They were even worse then Zira! If Ruben wasn't missing his aqua-collar then he'd be sweeping the ninjas away with one big wave of water.

"Oooooh those Raiju Ninjas are making me mad!" fumed Ruben "How dare they do all of this to the people of Chun-Nan! I liked them better when they were on our side!"

"I think I do to." muttered Tails "So, it seems Conquering Storm isn't here and according to that big lynx, Emperor Tai is in their captivity so we'll have to get to their fortress now."

"And with any luck, one of those ninjas is going to help us." said Knuckles "So what should we do to get one's attention? Should we just knock one out and drag him back here?"

"Nah that'll attract attention." said Tails "We need to lure one towards us."

"And I shall do the luring." said Ruben "I'm sure a Raiju Ninja can't resist getting a water panther, especially as they were the ones behind the theft of our water-collars."

"I thought you said a friend of yours named Hydra did it?" said Amy with a puzzled look on her face.

"He did but according to Matilda, Conquering Storm blackmailed him into doing so." explained Ruben "I do hope he's OK though, I will go mad if Conquering Storm's hurt Hydra in anyway!"

"We'll search for your friend when we arrive at the fortress." said

Tails "Now let's lure in a ninja."

Ruben nodded and he stepped out from behind the wok shop. He grabbed a wok that was sitting on the counter nearby and he hid it behind his back. He looked around to see if there were any Raiju Ninjas nearby. There was one standing near the wok shop and he had his back turned so he couldn't see Ruben poking around the corner. Ruben crept up behind the ninja as quietly as he could. His novice-style ninjutsu helped him creep quietly towards the ninja without being heard. Ruben then smacked the ninja in the back with the wok and the ninja almost fell forward onto his knees. He turned around sharply and he glared at Ruben.

"Oy! What did you do that for cretin?!" he snarled.

Ruben didn't answer him. He just snickered at him and he bolted off behind the shop as fast as he could. The ninja drew out a katana and he followed Ruben behind the wok shop. He was not going to let an assault like that go unanswered, he was going to let Ruben have it and then let the others decide on his punishment. The moment he arrived around the back of the shop though, the Royal Fighters all pounced on him and began to pound the ninja into submission. Despite being a well-trained ninja, the ninja couldn't fend off so many people attacking him at once, especially as he'd been caught by surprise and wasn't given a chance to fight back. The Royal Fighters all pounded and beat the poor ninja and Bunnie Rabbot finished things off by forcing the ninja's arm behind his back and grabbing him into a chokehold.

"Ah wouldn't try to get away ninja." said Bunnie coldly "We might find it a little hard to contain ourselves if you do."

The ninja scowled at his attackers but he didn't try to escape since he was out numbered and it was going to be difficult to get away from this many people. The ninja stayed put and waited to see what the Royal Fighters were going to do with him.

"Who are you and what do you want?!" demanded the ninja fiercely.

"We're the Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis and we wish to see your master." said Tails "You take us to Conquering Storm and we will let you go."

"And take us the way that isn't booby-trapped too otherwise I'll pound you so badly they won't be able to identify your corpse!" snarled Shadow threateningly.

"Why do outsiders like you wish to meet up with our honoured matron?" asked the ninja.

"Never you mind, just take us there or else!" growled Knuckles "And don't bother calling for help too or I will give you a knuckle sandwich!"

The ninja fumed at the redhead echidna but he didn't say anything. The ninja thought on this offer and he came to this conclusion. Why not lead them to Conquering Storm? She'll just pound them all into submission once they meet with her. Conquering Storm could fight Matilda to a standstill so what chance did these guys have? He'd be quite happy to lead these fools to their doom so why not answer their wishes? They'd only regret it once they got there. The ninja relaxed his expression and he spoke.

"Very well, I shall answer your wishes." he said "I will take you to Conquering Storm but only if you give your word of honour that I am released once we get there."

"And you'd better give your word of honour that you won't double cross us or we won't accept." said Ruben sternly.

"You have it." lied the ninja.

"Then you have our word of honour you'll be freed once we get to the fortress." said Ruben "Now, lead the non-lethal way to Conquering Storm's temple if you please."

The ninja smirked at Ruben from behind the ninja mask he wore. Bunnie Rabbot let him go and the ninja led the Royal Fighters off to Conquering Storm's fortress the non-booby-trapped way. The Royal Fighters followed him and kept a cautious eye out for any signs of attempted ambushes and to make sure their ninja friend didn't try anything funny. But they wouldn't have to worry about that for Rai had heard the commotion back behind the wok shop and he'd spied on the Royal Fighters to see what was going on. He wasn't pleased to see they were forcing one of the Raiju Clan's ninjas against his will to take them to Conquering Storm but he didn't let that bother him since they were all signing their death warrants wanting to meet Conquering Storm and all. And since he knew what was going on and where they were going, he and the rest of the clan could follow the Royal Fighters in silence and then ambush them before they can even get to Conquering Storm. She'd be so pleased to see a bunch of would-be anarchists beaten and defeated at her doorstep and awaiting punishment from her. What he wouldn't give to see Conquering Storm deal with those heathens in her own special way! Rai emerged from his hiding place and he walked over to the ninjas on guard.

"Attention Raiju Clan!" he barked "We have an interference in the works!"

The Raiju Ninjas stared at Rai and they began to wonder what was going on. It was worrying for any world-conqueror when there was an interference in the works. Especially as it meant that somebody was attempting to foil their plans.

"A group of outsiders who call themselves "The Royal Fighters of Mobotropolis" have shown up uninvited to this country and they're attempting to usurp us." announced Rai "They're forcing one of our own to lead them to Conquering Storm. This will not be a problem of course as Conquering Storm is unbeatable but we shall return to the fortress and stop those unwanted guests before they can get anywhere near our fortress. Conquering Storm will be pleased to see we have an interference that needs dealing with. She'll give out very good punishments for them I know they will."

The ninjas all agreed with what Rai was saying and they decided to go with his plan. Every ninja in the village joined up with Rai and the ninjas all ran off at the speed of light. Ninjas were swift and silent after all so the whole Raiju Clan could get back to the fortress before the Royal Fighters did. And what a surprise they would get when they arrived at the fortress, expecting to see Conquering Storm and maybe have a showdown with her only to see the entire Raiju Clan waiting to pound them and prepare them for Conquering Storm's dungeon. This whole plan of the Royal Fighter's was going to blow up in their faces…

Meanwhile, back in Megapolis, Dr. Eggman and his servant bot Katherine were putting the finishing touches on the newly repaired but still dead body of Devion. As a big sign of his over-inflated ego, Eggman had even painted his trademark Eggman Empire logo on Devion's chest to show he was now on his side. Eggman was amazed with the technology behind the insidious Devatron leader, his body had schematics, circuitry and mechanisms beyond anything he'd ever seen before. And yet he, the magnificent, marvellous, mad, mad, mad, mad genius that he is, managed to fix him up and get him ready for action. If any other Devatron saw this, they'd probably be happy with Eggman for fixing up their leader. But they would not be happy to see Eggman was using Devion for his own purposes. They would see it as total and utter desecration. But Eggman wouldn't care. He had his own plans and Devion was going to help him. He knew how tough a Devatron could truly be after witnessing everything that had been going on recently. Having just one Devatron in his ranks instantly made him a force to be reckoned with. And right now, Devion was almost ready for reactivation. His body was perfectly ready for moving again, he just needed a new brain to function him. Eggman had fixed up Devion's brain but he had added his own special touches to it to make sure Devion was unwaveringly loyal to him. The modifications to Devion's brain gave Eggman total control over the Devatron leader and it could never be broken, overridden or countermanded. Devion was stuck as Eggman's pet killing machine forever once Eggman plugged it back into his head. Eggman opened up Devion's head and he plugged the modified computer brain that drove him back into the socket it fitted in. Eggman then closed up Devion's head and he smiled widely to himself.

"Oooooh Eggman you amaze even yourself." he purred, stroking his moustache "OK Katherine, throw the switch and breathe new life into this fallen foe! Let us bring him to life and give him a new purpose that will benefit us most dearly!"

Katherine nodded and she pulled the switch on the control pad. The switch activated a power surge that tunnelled through some wires that were hooked up to Devion and they began to feed him power that would kick his dead body into gear and bring him back alive. Electricity began to cackle and dance around Devion in a crazy fashion, his body began to shake and the power feed began to get stronger and stronger as it continued. Dr. Eggman began to cackle madly as the power-feed began but Katherine stood back and feared if something was going to happen. It certainly looked like something was about to go wrong as the electricity began to dance about more wildly as the surge continued and Devion's body began to shake more violently but luckily for Eggman, nothing bad ended up happening. The power feed had finally been completed and Devion's body stopped shaking. The electricity ceased and vanished and everything went silent. Eggman and Katherine stared at Devion's body and wondered if the whole thing had worked or not. Devion remained still for a minute and then suddenly, his body kicked into gear. His V-shaped visor lit up and glowed red. His head lifted up and he began to move. Dr. Eggman grinned widely. Devion was awake and functioning at last! The Devatron leader had been successfully brought back from the dead and it was all thanks to Eggman's genius. But would Devion be loyal to him like he intended him to be? Or will his retooling be all for naught? Devion stood up straight and he turned to face Dr. Eggman. He strode over to the fat scientist with a cold look in his visor. Eggman began to feel nervous. What was Devion going to do to him? Devion stood before Eggman and…he bowed down to him.

"I am at your service and awaiting orders Dr. Eggman." Devion purred in his familiar deep, chilling voice.

Dr. Eggman was so surprised his moustache straightened. It worked! Eggman's modifications to Devion's brain had made Devion loyal to him! Devion was on Eggman's side! How glorious this was! Things were looking up for Dr. Eggman for once! Looks like stealing his dead body and repairing it was a good idea after all and it was going to pay off beautifully. Eggman was so giddy with excitement he could barely contain himself.

"Ho, ho, ho, ho!" he cackled "How marvellous! Devion, the most evil and powerful thing that Sonic has ever encountered has been brought back alive thanks to my scientific genius and he's willing to serve me! Oh Katherine, I'm so wowed by this I might just cry!"

Katherine just stood there as silent as a graveyard and said nothing. Dr. Eggman turned back to Devion and smiled maliciously.

"Welcome to the Eggman Empire Devion." said Dr. Eggman "You are now my servant and you will serve me in any means necessary. Do you understand?"

"Yes my master." droned Devion "So what task do you wish to bestow upon me doctor?"

"Before you died Devion, you managed to shoot Sonic in the back." announced Dr. Eggman "Do you remember him at all?"

"Yes." muttered Devion "He disgraced my kind and terminated me during my attempts at conquest! I wish to make that desecrater pay for his actions master!"

Eggman had salvaged much of Devion's memory so his motivation and passion for killing Sonic would be more extreme and he'd be willing to help Eggman be rid of the blue hedgehog. Luckily, Eggman had erased any memory of him from Devion's mind to avoid the possibility of the Devatron leader double-crossing him and his modifications to the computer brain made Devion think he was on Eggman's side.

"Well Devion, you've managed to get Sonic hospitalized but I strongly think that the hedgehog's going to live so we're going over to New Mobotropolis and finish him off ourselves." explained Dr. Eggman "I will distract any resistance with my army of Egg-Pawns while you sneak into the city and slaughter Sonic for me. Can you do that for me Devion?" he asked in a dark manner that made him sound very scary.

"I will carry that order out to the letter doctor." said Devion "Sonic will pay for his crimes against us! Do you have any idea on how we're going to get past the city's shields though?"

"We won't." said Dr. Eggman "I have a robot with digging capabilities that'll dig under the wall and you will easily be able to crawl under the wall and get into the city that way. And don't worry about encountering any pesky resistance as my robot army and my assistant Katherine will be keeping them busy."

"I understand master." said Devion "So when shall we carry out this marvellous plan of yours?"

"Now." said Dr. Eggman proudly "Let's get going Devion for we have a hedgehog to get rid of before he gets a chance to recover!"

"Yes my master." said Devion loyally "I promise you I will return with the hedgehog's head in my claws."

Dr. Eggman beamed with pride, pleased to see Devion being so loyal to him instead of against him. This was going to be a day worth remembering for the fat scientist. Dr. Eggman led Devion and Katherine off to the hangar bay where his Egg-Fleet was kept. It was still minus the flagship though as Eggman hadn't had time to repair it. Eggman was not bringing the fleet though for he was only going to assassinate Sonic while he was weak and helpless. He needed some mode of transport though so Eggman decided to take one of the red shark-shaped ships in the fleet. The ship would provide an excellent way of retreating and it would deploy the Eggman robots needed for the distraction methods. The ship would fly above New Mobotropolis and then drop the robots down onto the ground for the plan. Eggman could just see it now as he, Devion and Katherine seated themselves in the small fleet-ship and prepared for take off. The moment everybody was seated, Eggman took controls of the ship and set it for take-off. The ceiling opened up above their heads and the ship began to ascend up out of the underground bunker and into the daylight sky outside. The ship rose out from the ground and it cruised away from the bunker and on towards NewMobotropolis. What a shock those Mobians would get when it arrived at the city and launched its attack…

Meanwhile, the captive ninja had led the Royal Fighters all the way to Conquering Storm's fortress through the non-lethal path to it and he stood still as they walked up the rocky stairway and into view of the magnificent place of refuge for the Raiju Clan. The ninja stood to the side and held out an arm.

"Here you are chumps." he muttered "Our fortress. Conquering Storm is here if you wish to meet with her."

The Royal Fighters stared at the formidable, majestic fortress that loomed above them. They were well impressed at the place. It looked so imposing and yet so amazing at the same time. Ruben however already knew what it was like as he had seen it before and seeing it again brought back a few memories for him. He was amazed to see it still looking so grand and impressive. He wouldn't mind living in a place like this although he'd have to remake it a little and make it more friendly looking as he didn't do evil, imposing looking structures.

"I hate to give the villains a compliment but that thing's unreal!" cried Mandy "It's amazing looking!"

"No wonder the Raiju Clan lives here, it's perfect for them." said Wilson, gaping in awe at the fortress.

"It won't be for long for I will tear that thing down to the ground brick by brick once we stomp their leader into submission!" growled Shadow "I bet one powerful Chaos Blast will level the place easily."

"You will not destroy our honoured matron!" yelled the ninja "Conquering Storm will stomp you all into the dirt! The powerful and mighty Princess Matilda and even Zira the Ruthless are no match for her so you will not stand a chance against her!"

"Whatever mate, we'll be sure to let you know how we sorely defeated your leader." snickered Geoffrey St. John.

"And as promised, you may go free now." said Tails "But no double-crossing us, you have you word of honour after all."

"I am full aware of the promise I made." retorted the ninja "I do not need to be reminded."

With that said, the ninja ran off and left the Royal Fighters behind to deal with Conquering Storm. Little did he know was that he'd end up coming back to them in a minute or two. As for the Royal Fighters, they crept up to the fortress, keeping an eye out for any attempts at an ambush and anyone lying in wait. There didn't seem to be anyone around so they crept up to the doors. The doors looked very solid and it would take a big pounding to knock them down. The Royal Fighters looked up at them and they began musing to one another.

"OK genius boy, how do we get through these doors?" asked Rouge.

"I dunno." said Tails "They look very strong. I bet they'll be hard to knock down."

"Well this looks like a job for lil ol' me then." said Bunnie "Ah can punch hard enough to smash an Eggman robot after all. Ah'll knock them down in a few hits or so."

"I agree on that babe but you can't knock them down by yourself." said Geoffrey, putting his hands on Bunnie's shoulders "I think Knuckles and any other hard hitters should join in."

"Or I can just Chaos Blast the doors down." said Shadow, preparing to remove his inhibitor rings.

"No Shadow, save that for when we really need it." said Tails "You can spin-dash the doors instead while Bunnie, Knuckles and Vector punch them. The four of you together will knock them down easily."

"Sounds good enough to me." said Shadow, cracking his knuckles "Let's get started then."

With that said, Bunnie, Vector and Knuckles instantly began to punch the doors as hard as they possibly could. As the three heavy hitters pounded away at the doors, Shadow spin-dashed at them, making sure to aim above their heads so he didn't spin-dash them instead. The combined efforts of the four were making a tumultuous scene and it seemed to be working for chips of paint were falling off the doors and cracks were beginning to appear in it. This whole thing attracted Conquering Storm's attention and the lynx stormed through the hallways, her cloak billowing out behind her as she strode towards the doors.

"What on Mobius is going on out there?!" she growled "Can't I bask in luxury without anyone knocking on my front door?!"

As she was heading towards the door, Knuckles, Bunnie, Vector and Shadow finally managed to bust a hole into the door and Tails ordered them to stop for a minute. The four stopped their attacking and they stood back as Tails walked up to the door. Conquering Storm saw the hole that the Royal Fighters had made into the doors and she ran over to a window at ninja speed to see what was happening She was livid with rage to see she had some intruders on her doorstep. She didn't do anything though as she decided the element of surprise was the best idea right now so she lay low and waited for something to happen. As for Tails, he looked through the hole in the door and observed the scenery for any signs of Conquering Storm. She didn't appear to be anywhere in sight strangely enough.

"There's no sign of Conquering Storm." said Tails "She doesn't appear to be anywhere."

"Maybe she's not in?" suggested Cosmo "Or she's hiding somewhere. Either way, we must be careful. She could strike at any time."

"I do hope she's not hiding behind the door and waiting to ambush us." said Charmy, folding his arms "Because that will make me mad."

"Charmy you idiot, why would Conquering Storm do something as predictable as that?" asked Vector "Ninjas aren't stupid after all."

The irony of all this is that Charmy Bee is actually right, Conquering Storm was hiding behind the door and waiting to ambush the Royal Fighters. The fact that Vector scoffed this possibility off is a clear sign that Conquering Storm liked to do the unexpected and doing the expected can be very unexpected as some individuals wouldn't expect villains like Conquering Storm to do the expected as they're smarter then this. So despite doing what a lot of ambushers do which is hide behind the door and attack someone that way, they wouldn't see this coming as the Royal Fighters would expect Conquering Storm to do something less predictable then this.

"They certainly aren't, ninjas are among the smartest of warriors depending on their training and discipline." said Espio "And the Raiju Clan seems like a well brought up clan from what we've heard from Matilda."

"Well wherever Conquering Storm is, it doesn't matter." said Ruben "Our primary task is to stop her and bring an end to the Raiju Clan's terror but I've been given a second objective by Matilda to retrieve the water panther's stolen aqua-collars so while we're here, I may as well fulfil that task and give myself my powers back."

With that said, Ruben instantly leaped through the hole in the door and into the fortress. Tails and Cosmo followed him into the fortress as they felt Ruben was rushing in a little recklessly here and that he would probably end up in trouble going in like this.

"Ruben wait up!" cried Tails.

"You can't just run in like this, you'll get in trouble!" called Cosmo.

As the two ran in after Ruben, Conquering Storm followed them as quietly as she could, hoping to ambush them and punish them for this intrusion. As for the others, they began to wonder if they should go in after the three or not.

"Hey, should we go in after them?" asked Knuckles.

"Yes you silly head!" snapped Mandy "Who knows what Ruben, Tails and Cosmo will run into in there? They really should have waited for a command before rushing in there, Ruben in particular since he should know better."

"Well then you blokes and lasses, let's get in there and catch up to those kids." said Geoffrey, clearly eager to get inside the fortress.

"Nobody will set so much as one foot into our fortress!" boomed a deep voice that made everybody leap in surprise.

The Royal Fighters turned around and saw none other then the entire Raiju Clan standing before them with their weapons all at the ready. Rai stood up front and he had a flail in his hand. The ninjas all looked very angry to see intruders up at their fortress. The Royal Fighters all prepared to do battle.

"That ninja we nabbed double-crossed us. What a surprise." muttered Rouge "Tails should have known better then to let him go."

"Actually, we already knew what you were doing intruders thanks to a little spy work from me and the ninja you kidnapped just happened to run into us as we were following you." sneered Rai "And now we're all going to smash you to pieces in honour of our glorious master, the Bride of the Conquering Storm!"

"Is that so?" scoffed Mandy "Well I've got something to say about that ninjas, tell your master to change her name. Conquering Storm is the stupidest name I've ever heard."

The Royal Fighters couldn't help but snicker at that remark, especially Charmy. He was laughing his little head off. The Raiju Ninjas were none to pleased with that insult and they frowned at the purple mouse who dared to badmouth Conquering Storm.

"Mandy! Don't insult them you'll make them mad!" shrieked Wilson.

"Oh Wilson sweetie, they're already mad so I'm not doing them much harm." sighed Mandy.

"You are you little rat!" snarled Rai "Insulting our master is a grave offence and you will pay for it!"

"Did you just call me a rat?!" growled Mandy, clutching her fists and frowning angrily "If you did then I have one thing to say to you chump. Shadow, beat them into the ground!" she bellowed.

"With pleasure." said Shadow with a devious smirk on his face.

Now was the time to show the Royal Fighters how much better at the hero thing he could be then Sonic and now he could prove his superiority over Sonic by beating all those ninjas in a matter of seconds. How jealous Sonic would be when he heard about all this and how he, Shadow the Hedgehog, managed to fill in for him and do better then he ever could. Shadow curled up into a ball and he spin-dashed towards all the ninjas. The ninjas dodged the spin-dash but Shadow did a huge U-turn and came right back at them, knocking them all down onto the ground. Rai stared at Shadow as he uncurled from his spin-dash and landed back onto his feet. This mysterious adversary was very much like Sonic only his spin-dash felt harder and stronger then Sonic's did. Who was he and how does he have powers like Sonic?

"Who are you hedgehog?" asked Rai, picking himself up and preparing to swing his flail around.

"I am Shadow, Shadow the Hedgehog." explained Shadow "That's all you need to know. I'm filling in for Sonic as he's out of bounds right now and I will make you ninjas wish you'd never tried to take over this country."

"Big talk little guy." muttered Rai, swinging the flail around in a circle "But big talk does not make a big warrior. You will be smashed in the name of our clan and our master and your anarchistic plans will cease to commence!"

With that said, Rai charged towards Shadow and he swung the flail at him. He almost hit Shadow but Shadow just managed to dodge the flail and it smacked into the ground. Shadow unleashed a series of attacks on Rai that sent the lynx staggering backwards. Shadow kicked Rai over onto his back but before he could do anything else, three ninjas jumped in and ambushed the black hedgehog. They all kicked Shadow at once and knocked him down onto the ground. Shadow picked himself up only to get a roundhouse kick to the legs that tripped him up and before he could fall down, another ninja leaped in and kicked him backwards. Shadow hurled backwards and he landed rather sharply on the first step of the rocky stairway to the fortress. Rouge was livid to see those ninjas do this to Shadow so she stepped in with a powerful screw-kick attack that sent all three ninjas hurling forwards onto their faces. Rai lunged at Rouge and tried to wallop her with his flail but he missed and Rouge tried to kick him but Rai grabbed her leg and just as Shadow skated towards him on his jet shoes, Rai smacked him with Rouge. Shadow was brought down onto his back and Rai carelessly tossed Rouge aside, earning a pained grunt from the bat. Shadow leaped back to his feet and he spin-dashed Rai in the gut. He then threw some Chaos Spears at a few ninjas that tried to get the drop on him. But more ninjas leaped in and they jumped onto Shadow. They all piled down onto of the black hedgehog and pinned him down to the ground. Shadow however warped out from underneath them and reappeared behind them. He spin-dashed the ninjas and sent them sprawling like pins in a bowling alley. But Rai got the drop on him by walloping him with his flail and sending Shadow flying a good distance away from him. Shadow landed sharply on his side and he clutched his throbbing head in pain. The attack left him stunned and he was finding it a little hard to stand back up. Rai cackled at Shadow and he prepared to finish him off but Rouge screw-kicked the star-ninja in the back and knocked him down onto his stomach. Rouge tried to launch another attack on Rai but she was quickly drop-kicked by a trio of ninjas.

The Royal Fighters could see that Shadow and Rouge weren't enough so they had to get into this or they were toast. The Royal Fighters charged in to the fray and began to battle with the ninjas. Knuckles launched the first blow by gut-punching a ninja armed with a spear. The ninja retaliated by trying to hit Knuckles with his spear but Knuckles caught the spear in his hands and he yanked it out of the ninja's grasp. He butted the ninja with the flat end of the spear and then tripped him up by swiping it at his legs. However one ninja threw a shuriken at Knuckles and the shuriken tore a gash across Knuckles' shoulder. Knuckles screamed in pain and he clutched his bleeding shoulder. The spear wielding ninja he'd just been fighting saw fit to do the sweep-kick attack on him. He took Knuckles' legs out from underneath him by roundhouse kicking them and before Knuckles could land on the ground, the ninja kicked him and sent him hurling into the door of the fortress. Shade decided to pay the ninja back for doing that to Knuckles so she Blade-Rushed the ninja with her twin blade weapons and knocked him over. A ninja wielding a pair of nunchakus walloped Shade in the back of her knees with them, forcing Shade down onto her knees and then he walloped the armoured echidna in the head. Shade was brought down onto her side and the ninja tried to smack her with the nunchakus again but Shade deployed her helmet in order to protect her head from the attack. The nunchakus ended up smacking her helmet but doing no harm to the echidna. Shade picked herself up and kicked the ninja in the gut as hard as she possibly could.
